Twin Falls Community Carnival Brings Together 3000 Boys and Girls in Costume With Parents and Friends.

Three thousand girls and boys, all in costume and many of them carrying jack-o'-lanterns, assembled in and about Twin Falls city park Friday evening with their parents and friends to participate in Twin Falls first community Halloween carnival, the most elaborate and comprehensive undertaking of its kind in Twin Falls area.

Fair weather following showers on four consecutive evenings made possible the fulfillment in detail of plans for the occasion which for many days past have claimed the attention not only of members of many committees in charge of arrangements for the event, but which have held a prominent place in Twin Falls school rooms and hundreds of Twin Falls homes during the weeks of preparation.

Going Through Without Hitch

Opening with the parade in which the girls and boys in costume were led by the high school band around the park, passing through a lane lined with hundreds of friendly spectators, the carnival program was carried through without a hitch to its close at a late hour Friday evening when the Twin Falls band played the final number for the scores of dancers on the pavement.

In a "three-ring" circus staged on the pavement of Shoshone street, where the night was closed to traffic during the evening, there were presented programs of singing, dancing, calisthenics and as a feature attraction, in the middle ring, nearly 100 girls and boys presented a "Mother Goose" pageant and pastime.

All Schools Participate

Pupils of all Twin Falls schools took part in the festival, and chorus singing early in the evening of Halloween songs that they had learned in their class rooms during the past few weeks of the impressive features of the event.

Scores of electric-lighted paper lanterns chosen from among hundreds made by school children and competition for prizes that were awarded this evening illuminated the scene of the festival, and light, music, color and gaiety characterized the occasion. Ghosts and goblins, witches, wizards, fairies and harlequins in droves teemed through the throng of merry-makers and swarmed about the bandstand where popular balls and other reasonable delicacies were distributed with Halloween favors among the younger celebrants.

Community Undertaking.

It was a tired but happy multitude of little folks that traced a homeward way when the evening's festivities for them came to a close.

In plans and arrangements for the Halloween festival the Chamber of Commerce, Parent-Teachers Association, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, American Legion, Boy Scouts, churches and various fraternal organizations have co-operated with the women of the Twentieth Century club, among whom the idea originated.

LOAN WILL HELP FRENCH FINANCE

Ten-Year Internal Sale of Securities Will Aid Country to Clear Up Deficit.

PARIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—Finance Minister Clementel today characterized France's new internal ten year loan as the "first house cleaning operation and first financial restructuring effort, with which a balanced budget and strict economy hereafter will liquidate the past and facilitate the consolidation loan so that the treasury in 1925 will no longer have the difficulties it has heretofore encountered.

Will Pay Good Returns.

The loan issued at 6 per cent is redeemable at 100 thereby yielding the holder 3.33 per cent. The finance minister in his declaration which is intended to restore public confidence, said that next year's budget would quite likely show a good favorable balance.

He said the loan had been moderately estimated and any surplus would be devoted entirely to the amortization of outstanding obligations.

M. Clementel declared the government had done its full duty, increasing salaries and pensions and heretofore no additional tax would be approved. Despite all the more or less interested criticism of French credit, he declared, "it is still maturing."

OHIO TOWN PREPARES FOR EVENTUALITIES IN MEETINGS TODAY

NILES, Ohio, Oct. 31 (AP)—Quietly, though none the less feverishly, Niles citizens tonight were preparing for a threatened clash when the Ku Klux Klan and adherents of the Planning Circle, an anti-klan organization, held meetings here tomorrow. Announcement by officials of the two organizations was made that 25,000 Klansmen and 10,000 members of Planning Circle would be in the city. The Klan members were advised to "avoid killing women and children."

A request of a citizens' committee that a permit for a Klan parade be revoked was denied by Mayor Harvey C. Klatier today. Demands of the mayor and sheriff John E. Thomas for state troops were rejected by Governor A. V. Donahay, unless there is "tumult, riot or serious disorder" in which event "any agency of the state government will be used to restore order."

PEKING CABINET IS SELECTED BY CHINESE LEADER

PEKING, Oct. 31 (AP)—A provisional cabinet headed by General Huang Fu as acting premier was announced here tonight. It was said in official circles that General Feng Yu-Hsiang, whose coup d'état recently placed him in control of Peking, wanted Dr. W. W. Yen, former premier, to head the provisional cabinet. Dr. Yen, however, was said to have declined the appointment with the old cabinet would militate against his success with the new government.

Several Positions

Tonight's mandate assigns to General Huang the posts of minister of communications and minister of education, as well as that of acting premier. General Hsiang was minister of education in Dr. Yen's cabinet, which the provisional cabinet displaced.

Dr. C. T. Wang (Wang Cheng T'ing) took the post he held in 1922, that of foreign minister, and also will act as minister of finance. General Li Shu-Cheng is made minister and Admiral Fu Jih-Vel (Li K. Tu), minister of the navy.

Wang Yang-Chang, present civil governor of Peking (one of the three eastern provinces making up Manchuria) is named minister of the interior.

COMPERS DENIES CHANGE OF MEN

Declares New York Labor Body Has Not Switched to Davis From LaFollette.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Samuel Compers, director of the National Labor Union, declared in a statement tonight that information he had received today that the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and the New York Labor Union had switched to Davis from LaFollette was "entirely untrue."

He said the central body nor its executive board had received any information of the action attributed to it to repudiate LaFollette and switch to Davis.

A rumormongering of the executive board of the central trades and labor council was called off yesterday morning in New York city, but the members of the board in their individual capacity signed such a statement.

"Set of the fourteen which were asked to sign the document refused point blank and emphatically to do so," he said, "and the central labor council is its only official and authoritative spokesman in the campaign on this subject."

"I have days ago I found it necessary to warn the citizenship of our country against the misrepresentation and the attack of the Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York and the New York Labor Union, which are both so full of trickery and deceit as has just been attempted to be practiced."

DRIVES CAMPAIGN TO CLOSE TODAY

Two Speeches Planned in Indiana Will End Efforts of G. O. P. Nominee.

Broad Use of Huge Airships in Business World Forecast

Famous Statistician Points to Interesting Possibilities in Use of Dirigible in America.

HADSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 31.—The fourth milestone in the career of transportation has been reached, according to Roger W. Babson, who points out some exceedingly interesting developments possible with the perfection of lighter than air transportation. The Shuamund's transcontinental trip and the landing of the Zeppelin at Lakehurst, on May 1, a record breaking flight, made possible the certain revolutionary changes according to the statistician.

"We have had heavier than air machines for many years," says the statistician, "and everyone recognizes their great value during the war. Many have planned a tremendous commercial success for the aeroplane as a result of its war development, but so far this commercial use of heavier than air machines has been a distinct disappointment. Figure as to great heights, attain terrific speed and fly with one another, for the record in some cases."

Stunt Flying. "Stunt flying, however, is only practiced in commercial fields as an exhibition of daring. The real world trip which has just been completed, has received a great deal of criticism. While it represents a remarkable feat it is of relatively little economic importance. The only real practical use being made today of the heavier than air machine is in conjunction with toll roads, but even these cannot be said to be a commercial success. They are really being operated by the government to encourage experimentation and to maintain the industry so as to have machines and trained men ready in case of war."

Rapid Transportation. "The Zeppelin, however, offers the possibility of practical, rapid, and safe transportation. This is probably the real reason for our government purchasing Zeppelins. Washington, doubtless, felt that the Zeppelin company had valuable information and experience which it would be very unwise for the world to lose. The wisdom of the program has been thoroughly justified by the record made between Germany and America by this newest and most advanced type of lighter than air machine. Whether or not the government is justified in its operating commercial ventures is a very debatable question; but certainly the government is justified in carrying on experimental work in all important lines of industry."

Two drawbacks which have held up development of the dirigible have apparently been overcome. The first problem was that of danger of combustion. So long as hydrogen or inflammable gases were used to float these machines, danger of loss by fire not only existed, but was a distressingly frequent occurrence. This weakness has been successfully overcome by the use of helium gas in place of hydrogen.

Non-Inflammable. "It is not only non-inflammable but is much more stable and will sustain a ship for a greater length of time. The second danger in the early dirigibles was the possibility of loss in a storm. Their speed of around 25 miles an hour was not sufficient to cope with a high wind. Once they were driven from their course they foundered helplessly, a victim of the elements. Today the dirigible provides a means of constant communication by which the dirigible may be warned of storms or other threatening weather."

The speed of 75 miles an hour and now enables the ship to maneuver its way around the worst of storms and to make a satisfactory progress against a high wind if necessary. The lighter than air machine has demonstrated the fact that it is not only a very swift carrier, but is also a safe method of transportation. The aeroplane attains a terrific speed but the velocity of a guy wire or the stopping of a motor may force a landing at any time and emergency landings are almost invariably expensive in wreckage if not in the actual loss of human life.

Free From Danger. "The Zeppelin is free from these major dangers. The breakdown of a single engine might slow its speed to some extent, but the stopping of all engines would not seriously endanger the ship or its passengers. Repairs may be made and the flight resumed or a landing may be unannounced at leisure. Such a contingency in the lighter than air machines may involve a slight delay but it threatens very little damage to the ship and almost none to its passengers."

The two major requisites of speed and relative safety have been thoroughly demonstrated," continued Mr. Babson, "and while the high cost of helium gas and manufacturing of dirigible equipment may make the cost of dirigible transportation seem prohibitive at this time, I am confident that further research will make such transportation economically practical and readily available. Within a few years we shall have a regular trans-Atlantic passenger service by Zeppelins."

Within Reach. "It may cost some more than steamship fare but it will be within the reach of passengers who prefer swifter, safer and more comfortable means of transportation. These great ships will not only be able to cross the water at a speed of from 25 to 100 miles an hour, but they will also be able to cross plain and river, mountain and valley with equal facility. Passengers will be able to board their ship at Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City or any other large inland port and will go directly to their European destination without change."

It will in effect make every city a seaport. It is even possible that aerial ships from different inland points will join and cross as a fleet or even as a significant string of cars. The possibility of inland dirigible service is a great chance in our commercial development."

If we well aware of the fact that this may mean like a far fetched fancy to a mass of many so-called hard headed business men, but I should like to remind you that Fulton's folly was the joke of his time. The first steam railroad was ridiculed and there are those of us today who can remember when the locomotive was looked upon as an impracticable and impossible invention. The development of the west would have been almost impossible without the steam locomotive."

"Now for the automobile congestion in cities today would be almost unlivable. Not so long ago the street railways were needed at the time the motor bus as a practical means of transportation. They are just beginning to appreciate their error and to adopt this thoroughly established method of conveyance. The public companies which carried away today a large part of the trans-Atlantic communication is carried through the air. If we count the telegraph messages it is probable that more words are sent by wireless than by cable."

After newness does not necessarily justify the acceptance of a development as commercially practical. The aeroplane, for that matter is newer than the dirigible, but it lacks the fundamental qualities necessary for economic adoption. The Zeppelin has these qualifications. It provides the swiftest, safest and most convenient means of transportation for long distances. It is the only method of transportation which enables one to take the shortest route between two given points. The cost, this one building factor at present, will undoubtedly be brought down to a reasonable level by further experience and development. As this is done a great industry will develop to supply the new means of transportation to the world."

"Therefore, urge investors and business men," concluded Mr. Babson, "to give this situation serious thought and to anticipate the effect of development upon their present interests. In such an event all corporations connected with long distance transportation would necessarily be affected. In the dirigible industry their fortunes will undoubtedly be made and possibly lost. Most of the commercial aeroplane work is being done at the present time by the Wright Aeroplane

Ashley B. Wilson, democratic candidate for representative in congress from the district, arrived in Twin Falls to his home town and addressed an audience of about 150 persons in the Lavering theater here Friday evening, and sharing the platform with W. Orr Chapman, attorney of this city.

Mr. Wilson in his address dealt with national and state issues from the democratic standpoint and in the course of his remarks criticized President Coolidge for declining to accept resignations of cabinet members when he needed to the presidency following the death of President Harding.

Mr. Chapman's address was largely a critical review of republican administration in the nation and state.

The speakers were introduced by Judge John E. Davley, chairman of the democratic county committee.

CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The relations of Mexico with both Great Britain and the United States were discussed by Plutarco Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico, at a conference with newspaper correspondents today, after he had come to Washington from New York for a visit of several days.

Received at Union station upon his arrival by representatives of the state department and the Mexican embassy, the president-elect called upon Secretary Hughes and then President Coolidge at the White House. He was the guest at an official dinner tendered by Secretary Hughes at the Pan American union tonight and will be the guest of President Coolidge at luncheon tomorrow.

COLOMBIAN IMPOSSIBLE.

MEXICALI, Lower California, Oct. 31 (AP)—Colonization of Lower California, Mexico, by Japanese or any other foreigners, is declared impossible by the existing laws of Mexico, in a bulletin made public here today by Governor Abelardo Rodriguez of the northern district of Lower California.

Peacock's Coloring.
The brilliant colors of the tail feathers of the peacock, and the apparently self-luminous reds in the throat feathers of the humming bird, are not due to pigments, according to scientists. When one looks through a peacock's feathers one sees only a brownish or the so-called melanin pigment. In all the iridescent feathers the barbed are flattened plates of brown, which therefore give the colors of this film. The structure is so marked that an expert can pick out the iridescent feathers in the dark by the feel.

Unnatural Mothers
When there and lice bring forth young in captivity, the greatest care has to be exercised to keep them for several days in the dark and undisturbed, as otherwise the mothers will almost invariably destroy their cubs.

"Pennsylvania Dutch"
The idiom of the Pennsylvania Dutch is really high German. It is a fusion of Franconian, Alemannic and other German dialects with an admixture of English varying from 1 per cent in rural districts to a large percentage in towns.

PRESIDENT BUSY WITH GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Advisement, business occupied the attention of President Coolidge today and there were no particular considerations to the campaign before making a talk over the radio Monday night. This address will be devoted principally to impressing the voters with the importance of going to the polls and casting their ballot.

Coolidge made it known during the day that he expected to make a decision on the proposed reduction in the sugar duty recommendations to the campaign before making a talk over the radio Monday night. PLAN MADE TO REDEEM CAN

U. S. Treasury Will Take Care of 1925 Obligation, Secretary Mellon Announces.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The treasury has completed its plans for redemption of the loan of 1925—one of the national banknotes—and there is prepared to take the big step toward the eventual replacement of national banknotes by currency issued under the federal reserve act.

Announcement of the treasury's program was made tonight by Secretary Mellon as follows:

"The treasury announces that it has called for redemption and payment on February 1, 1925, of the United States one percent bonds dated February 1, 1925, and that such bonds will cease to bear interest on that date. In order to facilitate redemption, holders are urged to present their bonds in advance of February 2, so as to insure prompt payment. This is particularly important in view of the fact that, as payment cannot be made until registration with respect to registered bonds, as the treasury department division of loans and currency."

LABOR ENDORSES DAVIS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Another labor endorsement was given John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president when he was named here tonight from his home in Legatville to speak at public school 17. It came from the New York city and county labor council through an announcement made public by eastern labor leaders at a meeting held here tonight. The announcement was made in a statement by the labor council and the labor council of Greater New York.

MANCHURIAN FORCES BUSY.
TOKIO, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Manchurian forces have been busy occupying Shantung, on the Chihli-Manchurian border, the port of Chingwangtao, adjoining Shantung, and Peking, a small port southwest of Chingwangtao, according to the Associated Press, which has been informed by the Manchurian leader, says the Mukden correspondent of the Associated Press.

INDICTED BY JURY.
SALT LAKE, Oct. 31 (AP)—George A. Sturges, president of the Great Western Oil Mines company, is charged with conspiracy to defraud in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury here today. Earl J. Welch, Joseph S. Welch and Charles J. Welch, former fiscal agents of the company, are charged in the same indictment.

TO ACQUIRE RAILROAD.
NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Southern Pacific company announced today the formal completion of its plan to acquire the 131 mile and 300 feet long and 10 feet wide first large railway consolidation under the transportation act.

End of All Things
The temperature at which water begins to boil is called the boiling point. The boiling point depends on pressure as well as temperature. Water can be made to boil by either raising the temperature or by reducing the pressure. Theoretically, then, if all the atmosphere were removed from the earth the pressure would be zero and the water of the ocean would boil and turn into vapor.

"Matrimonially Speaking"

By Hugh McKay.

My wife never puts my things away twice in the same place. But whenever I ask her where anything is—a shirt or a pair of pajamas, for instance—she says: "You know exactly where to look—right where it always is."

That's what she thinks. It's a beautiful theory—but it's all theory. I know from experience.

One week she'll put my clean shirts in the second drawer of my chiffonier—and the next week they'll be on the top shelf in my closet.

She keeps my socks flitting around from one drawer to another and every once in a while—just for variety, I suppose—she hides them away in one of her sewing baskets.

All this would be very diverting, but I don't have time for any recreation while I'm getting dressed in the morning. I wouldn't mind staying home and playing hide and seek with my clothes—but the trouble is that I have got to go to work.

Tomorrow: My husband hates to answer the door bell.

T. Dan Connor

Candidate for Re-election as County COMMISSIONER—1st-District

He seeks your support at the polls Tuesday upon his record in office as your county commissioner for the past two years.

Always having at heart the best interests of Twin Falls County, and the taxpayers' pocketbooks, his administration has been such as would well merit his continuation in the office to which he aspires.

Mr. Connor is one of the pioneer settlers of the tract; he has been a resident and taxpayer of Idaho for the past 34 years; he has a wide acquaintance with people and conditions; he is a warm friend of the Twin Falls County Fair and through business experience is capable and competent to fill the office of commissioner, as he has well proven.

Others have realized his ability, for he was mayor of Wallace, Idaho, for two terms before coming to this tract 10 years ago, and he has held many other positions of honor and trust.

A vote for Dan Connor will be a vote for your best interests!

RECORD IN OFFICE
The Present Board of Commissioners Invites Comparison with any other public body in the state of Idaho for efficiency and economy.

It cut valuations from $29,144,997.99 in 1922 to $27,747,474.14 in 1923, a reduction of $1,417,523.82.
On this lower valuation it reduced the levy half a mill, making a saving of about $15,000, and by a program of economy and retrenchment made another saving of nearly $150,000 as is shown by the following items:
Refused increase in salary (3 members at $600).....	$ 1,800
Abolished chief office salary $1200; expense $1331.....	2,531
Abolished hospital pur. agt., sal. $1153; exp. $100.....	1,253
Abolished club agent, salary $1122; exp. $250.....	4,372
Abolished position of isolation ward keeper, salary.....	600
Reduced salary of hospital pathologist.....	600
Eliminated one employe in county attorney's office.....	1,050
Saving effected in salaries of weed inspectors.....	1,295
Saving effected in care of poor.....	1,010
TOTAL	$14,011
LEVY CUT 1/2 MILL 1923, SAVING	$14,000
TOTAL SAVING OF PRESENT BOARD IN 1923 OVER EXPENSES OF 1922 WITHOUT REDUCING EFFICIENCY	$28,011

These figures do not take into account a similar saving for the year 1924, and remember—another reduction of tax levy amounting to 1/2 mill was made this year.

Further savings have been effected by the action inaugurated by the present board of commissioners in not furnishing automobiles to county officials, with the exception of the sheriff's office. By separating the business department from the professional department at the county hospital a further saving will be effected with better care and service.

This board took the initiative in having published the "Lary Husband" which has been the most successful.

The system of requiring county officials to regularize the board for supplies makes for more business like procedure and economy and a complete invoice of the county's property added greatly in this regard.

By electing the present board you will be assured of a continuation of these economies and further reduction in your taxes.

ECONOMY!

Assertions put forth avowedly in the interests of the three Democratic members composing the present board of Twin Falls County Commissioners are candidates for re-election, having claim to all of the savings effected in county expenditures during their term of office, are among the most interesting that ever figured in a political campaign in this county.

One of the most interesting of these assertions is to the effect that the three members of the board refused an increase in salary amounting to six hundred dollars per year for each member, when they took office a year ago last January. The plain fact is that they never had an opportunity to refuse an increase in salary, and they are now receiving and have received since they took office the maximum salary permitted by state law for commissioners of counties of the second class. Twin Falls county was reduced from a county of the first class to a county of the second class and salaries of Twin Falls County Commissioners were automatically reduced when the county took the second class rating two years before the members of the present board took office.

The only way in which the salaries of Twin Falls County Commissioners could be raised above the present figure, would be by legislative act placing the county again on a first class basis and the only difference between a county of the first class and one of the second class is that the commissioners of a county of the first class receive higher salaries than those of a county of the second class. It is true that after members of the present board had been elected and while the legislature was in session effort was made to place Twin Falls county on a first class rating; and it is true also that this undertaking was defeated, not as a result of the effort on the part of members of the present board of county commissioners, but rather in spite of them. Not only is credit claimed by the commissioners for all reductions in county expenses during the past year and nine months, in which all county officials, Republicans as well as Democrats, are entitled to a measure of credit because of reductions made by each of them in his budget, but in some manner additional credit for the commissioners is sought on the grounds that property valuations have been reduced by some one million four hundred thousand dollars.

Credit in fact is due to the official or officials responsible for this reduction; but the commissioners are entitled to no share of it. The commissioners' journal and assessment rolls on which any reduction in valuations ordered by the commissioners would appear, contain no entry to show that the commissioners had any part in bringing about this reduction. On the contrary, whatever is due on this account, belongs to the Republican county assessor, who made the valuations and obtained approval of them at the hands of the state board of equalization.

An itemized list of savings attributed to the present board of county commissioners has been prepared to show a saving last year to the credit of the present board in the sum of about twenty-eight thousand dollars as compared with county expenditures during 1922. No account, however, is taken in this list of the fact that there were extraordinary expenditures in 1922 that the county was not called upon to meet last year. These extraordinary expenditures included the cost of an election, six thousand four hundred forty-five dollars and twenty-one cents; road appropriation for work on the Lilly grade, eighteen hundred dollars, and American Falls district appropriation, nine hundred ten dollars. When these items are eliminated from the comparison, it will be seen that there is actually no great difference in the expenditures for running expenses of the county last year as compared with the preceding year, and where economies have been effected, other county officials are entitled to the credit.

Captain Blood

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Copyrighted, 1923, by Rafael Sabatini.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitaphone picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"I tell you because . . . Oh, plague on it!—so that ye may tell her; so that she may be made to realize that there's something of the 'unfortunate gentleman' left under the thief and pirate as accounts me, and that her own good is my supreme desire. Knowing that, she may . . . faith, she may remember me more kindly if it's only in her prayers. That's all my lord."

Lord Julian held out his hand. "I wonder whether you are right," said his lordship, "and whether you are not the better man."

"Where she is concerned see that you make sure that I am right: Good-bye to you."

The Arabella sailed within the hour, moving lazily before a slight breeze. The fort remained alert and there was no movement from the fleet to hinder her departure.

CHAPTER XXI

WAR

Five miles out at sea from Port Royal, whence the details of the coast of Jamaica were losing their sharpness, the Arabella bore to seaward, and she had been towing was warped alongside.

Captain Blood escorted his compulsory guest to the head of the ladder. Colonel Bishop breathed freely at last.

"A safe voyage home to you, Colonel, darling," said he in a valentine, and from his easy, smiling manner you would never have dreamt of the pain he carried in his breast.

On the mole at Port Royal, under the low, embattled wall of the fort, Major Mallard and Lord Julian waited to receive him, and it was with infinite relief that they assisted him from the sloop.

"Anyway, it's not for long," growled the Colonel, finding speech at last. "No, by . . . He emphasized the assurance by an unpleasant path. "If I spend the last shilling of my fortune and the last ship of the Jamaica fleet, I'll have that mascal in a hempen necktie before I rest." He had embarked in his angry vehemence, and the veins of his forehead stood out like whipcord. "Come, my lord. We must take order about this, you and I."

They went off together, skirting the redoubt, and so through court-yard and garden to the house where Arabella waited anxiously. The sight of her uncle brought her infinite relief, not only on his own account, but on account also of Captain Blood.

"You took a great risk, sir," she gravely told Lord Julian after the ordinary greetings had been exchanged.

But Lord Julian answered her as he had answered Major Mallard. "There was no risk, ma'am. So that Blood's ship were allowed to pass the fort, no harm could come to Colonel Bishop. Blood pledged me his word for that."

Very early next morning, before the heat of the day came to render the open intolerable to his lordship, he espied her from his window moving amid the azaleas in the garden. He hurried forth to see her. He explained himself by the announcement that he bore her a message from Captain Blood.
