ZOO DEAD, MANY HOMELESS FROM QUAKE IN JAPAN

Prophecies of Seismologists Come True; Temblor Visits Southwest Part of Nation and Takes Toll of Lives.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP)—Prophecies of seismologists came true when an earthquake struck southwestern Japan, caused destruction of the houses of thousands of people and the killing of 200 or more. No fatalities were reported as a result of the earthquake.

After the Tokyo-Yokohama earthquake of nearly two years ago, it was predicted that the time in the near future a temblor would visit the southwest. The center of the disturbance, however, defied the prediction and struck Osaka, centering in the Iwano district, 200 miles to the northwest.

Relief Measures. News dispatches showed that relief measures were being taken in the area. It is estimated that 7700 in the Iwano district, it was stated that the earthquake had been reported, after the ending in of a tunnel between Kinokuni and Takano, and that the rail exit to the Japan sea. Water transportation will still be available. Officials failed to state whether the rail line between Osaka and Kyoto, a run of 80 miles, was in danger.

CHURCH PLANS TO BE CARRIED OUT, DECISION

Presbyterian General Assembly Pledges Work to Pension Fund and Memorial at Washington.

MEMPHIS, O., May 23 (AP)—The Presbyterian church in the United States through its general assembly in session here, pledged itself today to bring to ultimate completion two projects of national importance which have been under way for the last two years.

The assembly voted to accept a report which will hasten the success of the church's new pension plan for ministers and their dependents, and which involves the raising of $15,000,000 and a second which will finally bring the establishment of a great Presbyterian center in Washington.

The report on the pension system was presented by Will H. Davis, pastor of the Trinity church in Cincinnati. He announced that Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, had accepted the treasurer's position of the laymen's committee empowered to obtain the initial fund.

The presbytery of Washington is encouraged to go ahead with plans for the building of a "mountain" church there, one of the Presbyterian church's general quarters for the Presbyterian national capital commission.

Ministries at Low Salaries In an address that bristled with indictments of denominations that pay ministers to administer, he declared the new pension plan brings the united support of the church to bring to the fore a fund, he said, will begin as soon as 4,000 churches and the same number of ministers have adapted it.

For a life of service the average material compensation of preachers in America is less than that paid ditch diggers," he said. "This situation, long endured, is an economic and moral crime."

Wide Pension Range Under the new plan, minimum pensions will be $600 and maximum $2,000 a year, to go into effect April 1, 1926.

The assembly is rapidly clearing its decks of routine matters in preparation for settlement of the issues which church leaders agree is the most important before them, and in which, he said, the church will demand a liberal acceptance of the confession of faith from those preaching its gospel.

Fairly Warned A country paper once said: "P. D. Doolittle is in the habit of strutting and rolling his nostrils. If he does not distort we shall publish his name." This reminds us of the minister who said: "If the lady with the blue hat, red hair and cross eyes doesn't stop talking she will be painted out to the congregation."

Yes, What Is It? Harriette, who had been going out of the window at the lightning during a storm, cried to her father and asked: "What is that light up on top of the air that goes off and on?"

MEXICANS TAKEN IN LIQUOR RAID

Arrest of One Leads to Round-up of Moonshine Plant and Operators.

Three Mexicans, Pete Carillo, and Jose Martina and Zenfiro Martina, brothers, are recently being charged with violation of the liquor laws as they were taken in a surprise raid Saturday morning when Frank Statz, berechta's police officer, at about 2:30 o'clock placed Carillo under arrest after following him and a companion who would be the co-owning of the premises of Tibid, a moonshine plant in north. Carillo is alleged to have had three half-gallon jars of moonshine whiskey in his possession at the time, two of the jars of liquor being seized by the officer.

Subsequently the police and sheriff's office raided a farmhouse one and a half miles north of town where the Martina brothers, they stated, were at work with two moonshine stills, and made part of a wash boiler and the other part of a still. Several jail prisoners were seen at this place, the officers stated.

Announcement

To Our Customers:

Effective June 1, 1925, the member banks of the South Central Idaho Bankers' Association will adopt the policy in effect in many communities throughout the country—that of making a monthly service charge of 50 cents on checking accounts showing a minimum daily balance of less than $50 during the month.

This charge is not intended to produce revenue but is a service charge to assist in meeting necessary expenses in connection with such items as passbooks, checkbooks, covers, bookkeeping, etc., incidental to the handling of such accounts.

A monthly debit will be made against the accounts affected by this rule, but this charge will not apply to accounts against which no checks are drawn during the month.

All Cashier's Checks issued and going to points outside of Twin Falls County shall be subject to an exchange charge of 10c per hundred.

Lever's Wondrous Power
Archibald said: "Give me a lever long enough, and a prop strong enough, and I can single-handedly move the world!" He was, of course, speaking figuratively. What he meant was to emphasize the enormous lifting power which the principle of the lever makes possible. This principle is one of the most important in mechanics, and it is utilized constantly in all sorts of ways.

The Vanishing Men

By Richard Washburn Child

What's this Credit Account N.D.? he inquired under his breath.

"That's the one that occurs most often," said Peter.

"Edgard drummed with his cash, long fingertips on the glass.

"It looks that way," he announced.

"The way you said."

"Some one has been here before us. Perhaps it was you, eh?"

"No," replied Peter. "What do you see?"

"I see that some one who had a reason has put copy paper and carbon under those pages and copied these handwritten entries by running a stylus over the original entries.

Some times the carbon and paper went astir; that's why you see these little blue marks. Did you think it extraordinary that I observed that?"

"Oh, no," said Peter. "Not at all. How could it? It was the first thing that made me wonder about the story those figures cost less. Would you go?"

"Go? Not in person?"

"Yes. New Orleans—wherever the trail leads?"

"Edgard shook his head like a great Buddha with altered needs."

"No," he said. "I'm too busy."

"Isn't it your office force that is busy?" asked DeWolfe, throwing his cigarette into the hearth and tray.

"Besides, as for the money—that is for you to say. Whatever is necessary to get your services?"

"I'll buy money," Edgard answered.

"If I'll send any attention to money I wouldn't be worth fifty thousand to you. No, it's Laura—Mrs. Edgard. We've got a screedible pouch; we always checkers every evening."

"And so on," said Peter, describing with a phrase the whole texture of a great fabric of companionship each thread of which was a homely commonplace, the whole a maff's cloth of gold.

"Yes," said the other. "And so on. How did you know? You never lived it?"

"I intended to," said Peter solemnly.

Edgard burst into uproarious laughter. "Say?" he exclaimed with a number of speech that like all other natural expressions of the fat man had been a rock of Gibraltar against which the assaults of culture had bounded off. "Say? I'd like to tackle this!"

"He slung the back of one of the Russian leather books as one would slung a friend on the back.

"It's a story!" he said. "A fascinating trail!"

"I think it is a story—a true story," DeWolfe agreed. "A thriller."

Edgard considered.

"Housed if I don't ask me—hark her if I can go."

"He spoke as if it were a permission to go to the swanning hole or the circus."

"Thank you," said Peter. "I recognize the presence of good sportmanship. I never expected to see it in the field of auditing."

Edgard picked up the two books. He said: "I'll get you with me and telephone me tomorrow, and I'll let you know what I can say."

"I'll telephone tomorrow," said Peter.

rooms in a certain New York club, Peter felt the sense of revolt against the rut-running life of his own kind.

From Pennington, with his naturally brilliant mind, stunted in religion, in politics, in morals—in fact, by those schools of petty imitation imitated Society and Respectability and Prudence, DeWolfe that evening had drawn a new draught of disgust. Poor Pennington, industrious, irreproachable, successful! For all his pains no never God; for all his labors no more or less mankind. Even his restraint had not enlarged his soul; Peter was certain that if the lawyer would only commit one good dash of highway robbery he would be a better man.

SIR JOHN FRENCH

In the death of Sir John French, Earl of Ypres, England lost one of its greatest military leaders.

For many decades he has occupied a position of commanding importance in the councils of the nation, apart altogether from his military achievements, which have been a noteworthy feature of his life.

Sir John is one of the greatest of England's "first lorded" thousands," so fondly referred to by the British people as "England's great captains."

In the army, as the British takes on the fighting line, the position occupied by the Commander-in-Chief is largely in importance. But even at that time Sir John French was an leader of a nation that had won in the ordinary course of the water combat a time when he was no longer in supreme command of England's continental armies.

But the services which he rendered can never be overvalued. His success in shipping into fighting from the rear material of which the first year's forces were composed was something at which to marvel. Considering the odds with which the work was done—the material out of which was shipped the machine which confronted and held in check, the great armies of military Germany at her best, some may find fault with the result, although many do.

It is perhaps to be regretted that the closing years of Sir John's career were not wholly free of the petty persecutions of spite and animus with which the General appears to have been surrounded. Nor can it be said that he himself held aloof from the controversies which raged about his head. Even in Ireland, following the war, where his achievements as chief of the "Black and Tans," England's military police force in the emergency of internecine strife, there was little of peace or basis of satisfaction for Sir John French. Others might wish to raise and relate their misgivings, but never could.

Upon his return to England he turned to the pen as a means of relief. But retaliation for real and fancied offenses was the main note of his writings and his personal life.

But there is no getting away from the value to England of the services which he rendered. Not even his enemies will question that.

ONE MORE

How often must we consider that to enable the correspondents that in order to gain the slightest consideration for their efforts, a signature must accompany the manuscript!

The News prides receiving and publishing contributions from readers, but there are two of three essentials. They must be reasonably brief and wholly to the point—the most and best—and they must be signed. The signature is not necessarily printed, but it must be their just name.

As in the second item, The News does not deal in abuse on its own account and its readers may set it down that it is, not in the columns of The Twin Falls News.

THE FORUM

A HEADWINDING INCIDENT

Editor of The News:

There is something rather fine and appealing in the spirit that prompts young girls and boys to desire for service to their community. One is continually impressed with the thought that the one animating desire of the youth of the land is to get to take for themselves every honor and to make grudging return, if any. There fore, the spectacle of children voluntarily offering to help in the relief of fire girls have done, asking only that they may serve their town in such capacity as it will be to them, is a heartening and touching incident.

Worth the organization that teaches to it, to furnish the idea of service, is surely the best effort of the men and women of the city to encourage.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BOWEN

THE LACE DOLL

Beatrice had never before been to a big city. It was a new town when her father and mother told her they were going to take her for a visit with them to a very, very big place.

Beatrice, packed away her dolls and her straw-bag which Santa Claus had given her the Christmas before. It was such a nice straw bag, very light and easy to carry and with them to a good city, too—participate in it.

Of course her rag doll had to go along and so did the toy monkey, but she decided to leave the rest of her dolls at home. There was no room for them, and they were a little too young to be taken on this trip after all.

So the day before they started she took everything out and packed all over again.

At last they reached the big city. It was the strangest place in the world. There were just crowds and crowds of streets and cars and motors and people all the time.

At night there was a constant noise—a queer humming sound quite unlike the sounds of the crickets and the owls that she had heard at home.

There were all the toys one could think of and so many more besides.

She stood looking at it, not noticing that she had forgotten to follow her mother who had gone to look at some bigger dolls.

Too noisy for Elmer— Elmer is a great raddi, and when he gets a new book he generally reads that is going on around him.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Notice of the Eastern Star will meet in regular session, Monday, May 26 at 8 P. M., in the Masonic temple. The Business and Professional Women will have a special business meeting preceded by a dinner Monday evening in their club rooms.

ATTORNEY FOR HANSEN

Attorney for Hansen—John H. Hansen, former assistant prosecuting attorney, who for some months has engaged here in the practice of his profession, has been appointed attorney for the village of Hansen.

GUARD OFFICERS TO VISIT

Guard Officers to Visit—Lieutenant Colonel M. G. McConnell, Idaho adjutant general, and Captain L. E. Worthing, instructor for Idaho national guard infantry, will make an official visit to company C, Twin Falls unit of the Idaho national guard, at a regular assembly for drill next Monday evening. Hats and shirts instead of caps and dresses are the prescribed uniform for the summer season effective Monday.

REPORTS LOSS OF HIS CAR

R. C. Hansen reported to police headquarters that his Chevrolet touring car, 1923 model, bearing Idaho license 1850, had been taken to a garage without his authority, leaving the curb at the telephone office, Main street north, where it had been parked a short time before.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS TO MEET

Spanish War Veterans to Meet—A special meeting of General Legion post, United Spanish War Veterans, to which all veterans of the Spanish American war are invited, is being held in the parlors of the Hotel Hamilton today evening in probate court rooms here, according to announcement by E. A. Landon, post commander.

FIGURES IN MANY LEGENDS

Numerous legends have been connected with the name of Joseph of Arimathea. Thus William of Malmsbury says that he was sent to Britain by St. Patrick, and having received a small island in Somersetshire, there constructed, "with tubed tubes," the first Christian church in Britain—afterward to become the Abbey of Glastonbury. The legend says that his staff, planted in the ground, became a thorn flowering twice a year, and known as the "Glastonbury thorn." Joseph also plays a large part in the various versions of the legend of the Holy Grail.

EMPLOYS STEAM TO LIMIT

A compound engine is one that uses its steam twice. The steam does its work in one cylinder, exhausts into a second cylinder, and then exhausts into the atmosphere. A simple engine has only one cylinder into which the steam enters from the boiler and then exhausts into the atmosphere.

WILL PUT PEP INTO IT

The story is told of a poet taking a Broadway chorus girl to the Metropolitan gallery. She gazed at the fine paintings and listened to the inspired eulogies of the verse maker; then as they were leaving she remarked: "Well, I ain't taken up culture yet, but when I do I'll make it hum."

NOTICE—PHYSICIAN MOVES

I wish to announce that I have moved my office from the Sutcliffe building to offices in the Medical Building over Skaggs Grocery Store, Main Street. Past—Office phone 401, residence phone 128. Dr. C. A. Finck.

PARADE LOOMS AS POSSIBILITY OF ENCAMPMENT

Grand Army Veterans of Idaho at Annual Reunion Here to Pass in Review if Guardsmen Can Take Part.

The parade that is being planned for the annual reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic in Twin Falls June 10, 1925, is being planned by the local grand army units of both Kimberly and Twin Falls.

It is the hope of the organizers that the parade will be a grand affair and that it will be the largest ever held in Twin Falls.

Committee members in charge of arranging for housing accommodations for veterans at the encampment and delegates to the state conventions of the Women's Relief corps and Ladies of the G. A. R. are being held here simultaneously with the encampment.
