THIRD PARTY TO BE INDORSED BY LABOR IS BELIEF

LaFollette-Wheeler Candidacy Will Get Support of American Federation, First Day's Executive Meeting Indicates.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 1 (AP)—Endorsement of the LaFollette-Wheeler candidacy by the American Federation of Labor appeared certain tonight, at the close of the first day of the annual session of the federation's executive council.

Members of the council, while they stood behind Mr. Conway's declaration of war against the federation would not in its traditional partnership in the 1924 campaign, declared they could properly endorse LaFollette and Wheeler, as long as the endorsement was confined to candidates and refrained from pledging fealty to any national political party. It was disclosed that the report of the national political campaign committee of the American Federation of Labor, on major party platforms, and presidential and vice presidential candidates would be unanimous and would be the only report submitted to the council.

CONGRESS WILL NOT BE PERMITTED TO ELECT

Michigan Governor Says Voters of Country Unlikely to Leave Selection to Legislative Body.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Belief that the voters of the country would not permit such circumstances to arise would make necessary election of the next president by congress was expressed here by Governor Alexander S. Groesbeck of Michigan.

"The people of this country will not stand for the coming election being thrown into congress," Governor Groesbeck said. "They will not spend the time, money and energy usually required in a national campaign and then see the election go to congress and finally have the senate select some one for president they would never have voted for under any circumstances for that high office."

The Michigan governor made his statement after an hour's conference with President Coolidge.

Mr. Groesbeck said he had given Mr. Coolidge most encouraging news as to republican prospects in his state.

BELGIAN SCHOOL HONORS HUGHES

Doctor of Laws Conferred on American Secretary of State by Universities.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 1 (AP)—Charles E. Hughes, American secretary of state, was signally honored today, when two new titles were conferred on him—doctor of laws of the University of Brussels and doctor of laws of the University of Louvain.

The first was conferred by the Belgian ambassador to the United States, Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, at the American embassy, and the second by Cardinal Mercier at the Archbishop's palace at Mechlin, (Malines).

The cardinal said he was happy to be able to confer the degree, in the name of the university, to one "whose conscience as a jurist and experience as a diplomat are so justly renowned."

JAMES GORTLAND

FLIERS MAY HOP OFF TO ICELAND

American Aviators Hope to Leave Scotland Today on Their Next Flight.

KIRKWALL, Scotland, Aug. 1 (AP)—It was believed tonight that Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Eric Nelson, the American army world circuit aviators, would be able to hop off from Houton bay early tomorrow morning for their flight to Iceland. Weather conditions over the route to be traversed were reported tonight as getting better.

Reports were received from the torpedo boat destroyers Reid and Billingsley, lying at their stations between the Orkney Islands and Iceland, indicating a general clearing up of the fog which has prevailed during the past three days and held the fliers here.

Lieutenant Smith spent the afternoon at the Orkney Golf club in Kirkwall, while the other fliers visited the quaint old town with its cathedral dating back to the twelfth century.

Then visitors had a conference this evening at which it was decided to start from Houton Hornafjord at 7 o'clock unless later weather conditions are received making a start impracticable. With favorable wind Lieutenant Smith believes he and his fellow aviators will be able to reach their first scheduled mid-Atlantic stop in seven hours without flying over the Faroe Islands, as they had planned to in the event fog covers the more southerly route.

SAD SCENE ENACTED AT BOISE AS WOMAN LEAVES FOR ASYLUM

'Here's Your Testament, Mother,' Says Husband of Woman Who Killed Baby Daughter with Gun.

BOISE, Aug. 1 (AP)—"Here is your testament, mother," were the parting words of George H. White, to his dejected wife as she was placed in an automobile Friday morning at the head of the county jail to be taken to the train for the trip to the state insane asylum at Blackfoot.

The little Bible to which the dejected husband referred contains a lock of hair of the baby girl, Margaret Shelma White, who the insane mother shot four times in the head with a .22-caliber revolver last Monday, while the father was in Boise searching for work. It, with a picture of the baby, was clutched firmly in the mother's hand when she was brought to the jail after the shooting.

The commitment of Mrs. White to the asylum was ordered by Judge Frank E. Chaffin, Wednesday, after a hearing at which two Boise physicians pronounced the woman insane.

LEGION PLANS TO MAKE TEST DAY A SUCCESS

Posts Throughout the Country Will Co-operate With Government in National Defense Observation, September 12.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 1 (AP)—American Legion posts throughout the country will co-operate to make a success of national defense test day, September 12, according to a statement sent today to all units of the organization by Garland W. Powell, director of the national Americanism committee of the legion.

"The war taught us the great necessity of being prepared in case of emergency," declared Mr. Powell.

Should Know Strength. "The nation for its own salvation should know its strength, not only in arms, but in man power at all times." The defense test should be used, he said, as part of the legion's program in obtaining the passage of the universal draft bill sponsored by the organization under the terms of which money and materials would be drafted in case of war. Mr. Powell urged all legionnaires to bend every effort to make the test an outstanding accomplishment in the history of the nation.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 1 (AP)—National plans for defense day, September 12, do not contemplate "disruption of business in any way," President Coolidge advised C. W. Bryan, governor of Nebraska and democratic vice-presidential nominee who objects to acceptance in full of the government's plan for the day. Mr. Coolidge's telegram to the governor was in answer to one the governor sent to the chief executive. Both were made public here today by the governor.

The governor's telegram to the president quoted the length from the circular letter of Major General Duncan of the seventh army corps area and raised objection to "mobilization of the civil, industrial and other resources of the country." President Coolidge informed the Nebraska executive in his answer that

Loeb Considered Murder Intellectual Feat While Leopold Slew for Thrill

Each Considered Killing the Other, Dr. White Testifies at Chicago Hearing for Death of Robert Franks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—The dual personality composed of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, worked with almost devilish ingenuity to produce the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, according to Dr. Wm. A. White, who testified for the defense today before Judge John R. Caverly. "Loeb considered the crime an intellectual feat," said the witness. "Leopold fell into the plan for the emotional premium, this relationship offered."

"I cannot see how 'Babe' would have entered into the plot alone. He had no criminalistic tendencies. 'Dicks' had these tendencies, but would not have functioned to this extent by himself."

Victims of Phantasies. The witness pictured the two youths as the victims of phantasies with Loeb under their influence and slaking their thirst for blood, but with Leopold battling them behind a self-imposed barrier of intellectuality. He said all had not been happy in the relationship as each had considered killing the other. He was permitted to testify to the mentality of the student defendants after he court had deftly overruled objections by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, to the consideration of any such subject as a mitigation of punishment.

Decision far-reaching. The decision was far-reaching in that it admitted alienist observations for that purpose for probably the first time in Illinois courts. It permitted the defense to show after a plea of insanity, a mental disease short of legal insanity, as a circumstance to be considered in fixing penalty for a crime.

"Emotionally the boys are in the infantile state," said Dr. White. "Loeb day is about four or five years old in that respect and Leopold is not more than from five to seven. Both, too, started with a feeling of interest, but while Dicks succumbed to this and developed antisocial tendencies, Babe defended himself by consciously building up a feeling of in-

RENO, Nev., Aug. 1 (AP)—William Blanchfield, U. The burning plane landed on the roof of a dwelling. Blanchfield was dead when rescuers reached him.

IRISH BOUNDARY QUESTION IS UP

England to Make Attempt to Settle Bothersome Dispute Before Parliament Adjourns

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The government has decided to make a last attempt to obtain a settlement of the Irish boundary dispute by consent, and in the event of failure to meet Thursday, when parliament is scheduled to rise for the summer recess, it will introduce a bill which will set up the boundary commission as provided by the Anglo-Irish treaty, and give it power to function without the Ulster's government consent.

Course Will Be Followed. J. H. Thomas, the colonial secretary, announced in the house of commons today that this course will be followed in about four or five years old in that respect and Leopold is not more than from five to seven. Both, too, started with a feeling of interest, but while Dicks succumbed to this and developed antisocial tendencies, Babe defended himself by consciously building up a feeling of in-

EXPERTS AGREE ON DAWES PLAN AT CONFERENCE

Germans Will be Invited Today to Come to London and Sign Reparations Protocol; Americans Responsible.

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—With the exception of one technical point, this relating to reparation transfers from Germany, the inter-allied conference this afternoon reached complete agreement on how the Dawes plan should be made operative.

This one outstanding difficulty, it is said, will be cleared away tonight and the allied plenipotentiaries have been summoned to sit in plenary session at the British foreign office in Downing street at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to pass judgment upon the committee's reports which are to be embodied in a protocol for signature by the Germans.

Tomorrow Ramsey MacDonald, the British premier, as chairman of the inter-allied conference, will extend an invitation to the Germans to come to London as soon as possible.

The mission from Berlin, however, is not expected to arrive before Monday, and possibly Tuesday, for it is anticipated that Dr. Stresemann, the German foreign minister, will delay its departure until he has had an opportunity to talk with Charles E. Hughes, the American secretary of state, who is to spend Sunday in the German capital.

Although the delegates to the conference are worn out by reason of long hours they have worked during the past few days, they do not begrudge the Germans an extra day, for high authorities here believe—Mr. Hughes will give the Germans words of advice about attitude they should take when they appear at a conference table to discuss the methods the conference has adopted for inaugurating a new reparation era. High authorities here express the belief that the Germans will be warned to do better in London than they did in the conference at Geneva, of which is expected to take place next week.

The magic wand of arbitration held in the hands of the French and waved over the conference table yesterday and today, has wrought wonders for inter-allied diplomacy. Differences which last week threatened to break up the party, now disappear and even among the allied delegations there are expressions of surprise and wonderment that the task which for days seemed to be impossible has been accomplished.

The American delegates, official and unofficial observers, including Owen D. Young and James A. Logan, Jr., tonight expressed the opinion that the conference results are sound economically and financially, and that the Dawes plan will be put to work without loss of any of its effectiveness.

ACCIDENT BOARD BOOSTS ITS PAY

$21 a Month Increase Voted Members of State Industrial Accident Board by Themselves.

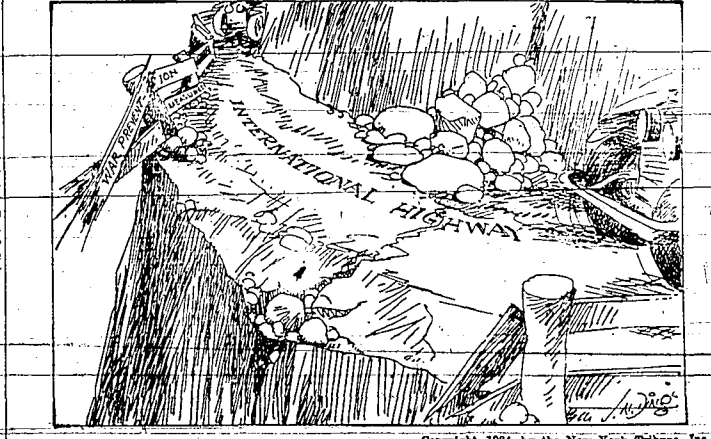

BOISE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Members of the 1923 legislature overlooked a bet when they were slashing salaries of members of the state industrial accident board. As a result these members of the board have given themselves salary increases amounting to $21 per month beginning July 1, according to certificates filed in the state auditor's office.

The legislature appropriated $15,500 for salaries of the three members. This amount would have given them $225 per month. The legislature, however, failed to change section 6249 of the compiled statutes which says that the salaries of the board members shall be $5,000 a year and left the members entitled to as much of this amount as appropriations would yield.

Wheat Price Will Have Much to Do With Voting

Up to Republicans and Democrats Alike to Create Better Business Conditions, Says Statistician.

BARBON PARK, Mass., Aug. 1. (Special To The News)—Several times during the last few weeks Roger W. Babson has been questioned regarding the possible effect of the election on general business conditions.

"During the past week I have talked with leading men in each of the two great parties," says the statistician. "I asked the same question of both the republican and democratic leaders, namely, 'What are your chances of election?' They both replied, 'We are sure of victory in November provided LaFollette does not secure enough states to throw the election into Congress. Furthermore, LaFollette's votes are dependent upon the price of wheat on election day. This may be an exaggerated statement but for the first time in American history it is to the advantage of both great parties to have good business between now and the election.'

"In certain states like New York there must be a straight and clean-cut fight between Coolidge and Davis. Neither will give any thought to LaFollette and LaFollette will not bother to spend any time in New York. In the great central western states, however, instead of directing their fight against one another Coolidge and Davis will in a way combine against LaFollette. Therefore two different campaign policies will be waged simultaneously in different sections of the country.

In New England and the eastern industrial states the republicans may not object to having business quiet down between now and election. Moreover, they will use the argument that a democratic election means a lowering of the tariff and the closing down of many of our industrial plants in order to raise funds. In the central west, however, neither the republican nor democratic parties can talk gloom because there is enough gloom there already.

"Heretofore," says Mr. Babson, "it has been thought by the democrats to have had business on election day when the republicans are in power, and it has been thought advisable by the republicans to have had business on election day when the democrats have been in power. This year bread lines would hurt the democrats as much as the republicans. When a bank is closed in the central west votes are made for LaFollette. Every cent that the price of wheat drops between now and election day may easily give LaFollette 100,000 votes, and every cent that the price of wheat goes up between now and election may result in giving the republicans and democrats 50,000 more votes each.

Although the leaders of both parties tend to belittle LaFollette and to refer to his age and physical infirmities, yet it must be remembered that he is a very astute politician. This is shown by the fact that his ticket is being made up equally by democrats and republicans. Moreover LaFollette is shown in being radical without getting tied up with the socialists and ultra radicals whom he knows swing very few votes whom business is good. He also knows that when the farmers are property owners they must naturally be conservative and are radicals only when the business conditions are temporarily against them.

It would be no third party. If there were 42 a third party, we would probably have to third party in the field, and yet if LaFollette

TELLING THE PUBLIC

The public is nearly always fair in its decisions when correctly informed, and appreciates the attitude of those who, instead of trying to conceal the truth in matters in which it is interested, come right out and tell the truth about them.

At this particular time, many matters and subjects are being discussed in which the public is interested and should know the facts.

Few people in Twin Falls county know or realize that nearly one-half of the total reduction made on the assessed valuation of the entire state of Idaho for the year 1923 was made in Twin Falls county, and by your local assessor, yet these are the facts.

For the year 1923 there was less than Four Million Dollars reduction made in the total assessed valuation of the state of Idaho, and over One and One-half Million Dollars reduction was made in the assessed valuation of Twin Falls county alone, or nearly 60 percent of the reduction made in the state was taken out of Twin Falls county.

When you consider that there are 44 counties in the state of Idaho, and that for the year 1923 nearly one-half of the reduction made in the assessed valuation of the state was taken out of one county, you will appreciate the fact that it necessitated a lot of hard work, tact and diplomacy on the part of your assessor who represented Twin Falls county in presenting and defending such an abstract before the state board of equalization with the result that same was accepted as reported.

It is impossible to get away from the fact that there is no better land, no richer or more productive land anywhere than is to be found in Twin Falls county, and few people admit that an acre of irrigated land in Twin Falls county was not worth as much or more than an acre of land in any other county in the state of Idaho, yet taking an average of assessed valuation in ten of the best counties in Idaho, the assessed value of lands in Twin Falls county is below this average—adv.

on cross examination but the expert said he had not taken up that aspect of the crime with his subjects.

Thinks Dickie Did It "It really made no difference as to their guilt," he explained.

"Who do you think killed Franks?" persisted Mr. Crowe.

"It must have been Dickie," said Dr. White.

Loeb visibly gulped when this came out. He leaned forward and appeared to grip himself. Leopold looked thoughtful and stroked his chin.

The doctor said the homicide could not be understood unless the two were examined in the light of their relations with each other.

"Dickie, with his inferiority complex developed anti-social tendencies," he said. "He needs an audience and in reality Babe was that audience.

"It is significant that these boys both had in mind the possibility of killing the other member of the compact," said Dr. White. "In Babe's it was not especially serious, but Dickie did think of killing Babe, because, as he gave it to me, the latter after all had no stomach and he felt the day might come when he would get him in trouble."

Motives for the crime were found by Dr. White in the phantasies of the youths. He said Dickie frequently had visioned himself as in prison, surrounded by abused and naked men and women and with girls gazing at him through the bars.

"Dickie had six definite objectives, the joy in planning, the thrill in contemplation, the anticipation of getting the ransom money, the publicity, his own discussion of the crime with others, and last and least, the $10,000 ransom itself," said the witness.

Leopold, the doctor testified, had anticipated a self-analysis of his emotions in prison and at the trial, that might result from discovery.

OUR PART. It is sincerely to be hoped that the voters of Twin Falls County will turn out in sufficient numbers to register a definite choice of candidates for the forthcoming election.

The Primary will be held next Tuesday, August fifth. In a number of offices there are contests on more than one of the tickets. These contests are, of course, the point of principal importance.

In theory the Primary Election is an excellent thing, but in practice it has developed many weaknesses, and the principal of these is the failure of the people to exercise their right to vote.

All over the country the tendency is toward a growing indifference to the privileges of the ballot. More and more people are staying away from the polls, both in Primaries and in Elections.

THE HUMAN ZOO By C. D. Batchelor

THESE DAYS It's a wise husband that knows his own wife.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE LITTLE BIRD

He was a little bird and he had been hurt. Oh, he didn't know how badly hurt he was.

He was in the road, struggling around in the dust. He did not seem to be able to get on his legs.

Why hadn't he gone to the country as some of his friends had suggested? This city park was no place for a bird.

But there, he had gone down into the road for a moment and an automobile had come along and had almost struck him.

It hadn't really struck him but it almost had. He wasn't quite sure whether it had or not.

For the fright had been so great that he had tumbled down into a heap on the road and had been struggling ever since to get up.

He just couldn't do a thing. He seemed to feel so weak. Oh, how that automobile had come toward him.

Hadn't they seen what had happened? Or were they too anxious to go on? Perhaps they had saved two minutes.

By hurrying on and perhaps to these two minutes of hurrying meant more than the life of a little bird.

Struggling to get on his feet! His wings drooping! This was just too dreadful!

And along the road came another big car. It was ahead of all the others and very close to him.

This would be the end. This would be the end for a little bird.

Would they get out of the way for one little bird? What would it matter to them if one little bird was killed? There were plenty of birds.

He was not beautiful. His voice was nothing remarkable. Probably at one glance they would be able to tell this. The little bird had lost a great deal of his faith in human nature.

People hurried so. They hurried so that the life of a little bird meant nothing to them.

He closed his eyes. He could not bear to see the end. And then he felt a soft something about him—wasn't it a hand? Surely this could not be one of those terrible wheels he had been thinking would go over him.

And then he heard a voice. "You poor little bird, are you hurt? Well, we'll see what the trouble is."

He opened both eyes. His heart was beating fast. What did this mean?

His hand was being stroked by a soft, beautiful hand, and he was being carried back to the automobile.

He had no dread. It was standing by the side of the road, away out of the center where he had been.

And the one who was holding him was saying to the ones in the automobile, "I don't think he is really hurt. He's just frightened out of his poor little wits."

Gently they stroked him and talked to him. And then the hand was opened out wide and, with strength which had come to him, the little bird flew on to the branch of a tree, safe and quite alone.

And there he chirped the best little song he knew of gratitude.

DEMOCRATS LAY OUT WORK FOR CONCLAVE HERE

Party Members Discuss Convention Arrangements and Entertainment of Delegates Broad Scale

Looking toward fulfillment of the committee responsibilities in connection with the democratic state convention to be held here August 28, Jefferson club members, at a meeting of the organization in connection with the annual meeting of the Democratic women's club in the city park here Friday evening, authorized their president, W. Or Chapman, to name an executive committee on arrangements to be composed of seven members to confer with all organizations in regard to convention arrangements and entertainment of delegates.

Many Delegates Expected
It was estimated that approximately 100 delegates would attend the convention, many of them being given a fractional vote thus increasing the number of delegates. It was deemed probable that sessions of the convention would continue for two or three days.

Purposes of the convention are to nominate candidates for United States senate and house of representatives and state officers and to formulate the platform for the party in Idaho.
It was suggested that the high school building would afford exceptional advantages for the convention, delegates being seated on the main floor with seats for spectators in the balcony, and two or three class rooms would be used as committee rooms.

Women Tour Farms
The entertainment program, it was suggested, should include a banquet for all delegates, and automobiles should be made available for a tour by the delegates and convention visitors over the territory under the Twin Falls canal system with a view toward securing information that water shortage this year has had a disastrous effect upon crop production in this region.

Discussion of convention plans followed a picnic dinner served to about 100 persons by members of the Democratic Women's club following an evening session in the park at which the democratic national platform was read and discussed, and Miss Olivia Chapman read sketches of the lives of John W. JURY RETURNS VERDICT AGAINST AUTO DRIVER

Finds Ophus Welch Guilty of Violating Road Law in Connection with Collision with Stranding Car.

A jury in justice court here Friday, at the conclusion of an all-day trial, returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Ophus Welch of Twin Falls, charged with violation of state road law in connection with a collision with a stranding car on the highway west of Twin Falls with a car owned by Frank W. Whitney of Oregon, a salesman, which was standing on the road at the time following a blowout.

Justice of the Peace Kennedy Fackler imposed fine of $15 and costs, amounting in all to approximately $35.
Statement was made during the day that Welch would file complaint against Whitney for permitting his car to stand on the road in alleged violation of the road law.

Testimony of several witnesses, including drivers and passengers in both cars, was introduced at the hearing Friday, the defendant being represented by Attorney John W. Graham and the prosecution being conducted by Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor.

Evidence showed that another car standing behind the Whitney car that Welch came from the rear and passed the first car and then swerved sharply to the right striking the Whitney car, crushing both fenders, and that he did not stop after the collision.

Defense witnesses testified that the sudden swerve after passing the first car was necessary in order to avoid striking another car coming from the opposite direction.

Registrars Expect Eleventh Hour Rush

Persons Not Listed When Books Close Tonight Cannot Participate in Primaries.

Persons whose names are not recorded in registration books that will close this evening will be precluded from voting at the primary elections of next Tuesday. WATER DELIVERY BASIS HOLDS UP Canal Manager Reports No Change in Situation Likely for Several Days.

Canal manager reports that the water delivery system is being maintained on a basis of 45 per cent with no material change in the general situation, and it is believed that delivery on this basis may be continued for several days, more, Buster Smith, general manager of the canal company, stated Friday evening. No word at that time had been received from the upper Snake river waterusers "pooling committee" members of which early this week inspected crops and inquired into conditions here with view to recommending delivery by upper river users of a portion of their water for relief of the situation here.

Members of this committee went from here to Burley, Rupert and Jerome to inquire into water regions in those districts.
Directors of the Minidoka irrigation district at Burley told the committee members that it would require 50,000 acre feet of water in addition to the supply then available to mature crops "due to the fact that natural flow water had been cut off early in the season."

Minidoka Makes Demand

The Minidoka district directors Wednesday made demand on Secretary of the Interior Water at Washington for 50,000 acre feet of water now stored in Jackson Lake reservoir, alleging that the district had been deprived of that amount of water this season by the exchange plan made effective by the committee of nine according credit to storage water to upper river users in return for natural flow water that they permitted to run past their headgates.

Immediate investigation of the situation with advice at an early date as to the conclusion reached was promised by First Assistant Secretary Finney in a telegram received Thursday by the Minidoka directors.

In the meantime, the entire office force of the Minidoka district was engaged in making copies of all decrees of Snake river and records of water deliveries during the period beginning May 21 and ending June 20 this year for the use of the district's legal representatives in prosecution of a proposed court action against the state reclamation commissioner and watermaster to restrain release of any water from Jackson Lake until question of its ownership has been settled.
