Admiral Eberle Urgently Recommends That Appropriations be Made to Repair Old Battleships.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Re-appropriation of the funds made available by the sixty-seventh congress for elevating the main batteries of the older battleships of the United States fleet was urgently recommended today by Admiral R. E. Eberle, chief of naval operations, in his annual report to Secretary Wilbur.

The six older battleships also must be thoroughly modernized, he said, "if reliance upon them as ships of the first line of battle is to continue." Plans for the work have been prepared, the report said, against the hoped-for authority from congress to proceed.

About Stationary.

Depleted maintenance funds have caused the material condition of the fleet as a whole to remain not better than stationary, according to Admiral Eberle. He called attention that much of the repair work during the last year had been accomplished by use of salvaged material, which now has been exhausted.

With reference to new construction, the report recommended passage of the bill which was approved by the last house but died in the senate in a deadlock in material condition through the year because of lack of funds to make complete repairs as the need arose, Admiral Eberle pointed out that with each year of advancing age the upkeep on any ship increases.

Brandegee of Connecticut, who committed suicide here six weeks ago, owed debts in this city totaling $180,000, with assets here of $20,000, according to a petition filed in the District of Columbia supreme court today by W. D. Landy, one of the administrators of the estate.

FLOOR LEADER
OUTLINES PLAN

First Four Days of Short Session of Congress Are Mapped Out by Longworth.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—A tentative legislative program for the house for the first four days of the approaching short session of congress was outlined today by Representative Longworth of Ohio, the republican floor leader.

He said the house, after convening next Monday, probably would authorize the speaker to appoint a committee to serve with a similar senate committee to notify the president that congress was ready to transact business and then adjourn out of respect to members who have died since the last session.

Tuesday the house expects to receive the annual message from the president, which this year is to be read to both houses separately unless the executive alters his decision not to deliver it in person, and also any other messages that may be sent from the White House.

Wednesday, he said, will be set aside for the consideration of bills on the calendar. The naval committee, he added, plans to bring up a measure providing for numerous changes in the administration of the navy.

The interior appropriation bill, he announced, is scheduled to be taken up Thursday.

RESERVOIR BIDS ARE POSTPONED TEN DAYS

Commissioner Sets Date for Opening American Falls Offers at January 1 Instead of December 20.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—The date for the opening of the new bids for the construction of the American Falls (Idaho) dam, recently set for December 20, has been advanced by Reclamation Commissioner Edward M. Anderson to January 1 at American Falls. The original bids were rejected because of changed specifications. A conference has been called for December 1 at Denver, Colorado, when engineers and Idaho officials will discuss revised plans.

PASTOR THINKS
WIFE TOOK LIFE

Husband of Woman Found in Furnace Would Like to Believe She Was Murdered.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Rev. C. V. Sheatsley, husband of Addie Sheatsley, furnace victim, on his return from Paris, Ohio, today said:

"I would rather believe she was murdered—foul as the deed may be—rather than to believe she took her own life, but until such evidence has been definitely established, I will think she took her own life."

With Mr. Sheatsley were his four children. On arriving in Columbus they went directly to the parsonage where the badly burned body was found by Mr. Sheatsley in the furnace, November 17.

Mr. Sheatsley said that he and members of his family would appear before County Prosecutor John E. King, who is conducting an investigation of the mystery, at any time the latter may suggest.

DIES AFTER LONG FIGHT.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 26 (AP)—Peter McGlelland, 68, of Waco, Texas, died at the home of a friend near here today, little more than two weeks after coming into possession of a $300,000 estate for which he had fought in the courts for 38 years.

ORGANIZATION

Minnesota Body Affiliated With Nation-Wide Association Break Relations; President Also Resigns.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Minnesota Wheat Growers' association has withdrawn from the American Wheat Growers' association, the National Wheat Co-operative organization with headquarters here, and W. C. Brown has resigned as president of the national body, it was announced here today.

Mr. Brown, in making the announcement, declined to give the complete reason for the break, but said that it will be permanent unless the conduct of the American group is changed.

He said the Minnesota association will market its 1924 crop with the new grain marketing company of Chicago, formed by the consolidation of five private companies into a co-operative organization. He added that they wish to market with the Chicago company which was the immediate cause of the withdrawal.

Mutual Consent.

By the common consent of the Minnesota and the American organizations the five-year contract, which bound the Minnesota body to turn over its wheat to the American, was abrogated, Mr. Brown said.

C. M. Strawman of Montana, general manager of the American Wheat Growers' association, said that all the other state organizations, Montana, North and South Dakota, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Colorado, remain with the American.

Laborers Sell Wives to Each Other, U. S. Official Says; One Sold at $100.

HONOLULU, Nov. 26 (AP)—Barter of brides among Filipinos on the island of Hawaii was alleged today by Fred Patterson, deputy United States district attorney, in connection with arrest of three Filipino laborers at Honolulu, that island.

It was alleged that one of the Filipinos sold his wife to another for $100. Patterson said confessions had been obtained.

HUGE CROWD IS PROMISED GAME

Indications Point to Excellent Condition for Idaho-Nevada Grid Contest at Boise.

BOISE, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fine, clear weather, just cold enough to put pep into the play, and a record breaking crowd are promised when Idaho's Vandals and Nevada's Wolves take the field Thanksgiving day for the fifth annual southern Idaho intercollegiate football classic. Both teams have been in Boise since Tuesday morning, and have been sharing Cody park for practice.

Neither is handicapped by injuries and both will enter the fray intact so far as varsity lineups are concerned. Both coaches profess confidence, but sentiment among Boise followers of the Vandals is that an Idaho victory is imminent.

Battle of the Air.

It promises to be a battle of the air, a struggle between the Notre Dame system of R. L. Mathews, Vandal mentor, and the famous California system of Charlie Erb, quarter on Andy Smith's "wonder-teams" of recent years.

Hotels were filling fast Wednesday night in preparation for the big struggle, and reports indicated the sale of all seating space except some of the bleacher seats.

MANY TO SEE GAME.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 26 (AP)—A crowd of about 10,000 is expected to witness the annual clash between University of Utah and Utah Agricultural college on the gridiron here tomorrow. The farmer lads from Logan and the Utes are chased at about even and a hot battle is anticipated.

DESPERATE ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO MURDER HIGH
COMMISSIONER OF BRITISHRum Runners Save
Dry Agents At Sea
After Difficulties

Three Men in Open Boat Lost Way and Rescued After 12 Days by Bootleggers Only With Persuasion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Rescued by a rum runner after 12 days at sea, three starved and thirty run chasers of the treasury department reported here today with a strange tale involving the quality of mercy dispensed by bootleggers on the bounding main.

In the speed boat King Bird II, last November 13, Agents James Lynch, William Mangin and Frank Brunner, set out from Atlantic City bound for Boston where the King Bird II had been assigned to customs marine patrol duty. It was to make a voyage of a day or two at the most.

Lost in Fog.

As the boat swung outward from Long Island to inspect the far flung rum fleet, rain, snow and fog enveloped her. The captain, who had put the crew to sleep, became enervated; the drinking water froze; the food supply dwindled to nothing.

Nine Days after Leaving Atlantic City the treasury department mariners ate their last sandwiches.

No Man's Land.

At last the desperate crew sighted No Man's Land, an island off Martha's Vineyard, and scolding power came running to and from the shore. One of the speedsters drew near the King Bird II, but when she learned that the megaphoned shouts for aid came from government officials, the speedster turned tail and frothed away, leaving behind only derisive catcalls and invitations to "go down yourself."

Another speedster, viewed some hours later. This time the agents didn't announce their calling. Instead they talked about the rum business and when the speedster drew close, swung around and from the shore, out of a tow, and "take us ashore" became commands, rather than entreaties. Soon the King Bird II was bobbing at the end of a line toward Woods Hole, 55 miles away.

There was food for the mariners at a coast guard station that night and there was sleep. And the next day, which was yesterday, there was a purse for the rum running Samaritan captured to him, according to the treasury agents, as they departed for New York. The King Bird II remained at Woods Hole for repairs.

WATKINS FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER FOR
KILLING O. S. L. EMPLOYEE

BOISE, Nov. 26 (AP)—Nick Watkins, former Union Pacific messenger brakeman, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in district court tonight for the slaying of Dave Jennings, fellow brakeman, at the Union Pacific passenger station in Boise on the morning of August 26.

Judge Dana E. Brinck set Friday, November 28, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for time to pronounce sentence. Under the statute, according to the prosecuting attorney's office, sentence cannot exceed ten years in the state penitentiary.

BONNEVILLE COUNTY
DEFENDANT IN SUIT

BOISE, Nov. 26 (AP)—Suit to recover $18,880.00 from Bonneville county was filed in the United States district court today by S. K. Mitty and George Mitty doing business under the name of the North Pacific Construction company, a California corporation.

The company claims that the county is in such short in paying for the construction of a new court house at Idaho Falls several years ago. The contract price after some additions were made during the construction amounted to $159,341.73, and it is alleged in the suit that the county has paid but $140,461.08.

URGES BIG APPROPRIATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—President Coolidge was asked today by representatives of the National Industrial Traffic league to support large appropriations for the interstate commerce commission. The delegation emphasized the necessity for early completion of the commission's valuation of railroads.

TO ATTEND RATE HEARING.

DAWES RETURNS HOME.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP)—General Charles G. Dawes, vice president elect, today left the Evanston hospital and was taken to his home where he is expected to take an important part in the disposal of a turkey dinner for members of the family tomorrow.

Egyptian Nationalists Plan to Kill Viscount Allenby; Precautions Taken; Trouble Stirs Europe.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Egyptian nationalists have arranged to make a desperate attempt on the life of Viscount Allenby, the British high commissioner, according to the Cairo correspondent of the Daily Mail, who says that information regarding this plan has been received from many trustworthy sources and that the danger is officially regarded as very serious.

The guards on the residency have been doubled and increased precautions will be taken to protect Lord Allenby when driving through the streets. An order has been issued that every high British military and civil officer henceforth shall be accompanied in public by an armed escort. Officers must carry revolvers, and civilian officers must keep a revolver in their desk.

URGES STUDENTS TO BE CALM.

CAIRO, Nov. 26 (AP)—Former Premier Zagloul Pasha's last words before departing for the pyramids today were an exhortation to the striking students to return to the schools and remain calm. The former premier was the recipient of an ovation from the students and other citizens.

In a brief speech he asked the students why they were striking and said he could not too strongly urge them to set a good example to others by resuming their duties and ceasing their demonstrations. It was a most critical hour in the country's destiny, he declared, but the nation's interests would best be served by remaining calm.

FEW DEVELOPMENTS.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Egyptian crisis shows no marked developments today, Cairo and Alexandria remain quiet and even the militant students seem disposed to accept the advice of Zagloul Pasha for they refrained from demonstrations.

Viscount Allenby, the British high commissioner, is said to content himself with seeing that the Egyptian units are withdrawn from the Sudan and awaiting the next move of the Cairo government.

King's Speech.

The British cabinet held another council today to discuss the situation in connection with the preparation of the king's speech at the opening of parliament which must necessarily deal with Egyptian affairs. The debate on the address will doubtless promote a protest from the opposition against what is characterized in opposition quarters as the government's "jingoistic" methods in dealing with a weak country like Egypt, but, although neither the liberals nor the laborites approve of Lord Allenby's methods, Ramsey MacDonald, a leader of the opposition, can hardly call in question the policy pursued, but only the method of its application, since he himself held it quite impossible to negotiate with Zagloul owing to the extremist demands of the former Egyptian premier.

JUDGES FAVOR
ORY TRANSFER

Federal Jurists Think Prohibition Enforcement Should be Under Justice Department.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Body transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury department to the department of justice, is among the recommendations adopted by the judicial conference of senior circuit judges, it became known today when Chief Justice Taft as chairman of the conference, addressed a letter to Attorney General Clegg transmitting a request that he embody the proposal in his annual report to congress.

The senior circuit judges, familiar with court conditions and reflecting the opinion of federal district judges, take the position that the transfer should be made at once. Making their recommendations on an abundant experience with prosecutions arising under the prohibition law, the judges, with Chief Justice Taft concurring, declare that such a transfer "would make much for effectiveness in enforcing the law."

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

HANNBAL, Mo., Nov. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Edward C. Love, 42, was burned to death and her husband is in critical condition following the explosion of a bottle of alcohol at their home here today.

TAILOR'S LABEL BRINGS ARREST OF CHICAGO MAN

Accident and Taste for Good Clothes Proves Undoing of Man Sought for $2,000,000 Swindle Year Ago.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 26 (AP)—Accident and a taste for good clothes led to the arrest of Leo Koretz after he had for almost a year successfully evaded arrest for Chicago land swindles said to total more than $2,000,000.

Horace A. Fleming, secretary of the board of directors of the Bank of Nova Scotia, admitted that it was through information sent by him to the Chicago authorities that Koretz had been apprehended. The telltale clue that brought Nova Scotia's "eccentric retired millionaire" of the past year to justice was a label in a coat made by a Chicago tailor.

Liked Rare Books.

Koretz, known here as Lou Keyte, a cultured gentleman who devoted his life to gratifying a hobby for rare books and the building of a fine estate he had purchased near Halifax, ordered a new suit of F. J. Hiltz, Halifax tailor, two weeks ago. Hiltz previously had made three suits of silk fur trimmed pajamas for his client, who had expressed himself quite pleased with them despite the cost of $150 a suit.

The cultured Mr. Keyte explained that he was particular as to the cut of his suit. He couldn't explain just what he wanted, but the could show Hiltz, he said, producing an old suit. "Copy that suit," he said as he left, "and then renovate the old one. It'll do for lolling about in."

Label Is Removed.

Hiltz noticed that the label had been cut from the coat's inside pocket, but in renovating the garment came upon another label in the lining. It bore the name of "Leo Koretz" over the signature of an exclusive Chicago tailor.

Fleming, another customer, happened into the shop about that time and Hiltz began to discuss the "eccentric retired millionaire" showing the banker the hidden label.

Fleming, knowing that his bank had given "Keyte" high endorsement, communicated the peculiar find to the Chicago authorities last week and Assistant State's Attorneys Sharbaro and McSwiggan immediately came here to arrest the "eccentric millionaire" who is said to have confessed and who now is awaiting extradition.

INDICTMENTS BOUGHT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP)—Three more indictments will be sought against Leo Koretz, it was announced by State's Attorney Robert P. Crowe.

Koretz is now under only one indictment, the charge being operating a confidence game. By increasing the number he can be held under high bonds while awaiting trial, the prosecutor said.

A brother, Ferdinand Koretz, is a member of the grand jury, and should new true bills against the Bayano River Trust head be sought, the latter will probably be permitted to absent himself from the sittings.

State's Attorney Crowe also indicated today that he would oppose any move upon the government's part to have Koretz tried first in the federal courts. The United States district attorney, Edwin A. Olson, has asserted that the government's case is the stronger and would assure a heavier penalty and therefore should be tried first. It is possible under the federal law for a district judge to leave a writ of habeas corpus for Koretz and thus force the state to turn him over to the government.

Work in Terms of Calories.

Light tasks, says the Journal of the A. M. A., such as sewing, crocheting or embroidery, call for an average expenditure of about nine calories an hour more than that of the same person sitting quietly in a chair. Tasks regarded as "harder work" than sewing, such as washing, sweeping or scrubbing, require an increment of at least fifty calories for an average person. Recent experiments have shown how the mere change in the height of the table at which work is being done may cause an increase of from 20 to 40 percent in the calories required. This illustrates, to quote the report, the importance of choosing equipment to "fit" the worker.

Men and Women in the News of the Day

Below: WILLIAM H. ANDERSON & SIR AUGUST AND GEDDES Below: MRS. MARY K. EGGLESTON & MRS. ANNE LONGWORTH

THE STORK is expected for the first time to visit the home of Congressman and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth of Ohio in February. They have been married 10 years. Mrs. Longworth is a daughter of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

SIR AUGUST AND GEDDES, former British ambassador to the United States, has been appointed chairman of the royal commission on food prices by Premier Stanley Baldwin.

WILLIAM H. ANDERSON, former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, of New York state, convicted of forgery, will be paroled from Sing Sing prison on Christmas Eve, and will be re-arrested on four charges of theft and extortion.

MRS. MARY K. EGGLESTON, wealthy widow of Larned, Kansas, has been found guilty of attempting to poison her self-styled fiancé, David Ely, realtor, in order to gain possession of his fortune of $65,000. The plot was bare by a laborer, O. Pool, who said he was offered $200 to administer the poisoned wine. Ely stuck by the woman through the trial, and broke down and wept when she was convicted.

BANKRUPTCY RULES TO BE SOMEWHAT AMENDED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Important amendments to the bankruptcy and equity rules of the federal courts throughout the country to meet abuses which have developed recently, especially in bankruptcy proceedings, are expected to come from the supreme court, on the basis of recommendations by the judicial conference of senior circuit court judges in session here, which has found the subject one of the most pressing of those demanding its attention.

Chief Justice Taft, as chairman of the conference has transmitted to the supreme court the recommendations of the conference, which were adopted after full consultation with every circuit and district judge, committee representing the American Bar and National Credit Men's association and with representatives of both organizations. The court which has complete authority to act in the matter, has taken the proposals under consideration and is expected to announce its conclusions without delay.

The Polite Sandpiper.

Among scientists this sandpiper is known as Helodromas Solitarius. He has a straight, slender bill, with the upper part crossed over half its length; the outer tail feathers and tail covers are white, barred with dusky bars; he is also spotted and barred under his wings, and measures about seven and a half inches long. The solitary sandpiper breeds up in the northern part of the United States and with his millions and swells he goes down to the Gulf coast to spend the winter. The sandpiper is a very polite bird. As soon as he sees you he will salute by nodding his head. He seems to be proud of the markings on the under side of his wings. For when he salutes he will hold his long wings stretched upwards, so that one may see and admire the pretty markings before the wings slowly and gracefully fold upon his back, and he interests himself in the search of food—Dan Beard in Boys' Life.

AT THE ORPHEUM

To an Englishman falls the privilege of portraying the strange life of the greatest American of modern times—Theodore Roosevelt. The Englishman who plays Roosevelt in "Sundown," Earl Hudson, is the fast-fading west now being shown at the Orpheum theater, is a character actor who bears a striking resemblance to the late president.

One of the most striking moments of this First National picture is the incident when a delegation of cattle owners visit Roosevelt at the White House in an endeavor to get him to use his influence with congress to stop the granting of homestead acreage.

AT THE IDAHO

Why wives leave home—some go voluntarily; others are snatched right at the altar and carried into the mountains by bad men. Anyway, that's what happens to Rudolph Valentino in his latest Paramount picture, "A Sainted Devil," which opens at the Idaho yesterday. It's a Joseph Henabery production of Forrest Halsey's adaptation of the magazine serial, "Rope's End," by Rex Beach. Starring Helen Helms and many others well known on both the stage and screen play in support of the star.

"The Sundown Limited," an "Our Gang" comedy, and the News Weekly are exceptionally good.

Being "Out of One's Element"

When you see folks out of their element you can count on strange conduct. The fish out of water is no more strange than the average man in water when he can't touch bottom. A wild duck in a parlor would cause quite a commotion, but he wouldn't be more out of place than would some uncouth eccentric at a White House reception, or an angel at a ball fight. Yet all these things happen all the time. Out of their elements folks are strange. The average city boy pokes fun at the rustic as he opens his eyes in wild amazement at the strange sights of the big city. But that same city boy is just as much at sea in the woods or on the farm as the rustic. Each sees "strange" in the other. We need to see the points common to us all to exhibit the right sympathy.—Grit.

Legend of the Topaz

The topaz has been regarded as a cure for blindness. There is a tale of the emperor of Rome that, becoming blind, he was accustomed to sit in judgment in a large hall, from which no one was deterred from entering a complaint. One day, the myth goes a serpent complained that a porcupine had devoured his young and driven it out of its hole. The emperor ordered the porcupine killed and the serpent restored to her nest. A few days later an enormous serpent entered the judgment hall and before those present had recovered from their fear laid two large topaz stones on Caesar's eyes, saying: "Thus do I compensate him who has rendered justice to me." And, lo! the emperor's sight was restored.

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Until recently Death valley, California, where a temperature of 134 degrees in the shade was registered at Greenland ranch on July 19, 1912, was considered the hottest place on the earth's surface. According to the quarterly journal of the Royal Meteorological society, this record has been broken at the Italian settlement of Azizia, in the semi-desert region of north Africa, about 25 miles south of Tripoli, where a properly sheltered thermometer rose to 136.4 degrees.

Lent Long Observed

The custom of observing Lent dates from the early history of the Catholic church. Before the third century, there is positive evidence of the solemn observance of the last two days of Holy week, and it gradually spread to include the whole week. Finally, in 325, the council of Nicea, recognized the period of 40 days' fasting as a commemoration of the fasting of Christ as an example of fasting. In the medieval church the fasting was very strictly observed, and included abstinence from all meat, milk and its products, and from all food until evening.

SHAPE OF HEAD NOT AN INDICATION OF MAN'S BRAIN POWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—If you have a low brow it is no sign you are slow; neither can you try to raise to high browism simply by power of the physical dimension. The conclusion that high brows and low brows are no indication of mentality or lack of it was presented to an audience in a lecture here by Dr. Alex. Arlicka, curator of physical anthropology of the National museum.

"Long, narrow heads, with high, sloping forehead," Dr. Arlicka said, "are currently supposed to denote a high intelligence, and low, broad foreheads with rounded craniums a similarly low degree of mentality. This is absolutely a fallacy, and scientists are now convinced that such characteristics have no bearing on a man's mind."

UNIVERSITY HAS CHAMPION COW

Idaho School Has Two-Year-Old Jersey With a Remarkable Butterfat Record.

MOSCOW, Nov. 26.—(Special to The News)—The University of Idaho has again distinguished itself by breeding, developing and testing an outstanding Jersey, and this time it is Ida U Torone Louise, 504887, that reflects the good work of this institution.

Louise was placed on test when she was two years, three months of age and in the following year she produced 645.86 pounds of butter fat and 12,404 pounds of milk. With this excellent record she becomes the Champion Junior two-year-old Jersey owned by any agricultural college. This gives the University of Idaho two of the seven class leaders for Jersey cows owned by state agricultural colleges.

Louise is by Pogue Toronto Investigator, 177257, and out of Ovel's Louise of Waikiki, 478109. This dam has two good R. of M. records including one of 413.70 pounds of butterfat, made as a junior two-year-old.

SONG COMPOSER IN SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP)—Victor R. Schertzinger, composer of popular songs has been named defendant in a $250,000 allegation of affections suit filed in the superior court by Fred C. Beers, manager of an artist's booking exchange in Hollywood. The complaint alleges Schertzinger enticed Mary O. Beers, the plaintiff's wife, known in motion pictures as Mary Culver, to leave him September 13, last.

Beers at the same time filed suit for divorce, charging infidelity.

The second Shakespearean program in the series to be given this year by the drama and literature department of the Twentieth Century club was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Costello. The play of "Macbeth" was given by Mrs. H. C. Schurger, who was leader of the day, in her usual inimitable manner. Mrs. Charles North had an especially fine paper on "Lady Macbeth" and Mrs. E. J. Stephens gave a splendid talk on the character of Macbeth. There was a large attendance and the meeting was a most enthusiastic one. Following the program Mrs. Costello served dainty refreshments.

The annual community dinner given by M. S. and S. club was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Schubert on Wednesday with Mrs. E. R. Walz and Mrs. W. H. Reed assisting the hostess. This was an especially delightful affair, a large number of club members being present to enjoy the bountiful cafeteria dinner served at 1 o'clock. The afternoon was spent socially and with an amusing entertainment given in the form of an old-fashioned school program with Mrs. J. M. Jamerson as school mistress. A short business session was held and it was planned to pick a collection of fruit for the Children's Home at Boise. Each member is asked to bring or send a quart of fruit to the next meeting, also a gift for the gift.

box as this will be the last regular meeting before Christmas and will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Parish December 10 instead of the seventeenth as previously announced.

Mrs. Harkins was hostess to the Woman's Progressive club Tuesday afternoon with 13 members present. The club has been preparing the winter supply of clothing for two orphans whom they have adopted in the Boise home. This clothing was paid for with the proceeds from the plays given by the Imperial Players. It was on display at this meeting before sending away for Thanksgiving. The hostess served a delicious luncheon and the club adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Kirkman with Mrs. Haverland as hostess.

Complimenting Mrs. Lulu M. Barclay of Barley, grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, the Past Matrons' club gave a charming luncheon Wednesday at 1 o'clock in the Business Women's club rooms. Mrs. W. P. Pike gave the invocation and Mrs. J. W. Chapman, president of the club, acted as toastmistress. Covers were laid for 20 and each one present answered roll call by giving the names of grand chapter meetings she had attended and telling of some of the outstanding impressions they had made upon her. Mrs. P. W. McElberts in her usual gracious manner presented Mrs. Barclay with a token of esteem from this chapter and Mrs. Barclay responded most pleasingly.

Judge and Mrs. O. P. Davall, Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Batley and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benoit motored to Boise Wednesday to witness the football game next meeting, also a gift for the gift.

The Addison Avenue Social club met at the home of Mrs. Pickering Tuesday afternoon with 18 members and one guest present. Plans were made for a party to be given at the home of Mrs. Frank Smith Monday evening, December 1. The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing "500" at which Mrs. Turner received the guest prize and Mrs. Williams the consolation. The hostess served delicious refreshments at three small tables having a centerpiece of flowers. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Brueggemann on Wednesday, December 10.

HITCH COMES IN TITLE CONTEST

Thanksgiving Day Gridiron Contests Throughout Nation

Twin Falls Seems Likely to Insist on Revision of Board of Control Ruling.

Possibility seemed strong here Wednesday evening that Twin Falls would insist to the point of forfeiture of the game upon designation of officials that would meet with the approval of both contestants in the Twin Falls-Nampa game scheduled to be played at Nampa Friday for the state football championship title.

This possibility developed when word was received from J. J. Rae of Caldwell, chairman of the state board of control of intercollegiate athletics, to the effect that Twin Falls must accept the designation of the officials heretofore named under penalty of forfeiture of the championship game. Two of these officials are residents of Boise and one of Caldwell.

Twin Falls has urged that officials for the Nevada-Idaho game at Boise today be retained to serve in similar capacities at the Twin Falls-Nampa game.

Word from the chairman of the board of control also was to the effect that expenses of only 10 Twin Falls players would be paid. This number was deemed insufficient and arrangements were made for others to make the trip at the expense of the local school.

Low Rate for Students.

Twin Falls team and high school band are to leave the high school at 7 o'clock this morning by motor stage for Boise to attend the Nevada-Idaho game at Boise today, and to be on hand Friday for the scheduled game at Nampa.

Opportunity for high school students to make the trip to Nampa as a rate of $3 for the round trip is available, according to J. H. Corcoran, student manager, announcing completion of arrangements for motor stages leaving the high school at 5 o'clock Friday morning and returning Friday evening.

INSPECTOR GIVES RULE ON USE OF OLD SACKS

Points Out Possible Saving Through Use of Second-Hand Bags Under Regulations.

Editor V. Gibson, horticultural and forest products inspector, in a statement issued Wednesday, directed attention of growers and shippers to a recent ruling in regard to the use of second-hand sacks for shipment of produce to California. The statement follows:

Inasmuch as the government records show that 1923 carlot shipments to Los Angeles alone from Idaho, were 10,000 cars, we can get some idea of the effect their quarantine regulations may have on our shipments.

Commissioner Means has ruled on the use of second-hand sacks as follows: "Practically clean second-hand sacks, unpunctured, not deteriorated in strength may be used. Also sacks having small holes in them may be used, if the holes are neatly sewed up. Sacks that have been used before in potatoes, may be used again if turned, shaken and laundered, provided they meet the other requirements, as to strength and freedom from holes and excessive stains."

As the price of new sacks is advancing, the use of second-hand sacks will mean in some cases quite a saving, for the sack can be prepared for use at an expense of from 2 to 3 cents apiece.

However, Twin Falls and west end shippers considering the use of such sacks should get in touch with the inspector in order that no misunderstanding may arise as to the use of the same. Of course, all sacks used for shipment to quarantine districts must be kept away and free from contamination with other vegetables, hay or cereal straw.

GRIDIRON TEAMS HERE FOR GLASH

Caldwell Squad With 20 Players Arrives to Meet Albion Normal Football Machine.

With a squad of 20 players, Caldwell high school's football team arrived here Wednesday evening for the clash this afternoon on Lincoln field with the Albion state normal school team that is to arrive here early this forenoon. The game is to begin at 2:30 p. m. Reports by quarters from the Nevada-Idaho game to be announced at Lincoln field as received over telephone installed on the field.

Prospects for an evenly-matched and hard-fought game when these teams meet are considered excellent by persons who are familiar with the records of this season of both teams. Caldwell is regarded as one of the strongest football machines of southwest Idaho, and Albion, with a number of stellar players on its lineup, including the Ames brothers of Elmer, achieved distinction here by holding to a scoreless tie the Twin Falls team that Friday is to contest with Nampa for the state championship.

BLUE TRIANGLE MEETS

Members of the Blue Triangle club of the Twin Falls high school listened to an interesting and informative address on the subject of "Social Service" by Miss Iris Guthrie at the club meeting Monday evening. Miss Guthrie gave a resume of the work of the Social Welfare League of Seattle, which she has had the opportunity of studying. Dorcas Sheldon spoke briefly to the club interpretation of the code phrase, "Ready for Service." Readings by Elizabeth Miller, "An Ode to Posture," and Dorothy Barger, "An 'If' for Girls," followed. Camp songs by Misses Marjorie Wood, Betty Wilson, Patricia Wilson, Jane Maxwell and Mary Virginia Hart were received with much enthusiasm.

Harriet Clapp, president, announced the receipts of the sale of "hot dog" sandwiches to be nearly $40, which sum is to form the nucleus of the fund for camp next summer. For further promoting this activity a silver tea is planned to be given at the home of Miss Jane Maxwell, December 13.

Discussion of plans for the annual Christmas party for children was led by Ann Craven and Helen Reeves. The event for this year is set for December 10 in the high school building.

This protest was taken under consideration today and after an hour's meeting of the department chiefs of the secretariat, under the chairmanship of Sir Eric Drummond, it was decided not to distribute to the members of the league the Egyptian protest.

SHAW PROTESTS

LONDON, Nov. 26 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw in a lecture here tonight said the British government had absolutely destroyed the league of nations. The league, Mr. Shaw declared, depended on its recognition by the great powers but the British government had declined to refer the Egyptian trouble to the league and announced the intention to refer it to brute force. This was considered a calamity.

"I hope," said Mr. Shaw, "since we have taken to demanding blood money that the government will observe the traditions of blood money and see that it goes to the family of the murdered man."

DIFFERENCES HAVE NO PART IN RESIGNATION

One of Six Nurses Leaving County General Hospital Says She Has No Quarrel With New Administration.

Miss Margaret Rudy, one of six nurses at the county general hospital whose resignations were announced Tuesday evening, stated Wednesday evening that her resignation had not been submitted because of any differences with the hospital administration or regulations with which she expressed satisfaction. Miss Rudy has served for about five years as a nurse at the county hospital. She expects to remain in Twin Falls, she stated, on the part of two of the nurses whose resignations have been submitted to the hospital superintendent of nurses was to the effect that they objected to the new superintendent's administration.

O. E. Carlson and T. D. Connor, members of the board of county commissioners, stated Wednesday that the board stands squarely behind the regulations made for the institution by the new superintendent, and indorses these regulations, believing them to be for the best interests of the hospital.

Nurses to take the places of those who have resigned are being employed and operation of the hospital has not been interfered with in any respect.

THANKSGIVING.
Today, each according to his nature, will give thought to the Festival of Thanksgiving. For many there will be no pause in the day's occupation. For others, the day will be of a very different order to all the other days of the year.

Five minutes of retrospection may mean as great a degree of devotion for many as an entire compliance with the full letter and spirit of Thanksgiving and thus, each in his accustomed way will honor the significance of this annual day of thanks.

Everlastingly appropriate is the old harvest hymn of Arthur Göttsman, heard all too rarely in the present materialistic age:

"We plow the fields and scatter
The good seed on the land;
It is fed and watered
By God's almighty hand.

He sows the snow in winter,
The warmth to swell the grain,
The breezes and the sunshine
And soft refreshing rain."

Everybody joins in the chorus—
"All good gifts around us
Then thank the Lord, O thank the Lord,
For all His love."

Give thanks for comfort, for profitable labor, for assurance of continued safety and welfare. That alone will help to spiritualize and redeem mere material property. But it is no time to confine thought and gratitude to material things. In the eternal scale of values, they count for little. It is time to take stock of national ideals, to cherish such as are unswayed, and to realize more clearly that all material progress should be but the symbol and means of spiritual development.

CONVERSATIONAL QUOTAS.
There is a suggestion of Solomon in the decision of Judge Lewis of Chicago, in a case of marital trouble. Rose Kapoun brought suit for separate maintenance, alleging that it was impossible for her and her husband, George Kapoun, to live together peacefully. It developed that the main cause of dissension was too much talk. It was not merely that both husband and wife talked too much. The worst of it was that the both wanted to talk at the same time, and each resented the other's conversational marathon. So, the judge settled the matter like this:

Now is to do all the talking on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and George is to do all the talking he wants to on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. On Sunday the two are to take the children out for a good time and let them talk.

That seems like a fair division, as far as husband and wife are concerned, although it may cramp the conversational style of the children. At first, there may be need of an umpire but the alternation may come to be more or less automatic.

If it works as intended, that will be a quieter household. It takes a persevering talker, male or female, to talk all day without any comeback. And either, after listening to the other for a whole day, may realize the essential evil of human speech, and prefer to lapse into blessed silence, of which this world can never have too much.

It might be a good thing if conversation generally could be put on a famine basis, and rationed.

Study Snake Biology.
There are said to be more snakes in Brazil than in any other country of the western hemisphere. At Bantuan, near Sao Paulo, there is a great snake garden, where scientists are studying the mysteries of snake biology. The original reason for the establishment of the garden, which is a huge nursery for snakes, was to obtain serum enough to provide a remedy for those bitten by snakes throughout Brazil. The garden is 600 acres in extent and divided into three departments, each of which is devoted to cobras, rattlesnakes and bitophers, the most poisonous snakes known; while the third department is given over to the nonpoisonous snakes.

Why "Hoosier" State?
The Indianapolis News, replying to a correspondent, gives the following explanation of Indiana's nickname, the Hoosier state: "In the early days of the state the people were called Hoosiers. There is a wide difference of opinion as to why they were called Hoosiers. Mr. Elletts Nelson, in his book, 'The Hoosiers,' says in the course of an extensive discussion of the origin of the word: 'Both Gov. Wright and O. H. Smith were of the opinion that "Hoosier" was a corruption of "Whisper" (see or hear). It is also thought to be a corruption of "Hoosier," and other explanations are advanced.

CAMEL ONCE ROAMED THROUGH NEVADA'S BELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fossil bones of a drawl camel and a three-toed midget horse which are believed to have roamed the western reaches of the North American continent until some 1,800,000 years ago, are the latest addition to the collection at the National Museum. They have just been brought here by Dr. W. F. Foshag, its assistant curator of mineralogy, among other fossil remains found in the rock formations of Nevada during a five-month field study. Another species brought back is a tooth declared by Dr. Grady of the museum to have helped masticate the food of a mastodon about six feet high, probably four-toothed, and believed to have been a near relation of the early ancestors of the present day elephant.

Moral Taught Chinese Children.
A warning to school children of China is given in the career of the unscrupulous Pang Kien, who cut off the ends of straw that his teacher told him to arrange evenly, while the careful and honest Sung Ping separated a similar bundle and held the straws straight, one by one, and found that they were all of uniform length without cutting. The character thus manifested by the two showed their teacher which of his pupils would best repay his efforts, and judgment was instantly given in favor of Sung Ping.

"SINNERS IN HEAVEN"
by Clive Arden

Dazedly she looked around. Springing over crags, scrambling through brushwood, Croft came down the hill behind the hut at break-neck speed. The native, quickly regaining his feet, cast one glance toward the tall white figure with blazing eyes, drooping, to his muddled senses direct from the heavens; then, without a word, he turned swiftly and leapt, with extraordinary rapidity, back toward the palm grove.

Her transient strength ebbing away, Barbara staggered forward.

"Croft caught her by the arms.

"What the devil made you leave the hut?" he demanded angrily.

All tendency to faint left her. No lash of a whip could so have quickened her bewildered brain. She recoiled in his grasp, gasping up into his face dumfounded. Amid the confusion of her mind his extreme pallor struck her forcibly. His eyes pierced her like flaming steel.

"Hadin't you enough sense to realize this possibility?"

Now was the time to assert herself, she hesitated; searched vainly for a retort; opened her mouth; closed it again. In her weak state circumstances proved too overwhelming. Feeling utterly insignificant, she merely turned her miserable eyes seaward.

"It was only looking—for you," she murmured unthinkingly.

Opposition may wear down a man, as a fortress, with time; but helplessness silences all guns. Heavens! brooding hard, still grasping her arm, gazing into her face with eyes no longer kindling with anger, but smoldering with something she could not define—something composed of horror and fear.

"G—d!" he muttered at last, in a different tone. "If I had been too late!"

For a moment he stood silent, scanning the vicinity of the palm grove; perceiving no signs of the native, he turned with her toward the hut.

"I rescued most of the wireless and luggage," he said, turning the subject of her thoughts abruptly. "I brought home some things across, and left the rest on the reef. You were asleep. So I took the wireless up the hill, and fixed up the aerial."

Sinking once more upon the coasts, she watched him carry in their suitcases—and something else.

It was the old tin box of Aunt Dolores' provisions. There rose to Barbara's eyes, and her throat contracted; but her companion's presence caused her to wrestle valiantly with the grief stirred up afresh by the sight of this familiar old box. The little homely things are ever those that bring out the full force of loss or tragedy.

Hiding weakness from Croft's eyes, however, was becoming, unconsciously, Barbara's purpose in life just now. Any display of it was, she felt intuitively, abhorrent to him. In silence she watched him, and the owner took up the spirit-lamp, reach among the other contents, and abstract a tin of milk.

Presently he brought some steaming milk in a small tin mug. She had often used that mug upon picaresque days; the sight of it, however, caused another wave of homesickness and loss.

"I can't drink it," she muttered, turning away.

"You must," he replied quietly, seating himself on the ground beside her, his countenance inexorable. She took no notice of his stare, but merely murmured:

"Come along! Don't be silly, Barbara."

Quickly she turned and faced him. Rather than too hastily she took the mug; but her hands trembled, and the milk splashed over the edge. He took the mug, and the owner guided them, and the roof firm touch brought a peculiar sense of calm and security.

"It tasted—queer!" she remarked. Rising, he returned to the work of unfettering his luggage.

"You said you were coming," he said presently. "Will you unpack it now?"

"Oh!—I can't! Not yet," she said wearily.

"Shall I?"

"No! No, dear me, no!" She started up in alarm.

"Tell me, but—don't you want things for the night?"

"No."

He looked at her in mute inquiry. "You don't suppose," she asked with asperity, "I shall ever—undress in this place?"

As he turned away, she saw the same flash of white teeth in the dim light that she had seen the first time they met.

"I advise you to change, after such a soaking," was his only remark. He stood near the door, as if uncertain, for a few moments, then pushed it open. "I shall have my supper outside."

"Good-night!" he added.

of the island. Chimbaboh, the old chief, sat in the leary council chamber near the entrance of the sacred palm grove, surrounded by his trusted warriors. In the center of the large circle of squatting figures stood Babooma—next in rank to the chief—recounting, in his muttering, sing-song dialect, the strange story which, arousing tragic memories, caused consternation and foreboding in every heart.

When he ceased, Chimbaboh sat silent, pulling his beard with wrinkled dark hands that trembled. An agitated hubbub broke out all around, fierce native notes blending with walls of distress.

The chief at last commanded silence and spoke.

"Whence came they, Babooma? Was there no strange canoe floating, like a vast island upon the lagoon?"

"There was not, O Chief. The white woman appeared in my path as if sprung from the waving palms! The white man—the looked furtively round—'did fall from the skies, sending his bolt before him!'"

He shivered, stroking his nose shrewdly. "The great white man—the O Chief! He will not easily be killed."

"How great is the tribe? Didst thou not see others, Babooma?"

"None other did I stay to see, O Chief! Perchance they are evil spirits come to hunt the huts where live the ghosts of our slain ones, or perchance they slay with built-upills like unto those other evil ones."

The chief sat in deep thought for some moments; then rose and waved his spear.

"The night," he cried. "Let preparations be made, my warriors. When next darkness hides the earth, we will fall upon this white tribe, true to the Vow!"

A confusion of voices resounded, accompanied by many earnest glances into the darkness of the forest; the savage joy of revenge was yet tempered with awe. Memories of the means of warfare adopted by white men caused them to follow their chief in still half-fearful excitement to the sacred palm grove.

Presently the sound of native voices rose once more, singing the songs of Hato.

The man sitting outside the little hut raised his face, inhaling the soft scents, grateful for the refreshing wind. All night he had sat motionless, head hidden in his hands. There was nobody to see, in his haggard features, what Barbara had seen that morning.

Although his eyes had not closed, this solitary vigil with his forced inaction, had revived and intensified the morning's sufferings. The sense of powerlessness which had attacked Barbara with such violence in the afternoon now attacked him. Again and again he strove to rise, but he thought of the wrecked man out there upon the reef; from the dark waters and the monsters which infested them, where those friends, strong aid of life, were many hours ago, now lay hidden. What was left, worse than mere drowning, had been their fate.

He strove to restrain his mental agony, dragging his mind away, for down that road madness lay. . . . There were natives, possibly cannibals, upon this island, to be faced sooner or later. There, to his mind, lay hope. For surely they were in touch with civilization? During his travels he had picked up a good number of dialects employed among Polynesian and Melanesian natives. With luck he might find some who would help him to decipher, if they had any. But this was doubtful. He knew well the characteristics of the Pacific; knew the trade routes, the ports of call, the features of islands in touch with civilization.

The features of many practically unknown islands, and the names of the natives, too, meant considerable risk, with a woman in his care. . . . At that thought, the same strange thrill shot through his frame which he had experienced in the morning; the awful loneliness of spirit seemed to fall from him.

Scattering his reflections, a strangled, terrified cry came from the hut. He sat up, alert in a moment. All had been quiet hitherto. The draught dropped into the milk had done its work. He had been fortunate in rescuing the case of medicine and first aid necessities from the machine.

Again, louder, another cry arose upon his ears. He sprang to his feet.

Reaction had come upon Barbara, awakening from the heavy effects of the opium, so vividly that she was almost delirious. The little hut seemed to swing round and round, now darting suddenly upward the sky, now dropping, as a stone, into limitless space. And ever, from the four quarters of space, round what seemed like ten thousand trains. . . . To escape was impossible, for somebody had barred the door. . . . He had rushed down now toward the dark fathomless waters. . . . they closed above her head, and everywhere black hands appeared, her—black leering faces came close. . . . With a shriek of terror she covered against the wall, when the door opened; then perceiving freedom, she can blindly toward the starlight without.

FARMERS WAGE WINNING FIGHT DURING SEASON

County Agricultural Agent in Annual Report Points Out
Achievement Under Unusual
Difficulties on Farms.

Twin Falls county farmers during the season just closed, made judicious use of all available water in order to keep crops growing and in addition waged battle with insects, rabbits and other pests with a degree of success, according to statement of R. E. Bransard, county agricultural agent in his annual report completed Wednesday, that "the end of the season saw fair crops of all products at better prices than 1923, and as a consequence the farmers of the county are in a more optimistic frame of mind at the present time than for several years past."

The report comprises 40 typewritten pages and includes a number of photographs and illustrations detailing the county agent's work during the year in relation to dairy improvement, crop improvement, poultry husbandry, insect control, home economics and institutes. Reference is made to the organization during the year of the Twin Falls Dairyman's association and the Oregon-Idaho Egg Producers.

Marketing Big Problem.

"The big problem before the farmers," the county agent says in the introduction to his report, "is a better system of marketing which will insure standardization of products in concentrated form for which there is a demand. In addition to this, of course, is the ever present problem of keeping down the costs per unit of the products so grown."

Outlining the difficulties which farmers of the county encountered this season, the county agent says in his report:

"To begin with the winter failed to prove a normal snowfall and rainfall so that our resources on which we depend for irrigation water did not fill to normal capacity. The Twin Falls tract was, however, in better shape than many other areas in the state, and we made judicious use of all available water in order to keep the crops growing."

"The summer was extremely dry, with dry hot winds blowing from the desert to the west. These dried up the natural vegetation which serves as food for insects, rabbits and other pests. The food supply being so short drove these pests onto the cultivated crops and immediately a battle began."

General policies of the county agent's office are stated in a forward to the report, as follows:

Outlines Agent's Policy.

"The plan followed in 1923 by the county agent in regard to a program of work was to allow for the natural development of such a program through the demands of the farmers themselves. This plan proved to be very successful, as a definite program was soon well established from a county-wide standpoint; this same plan was followed during the year and only those projects were undertaken which were large enough to be county-wide as no farm bureau or other county-wide organization is in existence in this county."

"The Twin Falls tract is wonderfully productive, so much so, in fact, that our chief problem is not so much production as it is standardization and marketing, some attention of, of course, being paid to bringing up the general average acre yields and decreasing to a minimum the ravages of insect pests, plant diseases, etc."

STUDENTS DISCUSS GAME

Band Receives Fund at High School Assembly to Pay Way to Accompany Team to Boise and Nampa.

Meeting of the high school assembly Wednesday afternoon was devoted to discussion of the forthcoming football championship game at Nampa. Joe Koehler presented to the band, through the leader, J. T. Bainbridge, a check for $102, proceeds of the benefit at the Idaho theater Tuesday, also an additional amount of $62 which was contributed by business men to complete the fund. Opportunity was also given at this time for presenting the prizes offered by the theater management for the largest ticket sales, Edna, Truett and Clark Beebe being the successful contestants for the reward of free trips to the games.

Musical for the assembly was provided by the high school teachers.

Twin Falls to Join in Traditional Thanksgiving Occasion Observance

In observance of the Thanksgiving occasion, Twin Falls schools closed Wednesday evening for the remainder of the week; public offices, banks and business houses will be closed all day today, and Thanksgiving day services are to be held today in Twin Falls churches.

While the Twin Falls high school football team and a big contingent of students and citizens will spend the day in Boise to attend the Nevada-Idaho gridiron classic and Nampa will wage contest for the Idaho interscholastic football championship, other Twin Falls residents will not be deprived of an opportunity to witness a Thanksgiving day football game, but probably will assemble in large numbers this afternoon on Lincoln field here to witness the game to be played by Albin Normal and Caldwell teams.

Religious spirit of the occasion is to be stressed at Thanksgiving day services in several churches.

Union Thanksgiving service is to be held at 11 a. m. in the Baptist church. The Rev. O. D. Harris, pastor of the Christian church is to deliver the sermon and other ministers will take part in the service. ## DEATH SUMMONS PIONEER CITIZEN

James Fitzgerald, Prominent in Educational and Business Affairs in County, Dies.

James Fitzgerald, pioneer settler of the Twin Falls country and prominent in business and school affairs, died Tuesday night at Mayo Brothers' hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, from peritonitis that developed following a second operation for cancer to which he submitted last Tuesday, according to word received here Wednesday. He was 60 years old. Mrs. O. J. Childs of Filer, his only child, was with him at Rochester and will return here with the body, after which arrangements for funeral services are to be made.

Born near Watertown, New York, Mr. Fitzgerald attended and graduated from Potsdam Normal school, New York, and taught for several years near Watertown. Later coming west he married Miss Cora M. Nelson, whose death occurred here last March. He taught in Spokane and Dayton, Washington, and 18 years ago came with his family to make their home on a farm near Filer, upon which they made proof under the Carey act. He engaged for several years in the nursery business and during that time served as a member of the Filer board of education. Eight years ago he moved to Twin Falls and founded the Fitzgerald Motor company of this city. He served two years as a member and treasurer of the Twin Falls board of education.

He was active in political affairs and eight years ago was candidate on the Democratic ticket for state representative.

Death of his wife dealt a severe blow to Mr. Fitzgerald and his health failed from that time. Early last month he went to Rochester for diagnosis and treatment of his affection, for which he underwent the first operation October 24.
