National Association Elects Officers at Closing Session; California Man to Head Organization.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 16 (AP)—Fred H. Bixby of Long Beach, California, a member of the president's agricultural conference, was elected president of the American National Livestock association at the closing session of the convention today. His election was unanimous.

Charles M. O'Donnell of Hill Ranch, N. M., was named first vice president. The following vice presidents were elected: C. L. Burke, Omaha; L. G. Brink, Marfa, Texas; William Bell, Baker, Oregon; H. G. Ingle, San Carlos, Arizona; and Gordon Russell Jr., Elko, Nevada.

Phoenix Chosen.
Phoenix, Arizona, was chosen unanimously for the 1926 convention. The convention adopted a resolution urging strongly the appointment of a committee to conduct a comprehensive study of the entire range problem as recommended in the preliminary report of the president's agricultural conference.

The resolution urged that "pending such study, the proposed forest grazing for increase of range and the commercialization plan, be held in abeyance as well as all other steps such as the proposed removal of fences in public domain tending to disturb and complicate the present range operating situation."

Suggestion Made.
"We respectfully suggest," the resolution continued, "that the committee be appointed by the president of the United States and be composed of the secretary of agriculture, the secretary of the interior and three other members who are recognized men of sound business experience."

The resolution follows: "Whereas, the present emergency in the cattle industry is due in no small measure to the vast economic waste involved in the present centralized system of marketing livestock and distributing its products, therefore be it resolved, that we urge the president's agricultural conference to make a careful study of this phase of the situation to the end that material economies be effected in marketing, processing and distributing of livestock and the products thereof to the consumer, and be it further resolved, that the president's agricultural conference be asked in this connection, to support the amendments to the packers and stockyards act endorsed by this association."

At the session today, A. C. Williams, a member of the federal land loan board, Dwight B. Herald of Phoenix, Arizona; D. A. Miller of Denver, chairman of the national livestock and meat board; E. N. Wentworth of Chicago and Hubbard Russell of Los Angeles delivered addresses. The convention adjourned sine die late today.

WARD OF THANKS.

Babson Sees Bright Future For The Textile Industry

Noted Statistician Tells of Conditions During Past Year in Trade and Reasons for Optimism for 1925.

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 16.—(Special to The News)—In view of the wretched condition of the textile industry Roger W. Babson was today interviewed as to the fundamental situation in this basic manufacturing group. He seems most optimistic for the coming year and gives good reasons for his belief.

"The industry has not been so dull for 20 years as the year just closed," says Mr. Babson. "Business has been exceedingly poor; the mills have made only small profits. If any, many demands have been passed and unemployment is most terrific centers has been quite general. Many stockholders in New England mills feel that the entire industry is moving south and they are naturally discouraged. Hence, most people connected with textiles, whether owners or employees, have been quite depressed during the past year."

Industry Suffers.—Not only has the textile industry itself suffered, but allied industries such as the manufacturers of textile machinery and equipment, have been depressed also. Many feel that the industry is on the verge of a revival, and others find it difficult to finance the installation of new machinery. The situation is further complicated by the fact that there is a difference in plant investment of between $10 a spindle in the old plant in the north and $20 a spindle in the new plants of the south. Although it is very possible that a new plant may be more profitable than an old plant at $10 a spindle, this difference of 500 per cent is nevertheless a drain on the industry.

Three Factors.—Of course the textile situation is primarily bound up in three factors. First, the demand for goods; second, the price of cotton, and third, the wage scale. Statistics clearly indicate that the demand for goods will be greater in 1925 than in 1924. Prices will be more in line; people will have more money and stocks must be re-placed. As to the price of cotton, it is difficult to make forecasts but it seems sure at a fair level and is relatively cheaper than wool at the moment. Although cotton is now 80 per cent over pre-war levels, it must be remembered that it was 180 per cent above pre-war levels a year ago. As I have frankly said in the past, the cotton was too cheap and too high, perhaps my opinion today is that it is selling at a fair price in worthy consideration. The wage situation has steadily improved during the past year. I believe that at least 75 per cent of the New England cotton mills are now operating on the 10 per cent cost reduced wage scale. This means that over 30 per cent of the 100,000 operatives have adjusted themselves to the new conditions. All of this is exceedingly favorable to the fundamental situation.

Textile Securities.—Unquestionably textile securities have not met with marked public favor, I continued Mr. Babson. "Many investors, yes, the great mass of investors outside of New England have little or no interest in textile stocks. In a way the mill owners themselves have been largely responsible for this condition. I say this because they have been too tenaciously held the good stocks and have offered to the public the poorer one. So long as a mill has continued very prosperous the owners have held the stocks, and as a rule, it has only been when they saw the stars against them that they sold these stocks to the public. This means that the public has been let in on many of the poorer ones. In connection with other industries this may be more or less true, but it is not the rule. The successful banking houses have built up their reputations by making good securities for their clients, and in many industries the public has had an equal opportunity with the individuals to make profits and secure an attractive investment.

Good Mill Stocks.—"The 'Good Mill Stocks' however, does not mean that it is impossible to secure good mill stocks such as 'Amoskeag,' 'Pacific Mills,' 'West Point' or others which I might mention. These may all be purchased on the market by the individual who is willing to buy stocks in any of the good stocks. He must, however, choose carefully as they are not handed out on a silver platter.

With general business, as reflected by the Libby's report, at 4 per cent above normal and the tide still rising, I believe the textile industry has turned the corner and that 1925 will be a much better year.

WITNESS TELLS OF GRAFT RING IN WASHINGTON

Chicago Jeweler Informs Court of General Business in Pardons Done by Gaston B. Means and Secretary.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 (AP)—A general business in pardons, with liquor permits as a side line, was engaged in by Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, and by the man known as his "secretary," Elmer J. Jarnecke, the federal jury hearing evidence against Means and Thomas H. Pender, his former attorney, on charges of conspiring to bribe government officials, was told today.

The witness, Samuel Schmidt, a Chicago jeweler, said Chicago money financed the operations of the "ring" which operated in Washington. Some of his money—how much he would not say—went into the campaign through Jarnecke, he said. Jarnecke, indicted with Pender and Means, pleaded guilty at the start of the trial and is expected to be a witness for the government.

Paid Many Thousands.—Schmidt said he had advanced "many thousands" to Jarnecke in the summer of 1922 on Jarnecke's assertion that great profits were to be made in obtaining permits for the release of liquor from bonded warehouses, and for obtaining pardons of "other influence" for persons charged with federal offenses. Schmidt, under cross-examination said he understood the business was to be entirely legal, and that he was to get 50 per cent of all profits in return.

for his supply of expense cash. He called on Jarnecke in New York in October, Schmidt said, to ask for $3500, as he had an obligation to government officials, was told today.

Jarnecke at the McAlpine hotel, where Jarnecke told him he soon would pay him, as he daily expected a check for $10,000 from Chicago from the defendant officers and witnesses of the Crager System, a stock selling concern, as part of a promised $25,000 to be paid for use as a bribe money, to induce Harry M. Daugherty, then attorney general, and other high government officials to call off prosecution.

Given $2000.—The check came two days later, Schmidt said and he was paid $2000. Jarnecke, he said, promised him more money when the Crager defendants "came through with the rest of the amount agreed upon," Schmidt testified he subsequently received another $2000 from Jarnecke.

The trial was adjourned until Monday.

Desire Upholds Business

The basic changes that have taken place in business during the past year or more—specifically the change in price levels and price tendencies—have caused business men everywhere to think less superficially and more fundamentally about business.

Great basic facts which were but little realized, except by thinkers along economic lines have now become clearer to the public at large, and to business leaders in particular.

One such fact is that Desire is the foundation of business. It is the desire of the people for any article of commerce that makes it profitable to produce it. When that desire fails all the agencies of its production must cease to operate.

This fact was considered academic until the nation-wide cessation of liberal buying made it a matter of cardinal importance, and the question of the hour became the means, if any, of restoring the popular desire to do business—the desire to buy.

It came to be seen that the public desire for the products of a business or an industry was the only real and permanent asset. Every other assumed asset became a liability when that desire subsided.

It is upon this basic fact that Advertising rests.

It is the function of Advertising to create desire.

The desire that is created by advertising is always some specialized form of an elemental need. Elemental needs, in their simple form, are the raw material out of which must be created the Demand for the products of industry. This Demand, in its turn, upholds civilization itself. It is the one necessary thing that inspires all human activity.

It is the function of Art and Industry to take the raw materials of nature and refine them into products that constitute Supply. It is the function of Advertising to take the raw materials of elemental need for food, shelter and clothing, and refine them into the desires for the finest products of Art and Industry and these desires constitute Demand. Each function is as important as the other. And now the time has come when this fact is realized as never before.

METEORS TAKE SECOND GAME IN BASKETBALL

Paul Basketball Team Defeated by Twin Falls Quintet; Score 29 to 22.

Displaying a whirlwind attack, the Twin Falls high school boys' basketball team won their second game of the season from Paul Friday evening at the local gymnasium, by a score of 29 to 22. The Paul team played strongly with the idea that a good offense is a team's best defense. The Paul squad strove all through the contest to maintain the offensive. The coach of the invaders made frequent substitutions which apparently had no effect on the final outcome. Paul played a fast, snappy game and was in the best of condition in the past set at the beginning of the contest but was shaken in the least as the fray progressed.

Paul presented a well conceived, smooth working outfit which played a good, clean game and outplayed the local quintet. The opponents of the locals displayed a manning game that started with the tipoff and worked toward their own goal with precision and speed. The entire work of the Paul squad centered around Captain Edwards and Smith, the two forwards. These two men worked up and down the floor time and again taking the ball back and forth between themselves. Paul was not, however, without a defense, as the majority of the score made by the locals were made from the center of the floor.

ELIMINATION BOXING CONTEST IS PROPOSED FOR LEONARD'S CROWN

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16 (AP)—An elimination tournament for the selection of a challenger to Benny Leonard, light-weight champion, who has announced his retirement, was proposed by Lathrop Cogswell, president of the National Association of Boxing clubs tonight. Cogswell said he would wire for a mail vote to his organization on the suggestion. His idea is that each state hold a contest of its own and the winners go to New York for a grand final.

The association covers all states where boxing is allowed with the exception of New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts. To hold the final New York promoters would have to agree to hold them under the rules and regulations of the national body.

POCATELLO BEATS FIFTH. POCATELLO, Jan. 16 (AP)—Pocatello high school basketball quintet defeated the Fifth team last night in the second game of the sectional series which was played on the floor of the Fifth high school. The final score was 41 to 23. This is the second this season.

Deception Justified. What in the world did you mean by introducing me to Mr. Brown as your aunt? Inquired the mother with some warmth. Forgive me, mother, said Leonard, that is how Leonard meant to be on the point of proposing and I felt that it would not do to take any risks. He has a strong prejudice against mothers-in-law.

BUHL BOYS LOSE

West End Team Goes Down to Defeat at Hands of Gooding; Girls Defeat Visitors.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Legislation to make 20 sentences mandatory for prohibition law offenders is held by President Coolidge to involve excess punishment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Buhl high school basketball boys' team was defeated here tonight by a score of 41 to 26 by the Gooding high school quintet in a game featured by short and snappy passes that netted Buhl four baskets for the Gooding team. The girls' team of the local high school, however, avenged the defeat of the boys' team by taking the Gooding girls into camp by a score of 25 to 16 in what officials declare was the best girls' game ever played on a local floor.

Defeat of the local team of boys was put down as entirely due to the combination of Miller, Asena and Rosenbaum of the Gooding team who worked a perfect scoring combination that was impossible to overcome. Defeat of the boys was due to slowness in getting started and to cover up against a five-man defense. The first half of the game ended in a score of 15 to 15 in favor of the locals. However, during the second half they were unable to continue their work and were defeated.

Billy Cox and Ruth Wilcox featured in the play for the Buhl girls and were loudly applauded for their work by the crowd when their new high school gym almost to overflowing. Next Friday the West high school will play Buhl and in this game local fans look for the hardest contest of the season. The Buhl boys have up to date lost two games and won one, while the girls have emerged victorious in every game so far. Simpson of Buhl and Trivette of West high school will play Buhl and in this game local fans look for the hardest contest of the season.

NEW DRY LAW BEFORE HOUSE

Mandatory Jail Sentences for Prohibition Violators Opposed by Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Legislation to make 20 sentences mandatory for prohibition law offenders is held by President Coolidge to involve excess punishment. Such legislation now is before the house in the Stalker bill reported by an almost unanimous vote of the judiciary committee. With respect to it the president takes the position that as there are degrees in the seriousness of prohibition law violations, discretion as to the fine or jail sentence or both should be allowed the courts.

Possession of liquor in a flask, although a violation of the law, is not an offense, but on the other hand, possession of liquor for illicit sale is a serious matter. The chief executive would not look with favor on a law making out the same punishment to the citizen who has liquor in his possession for his own use as to the bootlegger.

The president, however, has not had an opportunity to study the STALKER bill and consequently his views on it as given today cannot be taken as an indication of his action with respect to the measure should it be passed by congress and put up to him for signature of veto.

HOOVER TURNS DOWN CABINET POST TRANSFER

With Mr. Hoover having declined the post, Mr. Coolidge has turned to his 200 name list in search of an agricultural secretary. The list contains the names of a number of agriculturists, college presidents and faculty members and also the names of several officers of farm organizations, neither of which type exactly conforms to the president's idea.

Robert D. Carey of Wyoming, chairman of the president's agriculture commission, continues to lead in prominence those mentioned for the place, but no official indications have been given that he has attained first place in the president's mind.

The statement was made at the White House today that the president had added of an impending change in his official family except those which have already been announced. Speculation continues in Washington, however, and each day brings rumors of new changes. One report that prevailed today was that Director Hines of the veterans' bureau, planned soon to retire, but it is not clear if this was authorized at the director's office.

Mr. Coolidge has approached a decision with respect to a successor to Ambassador Houghton at Berlin. He has named himself to the diplomatic service in his own mind, but is being over both that field and those outside the diplomatic service who are being suggested. Officials here have read with interest Rome dispatches quoting Ambassador Fletcher as saying he was satisfied with his post at the Berlin capital and there manifestly could be no more to transfer. Mr. Fletcher of Berlin if he preferred to remain in Rome.

Senator McCormack of Illinois, who will retire from the senate March 4, having been defeated in the primaries, mentioned for the Berlin post, but it has not been decided as yet. White House whether the senator is under consideration.

GORE APPEALS FOR CENSUS AID

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Secretary of the department of agriculture addressed an appeal "to the farmers of the United States" for cooperation with the departments of commerce and agriculture, in their efforts to take a census of agriculture. Farmers were asked to give promptly to inquiries of the enumerators because "the census will result in obtaining facts that will lead to a more understanding of the actual conditions existing throughout the country."

The information sought will be used as a basis for crop estimates during the year by the department of agriculture and will include figures on farm acreage, land utilization, livestock, crops and other items.

TREATY ACTION EXPECTED SOON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Although the senate turned aside today, from consideration of the Isle of Pines treaty to take up other legislation, republican leaders said they look for final action on this long pending convention with Cuba before the end of next week.

So far as is known, only about half a dozen more speeches are to be made on the subject. The speakers will include Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, who is numbered among the opponents.

Concluding today a speech which he began yesterday in opposition to ratification, Senator Borah, democrat, Indiana, charged that after the McKinley administration had recognized the principle that the island was the territory of the United States, the Roosevelt administration had "deliberately abandoned" the territory and its people, including many American property holders, without any authority of law.

White House denied another arms conference would be called soon. Early retirement of Prohibition Commissioner Hayes was indicated at the White House. The senate debated the question of naval policy and gun elevation. The house commenced committee on a bill for a bureau of civil aeronautics in the commerce department.

Captains of lake freighters testified before a senate committee on the effects of diversion of Great Lakes waters. A bill to give the federal transportation greater powers to prevent misbranding of goods was reported to the house. It was announced that President Coolidge believes proposals making jail sentences mandatory for prohibition law offenders involved excessive punishment.

President Coolidge offered to transfer Secretary Hoover to the department of agriculture but the secretary announced he preferred his present post. Chairman Coxen of the senate committee investigating prohibition agreement criticized the prohibition units handling of the Fleischmann yeast company complaint.

The pecuniary was about 83,000,000 gold marks monthly. The overpayment, it was said, came about through the collections of the recovery taxes by France and Great Britain. The amounts thus collected are repaid to Germany by the agent general in London. The amounts collected are for the three plan. Differences arise because it is impossible to estimate exactly the total these recoveries will amount to in any one month.

DANQUET PROVES FEATURE EVENT OF CONVENTION

Dinner Session Ushered in With Song Marked by Addresses Dealing With Idaho Problems and Development.

With song and story and an admixture of serious fact, which lasted throughout the entire evening, the banquet at the Hotel Perrine last night in connection with the annual meeting of the Idaho State society of engineers proved one of the outstanding events of the session.

Singing under the leadership of Charlie Booth, in which everybody joined, served to break the ice and keep it broken, after which good fellowship reigned supreme throughout the entire program. Music of a more serious sort and which was repeatedly accorded by Mrs. Duncan L. Alexander, Mrs. W. Zenas Smith, Douglas Schuman and Henry Hayward, Mrs. Fred Ross, Jr. as accompanist. The musical program included a number of solo numbers, all of which were received with every mark of appreciation.

Spirituality Essential

Mr. Harlander spoke upon the duty of a chamber of commerce towards its city, declaring that a properly ordered chamber epitomized the soul of the community. Spirituality, he said, was necessary in a true sense to the individual, without personality there could be no real responsibility, and to deal successfully with humanity, both the human and the spiritual side must at all times receive consideration.

Mr. Harlander also spoke of the duty of the chamber of commerce towards its city, declaring that a properly ordered chamber epitomized the soul of the community. Spirituality, he said, was necessary in a true sense to the individual, without personality there could be no real responsibility, and to deal successfully with humanity, both the human and the spiritual side must at all times receive consideration.

A seriously and highly entertaining address was that of Dean Crawford of the school of engineering of the University of Illinois at Urbana, Ill. He sketched the history of the profession of engineering from the dawn of civilization forward, referring to such as one of the early engineers. The use of engineering in Egypt, he declared, is apparent in the evidence available to day, referring to the construction of waterways for the improvement of the location of the ancient city of Memphis. The long earthen dams of Egypt, the remaining evidences of Roman engineering were touched upon by Mr. Crawford.

Cities for City Builders.

"City Planning," was discussed by J. P. Congdon of Boise, retiring president of the Idaho chapter, American Association of Engineers. City planning he defined as planning for the orderly relations and development of a city with due regard for convenience, comfort, health and happiness of its people, and for its business prosperity. Great cities, he said, grow as a result of a combination of three essential conditions: transportation, planning and a permanent commission with its duties well defined as to allow no question of responsibility as between it and the municipal government.

Mr. Congdon predicted that one of the principal means of transportation of the future and the making of provision for the present time for the landing fields that will be necessary. He urged also that provision be made for the most favorable conditions for promoting most favorable conditions for the future. He urged further provision for parks and playgrounds, and recreation spaces, and for warehouse districts and zoning systems.

Mr. D. Wilcox of Idaho Falls, newly elected president of the Idaho State society of engineers, presided at the dinner.

COUNTY OFFICIALS WILL ATTEND STATE MEETINGS

C. G. Higgins, Auditor, and E. Claud Stewart, Assessor, Leave for Boise for Annual Conventions.

C. C. Higgins, Twin Falls county auditor, is to leave today for Boise to attend sessions next week of an annual meeting of the state association of county auditors, which he has served during the past year as chairman of the executive committee.

E. Claud Stewart, Twin Falls county assessor and chairman of the executive committee of the state association of assessors, left Friday for Boise to attend sessions of that organization which are to be held coincidentally with those of the county auditors.

SENIORS GET ACQUAINTED

Social Function Marks Beginning of Preparations on Part of High School Graduating Class.

Days of the Twin Falls high school senior class held a party after the basketball game Friday for the girls of the class. The purpose of the affair was to give the members of the class a chance to get acquainted, as a great deal of work is to be done by the graduating class this year. The party was organized as a carnival, each of the girls being presented with a horn or noise-maker of some sort. Booths were erected along the sides of the auditorium and confetti and streamers were distributed.

A small wheel was used to carry out the effect of the carnival and the members holding the winning number received a small gift.

chapter, was introduced as the first national president of the American Association of Engineers. Referring to remarks of Mr. Wilcox earlier in the evening, Mr. Wilcox declared that the engineering fraternity owed a debt of gratitude to the people of the Twin Falls country whose achievements have vindicated the judgment of the engineers who planned the building of the Twin Falls irrigation system. A principal purpose of the formation of the national association of engineers, Mr. Wilcox stated, was to increase the usefulness of engineers.

Epistles to Criticism.

Characterizing as a "great slender of the west," a criticism of the usual reaction program written by Garret Green and published in the Saturday Evening Post, E. E. Shepherd of Jerome, president of the American Falls reservoir district, made a vigorous defense of Idaho citizens in the west and called upon Idaho citizens to recognize that there are those who seek to find pleasure and profit in such calumnies.

Mr. Shepherd denied that appropriation had been made from tax revenues for reclamation except in the case of a local irrigation system. He stated that it is made up of revenues from sale of other disposition of lands and other resources owned and controlled by the federal government.

He denied emphatically the assertion that there is a plan for land reclamation and in this connection he stated that the Muscle Shoals project commands intense interest because it is a potential large producer of commercial fertilizer that is so essential to the success of the western states. He stated that it is purchased in those regions at an annual estimated expense of from $10 to $30 per acre.

"If it were not for the wheat grown last season on western irrigated farms," Mr. Shepherd declared, "this country now would have to import wheat, and if it were not for the wheat grown on western irrigated farms during the world war, this might have been a different story."

Trade of the irrigated regions of the west is more valuable to eastern manufacturers than that of South America or any foreign nation except Great Britain, Mr. Shepherd declared, referring to statistics compiled a few years ago.

"We'll get the west," he declared, "but we'll get it together, better than we've ever had before. We'll make good and cultivate a spirit of individualism. I want to see the west in order that we might have realization of obligation to the west and in order that we might get fair play out here."

SEATTLE INSTRUCTOR TO OPEN ATHLETIC CLUB

An athletic club is to be opened next week in rooms in the basement of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company building. It was announced Friday. The club is to be under the management of W. W. Flynn, former instructor for Seattle athletic clubs.

The deal which she has just concluded is for a half interest in the mine, the price being $500,000. Contact is a new mining camp that is being opened up by a railroad corporation. A rich copper section that has heretofore been inaccessible.

In negotiating the deal Mrs. Aldrich went to France, where she spent considerable time. This, however, was her second visit there for she was in France with the Red Cross during the war and consequently was more or less familiar with French customs and temperament. However, she says, her first visit was a very different mission and naturally in a very different spirit.

Mrs. Aldrich speaks of her experience as follows: "This is my first experience with France in a business transaction, and I can assure you they merit our highest esteem. Their business methods are quite different from ours; the franc is worth only about a quarter is normal value of our money, they have a law which forbids them to buy securities outside their own country except by special permits from the department of commerce; and then the recent government bond issue of 700,000,000 francs swooped down upon them just as they were about to enter the market and yet in spite of all these odds they went more than half way to accept American methods of procedure—in fact they went as far as they could within their myriad of stringent laws—they accepted the contact written in English, they went out outside sources and popular assistance when the bond issue swept away their reserve fund, and they sent their officers 6000 miles to examine the property, showing always a ready and willing spirit. In spite of the many complications it was a pleasant and interesting transaction. Not the least of their help was having to negotiate such a deal with a woman. It was, for them, both unique and amusing. As the engineer expressed it to our bank here, 'We have no distinction to be so first bank yet has consummated an international deal with a woman representative. The only distinction toward woman was seen in evidence, and contributed no small part to the pleasure of the negotiations but was at the same time very taxing, as I dialke special consideration in business because of sex.'"

The deal provides that the French bank will pay $500,000 American money for a half interest in the mine, the first $100,000 to be paid upon receipt of their engineer's report.

The engineer has completed a careful inspection of the mine, railroad, smelter site, titles and other details and now he returned to France he left a signed copy with the Contact-Town site company.
