Jacob Franks to Be First Witness Against Leopold and Loeb; Defense to Fight for Mitigation of Punishment.

CHICAGO, July 22 (AP)—Finding of the degree of "moral turpitude" may be the legal problem by which will be determined the ultimate fate of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb who kidnapped and killed young Robert Franks for a thrill.

Upon the development of this question, legal experts say, will hinge whether they shall hang or go to the penitentiary. First steps in arriving at a solution of the question will be taken tomorrow when the youths, who yesterday pleaded guilty, will appear in court for a hearing preliminary to their formal sentences.

Admission of the crime by the two sons of Chicago millionaires before Judge George H. Covel, wiped out the possibility of a plea of insanity at least until after sentence has been passed. The defense asked permission to present evidence in mitigation of punishment based upon the youth of the defendants and their "degree of mental responsibility." Attorneys agreed, however, that if mental responsibility is linked in this case with the question of "moral turpitude" it will be the first such instance in the history of Illinois courts.

World Plead Insanity
Charles S. Darrow and Benjamin Bachrach, attorneys for the defense, were cryptic in their discussion of this phase of the case.

"We can go as far as we like in the presentation of insanity evidence and we probably will," Mr. Darrow said. Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, however, has declared that he will not agree to the presentation of any evidence tending to show the boys insane except before a jury. He spent today in session, loaded with last minute preparation of the statement which he expects to open proceedings tomorrow. He expects to finish his statement during the morning session and perhaps will start presenting oral testimony before adjournment for luncheon.

News Writers Gathering
The court room where will be decided the punishment to be meted out for one of the most startling and sensational crimes in Chicago's history, was given over today to reporters and wire men who were busy installing benches, telegraph circuits and seats for one of the largest assemblages of writers in the history of local courts. Harassed court attaches were kept at work issuing passes and settling disputes as to the seating arrangements. Nearly one hundred press tickets were issued.

No less than 81 witnesses will be called by the state unless the court decides that he does not need all this detail. The state will also offer about 60 exhibits, ranging from a child with which the youth was killed and the typewriter on which the ransom demands were written to the hotel registration cards filed up by Loeb in an effort to cover the tracks of Leopold.

Governor Pardons
New Mexico Editor
Held for Contempt

Executive Acts Soon After Court Passes Sentence; Plan to Liberate McGee by Force, if Necessary.

SANTA FE, N. M., July 22 (AP)—Governor J. P. Hinkle today issued a pardon to Carl C. McGee, editor of the Albuquerque Star Tribune, who earlier today had been found guilty of contempt of court by District Judge D. J. Leahy at Las Vegas, N. M., and sentenced to three months in jail. The governor had stated prior to his action that he would grant a pardon if McGee asked for it. He was advised from Las Vegas that the editor had signed a written application for pardon and dispatched Adjutant General Skiff with of the New Mexico national guard and Lieutenant A. E. Barnes to the latter city with the pardon.

Asked what might ensue if the sheriff at Las Vegas refused to honor the pardon, Governor Hinkle said that the next step would depend upon McGee's counsel. The governor said he had heard rumors of high feeling in Las Vegas and of rumored plans to attempt to liberate the editor by force if necessary.

Idaho Public Utilities Commission Orders Inquiry into Replacement Reserve.

BOISE, July 22 (AP)—The hearing before the public utilities commission on the inquiry into the Idaho Power company's financial standing regarding the reserve that has accumulated for retirement expense, has been set for September 12, it was announced at the office of the commission Tuesday. The hearing will be held in the state house.

The setting of the date for the hearing in effect grants a petition filed January 11, 1924, by the Southern Idaho Power and Light Users' association in which an order was asked for extending the inquiry into this phase of the company's valuation.

It is contended by the power users in that petition that in 1923, when the power company asked for permission to increase certain of its rates, which increase was granted by the commission, that the additional revenue brought into the company's coffers by virtue of this increase was placed in a fund to be used for replacing old equipment when it went out of use. And in its petition the association says that $250,000 was so set aside in 1923.

Illinois Governor Sends Soldiers to Mound City Where Two Negroes Are Held for Murder of Girl.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 22 (AP)—Governor Len Small tonight ordered company K, 130th Infantry of Cairo, to mobilize immediately and proceed to Mound City.

MOUND CITY, Ill., July 22 (AP)—Three negroes held here in connection with the murder this morning at Villa Ridge, Ill. of Daisy Wilson, 18-year-old girl, were taken from the Pulaski county jail late tonight by Sheriff F. J. Hudson, when crowds gathering about the jail threatened trouble. It is believed that the negroes were taken to Mound City.

All the prisoners were led from the back door of the sheriff's house which adjoins the jail and driven away in an automobile.

Despite thunderstorms the crowds continued to congregate about the courthouse and jail in which deputies armed with riot guns were stationed.

SHERIFF REMOVES PRISONERS
MURPHESHORE, Ill., July 22 (AP)—Sheriff F. J. Hudson of Pulaski county accompanied by several deputies, arrived here about 10 o'clock tonight from Mound City, Ill., with three negroes arrested in connection with the murder of Daisy Wilson, 18-year-old Villa Ridge girl. The party left immediately for Mound City, Ill., on the advice of local authorities.

RATE ATTACKED

Public Utilities Commission Makes Complaint Against Charges to Portland.

BOISE, July 22 (AP)—Formal complaint against the wheat rate from Idaho to Portland, was made Tuesday to the interstate commerce commission by the Idaho public utilities commission. It is charged in the complaint that the present rates over the line of the Oregon Short Line railroad company and the Oregon-Washington Navigation company are excessive, unjust and in violation of the interstate commerce act.

The Idaho commission asks for an order which will stop these common carriers from charging these rates and further asks that a set of rates on wheat be established that will be just and reasonable and not in excess of rates charged, according to equal distances, by other common carriers transporting the same commodity to Portland in Oregon.

Loan Problem's Solution

Ambassador Kellogg Brings Out Proposal for Guarantees for Investors After Financiers Turn Down Belgian Premier's Suggestion; Dawes Report Hinges on Outcome

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—With the interallied conference on the Dawes reparation plan not yet a week old, the American Ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg, has been called upon to play the delicate role of mediator, which all the delegations confidentially predicted would be his, sooner or later, when the statesmen opened their parleys here last Wednesday.

Mr. Kellogg's opportunity came this afternoon when the French and Belgian delegations were found to be out of harmony with the guarantees recommended by American financiers who are expected to take up a considerable portion of the 400,000,000 pounds sterling loan to Germany with which the Dawes plan is to be inaugurated.

The situation, although tense to night, is regarded by most observers as capable of amicable solution through the offices of the American ambassador and his colleagues. On one principle all the delegations seem still to be agreed—that the Dawes plan affords the only solution for Europe's ills, and that the alternative is chaos.

Accordingly, the position is one of anxiety, but not of despair, and the delegations do not regard the hitch which has occurred because of the bankers' demands for protection of the loan in the light of a crisis. It is denied that the conference, which has made such remarkable progress during the first six days, will yet find way for the restoration of the accord which characterized its earlier decisions.

Thémis Advances Plan
When it was finally determined at the meeting of the allied finance ministers with the American and British bankers that the safeguards unanimously agreed to by the commission on conditions and details respecting the German loan were considered sufficient by the financiers, Premier M. Thémis of Belgium is understood to have advanced the first alternative. Mr. Thémis proposed that a German default, which the first report stated might be adjudged by the reparation commission, could be declared by that commission, only after consultation with five members of the Dawes committee, who would act in an advisory capacity. This is understood to have proved wholly unsatisfactory to the American bankers.

Deals With Sanctions
Then it was that Ambassador Kellogg's alternative proposal was brought forward. It is not concerned with the declaration of a German default, but deals entirely with the manner of application of sanctions to Germany. It proposes that sanctions may not be applied until recommendations for default have been made by the agent general of reparations and the bankers' trustee, and association by five members of the Dawes commission, who would be called in. Then the question of sanctions would be put to the reparations commission and if there was a unanimous vote in favor of sanctions all the allies would join in imposing them.

The hitch seems that the possibility of the reparations commission's vote not being unanimous; the question would then arise as to whether the nations voting in favor of sanctions would take them, or whether they should be held back by the nations which voted against the taking of penalties.

A faction of Ambassador Kellogg's plan is calling in five of the experts who aided General Dawes to work out his reparations scheme.

INJURED COLLEGE HEAD
ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Dr. Henry Louis Smith of Washington and Lee University, Hurt in Auto Accident in Yellowstone, Improving

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., July 22 (AP)—The condition of Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va., was reported improving late today by attending physicians. Dr. Smith is in a hospital here as a result of injuries he sustained in an automobile accident Friday morning. He suffered concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries when the automobile day in which he was traveling west over an embankment about 20 miles from Rock Springs. It was said at the hospital today that the concussion was not serious and that Dr. Smith was resting comfortably. His speedy recovery was predicted unless looked for some complications develop. The condition injured at that time, but several days of Dr. Smith's young son, Opel, also an active strike leader who was arrested in connection with the explosion are now serving sentences for the crime.

STONE OPPOSES
MOVE TO MODIFY
PACKER DECREE

Attorney General Prepares to Defend Ruling Preventing "Big Five" from Extending Operations to Other Fields.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Attorney General Stone has given instructions that any effort to modify the consent decree taken during the Wilson administration against the "big five" Chicago packers should be vigorously resisted. This was made known today in a statement which the attorney general had sent to the packers, who have been refused to make known his views on the dispute, which is subject to a recent correspondence.

The attorney general has observed that it was indicated that counsel for some of the packers planned an "onslaught" on the consent decree entered in the District of Columbia supreme court by which the packing business was divorced from all other lines of effort in which the packers were engaged.

Prepares to Fight
With this knowledge, Mr. Stone immediately ordered his subordinates to prepare to fight "and to hold onto the ground gained" unless the court to have advanced the first alternative. He has told department officials that the government's position is "perfectly obvious," and believes that the public interest requires that the department fight any attempt to reopen the dispute.

Information in the hands of the department appeared to indicate, it was said, that some of the packers proposed to ask modification of the consent decree on the ground that they had not admitted culpability in agreeing to the decree and the court, therefore, was without jurisdiction in the case when the facts had not been adjudicated.

Three Men Held in Connection With Alleged Conspiracy to Blow Up Labor Commissioner and Owners.

HONOLULU, July 22 (AP)—Three leaders of the Philippine sugar plantation strikers were arrested on open charges here today in connection with an alleged conspiracy to dynamite the home of Cayetano Ligot, Philippine labor commissioner, and to send an explosive bomb through the mails to the offices of the Hawaiian sugar planters association.

The men arrested were Cirilo Hoya, Mr. Hoya's brother, and Patricia Belva, but Hoya was released. The Philippine labor commission has reported improving late today by attending physicians. Dr. Smith is in a hospital here as a result of injuries he sustained in an automobile accident Friday morning. He suffered concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries when the automobile day in which he was traveling west over an embankment about 20 miles from Rock Springs. It was said at the hospital today that the concussion was not serious and that Dr. Smith was resting comfortably. His speedy recovery was predicted unless looked for some complications develop. COOLIDGE WILL REMAIN ON JOB IN WASHINGTON

President's Participation in Coming Campaign to be Limited to Few Speeches and Involves No Tour.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Participation by President Coolidge in the national campaign is expected to be limited to less than a dozen speeches and to involve no extended campaign tour.

This announcement was made today at the White House and emphasized a previous statement by Wm. M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, that there had been no change in the original plan for Mr. Coolidge to stay on the job in Washington.

Developments during the campaign may cause an alteration in the present plans for the president's campaign activities but it now is the strong belief of Mr. Coolidge as well as Mr. Butler and other leaders that executive duties must receive first attention and campaign requirements be relegated to a secondary place. Such a position is expected by republican leaders to recommend itself generally to the American people regardless of political affiliation.

Radio to Play Part

Definite plans, such as dates and places for the addresses to be made by Mr. Coolidge have not been formulated although the subject was discussed at last night's conference between the president and Chairman Butler. Some of the addresses probably will be made by radio from Washington but it will be the plan for the president to deliver several out of town addresses after September 1 and before election day.

One address, probably the most important the president will make, will be delivered at the dedication ceremonies here August 14. Mr. Coolidge also has an engagement to speak at the dedication here early in October of the First Division monument and he then probably will make his only address of the campaign to a soldier audience. No other dates or places for addresses have even been tentatively agreed upon.

Dawes' Plans

Arrangements for the speaking activities of Charles G. Dawes, the republican vice-presidential candidate, have not been definitely made, but Mr. Butler left Washington late today for Chicago to confer with Mr. Dawes and to reconvene the national headquarters of the party which have been established in that city. He chairman will not return to Washington until just before the notification ceremonies for Mr. Coolidge but may visit the newly established eastern headquarters at New York in the meantime.

Mr. Butler, before leaving Washington, gave out a statement in which he said he regarded the campaign as really opened, that the republicans were ready to wage the contest either on the basis of personality of candidates or on party record and pledges; that a branch headquarters probably would be established in the west and that the republican campaign managers were planning a contest in which all the people might have a part and which would seek to stir the stay-at-home vote out of its apathy.

The location of the western headquarters had not been decided on when Mr. Butler left here. Announcement also was made that a speaker's bureau would be established in the eastern headquarters at New York to handle the speaking campaign in the eastern states.

Nation-Wide Campaign

The national chairman again stressed his declaration that the republicans would conduct a nation-wide campaign. "The American people as a whole have already achieved their own understanding of President Coolidge," he said, "his program of economy, of taxation reduction, of efficiency nationwide in its appeal. We do not have to shade or modify it to meet any sectional situation."

"As matters stand, our friendly enemies desire to make this, as some of them have said, a campaign based on the personality of the candidates. We will be ready. If they desire to have the election on pledges or party records we will not be disturbed."

Broadcasting of the republican and democratic conventions Mr. Butler said, has given the people a more direct interest in the campaign than they ever have had.

Sees Unusual Interest

"As a result there is more sober serious thinking of the campaign as something vitally connected with the prosperity of the nation rather than merely a contest for office between candidates," he added. "This largely explains the extraordinary number of letters which I have received from citizens, who in the past have regarded politics as an incident; who are now acting forth their desire to aid in our campaign and who stand ready to serve."

"I have considered this so important that I have already advised our national committeemen, our state chairmen, and all associated in the campaign management that I am particularly anxious they should encourage in every way the participation of the people in the actual campaign activities."

Origin of "Simon Pure"

In Mrs. Centilire's comedy, "A Bold Stroke for a Wife" (1717), Simon Pure is the name of a Quaker who is impersonated by another character during part of the play. We say "the real Simon pure," meaning the real, genuine or authentic thing or person. As an adjective it means authentic, genuine, real.

The Mysterious Package

THE auctioneer shows a package. In a raucous voice he cries: "In my hand I have an article of value. At any store, anywhere, you couldn't buy it under a dollar. . . . I'll tell you what I'll do . . . The first lady or gentleman who hands me a quarter gets this valuable package. Now who'll give me a quarter?"

If you are in a good humor you may risk a quarter. You don't expect a quarter's worth, and you are not disappointed.

That's all very well once in a while. But you don't want to buy household goods, food, clothes, in this blind fashion. You'd laugh at the idea of your accepting a wrapped package and paying good money for it when it came to every-day necessities.

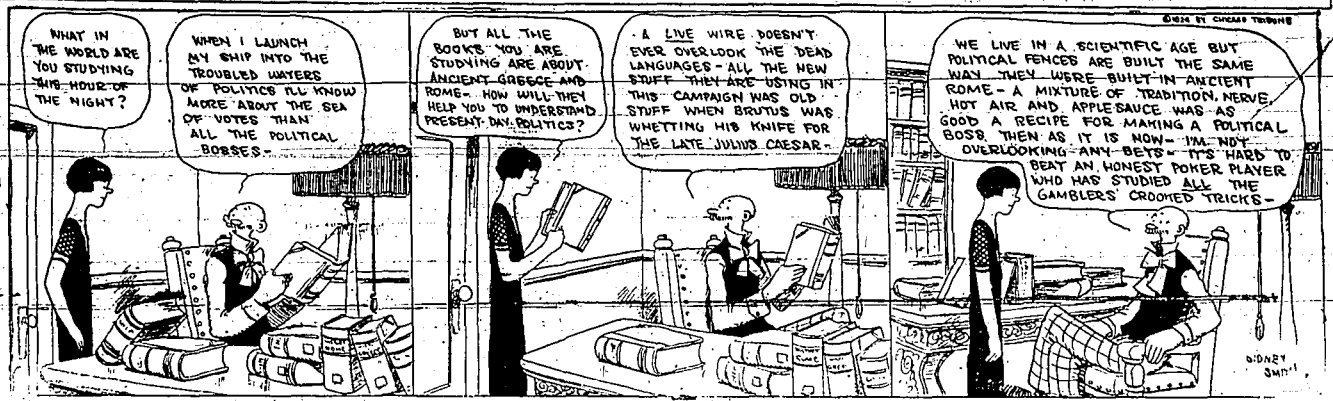

Yet you do. For example, when you buy some well-known breakfast foods. Of course you have a general idea what is in it. But you don't investigate the quality. You don't break open the package to see the contents.

That is what advertising does for you. It protects you against inferior products. You know that an advertiser must keep faith with the promise in his advertisement. That is why it pays you to read the advertisements. When you buy a wrapped package of advertised goods, you are not buying blindly.

Only worthy products can stand the test of advertising.

BIBLE STUDENT RAPS OBV LAW

Judge Rutherford Would Eradicate Evil by Removal of Desire for Drink.

COLUMBUS, July 22 (AP)—Prohibition was assailed as "a scheme of the devil himself" and a wrong influence upon our country by Judge J. F. Rutherford, president of the International Bible Students association, here Tuesday.

"It is impossible to reform men of any evil by mere legislation," Judge Rutherford, who is attending the international convention of the association, declared, adding that it is "only by an appeal to reason and the teaching of righteousness that the desire of alcoholic drink may be overcome." "I am not in favor of the use of liquor," he said, "but I believe that man should have the liberties with which Jehovah endowed him. I do not believe in men getting drunk but it is not my business to tell them that they can't have liquor. When they become endowed with the spirit of righteousness they will not care for it."

Although he said that he believed prohibition had not been effectual and "we see more drunken men now than ever before, due to the effects of bad liquor," Judge Rutherford predicted that eventually enforcement laws will be effective due to the disappearance of the desire for alcoholic beverages.

Falls of Millstream. The more than ten thousand persons attending the convention of the association continued their studies of the Bible and discussions of the doctrinal beliefs. These include the conviction that the dawn of the millennium will come within the lifetime of the present generation—perhaps within the next 20 or 25 years.

Elaborating on the slogan of the organization—"Millions That Now Live Will Never Die," speakers today declared that with the coming of the new era, righteousness will be universal, deaths will cease and happiness will prevail throughout the world. The change will be a gradual one, it was said, and had its inception with the beginning of the world in 1914, when it became apparent that the scriptural prediction of angered nations going to war and the prevalence of revolution, pestilence and death was being fulfilled.

Pearls in History

Few jewels have played a more conspicuous part in history than the pearl. It was a drop of dew swallowed by the oyster, while the American savages believed that it was made of sunbeams and petrified dewdrops. The manner in which the real jewel is born is anything but poetic. A grain of sand irritates the sensitive oyster and the mollusk proceeds to smooth it by depositing around it layer after layer of the nacre with which its shell is lined. In the South Kensington museum there is a pearl two inches deep and two and a half inches in diameter. Think of the long process and the discomfort of the creature which produced it.

Electrocution Used in 1749.

Death by electrocution is considered a comparatively modern invention, yet Benjamin Franklin used it nearly one hundred years ago. In 1749 Franklin wrote a friend: "A turkey is to be killed by electric shock, and roasted for our dinner by the electric jack before a fire kindled by the electric bottle." The "electric jack" referred to was an electrostatic motor strong enough to rotate an iron rod passed through a turkey prepared for cooking, says a writer in the Mentor.

Migration of Rats.

The date of introduction of the rat into America is very doubtful, but the black or Alexandrine rat seems to have come first and was gradually driven westward by the larger rodents. The black rat found its way to Europe about the beginning of the sixteenth century, but the brown rat did not reach England until about 1724.

CLOVER—One sees few good gardens in this locality. Most of the beans, tomatoes and cucumber plants are taking the blight. The other vegetables are doing nicely as we have had plenty of water thus far.

A crowd of young folks enjoyed a party at the W. Lueders home Thursday evening, the occasion being the sixtieth birthday anniversary of Martin Lueders. Light refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Lueders, at the close of a pleasing evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bocher and family from Twin Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Koster and Hazel Williamson were Thursday evening visitors at the A. L. home. Gertrude Bocher remained to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Martens and son Donald returned home Friday evening from Spokane. They were accompanied by Mrs. J. Gihring and Harold of Twin Falls who stayed at the A. List home until Saturday evening.

The Rev. W. Dornenfeldt returned Friday from Spokane where he attended a week of pastoral conference.

Emil Wogner occupied the pulpit of the Clover church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Meyer entertained the following guests at dinner Sunday: The Rev. Dornenfeldt and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Jagels and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Martens and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lutz and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. List and Ted and Walter Gihring.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klunder of Twin Falls were Clover visitors Sunday.

H. C. and J. B. Rehke fished at Roseworth Friday returning with a good catch of trout.

Chicken thieves are reported to have been unweakened callers in our vicinity several nights last week.

Writing in Baffin Land.

The natives of Baffin Land had no system of writing until recently, when a Canadian missionary invented for their benefit a species of phonetic writing. Each character represents a syllable, hence no spelling is required. This curiously simple system was quickly mastered by the Baffin Landers, who now freely write letters to their friends and hand them over for delivery to any one taking a journey in the desired direction. The letters always reach their destination, one way or another, for the postman invariably reads them at his first sleeping place. In this way, if the letter itself happens to get lost the carrier delivers the message by word of mouth.

Length of Twilight.

Twilight is daylight which continues after sunset. Light is reflected from the upper air till the sun is about 18 degrees below the horizon, but the length of twilight depends a great deal upon the condition of the atmosphere. In low latitudes, mostly on account of the quickness with which the sun traverses the 18 degrees below the horizon and because of the transparency of the atmosphere, there is little twilight. On the other hand, in latitudes higher than 43 degrees, twilight at certain times of the year lasts from sunset to sunrise.

BLUES FAVORED FOR COMEBACK IN BUHL GAME

Batting of Club Strengthened and Flynn Is in Shape to Go Distance to Avenue Defeat by West Enders.

With Pitcher Tom Flynn in excellent shape and ready to show at his best in the mound, Manager McGraw has turned the Blues back to the field to meet the fast Buhi baseball nine at the local park beginning promptly at 5:30 o'clock this evening. Buhi took the first game from Twin Falls, 12 to 8, at Buhi just a week ago, after hitting heavily and several times losing the game in the vast majority of the innings. Since that time, however, McGraw has strengthened his club in hitting power, and with Flynn really in shape to go the full distance local dopsters have it that the contest should be a tossup with the Blues on the favored end if the break goes their way.

Shows Fighting Spirit

Flynn showed better against American Falls last Sunday than at any time since coming to Idaho. He was hit infrequently during the early part of the game, but once his support formed behind him he let the visitors down scores. The American Falls boys accumulated a 7-to-0 lead in five innings, which meant nothing to the youthful southpaw. He encouraged the natives in the successive following batting rallies much as they often encourage the twirler, and slowly the Blues counted up in the score column until in the beginning of the ninth the battle was even. With a man on third and the most dangerous of the visiting suckers at bat he tightened the reins, a strikeout, after which Watson of Twin Falls made good his turn at bat with a hit and the winning run.

The Twin Falls southpaw has a record of improving his showing in successive games against the various teams he has faced. He studies batters and profits on the latter part of a game is always better than during the earlier stages. Buhi, last Wednesday, knocked him from the box before he got his bearings. Once before, with St. Mary's, against a great California university nine, Flynn was knocked from the mound and he came back two weeks later with a shutout against the same team.

Offers Strongest Nine

Cosgriff will open against Buhi with the strongest nine he has placed in the field this season. Bob Whitlow, considered the fastest first baseman in 16 years of baseball at Twin Falls, will be back in the lineup at the initial crack. His hitting and base running ability as well as his work in the field should go a long way toward holding the Buhi Grays down.

Barlogi, who played first base Sunday, will likely take a position in the field, due to his hitting strength. Manager Cosgriff has considerable trouble in selecting his outfield, with Selley, Ostrander, Rix, Putzier and Barlogi to choose from. Rix, who has been out of the lineup for some time, may also appear again this afternoon.

Against American Falls Sunday the Blues demonstrated the most consistent scoring power shown during the present season. With a hopeless lack of earning eight runs before they got out to work and followed each other at bat with base hits, knocking the sensational chucker, Phillips, from the box, as well as Ecklund, who followed him. A similar showing against Buhi might win for the locals.

Richardson Behind Plate

Richardson as usual will play behind the plate for the Blues. Mullins, whose stick work has improved exceptionally in the last two games, will continue at second, with Watson at third and Lehr as short.

Buhi has increased the strength of the fast Gray team since last Wednesday, adding some foreign talent. The faux brothers will probably make up the battery, though Boston may twirl again against the Blues. Kavan, who cleaned up the bases with a homer in the game last Wednesday, will again play at first. At other positions the Grays will line up as usual with the exception of two added stars in the outfield.

The terminal city players, it is said, are backed by a flock of fans ready to wager everything except the town hall on the outcome of the game, but Cosgriff now believes his nine is ready to meet them on an even basis.

All Were Rotten

The foreman of a Lathseville mill instructed one of the hands to test the incandescent gas mantles in the wearing sheds and find out how many required re-boring. Eventually, he returned to report that 97 new mantles were required. "What?" exclaimed the foreman. "Why, we've only got 97 lights altogether." "Well, I tried 'em all," said the lad; "and every one I squeezed was rotten and fell to bits."

PRESBYTERIANS REMAIN UNDEFEATED IN LEAGUE

Martin and Golden Struggle for Pitching Honors; Methodists Losers in 5-to-1 Contest.

The Presbyterians won from the Methodists with a score of 5 to 1 in an interesting five inning inter-church league baseball game on the Lincoln lot Tuesday evening before a gradually growing crowd of fans.

The Presbyterians pressed into service Art Golden, a former University of Idaho player.

Pitching honors, however, were quite evenly divided between Golden and Eddie Martin, Methodist twirler.

The Presbyterians drove out four hits from Martin's pitching while the Methodists were awarded three from Golden's hurling.

Earned runs for both teams totaled one for each and the story of the Presbyterian victory lies in the fielding.

Two errors were chalked up against the Calvinists while the Dinkenecker cohorts are credited with four mistakes.

The Methodists were scoreless until the last inning when with two men out Farrar drove out a two base hit to right field and scored when Martin singled.

DEMPSEY'S HURTS NOT OF PERMANENT NATURE

Doctor Says Fugitt's Physical Condition Principal Reason for Complete Recovery of Arm.

LOS ANGELES, July 22 (AP)—Jack Dempsey's right arm with which he punched his way to the world's heavyweight championship, dislocated at the elbow in an automobile accident Sunday night, likely will be slow in getting back to normal, but it will come back, according to a statement today by Dr. Clair Wilson, the fighters chief medical attendant.

Besides the injured elbow, Dempsey, according to his physician, also is suffering from strained ligaments in the back near the neck, and cuts and abrasions on the legs and hands.

The champion's perfect physical condition will be the principal reason for a complete recovery, Dr. Wilson said.

"Dempsey's recuperation will be an extraordinary thing," Dr. Wilson said. "The body that is kept in perfect condition at all times," the doctor declared.

ORDERS ABANDONMENT OF PITTSBURGH PLUS SYSTEM

Federal Trade Commission Orders United States Steel Corporation to Drop Price Fixing Methods.

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—The federal trade commission today ordered the United States Steel Corporation to abandon the Pittsburgh plus system of determining the price of steel.

The commission held to be an unfair method of competition to the system by which the corporation and its subsidiaries quote prices on rolled steel manufactured by and shipped from their plants outside Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh-base price plus an amount equivalent to what the freight charges would be from that city. The practice thus was found to be a violation of the federal trade commission act, and further to constitute a means of price discrimination in violation of the Clayton act.

It adds $20,000,000 a year to the cost of steel to farmers in eleven western states, the commission declared.

Commissioner Gaskill filed a dissenting opinion in which he held the commission to be without authority to prohibit the steel corporation, operating its several plants within the law, from maintaining the same price at all its plants. While not specifically disapproving with the commission's findings, as to the effect of the Pittsburgh plus system, he declared the "law does not require absolute freedom of competition," nor "does the law enjoin observance of sound economic principles."

Would Re-Name Opala

Though Opala are much admired and are commonly worn in this country, there is a popular superstition in Europe and other parts of the world that these beautiful stones are unlucky and bring misfortune to the owner. For that reason South Australia is seeking to export this product under another name, "jetolids," after the Greek word for rainbow.

Legendary City

Camelot is a legendary city in Great Britain, famous in the time of King Arthur. Brewer in his Reader's Handbook, says that there are two Camelots—the one referred to in King Lear being in Cornwall, and the one of Arthurian renown in Winchester, where visitors are still shown certain large intrenchments once belonging to King Arthur's palace. In some places, even in Arthurian romance, Camelot seems the city on the Camel, in Cornwall. This, when the Teutons left Tutag to go to Ireland, a tempest "drove him back to Camelot."

FEATURE ATTRACTIONS IN ORPHEUM VAUDEVILLE BILL

Another tornado of furious fun and novelties with two feature attractions Arthur Morin and company, and George Stanton and girls in a merry melange of drollery and sprightly melody and dance revues will be seen at the Orpheum theater today, one day only.

Arthur Morin and Company offers "The Jungleville Junction," a ruby ventriloquist production which is far above the usual standard of such acts and comes with a high-class reputation for novelty and merit introducing seven different characters with special scenery and effects.

George Stanton and girls, the added attraction in "All-Around-Dance Revue" present many styles of classy snappy dances and are without exception the nono trio out of the many who can claim grace, ability and speed. The act is greatly enhanced by beautiful scenery and stage effects. "Jungleville Junction" will be seen in "The Happy Sap," a comedy and musical offering, replete with comedy situations and sayings dovelighted with dancing and musical selections. Art Phillips appears in "The Merry Entertainer" with his bag of novelties. As you possess a good voice and a personality all his own and as an entertainer he has it all over many of his competitors. The feature picture with Harry Carey, in "Grashin" Through, is a romance of the west from the noted magazine story.

TIME FOR COAL BARGAINS

Summer is really here. We know it because the United States Department of Commerce is issuing its annual appeal to the public to buy its coal now. Of course the consumer is buying less now and turning his bank account inside out to take care of the family vacation, but nevertheless he'd gladly buy coal if he could get what he wants at a reasonable price.

The consumer has heard many times that the storage of coal in the summer for winter use benefits himself, the coal producing industry and the nation's transportation agencies. He'd greatly enjoy being such a general benefactor.

Now when the railroads and the mines and the retail coal dealers please take note that this is the time for mid-summer bargains in coal!

AVOID THIS PIT

Arthur W. Cutton, credited with having made a couple of million lately out of grain speculation in Chicago, advises others to avoid the grain pit.

"If I had a son," he says, "I wouldn't let him touch it with a ten-foot pole."

When asked why he takes this attitude, when he has been speculating in the grain market all his life and has made a fortune out of it, he says:

"Because there are so many wrecks down there in the pit. People call them brokers. They are only part of that—the 'broke' part."

"Not more than ten per cent of the men who go into grain ever remain. The others just divide away. The Lord knows what becomes of them. And the ten per cent are mostly the broke brokers. They know the game and out, but they can't trade for themselves. They lose their nerve when they're handling their own money. So they just trade for others on a salary. That's as far as they ever get, and they haven't got a dollar."

It is much the same, as honest and experienced speculators will testify, with the stock market.

Mr. Cutton's recent success, no doubt, will raise a new crop of grain and stock gamblers. Every speculator will go broke, just about as Mr. Cutton warns them.

That moralist himself may go broke yet, and probably will. The history of speculation shows that even the highly successful ones, seemingly favorites of fortune, nearly always eventually—Tom Lawson is one of them. Gambling winnings, somehow, have a way of slipping through the fingers. Only earned money sticks and brings lasting benefit to its owner.

THE WAR ROCKET

Count that day best, in these piping times of peace, which falls to bring announcement of a new war weapon. The latest starter is a "winged incendiary rocket." It is the invention of an Englishman. He says it will spread a rain of molten metal over a wide area, after the manner of the umbrella-shaped fire thrown out by our Fourth of July rockets, though less pleasant. What the molten metal will do to buildings and people may be imagined. Preliminary tests are said to have given "satisfactory results."

Added to dynamite shells, poison gas, liquid fire, the "death ray" and deadly disease germs scattered by bombs from airplanes, this should provide any modern Christian nation with every satisfactory means of taking care of compelling respect from its neighbors.

But this can not be the last word.

My Wife Makes Engagements for Us

Weeks Ahead.

"Tell you what let's do tomorrow," I'll say to her some Saturday, "let's go out to see Ned and Mary. We have not been there for a long time."

"I'm sorry, dear," she replies, "but I promised Alice and her mother that we'd come over and play tennis with them tomorrow."

"All right, then," I say, "but let's go out and see Ned and Mary next Sunday."

"But don't you remember, Hugh," she inquires with lithe cynicism, "that I told you that I'd arranged to go on a picnic with the Evans' a week from tomorrow?"

I don't know whether it is just a peculiarity of mine, but this business of being all scheduled ahead gets on my nerves. It cramps my free will and the old self-determination and a lot of things like that.

I might as well put my Saturdays and Sundays in the hands of a booking agency—engagements eight weeks ahead!

Tomorrow—My Husband Stops to Talk to People on the Street.

With the best scientific brains of the world enlisted in such competition, we may anticipate still more admirable means of slaughter and devastation, until it occurs to the race to use its best brains to devise constructive means of war prevention.

Hanged Men for Burglary.

Only 100 years ago men were hanged for burglary in the Detroit city of Detroit, the Detroit News discloses. May 15, 1785, William Scott and Thomas Archibald were hanged for burglary on Boston common. The Supreme Judicial court September 9, 1787, sentenced one burglar to be hanged—five female thieves and four men to be whipped; two big thieves to stand in pillory and have his right ear cut off. November 22 John Sheen was hanged on the common for burglary of the house of Mr. Elliott.

Hungarians Own This Town.

Huntersville, Ky., is one American town founded and entirely by Hungarian immigrants and their children. It is the seat of a coal-mining enterprise where every resource and process, from the underground veins to the town hall, are owned by the Hungarians who have come to the town. The coal company of stock in the Illinois Coal and Iron Co. may be either an American citizen or one who has taken out this first citizenship papers. Only permanent settlers who know the country and have adopted it as their own, are desired.

Mercy for Friend and Foe

As truly as the ancient adage declares the world is the show upon the earth, the Lord knows what becomes of them. And the ten per cent are mostly the broke brokers. They know the game and out, but they can't trade for themselves. They lose their nerve when they're handling their own money. So they just trade for others on a salary. That's as far as they ever get, and they haven't got a dollar.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

Mary Graham Bonner

MRS. SCREECH OWL

"I've always thought it a pity," said Mrs. Screech Owl to her dear mate, "that they called you a screech owl instead of calling you some name such as Melody Owl."

"To me your melody is very beautiful. It sounds like the wild and wonderful woods at night. It has a beautiful tremble about it."

"And oh, you sing as though you so loved me. That makes me think it is so beautiful."

"Ah, Mrs. Owl," said Mrs. Screech Owl, "to you my song is beautiful because you love me. And it is like there is some of the great great things in the world which love you think we have."

"But Mr. Screech Owl," said Mrs. Owl, "I have heard others say the same."

Sometimes when we have been sitting here with our eyes half shut and our feathers close to our bodies so that we look so much like the part of the gray-brown bark of the tree, I have heard people talk, and they did not know I was here in the tree.

"I shouldn't wonder but what you too, have heard these speeches, but you are too modest to repeat them."

"Yes, I have heard that others think your voice is really very musical."

"They think it is a bit strange at first, a trifle wild, a little unusual, but they think, too, there is beauty in your song."

"It seems to me it is the most wonderful song in the world. Other birds sing pretty little songs, but your song is so different."

"It trembles forth through the trees and the woods and its long, drawn-out, marvelous notes are to me so glorious."

"You sing with such earnestness, too. Oh, you should never have been named screech owl even if you can screech if you want to—no, with your beautiful voice you should not have been named screech owl."

Mr. Screech Owl smiled at his mate and his eyes looked very big and handsome.

"I want you to like my singing. That is why I sing as I do—will so much earnestness as you say."

"I wanted you to share my home with me. Together I knew we would be."

"That is why I sing with all my power. And now that we are mates, I still want you to think my voice is nice and so I sing my song to you on the summer evenings."

"What does it matter if there are many who say it makes the shivers go up and down their backs to hear me?"

"You like it—and that is enough."

for me.

"I feel satisfied. But yet again I want to feel sure you will continue to like it."

"So I sing on and on, often far into the night."

"But let us have a nice dinner now. What do you say, Mrs. Owl?"

"It seems to me a nice dinner would be excellent for us."

Mrs. Owl agreed to this.

But as she went forth with Mr. Screech Owl she could not help saying to herself again and again:

"He shouldn't have been named Screech Owl. His voice is thrilling, that is what it is."

And that satisfied Mr. Owl. If she liked his song of love and devotion to her what did he care if there were people in the world who said it made the creepies go up and down their backs?

What did he care about their backs? Nothing, absolutely nothing at all!

Riddles

Why did the chicken run? Because it saw the fox!

Why are eggs unlucky? Because they often get bent.

Which plants would you expect to see constantly moving? Hops.

What makes the sea angry? Because it is crossed so often.

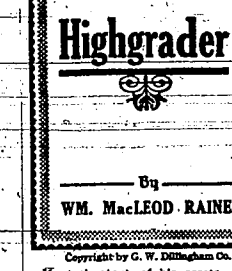

Which vowel has the jolliest time? U, because it is always in the midst of fun.

What are they which are full all day and empty at night, but which do not eat? A pair of shoes.

The Highgrader

By Wm. MacLeod Raine

Copyright by G. W. Dillingham Co.

He took stock of his assets. Fortunately he had bought at a lunch counter a ham sandwich to stay his appetite during the night trip. This was still in his pocket, badly mashed but still edible. Five cigars were in the case he carried and upon his person all he had found eleven matches. A little trickle of water ran through the tunnel and gave assurance that he would not die of thirst. His pocket-knife was a serviceable one and he had plenty of physical strength.

Jack decided that he would eat half of the sandwich that day and reserve the rest for the second one. His cigars were precious luxuries to be indulged in once every twenty-four hours after he had knocked off work.

He attacked the cave-in with the cool energy that characterized him. Out of a place of board he fashioned a kind of shovel with his knife. Bits of broken timbering lay at the foot of the shaft. These he dragged into the tunnel for fuel to feed a small fire which he built to give light for the work. All through the night and till noon the following day he dug among the fallen rocks and dirt, cleaning his debris away after he had loosened it with his bare hands.

The impact of the fall when he had been thrown down the shaft had jarred him greatly. With the slightest movement of the body his back and shoulders ached, sending shoots of pain in protest to his brain. The sprained ankle he had bound tightly in a wet towel, but every time he stepped on it he felt a sharp pain.

At noon he crawled back to the foot of the shaft. He was fagged to exhaustion. For half an hour he lay stretched on his back with every muscle relaxed.

Precisely he cut from his coat the pocket that contained the matches and divided the flash of ham and bread into two parts. One of these he ate. The other he returned to the coat.

Favoring his rickety ankle as best he could, Jack climbed the wall ladder to the ledge upon which he had found himself lying the previous night. Five minutes' rest on the floor of the shaft showed him that there was no chance to reach the top of the shaft unaided. He tested the jammed timbers to make sure they were secure before he put his weight upon them. During the next six hours he crawled along every foot of the tunnel to attract the attention of anyone who might chance to be passing near.

Toward evening he treated himself to his first cigar, making the most of the comfort that it gave him. When the stub grew short he held it on the small flames of his knife so as not to miss a puff. What was left he munched in a pocket handkerchief for later use.

As the stars began to come out he saw just above his prison Jack lowered himself again to the foot of the shaft. Here he lay down a second time and within five minutes had fallen into a deep sleep.

About midnight he awakened and was aware of once of a ravenous hunger. He was still resolute to win a way out, though the knowledge pressed him that his chances were slender at the best. Till morning he worked without a moment's rest. The fever in his ankle and the pain of the sprain had increased, but he could not afford to pay any attention to them. Blood from his scarred, torn hands ran down his wrists. Every muscle in his abused body ached. Still he stilled with the tunnel and still he pulled great rocks back with his shovel.

All his life he had fought for his own hand. He would not let himself believe fate had played so scurvy a trick as to let him fall into a tomb closed so tightly that he could not pry a way out.

When his watch told him it was eight o'clock he staggered to the shaft again and lay down on his back to rest. Before reaching the platform above he finished the sandwich. It was very hungry and could have eaten enough for two men had he been given the opportunity. Again for hours he crawled every few minutes at the top of his voice:

In his vest pocket were a pencil and a notebook used for keeping the record of the highgrader's work with whom he did business. To pass the time he wrote down the "history" of the time he had spent in the tunnel, and his efforts to save himself.

After darkness fell he let himself down to the foot of the shaft and slept. Either from hunger or from fever in his ankle he slept brokenly. He was conscious of a little daylight of midnight found him master of himself, though a trifle light-headed.

It was impossible to stay so steadily as he had done during the two previous nights. Hunger and pain and toll were doing their best to wear out his strength. His limbs moved lazily. Once he fell asleep in the midst of his labor. He dreamed so near that he was in prison. "The Moys, and after he was released," he presently dreamed, "he seemed to me that it would scarce have surprised him if in the darkness his hands had come in contact with the soft flesh of her vivid face. Nor did it strike him as at all odd that it was Moys and not Joyce who was visiting him when he was in prison. The face he saw was the mocking one of the young woman, in which gaiety overran the tender sadness of the big, dusky eyes beneath which tiny freckles had been sprinkled. More than once he clearly heard her whisper courage to him."

When he awoke in his diary were more fragments.

"Broke my rule and smoked two cigars today. Just finished my fourth. Leaves one more. I drink a great deal. It helps me to forget I'm hungry. Find a cigar goes farther if I smoke it slow. I chew the stubs while I'm working."

"Have tunneled in about seventeen feet. No sign that I'm near the end of the cave-in. There's a lot of hell in being buried alive."

"Think I'm losing my voice from shouting so much when I'm in the shaft. Gave it up today and let little Moys call for me. She's a trump. Wish she'd stay here all the time and not keep coming and going."

The jottings on the fourth day show the increase of the delirium. Sometimes his mind seemed to be quite clear, then it wandered to queer fancies.

"Last cigar gone. Got sick from eating the stub. Violent retchings. Keep falling asleep while working. Twenty-nine feet done—surely reach the end tomorrow."

Evening came and he crawled out from my tunnel. All my work wiped out. Moys, the little devil, laughed and said it served a highgrader right.

"Have telegraphed for help. Can't manage alone. Couldn't make it up the shaft and had to give up the climb. Ordered a big breakfast at the Silver Dollar—steak and mushrooms and hot cakes. The telegraph wires run through place along foot of tunnel. Why don't the operator stay on his job? I tap my signals and get no answer."

He began to talk to himself in a rambling sort of way. Sometimes he tried to justify himself for high-grading in jerky half-coherent phrases, sometimes he argued with Peale that he had better let him out. But even the highgrader's condition he stuck to his work in the tunnel, though he was scarce able to drag himself about.

As the sickness grew on him, the light-headed intervals became more frequent. In one of these it occurred to him that he had struck high-grade ore and he filled his pocket with samples taken from the cave-in. There was no sequence to his thoughts. They came in flashes without logical connection. It became, for instance, a firm obsession that the pipe running through the tunnel was a telegraph wire by means of which he could communicate with the outside world if the operator would only stay on duty. But his interest in the matter was intermittent.

It is suggestive of his condition that when Moys's answer came to his seven to take it quite as a matter of course.

"The son of a Greaser is back on the job at last," he said aloud without the least excitement. "Now, I'll get that breakfast I ordered."

He crawled back to the foot of the shaft by means of which he could communicate with the outside world if the operator would only stay on duty. But his interest in the matter was intermittent.

counterbalance to bullish crop news from July. In addition, receipts south-west continued liberal. Warmer weather pulled down corn. Rural selling was persistent and shipping demand here lacked vigor. Oats followed corn. With hogs at the highest price since 1923, provisions reached a new top for the season, but later weakened with grain.

WORK OUT PLAN TO HELP WATER USERS OF TRACT

Committee of Five at Idaho Falls Makes Reports on Controversy Between Upper and Lower Valleys.

Investigations by a committee of five into the usage of water from Snake river for irrigation purposes in the upper Snake river valley were reported Tuesday at Idaho Falls at a special meeting of the committee of five.

Recommendations were made by four of the five members of the investigating committee that "as a compromise, for this season only, 5 per cent be charged to all the water stored in Jackson lake reservoir and credited to owners of storage rights, both in upper and lower Snake river valley." It was also recommended that "the remaining exchanged storage be delivered without further loss to the parties effecting the storage."

Carl J. Miller, president of the Twin Falls Canal company, representing the lower Snake river valley, did not concur with the majority report, but submitted a report in which the conclusion reached was that the method adopted for distribution of water during the present year has resulted in serious loss to the lower river rights.

As a result of Mr. Miller's report and of an invitation extended by him to members of a pool formed by upper river men holding excess water in the Jackson reservoir the Twin Falls tract may gain more water following an investigation by the committee representing the pool.

This pool was formed some time ago and some of this excess water has been given to the lower Snake tract which was badly in need of it. Pool members will in all probability visit the Twin Falls tract during the next few days and in the event they believe this section in need of water will arrange for diverting a certain amount of water here.

Thorough Investigation

The committee of five, appointed by the committee of nine which were selected at a meeting early this year at which time all water users were represented, dug thoroughly into the creation of the committee of nine and particularly as to their authority and power to prescribe policies and recommendations for control and distribution. The committee of five declared in its report that "the most economic use of the waters of the Snake river valley has been made to this date, with apparently little waste thereof," under the supervision of the committee of nine.

The investigators further found that "from the earliest irrigation date possible ground-water levels were sought to be maintained at such a level that no water has passed the lower divide point on the Snake river." And that "acting upon the suggestion of the committee of nine and others, heavy diversions were made in the upper valley early in the season to raise the ground water and reduce river losses."

That "following copious use of water in the upper valley, the exchange of natural flow for storage water by the upper valley canals in accordance with the plan outlined by the committee reached 5000 second feet daily exchange on June 3."

One of the Problems

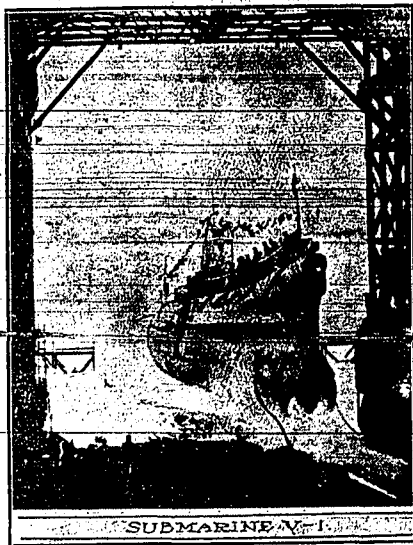

"One of the problems before the committee is," says the report, "if this water had been diverted and not stored at the reservoir, how much of the return flow occurred? The return flow has been made available for late right in the upper and lower valley. The committee has given this matter serious consideration but has not been able to arrive at any definite conclusion as to amounts or the parties entitled to receive them. It is clear, however, that the damage incurred by the youth of the rights and that the water right has storage rights in Jackson lake reservoir."

Members of the committee of five are F. A. Banks, representative of the reclamation project, with headquarters at American Falls; Carl J. Miller of Twin Falls; P. A. Miller of P. A. Anthony, W. O. Cotton of Idaho Falls, D. G. Martin of Idaho Falls, representing the commissioner of reclamation, W. G. Swenden.

Mr. Miller in his report declares that records would indicate that river conditions prevailing this year are more nearly normal than conditions which existed during 1919 than were any other previous year. Comparison with records for 1919 and 1924 from May 1 to July 15 of each year shows an increase this year over 1919 of 11,602 acre feet on the amount of natural flow passing Heale. Natural flow passing Heale during these two years, he says, shows a decrease during this year of 292,202 acre feet in the amount of water available for lower river users, "despite the fact that as shown above there was an increase of 11,602 acre feet at Heale in 1924. This would indicate that upper river users would or retained in storage a total of 292,202 acre feet in excess of that used by them in 1919."

Greatest Submarine Launched at Portsmouth

SUBMARINE S-1

A SUBMARINE twice as large as any ever built in the United States, and believed to be the greatest in the world, has been launched at the Portsmouth, N. H., navy yard. The V-1, first of a fleet of nine, will be able to accompany the battle fleet to sea in any weather and at any speed of which the fleet is capable. She could cross the Atlantic and return without refueling. The V-1 is 341 feet long, has a surface speed of 21 knots and moves 8 knots underwater. She carries 7 officers and 80 enlisted men.

SOON TO REPAIR BAD PIECE ROAD

Graham Gets Letter From State Official on Plans for 1.8 Mile on West End.

Plans and specifications for the improvement of the 1.8 miles of Old Oregon trail between the west line of the Flah highway district and the west end of the concrete pavement, were forwarded to the Ogden office of the bureau of public roads, it is announced in a letter received Tuesday by John W. Graham of Twin Falls from H. W. Grepper, director of highways of the state department of public roads.

When these plans have been approved by the federal engineers the work will be advertised and a contract awarded, provided the bids are acceptable, says the letter, and figuring on the time usually required, the contract will probably be awarded about August 9. The plans were sent to the Ogden office July 17, continues the letter and so far no obstacles have been encountered and the project has progressed as rapidly as possible.

The stretch of road is that lying just west of the concrete highway between Twin Falls and Abel and "last winter was the scene of much trouble. For a time teams and men were kept at each end to tow cars through. Heavy traffic was suspended over this stretch almost entirely at that time and even cars with but one or two occupants waded down to the running boards. With the completion of this stretch of road the Old Oregon trail from Twin Falls to Boise will be in excellent traveling condition the year round."

COMMUNITY DINNERS PLAN OF COMMITTEE

Kiwanis, Rotary and Chamber of Commerce Representatives Set First Dinner for August.

Preliminary plans for a series of community dinners, the purpose of which will be to stimulate closer cooperation among civic organizations of the city for the betterment of Twin Falls, were made at a meeting of representatives of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening at the chamber of commerce rooms. The first of these community dinners will be held during the early part of August and one each month thereafter will be held.

Members of the committee present were Judge O. P. Duvall, Kiwanis; C. E. Booth, Rotary; C. E. Thomas, D. D. Alvord, Mayor; S. L. Hodgkin and Charles F. Dwight, chamber of commerce. Another meeting of the committee at which time final plans will be made will be held Friday evening, August 1. It was decided that due to the number out of the city during July that the first dinner should be held in August.

Through community dinners as planned, it is thought that more concerted action can be obtained on matters of importance to the city as a whole than in possibly any other manner.

ORGANIZE PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION TONIGHT

Meeting Called to Perfect Plans for Local Organization for Recreation; Field Agent to Speak.

Efforts will be made at a meeting to be held this evening at the high school auditorium to form a playground and recreation association. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock and the principal speaker of the evening will be W. C. Bradford, field agent of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Mr. Bradford will arrive at about today from Salt Lake and will tell those present of the benefits the city will receive through an association such as that contemplated here.

Representatives from every church, lodge, club and other organization of the city are urged to be present and take part in the organization. The association is a national figure, there will be several local speakers and a musical program. Mr. Bradford will not only outline the needs along playground and recreation lines, but will also give several songs. He is said to be noted for singing during the war he taught singing at army camps.

Necessity for civic interest in the plans made can not be too strongly stressed, say officials. NEW SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS ARRIVES

Ernest D. Bloom and Son Arrive from Blackfoot; to Continue Policies of M. C. Mitchell First Year.

Policies already established by M. C. Mitchell, former superintendent of the Twin Falls schools, will be followed out for the first year at least by Ernest D. Bloom, new superintendent of schools, who has arrived in Twin Falls to take up his duties. Mr. Bloom arrived overland with his son William, 13, and is living in the house formerly occupied by Mr. Mitchell on Shoshone street.

Mrs. Bloom and daughter, 6 years of age, will arrive the first part of August. Mrs. Bloom is at Mammoth hot springs, where the daughter is recovering from an attack of scarlet fever contracted while the family were on a tour of Yellowstone park preparatory to coming to Twin Falls to make their future home.

Reputation of the Twin Falls schools for being well organized is state-wide, according to Mr. Bloom, whose home was in Blackfoot, where he was superintendent of schools. During the first four weeks of the summer session of the Idaho Technical Institute Mr. Bloom had charge of classes in school administration and management.

"Churchyard" Is Older

Both the word cemetery and the word churchyard have been used for many centuries in England. The word cemetery was originally applied to the catacombs in Rome. It is found as early as 1287 in England. The word churchyard, on the other hand, appears in the old English chronicles at about the year 1154.

Meaning of the Word Mutt

Mutt is a slang word for dog, especially a mongrel dog. To call a person a mutt is only a mild way of calling him a cur. The word seems to be spelled either "mutt" or "mutt."
