BASIS OF FREE PRESS IS SEEN IN ADVERTISING

Peace Advocate, Addressing London Convention, Analyzes Sources of Publishers' Revenue.

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—A free press and international peace as a result of advertising were urged today by Edward A. Filene of Boston, prominent peace advocate, in an address delivered before the international advertising convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

Newspapers everywhere, the speaker said, free from the control of "special interests," will be responsible for the peace of the world. Big advertising, it was contended, "tends to make the press independent and thus enable the editor to go straight" in his search for facts and truth.

Cost Exceeds Subscription Return. The cost of publishing the modern newspaper, Mr. Filene explained, far exceeds the returns from circulation, or the price paid by readers and subscribers. Six million dollars a year—more than a million pounds—has become a very ordinary figure, he said, for "producing a great daily in our large cities."

"It is clear, therefore, he continued, that the press is under an ever-increasing necessity of meeting competition by enormously expanding the sources of its revenues." Additional revenues are obtained by a "free press," he explained, principally by means of advertising. These newspapers, that are not "free," he declared, may obtain their additional revenues from "special interests." "In the long run," he warned, "there is no single factor more threatening to world peace than a press controlled by 'special interests.'"

Big advertising, the speaker said, might not always overcome the influence of "special interests" on the press; and on occasions and over short periods of time, big advertising itself might attempt to control newspaper policy.

Confidence Essential. "But in the long run big ads can be paid for only by big sales," it was pointed out. "And big sales will not come unless readers have confidence that the paper can be relied on for its news and editorials."

"Big advertising is not an economic waste," the speaker continued. "It is a social service. It is more than that. It is the basis of a press that is financially free. It is the fundamental factor upon which depends the ability of the press to furnish facts disinterestedly, and thus promote the outlook for world peace."

The dependence of the press on advertising, it was stated, and the consequent dependence of world peace, insofar as it is affected by the modern press, happen both to be in accord with the basic changes now under way in production and distribution.

In Line With Progress. "Mass production is well under way in most countries of the world," declared Mr. Filene. "Trusts, both vertical and horizontal, which exist and are coming to the front in ever-increasing numbers, are in line with the best interests of social progress—even though at this pioneer stage they have all the faults of pioneering." The speaker explained that mass production and mass distribution were "inevitably dependent on mass selling and that the entire program was dependent on big advertising."

The speaker pointed out that advertising in the United States in 1923 reached the "amazing figure of $428,000,000. Advertising in the daily press has grown by leaps and bounds—is growing—will grow at an increasing pace as we go on to meet the future."

Rhinoceros Can Scent Enemy Two Miles Off

Many animals give off scent through their feet. The bloodhound can "scent" his object many hours after it has passed. Scent depends a great deal on atmospheric condition; on a sharp, dry day it does not "lay." On a muggy, still day, however, even human beings will scent a fox, as their nose picks up surrounding objects such as bushes and hedges.

Elephants have a wonderful sense of smell, either from breath or body, but the keenest-scented animal is undoubtedly the rhinoceros. One big-game hunter has stated that in favorable conditions this animal can "scent" a man a full two miles. This may be considered a tall order, but in Africa the atmosphere is wonderfully clear, and what is the explanation of dogs and cats finding their way back to their original homes after being taken many miles away? The explanation is believed to be "other." Scent is conveyed to animals "on the wind" by this means.—Exchange.

No Counting There

For centuries past it has been the custom in China for parents of a baby girl to betroth her, in infancy, to the youthful son of a friendly couple, and there have been numerous cases in which the girl has not seen her husband-to-be until she arrived at the home of his parents for the marriage ceremony.

Gorilla Not Ferocious Animal Long Pictured

Apparently the gorilla has been a much maligned beast. The old stories of its ferocity must have been all wrong, for now we are told on what seems to be indubitable authority that these biggest of apes are most sensitive creatures, and that the difficulty hitherto experienced in keeping them alive when captives was due to failure to treat them with the due consideration, without which they soon die of broken hearts.

What they really want is to be loved. Without that they fall into a lethargy of despair that passes for stupidity, but when the recipients of tender and delicate attentions they reveal the intelligence to be expected of man's nearest relatives.

As Dr. Hornaday countenances these new characteristics of the gorilla nature, they cannot be ascribed to the ingenuity of overzealous press agents, as they are tempted to suspect who rather enjoyed—when at a safe distance—bearing about gun barrels broken over hairy arms, the threatening clank of monstrous teeth in preparation for attacks on lions and the beating of resonant breasts in the working of murderous rage.

But perhaps gorillas have changed and deteriorated since Du Challa's day. That bold traveler and fine writer did not see them as pretty pets for ladies or as sufferers from any angioneurosis.—New York Times.

DAVIS PUTS OFF CAMPAIGN PLANS

No Decision as to National Chairman or Headquarters Location Yet Reached.

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—When John W. Davis, democratic nominee for president, stepped into his motor car tonight for the 30-mile drive to his country home at Locust Valley, he was apparently no nearer a decision as to the choice of a national chairman or the location of the main and subsidiary headquarters for the campaign than he was yesterday morning.

Two days of discussion with party leaders—beginning for the nominee at 11 a. m. and ending near midnight—had failed to bring about a selection, or at any rate a selection that brought acceptance. Mr. Davis, in a brief meeting with newspapermen tonight, expressed regret that he could announce no settlement in regard to the most important phase of party organization. He was asked whether he favored having a national chairman and a campaign manager, combining the two offices and replied that even on that point he was not ready to express himself.

On "Visitors' List"—Daniel C. Roper of New York, Cordell Hall of Tennessee, the present national chairman; Norman E. Mack, who has been New York's national committeeman for 24 years, having just been elected for his seventh term; George White of Ohio, who directed the Cox campaign; Glen Shaver of West Virginia, and Norman H. Davis, former under-secretary of state, joined Mr. Davis before luncheon and spent most of the day with him.

Mr. Hull, who was reported to have been offered the chairmanship of the national committee for the campaign, would add nothing to his statement of last week, when he explained that he would take an active part in the campaign but probably not in the capacity of chairman. He said he had held that office for three years with hardly a day's vacation and that he wanted to have ample time to conduct his campaign for congress.

Smith Forces Favor Mack—Mr. Mack who would be more satisfactory to the supporters of Governor Smith's late candidacy, said he did not want the job of campaign manager.

The presidential nominee believed last week that the organization question should be got out of the way as early as possible in view of the delay caused by the prolonged session of the convention; and he apparently expected that the choice of a suitable and willing chairman could be arranged early this week.

Blarritz Record Broken.—The American Hifeman says that the record made at Blarritz in 1912, and regarded for more than a decade as unbreakable, was broken at the international matches of 1923, held at Camp Perry, September 18, by a squad representing the United States. The Blarritz team record was bettered 129 points by a team total of 8,501, and the record for the individual championship of the world—1,078, held by Stahl of Switzerland—was surpassed by twelve points.

Secret Tests With Phosphorous Bombs

THIS PICTURE, made months ago, has been kept as a closely guarded secret by the U. S. army air service, and has just been released for publication. When the army airmen bombed old ships that were scrapped under the disarmament treaty they used a new and deadly form of bomb—a 1,000-pound missile loaded with phosphorous, with its devastating effects. BRILLIANT ARTISTS ASSEMBLED FOR VAUDEVILLE AT ORPHEUM

A brilliant coterie of vaudeville artists have been assembled for a grand gala performance at the Orpheum theater today for one-day only.

Among the most prominent and heralded as a positive feature, are Thelma, Duveraux and Adams, offering "A Peach and a Pair," a singing and dancing revue. These people are better known as "the fastest dancers in vaudeville." They do all styles of dancing and their speed is out of the ordinary. They have that artistic finish that necessarily prevails and is part and parcel of an expert's terpsichorean education. The act is humorously governed and has beautiful scenic effects.

Haftel and Paul, a reentree comedian and a petite and winsome miss, offer a snappy comedy act entitled, "Even As You and I," consisting of songs and dances that show care in selection. The comedy is well placed and put over properly.

Cronin and Hart in "One to Fill" are a comedy couple with a penchant for fun-making. Comedy will abound in the strongest usot in vaudeville and they combine all that is witty and refreshing.

C. Chic and company—Chic, the wonder dog, is presented by Ben Carroll, who has proved that a dog possesses an almost human brain and intelligence. His impersonation of an intoxicated individual is by far the funniest laugh provoker in vaudeville and will cause unusual interest and prove a card. John Gilbert starring in his latest drama, "The Wolf Man," is an interesting picture feature.

GIRL SWIMMERS SCORE VICTORY FOR AMERICA

Feminine Contenders Mainly Responsible for Country's Showing in the Aquatic Events.

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—Upon the completion of two days of the Olympic swimming program this evening, the United States stood second in the list of 23 nations entered. Australia was first with 24 points and the United States was one point behind.

America's unrivaled women swimmers piled up 19 points in the four hundred metre swim, free style, finishing one, two, three and were mainly responsible for their country's showing, while the men failed to earn a single point in the 500 metre event, the plain high divers placing fourth and sixth to add four points to the female score.

The United States placed two men out of three in the semi-finals of the 200 metre breast stroke. John Parley, Illinois A. C., alone failing to qualify. Robert D. Skelton, Illinois A. C., and W. T. Kirschbaum, Hawaii, who finished first and second in their respective heats, will have an opportunity to defend the United States in the semi-finals Wednesday. Skelton is expected to be the best American here to defeat the Australian marvel, Andrew Charlton, and assist the American women in scoring points for the United States so that the Stars and Stripes may fly from the topmast of the municipal Olympic stadium. But Charlton, an 18 year old boy who seven weeks ago was picking eggshells and milking cows in far away Australia, said to-night, "I can swim much faster than I have done so far."

In the final of the 100 metre race, it was just a question of which of the three American women, Gertrude Ederle, Helen Wainwright or Martha Norblin, would finish first. Miss Norblin, the outsider, won; second place went to Miss Wainwright and Miss Ederle, the favorite, was placed third. Johnny Wainwright now is looked upon as the best American here to defeat the Australian marvel, Andrew Charlton, and assist the American women in scoring points for the United States so that the Stars and Stripes may fly from the topmast of the municipal Olympic stadium. But Charlton, an 18 year old boy who seven weeks ago was picking eggshells and milking cows in far away Australia, said to-night, "I can swim much faster than I have done so far."

WENDELL TAKES BALL GAME FROM EDEN NINE

Eight Runs in First Inning on Five Errors and Five Hits Pave Way for Northstars' 9-to-5 Victory.

WENDELL, July 15 (Special to the News).—Scoring eight runs in the first inning Wendell won, 9 to 5, an interesting "baseball" game from Eden on the huge field Sunday before a large crowd of fans.

Eden, Eden's moundman, was given rugged support in the opening inning, but for the remainder of the game pitched good ball, allowing but 10 hits to Vasonen's 13 and walking one as did the Wendell twirler. Both men pitched the full route.

Eden was totally at sea and decidedly off form during the first inning, but Wendell took a single run in the remaining innings. Eden did not score until the third inning, when Emerson, visiting shortstop, lined out a home run to the right field. This coupled with Johnson's triple and Maunke's double in the fourth inning helped materially with the Eden score which still was too small for four runs when the game ended. Schieweler of Wendell and Jeffries of Eden won the favor of the fans as umpires by their impartial decisions.

CHURCH LEAGUE AGAIN TO RESUME OPERATIONS

Game Between Methodists and Presbyterians Scheduled for Week-End; Hansen Game Probable Next Week.

The interchurch baseball league which has been temporarily abandoned during the recent conferences at Bellevue and other places by three of the members of the league, will be resumed next Friday evening when the Methodists meet the Presbyterians with a strengthened lineup to avenge their losses for their former defeat at the opening of the season.

A practice game between the Methodists, Christians, and in fact all members of the league present Tuesday evening opened the week, and Thursday Methodist practice will be resumed by the Presbyterian forces at 6:30 on the Lincoln field, preparatory to the game Friday.

Wednesday evening of this week will find a large number of the local fans following the Blues to Buhl and for

MOTORS BREEDS GLASS JEALOUSY LORD SUMNER TELLS SCIENTISTS

LONDON, July 15 (AP)—In the opinion of Lord Sumner the safety razor and artificial silk are two of the most striking inventions of the present day. Speaking at a recent science guild dinner, Lord Sumner said:

"The safety razor has exposed the face of man and artificial silk has revealed the legs of women. Of the motor car, I doubt if any invention has done more to sow in water, and to ripen a feeling of jealousy between classes."

The fore part of next week indications point to a game between the Hansen community team and the league leader Presbyterian squad in Twin Falls.

Flynn will probably occupy the Twin Falls mound and Paix is suggested as a Buhl possibility for the chucking position.

AIRPLANES SOW GRASS SEED
MIAMI, Fla., July 15 (AP)—One of the latest commercial uses of the airplane, which may possibly be perfected to revolutionize certain phases of agriculture, is that of sowing seed by plane, successfully being demonstrated in the suburban territory of Miami recently, where 940 acres of land were sown to carpet grass within a period of 20 minutes. For the area sown during the experiment, it was said, it would require two men hand-seeders 30 days.

BRITISH BUILD GIANT AIRPLANE TO ORBIT ABOUT THE WORLD
LONDON, July 15 (AP)—Built with a view of flying round the world, a giant air cruiser will shortly leave the works near here for trials at Southampton. Still further back are the sleeping quarters, as large as a motorboat, and gasoline is carried in two floats in sufficient quantity for a 10,000-mile trip. The plane will have a cruising speed of 80 miles an hour and a full-out speed of 100 miles.

MAILS NOW MOVE WEEKLY INTO REMOTE ALASKA
ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 15 (AP)—Residents of the Yukon river are receiving a weekly mail service for the first time since 1898, during the great gold rush of the Yukon. The Alaska Railroad has made this possible.

A train, leaves Seward, on the Gulf of Alaska of the Pacific ocean, and winds its way to Nenana, 400 miles north in the interior. At Nenana the mail is transferred to government steamers which run on a weekly schedule down the Yukon river to Fort Graham. From there the Yukon river, from there the boats ply the Yukon to Holy Cross, 400 miles from the river's mouth.

From Holy Cross the Northern Commercial company operates a fleet of launches to Nome and St. Michael on the Bering sea coast, and Inokno and Iditarod rivers in the interior.

INDIAN BOYS IN COLLEGE TRAINED FOR ARMY SERVICE
LAWRENCE, Kans., July 15 (AP)—Thirty-seven tribes of American Indians are represented in the two Kansas normal schools. The first year class at Haskell Institute here. These are said to be the only two Indian units in the United States.

Company D of the 137th Infantry was organized at Haskell three years ago. A few days later the Haskell authorities were granted permission to organize a troop of cavalry. The infantry company won out over every competing outfit in field activities at the last Kansas national guard encampment.

Three white men, instructors at Haskell, are officers in the cavalry troop. Only two white men, both officers, are connected with the infantry unit. Walter D. Owl, first lieutenant of the infantry outfit, is a full-blooded Indian and the son of a chief.

Score Victories in Rowing, Swimming, Boxing and Tennis Competitions; Yale Crew Draws Crowd.

PARIS, July 15 (AP)—The Americans are strongly entrenched today on the various fronts of the Olympic battle after notable victories today in four outstanding branches of competition. Sixteen American boxers in the opening skirmish of the battle for ring honors came off with a big share for the first day while the American tennis stars continued their victorious march through the field. Miss Helen Wills, American champion, won decisively against Mrs. Satterthwaite of England, though, Vincent Richards was compelled to give five sets to conquer the Indian Slem.

ministers for the United States, today predicted the doom of the Dawes revolt and a continued deadlock between France and Germany unless the United States representative at the coming conference of premiers in London, is instructed by the government to inform France that the United States desires that country to give up its "independent policy" in the Ruhr.

Mr. Noyes' statements are contained in a letter written by him to Charles G. Dawes, made public here tonight.

"The Dawes report can be saved only by positive official word from the American representative at the London conference," Mr. Noyes wrote. "Your new relation to the republican party entitles you to urge upon the administration, that Ambassador Kellogg at the London conference, abandon that half hearted attitude that has been imposed upon all our representatives in Europe during the past four years and state plainly to give up her independent policy and make such concessions as are necessary to get together with Great Britain in an honest and effective attempt to put into operation the Dawes plan."

ENJOY THE SUMMER

The summer, long delayed, is here. Summer is not time for politics, or any other kind of feverish exertion, and this year, Summer is a time for relaxation, for slackening the pace, for suspending strife and conserving energy and yielding to the charms of the season.

A summer of intense work, especially indoors, is hard to bear. A little less intensity and a little more outdoor recreation will make summer a time of enjoyment. Rightly managed, it should be the most enjoyable and wholesome season of the year.

Let politics take a vacation. Let business and other work, and all hard-and-fast routine, take a partial vacation. When September comes, it will be time to take up the slack, to start in again on a full-time schedule, and resume the task of saving the country. During the good old summer time this blessed country has a way of saving itself, and so has the population, when it yields to the call of blue skies and cool shade and quiet waters.

ENFORCING QUIET

The demand that unnecessary street noises be reduced is gaining strength. One community which has suffered much from the honking horns of all night motorists and from needlessly unmuffled engines has recently ordered its police to enforce the ordinance against such things arbitrarily. Other communities where ordinances exist but are not observed or where there is no legal protection against these nuisances will soon be driven to taking drastic steps.

Unrestricted noise breeds more noise. That is why the din in cities increases as the unavoidable traffic grows multiply. Yet a very little thoughtful-ness on the part of noise-makers could greatly reduce the racket. No one expects a city street with its many street cars and other vehicles to be as quiet as a country community at any hour of the day or night. Because of that very fact—the inevitableness of considerable noise—special efforts should be made to keep the confusion down to a minimum. And where courtesy and good sense fail to do this, police action should be taken.

UNIFORM LAW OF NATIONS

The International Law Committee of the American Bar association reports:

Your committee believes that not the least benefit which a Permanent Court of International Justice would confer on the nations is to give precision by judicial decision to conflicts arising from different conceptions of international rights and international duties, thus tending to secure a uniform, universal application of them.

One of the biggest needs of the world today is a system of international law that shall be as clear and definite as the police laws of an American city. There was never any real agreement about the vagary body of theories and customs known as international law before the late war, and that conflict brought still more confusion.

Leading American lawyers and judges realize that if the matter is left to chance and slow evolution, it may take centuries to develop the simple, clear and uniform code that is needed to enable the nations to do business together with a minimum of friction and live together in peace.

The World Court might greatly hasten the process. Nothing would give

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My Wife Seems to Think I'm a Character-Analyzer.

Whenever we meet any new people she always wants me to read their characters for her immediately afterward.

"What did you think of that Mr. Edwards?" she'll ask. "Gee, Thomas told me she thought he was a little crude—but what did you make of him?"

Or: "Honestly, now, Hugh, how did that Mrs. Barnos strike you? Didn't she seem awfully conceited—or do you think that was just her manner and that she's really very nice?"

All this would be very flattering if I had any psychic or mind-reading ambitions. But when my wife asks me a string of questions like this just as I'm dropping off to a late sleep, somehow I'm not in the mood for being consulted as an authority.

"Don't you think, that Fredericks would be quite good company if you got to know him better?" she queries.

"Maybe his wife could tell you," I say, trying to give the impression that I'm already asleep.

"All right, then—if you never want to talk people over—" is the last thing I hear until morning.

THE FORUM

TWO SIDES TO MOST CASES.

I felt quite as badly as A. Swanwick when my neighbor reported a bill of over $5 on the first meter reading on a 50-foot property but I thought it was possible that the meter was not working right and took it up with the water works department and an investigation was made. The fact that there is an underground pipe and a faulty toilet were responsible for the amount of water used and during this dry time when water is so precious more was being wasted than before used. Without the meter this waste would not have been discovered.

Be sure that your plumbing is in order and if your bill is still high, give the department a chance to see if they can explain why the bill is so high.

April Fool

Many attempts have been made to account for "All Fool's day" or "April Fool" day. The most satisfactory explanation seems to be the following: The Romans, on the English, changed their calendar in 1527 the year they began March 25 instead of January 1. Most all of the feast days and festivals were originally celebrated eight days. April 1 was the octave or eighth day after New Year's day, March 25. It was therefore the day on which the New Year's festival reached the highest point and ended. The Roman festival known as the "Feast of Fools" on February 17 may have influenced April Fool, because on that day the Romans also played tricks and practical jokes. The Hindus have a spring festival on March 31. Some have tried to connect "All Fool's day" with the mock trial of Christ, but this connection is probably only imaginary.

Playtime Important

It is only for the sake of the free life that material competence and knowledge of fact are worth attaining. Facts for a living creature are only instruments; his play-life is his true life. On his working day, when he is attentive to matter, he is only his own servant, preparing the feast. He becomes his own master in his holidays and in his sportive passions. Among these must be counted literature and philosophy, and so much of love, religion and patriotism as is not an effort to survive materially. In such enthusiasm there is much asseveration; but what they attest is really not the character of the external facts concerned, but only the spiritual values to which the spirit turns them.

Sheep in America

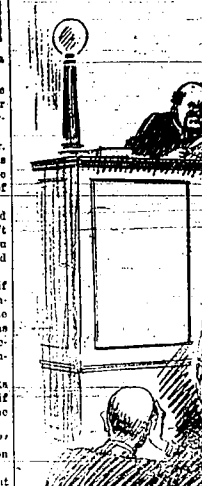

Sheep were unknown in the domesticated state in America until after the Spanish conquest. The herding of the sheep industry in the New World dates back to the time of Cortez and his conquest of Mexico in the early part of the sixteenth century. Nearly all Mexican sheep can be traced to early Castile breeds. This is also the source of the sheep in the western part of the United States. It is believed that the English colonists first brought sheep to Virginia in 1609. Originally all sheep probably came from Asia, but American breeds all sprang from stock imported from Europe.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

KINDLY SNAKES

The snakes did not talk in sounds such as we make.

Their sounds were hissing sounds, and little signs by which they had the means of speaking to each other.

But some of their talk was to be translated into the words we all know and understand.

"Curious—creatures," said Mr. Garter Snake.

"Very—curious," said Master Garter Snake.

"There are about thirty of us here together," Mr. Garter Snake continued, "and we do not quarrel. They could have any number of us here together and we would not quarrel."

"Of course we do not care for snakes of another species as our ways are different."

"But you can put any number of snakes together, the keeper says, of the same species of snakes and they will never fight."

"You could even put thirty rattlesnakes together; or dangerous cottonmouth moccasins snakes together, and they would not hurt each other, nor would they fight, nor would they quarrel."

"Yet people come to the zoo and they will have arguments with each other."

"They will talk about each other. And then they will say in no superior and proud a way."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

KINDLY SNAKES

The snakes did not talk in sounds such as we make.

Their sounds were hissing sounds, and little signs by which they had the means of speaking to each other.

But some of their talk was to be translated into the words we all know and understand.

"Curious—creatures," said Mr. Garter Snake.

"Very—curious," said Master Garter Snake.

"There are about thirty of us here together," Mr. Garter Snake continued, "and we do not quarrel. They could have any number of us here together and we would not quarrel."

"Of course we do not care for snakes of another species as our ways are different."

"But you can put any number of snakes together, the keeper says, of the same species of snakes and they will never fight."

"You could even put thirty rattlesnakes together; or dangerous cottonmouth moccasins snakes together, and they would not hurt each other, nor would they fight, nor would they quarrel."

"Yet people come to the zoo and they will have arguments with each other."

"They will talk about each other. And then they will say in no superior and proud a way."

"Ugh, look at those ugly, scolding snakes. How dreadful they are!"

"They talk about us, which is perhaps to be understood. They aren't snakes and they don't understand."

The Highgrader

It is hard to prove. One can't easily be identified.

He smiled down upon her with the easy confidence that distinguished him. "I don't think it would have run quite to a prison sentence. The best of proof lies on the accused. Because I am in possession of rich ore, it does not follow that I did not come by it legitimately. One can't be sworn to like bric-a-brac. I have shipped this in from South Africa, so far as the law knows. Bleyer has been in the Goldhanka way."

"And how would that be?"

"He would forget the law, too, just as we've done on our side. A posse of men would have fallen on me maybe after I had got out of town, and they would have been marked so that I could not swear to them."

"Why, this is highway robbery."

He laughed. "We don't use such big words out here, man. Just a hold-up—a perfectly legitimate one, from Bleyer's viewpoint—and it would have left the broke."

"Broke?"

He nodded. "Dead broke. I've got twenty thousand dollars invested in that ore—every cent I've got in the world."

"You paid that to the miners for it?"

"We pay fifty per cent of what is coming to the men as soon as a rough assay is made, the other fifty after we get the smelter returns. That wagon load of ore is worth—unless I make my guess badly—about sixty thousand dollars."

"Doesn't so much as that?"

He nodded. "So much as that? She could not quite keep a note of her own out of her voice. 'And have you it in a safety deposit vault?'"

His cool gaze took her in quietly. He was willing to bet his last dollar on her loyalty, and it was like him to back his judgment in one wild throw.

"Not exactly. It is lying in a pile of hay in my barn, all sacked up ready for shipment."

"Waiting there for anybody that wants it," she suggested.

"For anybody that wants it more than I do," he corrected, the fighting gleam in his eyes.

"I've a right to ask one thing of you—that there will be no bloodshed tonight because of what I have told you."

"There will be none of my seeking," he replied grimly.

"No, that's not enough. You must find a way to avoid it."

"By handing over my hard-earned dishonest profits to the virtuous Verinder," he asked dryly.

"I don't care how. But I won't have on my shoulders 'murder.'"

"That's a right hard word to neighbor," he said, looking again into the western drawl he sometimes used as a mark of his friendship for her. "But have it your own way. I'll not even tote a gun."

"Thank you." She gave him a brisk little nod, suddenly choked up in her throat, and turned to go.

Jack fell in a little while her. "Have I lost my little friend?" he asked.

She swallowed twice and walked on without looking at him. But every nerve of her was conscious of his stimulating pressure. Since the inner man found expression in that little body with the undisturbed flow of well-packed muscles in the spare, hard set so finely on the perfect shoulders, in the steady eyes so frank and self-reliant, surely he was not unworthy the friendship of any woman. But he had just confessed himself a thief.

What right had he to ask or she to give so much?

Her hand went out in an impetuous little gesture of despair. "How do I know? You are doing wrong, but—Oh, why do you do such things?"

"It's in my blood not to let prudence stop me when I've made up my mind to a thing. My father was that way. I'm trying in a rough way to right an injustice—and I like the excitement—and I dare say I like the loot, too." He finished with a reckless laugh.

"I wish I could show you how wrong you are," she cried in a low voice.

"I'll have the law on you fellows," he threatened, living up to the situation. "You'd look fine behind the bars, Bleyer."

"All those sacks transferred yet, Tim?" barked the superintendent.

"Yep."

"Good. Hit the trail!"

The wagon passed out of the draw toward Goldhanka. For some minutes the sound of the wheels grinding against the disintegrated granite of the roadbed came back to Jack and the two guards who remained with him.

"Hope this will be a lesson to you," said the superintendent presently. "Better take warning. Next time you'll go to the pen sure."

"Bet you a new hat that by this time tomorrow night you fellows won't be cracking your lips laughing."

"Take you. Just order the hat left at Goldhanka for the man who calls for it."

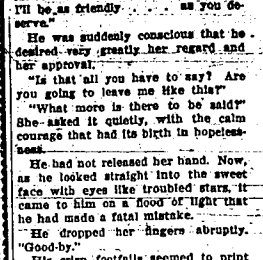

At an hour by the superintendent's watch Kilmory was held under guard. Then, after warning the highgrader not to return to town before daylight, the two men mounted and rode swiftly away. Jack was alone with his mules and his empty wagon.

WHEAT PRICES RECEDE FROM NEW HIGH MARK

Profit-taking Salsp. Unsettled and indications of rain in Canada tend to stimulate sellers.

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—Profit-taking sales of huge volume brought about a setback in wheat values today after the market had again broken all high record prices of the season. Drought reports from Canada gave the market an excited early advance, but indications of rain tended to stimulate sellers. The rate of decline was unmet, 3/4 to 1 1/2c net lower, September 12 1/2c to 12 1/2c, and December 12 1/4c to 12 1/2c, with corn 1/4 to 1/2c down, oats 1 1/4 to 1 1/2c down and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

With Winnipeg, Liverpool and Buenos Aires quotations all showing extraordinary upturns, the wheat market opened here with a tremendous surge of buying and with Canadian weather conditions eclipsing all other factors. The impetus of wholesale orders to purchase carried prices to the day's top level before the first hour of trading was at an end, but then a battle royal ensued that lasted until the final hour of the board of trade session, with fluctuations so rapid at times that blackboards above the brokers' heads failed outright to keep even with the changing changes in the pit.

One of the strongest rallies of the day in the wheat market came after reports were circulated telling of black rain in Minnesota and the Dakotas and of excessive dry weather in Montana. There were signs too that foreign buying was absorbing much of the wheat sold to realize profits. On the other hand, a collapse in the price of the September delivery of corn tended to unnerve some wheat holders, especially at the last.

Corn, like wheat, went wildly upward at first. September in particular was in eager demand from shorts and with July and December was soon at a record-breaking height. Meanwhile No. 2 yellow corn, immediate delivery, commanded $1.34, a bushel. Later, however, the corn market reflected the influence of better weather.

Oats were active and unsettled following corn, but kept within relatively narrow limits.

Provisions attained new high price records, owing to strength of cornals and of hog values, but subsequently reacted.

MURDER CHARGE TO FACE OWNER OF DEATH TRAP

Gooding County Prosecutor May File First Degree Charge Against Wood Today; Caused Boy's Death, Assertion.

Charges of first degree murder, the penalty for which is life imprisonment or death by hanging, will be filed against E. P. Wood, Hagerman valley farmer, who has confessed to having set the trap which caused the death of Roy Callahan, 21, Sunday night at 10 o'clock in Wood's cherry orchard. It was announced late Tuesday evening by M. P. Ryan, Gooding county prosecuting attorney.

"The papers will be filed in the Gooding county probate court probably today," the prosecutor said Tuesday evening, which will accuse Wood with having placed a loaded shotgun in his orchard, in which was tied a clothline so arranged that it would discharge when persons attempted to steal cherries. "He will be charged with being responsible for the charge of heavy bullet which entered the young man's face and chest and literally riddled him to pieces."

As witnesses to the death of Callahan, who is survived by a mother, Mrs. J. L. Reed of Hagerman, as well as sister and two brothers, the state will have Norman and Peyton Artchman, also of Hagerman valley, who were but a few steps from Callahan when he met his death. They will tell of seeing a flash of fire as they neared the cherry tree and of hearing the boy fall with a moan and then lie still where he fell.

Wood Explains Action.

Following a five-minute interval in which they lay prone on the ground in fright at the explosion and the death of their young son, the boys will testify of picking Callahan up, placing him in a car and taking him to the Hagerman physician where he was pronounced dead.

Wood, who is being held in the Gooding county jail, has declared to officials that the trap was placed in the orchard to secure some persons who have been stealing cherries from the 10 or 12 acre apple and cherry orchard on his place and that he was determined this should stop and used the shotgun with the rope tied to the trigger and placed between two trees as the method.

He declares that following the explosion which killed him from sleep he went out to the trap, picked up the gun and the rope and returned to the house. At the instant held at Hagerman Monday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Barlogi, who arrested Wood, is said to have declared that he went to Wood's home where he inquired about the gun and was told that it was not his own, but when a search was started one was produced from under a bed with both barrels loaded.

Surviving Callahan are his mother, Mrs. Viola Huffman of Hagerman, a sister, and George and Elmer Callahan, now in Portland, brothers. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made pending word from the brothers who have been notified of their brother's death.

Addison T. Smith Elected Director

Idaho Congressman Gets Place on Board Loan Company Vacated by Parish.

Congressman Addison T. Smith of Twin Falls was Monday evening elected to the board of directors of the Mutual Building and Loan association of Twin Falls to take the place left vacant by the resignation of W. S. Parish. The election of Congressman Smith to the board and the selection of James S. Hall as general manager of the association were the principal matters of interest at the meeting.

Congressman Smith, it is said, has been a heavy stockholder for a number of years and it was felt that he should have a place on the board. He also owns the building in which the company has its offices. Congressman Smith was written today by the general manager apprising him of the action taken by the board. At a meeting held, the latter part of last week the board accepted the resignation of E. J. Finch and elected E. A. Walters to fill his place.

With these two changes it is probable that the association board of directors, which reports a number of sales of stock made, will remain unchanged. Mr. Hall will have complete charge of stock sales. The board agreed to give Mr. Hall a guarantee on salary and a commission on stock sales.

CHURCH MEMBERS BACK FROM SUMMER OUTING

Several hundred members of the Presbyterian church from various cities of northern Idaho were in attendance at the summer conference of that church held at Bellevue which closed Tuesday, according to the report of returning Presbyterians of Twin Falls. A feature of the meeting, they declare, was the address there during the closing day of the conference by Robert Speer, secretary-treasurer and a member of the Presbyterian board.

Approximately 20 from Twin Falls attended the conference which was devoted during the mornings to classes and during the afternoons to recreational pursuits. Three classes were held each morning. These classes were for study by leaders of young people, Sunday school teachers and officials and for the young people themselves. SPORTSMEN FOR CLOSED SEASON ON GAME BIRDS

Pass Resolutions Urging Fish and Game Be Placed in Hands of Non-Political Organization.

Acting toward what they believe is the best interests of the sportsmen of the state of Idaho, Southern Idaho Fish and Game association members at a meeting held at the chamber of commerce in this city Tuesday evening, went on record as in favor of closing the season this year on songbirds and game. This was done following the reading of a communication from the state fish and game department in which it was pointed out that but a small part of the state at present had an open season on songbirds and game, and that the shortage of water this year would result in great damage being done to these game birds.

In addition to this action, the association, represented by an unusually large number present, passed resolutions unanimously toward placing the fish and game of the state under the care and protection of an organization of a non-political nature. The resolution presented by Everett Sweeley declared that the fish and game of this state is a priceless resource and only under constant guarding and care can this resource be kept intact.

For Permanent Policy.

Sale of fish and game licenses each year in Idaho, the resolution pointed out, produces a large amount of money which should be used for nothing but the care, protection and propagation of fish and game. "Such money can only be spent to fullest efficiency when devoted to carrying out a policy that will not be subject to change with each shift of the political wind," says the resolution, "which efficiency can not be expected so long as the fish and game department can be politically affected and controlled."

It is further brought forth that the future will demand more and more the obtaining and retaining of men skilled in fish and game work who can be kept so that their efforts may bring fruit, "which can not be made sure so long as a change in the political situation can result in changes in men and policies for the state."

The resolution in substance follows: "Be it resolved, that the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association authorize and instruct its officers and committee to take all proper steps to secure such changes in laws and methods as will place the fish and game resources of the state, and the funds derived from the sale of licenses, under the direction and control of some non-political body."

Favors State Organization.

With but one dissenting vote the association went on record as favoring joining the state organization known as the "Idaho State Fish and Game Protective Association." Following this action it was moved and passed that a representative be appointed by the president of the local association, W. R. Priebe, to attend the state association meeting which is to be held at Boise, July 28.

It was urged by the president that the members of the association more fully appreciate the necessity for larger membership and that each member urge sportsmen to join the situation.

Idaho's Senior Senator Tells of Closing Days in Congress; Attempt Made to Get Reclamation Relief.

Idaho's senior senator, William E. Borah, arrived in Twin Falls shortly after 10:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, accompanied by Judge Charles F. Koelsch, well-known lawyer of Boise, leaving this morning for Artesian City, where he will attend a gathering of former Kansas citizens in a celebration there today.

In an interview at the Perrine Tuesday evening shortly after his arrival, Senator Borah told of the struggle that was made by the upper house during the closing days of the last session of congress to get reclamation relief legislation passed, which would aid the settlers on the reclamation projects of the west. Attempts were made, said Senator Borah, to get this legislation passed by placing it as an amendment to the appropriation bill which congress hoped to pass before adjournment.

Even this method failed, however, through too-long discussion of parts of the appropriations bill itself and as a result the bill and its rider both failed to pass. This bill with its reclamation relief, however, will be the first matter on the calendar to be taken up after

AMERICAN LEIGON POST NAMES ITS DELEGATES

Harry J. Benoit Proposed as Next State Commander; Eight Elected to Attend Pocatello State Meeting.

Members of the Twin Falls post of the American Legion at a meeting held Tuesday night at the Elks' lodge rooms elected eight of their number to attend the state American Legion convention at Pocatello in August as delegates. Each of the delegates will have half a vote, the post being entitled to four votes at the convention. They will be instructed as to whom they shall vote for as the next state commander to succeed Paul Davis of Boise, but with the understanding that the local post is strongly in favor of the selection of Harry Benoit of the local post for that place.

It was also the understanding of the delegates that Hiley would be a favorable convention site for the next state meeting of the American Legion. Plans were also made at the meeting for obtaining 16 new members to the post by July 24, so that one more vote could be allowed the post at the state convention. The legion went on record as endorsing the boy scout movement and decided that it would purchase a flag for the local troop of boy scouts which it is sponsoring.

Delegates named to the state convention were: Harry J. Benoit, who is vice national executive committee; Ray Brown, R. P. Parry, Chester W. Wiese, Sidney H. Graves, Dr. F. E. Snook, A. Wilton-Peck and Lawrence Hodgins.

congress again goes into session and Senator Borah declared that he believed it would pass without difficulty.

Probes Clog Legislation.

The general agricultural relief bill with the McNary-Haugen bill included failed, he said, to get into the senate and at the time of adjournment was still before the house. The entire session of congress, he said, was more or less broken up with the investigations that were held.

However most of these have been closed up and will not hamper the next session. The oil investigation is practically closed and a report made. The Wheeler investigation has been closed and a report made on that. On the Brookhart investigation there is still some work to be done.

Senator Borah will be in Idaho until September, when he goes to Chicago, where he will attend a meeting of a committee of the republican party on campaign expenses. He expects to return to Idaho following that.

Senator Borah did not care to discuss politics declaring that he had nothing to say at this time. Following his return, however, in September he said he intends actively to take up work for the republican party.
