HERRIOT GAINS TIME TO PATCH UP DIFFERENCES

French Premier Staves Off Opponents' Attack on Threatened Failure to Reach Accord With Great Britain.

PARIS, July 7 (AP)—The swift maneuver of Premier Herriot of France in getting Prime Minister MacDonald of England to come to Paris tomorrow, thus forestalling former Premier Raymond Poincare and his other opponents in the senate who are prepared to put him on the gridiron, has upset all calculations in political and diplomatic circles. The conviction that the Herriot cabinet was in danger had penetrated even government circles. Postponement of the debate in the senate necessitated by the visit of the British prime minister, makes little change in the situation, but it gives M. Herriot time to make a further effort to come to an agreement with the British premier before he is interpellated in the upper house.

Accord Would Save Situation.
It is admitted that it will make an enormous difference if the premier is able to secure the agreement on Thursday, to tell his opponents that France and Great Britain are finally in complete accord as to how the Dawes plan should be put into effect.

The opposition is skeptical, however, as to the possibility of M. Herriot's inducing Mr. MacDonald to give up his alleged determination to get rid of the reparations commission. If any other organism is fixed upon, with the French premier's consent to decide when Germany is in default, the opposition will make an onslaught on the cabinet, the result of which is regarded now as possibly fatal. The argument of the opposition is that the application of penalties would in any case be under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, and the opposition had nothing to do with the question of default, and that the experts' plan as a whole must be considered merely a modality towards payment of reparations under the treaty. Hence, it is argued, treaty organisms must deal with the consequences of the report.

M. Poincare and his friends, it is said in the lobbies of the senate, will fight against any other thesis.

Favors Conciliatory Policy.

It is well known that M. Herriot believes that more can be obtained from Germany by a conciliatory attitude than by using a strong hand but the premier has been alarmed by the commotion which Mr. MacDonald's memorandum caused in France. Finding that he could not go forward along conciliatory lines as fast as he would have liked he signaled to the British prime minister to come to Paris for another effort to reach compromise. The opposition is using with considerable effect the argument that Mr. MacDonald's memorandum has resulted in stiffening the resistance of the Germans as is evidenced by reports of official and semi-official manifestations since the British premier's views became known.

MACDONALD'S DECISION SURPRISE TO COMMONS

LONDON, July 7 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald surprised the house of commons today by the announcement that a misunderstanding which had arisen with the French government over the invitation to the interallied conferences at London had decided him to accept the suggestion of Premier Herriot of France to pay a hurried visit to Paris to smooth out the difficulties. The members of the house were evidently uneasy and mystified. Both former Premier Herbert H. Asquith and former Premier Stanley Baldwin, leaders respectively of the liberals and the conservatives, confessed themselves perplexed by Mr. MacDonald's statement. Mr. Asquith declared himself "bewildered regarding what has happened and what is going to happen."

Both called for immediate publication of the terms of the memorandum included in the invitation to the allied powers to attend the proposed conference.

Mr. MacDonald insisted that there was nothing binding upon either government in the Chiquera discussions, but that both governments had been left with complete freedom of action. His description of the misunderstanding which had arisen as "a storm in a teacup," however, failed to carry conviction to most of the members of the house and it became evident that when the prime minister again met the house on Thursday he would be subjected to searching questions.

The British premier admitted that he had made the suggestion to M. Herriot that the conference when it met should fix an appointed day in August or September on which the Dawes report should be put into complete operation. He further emphasized the emergency of obtaining an agreement on the proper form, signed, sealed and delivered, for putting the Dawes report into operation which he said would necessitate Germany's signature.

COMMUNISTS WITH RED GLOVES REFUSED OATH BY BURGOMASTER

DORTMUND, Germany, July 7 (AP)—Two communists who were elected as deputies of the town council were red gloves at the initial meeting of the body. When the time came for the new members to take their right hands and take the oath of office, all the other deputies removed their gloves, as is customary in Germany, but the communists refused to do so. The burgomaster declined to swear them unless they removed their hand covering for the occasion.

After a lively discussion, the communists drew the gloves from their hands and threw them on the floor, in defiance of the council and stalked out of the room. They attended all meetings, but as yet have not been sworn in, and so far as the other deputies are concerned, are not considered full fledged members of the town's law-making body.

Origin of 12-hour Dial

Long before the invention of the modern clock the Greeks divided the 24-hour day into two uneven units, from sunrise to sunset and from sunset to sunrise. And these units they further divided into hours, each hour being a twelfth of its unit.

Thus is summer a day hour was longer than a night hour, and in winter vice versa. Then the hours were further subdivided into minutes and seconds. But the Egyptians had the much more practical arrangement of dividing the whole period from sunrise to sunset into 24 equal hours.

Eventually a system embodying the two methods became general. The Greek 12-hour periods, with their minutes and seconds were kept, but every hour was made equal in length. Thus when the modern clock came to be made its face was divided into 12 hours.—Detroit News.

Stars We Cannot See

Two hundred millions of millions of miles away is a star called Algal. It is the second brightest star in the constellation of Perseus, and it has the curious habit of varying in brightness at regular intervals.

After much research we know now that Algal consists of two stars—one bright, the other dark. They are each about a million miles in diameter and about two million miles apart. They revolve around one another, and when the dark star is between us and the bright one, the light we receive from the latter diminishes.

There are several other stars of the Algal type, and it is simply through our researches that we are aware that there exist in the heaven dark stars—stars which give no light at all and are in themselves totally invisible.

How many there may be we do not know, for it is only by their power of eclipsing bright stars that we can recognize them at all.

WESTERN FARMS ARE GIVING GOOD PROMISE

Care in Handling of Water Observed Everywhere; Small Fruit in Abundance; Hay is Looking Fine.

BUILD, July 7.—(Special to the News.)—Conservation and care of water in the west and constitutes the principal occupation of the farmers of this section these days. Farmers are actively and almost every morning about daybreak they may be seen heading for the headgates, with shovel on shoulder, bent upon getting the utmost in the way of moisture out of the available supply.

Hitherto, in normal years, water was a secondary consideration to the average farmer. The present shortage, while it will curtail production somewhat will, on the whole, supply an even break with previous years. Crop prospects in the west are encouraging. The prospects for a good crop are fine and there is no unfounded alarm like aphids or the little stinging beetle, that has to a limited extent worked havoc with our alfalfa seed in former years, a bumper crop will be harvested of all varieties of small seeds.

What is heading short and early, so are barley and oats, especially the late seedling. Pastures so far are good, showing velvety green and fine and there is no unfounded alarm like aphids or the little stinging beetle, that has to a limited extent worked havoc with our alfalfa seed in former years, a bumper crop will be harvested of all varieties of small seeds.

Some Bright Reported. A few cases of bean blight are reported, seemingly affecting only a few acres. Some report the desert fly as the culprit, while others attribute it to the natural cussedness of our national army fruit.

Prospects are below standard, owing to the late spring and the whistling winds presumably. In the writer's opinion spuds will be the diamond studied crop for the tract this year. We have but to follow the law of averages over a cycle of years to see the point in time. Thriftiness of farmers is attested this year, especially in the large flocks of turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens. A flock of one variety, or of all, are found in almost all barnyards in noticeably larger numbers. A dry, cool spring and early summer is credited with contributing to the whistling of the feathered flocks, especially the plumed pride of the fields, the Chinese pheasant. Sportsmen take pride in noting the great increase in young broods. Personally, I have seen a mother hen with approximately 15 little, fatty balls of throbbing scared chickadee, as the mowcreeper mercilessly tore into their number.

There is an abundance of the small fruits. Cherries are ripe. Strawberries have come and are almost gone. Other small fruits give promise of a good yield. Apples, peaches and plums are plentiful in most orchards. A general summing up of the water situation always brings a consensus of opinion, always the same answer, "I can raise a crop that will be better than I formerly used. Just by maling nearer my head."

Soil Differs Greatly. The wide dissimilarity in soils is strikingly noticeable in the west. Some farms require four or five waterings for the first crop of hay, while a neighbor, perhaps one-fourth mile away, may grow rings of alfalfa with only two or three waterings. So there you are. "A water shortage to the latter means little. As long as the water is not cut below 40 per cent he is getting pretty good water for the money. A fair price. It will pivot around the $10 mark is the opinion of most stockmen.

Lambs went on the market in good shape. Bee been report in most cases a shortage in the heavy crop, but expect an increase in their second harvest. Livestock has been in the past, as will be this year, the one best bet for the Idaho farmer. The market with a few good cows, and a limited amount of hogs as a sideline, with perhaps a small flock of sheep that bring in the money at a critical time in his farm operations, is the farmer that can show a fairly well-balanced bankbook. Enough food and roughage is already secured, if fed in an orderly manner, to keep over all summer and if farmers continue to put forth their very best efforts in using the amount of water allotted them to the best advantage possible, the west will hold its own beautifully.

A dentist was called on in a hurry by Jenkinson, who was suffering violently from toothache. The dentist examined the tooth, saw it was badly gone, and said it must come out. So he gave a tremendous yank with his big silver forceps, and the extraction seemed successful; but on closer inspection it was found that a small piece of tooth remained in the swollen and sensitive gum. The dentist was jabbing about this place a good while. However, he hadn't much luck.

"Jings it all," he said finally, as he jabbed at the gum in a rather impatient, cross way—"thing it all, I don't seem to feel it."

"Not" said poor Jenkinson, all white and trembling. "You're in luck."

"Poor Man's" Gout

Chronic gout is a lingering malady characterized by deposits of urate or sodium on the joint cartilages at the ends of the bones, especially in the fingers, and often in the ears. It is also marked by an excess of oxalic acid salts in the blood. There is severe pain in one or more of the joints at the time the deposits are forming, and the pain may recur from time to time in the same or in other joints. Frequently the area suffer and in some cases the disease attacks the internal organs. Chronic gout is sometimes called "poor man's" gout. Its treatment, which is usually dietetic, should be begun as soon as the trouble is discovered.

New Stamp Issued Commemorates the Huguenots' Landing

Three Hundredth Anniversary of Arrival in America is Observed by Government.

Considerable interest in Twin Falls has been shown in the new issue of 2-cent stamps which recently made their appearance here.

The new stamp, nearly twice the size of the customary 2-cent stamp, is pink in color with a picture depicting the landing of the Huguenots and Wallons in America. The new stamp is issued to commemorate the arrival of these people to America.

History students will remember that in the sixteenth century the teachings of John Calvin were taken up by a group of French Protestants known as the Huguenots and a similar group in Holland went under the name of the Wallons.

In 1555 a colony of the French Protestants set out for America to found a colony for religious freedom, as the Pilgrims later did. The first group landed in Brazil and died out in a year or two. Subsequent colonies were sent to America, the most famous of these being the one headed by Jacques Cartier, which settled in Canada, and another which found Port Royal as its final destination.

This period of colonization on the part of the Huguenots takes up the rest of the sixteenth and an early part of the seventeenth century, leaving two well-defined French colonies in America, one in the St. Lawrence river valley in Canada and another in the southern part of the United States.

The second group of people for which the new stamp is dedicated are the Dutch-Protestants or Wallons, who sailed into the Hudson river in 1623 and occupied the present site of New York. Under the leadership of Minuit they made the purchase of Manhattan island for $24 worth of beads and ribbons, according to the well-known story, and founded New Amsterdam, now known as New York.

Later leaders of the colony, the Dutch, figure more prominently in history but it was Minuit who led the

DODGE BROTHERS POLICY IS PLEASING TO PATRONS

Local Dealer Declares Company's Plan to Stick to Single Model Very Satisfactory to Buyers of Cars.

It is quite evident from the comments of buyers, according to H. F. Magel, manager of the Magel Automobile company, Dodge Brothers dealers, that the public appreciated the significance of Dodge Brothers' policy of making constant improvements in their motor cars instead of changing models every year.

Magazines, newspapers and bulletin boards everywhere are reminding the people, this month, that this policy continues to prevail and that they may buy Dodge Brothers cars without fear of seeing a new and entirely different model put on the market soon after they take possession of the present type car.

"Coming just at this time," said Mr. Magel, "when many manufacturers are preparing to issue new models, in keeping with their annual custom, this advertisement is having a striking effect. It serves as a whole-some reassurance to prospective buyers. They dislike the idea of buying a car today and finding a model so later that it is an obsolete model. And it is only natural that they should."

"The depreciation loss is out of proportion for a few months' use. Moreover, most people like to be up-to-date in their motor equipment and if they wish to follow the leader in this respect they must accept this depreciation loss."

"Also although most owners do not realize it, the cost of replacement parts is greatly affected by bringing out yearly models. One reason for this is that the price for Dodge Brothers parts is the fact that parts stay standard for years."

Wallons in the beginning.

Sixteen twenty-four was the decided upon for the celebration of the double centennial and the new issue of stamps commemorates the three hundredth anniversary of their arrival.

HOMER SCORES WINNING RUNS

Whitzel Brings Across Necessary Counters; Blues Win All-Three Games.

Bob Whitzel's homer in the fourth inning Sunday brought in the two runs necessary for the Blues to take their third straight victory from the Western "Oaks" by a score of 5 to 3.

A fairly large crowd attended the game which was a nifty demonstration of baseball with lots of action and few errors.

Clark with one hit in a single trip to the plate is high man. He is closely followed for batting honors by Broug, Salt Lake pitcher, who hit the jumbo for a .667 average followed by Jim Selley with two doubles in two trips to the plate and five with an average of .500 while Andrews has a similar record on the hitting team.

Twin Falls scored their first run in the first inning on two hits and a walk.

In the second a costly error gave Mullins and Flyn each a run when Broug overthrew at the plate, allowing the Blues to filter two scores across. The other Twin Falls counters came on Whitzel's homer with Flyn on base.

Flynn Gets Out of Hole.

The way in which Flynn extracted himself from a difficult hole in the fifth inning was the best played and with no one out, won the applause of the fans, but for the young pitcher and the team. With the three sacks loaded, Flynn retired one man at the plate, and with the bases still filled one run was scored on Lebrass' single and a neat double play on the next man up retired the side. Flynn striking a cool, level-headed game all this while.

The visitors' other scores came in the fifth inning when a passed ball allowed Mullins to score and Andrews brought in the third counter with a two-bagger in the same inning.

The last four innings were close, Broug and Flynn both pitching nice ball with splendid control, the visiting pitcher allowing one hit and Flynn holding the Salt Lake league leaders both hitless and scoreless.

Next week the Blues play American Falls on the local ball grounds. American Falls holds a victory over the Pocatello Indians.

ATTACK ON M'ADOO PUTS SMITH AT TOP OF LIST

Eden tonight, and it was still below the governor's on the eighty-seventh ballot, last of the night's session. It was on the eighty-sixth ballot that his vote fell below the one-third vote power he had been holding.

Out of McAdoo Column.

"During the day Mr. McAdoo had Iowa, Mississippi, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma and Nevada. They did not go to his opponent, to be sure, but they went out of his column. Missouri went over to Senator Glass, Mississippi to Senator Blanton, Kansas to Governor Jonathan Davis, Iowa to Edward Meredith, his favorite son; Oklahoma to Senator Owen and Nevada first to Senator McAdoo and then to Governor Ritchie of Maryland.

The choices of all the states mentioned were characterized as stopping places in transit, for they are expected to turn up in the column of whatever compromise candidate finally is agreed upon.

Railton in Best Position.

Senator Railton (New York) today nearly withdrew his name from the convention last Friday, found himself in the best position of all the 14 minority candidates as the result of today's balloting. After his withdrawal he had continued to receive scattering votes from the sixty-four to the eighty-first vote.

Eden had received only 21 votes in the four succeeding ballots, after Indiana put his name back in the voting, his total shot up to 93 votes, only four less than his previous mark of last Thursday. The drive today really opened with a smash for Carter Glass, who had started the day's voting with 101 votes, but lost some of these from his home state, and had jumped to 111 votes on the eightieth ballot. He closed the balloting tonight with 71. His high mark for the day was 78.

Suggests Delegates' Conference.

John W. Davis of West Virginia moved little during the tussle of the day and night. He started with 73½ and finished with 69½.

Just before the convention adjourned tonight Senator A. A. Jones of New Mexico introduced and asked to have lie on the table for consideration tomorrow, a resolution providing for a conference of delegates comparable to the conference of "houses" which took place Sunday. He proposed to have a convention made up of one man elected with getting power comparable with the vote of his delegation in the convention, to discuss a way out of the deadlock and even possibly suggest a slate to the convention.

When the convention broke up tonight the situation passed again into the stage of local conferring. Half a dozen groups hurried out to discuss the day's developments and make plans for tomorrow.

Would Drive McAdoo Out.

During last night's session, too, Taggart and Senator Harrison had maintained "compromise" candidates headquarters in an office just off the convention main hall, where they saw many leaders. Included among them were several from the McAdoo camp and various leaders from delegations, having favorite sons in the race.

COOLIDGE'S SON LOSES BRAVE FIGHT FOR LIFE

been kept busy while the presidential residence was temporarily removed to Walter Reed hospital, ceased to function for the time, and Secretary Gump and others rushed to the hospital. In other parts of the city, where the illness of the boy—his private, public interest in the exclusion of almost everything else, there were anxious inquiries as to his condition and expressions of sympathy for the parents.

At the hospital groups gathered waiting word outside the grounds, but inside the sentries moved their usual pace and there were no visible signs that anything out of the ordinary was taking place. Hundreds of war veterans are housed there and sympathy was marked on every hand. Silence was the order for all in the building.

Stricken Parents Leave.

Announcement that death had finally relieved the sufferings of the frail boy was made by Mr. Clark. He walked slowly from the room and those who were gathered there knew from his demeanor that the end had come. Only the brief announcement of death was made and soon thereafter President and Mrs. Coolidge, grief-stricken over their first great sorrow, made their way slowly to a White House automobile and were driven away. Both were worn from the long vigil. They arrived at the White House at 11 o'clock.

The Coolidge family had been in the hospital Saturday and on operation on the same night revealed inflammation of the bone marrow of the left leg where the infection first localized in part. A slight rally followed, but on Saturday night his condition grew so serious that brain transfusion and oxygen administration were resorted to. The boy's third sinking spells Sunday night brought him to the point of death. A slight rally Monday gave slight hope, but soon thereafter he began again to lose ground and he never rallied again.

The infection developed from a broken blister on the ankle, caused by a tennis match with his brother, John, on the White House courts last Monday. At first, paying no attention to it, the youth developed an alarming condition by Wednesday night and physicians were summoned.

The infection, however, one started, had spread rapidly that medical skill was without avail. A number of specialists were called to act with White House physicians on the case and a desperate fight for life was made by the boy who struggled in great pain until his death.

President and Mrs. Coolidge bore up bravely. Soon after the death they went to the White House where the older brother, John, was awaiting them.

at his work after his father had become president—his employer said to him excitedly: "So your father is president of the United States," and the boy replied:

"Yes, sir; I suppose he is; what do you want me to tackle today?"

He had taken employment under contract and refused to break it to come to Washington in the interesting days of his father's assumption of the chief magistracy, preferring to complete the task to which he had set himself. This summer vacation, however, the boys came to the White House, but had planned to leave in a few days to attend the military training camp at Camp Devens.

Meet Parents' Deeds.

As the sons of the president, John and Calvin had felt responsibility, but to a casual observer they would have appeared as any other American boys. And this was the ideal for which their parents carefully trained them. It was the wish of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge that the boys be considered from an unofficial standpoint and as any other boys. For this reason they did not permit official bulletins to be issued by the physicians on the condition of Calvin and not until last Thursday when his case had taken a really serious turn did they make known his illness.

A frequent visitor at the White House has told how the president was given quite often to joking the boys but Calvin caught a joke usually in the matter of his "small-headedness," to which another friend replied: "No, and they hadn't better."

REAL AMERICAN BOY WAS PRESIDENT'S SON

Passing of Calvin Coolidge, Junior, Leaves Memories of Lad Unparalleled by Family Fame.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(Special to The News).—Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was a typical American boy, mischievous and full of vigor, but in public almost quiet and demure. He always was the first with his hand, his foot, his head, at the slightest provocation.

"He has a remarkably sweet disposition for a boy," a close friend of the family remarked recently, "but make no mind about it, he's all boy."

Calvin was born April 13, 1898, at Northampton, Mass., and went through the grade schools of that city after his father had come to Washington as vice-president in 1921. Both he and his brother John who is 17 years of age the next year entered Mercersburg academy at Mercersburg, Pa., John having graduated last month while Calvin had another year before him. John is to enter Amherst, the president's alma mater, this fall, and Calvin was to have followed him.

Studious, but Not Crammer.

An excellent student usually ranking high in his class, Calvin was bright but not a "crammer" in the schoolboy sense of studiousness. He also was a good debater and had qualified for the academy debating team. He was interested in athletics, but his slight build kept him from making any records along that line, although he was an enthusiastic tennis and baseball player.

Summer vacations usually found Calvin with his brother John at their grandfather's home in Plymouth, Vt., but last summer John attended the military training camp at Camp Devens, Mass., while Calvin worked on a farm in the Connecticut valley of western Massachusetts. It was when nation made at San Antonio had injured his claim before the bureau. Deaver had immediately after the trial and officials said no charges would be filed against him.

When Deaver protested to General Hines against the report of three physicians who had examined him it was said the director called in Captain O. Shaw, chairman of the board of appeals, and the three doctors going over the case when the encounter developed. Shaw, it was added, attempted to separate the two and was turned upon by Deaver, but the affair finally was quelled by Shaw, a messenger and I. E. Raily, secretary to General Hines.

MODERN ROBIN HOOD FOUND IN CHECK FORGER

Mace Arrested by Sheriff's office Buys Merchandise for Twin Falls Family with Fictitious Checks, Alleged.

What members of the sheriff's force believe to be a modern "Robin Hood" was arrested Monday afternoon in the person of Andrew Mace, cashier of checks in many cities in northwestern states who has been spending at least part of money obtained in this way in sending articles of wearing apparel to a Twin Falls family and is suspected of having done the same thing for families in other cities.

Through clues dug up by Deputy Sheriff John Gahhart and Sheriff M. E. Finch, trace of Mace was obtained and when he appeared in Twin Falls Monday he was promptly recognized, by descriptions given and placed under arrest. Mace, according to reports, has enabled fictitious checks in at least 20 or more towns and cities in the northwest. Found on his person at the time of arrest were a number of checks made out and ready to cash in Twin Falls on foreign banks.

During the last week or two Deputy Sheriff Gahhart has been busy collecting boxes of clothing sent to one family in Twin Falls by Mace. Five boxes were sent during the three weeks and today two more arrived, all full of clothing ranging from baby's dresses to women's wearing apparel, men's shirts, socks, soap, needles, thread and other merchandise.

Checks in Box.
In one of the boxes which arrived recently for the family whom Mace evidently thought in straitened circumstances were a number of checks made out and ready to be cashed. According to the story told by Mace, who talked freely to officials, he had cashed innumerable checks. Each time a check was cashed he bought some merchandise. This was then shipped to the Twin Falls family or to some other person whom he believed would appreciate it.

A list of the cities in which he cashed checks was furnished to officials. It is believed will amount in all to several thousand dollars were the following: The Dalles, Bakers, La Grande, Pendleton, Seattle, Spokane, Idaho Falls, Blackfoot, Big Lost, Pocatello, Blainville, Soda Springs, Pocatello, Burley, American Falls, Butte, Anacostia, Salt Lake, Ogden, a few in small towns in Wyoming. In addition to these in an itemized list given Deputy Sheriff Gahhart by the man, he declared that he cashed some in small towns in Oregon.

The checks were in denominations of from $5 to $10 and $15 and larger amounts. From the list of places in which checks were cashed he evidently had no difficulty in getting merchants to take them. He came in Twin Falls Tuesday where he admitted having cashed a check at one of the large stores.

Here Three Weeks Ago.
Mace, sheriff's officials say, was in Twin Falls about three weeks ago and since that time has traveled extensively, sewing fictitious checks with many aliases signed throughout the northwest. In his list of checks cashed he given the exact amounts demonstrating considerable ability in memory. Articles of wearing apparel at the sheriff's office, however, are from numerous cities. An attempt is being made by the sheriff's force through circular letters to trace as many of the checks as possible through selling tags on the goods. Mace is a man 38 or 40 years of age, not very well dressed, officials said, and when arrested was sitting beside the road. As he was being taken to the sheriff's office he attempted to dispose of a number of checks already made out by dropping them as they passed the library. Sheriff Finch, however, saw him throw them away and immediately recovered them. A large envelope at the sheriff's office contains a large bundle of checks that have been cashed. It is thought that several checks still remain in the hands of merchants around Twin Falls.

Mace is said to be well-read and fond of the Bible which he knows almost by heart. He will be arraigned probably to-day before court officials. He is being held in the county jail.

In the odd times, the soldiers in Norway were all equipped with skis. They then had the right one made two feet shorter than the left to allow making short, quick turns. PAROLE VIOLATOR IS ARRESTED BY SHERIFF

Henry Prough Returned to Jail Following Chase in South Park; Found Hiding in Cellar of Store.

Henry Prough, parole violator from the Twin Falls county jail, who took French leave some three weeks ago, was taken into custody Monday afternoon at a grocery store just south of Rock creek canyon by Sheriff M. E. Finch of Twin Falls county and Deputy Sheriff Finch. Sheriff Finch and his assistant were driving off the Hollister road looking for a carload of liquor reported coming into Twin Falls when Sheriff Finch saw Prough sitting beside the grocery store. Prough, according to the sheriff, saw the officers when they stopped the car and disappeared. Sheriff Finch and Deputy Sheriff Finch immediately started in pursuit. A search in the vicinity of the grocery store disclosed Prough hiding in the cellar. He was arrested and taken back to jail. Prough escaped three weeks ago while on a trusty and serving 60 days on a charge of "bootlegging." He had but 20 days to serve when he disappeared.

LEAGUE HOLDS BIG INSTITUTE

Between 35 and 40 Members of Epworth League From Here Attending Conference.

Between 35 and 40 members of the Epworth League of the Methodist church of Twin Falls are in attendance at the Central Idaho Epworth League institute being held at Beaver dam approximately 3 miles this side of Galena, according to Rev. Charles E. Whiting, pastor of the Methodist church here who returned from there Monday. Approximately 200 are enrolled, according to Mr. Whiting, and will remain in camp until the meeting ends next Sunday. The institute opened Sunday and is directed by Mr. Whiting as being one of the largest ever held. Methodist churches from all over southern Idaho are in attendance. During the morning study is held while in the afternoon the meeting is given over to purely recreational purposes.

Big plans are being made for the first week to be held at Coeur d'Alene Springs next Saturday, according to Mr. Whiting, when athletes from the Presbyterian, Baptist and Methodist churches will compete in a series of athletic contests. The purpose of the institute is the Rev. E. L. White, district superintendent of the Methodist churches, Church Epworth League participating are from as far west as Boise and as far east as Pocatello. Both Boise and Pocatello districts are included. A number of speakers of note will address the institute.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bert are chaperones of the party of boys and girls.

ROOTS OF TREES CLOG UP SEWERS

Council May Pass Ordinance to Cut Down Trees Where They Interfere.

Members of Twin Falls city council at a regular weekly meeting Monday evening at the city hall discussed ways and means of eliminating clogged sewers within the city caused from tree roots breaking through the walls. Action may be necessary through the passage of an ordinance, it was intimated, to cut down trees which interfere with the system. Popular trees, members of the council declare, are found to be causing the greatest trouble.

Monday night's session of council was short. Bills amounting to $108.01, divided as follows, were allowed: Street lighting, $1009.40; warrant redemption, $14.75; sprinkling, $10.78; general fund, $376.05; waterworks, $437.01.

The report of the city police department was read, and no arrests made during the month. Application for a building permit to construct a sheetiron building was made to the council. Following some discussion it was decided that it was not within the power of the council to refuse to grant one to withhold such permits as long as fire regulations were complied with.
