Officials at Washington Uneasy
Over Announcement of Chancellor in Regard to French Payments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Unbusiness was aroused in some official circles here by the statements attributed today to Winston Churchill, the chancellor of the British exchequer, that his government would insist on proportionate payments to it on occasion of a country's credit making payments to the United States.

The treasury was silent on the Churchill remark, but it gave evidence of surprise at the turn taken in the events because of a likelihood that such a declaration might cause delay in the prospective settlement with Russia.
Meetings between Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Jusserand have been wholly informal thus far and nothing approaching definite terms has been discussed, but even in that stage it was indicated an expression from the British of such a character could mean only that France would pause to consider.

RAIL LAYERS TO PUSH ACTIVITIES

Rogerson-Wells Grade Where Steel Now Is Going Down, 85
Per Cent Complete.

ROGERS, Dec. 10.—(Special to The News)—Oregon Short Line track layers who began laying steel here today expect to continue without interruption their work over a grade between Rogers and Wells, Nev., that is now about 85 per cent completed, and which, provided weather conditions continue favorable, will be completed throughout by January 10, next, at the latest.

Work remaining to be done on the grade includes a few rock cuts, change in channel at Contact, Nev., and some further excavation at what is known as the "summit" between Contact and Wells. On account of snow, crews at work on the summit were moved back recently, but it is believed that under favorable conditions the work in that sector can be completed by the time it is reached by the tracklayers.

Belief that track laying begun today will be prosecuted continuously finds support in the fact that a track laying outfit sent here some weeks ago was again taken away, explanation being given at that time that work on the grade had not progressed sufficiently to warrant beginning of track laying operations.

Supplies on Hand.

Actual laying of steel today began at Point ranch, five miles west of Rogerson, to which point the rails previously had been laid to facilitate work on rock cut there. There have been accumulated here great quantities of rails, ties and piling to be used by the tracklayers.

A crew of 40 workmen with equipment including two locomotive cranes and sleeping quarters arrived here today evening in 26 cars to begin the track-laying operations that were inaugurated today. Workmen and equipment came here from Boise where they had been employed in construction of a railroad line recently completed.

BOISE MAN WILL TEST TAX LAWS

Validity of Statute Declaring All Assessments Must Be Paid Same Time Questioned.

BOISE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Suit to test the validity of the law requiring that taxes for all purposes be paid to the county tax collector at the same time was filed in district court today by W. T.
Booth, against Ethel T. Clark, county treasurer and ex-officio tax collector for Ada county. Judge Dana E. Brink signed an order setting Friday morning at 10 o'clock as time for appearance in court of Mrs. Clark to show cause why part of the tax money should not be accepted.

Drainage Case.

According to the petition the action is brought as a test case involving the position of other taxpayers in drainage district No. 3 but for the purpose of simplifying the suit but one plaintiff is named.

Mr. Booth, the petition recites, is owner of blocks 9, 10, 16, 17, 19, 20 and 27 in Broadmoore's sub-division, Ada county. Today he offered to the county tax collector $428.4 for taxes assessed against the property in 1924, less the drainage tax in the district amounting to $28.65. The former amount represents state, county, city and school taxes, the petition states, and was refused by the county tax collector because the drainage tax was not included.

SETTLERS SUE
BOARD MEMBERS

Claim Salmon River Canal Directors Individually Liable for Damages Claimed.

Suits for damages aggregating $12, 633 instituted in district court here Wednesday by Frank Caudle and Charles L. Balce against individual directors of the Salmon River Canal company, the canal company and Peoples Savings and Trust company, trustees, are two of a number of similar actions to be instituted against the same defendants by members of the Salmon River Settlers' association with view to recovering damages for alleged interference with delivery of proportionate share in available water supply last season. Homer C. Miller, attorney for the association, stated Wednesday evening.

Attack is to be made in those actions on the canal company's order for delivery of water on the basis of canal company stock held by each water user, one and five-sevenths shares being allocated to settlers who had made settlement with regard to lands involved in reduction of the Salmon River project area. Individual directors of the canal company are named as parties defendant on the theory that they are personally as well as officially liable for payment of the damages claimed.

Frank Caudle, who claims that he was entitled to 13 inches and received only 8.2 inches of water per acre for 156 irrigable acres, last season, is suing for damages in the sum of $4880.
Charles L. Balce, claiming 13 inches and alleging that he received only 8.2 inches of water per acre for 188.5 irrigable acres last season, is suing for $7632 damages.

Claim for damages in both cases is based on alleged injury to crops suffered by reason of short water deliveries.

linquency of Minor.

after a hearing Wednesday in probate court here by Judge G. P. Duvall, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Judge Duvall stated, will be pronounced today.

the trial by attorneys W. P. Guthrie and John Koeharck, was arrested early

OWNER ASSERTS CLAIM TO LAND AND DAMAGES

In an answer and cross complaint filed in district court here Wednesday in the suit of Samuel Littau against John C. Smith and J. F. Bayliss, defendant Smith asserts his own claim to re-possession of a 40-acre farm property held by Littau under contract of sale, denies Littau's claim for damages and set up his own claim against Littau for damages in the sum of $8675.40.
Smith alleges that he took steps to retain possession of the property when he deemed himself insecure under the contract, and bases his claim for damages on alleged neglect on the part of Littau in carrying on the farm. He asks that plaintiff Littau be restrained from disposing of crops grown on the place last season pending determination of the suit. He is represented by Attorney T. K. Heckman.

CHEATS DEATH
IN ROCK SLIDE

Railroad Grade Worker Buried
Under Avalanche Escapes
With Injuries to Leg.

One out of three workmen employed in construction of the Rogerson-Wells railroad grade and engaged Wednesday in removing rock that had been loosened by blasting on a hillside about two miles south of Contact, Nevada, was caught under a slide of between 50 and 100 tons of rock loosened by their efforts with crowbars and, although virtually buried under the avalanche, he escaped with injury to one leg, that was badly cut and bruised.

One of his companions suffered lesser hurts and the third man escaped unhurt.

The injured man, Joe McCann, and Robert Hansen, another workman on the grade building work who had been similarly injured Tuesday in the same vicinity by falling rock, were brought to the county general hospital here late Wednesday evening by Dr. C. E.
Scott of this city, who was summoned to the scene of Wednesday's accident.

RATE INCREASE
CAUSES STOCK
MARKET SLUMP

Sharpest Reaction on Exchange
Since Election Rises From Boosting Call Money; Reports Are Favorable.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—Marking up of the call money rate to four per cent, precipitated the sharpest reaction that has occurred in the stock market since the "bull" movement started six weeks ago. Not losses of one to five and one-half points occurred in the active issues with a total sales in excess of 9,000,000 shares for the seventeenth time since election
day.

The selling originated with professional traders who acted on the theory that the recent advance has been overdone. The stiffening of money rates provided an excuse for bear attacks, which increased in fury when the steel stocks failed to respond to the announcement of an unexpectedly large increase of more than 500,000 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation last month and the rail shares disregarded the publication of statistics showing that carloadings during Thanksgiving week were more than five per cent above the corresponding period last year.

AUTO LICENSE PAYMENT
HARD THING TO EVADE

Assessor's Office Refers to Law's Provisions in Friendly Warning to Recent Car Buyers.

Persons purchasing automobiles during the last quarter of the year who expect to escape payment of the license fee for that period are doomed to disappointment, it was stated Wednesday at the office of the county assessor.

The assessor's office, it was stated, will stick to the provisions of the law in the purchase of new licenses at new license at the beginning of the year and automobile owners who cannot provide evidence of payment of license fee for the last quarter of this year will be denied a new license until the required condition is complied with.

Incidentally, it was stated, records of sales of automobiles with the name of the purchaser in the purchase of new provisions of state law, are made by de-lators to the assessor's office, so that the collectors of the license fee have accurate information as to the status of each applicant for license.

PLAYGROUND MAN
TELLS OF WORK

G. W. Braden of Pasadena,
Here for Recreation Project Inspection Addresses Club.

The necessity of properly supervised playgrounds for children in the interests of healthier and better childhood was the subject of an address before the Rotary club Wednesday by George W.
Braden of Pasadena, Cal., western representative of the Playground and Recreation Association of America.

The movement in its larger aspect was warmly endorsed by Superintendent Ernest D. Bloom of the local schools, and Mayor Shad L. Hodgins.

Mr. Braden explained the development of the movement throughout the country and declared that in those centers where supervised play is a part of the regular community activity records of the juvenile courts show but little juvenile delinquency, as compared to conditions before the introduction of the playground. He stated that the records of Twin Falls county showed a total of 20 boys and girls in state correctional institutions and pointed out the advantage of the expenditure of a little money year by year in organized recreation as a means of improving such conditions.

Here to Make Report.

Mr. Braden comes to Twin Falls in connection with the movement now under way designed to secure for the city a gift of $2000 with which to purchase a tract of ground for playground purposes. The application of the Twin Falls was filed with the Harmon Foundation of New York something like a year ago by Barton E. Morse in co-operation with Mayor Shad L. Hodgins and others.
Mr. Braden will largely depend the action to be taken upon the application.
Mr. Braden left Wednesday evening for Pasadena, Cal., where he is expected to return here next February.

STEEL ORDERS REFLECT GOOD U. S. BUSINESS

Increase of Half Million Tons of Unfilled Orders Last Month Is Report Made by Corporation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (AP)—The United States Steel corporation today reported an increase of 508,000 tons in unfilled orders last month, the largest increase since September, 1922, when more than 600,000 tons were reported over the preceding month. Unfilled orders on the books of the company on November 30, last, amounted to 4,031,960 tons, compared with 3,525,270 on October 31, last, and 3,308,584 tons on November 30, last year.

Exceeds Estimates. This increase, the fourth successive one reported by the corporation, largely exceeded the preliminary estimates of the trade which were conservatively placed at 300,000 tons. "The published figures of unfilled orders, showing an increase of 608,000 tons, are gratifying, but should cause no surprise," said E. H. Gray, chairman of the board of the corporation. "Business generally is good and growing better."

"The fact is that since the election of November 4 there has been shown a decided change in general sentiment concerning prospects. When business is depressed we are too apt to become despondent and discouraged. We consider the present and fail to remember the past, or to look forward to the future."

Business Good. "Business is so good at the present time that if I were to venture words of advice I would say, 'Let us proceed steadily, naturally, with a view of preventing the inevitable result of recklessness, extravagance or greed.'"

"If we are careful and conscientious we may prosper, assist in maintaining stability and secure reasonable profits, without increasing costs of living which we all know in some lines and directions are excessive."

IDAHO. Speaking of fast workers — Allan Dwin is right up on top when it comes to motion picture directors. "Argentine Love," which opens this afternoon at the Idaho theater, is his fourth production of Paramount's Famous Forty. The other three were "Manhanded," "Her Love Story," and "The Waves of Virtue," all starring Gloria Swanson.

The Happy Home

The Electric Home is the Modern Home—and the Modern Home is the Happy Home—every time. Nothing will make for happiness in the home as the easing of the many household duties to the mother, and this is done best by electrical appliances. If you would make your home happy—if you would ease up on the household duties of Mother, give her Electrical Appliances this Christmas. There is the toaster, the chafing dish, the electric iron, the percolator, the heater—in fact the list is so long it makes choosing a simple matter indeed. But be sure of this—whatever you choose—if it is a Hot-Point Electrical—she is going to enjoy her Christmas every day in the year.

We carry a complete line of Hot-Point electrical appliances.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Now paper correspondents in Washington usually are subjected to an avalanche of "handouts," as they affectionately term the formal press releases that come from organizations innumerable.

With the recent political campaign in full swing, headquarters of the major parties kept their typewriters and mimeographs busy turning out copy that appreciably increased the flow of free information.

The National Press club, which is the focus point for the announcements, is unable to gauge their number. Organizations that send them in must be authentic, but otherwise the Press club says, no tab is kept.

Practically all the government departments resort to this system to keep the public officially informed. Even the White House uses this channel occasionally. Sundry organizations have adopted the method as their own. Unlike for and against prohibition periodically issue press notices. In fact, well nigh every national body represented here brings the "handout" into play when desiring to impart some tidbit of information.

The Washington correspondents read enough of this material a day to fill a fat-stick volume, and often get little real information for their pains.

GERMAN CITY IS FREE FROM DEBT

Augsburg One of Few Towns

That Does Not Have Deficit Reduces Its Taxes.

AUGSBURG, Dec. 10 (AP)—This old city, once the scene for the coronation of German emperors, can boast of being one of the few German towns that are running without a deficit. The city treasurer has announced that for 1924 there will be surplus of more than 2,000,000 gold marks in the treasury.

The city is so confident of being able to keep up its record that the aldermen have voted to use the surplus for reducing taxes—this in the face of the fact that the council has authorized an ambitious program of street railway extension, building of a new city hospital and of a municipal market, and creation of an electric power plant.

One of the first taxes to be removed is that on beer. Augsburg is one of the chief cities of Bavaria where popular parlance has it that children are raised on beer instead of milk. The removal of the local duty on beer is therefore likely to win many votes for aldermanic politicians.

The price of gas is to be reduced considerably, and workers' monthly tickets on municipally owned street-railways are to be offered 30 per cent cheaper. Local taxes on real estate and business turnover are also to be lowered.

CLOVER

CLOVER—A large number of young folks gathered at the August Werner home on Sunday evening and there gave Carl Lierman, Jr., a jolly surprise party in honor of his birthday. All enjoyed a good time which was spent with games and refreshments.

Miss Sophie Elting is at present employed at the county general hospital. The Misses Marie Shriver, Martha Faust, Alice Reed, Lillian Gieseler and Luella Lierman of Twin Falls, were among the guests at the August Werner home Sunday evening.

H. S. Green from Jerome spent a few days on the tract, looking over his land interests.

Theodore Schroeder and daughter, Alice, who have spent the past five weeks near Byron, Nebraska, visiting relatives and friends, returned to their home near Clover last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Martens and family, Theo Gihring and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schroeder, daughter, Rufina, and son, Gordon, were guests at the H. O. Reinkens home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Meyer entertained the following guests at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ulrich, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thumert and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Werner, Carl Lierman, Sr., and daughters, Gertrude and Ruth, H. E. Reinkens, Rudolf Martens and Louis Schroeder motored to Twin Falls Thursday no business.

SOPHOMORES WIN OPENING BATTLE

Two Basketball Contests at High School; Juniors Victors Over Freshmen.

The sophomore class team of the senior high school defeated the senior class team by a score of 19 to 6 in the opening contest of the interclass series. The second year men gained their victory through teamwork, the graduating class seemed to lack the fight and aggressive quality that was displayed by the sophomores. Carl Weaver of the senior squad was the stellar man for his team. Weaver is a new man in this locality. He hails from Kimberly where he started as a center. Day and Timm also played a brilliant brand of ball, covering the floor with celerity.

Clyde Rosa of the sophomores team displayed mid-season form and used exceptional good judgment in throwing the ball, his passes were accurate and quick. Gentry who played the forward position with Rosa on the soph squad also showed great promise for the future, his shots from the middle of the floor were spectacular. Kelly and Berg also played a good game, Kelly's floor work was spectacular.

The junior class team defeated the representatives of the freshmen by a score of 15 to 10, this was the fastest game of the two played. The freshmen were buried under an avalanche of scores in the early part of the game, but in the second half they rallied and gave the third year men a scare, although the rally failed it showed the fight that was in the freshmen. Martin and Wiser played the stellar roles for

THREE RECORDS SET AT BOWLING LEAGUE MATCH

Charles P. Larson in a Twin Falls bowling league match Wednesday evening made individual high score with a record of 335 for the league series, while the Umbaugh team, that was high team for the series with a score of 2747, also carried off the honors for high game with a record of 930. The yearlings, Wiser was in every play and due to his lack of weight was on the floor the greater part of the contest. Hollis Martin, the midget forward of the fresh squad is a brother of Eddie Martin who is captain of the junior team, Eddie was out of the game with a sore leg.

Vincent Navin a letter man last year did the major part of the scoring for the juniors, dropping in three field goals from the center of the court. Krivanek and Robertson also showed up well for the third year hoopers. The brand of ball displayed by the juniors was of high quality for a class team and they are hoped to beat the sophomores.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Edited by MRS. E. B. WILLIAMS Phone 395

Mrs. Satterlee, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Boren were hostesses to the members of the Unity club at the country home of Mrs. Satterlee on Wednesday afternoon. The rooms were beautifully decorated in Christmas colors and emblems and the dainty refreshments served at the close of the meeting carried out the same idea. There was a short business meeting during which committees were appointed and plans made for the annual dinner for the men which will be given early in January. Mrs. Edgar Patrick was leader of the program which consisted of several enjoyable Christmas readings. There was a good attendance, each member bringing a useful gift to be sent to the children's home at Boise. The next meeting will be held on January 7, at the home of Mrs. J. F. Emery, 110 Sixth avenue north.

Mrs. R. R. Spafford entertained the Wednesday Bridge club this week. Favor for high score was won by Mrs. E. B. Williams.

Members of the drama and literature department of the Twentieth Century club met at the home of Mrs. O. W. Witham on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. O. Dawson was leader of the program and gave a fine book review on "Sonny, a Christmas Guest," by Ruth McEnery Stewart. Mrs. McKesell read an interesting paper on "Christmas in Other Lands," and Mrs. E. A. Landen sang a Christmas selection. The rooms were not attractively decorated with vases and bowls of marigolds. A social hour was enjoyed during which delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Witham and the assisting hostesses, Miss Adda

Thompson and Miss Stella Hibbard.

The M. S. S. club was entertained Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. S. Parish on Shoshone street. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. Mary Sherman and Mrs. C. A. Heinrich. Twenty-four members answered roll call with Christmas sentiments. After the business session the entire club joined in singing several Christmas songs. Other numbers on the program were a paper, "Christmas," by Mrs. Heinrich; a reading, "A Visit From St. Nicholas," by Mrs. J. D. Tucker, and a vocal solo, "The Star of Bethlehem," by Mrs. Guy Sturgeon. Several boxes of fruit were packed during the afternoon for the children's home at Boise. At the close of the program dainty refreshments were served. Each tray held a Christmas gift which caused much merriment when opened. Guests of the club were Mrs. J. D. Tucker and Mrs. Ling.

J. C. Kestor, Chicago; F. L. Hall, Cincinnati; Inc., San Francisco.

A Twin Falls visitor, George W. Braden of Pasadena, California, describes a visit made last summer to the estate of Edward W. Iwak, in Eastern Pennsylvania.

A conspicuous feature of the grounds was a bed of flowers two or three yards wide and perhaps a mile long, adjacent to the highway and unprotected by fence of any sort.

At intervals signs were displayed which read:
"THESE FLOWERS ARE UNDER THE PROTECTION OF THE GENERAL PUBLIC."

And not a flower was ever taken or touched.

It's worth thinking about.

SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

We may talk about our vanished civilizations, the conservation of youth and all the rest of the fiasco theories which lend themselves so readily to appeals on behalf of the general uplift of the day, but not one of these sheds a single ray of constructive thought upon the question of what should be done about it in Idaho agricultural towns of eight or nine thousand population.

Before long a Yes or No answer must be made to the question of establishing a public supervised playground in the City of Twin Falls. The question is not one which should be answered by a group of half a dozen or so men. It is a public question and the responsibility entailed should not be lightly accepted.

In all probability Twin Falls in the near future will have a chance to accept a gift of $20,000 with which to purchase, under certain conditions and restrictions, a tract of land to be turned into a public playground. Authorities, local and national, are agreed that play without supervision is a better than the ordinary type of child recreation now indulged in. A supervisor will therefore be necessary. Added to which there will be the matter of the preparation of the ground, the laying out of the park, the policing and the care of the same; a further investment in the way of improvements, pavilion, etc., and the customary apparatus with which the youngsters will do the playing.

This program is subject to extension or modification, but in a general way, in theory at any rate, that is about the way it should work out.

There can be no question but what recreation or play of a supervised kind for young people is theoretically sound. In Eastern and Middle Western cities, particularly in manufacturing and mining towns with large tenement districts and with little open country surrounding, they are virtually a necessity. The entire proposition of organized recreation was designed to fit just such cases but it must be admitted that there is a wide difference between the condition just described and those in and around Twin Falls.

This City is the center of one of the greatest natural playgrounds available anywhere. Hikes and bicycle trips to the Snake River canyon and to Rock Creek have long been a favorite and general diversion. The City is full of vacant lots used freely for play purposes. There is the better part of two blocks for play purposes on the West side of the high school, to say nothing of the school grounds, Lincoln Field and the City park—but this is not supervised play.

Men who have given the most thought to the matter unhesitatingly endorse the proposition endorsed by the supervised playground movement, and in theory at least, there can be no question but what they are right. But whether the introduction of such a program in Twin Falls would actually eliminate juvenile crime can hardly be accepted as a one hundred per cent fact. Properly carried out, in the course of years it might reduce such delinquency—probably would, and at the same time it would probably contribute materially to still further lower and excuse parental responsibility for the care and upbringing of the family.

Then, too, consideration should be given the views of those who frankly declare that life as at present constituted calls constantly for fresh means of meeting the tremendous changes of the past decade or two. The motion picture, the airplane, radio and jazz has each contributed its share to the complexities of modern life. The problems of the home have been magnified fivefold—Society itself must constantly adapt new rules in an effort to adjust itself to changing conditions.

These changes compel such movements as the supervised playground idea, say the members of this particular group, so why not accept it as a part of the general scheme of things that are.

As and before stated, consideration should be given this view.

This is not written with a view to creating an obstacle in the way of any proper reform. It is, however, put forth in the hope of to some extent clarifying public opinion upon a public question, the answer to which should come from the people of Twin Falls as a whole. And it is a local question, not a national one, remember that.

Brief letters on the subject, for or against, for publication are cordially invited.

"SINNERS IN HEAVEN"
by Clive Arden

Six months of perfect happiness! It was again the old rule: but even fate seemed to have cast these two for a time. For some reason the world was made passing beautiful, and human beings placed in it without any choice. But the attainment of such less the possession, or permanent bliss thereof has not been decreed.

At the end of six months, the first ominous cloud appeared. Chimbaboo the native chief, fell ill and died. Babooma became head of the tribe. The division of the world was meant the hide of brutality against Babooma. All the worst instincts of the savage, held in check by the old chief under Croft's influence, now rose to the surface. His own adherents, impatient of restraint, hailed him with joy. The division of the world became at once more acute, murmuring dissatisfaction upon one side, threats and tortures upon the other.

The white man's popularity had increased with the increase of health, cleanliness and industry among the natives. Now he took full advantage of it, and only his conscious intention maintained order. The position, however, was fraught with danger. To continue to inspire a semi-superstitious fear after more than eighteen months in itself a precarious basis, only achieved by the weight of his own personality. Furthermore, he was confronted by Babooma's personal hatred. From Kooava he had learned of the chief's mania for women, and women were scarce in the tribe. White women no longer offended the black men's instincts. At present vivid memories of the wounded soldier, blue devils hissing from round Croft's hut, the supposition of a hidden white tribe over at hand, restrained Babooma from defiance of a man tabu. But familiarity and the scraps of education imparted by the white people were gaining upon superstition. It was only a matter of time.

Barbara had quickly perceived that her man was seriously troubled concerning the tribe. Dimly aware herself of the first faint clouds in the brightness of their sky, heralding a possible storm, she sought to hide them, to keep their happiness undisturbed.

During the following months the cloud grew ever more menacing. These natives who, fundamentally brutal and idle, had not appreciated their education of industry, quickly deteriorated under Babooma's leadership. His adherents increased in number as did his cruelties. There being insufficient grown women, he seized young girls, almost children, made men the toys of his lusts, and afterward, they disappeared—sometimes under cloak of religious fanaticism, upon the sacrificial altar to Iluhauka; sometimes to satiate his own appetite for human flesh.

Many times Croft was on the point of utilizing that last bullet. But with his influence would have vanished. Native regard their own chief with extraordinary superstition. To them he is permanently tabu. The next in rank was one of Babooma's followers. Only more danger would have resulted for Barbara and himself, and probably civil war in the settlement. These people were insisting on making their own hell, and nobody could save them short of exterminating half their number.

After a time Alan refused to allow Barbara near the settlement. She said little. She passed long hours with Menman and her children, basking in the mental torpor during his absence in the radiance of her welcome upon his return.

One night he returned, after a stormy day's battling in the south, with his own optimism gravely shaken. It was, he knew, but a question of days before the threatening mine should burst. The division had widened to an extent which only blood and explosion would, eventually, bridge. It needed but a match to the fuse, and that explosion would come.

Barbara did not meet him as usual. He wondered a little, making his way quickly down to her hut. Support was ready, but she was not there. He looked into the sleeping hut, but that also was empty. Anxiously he turned his steps toward Kooava's abode. Menman sat outside, smoking a new addition to his pipe, growing softly over the little dark form.

She waved an arm toward the east. "The great chief's wife went up to the heights long, long ago! Menman still waiting for her," she said. He strode off up the slope, and the native woman continued her crooning song.

Barbara was seated upon the rocks where, nearly a year before, the dawn had witnessed their simple marriage ceremony. Her elbows were propped on her knees, her chin was sunk in her hands.

Alan seemed a kind of sacred temple, own. "Oh Alan!" She gazed, into his face half-milking, yet with a suspicion of tears dimming the soft light in her eyes. "What, dear?" he asked, more puzzled.

She made no reply; but the glory in her face seemed to deepen, radiating toward him. Looming his hands, her arms crept up to his shoulders, round his neck, drawing his head down to her own.

A sudden, vague realization of some stupendous happening caused him to draw her close. "What is it, Barbara?" he murmured. "What are you trying to tell me?" She tilted her head back a little, and said the dawning comprehension in his face. A faint smile flickered across her own.

"Can't you guess my husband?" Instantly he was conscious of the same inhibiting tenderness in her regard which he had just seen in the eyes of the woman suckling her child. The same mysterious essence of motherhood seemed to emanate from both. With a muttered cry, his lips sought hers; he caught her close, pressing her to his heart as if daring all the forces of nature, all the venom of savage animosity, to take her from him now.

She drew impulsively, she looked up into his eyes. "Send you love—let," she whispered.

A reflection of her own tenderness showed in the smile which answered her. The glory of the sinking sun illuminated his face. "Can't I?" he breathed. "My dear, isn't that a question?"

Hand in hand they descended the hill, full of this fresh wonder. After supper they sat on the shore in the moonlight, talking in low tones of the future, making wonderful plans. Both possessed that curious readiness to mature which compels one, in any crisis, to make for open spaces, limitless horizons of ocean. It was after midnight when at last they digged down, and a peculiar sense of airlessness pervaded the island; the water became calm to stillness.

Barbara was restless, and lay long awake. The strange stillness with its suggestion of false calm heralding approaching disaster, revived her premonitions of disaster. When at last she fell asleep, it was only to be tortured with the same premonitions magnified into nightmare realities. She awoke gasping and sobbing in Alan's arms, and clung to him feverishly.

"I dreamt you had disappeared," she cried, in bewildered explanation. "How could that happen?" He soothed her. "How could my bulk disappear? Don't talk nonsense!" They breakfasted later than usual, and had barely finished when the noise of many startled voices reached their ears.

(Glancing apprehensively at each other, they hurried out of the hut. The sky was leaden, hues of angry orange suffusing the horizon, the air oppressive. From the direction of the palm grove streamed a hurrying, chattering crowd of black figures—men, women and children.

Croft's brow contracted, and his lips set. The mine had evidently exploded even sooner than he expected. Scoring him, a wailing cry arose from the advancing crowd. Weary and terrified, they stumbled forward to the palisade, where the women fell upon the ground, moaning, weeping, waving wild arms, sometimes adding their voices to the unintelligible babble of the men. To comprehend their meaning was at present impossible.

Presently their talk grew more coherent; he was able to make out its drift. "We will serve thee, O Great White Chief! Thou art merciful! Thou art wise beyond the wisdom of our men! We will work for thee, O Chief! Thou carest not to torture and kill. A-ah! A-ah! Thou hast done much for our tribe, I know that it will become strong, if thou wilt be our chief. The fruits of the earth will grow, the fish leap up from the water! We love thee, O Mighty Friend of the Gods! We will serve thee!" Thus, and much more with a similar burden, did they baffle the ear's ear. Commanding silence, he bade one of them explain the cause of this visitation.

Babooma, it transpired, soon after Croft's departure the previous evening, had worked himself into a passion. Enraged against the white man and his gods, he raised the tabu. Encouraged by his own adherents, he then declared war upon the white chief with instant death to all who thwarted his designs. This set the fuse alight. An outburst of murmuring followed, as Babooma, warned by the usual superstitions fear of him as their god-ordained chief, while their genuine affection for Croft, fired up to white heat. To prove his words, maddened by opposition, Babooma seized and strangled one of the men who dared openly to rebel.

Relation of Patient and Doctor.
The relations between a doctor and his patient are absolutely confidential and are safeguarded by law, which forbids a physician from testifying to what he has learned in treating the patient, unless the latter expressly waives his right to secrecy. If, however, a patient has employed several doctors, and has at a trial called some of these to testify to his condition as the result of an injury, the other side has the right to call other doctors, as the calling of some of the physicians by the plaintiff is a waiver of his rights.

Wood From Dead Trees.
"Wood that is cut from sound dead trees—is it as good as wood cut from live ones?" Many buyers are prejudiced against dead wood, but there seems to be no reason for it. The Forest Products Laboratory says that there is no way of distinguishing the dead from the live after the trees are sawed into lumber. Of course, dead trees that have been allowed to stand too long are apt to become decayed or infested by wood-boring insects. But trees that have been dead only a short time yield strong, lasting lumber.—Popular Science Monthly.

Chinese First in Field.
Of the many debts that Europe and America owe to China, not the least is that of the manufacture of ceramic ware. The Chinese were the original producers of vitrified translucent white ware which to this day among the English-speaking races bears the name of china. The Italians first named this ware porcelain, but the English, owing to the frequent use of the Persian word "chun" by the Italians, called it china. The growth of the industry is one of the many marvels of the world. Its history is as ancient as that of the pyramids.

-HIGH PRICE RECORDS SET IN GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (AP)—In the face of the continued demand for wheat, corn and oats today all established new high price records for the season. It was the third successive day of record breaking advances in wheat and corn. A new upturn in wheat quotations at Liverpool and a decrease of 6,011,000 bushels in the world's available supply of wheat were among the stimulating factors. Wheat closed up $0.01 to 1-16 higher, May $1.06 1-8 to 1.06 3-8 and July $1.46 1-8 to 1.46 1-4; 1-4 to 3-4 up, oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and provisions varying from 1-2c decline to 2-5c gain.

Throughout the week fluctuations were rapid in the wheat market, breaks as big as bulges of a cent or more being unusually frequent. There was of such large volume that individual operations counted for little. It was current gossip, however, that Europeans were active buyers of future deliveries here, and there were estimates that new export business had been done amounting to 1,000,000 bushels. The highest point today was $1.46 3-4 to 1-2c gain compared with last week's low level. In some quarters the fact was taken as explaining a reactionary trend apparent in the late dealings. Earlier the huge selling to realize profits had been readily absorbed by new sets of buyers, and toward the last the volume of offerings acted as something of a weight on the market.

Hot, dry weather in Argentina continuing to injure the corn crop there was largely responsible for the upward swing of values here for corn and oats. Rural offerings of corn remained small. Provisions, like grain, reached new peak prices for the season, but later sales went under increased selling, especially of lard.

 The high coffee plant is said to be Abyssinia, in eastern Africa, bordering on the southern part of the Red Sea. TUNNEL PROVES SOLUTION FOR DRAIN PROBLEM

Gash in Wall of Rock Creek Releases Great Stream of Water and Reclaims Waste Acres Over Big Area.

A tunnel driven this year into the west wall of Rock creek at the outskirts of Twin Falls on the south, marks the successful solution of one of the most difficult problems that has been presented in the fight that has been waged for more than 12 years against the incursion of seepage in the Twin Falls district.

Through this tunnel there has been flowing for five weeks a stream of five second feet, or 3,200,000 gallons of water daily, a quantity large enough, engineers say, to furnish adequate water supply for a city of 30,000 population. Until the canyon wall was pierced by the tunnel, this immense amount of water was held back filling grooves in underlying rock strata and rising to the surface of the ground, where it presented one of the first drainage problems that claimed the attention of the Twin Falls Canal company management some 15 years ago.

Experiments Costly. Many thousands of dollars were spent in attempts to drain the affected area, which is estimated at between 700 to 1000 acres, to which the water had spread this season to encompass about 150 acres. Hundreds of wells were sunk and miles of ditches dug to carry tile and concrete drain pipes. Through a concrete pipe line 14 inches in diameter on the farm of S. S. All, Twin Falls municipal commissioner, in this affected area, there poured early this season a flow of water that measured 140 inches, or 1,708,500 gallons daily.

Since the completion of the tunnel, which has been drilled into the canyon wall a distance of about 200 feet, and through this pipe line has decreased more than 50 per cent, and the water level on the property has fallen already between six and eight feet. Land that became a veritable swamp when the seep water raised to the surface, was laid flat, as a direct result of the completion of the tunnel, plowed for the first time in seven years.

Tunnel Cost Low. Cost of the tunnel, according to figures on file in the canal manager's office, was approximately $1700. Canal directors and other persons familiar with the situation unhesitatingly declare that it is one of the best investments ever made by the canal company and worth considerably more than the result obtained with the expenditure of thousands of dollars in well drilling and ditching operations in this area that preceded its construction.

Feasible use of the tunnel method in combating seepage, according to Burton Smith, general manager for the canal company, is not limited to the area in which it has been so successfully tested out, but there are numerous other areas under the canal system, he stated, that are susceptible to reclamation by this means.

Expense of the tunnel project as compared with ditching operations are shown by estimates on file in the canal manager's office, one recent estimate for installation of a quarter-mile of drain pipe to carry off one second-foot of water involving an expenditure of $4849, which is to be reduced by doing the work on force account, to $3473.

Manager Pushes Project. The tunnel method for solution of the drainage problem presented here which has been successfully carried into execution by Manager Smith in this instance, has suggested itself in the past to a number of persons; but it was original also with Mr. Smith. Canal company directors advised Mr. Smith during the summer and fall that work on the tunnel was in progress, but it was not until after they had made a personal inspection of the tunnel and viewed its manifest beneficial results that, according to their own statements, they gained an adequate appreciation of its value and they are now loud in their praise of the manager's adoption of the method.

Success ultimately attending the tunnel project was not manifested until after the tunnel had been pushed beyond a distance of 150 feet. So small a stream was being drained through the bore when it reached that point, it was seriously considered abandoning the undertaking. As a further test it was decided to put down three more wells

From the surface on a line with the tunnel, and those wells, sunk at intervals of about 20 feet apart, developed big streams of water that poured through into the tunnel and assured the success of the project. Force of the water encountered was so great that it was necessary to remove rock by any means other than a wooden chute through which the stream was diverted.

Danger Involved. Work on the tunnel in its later stages was not properly tunneling operations, but was done from the surface, charges of dynamite being lowered through holes drilled at frequent intervals with a well drill. This policy was adopted because of possibility of sudden encounter with a great underground reservoir that when loosed, would imperil lives of the workmen in its path.

The tunnel at its present stage is deemed completed by Manager Smith who gives it as his opinion that no further expense need be put on drainage operations in the area of approximately 1000 acres which seems to be effectively drained by the tunnel.
