

HOUSE BOARDS MARKETING BILL FOR SUBSTITUTE

Rejects Co-operative Measure for Federal Assistance Policy Believed to Serve Better Purpose.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The House today rejected the co-operative marketing bill which the agriculture committee had reported as a measure to carry out recommendations of the president's agricultural conference.

As a substitute it accepted a proposal for federal assistance to co-operatives without federal control, by Representative Dickinson, republican, of Iowa. Dickinson also will line up with the co-operative marketing committee—the president's conference.

The Dickinson bill, known as the Hansen measure, went into the House by a standing vote of 128 to 78. A roll call vote is asked, but Dickinson substitutes will be the first order of business tomorrow.

Haugen's Prediction
Chairman Haugen of the agricultural committee predicted that the measure would pass. It was put over today, he said, by a coalition of democrats and "newcomers" who, he said, would support it in a second vote.

The Dickinson proposal was approved by the house after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to substitute the Curtis-Ansell co-operative marketing bill, which has been before congress for a year or more. It was thrown out, however, on a point of order.

The Dickinson substitute differs from the Haugen bill principally in that it eliminates all provisions requiring the auditing, licensing or regulation of co-operative associations.

As adopted it carries an amendment to enlarge the scope of activities under the act and to increase appropriations for the agriculture department.

DEMPSEY GIVES HOOP TOURNEY

LITTLE TIME TO FIGHT THOUGHTS

Apparently Absorbed in Other Things, Heavy-Weight King Has No Plans for Coming Fistic Feats.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (AP)—Apparently absorbed in the other matters of matrimony, movies and memoir writing, Jack Dempsey is giving less thought to the coming year's fight boxing championship than the industrial group of pugilists headed by Tex Rickard. The fastest and the strongest fighter in the world will match Tom Dillmore and Harry Williams for a bout in the spring, in determining an opponent for the champion, says Dempsey, but there is a growing feeling that Dempsey, or Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey, as she will be called, will not fight for some time.

Put Crown at Stake.
If he is addressed in schedule, Dempsey would not be crowned at this time, as he had kicked his lands in outstanding bouts. Dempsey has been regularly able to top his opponents, but the crown is at stake in the fight with Tom Dillmore and Harry Williams. He fought Billy Mills and Bill Herman before engaging in "the battle of the century" with Georges Carpentier in 1919 at Boyle's Thirty Acres. There was also talk when he was defeated in the Mountain Union town, Idaho, before the drama with Ed. Moran, Dempsey's last fight and the one that will be remembered the longest.

Three Misses Fight.
Dempsey's most spectacular fight was with Willard, Carpentier and Firpo. Willard hung on until the start of the fourth round, although Carpentier's famous right knocked out Firpo, who was the champion through the sixth round, but was finished quickly in the seventh round. If Dempsey is persuaded to defend his title once more this year, there is little doubt it will be his last, as his loss is known to desire to "settle down" and forego the rigors of another training stage.

MAN IN AUTO WRECK ADMITS USE OF LIQUOR

J. E. Price, who gave the name of A. H. Richardson when he was taken into custody, admitted to the use of liquor on the morning of the accident. Price was driving an automobile when he was involved in a collision with a truck. Price was charged with driving while intoxicated, and a second complaint charging Price with illegal possession of liquor was thereafter dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney.

On arrangement on the charge of illegal possession Price entered plea of not guilty and furnished cash bond in the sum of $250 to secure his appearance at preliminary hearing. Price was thereafter arraigned on the charge of driving while intoxicated, and a bond of $100 was set for his appearance.

Officers stated that they had found a bottle of whisky in Price's possession when he was taken from the scene of the wreck to jail Thursday evening, and that another bottle or bottles of liquor had been broken in the vicinity of the wreck.

The wreck occurred when Price, driving from the east, swerved to the left hand side of the road and crashed into the ascending front corner of a truck properly parked on that side of the road.

NEW YORK JOURNAL
A brilliant audience in a frontier of appreciation cheered, applauded and gave "Poppy" one of the most magnificent productions ever presented on the screen. As a spectacle it is stupendously dramatic and for dramatic strength it has a concentration of power that moves with a force dynamically compelling. The production is prodigious. I have never seen or expect to see, another one equaling this playfully in its power, beauty and strength. Miss Davies and the rest of the cast, seem inspired.

Depth for January at Least Equal to Normal and Water Content Exceptionally High.

Snowfall conditions in elevated regions of Idaho for January were generally far better than those obtaining at the same time last year, says a United States weather bureau climatologist report just issued at the Boise office. The snow fall for the month was far more copious than the moisture content of the snow cover, one to fifteen inches, is for the most part unusually heavy. Precipitation for the month was much in excess of normal in the drainage basins of the upper Columbia, the Weiser, the Payette and the Boise rivers. There was, however, a deficiency quite marked in some localities, in the drainage basins of the lower Clearwater, the Hood, the Lost and the Bear rivers. There was a considerable increase in the extent and depth of snow cover, particularly in the high mountain sections during the month. The snowfall was not so heavy as last year, but the water content was exceptionally high, especially in the lower valleys and on the south slope. The snow off during the period was rather fine. Reports indicate that the seasonal snowfall and the extent and depth of snow cover at the close of January are at least equal to the normal conditions and that the water content is exceptionally high.

Upper Snake River Drainage. Boise: January snowfall approximately 14 inches; snow drifting, especially along the Snake river, but drifts on lower slopes not so heavy. Snow content very wet; conditions much better than last year.

H. Anthony: Average depth low ranges of inches; high range 62 inches; depth of snow cover at the close of January normal for season; snow is well packed and less high than normal, but there has been little drifting.

Merkey: Snow drifting, but good water content; there is 20 per cent more snow than at the same season last year. Depth reports, Weiser R. 8, on Big Lost river, 6 inches; Adolpho R. 8, on Antelope creek, 14 inches; Badger ranch, on Little Lost river, 18 inches.

Wood River Drainage. Hally: January snowfall above normal; condition of snow cover regarding depth and moisture content generally satisfactory; total seasonal fall to date several inches above normal, and three times as great as that of last year; conditions a little more favorable on Blaine and South Fork of Boise river than on Big Wood river drainage.

O. S. L. Bargains for Water Supply for Roundhouse

Construction Department Engineers in Conference With City Officials, Intimate, Early Activity in Building.

Beginning construction here in the new future of a steam plant line round house and other terminal facilities for the Oregon Short Line, was indicated today when two Oregon Short Line construction department engineers interviewed municipal officials with regard to obtaining a water supply for these structures.

The engineers, who conferred with J. K. Reel, general commissioner, H. E. Hayden, water works superintendent, and J. L. McV, city clerk, were given assurance that the city would stand ready to obtaining a pipe of adequate diameter to the proposed boundary and it was stated, the round house and yard that already have been obtained a short distance west of Back creek canyon.

The engineers stated that they would return Friday to continue negotiations. They stated that a detailed plan might be required to carry water sufficient for the residences, but that to which they referred during the interview, Wednesday, for construction of a water main to the round house.

Further indication that work on terminal facilities is in progress in the immediate future was seen in the statement made here about a week ago by the Oregon Short Line construction department, to the effect that the head had been advised to look over the ground with a view to making some grading for new tracks. The only new track laying now in progress here, H. E. Sullivan, Oregon Short Line agent here, stated last evening, would be in connection with the Rogers line line terminal.

Mr. Reel stated Wednesday evening that he had been advised some time ago that work on the round house and other terminal facilities would begin about March 1, next.

EVANGELIST PREACHES ON PRICE OF REFUSAL

Draws Lesson From Experience of "Prophet Jonah; High School Night to be Observed."

Evangelist Louis's sermon Wednesday night at the Methodist church was a study of the "Prophet Jonah, who refused the call of Jehovah that he should go with a mission of mercy to Nineveh. Instead of going gladly in answer to God's call, he ran away and took ship to Tarshish and paid the fare. The price of refusal was sorrow and suffering for nine days. The only way out of his predicament was to go back to the city which he had refused to enter. "Every one is called of God to a mission and we are either content in the highway of duty or we are running away from it toward a short and painful life."

"When we return to God and duty in obedience to His direction we may carry His message of mercy, patience and grace in the highway of duty or we may turn to the right and left and be lost in a city."

"Thursday night will be high school night. Prayers will be heard by students at a children's church. The cottage prayer meetings Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, will be held at the following homes: Mrs. C. A. McMaster, 411 Third avenue south; Mrs. Hough, 639 Ash street; Mrs. Noggle, 1515 Fifth avenue north; Mrs. W. E. Heller, 1428 Seventh avenue west; Mrs. Stranick, 604 Fourth avenue south; Mrs. O. P. Fuller, 115 Main east; Mrs. H. A. Sutcliffe, 252 Eighth avenue east. Special study for the day, Proverbs 16th and 17th chapters.
