ENGLISH STORM NOT YET OVER; DAMAGE HEAVY

Reports of Distressed Shipping Reaches London; Rain and Blizzard Follow on Heels of Severe Gale.

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP)—The heavy gale which has caused great damage through the British Isles and which moderated somewhat today, apparently has not yet spent its force, judging from the weather outlook tonight. Rain again started today and a blizzard was reported in the Scottish highlands.

Reports of distressed shipping continue to be received here. The Dutch liner Veendam, bound for New York, was unable to land its pilot at the Id of Wight or Plymouth, owing to the heavy seas and had to proceed to Falmouth where it was landed with difficulty. The ship's carpenter was injured by a huge sea which struck the hull as it was making port.

The British steamer Kallibia, en route to Buenos Aires, also stopped at Falmouth bay and landed her carpenter who also was severely injured. At Bargoed, South Wales, a landslide caused a mineral vein to topple over an unskinning, killing the engineer and fireman. Incidentally 2,000 miners will be laid off as the train wreck destroyed the electric power cables connected with the mines.

Principal increase in the interior bill over the house totals are $500,000 for the Spanish Springs extension, Newlands project, Nevada, $1,400,000 for the house; $100,000 for the Salt Lake basin project, Utah; $37,000 for the Boise project, Idaho, and $25,000 for the Willington project, North Dakota.

Idaho Legislators Hope to Get Through Work in 45 Days; Budget is Ready

GILLIS CHANGES IN SPEAKERSHIP RACE EXCELLENT

Legislature Will Be Asked to Take Care of Government and Institutions.

BOISE, Jan. 3 (AP)—Idaho's eighteenth legislature will start the wheels of the law-making mill to grinding Monday noon when the gavel sounds in the hall of the house of representative and members answer the first roll call.

State officials and some of the legislators themselves predict the eighteenth session will be one that will stand out in Idaho's history. They say that with all internal strife, removed the way is clear for the enactment of constructive laws. Also many legislators are coming to Boise with the idea of getting through with the work, and it is freely predicted in state circles that 45 days will see the close of the session.

John McMurray of Cassia county is unopposed as floor leader in the senate, while C. A. Battaloff, former representative from Butte county is lined up as probable clerk of the house.

One of the interesting features surrounding the state legislature here today is the resignation of the speaker, Elect A. Y. Tallman of Ada county, his never qualified for election, in spite of the fact that he telegraphed his resignation to Governor Moore. In the opinion of the attorney general, the resignation is not binding.

DEMAND TEST OF SENATE ON VETO OF BILL

Senator Moses Serves Notice That He Will Insist on Action Monday on Postal Controversy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—Falling to obtain immediate action today on the administration measure to increase postal salaries and rates, Senator Moses, Nebraska, objected. He in charge of the bill, gave notice that he would press for action Monday before there is opportunity for consideration of President Coolidge's veto of the salary bill passed last session.

With many senators favoring a straight out test, first on the executive's veto, some leaders were doubtful that the majority required to bring up the new administration measure could be obtained.

Objection Made.

When Senator Moses after explaining in detail the provisions of the rate increase, asked unanimous consent today for immediate consideration of the bill, Senator Norris, Nebraska, objected. He previously had asked the reasons for action on this measure before the veto was acted upon.

Under a previous agreement the senate will take up President Coolidge's veto of the pay bill on Monday not later than 2 o'clock and vote on it by Tuesday, and not later than Friday.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Jan. 3 (AP)—The "final touch of personality" has been added to the records of students at the "Kansas" agricultural college here, with the installation of a new system which includes placing the photograph of each student with his personal history in the college records. Administration officials later have pondered over the problem of becoming personally acquainted with the individual student and keeping a mental catalogue in coordination with his written records and qualifications.

After the record of the student's accomplishments and honors has been kept through his years of college, that record comes to be a page and becomes the student himself, said the registrar. "Add this picture to the page and it is the final touch of personality by which he will always be remembered. It will prove of inestimable value to his office and to the student as well."

NATION SUFFERS BREAD SHORTAGE

Bulgaria's Plight Told by Official; Reparations Payments Work Hardship.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 3 (AP)—Bulgaria is plunging into a hard winter, said Premier Alexander Tsankoff recently to the Associated Press. "The feeding of the country is a grave problem," he continued. "Although we know wheat we have had a short crop, and also we have had to turn over a large quantity of grain to Yugoslavia under the restitution treaty. We are trying to develop a wheat grain in southern Bulgaria." The premier went on to say, "but the money is lacking for development. Our payments for the reparations to 157,000,000 leva annually, and we are meeting them fully and promptly. The support of the reparational and military commitments alone costs us 30,000,000 leva. To Serbia we are paying 110,000,000 annually in addition to her share of the general reparations. There is nothing left for improvements of any kind, other agricultural, railway or educational."

Eavesdropping a Crime. Few people are aware that listening to other people's conversation may be a punishable offense in England. That was the case, according to this judicial law by a case which has just occurred of a man who has been bound over with costs for listening to the billing and cooling of a courting couple on the other side of a fence. Eavesdroppers are generally described in Blackstone law commentaries as "such as listen under walls or windows, or the eaves of a house, to hearken after discourse, and thereupon intransigently and mischievously tell." They are punishable by the law and the firing "suetes for their scoot behavior."

So far as riding comfort and dependability are concerned, it is only necessary to add that the Coach is built on Dodge Brothers sturdy chassis and cushioned by Dodge Brothers underslung springs. ISLAND WANTED TO GUARD SHIPS

Atlantic Shipping Interests Plan Haven of Refuge Off Coast of Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 3 (AP)—Assessors are generally wondering inland where shores are washed by the waves of the open Atlantic, lying just beyond the network of bays and islands forming the isolated counties of eastern Virginia, may soon be to the sailors of the east Atlantic what the Canaries are to those of the west, a haven of refuge. Coastal shipping interests, weary of the huge toll of ships, goods and men exacted when the fury of winter storms descends from the north, have petitioned the aid of commercial interests of Virginia, Delaware, and New England in their plea for the United States government to establish off Assateague a haven for tempest driven ships. Steamers towing barges of Virginia coal consigned to New England ports have had to fight terrific seas along that particular portion of the coast, and many cargoes have been lost in the shoals and treacherous waves. In recent years 42 vessels and 22 lives have been lost within a few leagues of where the haven of refuge is planned. Property lost in these wrecks alone has been estimated at above $4,000,000. Only a few people live on Assateague island, a strip of pine and sand. The greater portion of the island is given over to the raising of wild cattails and ponies. Fishermen take a livelihood from the sea in much the same fashion as their ancestors did on the British Isles.

FRANCE LITIGANTS WAIT YEARS TO GET INTO COURT PARIS, Jan. 3 (AP)—The Paris court of appeals has well over 14,000 cases awaiting trial, and the principal provincial courts of higher jurisdiction are in the same situation. At the same time the cases are added faster than the old ones are decided. René Benoit, minister of justice, in revealing these facts to the chamber of deputies, said litigation often had to wait two years for hearing, and in some instances over four.

Wampum Indian money, or wampum, was made from a kind of thick heavy sea shell which the red men gathered, carefully split and ground in the shape of wheat straw, then cut in short lengths and drilled to form perfect beads. There were two kinds of wampum, white and purple. The latter was considered by the red men valuable. The first wampum was used only for ornaments, but as the demand grew strings of it were used for barter or exchange. King Philip of early New England time is said to have had a splendid coat of "wampum"; it was a simple matter to cut a generous bit in exchange for whatever object he desired. Among the Algonquians and the Iroquois Indians beautiful belts of wampum beads were worn by the squaws.

Monster, South Sea Fish. Manta is the name of a gigantic ray fish found among the South Sea islands. It is called the "winged devil" of the deep passage, and is seen only in the depths between the atolls. It is never fished for because it is worthless to commerce, or as food. Sometimes the manta weighs a ton. Sometimes it is seen with its wings spread 20 feet in area. It uses the fins to wave food into its mouth, which oftentimes is two and a half feet wide. It has been known to lift the anchors of vessels in harbor by pushing against the chains and has covered vessels with its wings. When harpooned, this monster has dragged as many as 14 catamarans, or boats, without apparent weariness.

'DIPLOMATIC EPISODES' of the past few weeks have given rise to painful doubts of the sincerity of France in her dealings with the United States. Colonel George Marney, former American ambassador to Great Britain, declared in a signed article in a Washington newspaper, France considers all her debts political, not financial and has not the remotest intention of paying them, Harry declared. PRESIDENT CALVIN COOLIDGE continues to fight plans for an extra session of congress but that body faces a herculean task if it is to finish the administration's program before the expiration of its term on March 4. An alarming jam has developed in the senate and the president may yet find it necessary to call an extra session.

Needed Compass Change The United States Geological Survey says that a compass should be changed every 20 years. This change is necessary, as the magnetic pole toward which the needle of a compass points and the North pole are not the same. The magnetic pole shifts and therefore the change must be made in the compass to make up for the shift of the magnetic pole.

INDIANS MOURN DEATH OF CHIEF

Feasting and Music of Three Days Precedes Burial of Pocahelto Warrior.

POCAHELTO, Ida., Jan. 3 (AP)—After feasting and music for three days during which the body of the late Tye, chief of the Bannocks lay in state, it was buried today. The interment took place in the Butte burial ground about two miles from Butte, Idaho. Despite the weather and eight inches of snow a hundred and fifty mourners gathered to witness the three days' feasting and lamentations, with mourning music and the rites of olden times among his people.

Archdeacon Gray delivered a portion of the burial service of the Episcopal church. Contrary to the usual custom the rites over another deceased member of the tribe were held at the same time. Robert Beethers, being buried next chief Tye. The dead warrior was eulogized for his manliness, his charity and his conspicuous part played in all the affairs of the Bannocks for fifty years. His widow, whose Indian name is Ahltageeyan, and two sisters survive him and were chief among those who gave evidence that all Indian ceremonies are far from dying.

The giving gifts to the poor was a notable feature of the ceremony. The widow Turner, for fifty years United States commissioner and friend of the Indians and Mrs. Turner, known to every Indian on the reservation were in attendance. Over Tye's grave was raised a large flag, symbol of his services as a scout in the United States army. He was an hereditary chief, a man of force and well-thought of in his state.

Treasury Figures Show Decrease of $21,000,000 in Taxes Under 1923.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The American people paid $1,773,569,732 in taxes on their incomes and profits in the calendar year 1924, or about $21,000,000 less than they turned into the federal treasury in the year 1923. Figures made public today by the treasury disclosed that in the first six months of 1924 the receipts from income and profit taxes were $783,585,000 while in the last half of the year the receipts from the same source aggregated $990,984,732. For comparison it was shown that income and profit taxes yielded $910,287,073 in the first six months of 1923 and 974,696,503 in the last half of the same year. Customs revenues were $504,012,479 in the last 12 months as compared with $265,930,008 in the calendar year 1923, a decrease reflecting in the opinion of officials the trend of trade with the United States.

Fight Coming Up.
A sharp tilt is expected between legislators when an attempt is made to repeal the law providing for the appointment of a commissioner of education. This law still remains on the statute books even though there is no commissioner; the 1923 legislature having abolished the office by failing to appropriate money for the commissioner's salary. The board of education has gone on record as favoring a commissioner, but it is rumored that solons from southeastern Idaho are determined to do away with the office and thus remove the possibility of a reappointment of a commissioner.

The Open Hospital
 From the Kansas City College of Osteopathy and Surgery. Outlets by Dr. Emma Crossland.

The open hospital is becoming rapidly popular. It is usually operative in itself, being used by the few to the great detriment of the many and is resulting to all patients and physicians alike. It is a "half-in" and "half-out" hospital.

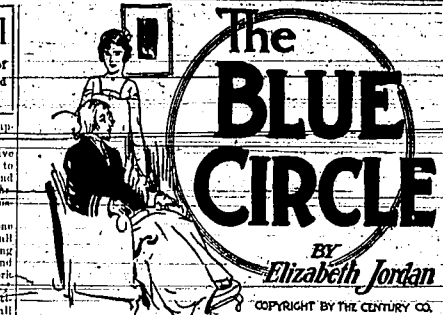

By "open hospital" is meant one that offers its full facilities to all thorough practitioners of the healing art of our day, under the strictest of compulsion, to care for the work which they are qualified to do.

It is a hospital which is practically a "free" hospital, in that it is free to all who are qualified to do the work of the hospital. They are supposed to be specialists of more than local reputation. It is a hospital which has its department heads and all physicians coming to that department, in that hospital.

Then there is a "courtesy staff" composed of "lesser lights," professionally, who enjoy limited privileges in the hospital, but must refer all their business there but must refer all their special work to the department heads of said hospital. In other words, it is a "courtesy" staff in essence a bunch of case takers for the members of the staff, while the staff, between their patients and the hospital, is a serious handicap to the general welfare of the hospital.

Suddenly he remembered the blue electric, and began somewhat vaguely to look about his room. That, dark mystery, at least, should be easy to clear up. But before he had inspected more than a few objects on his high-top, all of which seemed incapable of lighter reflection, a deafening tap on the door was followed by the entrance of Jenks, carrying an armful of linen and bath towels.

"I observed you were short of these, sir," he said as he turned toward the bathroom. "Annie is inclined to be forgetful. You will always find fresh linen in the hall closet at the left."

Believing himself unobserved, he remained silent, looking at him, he closed his eyes and rested his head on the handle of the closed door. She seemed to be studying him and even at this late hour, insistently weighing him. When at last she spoke, her words were an evident combination of her mental processes.

"You will forgive me, Monsieur," she said, and her foreign accent was so marked that even before "If I hesitate, you are to me a stranger, and to us all, and yet I must trust you."

Doctor Stanley had told me you can trust her. "What else can I do?" he had said, almost to himself. "What other could undertake it?"

Renshaw nodded; then, on a sudden impulse, checked his stride.

"Renshaw nodded; then, on a sudden impulse, checked his stride.

do you good—it won't last you all hour to put through Madame Hrovolet's little comedy. After you've done that, knock about a bit. Don't bother to be back for dinner unless you choose. See a musical comedy. He winced under a twinge.

"I'm afraid to anything for you, sir, have I?"

"Campion!"

"No," he cleared the decks yesterday, you know. But you there's one thing I must not forget. You'll need some money. That's why I sent for you."

Moving with cautious consideration for the lighted floor, he took a roll of bills from a trousers pocket and handed it over.

"Thank you, Monsieur," he replied, explaining. "You may want to get some things in town."

"That's very good of you, Mr. Campbell," Hrovolet took the money, flushing, and thrust it into his pocket. It was good of Campbell to think of the money, but Hrovolet had been his father, and Hrovolet's position, it clamped back had not thought of it, and there were things to buy that he needed.

"I'll be off, then," he added, "if you're sure there's nothing else."

"I'm sure," Hrovolet said, "but I'll like to see you again. You'll be back, won't you?"

"I'll be back," Hrovolet said, "but I'll like to see you again. You'll be back, won't you?"

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

THE LITTLE WEED

"My relatives have spoken of this before," the little weed said to the pretty plant.

"Yes," said the pretty plant, "I remember. For you know, I have been around for several years. I'm a sturdy plant, a strong plant, in other words."

"Of rather, I should have said, I think, for I only work for a little while. I'm not very strong—sturdy. I don't mean just about the same."

"Yes, I remember. Your relatives have spoken of this before."

"The nice earth which is around you told me the little weed said, 'I was wondering about how I would be treated. Very carefully I needed a little green seed above the earth. I'm not very strong—sturdy. I don't mean just about the same.'"

"Peeped up above the earth. Above." "Yes, I remember. Your relatives have spoken of this before."

"FIGHTING GOD"
 Zinovieff, one of the triumvirate now ruling Russia, celebrated Christmas by calling off the Communist campaign against religion.

The "Reds" he addressed, "You are going to be in their propaganda against existing beliefs and rituals."

"We shall pursue our attacks on Almighty God," he said, "in due time and in an appropriate manner. We are confident that we shall subdue him in his empire. We shall fight him wherever he hides himself. But we must go about such a question as anti-religious propaganda more carefully in the future."

God, needless to say, can take care of himself. "I, with fulminations, 'I, that siteth in the heavens shall smite down to the earth.'

The pious Russian leaders, of course, are not dealing with God, but with human conceptions of God and human ways of worshipping God. They are fighting religion, but religion, which as a mere shadow of God, is incomparably older than Bolshevism, and more deeply rooted in human nature, and will be found fresh and vigorous when Bolshevism is buried in the dust-heap of history.

AN INVISIBLE CURE-ALL
 The latest medical discovery sounds too good to be true. It is reported that Doctor Robert S. Green of the University of Minnesota has found and cultivated a microbe which is so small it is seen with the most powerful microscope, but which is so vigorous and beneficent that it destroys disease bacteria of every kind, except those of tuberculosis, and it may yet prove effective against them.

Such activity is considered by physiologists to be the special function of the white corpuscles in the blood. They do the best they can to devour disease germs entering the blood stream. But they often prove unequal to the task. Doctor Green's invisible little fighter, aptly called by its discoverer "the anti-infective microbe," seems far more effective. Its power has been demonstrated on pneumonia, typhoid, diphtheria, chicken cholera and "dumplings" and "ticklers."

It is obtained by filtering disease germs through "pore" filters. The resulting serum, diluted a million times, is said to destroy the most deadly disease germs in a few hours, while doing no harm to the body. It is injected into the blood. If this is true, humankind has the nearest thing to a panacea ever yet discovered.

ROAD BUILDERS FAVOR CUT IN MOTOR LICENSE

Twin Falls Highway District Board for 50 Per Cent Re- duction of Fee and Double Gasoline Tax.

Twin Falls highway district commis- sioners, who are interested in motor vehicle license legislation because a portion of the district's revenue is derived from the same, have today voted in favor of a 50 per cent reduction in the present schedule of license fees to get- together with an increase in the gasoline tax to four cents a gallon, an advance of two cents, provided 60 per cent of the state legislature is returned to the district in which it originates.

The district's commissioners at a meeting here Saturday agreed upon this recommendation which is to be sub- mitted to members of the coming session of the state legislature in response to their request for expression of the dis- trict's views on proposed changes in Idaho's motor vehicle license laws.

More Equitable Policy.

The commissioners do not expect, they stated, that the district's income would be increased by adoption of their recommendation, but they believe it would prove more equitable to auto- mobile owners.
