POSSES SEARCH HILLS FOR TWO BANK ROBBERS

Youthful Bandits Hold Up Utah Depository; Kill Real Estate Man in Their Get-Away Later.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Deputy sheriffs scouring the hills near here tonight for the robbers who this afternoon held up the Bountiful state bank and killed A. Roy Heath, prominent business man, in their escape, tonight captured R. H. McCoy, who has confessed, according to the police, to participation in the robbery.

McCoy denies that he took part in the shooting. He said he had two companions, but refused to identify them. McCoy was captured a short distance from Bountiful and surrendered without a fight.

No word has been received of the posse that is in pursuit of the other robbers.

BOUNTIFUL, Utah, Dec. 5 (AP)—Sheriff's posse are scouring surrounding hills here tonight for two youthful bank robbers who ran amuck after they held up the Bountiful state bank, killing Roy A. Heath, prominent Salt Lake real estate man in their flight, finally escaping into the mountains hither-to escape by disabling their machine.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon the two robbers entered the bank, forced the teller and a customer into a vault, stole $1500 and escaped in an automobile.

A few miles south of Bountiful, with a posse in pursuit, their machine ran into a ditch. The robbers stole horses from a nearby farm and were about to continue their flight when they encountered Heath and a party who were en route to Bountiful by automobile. Apparently mistaking them for deputies the bandits opened fire, critically wounding Heath, who died shortly after reaching a hospital.

JAP EXCLUSION HIT BY WOODS

Former United States Ambassador to Japan Sees Policy as Big Disaster.

ATLANTA, Georgia, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Japanese exclusion act was an international disaster of the first magnitude; a disaster to American diplomacy in the far east; a disaster to religion and effective work of our American churches. The Japanese exclusion act, former United States ambassador to Japan said in a letter sent to the federal council of churches in session here, for reading tonight.

The exclusion act also was brought to the attention of the council by Dr. A. R. H. Wood, pastor of the National Christian church of Japan, who recommended the appointment of a "high commission" composed of "representative Americans and Japanese" to work out a readjustment of the present situation.

Rail Stocks Popular Due to Contemplated Mergers

Roger W. Babson, Famous Statistician, Tells of Reason for Demand of Issues on New York Exchange.

BAUSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 5.—Contemplated mergers have played a large part in the popularity of railroad securities in both stock and bond markets. In discussing this current development in the railroad industry today, Roger W. Babson, statistician, offers some very interesting suggestions.

"The air is full of prospective railroad mergers," says Mr. Babson. "The old, inefficient and disastrous method of operating piecemeal short lines is over. The interstate commerce commission is on record that the railroads of the country should be grouped in certain combinations to the end that our commerce be handled in a sane and efficient manner."

"One of the first mergers that has come to the public eye and which is still in process is the Nickel Plate. Another one which is in process, and by the way, promises to be one of the largest, is the Missouri Pacific combination. This latter plan is one of the most ambitious schemes ever submitted. It serves to illustrate the method followed and the advantages gained by this whole merger program."

System Nucleus.

"The present Missouri Pacific is to be the nucleus in system No. 19 proposed by the interstate commerce commission. When complete the consolidated system, as planned, will probably extend from Chicago to St. Louis and Kansas City. From that point the system will continue to the Pacific coast, although the western extension from Salt Lake will be over the lines of the Western Pacific, which, though not controlled by Missouri Pacific, has a community of interest with the latter, each owning one-half of the common stock of the Denver and Rio Grande, a recently reorganized road. From St. Louis and Kansas City the consolidated system will also extend southward to the Gulf of Mexico."

"The total mileage of the combination is expected to be around 17,500 miles, greater than any existing system. Whether or not all the contemplated acquisitions of the merger will finally go through remains to be seen. Already application has been made for control of New Orleans, Texas, and Mexico and its subsidiary, International Great Northern. As it already controls Texas and Pacific, it is a foregone conclusion that the Missouri Pacific will have a strong hold on the great empire state of Texas."

Developing Fast.

"Those who have not investigated little realize how this great state, and for that matter, the whole southwest is developing. The next ten years will undoubtedly show a wonderful expansion and this the Missouri Pacific, in the person of its far sighted officers, realizes full well. Among the states covered by the consolidated roads as outlined in system No. 19 are Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas."

"Other roads included in system 19 are Louisiana and Arkansas, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, and Kansas City Southern. The first, namely Louisiana and Arkansas, is a relatively short line extending from Hope, Arkansas to Alexandria and Jonesville, Louisiana, with a short branch line touching Shreveport. This does not appear to be a necessary acquisition, as the Missouri Pacific already has fairly direct connections with these cities through its present controlled lines."

Straight Line Routes.

"Kansas City Southern provides a straight line route from Kansas City to the Gulf of Port Arthur, touching such cities as Fort Smith, Texarkana, Shreveport and Beaumont. While the Missouri Pacific has more or less direct connection with these places at the present time, the inclusion of the Kansas City Southern would provide a most direct route from Kansas City to the Gulf. At present the latter road is engaged in contesting an alleged substantial undervaluation of the system on the part of the interstate commerce commission. The road would naturally benefit from a consolidation with Missouri Pacific which has a relatively high valuation."

"The Chicago and Eastern Illinois would afford an entrance to Chicago, this line running across the state of Illinois and meeting the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis and Thebes. Traffic of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois is largely soft coal, commodity statistics indicating that over 60 per cent of its traffic is made up of products of the mines. Though this road has lately been reorganized, its earnings have been disappointing for the last year, and even its general mortgage 5 per cent bonds have sold at indifferent levels. The road is suffering at present from its dependence to such an extent on this one commodity, the depressed industrial conditions during recent months having been clearly reflected in decreased demand for bituminous coal and the deadlock in the union mine situation. Control by the Missouri Pacific should result in more diversified traffic and consequently more stabilized earning power and thus prove mutually beneficial, as the combined system would here secure direct entrance to Chicago. Certainly it possesses a strategic position for a combination like the Missouri Pacific merger."

Not Only System.

"While the Chicago and Eastern Illinois is included in consolidation plan No. 19 by the interstate commerce commission as a road which would give the Missouri Pacific an entrance to Chicago, this is not necessarily the only system which might be considered for this purpose. The Chicago and Alton, at present in receivership, might serve the same purpose. This road affords practically a straight line route from St. Louis to Chicago and also connects with Kansas City, meeting the Kansas City Southern there."

"From the discussion of the contemplated plans of the Missouri Pacific it can be seen that the system is to play an important part in future transportation activities. As above stated it is going ahead with its plans to push through to the Gulf by means of the new proposed New Orleans, Texas and Mexico and the International Great Northern. Its further ramifications have not yet been announced. Already, however, it is gratifying to see the Missouri Pacific general 4 per cent bonds take on new strength. Its preferred stock has also made heavy advances at its sponsors as an opportunity of getting 30 per cent or more ac-

Egyptian Trouble not League Affair British Assertion

Geneva Gets Stern Reminder to Keep "Hands Off" in Great Britain's Demands on Sir-dar's Murder.

GENEVA, Dec. 5 (AP)—Flashing suddenly into prominence again, the famed Geneva protocol for the pacific settlement of international disputes was made the subject Thursday of two governmental communications to the League of Nations—one from Great Britain concerning Egypt, and the other from the United States.

The note from Great Britain is regarded in Geneva as a polite, but stern reminder to Egypt and the powers generally that England wants the "hands off" slogan to be applied to the Egyptian problem.

The note from the United States was merely a courteous acknowledgment of Washington's receipt of a certified copy of the protocol and of the fact that states non-members of the league may sign it. However, while the League of Nations officials are hoping to have later some detailed expression of Washington's views on the protocol itself (they seem content that the United States, in continuing her collaboration with the league, has promptly taken notice of the protocol's arrival.

cross dividends paid, and even the common stockholders can see some light ahead.

"Students of the transportation situation are now awaking to the possibilities to be obtained from logical consolidations and mergers, of which the Missouri Pacific and Nickel Plate plans are forerunners of others to be forthcoming in the next few years."

"Such mergers as are in accordance with the plans of the interstate commerce commission may receive the sanction of that body and be put into effect soon, but it is probable that others will have to wait for some time. Investors buying sound rail issues will benefit in the long run, but the speculator who tries to make a good profit by buying some weak road that he is helped by the proposed merger may find himself waiting for a long time."

"Once the mergers are in effect," concluded Mr. Babson, "the railroads will gain in lower operating costs and by other economies. The investor will be in a stronger position and general business now reflected on the Babson chart as a per cent above normal will enjoy the invigorating effect of lower transportation costs."

STATE INHERITANCE TAX COLLECTIBLE ON COMMUNITY PROPERTY

BOISE, Dec. 5 (AP)—State inheritance tax is collectible on that half of the community property of a husband and wife transferred to the husband after the wife's death, whether the will is probated or not, Judge Raymond L. Givens held in an opinion reversing the action of the Washington county probate court. The case concerns the will of Helen Sommer, Judge Givens heard the matter while Judge B. S. Verlin of Boise was presiding at the trial of Vera L. Taylor of Mountain Home for murder.

The question was appealed from the probate court, which held that community property so transferred was not taxable.

The two questions in the case, the opinion says, are whether the Sommer will is valid, and whether Mrs. Sommer's half of the community property which passed to the husband, either by the will or by statutory provisions, is liable to payment of an inheritance tax.

AMBASSADOR IS REPORTED SICK

Sheffield at Mexico City Confined to Home; Illness May Cause Resignation.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5 (AP)—American Ambassador Sheffield still is confined to his home in consequence of an illness which for some time a fortnight has prevented his presence at the embassy here, although his condition is not causing alarm, it was stated at the embassy today. It was added that nothing was known which would warrant reports that the continued illness of the ambassador might result in his retirement from Mexico.

A combination of overwork and the altitude during his first month in Mexico, forced the ambassador to abandon his duties temporarily, making it impossible for him to present personally his credentials as special ambassador or to attend the Calles inauguration ceremonies.

Members of Mr. Sheffield's family stated today that the ambassador had shown improvement in the past few days, although his recovery was not as rapid as had been hoped for. Mrs. Sheffield continues her attendance at social affairs.

PORTABLE RADIO OUTFIT CREATES BIG SENSATION

WTAM, broadcasting station of the Willard Storage Battery company recently received a relayed message from a party of Cleveland people telling how Indian guides at Dog Lake, Canada, refused to their first radio concert.

The party was encamped on Dog Lake about 900 miles north of Cleveland. Included in the outfit was a portable radio set. This was turned on during a dance program from WTAM. The Indians, none of whom had ever seen or heard of a radio, watched in silence for a few moments and then took to their canoes.

They paddled some distance off shore and refused to return while music or words came from the little box full of wires and tubes. Moreover, they refused to comment on the radio set or to tell just what superstition caused their withdrawal. These same guides are accustomed to the use of telephone and talking machine but radio proved to be too much for their nerve. They even refused to touch the set when camp was moved and the owners had to carry it themselves.

OPENING OF DAM

INDIAN VILLAGE

Laboratory of Science Will Be Covered With Water During 1925 by Opening of Muscle Shoals Gates.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The opening of the big Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals during 1925 will blot out a laboratory of science.

Under the direction of Dr. J. Walter Powke, chief of the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, Gorrard Powke, a trained scientific worker, has been exploring Indian mounds at Muscle Shoals that will be covered with water when the big Wilson dam is put into commission. The relics which Mr. Powke found are being packed to be sent to the institution for study. Just what Indian tribe they belonged to remains to be determined.

The Tennessee Valley Historical society invited Dr. Powke to have the mounds explored and he sent Mr. Powke to excavate them at the mouth of Town creek, Colbert county, Alabama, some two months ago. Dr. Powke also made a trip to the point recently and brought back with him to Washington some scientific finds. They include copper ornaments, beads and a species of brooch, showing, Dr. Powke said, that the Indians to whom they belonged prized that metal highly.

Mr. Powke took three representative mounds and found that one was a large mound of mussel shells and the other a burial mound. The countless shells of mussels, which the Indians apparently took from the Tennessee river, are remains of their feasts. With a variation in the spelling Dr. Powke explained, the fresh water mussels in that river gave their name to Muscle Shoals.

The debris usually found in an Indian village was encountered in the mound, interpreted with flint beads, knives, fragments of pottery and stones used in cooking. Barbecue holes for cooking animals were located.

Mr. Powke in a report recently submitted to Dr. Powke, said many skeletons were unearthed, often with big stones weighing 20 to 35 pounds placed upon them. On account of the cotton cultivation he was unable to give the exact height of the mound, but estimated it at nine feet. Traces of a village and of fire used to cook the mussels were found in the vicinity.

ARMY ATHLETIC PROGRAM GIVEN

Three Year Outline Worked Out by War Department; Officers Games Named.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Development of extensive enlisted participation in army athletics is the object of a three year program to be initiated by the war department on January 1.

Under the program it is being developed by Major T. J. Johnson, army athletic officer, only one officer will be allowed to play on a team, although there are a few exceptions. Golf, tennis and polo are to be the particular arenas for officers' sportsmen, while the rank and file will contend in baseball, football and basketball. All-star officer teams are discouraged.

This regime was brought about by a tightening of army purse strings by congressional hands, and a desire to remove dissatisfaction among enlisted personnel with the present trend of army athletics.

Corps areas will arrange inter-corps games with marines and naval men stationed there. The commanding general at Fort Benning, Georgia, is charged with the details connected with the organization of army teams for Atlantic games.

Officer teams and teams composed partly of officers are considered permissible but are not to be organized as service schools, but may not be used to play inter-service games with navy and marine corps players or against another army team. They are to be restricted to playing with college and civilian teams. Exclusively officer teams may be organized on particular occasions within the war department's new policy, for competitions with other officer teams.

GERMANS DISLIKE
LAWS OF TRAFFIC

New Regulations in Berlin Undergoing Severe Test by Indifference of Pedestrians.

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—Berlin is having a hard time putting through its new traffic regulations, which for the most part are patterned upon American models. In fact this capital, in which cabinet crises are so frequent as to be uninteresting, is now developing what may be termed a traffic crisis. Next to campaign news the discussion pro and con of the new regulations for vehicle and pedestrians occupies most space in the daily press.

The difficulty seems to be two fold: First, the lack of discipline of the pedestrians, and second, the unorganized admixture of pushcarts, autos, electric cars, buses, bicycles and horse-drawn vehicles in the streets.

The Berlin pedestrian regards it as his inalienable right to cross the street wherever and however he pleases. He will throw himself into the confused jumble of vehicles of every description in the middle of the street and insist upon crossing without waiting till he reaches a street intersection. NAMPA DEFEATS NORTHERN TEAM

Lewiston Loses What Looked Like Sure Victory in State Football Championship Game

LEWISTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Nampa turned out into victory in the last 30 seconds of play today and won the state football championship by defeating Lewiston, 21 to 15. Nampa was leading Lewiston until the last minutes of play, when Lewiston completed a 10-yard pass over the goal line and apparently had the game by a 15-14 score. Lewiston kicked off to Nampa, Ord returning the ball 30 yards, and with the end of the game a matter of seconds, Woody buried a 35-yard pass to Agnew, who made a phenomenal catch of the ball and raced 30 yards, through a clear field for a touchdown and the state championship. Twenty-five hundred persons witnessed the game, which was one of the most thrilling and hard-fought ever played on a high school gridiron.

Powerful Offense.
Both teams displayed powerful offenses. Nampa's heavy linefield breaking through the Lewiston line many times for big gains, but Lewiston matched this with a versatile forward passing and running attack which puzzled the Nampa defense throughout the game. Time after time both teams unleashed offenses which carried the ball the length of the field only to have the opposing line brace and hold, and every touchdown was made via the forward pass route.

Thanks Sportsmen For Law Observance In Hunting Season

Warden Believes Pheasants More Numerous Now Than Before Shooting Last Year.

There were, in the opinion of John T. Salisbury, deputy state game warden, more Chinese pheasants in this region when the pheasant hunting season closed last Sunday, a greater number of pheasants than there had been at the opening of the season last year. In connection with the expression of this opinion Friday evening Mr. Salisbury voiced the appreciation of the game department of co-operation on the part of sportsmen with the authorities in upholding game laws during the past season. He explained that in the use of the term sportsmen he included "every person who has a hunting license."

Hunting at the present time is restricted to shooting of ducks, geese and other migratory game birds. Hunting, Mr. Salisbury stated, is good throughout the district, with large flocks of ducks reported in sheltered locations in Snake river canyon and in the Hagerman valley. Word received Friday from Camas was to the effect that several herds of water in that region have not yet frozen over and are harboring large flocks of migratory birds, and that geese are flying over that territory.

"One can hardly be disappointed no matter in which direction he goes for hunting," Mr. Salisbury stated.

MOORE FAVORS STATE ECONOMY

Conference of Idaho Officials Ends in Agreement on Short Session of Legislature.

BOISE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Governor C. C. Moore and Lieutenant Governor H. C. Baldridge, who conferred yesterday and today relative to the budget for state departments, are both in favor of a short legislative session and appropriations kept to bare needs, it was announced at the governor's office this afternoon. Mr. Baldridge left today for his home at Parma.

"If the legislature will accept the figures of the budget officers," a statement from the governor's office said, "there is no reason why the appropriation bill can not be passed in the first ten days of the session. It would be a fine thing, too, if the legislators could finish all business in 45 or 50 days, instead of running the limit of 60 days as permitted by law. The budget is being held down to approximately the same as two years ago."

Governor Moore is opposed to much new legislation, it was said, the only matter that he favors in this direction being some kind of plan to provide for reforestation and conservation of timber resources in Idaho. A measure of this nature, he thinks, should be considered at the sight of an economist and gradually building up a secure conservation program.

GRANDSON OF FISKE WOULD BE SLAVE FOR $1000 A YEAR, HE SAYS

BOSTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—An advertisement headed "Slave," which appeared in newspapers under the head "situation wanted," led to discovery today that Xavier Grover Flint, a grandson of John Fiske, the historian, and son of Grover Flint, author, was the subject.

In the shadow of Harvard college where his father had graduated and to which he was to have gone until the world war took him to France, young Flint said he spent $15,000 last year, but would be glad to hire himself out, by lease, or otherwise, for $1000 next year. Depending on an aunt in Peterham, whose estate he managed, to leave him her fortune, he learned after death that it was willing to a cousin of his, he said.

President Well Satisfied With Economy Trip Made in Ordinary Pullman to Chicago.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Having set a precedent in manner of travel, President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Washington at 8 o'clock tonight after their visit to the Chicago livestock exposition.

The executive seemed well satisfied with his economy experiment in the use of regular trains and the usual accommodations rather than special trains or private cars, and members of the party that accompanied him to Chicago declared it would not be surprising if on all future trips he should choose to travel as he did on the one ended tonight.

Railroad officials, however, sighed with relief when the train drew into the union station. Transportation of a presidential party always places the greatest responsibility on the railroad over which the executive chooses to travel, and the trainmen who took Mr. Coolidge to and from Chicago frankly asserted that his use of the regular equipment lessened this responsibility.

GERMAN ACCUSED OF KILLING 27 ON TRIAL

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 5 (AP)—The second day of the trial of Fritz Haarmann, Hanover butcher, accused of the murders of 27 young men since 1918, was marked by numerous clashes between the defendant and Hans Grans, who is charged with being an accomplice.

Haarmann at first wanted to shield Grans, who appears to have exercised an influence almost hypnotic on the mass-murderer. But when Grans failed to reciprocate, Haarmann grew furious, declaring:

"If Grans denies he took things and money from me, I'll testify to something much more serious." The former butcher later accused Grans of murdering one of the victims.

FAMOUS ARTIST'S MODEL DIES IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Anatole Corsi, famous as an artist's model, died here today as the result of a long illness. He was 66 years old. Masterpieces for which he posed included, among others, Sir John Sargent's "Hoses," Sir Edwin Abbey's "Holy Grail" series and the "End of the Trail," statue of the San Francisco exposition.

The small-limbed, slim Roman with his almost perfect aquiline features, was a familiar figure in nearly every prominent artist's salon from London to San Francisco.

OFFICIALS TALK OVER PROBLEMS

Chamberlain and Herriot of England and France Discuss Pending Questions.

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP)—The basis for the bitter discussion of big pending problems was laid today during a conference between Austen Chamberlain, the British secretary for foreign affairs and M. Herriot, French premier. Incidentally the conferees disposed of some minor questions at issue between Great Britain and France.

They avoided, however, any painful subjects such as interrelated debts, as far as could be learned tonight. It was the first meeting between the statesmen. M. Herriot later, in seeing Mr. Chamberlain off for Rome to attend the sessions of the council of the league of nations, arranged to continue the conversation on the train when Mr. Chamberlain is returning to England. The French premier even promised to go to London later, if necessary.

THE CHRISTMAS THAT LIES BETWEEN: We never enjoy Christmas so much as when we are children. Santa Claus is a real being, whose track in his reindeer sleigh lies over the snow-covered roof-tops down the chimney, ending at the hearth beside the bed where we have hung our stockings. STOCK PRICES HIT BY FORCE OF LATE SALES

Volume of Trading on New York Exchange Is Next to Highest Point Reached in Several Years.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Stock prices crumbled under an avalanche of selling orders in the closing part of today's market after an early outburst of bullish enthusiasm had carried 113 individual issues to new peak prices for the year, a record high for all time and five above the previous record established a couple of weeks ago.

The volume of trading, which totaled 2,585,000 shares, has been exceeded only once since the current bull movement started. This was on November 20, when total sales aggregated 2,594,000 shares, the highest since the famous 3,000,000 share day which followed the "leak" on President Wilson's peace note in December, 1918. There was no special news to account for the enormous volume of selling which originated with professional bear traders, working for a technical reaction and which gained added stimulus by unusually heavy week-end profit taking and the touching off of "stop loss" orders placed just below the market by traders who had built up substantial paper profits in a number of the popular issues.

Despite the tremendous volume of offerings, the decline with a few conspicuous exceptions, was an orderly one not losses in most of the active issues ranging from small fractions to two points. So furious was the pace of trading when the reaction came at the height that the official ticker at times was nearly 30 minutes behind the market.

and Idaho points including Delta and American Falls, Idaho. The rate from American Falls to San Francisco is 50 cents, 75% cents to California and 90% cents to Phoenix. The rate from Delta to San Francisco is 67% cents, 65% cents to California and 80 cents to Portland.

American Falls Rate.
Mr. Prickett asserted that since the American Falls rate to San Francisco is 50 cents, or nine cents under the Denver-San Francisco rate, the present rate from American Falls to Fresno, Cal., of 65 cents should be reduced to the level of 50 cents.

Joseph M. Parker, Ogden manager of the Sperry Flour company, and president of the Ogden Grain exchange, and E. B. Adams, Ogden manager of the Globe Milling and Elevator company, testified as to the source of competition for Utah millers, the distribution of the products of their mills, and the alleged necessity for an adjustment on westbound transportation charges.

J. M. Ronby, representing the Union Pacific system; James S. Moore, Jr., representing the Western Pacific; J. E. Lyons, representing the Western Pacific, and E. W. Camp, representing the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, on cross examination of Mr. Prickett, objected to the rulings used by Mr. Prickett on his rate comparisons in determining percentages of rates under the Oklahoma scale. The attorneys of the Oklahoma scale, the attorneys of the earlier rates, and the attorneys of the rate now being used by Mr. Prickett, all declared that application of the Oklahoma scale would be wrong as establishing an arbitrary rate structure based on a strictly mileage basis.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

REDFORD, Iowa, Dec. 5 (AP)—A verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned by the jury tonight in the trial of Carl Hough, charged with slaying Lillian McKenney, 18 years old, of Herick, N. D. The jury recommended that Hough be sentenced to life imprisonment.

The jury returned the verdict at 10:10 p. m. The prisoner evidenced little emotion as the verdict was read. It became known tonight that news were found in Hough's cell this afternoon and it is believed that plans were made for the accused man to escape.

SAN FRANCISCO MAYOR DISCUSSES PURCHASE OF U. S. SHIPPING LINE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A tentative proposal of Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, for the purchase of the shipping board's freight line from San Francisco to the east coast of South America and for its line from San Francisco to Australia, was discussed today by the mayor and Commissioner Mayor Lianer of the shipping board.

The two lines with ten vessels are now being operated for the shipping board by the Swanyo Hoyt company.

The board's bid price for the sale of these ships is approximately $2,000,000.

RADIO PROGRESS MOVES SWIFTLY

Hoover Tells Congress General Legislation for Wireless at This Time Inadvisable.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Rapid and continued progress in the art of radio communication, with unprecedented alterations in prospect makes inadvisable the establishment at present of any complete system of federal regulation over the industry, Secretary Hoover today told administration supporters in congress.

In a letter to Chairman White of the house marine and fisheries committee, which reported the bill at the last session in line with proposals for such regulation advocated at that time by Mr. Hoover, the secretary today declared that experience had convinced him that the government was not justified in establishing a definite policy at this time.

Short Measure.
He proposed as a substitute a short measure reaffirming the federal government's power to control the ether and to reinforce the degree of present regulation, by which the commerce department assigns wave lengths to different types of radio users and endeavors to minimize interference.

Chairman White withheld comment on the letter and the attitude which might be taken by himself or any of his associates toward Secretary Hoover's new proposal. The White bill, incorporating the broad regulatory provisions which Mr. Hoover now deems impracticable, is on the house calendar, he pointed out, and can be removed by action of the whole house.

practically without debate, including those at Yuma, Ariz.; Colorado; Orland, California; Grand Valley, Colorado, (including Orchard Mesa division) Uncompahgre, Colo.; Boise, King Hill, Minidoka, Idaho; Huntley, Milk river and Sun River, Minn.; Lower Yellowstone, Montana; North Dakota; North Platte, Nebraska-Wyoming; Newlands, Nev.; Carlsbad, N. M.; and Rio Grande, New Mexico—Texas.

In amendment by Representative Sinclair, republican, North Dakota, to make available $50,000 for continuation of the Williston, N. D., project, ordered abandoned by the bill, was pending when adjournment was taken.

On a rising vote the amendment was lost, 117 to 11, and the house carried the matter over until tomorrow. Mr. Sinclair declared the proposal to abandon the project was based on the agricultural depression that had prevailed in the last three years. Sifters on the project, he said, have taken up the sugar beet growing industry and prospects for success appear promising.

to operate the properties. Senator Harrison declared that the act under which Muscle Shoals was constructed contemplated production of nitrogen for explosives in time of war and for fertilizer in time of peace. He asserted that all of the power necessary for southern enterprises could be developed from power sites in the Appalachian section. Endorsing President Coolidge's recommendations for Muscle Shoals, in his message to congress, he declared the executive would veto the Norris bill if it were passed, but would not veto the Underwood measure. Senator Wadsworth said it would be

EQUIPMENT ON WAY HERE FOR TRACK LAYING

Machinery and Crews Coming From Boise Main Line to Enter on Construction of Road to South.

Progress in grading and rock work on the Rogerson-Wells railroad line to a point where track-laying operations may be prosecuted on a large scale was indicated in the announcement made Friday at Oregon Short Line offices here that between 25 and 30 cars carrying surfacing and track-laying outfits and crews are expected to arrive in Twin Falls today to begin work at once on the new line out of Rogerson. Equipment and crews were employed in the building of the Boise main line from which work they are to be brought here.

Two locomotive cranes, also, it was announced, are to be sent here for use in the road building operations. Rock work on the new line which has occupied several months' time, is reported to be rapidly reaching completion, and prospects are considered favorable for extension of the mile to Contact, Nevada, by New Year's day and completion of the line early next June.

WOMAN AWARDED EXHIBIT HONOR

Mrs. J. Frantz of Ohio Gets Prizes on Cattle at Livestock Show in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Mrs. J. Frantz, of Mount Cery, Ohio, breeder of blueblood Galloway cattle, is one of the first women breeders to win top honors in the International Livestock exposition.

In the final judging of the silver jubilee show today, entries from Mrs. Frantz' herd took one grand championship and a half dozen blue ribbons along with several awards for breeding Galloways of various grades and ages. Iowa stock, owned by Dubbs and Olson, Aurilia, won first honors today in the breeding Shorthorn class and exhibits from Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri took the big prizes in other classes of cattle, sheep and horses.

Closing Day.
Tomorrow, the closing day of the show, the champions and runners-up in every division will be on exhibition in a million dollar stock parade around the great tanks at the stock yards. The two bulls in the Galloway competition were entered by Mrs. Frantz. Michigan Agricultural college, East Lansing, exhibited the grand champion Belgian hare, Perveche, a three-year-old.

H. O. Harrison, San Francisco, brought in the champion herd of Aberdeen-Angus. Ecker and Ryan, Irwin, Iowa, were second in the herd lots and third went to Harrison.

Impossible to keep politics out of government operation of Muscle Shoals, and the best solution of the issue would be obtained by a partnership between the government and a private corporation which "knew their business." He declared that holders behind the Underwood-White-Atterbury proposal had furnished valuable suggestions for the development of the property for production not only of power and fertilizer but of many by-products.

NEW SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE IS IN CHICAGO HOSPITAL

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—Howard M. Gore, secretary of agriculture, and governor-elect of West Virginia, was taken to a hospital here today suffering from an attack of bronchitis. Doctors at St. Luke's hospital where he is a patient, said that his condition is a serious one and that he probably will be able to leave the institution in a few days.

The secretary was in Chicago to attend the International Livestock exposition, and yesterday accompanied President Coolidge and the president's party on its visit to the show.

MILLIONS LOST ON WAR PLANTS

Special Committee to Ask for Review of Funds Granted to Companies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Review by the internal revenue bureau of cases involving sums amounting perhaps to millions of dollars granted war time industries, for amortization upon their conversion into privately operated plants will be asked in resolutions to be presented to the senate soon by the special committee investigating the bureau.

The committee decided today to ask a review of one case involving a shipping concern on the Pacific coast and Chairman Coughlin said other cases where excessive allowances were believed to have been granted for amortization would be taken up by the committee. Millions of dollars were allowed war time concerns for amortization, but the scope of the review to be asked will not be determined until this phase of the committee's investigation has been completed.

In the particular case already decided upon, Mr. Coughlin said the committee had learned that the shipping concern had been allowed $800,000 by the shipping board and a like amount later by the internal revenue bureau for amortization. Investigation also disclosed, he asserted, that the bureau made a grant with knowledge of similar action taken by the shipping board. Resolutions asking reviews of the cases will be presented for action by the senate. Many cases cannot be reopened because of technicalities in the law, however, and Mr. Coughlin said no general review of these cases was contemplated.

after its receipt and told him to forget it. At the same conference Black told Mortimer, the latter testified, that he was "through with Forbes" and in the future would go after the government contractors "without paying a penny graft."

At that Mortimer said, Forbes had accused him of "double crossing" because Forbes got only $5000 of the $15,000 advance. Mortimer and Black told him that Thompson had given Forbes about $20,000.

Mortimer said he denied to Forbes having "double crossed" him, explaining the other $5000 was for the expense of the Pacific coast inspection trip taken by Forbes, the Mortimer and Black. Hotel bills at San Francisco and other places during the western trip, were introduced by the government as having been paid by Mortimer.

NO MORE "SHORT SESSIONS."

The Congressional session now in progress at Washington is recognized as an unbroken one. Also a contradiction.
The country is expected to see a legislative body that it regarded last month as the polls. And Congress goes ahead, just about the same, with policy and program changed a little,
perhaps, but not much, by the various maneuvers presumably given on November 4.

...This is said to be the only country
where such a situation is possible.
Until lately the country did not mind.
Now it is becoming sensitive about the matter. An evidence of sensitiveness is the prevalent tendency to refer to the present session as a "lame duck Congress."

It is not Congress' fault. It is no-body's fault. The plan of deferring the official beginning of a new administration until the March 1 following the election, and the actual assembling of the new Congress until December following the President's inauguration, worked all right for a century or more. But now there is a demand for speeding up governmental processes along with other things and making representative government represent more nearly the popular will
of last week or last month, rather than last year.

So it is said that this will probably be the last "lame duck" session of Congress. A proposed amendment would abolish the short session and make the President's term and likewise the term of the newly-elected Congress begin on January 1 following the national election. The change was approved by the Senate last session and seems likely to be approved by the House this winter. If it goes before the country, it will probably be ratified without delay.

EASY MONEY.

Leo Koretz, Chicago promoter arrested in Halifax on a swindling charge, indignantly denies that he ever tried to "swindle" anybody.
"Why," he explains, "I never entered any one to go into any kind of a deal with me. A lot of people insisted that I handle their money—they just forced it on me—and when things went wrong, they blamed it onto me. I refused hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Whatever may be the merits of this promoter's case, his plea is not altogether fanciful or unusual. The situation he represents is only too familiar in the world of speculation, and it is that situation which makes it so easy for crooks to prey on the public and get away with hundreds of millions of dollars in this country every year.

There are two sides to every deal.
The slickest swindler does not bear all the responsibility. He does not sell his fake stock to his victims without an answering eagerness on their part to risk their money in the hope of getting something for nothing. This foolish eagerness to take a financial risk invites the swindles.

In many cases the results to the victims are pitiful indeed. In many,
however, they may be wholesome, because there are gullible persons who can learn only through personal trial and loss. The wise investor is he who will take the word of other victims, or the word of experts who have seen much of such victimizing,
and make any one who wants his savings show very good reason why he should be entrusted with them.

DEMAND FOR CLOSED CAR
IS STEADILY INCREASING

"It's no longer a 'trend' toward enclosed cars. It's a stampede," said E.
T. Guttery, Hudson-Essex dealer of Twin Falls. "The coming automobile show in the great centers of the country will look like closed car exhibits.
The demand for enclosed cars, which the great sales of Hudson and Essex cars first proved, is the most notable factor in the whole automobile business."

How remarkable it is to realize that closed cars in volume are only three years old—that it is now just about three years since Hudson-Essex introduced the idea of the coach, an enclosed car to sell at a new low standard of price.

"It is remarkable to think that up to the time of the coach the automobile industry had made magnificent strides in all phases of volume and standardized production except in the manufacture of enclosed bodies. Closed bodies were introduced by slow and gradual methods a century or more old.
The coach changed that—it was the first enclosed car which could be made under the same system of progressive manufacture which had brought such mighty modern economies elsewhere in the industry and made universal motoring possible."

"In those three years Hudson-Essex
has had the experience of building 175, 000 coaches. The word coach has been a standard term of the Society of Automotive Engineers for several years,
but only recently has it been used generally in the industry. Now, however, the word coach is becoming as common as sedan or roadster. But for a long time to come, when people think of coach they will think of Hudson-Essex."

Not the "Lumberjack"

Dentist Had Thought

A certain dentist lived in Quebec who charged his patients not by the amount of work done, but by their capacity to pay.
One day a crew of lumberjacks came in from up the river with a boom of logs from the timber regions of the North. One of the men suffered from a toothache and consulted the dentist.
After making an extraction the dentist regarded the logger for a moment and then, when the bearded man from the woods commenced to fidget for his change, he asked him what he did for a living.
"Oh, I usually work around a mill,"
was the reply.
"Then your charge will be 50 cents,"
said the dentist.

The logger, baffled by his pocket
a huge wad of currency of staggering denominations and commenced to finger
the bills. The dentist was amazed.
"I thought you said you worked around a mill," he said, and he summoned in his cash drawer for change.
"Well, so I do," said the logger calmly, "but my own mill is over on the Union troops were demobilized."

"SINNERS IN HEAVEN"
by Clive Arden

Instead of hurrying away, she hesi-tated, watching him in bewilderment—conscious of a strange longing to remain near him, to saunter together on the shore, as was sometimes their habit at night.

But when, at last, he paused near
her, he made no such suggestion.
"Go to bed," he said rather curtly;
"it's late. And, Barbara, don't lie awake all night, cut off the rest of your hair! It's all useless."

With that he turned away, and went off alone to the beach, leaving her staring after him.

Strangely enough, she did not lie awake this time. Those few passionate moments and enclosed hours of emotional strain. The force which had seemed to be sweeping her from all mornings had caused her to struggle violently, both mentally and physically,
to retain her own individuality, to prevent it from being submerged in his.
His lips, on hers, were not the shower of passion, but unbearable power.

Afterward, a numbness fell upon her mind. She felt too desperately tired to attempt coherent thought. This volcano upon which they had been, they lived, must take its rest. Since that moment when she had seen the shore, the life of tumultuous emotions had whirled her mind and heart round like a dervish.
Confused, yet subtly, gloriously elated,
she slept till dawn.

A multitude of sticks and stones
pelted her, but she did not see Alan.
And a sudden, sudden, sudden, sudden restrained her from calling to him.

But there was no trace of last night's passion about this man of a hundred moods when they met; and her self-confidence revived. While she was looking the old tin box with food, he arrived, fresh and clean from the river.
He gently deposited a large bundle
at her feet, and wished her a happy Christmas.

With surprise, she uncovered a candymis contrived framework made from two life-line airplane canvas, and aerial sails, and she saw that she had often wanted upon her afternoon, her pleasure was unbroken.

"I have nothing for you, Alan," she replied, with compassion.

"Oh? Well—we'll see about that,"
he replied enigmatically; then hurried to the door.

They walked quickly, saying little,
over the rough ground which, covered with low scrub, sloped upward on the east of her bay.

They paused to rest and eat, in the eastern wood, meaning to remain there during the midday heat. The shady place was a good one, and the beach was welcome to eyes dazzled by the glare without. The intoxication of the morning's beauty, their own radiant health and spirits, the strains of the wild sweet orchestra rising all around,
lent enchantment to that little picnic.

But when, as it were, caught at reeds during the week, she remembered
they had been walking in her grasp. Onward she was made to whisper. She knew it could not save herself; could not quench that light in his eyes, and her own foolish weakness in his proximity.

Finally, he went to her and took her hand, and she, saying nothing, but gazing into his face as if seeking for something he wished to learn there.

Suddenly, apprehension in her eyes deepened to horror; a cry burst from her lips; she became rigid in his hands.

With such precipitate haste did the whole scene occur that she could not remember afterward clearly. She knew it happened that, in a flash, the face of the whole world changed. . . . She was conscious of a dark bulk, a save-face face she knew well, looming suddenly up amid the trees—of a spear-pointed, preparatory to hurling
the weapon into the back of an unsuspecting enemy.

Her man was in danger! That was her only coherent thought. Instantly she had whipped out the revolver, and with deadly calm, raised it. . . .

A sharp report and a puff of smoke;
a bullet hit the tree, and then a stream of blood oozed from the shoulder in front of her, as the smoke cleared away. These were the outward impressions of which her mind
was dimly aware; but they seemed unreal, of no account. She heard the spar fly into the tree at her feet; then Baboon's running foot steps and retreating cries. . . .

Agitated, had barely caught a glimpse of the dark face which he had often seen covertly watching him, before it was momentarily blotted out in smoke.
He started forward in hot pursuit;
then, arrested by a shrill cry, halted
sharply, and looked at the girl. . . .

She stood motionless; her eyes luminous as stars, fixed upon him, her mouth a little open, the still smoking weapon lying at her feet. It had been no mild idea of enacting Baboon's part which had impelled her action, but a furious, savage desire to kill. She had hurried herself to the rescue, regardless of all else.

Afterward, all power or desire to move seemed to leave her. A yell fell from before her eyes; and a brilliance streamed in, illuminating, according-full of castaways that she stood as though, from a great, paralyzed with the wonder of it all, gazing upon him whose brilliance had newly revealed.

The breath caught in the man's throat; the blood raced madly through his veins; his eyes blazed, answering the glare of hers.

Like the Atlantic lovers, after drinking of the love potion, they stood a few feet apart, under the sun-drenched foliage of the trees, awed for a moment
by the miracle. She raised her hand at last, as if inviting. . . . The spiral burst of light.

Instantly his arms were around her.
With an inarticulate cry, she was swept off her feet, clasped to his throbbing heart, his burning lips pressed her hers, his hands clinging round her neck. . . .
all her individuality, all her thought,
all her life, as a stream, falling through arms of rock, merges into the restless waves of the ocean.

The sun was sinking, a fiery ball in an almost perfect sky, its last rays shimmering golden-red across the water, while the last of the two returned to the hut on what wonderful Christmas day.
A new world greeted their eyes at every turn. Never had reef or sea or sky appeared so splendid. The superb, absolute egotism of newly thought developed them both; they thought of each other disturbed the solemn hours. Like one still walking in a dream-world, Barbara entered the central hut, gay with its decorations.
The line of golden light entering with the sunset was as if it shone; and, falling upon the opposite wall, drew her eyes unconsciously that way.
She stopped.

Hilda's face smiled down at her, with all its old confidence!

"Have you realized that probability—now, Barbara? We may be here forever—just you and I—where the mazes of civilization give way to Truth—where no laws exist save those of nature—no conventions. . . . He swept her off her feet, and his kisses burned upon her lips, her neck, her short hair. . . . Once more her life seemed to sink from her own keeping into his.

He set her down at last, still clasp-
ing her to him.

"Doesn't—decide it all?" he murmured unsteadily. "Don't you understand that we have bigger issues
to face—here—than useless scruples?"

She turned in his arms, looking up
at his eyes through the gathering darkness. The distant thundering surf was the only sound; and it seemed to suggest a more terrible than any she had faced before. Freeing herself a little, she pressed him from her.

"You have won your way—as usual, Alan. But—ah! Be merciful!"
As she had appealed before, so the cry came again from her unprotected heart.

That pitiful entreaty and her mur-derer reached where resistance might have failed. The passion in his face faded a little; and, seeing this, she pressed her advantage.

"Isn't the present joy—sufficient?
You are mine and I am yours. Don't let us spoil the glory of it all!"

For a long moment there was silence in the darkening hut.
Then this man, who had ever been wont to sweep aside all obstacles to his will, bent his head slowly, and kissed her, the small hands clasped upon his breast.

"We must keep our faith in each other—whatever the future brings," he whispered. And tenderly, almost reverently, he kissed her lips.

PART THREE

Deep Chords

A ring of stakes, lolling drunkenly
to one side, encircled the hut, at a distance of about twenty yards. With a small rock for hammer, Alan was pounding them into the ground, during the hour before sunset. He had conceived the idea of building a palisade.

Occupation! It was what they craved. Though neither confessed the fact to the other, both tacitly ac-knowledgeed the need. They seized on any excuse that would supply food
for their thoughts, toll for their lips, falsehood for their hearts. For, deep in the heart of each, below all the ecstasy of their joy together, lurked grim fear—not fear of each other, but fear of themselves; above all, fear
of nature, of her smiling face and irrevocable laws. Resultingly, each, buried the skeleton of his mind, covering it with a hundred pretty-colored reeds.
But sometimes, unexpectedly, it stirred below the thick layers, stretched out its skinny arms.

"I'll bring the river down here some day," the inventor of modern aircraft chattered, humming in his throat, from his storehouse of night. Why are you smiling in this vacant manner?"

"Alan," she murmured, "you have been a revelation. I thought you a bully, only intent upon getting your own way, regardless of everybody."

"Well?" he laughed gently.
"Alan? I got it until it proved to be my way too."

"Merely because I realized it would be worthless otherwise. I learned that first of all the many things you taught me."

"Yes, you." He raised her chin possessively. "Don't you think you have been a revelation, too? And hasn't the 'spirit' of the island you spoke about been a revelation to us both? It seems to me to be laughed.
The only thing to save the world from being choked by materialism is to work it on a desert island! Make everybody begin life afresh, back in prehistoric days."

Barbara caught at this idea. "But,"
she said, following the train of thought, it is impossible. It will disturb the people who live here. It will wrought every true be crowded!"

"Not at all. Only a handful would arrive. The majority are too peacefully asleep to realize they are being choked. Commercialism is the god they worship. Although, when there is nothing better to do, they go to church—in their best clothes."

"You are very bitter," she exclaimed
in surprise.

Plants Turning to Sun

The fact that sunflowers and other plants turn toward the sun is due to a property called heliotropism. This constant turning is the direct result of the action of light in modifying
the growing cells.

Daddy's Evening
Fairy Tale
by Mary Graham
Bonner

GOOD AND BAD

You know there are the twins who live in some of the story books and they have a wretched
time of it.

They have an-
other home, too.
Their other
home is a vine-
covered house
and there they
are kept by vines
which won't let
them get away
for real fun. They have everything
so snarled up—
they're not pretty
feels at all.

They entangle
themselves about
everything, for
they are the vines
of untruth and they work quite unfairly.

The twins had once told their story
to the boy and girl adventurers, but they wanted to tell it again, so when the Fairy Queen went—calling one day she stopped to see them.

They had asked if she would come to see them and they had sent their message by Master Thoughtfulness.

They were not having quite such a hard time as they once had and had they were hoping before long to be free.

They thought perhaps they could get the Fairy Queen to send messages to grown-ups for them, and so they wanted to see her and ask her about it.

They had heard from Master Thoughtfulness how lovely she was
and they felt sure she would take their messages for them.

She wandered along some distance until she found their house. It was so covered with these entangled, snarled vines that she could hardly see it at first.

Then she could discover from an upper window two children who looked almost exactly alike.

"They must be the twins," she said
to herself. "And this is just what Master Thoughtfulness told me I'd find them."

"Are you the Fairy Queen?" one of the children called out.

"Here, come back here," said the other, and one twin gave the other a great push.

"You ought to help you, dear," the other said. "Don't be unkind to me.
I'll forgive you."

The Fairy Queen thought the twins seemed very strange. She didn't like the one whose voice sounded so sweet,
nor the one who had given the push.

The latter seemed so cross and the former seemed so sweet.

But the Fairy Queen managed to get through the vines with the aid of her magic wand and she went upstairs to see the twins.

They looked ready to her now.
"We're both sorry," they said together. "Now we'll tell you our story."

"We can't help acting like that at times. We don't want to, but we can't help it. It has become such a habit."

"They both talked together a good deal of the time, or one spoke and then the other went on with the story.
This was their story.

"You see," they said, "we are the good little child and the bad little child. We are kept here by vines of untruth and the only way we can be free is if people who tell our stories will only tell the truth about it."

"For so long we've had so wretched a time. One of us always has to be so very, very bad, and the other has to be so very, very good."

"Now we don't like that. If the one of us who is bad wants to be good it is not allowed. And the good one can't be bad."

"You know, Fairy Queen, that isn't fair. We're both good and bad—both of us. It is so unfair when our story books are made up and we're forced to do work we don't want to do.
We're forced to be very good and
very bad."

"You know children aren't like
that—any more
than grown-ups."

"There is bad
and good all mixed
in together—and
no one feels like
being better when
they have a bad
one like the good
twin who is so
good that she just
isn't natural!
That isn't the way
to make anyone
want to become
"We're Both
Bad," they said.
so good, goodness
should be itself.
pleased with and
have life to it and joyousness and all
such things."

So the twins talked and the Fairy Queen promised she would do her best to see that they were given a fair chance, for she thought, too, that it wasn't fair to have them as they were
—the poor good little child of the story book and the poor bad little child of the story book.

Huge Golden Eagle Attracts Admirers On Street Corner

Great Bird Taken Unhurt From Steel Trap West of Hollister Holds Court in Twin Falls.

A great golden eagle, apparently well satisfied with his situation on top of a wooden box on the sidewalk at the Hotel Perrine corner, was the center of interest for groups of men, women and children who clustered about him throughout the day. The great bird manifested no evidence of fright and submitted unblinkingly to generally respectful caresses to which he was subjected by its admirers.

Measuring eight feet from tip to tip, the bird was taken practically unhurt last Tuesday by O. W. Kershner out of a steel trap set for coyotes seven miles west of Hollister. The bird suffered only slight abrasions on two toes that were held in the trap. Mr. Kershner indicated his purpose to sell the bird for exhibition purposes, or, failing in that, to restore it to liberty.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES OBJECTIVES ARE GIVEN

State Association Announces Plans for Tuberculosis Clinics in Several Idaho Centers.

In connection with the sale of the Christmas health seals the state tuberculosis association, which receives a percentage of all proceeds, announces two objectives in the educational and preventive work to be carried out. Clinics will be held in various centers of the state to discover and help unknown cases of tuberculosis that are spreading infection. A campaign for a state sanatorium for the care of tuberculosis sufferers is felt to be an immediate need in Idaho.

The state organization has made a recent survey of conditions and gives out the following statement:

Although tuberculosis is a curable and preventable disease, Idaho has absolutely no hospitals, public or private, where a tuberculosis patient who is neither an ex-convict nor an Indian can receive scientific care.

Nevada is the only other state having such conditions.

Utah has 25 beds and will ask for legislation in 1925.

All other states of the northwest have state sanatoria, also private institutions.

Eleven hundred and thirty-five cases of tuberculosis recorded in 1924.

One thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight persons recorded who died from tuberculosis in the last ten years.

Sixteen hundred cases of tuberculosis infection at all times in the state.

Experience has shown that for every death from tuberculosis eight to ten persons are suffering from the disease in an inactive form.

One hundred and eighty-three citizens who are in private sanatoria in other states.

Ninety-one thousand five hundred dollars spent in other states for sanatorium care by these 183 citizens. It costs at the least $600 for six months care in private sanatoria.

Three hundred and fifty-seven destitute Idaho citizens who appealed for charity in other states.

PUMPMAN GETS VERDICT FOR AMOUNT OF CLAIM

Jury Awards $660 to R. L. Kidd From Miller Low Lift Irrigation District
for Breach of Contract.

Verdict awarding $660 to R. L. Kidd, from the Miller Low Lift Irrigation district was returned by a jury in district court here Friday afternoon. Kidd, who was represented by Attorney Harry J. Benoit, sued for $805 damages on account of alleged breach of contract under which he was to have been employed last season by the district as operator of its pumping plants. It was conceded in the course of the trial that Kidd's actual earnings during the season, amounting to $145, should be deducted from the amount of his claim, so that the jury's award was the amount of Kidd's alleged net loss. Trial in the case was begun Thursday afternoon.
