

CROPS THRIVING IN SOUTH IDAHO

Weather Bureau Report Says Growth Is Two Weeks Ahead of Usual Condition.

Crop growth progressed rapidly during the week ending Tuesday and is about two weeks ahead of the usual condition at this time, according to a weekly summary of weather and crop conditions issued by the United States weather bureau at Boise. Regarding conditions during the week in southwest Idaho, the summary says:

Warm weather first part of week favorable for growth of all crops, though irrigation was necessary in some districts. The sudden change to cooler Friday resulted in frost in most areas with slight damage to potatoes, beans and corn. Moisture rains Monday benefited pasture, hay and the desert range. Crop growth progressed rapidly and is about two weeks ahead of the usual condition at this time.

In southeast Idaho, moderate temperatures generally, but frosts latter part of week resulted in slight damage to lentils. Crops nearly all ahead in the south and planting continues in north and east. In the north, temperatures ranging from an inch and a half in the Ne. Perce and adjoining counties, and as heavy as in the panhandle counties. Ground generally saturated. All crops in excellent condition and growing rapidly. Farmers getting ready for corn and alfalfa mow. Wheat begins first cover spray. Temperatures close to normal but no frosts. Pastures and range excellent and stock in fine condition.

Notes From The Field
Held in Twin Falls County. Pleasant weather continues; considerable less wind during spring. Highest temperature to date in the area in middle of week; temperatures below freezing but no damage to crops.
Boise, Idaho County: Apple, outlook good, some attention not favorable; frost injured tender vegetation such as grapes, strawberries and berries. Apples and grapes doing well; head lettuce will soon be at critical stage.
Hwy. 20, Idaho County: Alfalfa made rapid growth; hays coming up to good stand; grain in fine condition; plenty irrigation water; slight frosts latter part of week.

Realism and Romance.

Men like to read about creatures in whose nature he indulges his own; and he does, in fancy, at least, to go exploring strange coasts. Realism ministers to the one desire, and romance to the other; and both are right, for that matter, when either realism or romance reaches its highest development. It does so by borrowing from the supposedly opposite school. The great romance novels are those peopled by real characters; the great works of realism have found and evoked the romance of the humble. Shakespeare was an intricate realist, yet he has left us the greatest portrait gallery of "real" people ever fitted by a single author. Chicago Journal.

SENIORS STAGE PLEASING PLAY

Graduating Class Members Set High Mark With Dramatic Offering on Class Night.

Twin Falls high school graduating class members, offering as their class play, "The Big Game," a play in three acts by A. E. Thomas and Clayton Hamilton, before an audience of between 500 and 600 persons in the Levee theatre Thursday evening, presented one of the most thoroughly satisfactory dramatic offerings ever given by a group of Twin Falls young people. Actually a play within a play, "The Big Game" was well chosen for presentation on this occasion by this group of players, and each player was fitted to portray his part. The result was a performance that was from start to finish devoid of strained affects or artificiality that is the bane of so many amateur offerings. Each and every member of the cast, Miss Elizabeth Lindley who directed the performance, and all who had a part in its production were proud of the result.

As the principal roles Miss Hazel Phillips, who appeared to splendid advantage. The work of each was easy and pleasing, and there was not a weak link in the strong chain of support they were given by other members of the cast which included Miss Helen Marie Fisher, Miss Ann Traylor, Miss Donna Wyano, Roy Humphrey, Judson Timm, Lawrence Hall, Philip Day, Harry Dutrie, and Irving Trump.

Robert Anderson served as stage manager and Homer Davis as business manager.

Hand Down Pennant

Presentation and reception of the school pennant, presentation of the senior class memorial took place during the intermission between the second and third acts. The pennant, which has been handed down for several years to our graduating class to the next, was presented on this occasion by Roy Humphrey, president of the senior class, to Russell Dutrie, president of the junior class.

David Alvord presented the senior class memorial consisting of new droppers for the high school auditorium.

Musical entertainment with the dramatic offering and class night program was furnished under direction of J. T. Hainke, director of the school band and orchestra.

Highest in Literature

There are a few books so prominent for content and style that they have been called "The Literary Bibles." They are the "Iliad" and "Odyssey" of Homer, "The Divine Comedy" of Dante, the greater drama of Shakespeare and Goethe's "Faust." Each of these embodies the ideals of a race, or an age, or a civilization.

"Say, listen," comments Cal McVey, "this idea of saying that the boys of today are better sluggers than they were in the olden days of ballism is mighty unfair to the great players who have since played their parts in the dilemma of life."

"The players now hit against a different sort of baseball than they did when played the ball of the olden days."

"Now it is a whole lot different. When the player goes to the bat, he has to hit the ball only about 250 feet to score a home run."

"I'm not going to say that if the present crop of boys were in their prime today they would make more home runs than the present generation of today seem to be so frail."

"Just a little ache or pain, and off they go out of the lineup for a week. It was different in my time."

"In 1870 the Athletics went to St. Louis. On the night before the first game Dockery was involved in a fight in a cafe, and was slashed with a butcher knife."

"Due to his weakened condition Dockery's judgment of the pitcher was rather poor. Nearly a dozen of the swift heaves of Mellicham struck through Dockery's outstretched hands. Each struck him on the chest on the very spot where the butcher knife had made the terrible gash."
