JURKO HELD IN JAIL FOLLOWING FATAL SHOOTING

Local Man Faces Murder Prosecution as Result of Death of A. B. W. Vandemark in 'Afray in Pool Room.

A. B. W. Vandemark, 70, formerly an agent of the United States geological survey, is dead, and John Jurko, about 40, operator here of a barber shop and a billiard room, is a prisoner in the county jail facing prosecution on charge of first degree murder as a result of a fatal shooting at about 10 o'clock last night in the Cory Billiard Parlor, 209 Main avenue east, in the operation of which Vandemark and Jurko had been associated as partners for about four months and until about a month ago when the partnership was dissolved at the instance of Vandemark.

According to witnesses Jurko fired six shots from a .32 calibre automatic revolver. Each shot is believed to have taken effect in Vandemark's body. Physicians who examined the body counted eleven bullet wounds. Two entered the region of the heart. Death was almost instantaneous. Two bullets passed through Vandemark's right hand which he had flung up to ward off the leaden hail. A ring on a finger of his left hand was shattered.

Jurko arrested.

Jurko left the scene of the shooting and, according to his statement, was on his way on Shoshone street to the sheriff's office to surrender when he was arrested by Chief of Police P. O. Horn. He delivered the gun to the police chief.

Search was being made late last night for Mrs. Jurko who, according to witnesses, entered the establishment with Jurko but turned and ran when the first shot was fired. In his cell in the county jail soon after his arrest Jurko asked for his wife.

Will Hold Inquest.

Inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting will be continued today, according to Coroner P. J. Grossman, who stated last night that an inquest would be held.

The tragedy was witnessed by three men who were seated at a table with Vandemark playing cards when Jurko entered the place. They were E. W. Richard, A. E. Dickson and John Barber. A. T. Prettyman who was in the room when Jurko entered, left before Jurko produced his gun.

At the police station Wednesday night Richard and Dickson told their story of the shooting.

"We were playing rummy," they said, "when Jurko and his wife came in. He was very angry. He came up to the table and shouted at Vandemark."

"You've got to prove what you've been saying about me," he said.

"Vandemark answered politely that he had said nothing about Jurko."

"Yes, you have; you've been talking about my wife," Jurko said.

Urges Uniformity Of Laws To Prevent Crossing Accidents

Railway Men Hear Recommendations Designed to Reduce Number of Fatalities at Crossing Grades.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 25 (AP)—Adoption by state authorities of uniform laws and regulations for the guidance of the automobile driver and the education of the public to safety first, offers the quickest and surest solution of the problem of reducing grade crossing accidents, H. A. Rowe, chairman of the committee for prevention of grade crossing accidents, told delegates to the annual convention of the safety section of the American Railway association here today.

Co-operation of the railroads in drafting a set of universal rules which would be enforced by every city was advocated by the speaker.

That the public should be educated to safety first has been shown during the past year when the number of crossing accidents have been appreciably reduced through nation-wide advertising by the railroads, Mr. Rowe said.

Maughan Ready to Return; Will Tell Story Over Radio

Army Flier to Relate Experiences of Epochal Trip; Plans to Start Back Saturday.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25 (AP)—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, the one-day coast-to-coast army flier, is going on the air again tomorrow night at 9 o'clock, but not in an airplane. Over KFO radio station here, from which the San Francisco Call broadcasts, he will read the story of his dawn to night flight over the trackless airways that he recently so sensationally traversed.

Lieutenant Maughan plans to start his trip back to New York on Saturday morning. He will fly to Salt Lake the first day and will remain there over night, visiting with members of his family. He will hop off from Salt Lake Sunday and expects to reach New York Sunday night.

FLAMES DESTROY FOREST WEALTH

Forest Fires in Nevada and California Continue; Thousands of Acres Burned.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25 (AP)—Forest fires, a number of them out of control, are burning in California from Truckee, Nevada county, to the heart of Santa Barbara county, a distance of approximately 300 miles. Thousands of acres have been burned over, the wide swath of destruction including some rich stands of timber.

A new fire was reported today in the vicinity of Truckee in the Tahoe national forest. When reported it had already destroyed the Flycatchers' clubhouse, a mountain retreat, and was being fought by hundreds of men. A fire at Geary's bar in the same forest is still out of control after having burned over 1,000 acres. The fire in the vicinity of North Fork, Modoc county, which burned out the ranger station on Sunday, was reported under control today after sweeping over 800 acres.

The fire in the Truckee region is racing up Prosser creek, near the town, but the town itself is not believed to be in danger. The fire near Washoe, Nev., and that in the Santa Barbara national forest are said to be under control.

The many giant redwood stands in the path of the flames are expected to escape destruction.

DELEGATES KEEP ORIGINAL RULE

Two-Thirds Plan Approved by Convention for Nomination of Party Candidates.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The democratic national convention today voted unanimously to retain the two-thirds rule for nomination of candidates for president and vice president just as it was framed last night by the rules committee. Under the plan for procedure as adopted a two-thirds vote means two-thirds of the ballots of delegates present and voting and not a two-thirds vote of the number of the accredited delegates.

The question of changing the unit rule which governs the vote of many delegations did not come up in the convention when the rules were adopted. There is a prospect, though, that the issue may be raised when balloting begins, as the minority members of some delegations want to bring the question to the floor in the hope that they may be freed from the unit rule as imposed by the majority members of their delegations.

Members of the convention, most of them hoping that the convention will not go as long as has been predicted, appeared to welcome today's plan, putting nominations ahead of consideration of the report of the platform committee. This will speed the machinery and will mean that delegates will get away at least one day, perhaps two days earlier than if the convention paused to await the platform report in prospect of framing by the platform committee.

DAWES PLAN TO BE ACTED UPON AT CONFERENCE

Ambassador Kellogg Will Deal With Matters Affecting U. S. Interests at Deliberations of Premiers.

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Ambassador Kellogg at London was instructed today to attend the forthcoming premiers' conference to discuss execution of the Dawes plan. His appointment was announced in a White House statement which said that Mr. Kellogg would attend the conference "for the purpose of dealing with such matters as affect the interests of the United States and otherwise for purposes of information."

This action was determined upon after the state department had been advised by the ambassador that an invitation for the United States to participate had been handed the American embassy in London. The White House statement declared that it was "the desire of the administration that the Dawes plan should be put into effect as speedily as possible."

Logan to Assist.

Coleman James A. Logan, who has been American observer with the reparations commission at Paris will also go to London to assist the ambassador at the conference.

Ambassador Kellogg forwarded to the state department the text of the invitation and later Secretary Hughes conferred at length with President Coolidge. The statement was then given out at the White House. It follows:

"It is the desire of the administration that the Dawes plan should be put into effect as speedily as possible. This is the first essential step to economic recovery abroad in which the country is vitally interested. It is with this in view that in response to the invitation extended by Prime Minister MacDonald, instructions have been given to Ambassador Kellogg to

Blind Boy Is Given Ovation at Annual Lions' Convention

Lad Divides Honors With Speaker of the Day; Colorado delegates Bring Snow.

OMAHA, June 25 (AP)—Reading by touch from a magazine for blind children which it has been proposed the International Association of Lions' clubs send to every blind child in America, a 10-year-old blind boy today received the greatest ovation of the eighth annual convention of Lions and divided honors with Douglas Malloch of Chicago as the speaker of the day. The magazine is edited by Ohio Lions for blind children of that state.

When nearly 3,000 Lions, following adjournment of today's session marched through the streets in a parade of waving banners and cheering state delegations, they were met at the city hall by the Colorado delegation with a carload of snow brought from the mountains of that state. A snowball fight which all but broke up the procession, ensued.

TODAY'S PROGRAM AT NEW YORK CONVENTION

Convention called to order by Senator Walsh of Montana, permanent chairman, at 10:30 o'clock eastern daylight time.

Invocation by the Rev. George Caleb Moor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church of New York.

Roll call by states for nominating speeches for candidates for president.

(Continuation of yesterday's proceedings.)

Resolution for the election of democratic national committeemen and national committeewomen and providing for their tenure of office.

Report of committee on platform and resolutions, if ready.

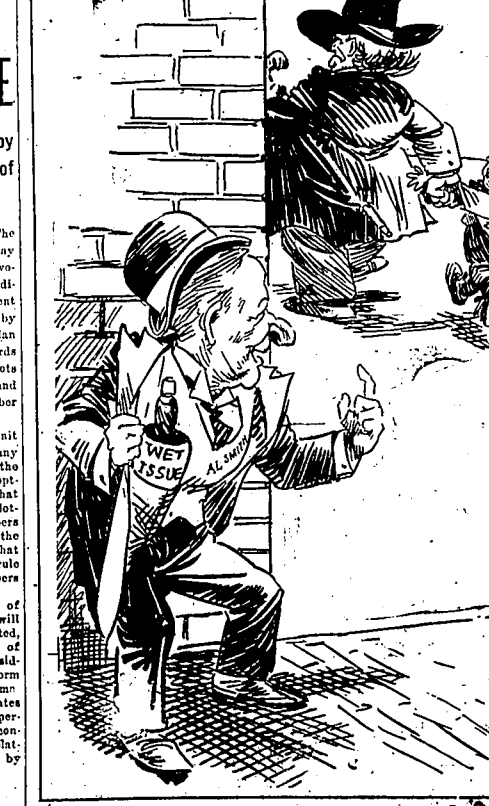

Adjournment for the day.

DAVIS CAMP IS SILENT.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Backers of John W. Davis of West Virginia as the logical man to lead the democratic forces in the coming battle for the presidency remained in ambush tonight so far as publicity is concerned.

They continued about their business, spreading the ideas in delegates' minds that if the convention should reach a deadlock as between the leaders, Davis offered a logical solution.

NOT A GHOST OF A CHANCE

THREE OUT OF TWENTY CANDIDATES URGED; EXPECT VOTE FRIDAY

Underwood, McAdoo and Senator Robinson Urged for Democratic Nomination; Platform Drafting Causes Delay; Fist Fights Mark Dissension Over Stand on Ku Klux Klan.

QUAKE RECORDED.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 25 (AP)—A distant, but violent earthquake starting at 6:31 p. m. and still continuing is being recorded on the instruments at the University of Santa Clara, according to reports made by Rev. Jerome Ricard, in charge of the university observatory.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The deep, swift currents of democratic rivalry and dissension burst their dikes today in Madison Square Garden and signaled the party's national convention with a bellying wave of confusion and disorder.

The Ku Klux Klan issue, brought at last to the open floor of the convention, set off an anti-klan demonstration that swept the great hall like a tornado and led to several fist fights among delegates, but apparently brought the question no nearer a solution.

Reaching the stage of receiving nominations for the presidency, the convention also was shown in an anti-klan demonstration for William G. McAdoo, which put the party in a disorganized and driving power of the forces that are at work to influence the selection of a nominee.

Smith Men Are Ready.

The name of Governor Al Smith of New York will be presented tomorrow and his campaign organization was preparing tonight a convention floor parade designed to outlast and outdo that accorded today to his leading rival, William G. McAdoo.

For all the other candidates are expected to conclude before tomorrow night, but there will be no balloting before Friday or Saturday.

Moving swiftly through its routine preliminaries, the convention today perfected its permanent organization, accorded two prolonged demonstrations to its permanent chairman, Senator Walsh of Montana, the Transp Dome prosecutor, and disposed of all its duties except adoption of the party platform, and selection of the nominees.

The plan and other debated subjects tonight held in continuous session a platform sub-committee appointed to comb over a vast collection of principles on which the whole party can stand united.

Fight Expected.

There were indications that the sub-committee would not recommend that the Klan be named specifically in the platform, but this tentative decision will be subject to review by the full platform committee and probably will be settled finally after a fight in the convention itself.

On foreign relations it is the present purpose of the sub-committee to restrict specifically the party to the belief that the United States should be a member of the league of nations. The prohibition issue was disposed of by the sub-committee during the day by a decision to declare for law enforcement without mention of the 18th amendment or the Volstead act.

Convention officials hope the platform will be ready for submission by Friday morning. Under the rules it must be adopted by the convention before voting begins on presidential candidates, and if no prolonged floor fight develops on the controverted planks

Convention Noise Pales Crashing of Big Thunderstorm

Delegates Glad to Adjourn After Day Devoted to Nominations and Demonstrations; Survive Another Hot Day.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Shirt sleeved and sweating hosts of democracy gave themselves up today to nominations and noise.

More of both are to come. Also, probably, more of the sticky heat that "makes your bloomers" eyebrows crawl" in the humid, lifeless air of the drafty though fans wrapped old Madison Square Garden.

But if volume of sound is any criterion of the probable volume of democratic ballots next November the party ought to be satisfied with today's augury. They made noise enough to drown the loudest thunderstorm which could later to cool the sweating city into an insignificant rumble.

Some of the noise at convention hall was impromptu and heated with more than atmospheric conditions. Some of it was planned but all of it was noise of the loudest kind.

And the loudest, gladiolus, and most widespread cry of the day was the storm-troop "yays" with which delegates joined in voting on such as the platform.

WALSH CRIES CALAMITY IN CONVENTION SPEECH

Montana Senator, Bourbons' Chairman at New York, Would Put Scandal Stigma on All of Opposing Party.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The American people will be on trial before the world in the coming presidential campaign, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana declared today in an address upon assuming the permanent chairmanship of the democratic national convention.

The issue, he asserted, will be whether they will continue in power the party now in control of the government, notwithstanding the scandals which have been disclosed in senate investigations.

"I can not admit the accusation," Senator Walsh said, "that the American people are indifferent to the corruption influence of corruption in office, high or low. But we shall see. They are on trial.

"If notwithstanding what has transpired the party now in power in the nation is continued in control by the choice of the people of the United States, apparent or real, what judgment must be passed upon them by the world?

"They enjoy the distinction of having erected and maintained a government whose officers are as free from suspicion of venality as those of any nation on earth, and they will not, I venture to predict, forfeit it."

Charging spokesmen of the republican party with attempts at palliation of the offenses of the "unfaithful public servants," Senator Walsh declared that it is in "this easy tolerance of turpitude in public office that the real peril to free government lies rather than in its casual occurrence."

"The president of the United States himself," he continued, "has not hesitated to endeavor to shield the delinquents from the public odium to which their derelictions have subjected them by joining in the hue and cry against the investigations that have been conducted under the authority of the senate and against that body for authorizing them. His message on the subject had for its plain purpose the suppression of an inquiry into the official conduct of a member of his cabinet."

Recalls History.

Senator Walsh said President Coolidge had historic warrant for his attitude, recalling that when the British house of commons sought to investigate the Duke of Buckingham, Charles would not permit it.

"Charles lost his head," the senator added, "and Calvin Coolidge may profit politically by his example."

Declaring the republican party to be "impotent in the face of an impending national calamity," Senator Walsh said that because of antagonisms within its ranks it had ceased to be an organization through which the business of the country can be carried on.

"It has no remedy, it offers no relief from the paralysis that afflicts agriculture, threatening every form of industry," the chairman said. "Moreover, it finds itself plagued with repudiating views so radically antagonistic to those of the dominant faction in the party as to preclude the possibility of uniting on any program of legislation."

Efforts of the dominant faction to shake off the insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile, the speaker continued, adding that they could not be shaken off because they have the endorsement of their people.

Life in Everglades

The Indian name of Everglades in Florida means "Grassy Water." There are miles upon miles of flat, grassy land covered with water, usually very shallow and filled with grasses. Now and then there is a "gut" or "slough" (a creek). Now and then also there is a big swamp filled with trees.

Sometimes one will find a lake all edged with sawgrass. There are little dry spots called "islands" or "hummocks" with trees on them. The water is usually clear, but for the most part has a lumpy, slippery taste.

There isn't much game in the glades proper, but on the higher land in the vicinity of the glades there are deer, turkey, panther, little black bear, raccoon, fox, squirrel, etc., especially in those places that are farthest from civilization, says Hapsburg Liebe in Adventure Magazine.

Famous Patrons of Art

The Medici was a distinguished Florentine family, which rose to supreme power in the Fifteenth century, and became famous as the restorers of literature and the fine arts throughout Italy. Its most illustrious members were Cosimo de Medici, succeeded by Vasco (The Ancient) and Peter, and Lorenzo, his grandson, succeeded The Magnificent, and The Father of Letters. This latter ruled Florence from 1469 to 1492, and proved himself a most munificent patron of art and literature. The family of the Medici became extinct on the death of its last male representative, Gian Gastone, seventh grand duke of Tuscany, in 1707.—Kansas City Star.

TOURIST PARK NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Guey have been living in Oakland, Cal., for a year, but have become homesick and are going back to Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Achatz from Alamosa, Colo., have been on the road seven weeks looking for a new home. They have about decided to stay in or near Twin Falls.

Mrs. H. E. Price and young son, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Price and two children, came from Los Angeles through Nevada. Somewhere west of Elko they took the wrong road, and after running through several deserted mining camps, they reached Elko sometime in the night. To add to their discomfort, Mrs. H. E. Price lost a small book containing valuable papers, and R. C. Price had tire trouble all of the way. They were a tired and dusty party when they arrived in the park, and the first question that they asked was "where are the toilets?"

Lee Butt and two friends who have been fishing in Owyhee county for the last week, returned to camp Monday night brimming over with stories of big fish and bad roads. They left for Salt Lake on their way home.

Misses Edith Wood and Eleanor Portwood are having the time of their young lives on the road from Portland to somewhere in Michigan.

Charles Withney and family from Eureka, Colo., are going to Tacoma, Wash.

Brano Schneider and a friend are en route to the Yellowstone park. They came from San Francisco through Nevada, and they told that old, old story.

L. E. Gorman is another of the deserters from Los Angeles. He is going back to his old home in Omaha.

G. J. Broadbeck and family from Newcastle, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. J. Broadbeck from Akron, Ohio, have been through Yellowstone park and are now going to the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Stewart came to the park Monday evening from Moulton, Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith came from Long Beach, Cal., and left for Salt Lake. They came through Nevada intending to go south of the lake, but recent floods have washed a bridge away, so were forced to come this way.

Homer Meyers and family passed this way en route from Long Beach to Salt Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Nowell from Elmira, N. Y., are touring the Northwest. They came from Portland and departed for Salt Lake.

J. L. Brown and family from Cleveland, Ohio, have done the big park and are now on the road to California.

W. E. King and family from Black River, Wis., came through Yellowstone park and left for Los Angeles.

W. G. Steele and friend are traveling from Springfield, Iowa, to Pasadena, Cal.

L. W. Millan and family are moving from Kansas City, Mo., to Portland.

E. E. Scott is another one who must be shown. He hailed from Brownington, Mo., and is going to Portland to see.

William Sims from Wendell stopped in the park Monday night on his way home from Pocatello.

H. C. Burman and companion from LaGrande, Ore., went to Contact Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Caney from Orion, Mich., are going to Detroit from California.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson from Portland, are going to Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Trullitt came from Seattle just to see our Magic city.

E. P. Price and family passed through the park en route to Texas from Seattle.

E. C. Warner and family are on their wedding way from St. Joseph, Mo., to Portland.

W. C. Dean and family from Princeton, Minn., are going to Portland.

M. L. Bailey from Oakland, Cal., is just touring.

Odd Instrument Is Used as Roof Pitch Finder

A folding instrument which measures the angle from the horizontal and the inches of pitch to the horizontal foot is now in use. The device, when open, consists of radial arms and an arc, the whole frame resembling a cut of pie. Pivoted at the center, or "point of the pie," is a pointer arm bearing a spirit level. When the user of the instrument desires to ascertain the pitch of a roof or any sloping surface he rests one edge of the "pie" on the surface, moves the pointer up until he centers the spirit level bubbles, and under the pointer on the circular edge will be the figures giving the pitch in degrees and the number of inches measured along the surface that would be set off by perpendiculars rising from either extremity of a line a foot long set beneath the surface. When not in use, the instrument is folded up into compact form in such a way that the spirit level is surrounded by the different metal parts and thus completely protected.

Electric Cooking is More ECONOMICAL

Have you ever stopped to consider how much that big ash pile back of your home is costing you in dollars and cents, to say nothing of the work and nuisance of carrying coal and ashes and cleaning up the continual muss?

The Average Amount Paid by 4990 Idaho Customers during April, 1924, for Electric Cooking Service Was Only $3.23

If you will do a little figuring you will discover that this is far less than it costs for other methods of cooking. Then, add to this low cost advantage all the other wonderful features of Electric Cooking.

No fires to build, no pans and kettles to scour, no heat radiation to make your kitchen stuffy and uncomfortable, no soot and no smoke to mar your walls.

The average rate per Kw. H. paid by the above 4990 customers was 2 1/2 c. The average cooking rate in 6000 other communities in the U. S. was 3 1/4 c.

URGES McADOO AS BEARER OF PARTY COLORS

Phelan Classes Candidate as the "Leader of Progressive Thought"; Says "Triumphant Democracy" Must Return.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—William G. McAdoo was placed in nomination for the presidency at the democratic national convention today by former Senator James D. Phelan of California, with the declaration that he is the "natural leader of progressive thought and achievement."

"This year demands the return of triumphant democracy," said Mr. Phelan. "The progressives of the nation look to the democratic party for their leader. Shall we give him to them? There is room in America for but one reactionary party, and the republicans have pre-empted that field. The party's chance of success depends upon its choice for candidate for the presidency of this man."

Tracing Mr. McAdoo's career both in the government service and in private life, Mr. Phelan declared that the "vast problems of the continent are his familiar themes; the prosperity of the farm and forest and mine, factors of national growth and strength, and transportation and irrigation, these are not strange subjects born of restricted environment and narrow outlook."

Called Ideal American "In the broadness of his vision, his sympathetic understanding, his aggressive personality, his burning patriotism, he is an ideal American," continued the speaker. "And so the country will accept him."

"The vast machinery of the government rumbles discordantly along the road; the parts do not fit; the crew recreant and rebellious; and the chosen chief engineer has been succeeded by the accident of an accident. Where should the people in all prudence turn? Continue the inexperienced and inept, or take a trained and tried chief who can at once step into the cab and give command. We want a man who knows where he is going, and who is going where the people want him to go, progressive, confident of his power and alert and eager to serve."

While Mr. McAdoo was secretary of the treasury, the convention was told, he "cleansed it of the foul growth of favoritism and repelled the insidious attacks of the powerful, made it the repository of the people's hopes and the instrumentality of sound finance, the safeguard of honest business and industrial prosperity."

"We honor President Wilson, who left a great heritage of character and achievement to democracy," continued Mr. Phelan, "but we shall not forget the toll he paid by his side, the inspirer of ideas and the door of things, the great secretary of the treasury in the most exacting and soul-testing administration since Lincoln's."

Johnston Demands Open Stand Against Secret Order in Giving Nomination Speech.

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—The demand of Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama at the democratic national convention, condemn by name the political activities of the Ku Klux Klan was voiced to the convention today by Forney Johnston of Alabama as the keynote of his placing Mr. Underwood's name before the convention for the presidential nomination.

"No bare deference to the constitution or the bill of rights actually mentioned in the Klan oath, is adequate in this connection," Mr. Johnston declared. "The bill of rights are limitations only upon the state and federal governments and not upon private conspiracy. That is why the candidate of my people has insisted upon plain words."

"The question before this party is whether secret organizations shall be given powers immune from the bill of rights and superior to those delegated to the elected representatives of the people."

"Above all does the candidate, on repentant condemn the massed action of political orders in furtherance of any objective which is plainly contrary to the spirit to the constitution."

Issue in 1856

"In order to express squarely his opinion on this grave question, I have, at his request, introduced a resolution reciting the established position of our party on that precise issue referring to the resolution of 1856 and concluding with this resolving clause:

"Resolved: That we do reaffirm the principles set forth in the said resolution of the democratic platform of 1856 and condemn as un-American and un-democratic political action by secret or quasi-secret organizations in furtherance of any political objective whatsoever; and in particular do we condemn such action for the purpose of prescribing the political rights and privileges of citizens of the United States, as is now proposed, practiced and publicly acknowledged by the organization known as the Ku Klux Klan, and as may now, or hereafter be proposed or practiced by any organization whatsoever."

Senator Underwood, Mr. Johnston said, had no word to say against any organization, secret or otherwise, organized for lawful purposes or to advocate openly any principle within the scope of legitimate public discussion.

Must Omit Politics.

"What he does condemn is the participation in politics by any secret organization, whatsoever," the speaker continued. "He believes such action intimidates public officials and encourages political or oath-bound pledges contrary to public policy."

At another point Mr. Johnston said the outstanding characteristic of the democratic party was that it stood for the protection of human rights by protecting public officials "against organized oppression and intimidation." Senator Underwood had requested, he said, that his position be made plain beyond misunderstanding by the delegates on this grave issue, and added: "He believes that unless the issue is met with candor and dignity in this campaign, you will not only invite the disintegration of this party but will take a backward step so wholly inconsistent with the basis of a modern liberal government as to be too unthinkable for the democratic party to accept or condone."

How to Give a Linen Finish To Household Cotton Goods

FOR the starching of all household cotton goods use Linit, the remarkable starch discovery.

Linit is distinctly different from ordinary starches. After Linit is thoroughly dissolved and is ready for use, you will notice it is THIN and FREE-RUNNING like water—with a "milky" appearance.

USE but a little amount of Linit, according to directions, and unlike other starches, you will not find Linit stiff or jelly-like.

That is why Linit goes much farther than the old-fashioned kinds of starch, and is much easier to iron with.

Ordinary cotton napkins, table-cloths, curtains, etc., have a soft, pliable finish like pure linen when starched with Linit.

Linit penetrates the fabric, helps prevent wear, and prolongs the life of the material.

Linit is sold by all grocers—10c.

More Exercise Needed

by Boys Living on Farms
Let the farm child play! Plenty of exercise in the open air should produce good health. But, unfortunately, the exercise the farm child gets is often one-sided. His major muscles get too much use, the auxiliary ones too little. His body does not develop symmetrically.

Observations made during the World War proved that the farm-reared young man reached the stage of fatigue sooner than his city-reared comrade. The farm boy was outdistanced in games calling for mental alertness by the city man. A slow mind had resulted from his being cheated of play.

Pulling weeds and hoeing, driving a team hitched to a wagon or cultivator may not be injurious if supplemented by other vigorous exercise, but such work without corrective activities tends to make the country boy round shouldered and flat chested. He is apt to have a forward-starting head.

Lungs and heart and digestion do not get a fair chance. Health examinations of more than a million school children in New York state show that while 72 per cent of the pupils in the city schools have physical defects, the number in the rural schools is 87 per cent.

As farms grow farther apart, and the numbers of children in families decrease, school becomes the only place where the child can play. So to cheat the child of play, the time becomes a crime against his body as well as his mind.

The boy who plays ball hard at school learns the meaning of enthusiasm. He finds out what it is to abandon himself to an enterprise. No matter how slight his physical defects, the boy will make the hard-working, optimistic man of tomorrow. He will definitely outstrip in a brief time the large-boned boy of fifteen who is being kept at home to do the plowing.—Hygela.

THREE OUT OF TWENTY CANDIDATES—URGED

It is possible the first roll-call on presidential candidates will be reached before adjournment Friday night. In all about 20 candidates are to be formally presented to the convention and only three of the nominees' speeches were heard today. Alabama, heading the roll of states, placed in nomination Senator Oscar W. Underwood. Arizona had no nomination to present and Arkansas presented the name of Senator Joseph T. Robinson. California's nomination of Mr. McAdoo and the demonstration in his behalf brought the day's proceedings to a close.

When the convention reconvenes tomorrow morning, Colorado will nominate Governor W. E. Sweet, and when the name of Connecticut is called its delegation will yield to New York for presentation of the name of Governor Smith.

Klan Causes Break

It was denunciation of the Klan by Forney Johnston of Birmingham, in his speech nominating Senator Underwood, that threw the convention into confusion and opened the door of disagreement. Throughout his pre-convention campaign the Alabama senator has waged unrelenting war on the Klan and since he came to New York he has made public the anti-Klan plank he would like to see in the platform. Mr. Johnston read the vigorous charges of the Klan to the convention and its response was as prompt as it was dramatic.

Sending up a shout that came from a single throat, the delegations from several anti-Klan states poured into the aisles to begin a parade around the hall. Greeting them as they went they took from the walls and railings clusters of American flags to carry aloft in their militancy, and took for marching songs "The Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee." It was 20 minutes before order could be restored.

A number of states refused to join the demonstration and in two or three delegations, where sentiment was divided there were fist fights between delegates who sought to take the state banners into the parade and those who sought to prevent it. When quiet had been restored Mr. Johnston concluded his speech, and former Governor Charles H. Brough of Arkansas presented the name of Senator Robinson. He was applauded from many parts of the hall and the Arkansas delegation stood at its chairs and cheered, but there was no effort at a prolonged demonstration.

Action Starts

The nominating speech for Mr. McAdoo was made by former Senator James D. Phelan of California. Long before he took the platform the machinery for a demonstration had been set up on the convention floor and at the mention of the name of the former treasury secretary it all came into action. A group of women trumpeters blew a clarion call from the midst of the California delegation. Two men lifted to their shoulders a girl dressed in the national colors and bore her to the head of the fast-forming parade. A cheer leader took his place at the speaker's stand and scores of colored bandanas and California state flags, previously distributed to the delegates and workers, were brought into play as the show got under way. It was impossible to estimate how many delegates took part in the hour's demonstration. Among the marchers were many who wore no badges to identify them and a group of these gathered in front of the speaker's stand and kept whooping it up for Mr. McAdoo after most of the delegates were back in their places. The band, too, and a group of McAdoo boosters stationed in the gallery, carried the demonstration along for a time while most of the rest of the hall was quiet. There was nothing on the surface tonight to indicate that this or any other development of the day had affected the relative standing of the candidates. Both the McAdoo and Smith forces, each predicting victory, kept up their canvass for votes, while the friends of all the other candidates continued to smile complacently at the prospect of a deadlock.

UNDERWOOD MEN JUBILANT

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Supporters of Oscar Underwood of Alabama for the democratic presidential nomination were bubbling with excitement to night over the reception accorded to the blunt denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan today by the convention itself. The temper of the convention as shown in the wild tumult which greeted Forney Johnston's naming of the Klan in reciting the Underwood platform proposal, was hailed by the Underwood leaders as evidence that their candidate was in a strategic position which promised well for his candidacy should McAdoo and Smith fail to achieve the necessary two-thirds majority to nominate.

FEDERAL CASE AIMED AT 50 OIL DEALERS

Anti-Trust Proceedings Started by Government in Federal Court at Instance of Attorney General Stone.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 25 (AP)—Anti-trust proceedings aimed at more than 50 of the principal oil companies of the United States including all the standard companies were instituted by the government in federal court here today.

The action is equity instituted by Attorney General Stone and filed in district court here by Edwin Olson, United States district attorney, asked an injunction to restrain the companies named from further violations of the Sherman anti-trust act which is charged against them.

Oil patent contracts of the Standard Oil company of Indiana—cited by Attorney General Stone in his complaint—are entirely legal and honest, have been in effect for ten years and never before have been attacked, Colonel R. W. Stewart, chairman of the board of directors of the Indiana company, said tonight in a formal statement commenting on the government's charges. He offered to present every contract to who make company is a party to the courts for adjudication as to their propriety and equity.

The complaint charges that the oil companies combined to control gasoline production by pooling patent rights in violation of the anti-trust act and also charged "a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce among the several states and with foreign nations in gasoline, kerosene and other hydrocarbon products."

Urges Continuation

Continuation of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War as an organization because it "has an appeal that no other has, nor can have," was urged by National Commander James A. McFarland in his report to the convention.

"I ask you to steer clear, as a body, of any affiliation with any other organization," Commander McFarland urged. "Such a plan has been presented to several chapters and unofficially it has been suggested nationally and you will hear more of it."

"Work in as close harmony as possible with the others but let no one lead the D. A. V. into any arrangement under which it will lose its distinctive identity and give up all that we have gained in four years of fighting against great odds and often unfair practices."

The membership of the D. A. V. has about doubled in the past year, the commander said, and partially through its efforts legislation has been passed under which every disabled man or his dependents have been benefited. Commander McFarland urged close cooperation with the United States veterans' bureau under the direction of General Frank T. Hines. The bureau when under the old regime and the D. A. V. were always at swords' points, but now "we wish to use courteous and friendly methods in helping the disabled service men to help themselves," he said.

The question of national commander, John R. Quinn, of the American Legion not being present at the D. A. V. meetings was brought up before the convention. "I regret the Legion commander did not accept our invitation to attend this convention as I attended the San Francisco Legion meeting," Commander McFarland declared.

A resolution demanding that Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, who is under two grand jury indictments for swindling several hundred thousand dollars from the bureau, be brought to a speedy trial, was passed unanimously by the convention.

The subject of Colonel Forbes was brought up by Commander McFarland while delivering his report.

SEVERAL PLANKS ARE AGREED ON BY COMMITTEE

Alternate Proposals on Klan and League to Be Presented Today at New York. Debate Continues Over Night.

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Alternative proposals on both the K. K. K. issue and the league of nations will be presented today to the plenary committee of the democratic national convention by the 11 members appointed to work out a tentative draft of the party declaration.

This announcement was made by Chairman Cummings after the subcommittee had been in session for more than 12 hours. Mr. Cummings and Senator Pittman of Nevada were appointed to put the various planks into final form for submission to the committee of eleven at 11 o'clock today.

The subcommittee will make its report in the afternoon with the expectation that the entire committee will be able to present a complete draft to the convention on Friday. Whether there are to be fights on the convention floor on the two paramount issues remains with the entire committee.

Reassembling after dinner last night the committee approved a plank by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, which will declare for government control and regulation of the anthracite industry and other corporations or organizations controlling the necessities of life.

Agree on Planks.

Late last night the planks agreed upon provided:

Law enforcement, omitting specific mention of prohibition.

A federal corrupt practices act.

Federal regulation and control of the anthracite coal industry and of other corporations or combinations controlling the necessities of life.

Immediate independence for the Philippines.

Enactment of legislation to prohibit the "watering" of stock.

Talk Farm Relief.

The agricultural relief plank was taken up late in the night. Senator King had drafted a plank along the lines of the Curtis-Aswell bill for creation of a great national marketing organization.

At midnight Chairman Cummings issued a statement saying:

"We have been discussing in addition to the corrupt practices act, the Lausanne treaty and some planks in regard to women, and provisions regarding postal clerks' wages. We are tentatively preparing planks on all these subjects. The women's plank contains nothing of material importance."

"The league of nations is in status quo. The subcommittee expects to report to the full committee at about 10 o'clock."

"If we find that we are not harmonious on any crucial subjects, we may prepare alternative drafts for submission to the full committee."

Denounce Treaty.

Subsequently the subcommittee adopted a plank denouncing the Lausanne treaty with Turkey, which is yet to be ratified.

An agricultural plank, embodying the Curtis-Aswell bill, but going beyond that, also was approved. Besides declaring for governmental stimulation of co-operative marketing, it proposes revision of the tariff; reduction of rail and water transportation rates, and establishment of an export marketing corporation or commission to aid the farmer, and to obtain for agriculture equality with other industries.

JURKO HELD IN JAIL FOLLOWING SHOOTING

Then he drew his gun and began shooting. He counted six rapid shots and then he turned and ran. He started to fall forward across the table and then swung around it and fell almost where he had been sitting. Vandemark said nothing, but only cried out a time or two after Jurko began shooting. We all stood up when Jurko began shouting at Vandemark. We expected trouble but thought it would be only a fist fight."

When Vandemark fell after the sixth shot, according to these witnesses, Jurko put the gun in his pocket and turned and left the place. Meeting an acquaintance at the door he said, "Well, good-bye, I've shot him, and I'm going to take my medicine."

Result of Trouble

Trouble between Jurko and the dead man is believed in many quarters to have originated over difficulties that wrecked the partnership relation between the two men. About a month ago Vandemark instituted suit in district court here seeking that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the billiard parlors, and alleging that Jurko had been wrongfully disposing of the stock, all of which it was alleged, was owned by Vandemark. At about the same time Vandemark appeared before the municipal commission to demand that no license be issued to Jurko for operation of billiard or card tables on these premises.

Reopened Place on Wednesday

Order for sale of the property was issued in the district court after Charles P. Larsen had been appointed receiver.

Vandemark came into possession of the place by this means, and it was reopened for business Wednesday by Vandemark, after having been closed for some weeks.

According to Joe Hiler, one of the engineers engaged in the building of the Twin Falls irrigation system, Vandemark visited this region about 20 years ago when the irrigation works were under construction, and upon his return here a few months ago he renewed his acquaintance with Hiler to whom, he recalled, he had applied for work when he arrived at Minner about 20 years ago while in the employ of the geological survey.

Relatives Not Known Here

Persons familiar with Vandemark's affairs stated Wednesday night that his estate would amount to several thousand dollars. He has no known relatives in this region, but is believed to be survived by a brother or other relatives in New York.

The body was removed Wednesday night to the Grossman undertaking establishment.

Physicians who were summoned after shooting and who examined the body after it was on its way from the morgue were Dr. W. P. Passer and Dr. C. D. Weaver.

SCOUTS PROVE ADEPT IN AQUATIC PERFORMANCE

Natatorium Pool Scene of Strenuous Feats by Lads Qualifying for Merit Badges.

Twin Falls natatorium pool was filled with a horde of active boys Wednesday afternoon when the more advanced members of the local boy scout troops took first class swimming tests and merit badge work in swimming and life saving under the supervision of P. Douglas Hawley, district scout executive.

Five of the boys started the tests in the pool which was filled within a few inches of the top with 50-yard swimming trials before the fairly large crowd which gathered to watch the young swimmers.

Following the first swimming trials five more youths negotiated the feat of undergirding while in the water and then swimming 100 yards. This proved almost too much for most but with much work in, losing several difficult laps which were the chief causes of trouble the boys were singularly successful in this test which afforded the most interesting part of the tests and the trials calling for lifting heavy objects from the bottom of the pool and the application of artificial respiration did not prove to be as hard. Tests in life saving to demonstrate the means of breaking strangle holds and towing drowning people to safety very nearly proved fatal for many of the subjects who were more or less unhandled in the trials, but satisfactory results were obtained in all cases, despite the rough methods.

A large group of younger scouts were on hand to watch the trials of their older companions and profit by their demonstrations.

Martha Farrar.

Mrs. Arthur J. Farrar entertained Monday evening with three tables of bridge complimentary to Miss Ruth Salinday, and Miss Esther McRoberts, who will spend the summer in Los Angeles. The guests of honor received a guest favor and Mrs. Wilbur Rowberry won the honors for high score. Following the games a delightful two-course luncheon was served. Those present besides the guests of honor were the Misses Ruth Beauchamp, Iris Guthrie, Dorothy Merrill, Priscilla and Eleanor Munson, Amanda Boyer, Helen Henslow, Irene Costello, Max Alvord and Mrs. Wilbur Rowberry.

The M. S. and R. club met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Jamerson. Roll call was answered with humorous verses.

During the transaction of business plans were made for the annual picnic which will be held in the near future for the husbands and families of members. The rest of the afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Jamerson was assisted in serving dainty refreshments by Mrs. Concanan and Mrs. Davis to the members and guests present.

The W. C. T. U. met Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of the Methodist church with Mrs. J. C. Schneider in charge of the program. It being a "flow" day, many beautiful bouquets were brought and distributed to the sick and shut-in. Tentative plans were made for a reception to be held at an early date honoring new members. A resolution was passed that the members be much in prayer on behalf of wise guidance for the national convention now in session.

THE NEW COACH

Twin Falls High School is to have a new athletic coach in the person of Felix Phatino, graduate of the University of Idaho.

It is fitting that an Idaho university man should be chosen for work in an Idaho school. If Moscow should indirectly profit by the fact, that too, is as it should be.

There is just one point in which it is to be hoped the new coach will take an active and an abiding interest and that is the teaching and the development of athletics as applied to the entire school enrollment and not merely the training of a single team of fifteen or so men in three or four single fields of activity.

We want a winning football team; we are strong for a winning basketball team. We hope to sweep the field in every direction when it comes to sports, but above and beyond all this we want a system of athletic training in the Twin Falls High School which will permeate clear to the lowest strata of school life and hold there. Twin Falls asks more of her High School coach than merely winning teams. Twin Falls asks for a developed interest and a sustained practice of athletics for all students, all the time.

If Mr. Phatino can give us this we might even be willing to excuse a defeat or two. There are lessons in sportsmanship to be learned by defeat and they are not without value.

AN ACCOMPLISHMENT

Again the United States steps into the spotlight of international achievement in the world of aviation. The feat of Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan in traversing the continent between dawn and dark ranks with the outstanding accomplishments of Alcock and Brown, if it does not actually take first place in the annals of aviation.

Lieutenant Maughan will receive no special monetary reward for his effort. There will be no prize or medal, no official recognition of any kind carrying with it emolument of a financial sort. But the Air Service of America gains immeasurably by the work of this intrepid adventurer and the satisfaction which comes of his accomplishment will probably constitute all the reward Lieutenant Maughan wants or craves for.

Unselfish devotion to the ideals of honor in the interests of one's country is not a thing of the past, although there are times when current events would indicate that there is less of it than used to be the case.

AT JARBIDGE

It may not be generally known that the Jarbridge mining district last year ranked first of all the Nevada camps in the production of gold.

Asked as to his opinion on the question of the greatest gold-producing districts of Nevada, the average man would probably hesitate a moment and then hazard a guess on Goldfield, Tonopah or some other of the advertised producing centers of a decade ago.

Ten years make a lot of difference. Jarbridge today not only leads the procession as to Nevada gold producers but, with the opening of the new mill on the Bluster it will be an extraordinary thing if Jarbridge does not this year head the list of gold-producing districts for the entire United States. Twin Falls does well to keep these points in mind and to hold constantly to the thought, that a few thousand dollars spent in road improvement a means of connecting this city with Jarbridge would be money mightily well spent.

My Wife Always Makes a Lot of Plans for a Holiday.

I begin to feel worn out every time I see a red-letter day on the calendar. I guess they must print them in red as a sort of warning.

Anyway, I'd sooner do three days' extra work than go through the holiday pace that my wife arranges.

If it isn't a picnic, with thunderstorms, sun, sunburn and amateur comedians, it's a long out-of-town trip with some friends who have an idea that you might as well stay at home as not cover at least 500 miles in a one-day attempt.

My wife has a reputation among all our acquaintances of being "such a good sport" and "in for anything." And any time that anybody invents a new way to ruin a holiday or give an older form of torture my wife is sure to be invited to join in the ceremony—and bring her husband!

I shudder to think what clam bakes, corn roasts, barbecues, jolly outings and gay gatherings in the great outdoors are ahead of us this summer.

I know that the planitarians used to feel every time that home seemed to be a far-off holiday!

Campaign Paper Made

No Money for Greeley

In 1840, when Gen. William Henry Harrison was nominated for the presidency against Martin Van Buren, Horace Greeley started a little campaign paper in New York city, which he called the Log Cabin, which is said to have been incomparably the most popular of the kind ever printed in the United States, save the Detroit News. It had a circulation of unprecedented extent, beginning with 48,000 and rising week after week until it reached 90,000.

The price, however, was so low that its great sale proved rather an embarrassment to the publisher, who was the firm of Horace Greeley & Co. was rather more in debt than it was when the first number of the Log Cabin was published. The last number of the Log Cabin announced the forthcoming Tribune, price 1 cent, which was a new York city consolidated with the New York Herald.

Five thousand copies of the first number of the Tribune were printed, and Greeley found it difficult to give them away. He began with a subscription list of 600. But the little paper soon caught public attention and began its fourth week with 9,000 paid subscribers.

Courts Hold Tomato

To Be a Vegetable

Technically, the tomato is classified by botanists as a berry. In the strictly scientific sense a berry is a simple fruit in which the entire pericarp or edible portion is fleshy except the outer skin. According to this classification, tomatoes, grapes, currants and bananas are all berries. All berries are fruits; that is, the berry is only a species of the larger division of plants called fruits. But popularly there is much confusion as to whether tomatoes should be called vegetables or fruits. The fact is there is no well-drawn distinction between the two. Vegetables in the popular sense of the term. However, courts in this country have held that all those plants, like potatoes, cabbage, carrots, peas, celery, lettuce and tomatoes, which are eaten, whether cooked or raw, but in the principal part of a meal are to be regarded as vegetables, while those used only for dessert are fruits. But this comes a long way from the difficulty.

St. Peter's Chair

Since the eighth century, the festival of St. Peter's chair has been celebrated annually at St. Peter's at Rome, with great pomp and solemnity. The chair, old, ugly and worn, on which St. Peter is said to have been pontificated, is enshrined by a magnificent throne, supported by four gigantic eagles, and surrounded upon a tribune decorated by Michelangelo. The throne stands in the great nave, behind the altar of St. Peter's. The Venetians once claimed to possess the Chair of St. Peter, but it was discovered about a century ago that this supposed sacred relic bore the inscription "Where St. Peter sat, God and Mahomet is His Prophet." It is supposed that this chair was brought from the East by the Crusaders.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale
BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

A TREE KANGAROO

Far away in Australia lived this Tree Kangaroo and life to him was very pleasant.

He was very handsome. His coat was of thick, long fur and the color of it was brownish-yellow. His waistcoat was of white though he wore a front belt of a pale yellow shade.

His face was black though across his forehead he had a grayish band and his ears were black on the outside and yellow inside.

His legs were of a yellow shade—yellow stockings he would have said he wore—and his paws were black. His tail was as long as his body and his body was of good size.

The children of the family dressed like the ladies of the family in gray suits, which were simple and pretty.

"The daytime," said the Tree Kangaroo, "is for sleeping and eating. Sometimes a fly or many flies will disturb my sleep and I have to kill them to have peace and rest."

"But I like to sleep during the day and my place for sleeping is in a tree."

"That is why I am called a Tree Kangaroo," said the Tree Kangaroo.

"My home is in a tree. I would not be happy in any other kind of a house."

Like to Sleep.

home. I like a nice mountain home but a tree is the place in which to be cozy and comfortable.

"At night, when it is dark, I go out to travel and do my marketing."

"I can jump from most enormous heights so a tree home does not bother me."

"People who live in houses always have to go out of them from the ground floor."

"But I can jump from my tree home right to the ground without any bother at all."

"If I lived in a house I would not bother to go downstairs to get out of doors."

"I would simply jump down from a window. But people can't jump as I can."

"They wouldn't make good Tree Kangaroos."

"I don't mean to hurt their feelings but I say this. I hope they do not feel badly that they can't do more than they can."

"I hope they do not spend their time saying:

"Oh, dear, if only we were Tree Kangaroos, how nice it would be."

"I hope they don't say things such as this for as long as they are people I suppose they must make the best of it."

"But how thankful I am that I am really and truly a Tree Kangaroo."

"Of course they may say that as long as I am a Tree Kangaroo it is a good thing to make the best of it."

"Indeed, they are. Why do you think they are not?"

"Why, I've been watching them almost an hour, and I haven't seen one of them hitch his trousers under one leg, and say 'Yo-ho, my hearties' once."

The Highrader

So far the captain had guessed correctly. Moya watched like a hunted woodland creature. Her friendship had been abused. She had been as credulous as a simple country wench, while he no doubt had been laughing up his sleeve at her all the time. No longer and she any doubt as to his guilt. To give herself in foolishly impulsively, was her temperament though not many were judged worthy of such giving. This blue-eyed scamp had won her as no man ever had before. She had seen him through a glamour. Now his character stood stripped in its meanness. Her sweet trust was crushed. And the advice of her friends she had been wayward had heeded. So sure that she knew best.

Kilmeny, sitting beside her in the deep shadows cast by the wild cucumber vines, became aware that she was weeping silently. His heart beat for her.

"I say, don't," he pleaded. "It was impossible for him to voice advice by his feelings. Greatly daring, he let an arm rest across the shoulders that were being racked by suppressed pain."

"You mouth it," you know, I can't stand it! And, again, "Please don't!"

She gulped down the lump in her throat and turned upon him limply eyes, the lashes of which were ringed with tears. The thin strong soldier regarded the haven of rest toward which she was being driven. Had she never met his American cousin she knew that she would probably have accepted him in the end. The swift impulse swept him to anchor her craft for life in a safe harbor.

"Do you still want me?" she asked lifelessly.

He could not on the instant take her meaning. Then, "Want you?" he cried in a low voice no words could have expressed fully. "Want you? Oh, my dear!"

"You know I don't love you not in one way," she told him naively. "Lady Jim says that will come. I don't know. Perhaps you won't want to take the risk."

She could see the desire of her leap to his heart, and she knew that "I'll take your chance," he cried.

"You'll give me all the time I want—not push me too hard?"

"You shall set your own time."

Her dusky head was leaning wearily against the back of a wicker porch chair. From sheer fatigue her eyes fluttered and shut. Her fever would have given anything to wrap her in his arms and fight away her troubles. But he knew it would be months before he could win the right to do this.

"Would you mind if I if we didn't tell the others just yet?"

"It shall be as you say, Moya, dear."

She nodded languid thanks. "You're good."

"I'm so tired."

He kissed the tips of her fingers and she vanished round the corner of the house.

Kilmeny sat down again and looked for long across the moonlit river. His sweetheart had promised to marry him, but in his strange fashion, he was to be her husband some day, but he was not yet her lover by a good deal. His imagination fitted another man to that role, and there rose before him the strong brown face of his cousin with his mocking eyes and devil-may-care smile.

CHAPTER VI

The Bad Penny Again.

Verinder strove down to the riverbank, where Joyce was fishing from the shore in a tentative fashion.

"Casting in a haggard brow. You should be a fisher of men," he told her fatuously.

"If I could be sure I wouldn't catch one. But if I happened to, what would I do with him?"

"Do with him? Why, it depends on whom you catch. It's his under-up hook him gently and throw him back into the river. What?"

The gay smile, flashed against him, was a challenge. "But it isn't always so easy to unhook them, I'm told."

"Not if one doesn't want to."

Joyce shot one swift glance at him and saw that he was on the verge of waxing sentimental. That would never do. It was on the cards that she might have to marry Verinder but she did not want him making love to her.

"Please don't take me to task. It's really a matter of no moment."

The young woman made another cast.

"To you."

"It was thinking about me."

"You usually are, aren't you?"

She looked up with surprised amusement. Repeatedly she had been told. This was the first spirit she had shaken out of him and she had made him the victim of many moods.

"But I don't blame you for thinking about the most interesting person you know. I think about you a lot myself."

"You're really pleased with me?"

"I'm pleased in spite of it. He did that sort of thing as gracefully as a bear danced. To create a diversion she whipped back her line for a cast so that the flies snapped close to his ear."

"I say, be a bit careful," Verinder suggested.

"Oh, did I hook you?" she asked carelessly.

"I've been on your line for weeks."

"You'd better whisper it. Moya might hear," she advised roughly.

Verinder flushed. The transfer of his attentions was still a sore subject with him. He hoped it would be forgotten, understood that he had given up Miss Dwight to his own choice. He did not want it to get out that he had been jilted.

"The whole world is welcome to hear it. I'd advertise it in the Times if it would do you any good."

"I believe you are impudent," laughed she beauty.

"I know I'm impudent."

"I think it would do you good to take a long walk, Mr. Verinder."

"With Miss Seldona?" he wanted to know cautiously.

"Alone," she told him severely. "It would be a treat."

"A rest for me—or for you?"

"The dimples flashed into her soft cheeks again. "For both of us, perhaps."

"Thanks, it's rather jolly here." He put his hands in his trousers pocket and leaned against a tree.

"Hope you'll enjoy it. I'm going to and Mrs. Seldona doesn't expect me, but her rod against the trees, and snatched off with Miss Seldona. Verinder lagged after her.

They followed the trail a stone's throw in silence.

"Miss Dwight's always going off by herself. Seems to me she's a bit off her head," Verinder suggested.

"I've thought of that, but for a man who wanted it understood that only one girl in the world wanted to him, he still appeared to take a good deal of interest in Moya."

"Seems dreamy and—depressed. What?" he continued.

"Perhaps she is in love," Joyce let herself suggest wickedly.

"I've thought of that, but for a man who wanted it understood that only one girl in the world wanted to him, he still appeared to take a good deal of interest in Moya."

"Why not Mr. Verinder?"

His eyes glared at her to make sure he was not being made game of, but the lovely face was very innocent.

"Can't be," he departed with conventional politeness.

"Captain Kilmeny, then."

"Hardly. I don't think he's quite her style of man."

"Perhaps with his cousin, the highwayman."

"Good heavens, no!"

"That's Moya now—and there's a man with her head," Joyce announced.

"By God, it's the highwayman!" Verinder gasped.

It was, though strictly speaking Jack Kilmeny was not yet with her, since she was still unaware of his presence. Moya was sitting on a mossy rock, and she was not reading. By the look of her she was dreaming.

Before she heard him he was close upon her. She looked around, and with a little cry got to her feet and stared at him, her hand on her fast-beating heart.

"No business of ours no more. Joyce thought of her, she announced to Verinder, and without regard to his curiosity or her own, turned heel and marched him from the field."

"You!" Moya cried.

Kilmeny bowed. The bad penny turned up again, Moya said.

"Scorn of him flashed in her dark eyes. She stood straight and rigid, but in spite of herself she breathed fast."

"You've forgotten your promise. You've lost faith again," he charged.

His impudence stirred contemptuous anger. "If I know you now, sir," she told him with the contempt.

"And you promised to believe in me." He said it quietly, with just a touch of bitterness in the reproach of his wistful voice.

The first hint of startled doubt came into her eyes. She stood poised as it were on the edge of a precipice.

"How could I believe when I found you guilty on your? What right have you to ask it?"

"So you found the paper in the hat, did you?"

"Yes."

STOCKHOLDERS VOTE AGAINST WATER TRADING

Recommendations of Investigators Embodied in Resolution Calling for End to Exchange Plan.

Recommendations of a committee recently made to inquire into operation of a plan adopted by the "committee of nine" to permit exchange of natural flow of Snake river in return for storage water in Jackson lake reservoir were embodied in a resolution adopted by about 36 stockholders of the Twin Falls Canal company meeting here Wednesday afternoon with the canal company directors to receive and discuss the committee's report.

The resolution, which was addressed to the canal board, requested the board of directors to "terminate the present exchange of water of Snake river as quickly as possible and adhere in the future to distribution of natural flow waters of Snake river according to decreed rights and further, that the board of directors take the necessary steps to carry this resolution into effect."

The resolution which was offered by L. L. Breckenridge of Twin Falls, and the second of J. B. Koenig of Hannon, was adopted by unanimous vote.

Board Delays Action

A session of the board of directors immediately following the stockholders meeting was devoted to routine business and no action was taken with reference to the resolution.

Action taken by the stockholders followed two hours' discussion in the course of which Carl J. Miller of Gastford, president of the canal board and a member of the investigating committee, declared that as the exchange plan this season has resulted in the accumulation by upper river users of 130,000 acre feet of stored water in Jackson lake, and the plan now is causing loss of 60,000 second feet of useful flow waters of the lower river, upper river users, and the canal board, have no right to the water that they could not apply to their lands without detrimental results.

Tells of Conditions Here

Burton Smith, general manager for the canal company, stated that water delivery through the Twin Falls system had been reduced Wednesday to 40 per cent, and that another cut was to be expected in a few days.

"The river is dry at Blackfoot as far as natural flow is concerned," he said, "and we are depending on Portneuf springs' output with some return foot from irrigated lands above that point and we will be in this condition for the balance of the season."

"The cut today was made in anticipation of a drop in water indicated by upper river reports to enable us to regulate delivery for some time in the future."

T. M. Baird, canal company director and member of the committee of nine, stated to the stockholders that the exchange plan had been adopted with view to harmonizing differences between upper and lower river water users. It had not been expected, he said, that the exchange would be employed as largely as it has been this season.

Reviews Investigation

The report of the investigating committee, which was composed of J. A. Crom, C. J. Miller and N. V. Sharp, was addressed to the board of directors and stockholders of the Twin Falls Canal company, and read as follows:

We, the committee appointed at a mass meeting of the board of directors and stockholders of the Twin Falls Canal company, held in Twin Falls, Idaho, on June 14, 1924, and instructed to make necessary investigations to ascertain if the method now being used by the watermaster on Snake river relative to the release of water in exchange for storage in Jackson lake is detrimental and dangerous to the rights of the Twin Falls Canal company in the natural flow of the Snake river, wish to report as follows:

This investigation was commenced on June 18 by interviewing F. A. Banks, engineer for the United States reclamation service at American Falls; G. Clyde Baldwin, special deputy commissioner of reclamation of the state of Idaho and watermaster of district No. 30; prominent directors and stockholders of canal companies in the upper Snake river valley which draw water from the Snake river, deputy watermasters and others interested in the distribution of the waters of Snake river. We also visited Heise, Rexburg, and other raising stations on the river, the heads of many canals diverting water from Snake river and the lands irrigated by these various canals. Records of the flow of the river were searched for information that would yield light on the subject under consideration.

Calls Practice Detrimental

After an investigation as thorough as present conditions and available data will permit, we are of the opinion that the present practice of trading water in exchange for storage is detrimental and dangerous to the Snake river rights of the Twin Falls Canal company. That water users in the upper Snake river valley have this water sacrificed to some extent for many years.

Work on Grading Of New Railroad Moves Steadily On

Steel Laid for Four or Five Miles Out of Rogerson Recent Visitor from Contact Reports.

Approximately 11 miles of grading has been completed between Contact and Wells, Nev., on the new Wells-Rogerson line, according to H. H. Hyde of Contact, who arrived in Twin Falls yesterday.

Mr. Hyde states that about eight miles of grade has been finished out of Rogerson and the steel laid on four or five miles of this. At a number of points further along between Rogerson and the state line a good deal of work has been done. Engineering work is now going on in connection with the deep cut at Twin Springs, contract on which is understood to have been awarded to Morrison & Knudson of Boise by the Utah Construction company.

Mr. Hyde also states that the state engineer of Nevada has approved application of Contact for water on Gray springs numbers 1 and 2, which means that Contact will have a water system in the near future, work on which will be commenced at once by the Utah Construction and Investment company.

OPENING NUMBER ATTRACTS CROWD

Large Audience Grooms Guatemala Marimba Band at First of Chautauqua Offerings.

The Guatemala Marimba band, opening Twin Falls' Chautauqua week, was greeted Wednesday evening by an audience that comfortably filled the big brown Chautauqua tent that has been pitched at the corner of Second street and Fifth avenue east, next to the city park, where succeeding numbers of the course are to be presented.

Appreciation of the offering was evidenced by bursts of applause at the close of each number on the program, which included an unusual range of band selections.

The organization is composed of six musicians, pianist and one bass viol accompanied. Said to be an instrument of Aztec origin, the marimba resembles a gigantic xylophone, and the native musicians produce a world of harmony with it. Members of the organization were brought to this country seven years ago by the noted theater manager, Charles B. Dillingham, and the band has come to Chautauqua this year fresh from metropolitan successes in the east.

Financial Success Indicated

Success of Twin Falls Chautauqua this season from the financial viewpoint seemed assured on the opening day, according to Dr. G. H. Caldwell, secretary of the local Chautauqua committee, who stated Wednesday evening that although several persons engaged in selling tickets had not then reported, it was indicated that the amount of the guarantee had been collected.

Ada Roach and Ruth Freeman, "Chautauqua's favorite entertainers," at 3 o'clock this afternoon will present an offering of impersonations, dialect and other musicals, parodies on fads and fancies of the day and musical numbers. They also will furnish the musical entertainment at the opening of the evening's offering which is to be a lecture by Arthur Walwyn Evans on "The Little Red Schoolhouse."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., has presented the French government $1,000,000 to reconstruct the roof of the Reims cathedral, destroyed by the Germans, and to restore the fountains and gardens at Versailles and Fontainebleau.

RAMSAY MACDONALD, Britain's labor premier, declares Sir Broderick Hartwell is a "disgraceful blot on British knighthood because he has successfully disposed of four big cargoes of liquor to bootleggers 20 miles off the American coast."

POPE PIUS XI has decreed 1925 as a "Holy Year." NEW YORK GOVERNORS have ruled that Richard Walton Tully, playwright, author of "The Bird of Paradise," plagiarized the play from "In Hallow," written by Mrs. Grace A. Fendler, a kindly old lady of California, and that he and Oliver Morosco, who produced it must pay her all profits derived from the play estimated at $2,000,000 in its 12 years of production.

Veterans Slow to Ask Compensation

Legion Adjutant Says None Yet Ready to File Application; Blanks at Recruiting Station.

Veterans here of the world war are not hastening to make application for benefits under the adjusted compensation act recently adopted by congress, according to C. H. Perkins, adjutant of Twin Falls post, American Legion, who stated Wednesday that blanks to be used in making such application had been delivered to him several days ago but that he had been unable to induce any of a dozen or more former service men with whom he had spoken about the matter, to make application at once. Blanks for this purpose also have been received and are available at the United States army recruiting station, where it was stated Wednesday, assistance will be given former service men in properly filling out these blanks.

JARBIDGE ROAD IMPROVEMENT IS CARAVAN AIM

Twin Falls Citizens and Business Men to Be Guests of Nevada Gold Mining Center for Conference on Road.

A motor caravan composed of not less than 30 Twin Falls citizens and business men will set out at 9 o'clock this morning from Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce offices, with the famous Jarbridge, Nevada, gold mining district as its destination.

Purposes of the excursion are to pay a neighborly call to the Jarbridge district and, in particular, to confer with Jarbridge citizens and business men, in regard to plans for improving the Jarbridge-Twin Falls road.

Definite Plan Outlined

A definite plan for improvement of the road will be submitted by the Twin Falls delegation. It contemplates raising among Twin Falls business interests of a fund of $15,000 or $20,000, and of a similar amount in the Jarbridge district for the purpose of repairing and improving the road through Owyhee county.

It is anticipated that the Twin Falls highway district will provide for the improvement of the road from Rogerson to the Owyhee county line, and that Nevada highway directors will make similar provision for improvement of the road from Jarbridge to the Nevada line.

This plan already has been submitted to the officials of the Jarbridge Chamber of Commerce, and the conference today is to be held under the auspices of that organization.

The Twin Falls excursionists will remain in Jarbridge over night and will return Friday.

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAINED

Members of Troop Number One Are Luncheon Guests of Local Club; Interesting Program in First Aid Training Given by Boys.

Members of scout troop, No. 1, Wilbur S. Hill, scoutmaster, were the guests of the Twin Falls Rotary club at the club's regular weekly luncheon Wednesday.

The boys gave an interesting demonstration in first aid tactics, and recited the scout law and scout oath under the direction of Mr. Hill. At the conclusion of the program the scouts were presented with badges in the form of the emblem of Rotary, and upon neck scarfs which will hereafter be a part of the uniform of troop 1, of which the club is official sponsor.

Mercury Climbs to New Seasonal High

A new warm weather record for the year was set Wednesday when mercury climbed to a maximum height at 9 o'clock, two degrees higher than the former high mark for the season, according to the government weather observer's station here. Low temperature at 4 a. m. above, represented a decline of three points under the minimum of the preceding day.

MAYOR GIVES WARNING ON PREMATURE CELEBRATIONS

Says Exploding of Firecrackers Must Be Stopped or Official Sanction Will Be Recalled.

Premature celebration of the Fourth of July by exploding of firecrackers and other similar noise making paraphernalia which has occurred in the past few days must stop or the official permit allowing such indulgence on July 4 between the hours of 4 a. m. and 12 midnight will be revoked, according to warning issued Wednesday evening by Mayor Shad L. Hodgins.

"The exploding of firecrackers in the last few days has become a nuisance and must be stopped," the mayor said. "If there are any further occurrences of this kind I shall revoke the permit effective on the Fourth."

BELL IN RACE FOR JUDGE

Another contest for nomination for a county office on the republican ticket—the only ticket thus far on which any contents have developed—came to being Wednesday when F. B. Bell of Twin Falls, an attorney, filed his nomination papers in the office of the county recorder for the office of probate judge. He will be opposed for the nomination in the primary by Don J. Henry, another Twin Falls attorney, whose nomination was one of the first filed after the opening three weeks ago of the period for filing.

WOULD FLY FLAG FROM POLE AT COURTHOUSE

Request that a flagpole be provided on the courthouse grounds for displaying the national emblem and that this be done before the Fourth of July was contained in a communication received Wednesday by the board of county commissioners from a committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, composed of Mrs. M. C. Ware, Mrs. H. I. Schlimman and Mrs. M. F. Gamble. The flag now flies from a staff on the roof of the courthouse building in close proximity to a chimney so that flags are rapidly soiled, necessitating frequent purchases of new flags.
