FIGHT LOOMS IN METHOD OF TAX REDUCTION PLAN

Administration and Congress Disagree on Ways of Reducing Burden; Surtaxes Principal Point of Disagreement

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 11—Another controversy between the administration and congress on the method of tax reduction is impending.

As was the case last year when the Mellon plan was rejected, surtaxes will constitute the principal fighting point, with the inheritance taxes as a new element in the disagreement.

President Coolidge has already declared his position that there should be a very substantial reduction in both of these taxes and administration leaders in congress have indicated that his proposals will have more cohesive support from their ranks than was apparent a year ago.

Other Factors

While agreeing some reduction in the surtax and inheritance rates is desirable, some leaders at least among the democrats and the republican insurgents who combined to defeat the Mellon plan, are inclined to the view that other factors than rates which should have first attention.

While they have as yet had no conferences for exchanges of views, these leaders are giving study to a proposal outlined recently by Chairman Couzens of the special senate tax investigating committee, for a repeal of the nuisance taxes and of the levies on small incomes, with a reduction then as far as might be in the surtax rate.

Indications now are that in the coming fight between the executive and legislative branches the lines are not going to be drawn as sharply as they were a year ago.

When the new congress convenes in December, the republican organization will find itself with a much greater need to an actual working majority than it has had in a number of years. There also are signs that the democrats will be less inclined than heretofore, as a matter of policy than they were at the time of the enactment of the last revenue measure.

"The actual amount of tax reduction which the administration recommends will depend in a very large measure upon the actual and indicated treasury surplus.

Whether the negotiations soon to be entered into by this country with France, Italy and Belgium progress to the point where their results can be translated into the new tax law, remains for future determination. The interests on these debts if refunded in the same terms as was the British debt, would approximate in excess of $200,000,000 annually.

When the house and senate committees come to the task of writing a new tax law they will have available a vast store of information gathered by the special senate committee.

In its investigation the senate committee dealt exhaustively with such most subjects as tax exempt securities, capital gains and losses, undivided surpluses of corporations and general law administration.

Pinchot Pleads for Power Conservation in Denver Address

Pennsylvania Executive Sees Attempt to Encumber Forest Service; Electric Age Declared Here.

DENVER, July 11 (AP)—Plea for conservation of the nation's electric power resources and the national forests were voiced here today by Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. In a statement to the press, the Pennsylvania state executive declared that there was impending "an attempt to encumber the United States forest service" and in an address before the Denver Chamber of Commerce he advocated federal regulation of the electric power industry which is "imperative so that there shall be no domination, and no excessive rates will be prevented."

He said that during the coming session of congress an attack is to be made on the national forests, urging all supporters of forest conservation to be prepared to meet the effort. He stated that the national forests are too "valuable to the nation to be tinkered with."

Passing of Steam.

That the present age is passing from steam to electric power was predicted by Governor Pinchot.

"The electric age is already here," he said. "Although its great, development are mainly in the future, we know already that the changes it will produce are greater than those which followed the discovery of the power of steam."

J. Butler Wright, assistant secretary of state, also spoke before the chamber of commerce, outlining the effects of the development of foreign trade on Colorado.

Governor Pinchot will leave tomorrow for Kansas City on his return trip to Pennsylvania.

CHARLES CHAPLIN NOT ONLY ONE WHO MAY WEAR BAGGY PANTS JUDGE SAYS

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Superior Judge John L. Hudner today recorded in court his final decision that Charles Spencer Chaplin, film comedian, is not entitled to the exclusive use of the particular style of baggy pants, wooly cane, derby hat and gigantic moustache which go to make his screen makeup.

The judge also ruled that Charles Amador, whom Chaplin recently brought into court, may don such garments before the film camera, provided his pictures are not advertised under a name that will lead the public to believe that Chaplin's antics are being shown.

Amador, formerly appeared under the screen name of Aplin, against which Chaplin obtained an injunction, which he sought to make permanent in present suit.

CULT LEADER IS NAMED

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—The name of Mrs. Margaret Rowen, Hollywood cult leader, whose prediction of the coming of the end of the world last February 6, sent many of her followers into the hills throughout the country on that date, today was brought into a divorce suit here.

Herman J. Frey filed a plea for divorce from his wife, Emma, on the ground that she had tried to make him a disciple of Mrs. Rowen, and forced him to stop work on Saturdays which cost him his job, and then had left him to live with Mrs. Rowen.

COOLIDGE AND KELLOGG CONFER

President and Secretary of State Talk Over Debt Funding and Chinese Situation.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 11 (AP)—The occasion of the summer White House visit of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg went into conference late today on the Chinese and debt situations. With them was Undersecretary of State Grew, who had just made a report of information as to late developments.

On his return late today from the Essex county press club's outing at Lake Attitash, the president found Secretary Kellogg here, and they soon began a discussion of departmental matters, chief of which were the It was indicated the consultation would Chinese and debt funding problems, continue over tomorrow.

Declines to Talk

Arriving shortly after noon from his home in St. Paul, Mr. Kellogg declined to discuss the purpose of his visit, although it was confirmed his conferences would hinge finally on how much of a loan, if any, China would be entitled to.

While the president apparently is concerned over any new developments with regard to foreign debts or the situation in China he realizes that there has been no definite progress made with regard to both problems since he left Washington.

Opposed, as he is, to holding any conference distinct from those authorized to deal with Chinese customs and extra-territorial rights in China by the Washington Treaty, Mr. Coolidge is of the opinion that completion of ratification of these conventions by France yesterday makes it imperative that the United States be prepared with a definite policy with regard to them.

FRENCH BUDGET VOTE POSTPONED

Senate to Act Sunday on Measure; Approval Is Given, However, by 421 to 29.

PARIS, July 11 (AP)—The vote on the French budget by the senate has been postponed until tomorrow, but the chamber today approved it, 421 to 29.

Premier Painleve in the senate like M. Caillaux in the chamber met with a reverse despite his speech in which he said;

"You know that the floating of a loan is ready. It would be most useful that the budget should be voted at the earliest possible moment. I hasten to add that negotiations have begun relative to our foreign debts; and you know well how important it is for us to be able to show a balanced budget."

The senate, however, decided 146 to 117 to postpone its vote until tomorrow. M. Caillaux, the finance minister, who was defeated in the chamber 438 to 261 on the question of the repeal of the tax on business turnovers said:

"At the moment when I am going to negotiate with people having the habit of solidly balanced budgets, I ought to bring the certainty that France's budget will be solidly balanced and we will not consent to the decrease in taxation that you propose."

Local Showers Late in Day Bring Slight Relief From High Temperatures; 100 Degrees in Des Moines.

(By The Associated Press)

Temperatures ranging from 90 degrees to more than 100 were general for the day throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas, Ellsworth, Minn., reported 104.

Hail damaged crops near Pipestone, Minn. There were half a dozen heat prostrations in the twin cities and one at Duluth, where the mercury reached 90. At Omaha it was 95 at noon with no prostrations.

In Cincinnati, with a temperature of 93, one death was attributed to heat and one death occurred in Iowa, where temperatures ranged from 100 to 102.

Hand to Mouth Buying Is Condemned by Statistician

Roger W. Babson Shows Effect on Business and Securities of Method of Purchasing Now Under Way.

BABSON PARK, Mass., July 11.—During the past week Roger W. Babson has been studying the apparent inconsistencies existing today between the high bank clearings and slow business, between the record breaking car loadings and the lack of orders. Never before in history have these opposite conditions been witnessed at the same time and opinions differ greatly as to the causes of this business paradox. Mr. Babson's answer is as follows:

"The apparent inconsistency in the present business situation is due primarily to the fact that a majority of manufacturers and merchants have gone on a hand-to-mouth buying basis. There are many reasons for this change. The primary one is the fact that so many business men lost such great sums on their inventories in 1921 that they are not going to be caught in such a predicament again. Furthermore, as the Babson Organization has been constantly forecasting, most commodities have been declining for some time so that those manufacturers and merchants who have been buying on a hand-to-mouth basis have thus far been the most successful. In most cases it has been easy enough to get goods and usually the longer one waited the lower he could buy. This has encouraged hand-to-mouth buying the same as a falling stock market encourages short selling.

"It is perfectly safe at times to sell the stock market short provided you are the only one who is doing it! The more people, however, who indulge in this short selling, the more risky it becomes. If too many persons sell the stock market short, there develops a corner and all are given a terrible licking. The same principle applies to hand-to-mouth buying. In a gradually declining commodity market, such as we have been in for some time, a certain number of manufacturers and merchants can do well by following a hand-to-mouth policy. If, however, too many people indulge in this policy, there may be trouble. Hand-to-mouth buying is safe provided no unforeseen event happens to disturb the equilibrium by suddenly either cutting off the supply or increasing the demand. But if such an unforeseen event suddenly occurs, then there is trouble. Among these unforeseen events that at once come to my mind are the following three:

Sudden Weather and Style Changes

"As I have said many times, the weather is a great factor in retail trade and hence a great factor in all industries. Ninety-five per cent of the merchants today prepare for only normal weather. They count on a certain number of warm days and a certain number of cold days; a certain number of rainy days and a certain number of fair days. They buy their goods, either consciously or unconsciously, according to the normal weather conditions with no reserve at all on hand. This was always more or less true, but under the hand-to-mouth system merchants carry almost no reserve whatever. Hence, when an abrupt change comes in the weather, such as an early or abnormally hot summer, or an early or severe winter, they are caught with no stock and are obliged to turn customers away.

"The same general principle applies to style changes. The public thinks that the manufacturers make and change the styles. Of course they do attempt to do this but they often fail. In practice they send samples around to the jobbers at sort of tests. The jobbers send out their salesmen with the samples nearly run the merchants, and the merchants in turn try out the consumers. Thus they find out what styles and colors can best be sold and plan accordingly. Heretofore merchants have ordered enough to carry them through the entire season but now they are not doing this. Instead they are depending upon the jobber to replenish their stock in the middle of the season if necessary. Under normal conditions this might be all right but any marked increase in the demand would cause a stampede in the market for such goods.

Unforeseen Foreign Complications

"Affairs in our country are pretty much settled, but conditions abroad are still very unsettled. This applies not only to Europe, but to other countries as well. Conditions in China are very chaotic, the French are at war with the Mohammedans in Northern Africa, Russia is still in the hands of the anarchists; and we may have a severe break with Mexico at any time. Upon all of these countries we are absolutely dependent for certain products. We are dependent upon Japan for silks, on China for tea, on the Far east for rubber, and on Mexico for sisal and many other products. In past days manufacturers bought big stocks of these products sufficient for one or two years, if necessary, with out-further importations. Today, however, if the supply of certain foreign products were to be suddenly decreased there would be a famine in the market in a few months.

"Events to cause a stampede in certain imported goods are liable to happen at any time, and indications at the present are that this is especially true in the case of Mexico. Therefore I strongly advise manufacturers and merchants to keep in stock a good supply of imported goods. Not only is it a good policy to prepare against foreign political troubles, but there is not the same tendency for imported goods to decline in price as for domestic goods, owing to the steady decline in exchange and unemployment abroad. American buyers have thus far been able continually to force down foreign prices. This, however, will not continue forever and the time is fast approaching when exchange may turn in the opposite direction and when there may be more unemployment in the United States than in Europe.

Prepare for Labor Troubles

"The United States has been very free from labor troubles during the past two years. There were fewer strikes and fewer men out on strikes during 1924 than during any of the past ten or fifteen years. Manufacturers are even beginning to get careless and omit that red ink warning which we used to see on our order acceptances and letter heads disavowing any liability in case of strikes, etc. Other manufacturers are planning on strikes as the regular part of their routine of business or else they have reached the time when they think there will be no more labor troubles. I don't want to be a croppe hunger, but because labor is quiet is a pretty sure sign that something is brewing. The very fact that we have few labor disturbances at the present time is one of the best reasons why they may be expected to develop before the year is over.

"Under the old system, when business men bought a supply of raw materials and merchandise covering a year or more in advance, strikes were not a serious price factor. If, however, strikes should occur today in certain industries, prices of certain raw materials and products would shoot up to high figures because manufacturers have not on hand sufficient supplies to carry their trade over a period of prolonged labor trouble. The supply of such products would rapidly diminish; jobbers would be cleaned out; and merchants would be unable to get goods except at very high prices. This is a reason why manufacturers and merchants should carry sufficient reserves of domestic raw materials and manufactured goods, as well as imported raw materials and merchandise. As above stated a certain amount of hand-to-mouth buying is good but to induce it is dangerous because some unforeseen event is always liable to happen and business men should be prepared for such.

Don't Crush Out The Jobbers

"If we are to continue hand-to-mouth buying, the jobber is absolutely essential to trade and commerce because he forms sort of a cushion between the manufacturer and the retailer. Yet the tendency today is to eliminate the jobber. Manufacturers are trying to reach the retailers and the consumers, direct; while consumers are endeavoring to buy products direct from the factory or from the mine. I am not discouraging this practice, as it has its good measures; but I must sound a warning note against eliminating the jobber. If a merchant is to get on without the jobber, he must take the jobber's place and carry a big stock of goods. If he is to do a hand-to-mouth business, the jobber is absolutely essential. I am not making an appeal for speculative buying. I do not believe in speculation at all, as it is dangerous if not unethical. On the other hand, I see the danger of the present tendency of all business going on a hand-to-mouth basis. I appeal for a middle road policy. Manufacturers and merchants should take a modial position between that of the speculator and that of the hand-to-mouth buyer. Of course this needs an understanding of fundamental conditions and the trend of commodities, prices, supply and demand, amount produced an consumed, etc. There are, however, several reliable statistical services which furnish this information making it available to all at a small cost. Money so spent is well spent.

"In conclusion let me say that this hand-to-mouth policy must be most carefully watched by every investor, especially while money rates are now so easy. The declaration of peace a few years ago caused business men to be caught with great inventories due to which corporations and investors lost great sums of money. Today an unforeseen event may cause almost as great losses when these same people find themselves with no reserve supply of raw materials or merchandise. Therefore, this policy of hand-to-mouth buying is becoming a dangerous factor in the stock market as well as in general business. Of course none of these things have yet begin to show on the surface. Business continues around normal, the Babsonchart showing it at 2 per cent above normal."

ADA BLACKJACK WILL GO NORTH

Eskimo Woman Rescued From Wrangell Island to Be Sent Back to Nome, Alaska.

SEATTLE, July 11 (AP)—The Alaska division of the United States Bureau of education announced here today that Ada Blackjack would be returned to Nome, Alaska, on the bureau's steamer, Boxer, leaving here about Monday. Ada came to the states after being rescued August, 1923, from Wrangell island, in the Arctic ocean north of Siberia. She went there as an mistress with an expedition led by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, an "Arctic" explorer, in 1921, working under the Canadian flag.

Ada's companions in the expedition, Alan Crawford, Toronto; Lorne E. Knight, McMinnville, Oregon, and Milton Galle, New Braunfels, Texas, perished, bringing the known toll of dead white men in the history of Wrangell island to 11.

With Ada are going her two little children—she is returning to her mother and two sisters. Her husband, an Eskimo like herself, put her aside when she returned from Wrangell. He said:

"She plays too much with the white man."

WARN AUTOISTS OF GAS DANGER FROM ENGINES

Owner of Car Should Never Run Motor in Closed Garage, Experts Point Out; List of Don'ts Given.

Voicing a warning against the deadly effects of carbon monoxide gas, present in the exhaust of automobiles, the United States bureau of mines sets forth the following general rules:

Never run automobile engine in closed or poorly ventilated garage.

Never work under machine with motor running even in open air.

Never close all car windows with engine running, even in open air.

It is not true that the air in a closed garage is safe so long as a gas engine continues to run.

Move a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning into the open air; supply artificial respiration; give him oxygen; massage his limbs; keep him warm and quiet.

PITTSBURGH, July 11 (AP)—With hundreds of thousands of automobiles being put into use in the United States during the summer months, the United States bureau of mines gas experts, stationed at Pittsburgh, have again sounded a warning to the motorists to exercise caution to prevent serious sickness and death from the deadly gas from motor exhaust, carbon monoxide. The gas experts at the bureau, R. R. Sayers and W. P. Yant, point out that the widespread use of motor cars in the summer time, unfortunately, means many repair jobs on motors, and it is while working on automobile machines in closed garages that many carbon monoxide fatalities occur.

These experts, who delve into the mysteries of the deadly gas, have a list of "don'ts" for motorists as well as "dos" or remedies when the "don'ts" are disregarded by careless automobile operators. The "don'ts" include:

Guard against running an automobile engine in a poorly ventilated or closed garage.

Do not work under a machine with the motor running, even though it is in the open air.

Sitting in a closed car with the engine running is dangerous; always have the windows open.

Persons wishing to avoid this danger from gas must see to it that their garages are well ventilated. They should avoid exposure to carbon monoxide and, where it is necessary to come into contact with it, protective equipment should be provided.

A victim of the gas should be taken into the fresh air as soon as possible. If breathing has stopped, artificial respiration must be supplied. For this purpose pure oxygen can be used or oxygen with 5 per cent carbon dioxide, to be given for about 20 minutes. The patient's limbs should be massaged to restore and increase circulation, and the body should be kept warm. The victim must rest, avoiding any exertion whatever.

Carbon monoxide is doubly dangerous, the experts say, because it is hard to detect it in the air. It has no odor and is tasteless. Symptoms are readily found, however. A slight case finds the victim suffering from headache. As the percentage of carbon monoxide in the blood increases the headache becomes more severe. The victim's legs weaken and respiration increases. Then comes a collapse, followed by unconsciousness, and finally death.

The dangerous fallacy that the atmosphere in a closed garage is safe so long as an automobile engine continues to function, has been disproved by tests. A dog was placed on the front seat of a touring car in a closed brick garage and the motor was allowed to idle. After 20 minutes operation the animal lost consciousness. At that time the air showed 1.3 per cent carbon monoxide. The engine was allowed to run until it stopped from lack of air at the end of two hours, when the percentage of gas was 2.1, enough to cause instant death.

This incident the experts cited in order to impress motorists that they should not permit their motors to idle in the garage while they return to the house to obtain some forgotten article.

HOLY YEAR VISITORS TAX ROME'S ABLEST LINGUISTS

ROME, July 11 (AP)—The linguistic attainments of policemen, taxi-chauffeurs, hotel employes and other workers who have to cater to the needs of Holy Year tourists' population have been severely taxed this year, sometimes to the breaking point, by the influx of Holy Year visitors.

Hotel managers, porters and valets who were able to satisfy their clients by a passing acquaintance with Italian, English, French and German now are frequently required to converse action by eloquent gestures, illustrations and other tourist information posters which, until this year, had been printed in three or four languages, may in some cases boast of as many as six or seven.

Recently facsimiles and cabs were provided with booklets setting forth the scale of prices in Italian, French, German, English, Spanish and Polish.

And even the expert philologists who boast of being able to make themselves understood in Russian, Serbian, Rumanian, Hungarian and all the other central and northern European languages are often confronted with a more baffling difficulty by the pure race here of peasants from remote sections of their native lands, particularly Italy and Germany, who have no tongue other than their respective regional dialects.

TALE OF TORTURE TOLD BY YOUTHS

Thirteen Boys Released From Filthy Chinese Workshop After Years of Toil.

SHANGHAI, July 11 (AP)—Thirteen boys, some of whom have been imprisoned in a filthy, airless sweat shop for six years, were identified and claimed by parents in the French Mixed Court here recently. The lucky youngsters were part of a group of 31 freed by the French police.

The identification came as an interlude in the trial of Yu Pa-hong, proprietor of a workshop, accused, together with his wife, concubine, amah and three other accomplices, of maintaining a slave pen in which the children in question worked from early morning until midnight, underfed, beaten and never allowed to see the light of day except such as filtered through a small barred window.

Tales of torture for insufficient industry, attempted revolt or inability to labor on account of illness were told by the waifs in a manner to bring tears to the eyes of listeners. Many of the children were purchased from their parents, and sold to Yu for 47 each. Others were hired out as apprentices by parents little mindful of their fate. They were employed in making brass articles, glassware and matches which Yu disposed of in a store on Seward Road. Three or four died as a result of harsh treatment, the court was told.

Yu was given a jail term of 15 years to be followed by expulsion from the concession. His wife received a 10 year sentence, and Yu Ching-hong, an accomplice who assisted in kidnaping, got a similar term. The concubine and amah, who appeared to have befriended the boys on all possible occasions, were released. The store and work shop were ordered sold to defray the cost of trial and to pay for maintenance of the unclaimed children.

MACMILLAN TAKES ALONG TEA FOR USE IN ARCTIC

Provisions for Three Months' Stay in Polar Regions Include Many Things; 100 Boxes of Gum Also Along.

BOSTON, July 11 (AP)—Tea was the preferred beverage on the steamers Peary and Bowdoin of Commander Donald B. MacMillan's Arctic expedition which sailed late last month for exploration of Baffin Land, but there will be no definite restriction laid down. Coffee and cocoa will be available also in liberal quantities to the 30 men of the expedition, and even ginger ale and grape juice to a limited extent.

Commander MacMillan favors tea rather than coffee for steady consumption in the northern cold. Experience has convinced him, he said, that habitual tea drinkers keep in better condition and are better able to withstand the rigors of the Arctic than coffee drinkers. In previous voyages when he has remained in the north through the long winters, he has strongly advised the use of tea but, as the present expedition is to be a summer cruise only, he is not so insistent.

For the three months' trip the expedition will be provided with 100 pounds of tea and 200 pounds of coffee, while 72 cans of condensed coffee will be carried also for emergency use, according to figures given out by Ralph Robinson, Commander MacMillan's chief assistant who is in charge of all supplies.

The commissary list includes 650 pounds of sugar and 12 cases of condensed and evaporated milk with 37 strips of bacon and a considerable supply of eggs in waterglass as a part of the breakfast menu. The two steamers will carry 7,400 pounds of flour with 300 yeast cakes, 150 pounds of lard and spices of all sorts. In addition to 350 pounds of butter, the expedition will have 50 pounds of peanut butter for change of diet.

Other items on the supply list include 27 hams, two barrels of corned beef, eight cases each of corned beef hash, sausage, frankfurters, and Irish stew, two barrels of salt pork, 35 cases of baked beans, 14 cases of tomato and vegetable soups, 35 bushels of potatoes, eight cases of onions, 25 pounds of split peas, and 425 pounds each of rice, tapioca, corn starch and molasses. Roast mutton, roast beef and plum pudding all in cans will also be available.

Approximately 100 cases of canned goods will enable the cooks to furnish stringed beans, tomatoes, corn, peas, shelled beans, spinach, celery, pickles, peaches, pears, cherries, apricots, pineapple, blackberries, blueberries, apple sauce, cranberries, currant jelly, prunes, strawberry jam, and mincemeat as desired. Dates, nuts and cheese may also be on the menu. In addition the expedition will have a generous supply of dehydrated vegetables and fruits, including carrots, turnips, onions, potatoes, apricots, pears, peaches, and apples.

One hundred boxes of chewing gum have been considered sufficient to meet the ruminant demands, while tobacco (smoking and chewing), cigarettes and candy will be ready on request.

For the naval aviators who will maintain a base at Cape Thomas Hubbard for their exploring flights over Baffin Land and Crocker Land, pemmican rations will be provided for emergencies. This particular pemmican will be made of beef suet and buffalo meat from Canadian government herds.

Views of the State.

"The statement given out by the state's attorney that the defense intends to 'smear' the state," said Mr. Darrow, "is a base, cowardly falsehood. The state is enforcing a law which is at once loose and passed deliberately. The case will be decided according to the rules of evidence with the impartiality of appeal to be expected. If improper evidence is offered by the defense, objection will be made to it, and if proper evidence is offered by the prosecution it will be subject to any legitimate objection."

Statute Clear.

"Attorney General Stewart has pointed out that the statute which is being enforced is perfectly clear and free from ambiguity. It forbids the teaching of doctrine that denies the truth of the Bible as read at camp meeting, and that there may be no misunderstanding of law, it interprets the language used by stating that the objectionable theory is the doctrine that man is a descendant of some lower form of life. There is no doubt that evolution could be taught if it were from some lower form of life.

"The question of the constitutionality of the law or its meaning is neither what Mayor speculates might be or how many there might be.

Right of People.

"If the people of a state have a right to pass laws for the protection of the religion of their children, then they have a right to pass laws for themselves what they consider injurious and dangerous to them and their children. No question could be more fundamental. The people have the power to enforce the provisions of the constitution. If the law is wrong, it will be changed by the people. If it is not enforced, it will be repealed. If Tennessee objects to advise the people of New York and Illinois as to what is harmful or helpful, why is it not allowed to call experts from New York and Illinois to testify? It is the right of the people of Tennessee to legislate as they please and according to their own sense of responsibility. The people of Tennessee are the sole judges of what is harmful and what is objectionable from a Bible standpoint.

Protect Bible.

"The people of Tennessee have a right to protect the Bible as they understand it. They are not bound by what Christians or scientists or both."

After a day in which attorneys, as Mr. Neal described them, were lawyers, with a possibility of being so again Monday," the array of representatives of Scopes' legal interests packed their suitcases preparatory to the afternoon, joining a boat ride down the Tennessee river in which the Chattanooga News was host to the visiting reporters.

The present official statement was made informally after the conference that the only subjects discussed were the debt and Chinese problems and that there was no new development of importance in either situation.

Members of the jury evidently thoroughly observed Judge Budstorn's instructions to avoid assemblies, meetings and other gatherings of people, as none of the jury were seen in groups on the streets during the noon hour. Ten of the twelve who will decide the case in the district court were from town precincts and they were at home. The two town precincts were here following their daily pursuits as if they were not to become famous Monday.

NO RIGHT TO DRIVE

New Orleans adds itself to the list of cities making a special drive against drunken motorists. The city attorney is drafting an ordinance which would make it possible for the city to debar a person once convicted of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor from ever driving on the city streets again.

This is drastic. The drunken driver, however, is a particularly serious menace to everyone else on the streets. The chairman of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety says that "the right to operate automobiles upon public highways should be taken away from unfit and careless drivers." Popular opinion seems to approve such severity.

The traffic problem is sufficiently great because of the number of cars in use, without encouraging it by permitting habitual recklessness and disregard of regulations on the part of the irresponsible and selfish minority.

ANOTHER KEY TO HISTORY

Archeology has been pushed off the front page for a few weeks while flights to the North Pole, warfare in China and earthquakes have had their innings. But archeology hasn't been hampered thereby and its followers have gone right on with their delving and discovering.

So we find, tucked in an inconspicuous corner, the report from Mexico City of the discovery of an "immense prehistoric city" near Oriziba in Vera Cruz. It covers several miles, has four big pyramids, has overgrown fortifications or city walls, more than one hundred underground chambers, a multitude of buried houses and vast terraces, the construction of which must have occupied thousands of men for many years.

The engineer in charge reports that this city can easily rival the famous ruins of Teotihuacan recently excavated by the Mexican government. The city is believed to have flourished before the wonderful civilizations of Yucatan. It may furnish the key to the origin of certain ancient and mysterious peoples.

Certainly history books should grow richer in interest and in illustration than they have ever been before. Movies, too, gain in interest when the strange things therein displayed have been just recently dug up and have figured as news in the daily paper.

CALIFORNIA CLUB USES MAILS EXTENSIVELY

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Approximately 3,000,00 pieces will constitute the outgoing mail of the Automobile Club of Southern California this year, it was indicated in statistics released recently by the headquarters of the organization. The figures were based on the amount of mail matter sent during 1924.

First-class letter postage of the motoring organization averages 3,500 letters a day. In addition 2,00 pieces of second-class mail matter and some 200 parcel post packages are sent, totaling for the daily outgoing mail an average of 5,650 pieces. The figures, allowing 300 working days in the year, revealed that the club sends out annually 1,695,000 pieces of mail.

However, this is but a fraction more than 50 per cent of the total outgoing mail, for the organization sends out approximately 1,200,000 copies of its monthly magazine.

In addition some 100,000 letters and packages are carried to 30 branch offices by the highway patrol fleet which the club maintains.

Unity and Concord

Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their labor. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow; but woe to him that is alone when he falleth if he hath not another to help him up. And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.—Ecclesiastes.

ALIENATION SUIT AGAINST W. HILL

Son of Empire Builder Accused of Stealing Affections of Montana Man's Wife.

BILLINGS, Mont., July 11 (AP)—Walter Hill, millionaire son of the late James J. Hill, empire builder, was made defendant in a $200,000 alienation suit in the district court here today by Frank M. Gottlieb, a rancher and cattle raiser living near Big Timber, Mont. Gottlieb charges that Hill won the affections of his wife, and to be a woman of striking beauty, in the latter part of 1921 and that this alienation resulted in a divorce granted to Gottlieb on February 27, 1922. Mrs. Gottlieb now is living in Chicago.

Gottlieb asserts that Hill became acquainted during the summer of 1921 with his wife while he was in Wenatchee, Wash., seeking employment. He alleges that Hill took his wife to Butte on a drinking party and that by lavish expenditure of money and promises of marriage the millionaire induced his wife to abandon him. The complaint also charges that Hill introduced Gottlieb's wife to many prominent people as his future wife and that he thwarted all attempts at reconciliation on the part of Gottlieb.

Gottlieb also charges that the millionaire promised to aid Mrs. Gottlieb to procure a divorce and to divorce his own wife in order that they might marry.

The Gottliebs were married early in 1917. They have a six-year-old daughter, custody of whom was awarded to Gottlieb when he was granted a divorce.

Service of summons on Hill was made at Livingston this week while he was inspecting his large ranch and cattle holdings in that vicinity, according to Gottlieb's attorneys.

AMERICAN FALLS BUSY WITH WORK OF CELEBRATION

Town of 1500 People Prepares for Reception of 15,000 or More at Dedication of Gigantic Project.

AMERICAN FALLS, July 11.—(Special to The News)—In order that the big crowd may hear the speaker and other features of the formal dedication that will be part of the celebration here next Monday a broadcasting outfit is being installed.

As far as American Falls itself is concerned, the big celebration which constitutes dedication of the American Falls irrigation reservoir project, greatest undertaking in American reclamation history, already is on. The reservoir now has been filled completely and after the memory of Shelby Montana one might be led to believe that Monday is the date for a world championship prizefight rather than an event designated to commemorate a project that means as much to the future of so pastoral a pursuit as agriculture in southern Idaho.

It is not, however, an anticlimax hustle in American Falls, but may be expected to increase in intensity with the passing of each successive day. American Falls is not a town of striking population and for years it has been regarded one of the ordinary communities of southeastern Idaho, but today and for several weeks past it has been very much out of the ordinary—about 2,500 people that 15,000 more are going to sweep in on for a day and spirited activity is sure to be the result. Such is the case in American Falls.

The vanguard of the celebrants are here, concessions have sprung up on every vacant lot, streets are gaudy in their pennants and banners, store windows have blossomed as never before in the history of the city and it spare moments are being prepared for the coming events of Monday. Hotels are crowded, and anyone other than the report of Idaho would have difficulty placing his signature on the register. The books have been closed for days by the hotel management.

Five Bands Engaged.

At least five combined bands will furnish music for the big event taking place in connection with the celebration here. These selections will be interspersed with the speaking which Secretary of the Interior Work, Senator Borah, Governor Moore and others will participate.

The work of decorating the city is well under way. The business houses and the streets will be tastefully adorned.

It has been arranged that work on the day that will happen the great reservoir will be continued throughout the day next Monday so that the crowds can see actual operations.

Cowboys and Indians who will participate in the rodeo are here and the Indian village is being set up. "I have collected the roughest bronks in this state," said Slim" Wager, who is in charge of the feature of the celebration.

Representatives of the daylight fireworks display are here and the pageant committee, through James W. Evans, of Los Angeles, is lining up a historic and modern stagement that promises to please a genuine treat.

30 MILE TUNNEL SEATTLE DREAM

Citizens of Washington Form Association to Link Eastern and Western Halves of State.

SEATTLE, July 11.—(AP)—Citizens of Washington, led by Judge Austin E. Griffiths of this city, have formed the Cascade Tunnel Association to effect, with national, state and municipal financing, the boring of a tunnel 30 miles long linking the eastern and western halves of their commonwealth.

This would be the longest tunnel in the world. In Colorado the Moffat tunnel, six miles long, under the Continental Divide, to carry trains and automobiles is the longest. Only half-mile tunnels in the Alps the Simplon tunnel, 12 1-4 miles long, for trains only, has one portal in Switzerland and the other in Italy. Those two countries built it.

The tunnel under the Cascade mountains, for transcontinental railways, three of which have forged through here, was the second great dream of General H. M. Chittenden, who came to Seattle as army district engineer and lived here until his death in 1917.

General Chittenden broached the idea of a ship canal, linking Lakes Washington and Union with Puget Sound, to Judge Griffiths, the city's island, bargin, with Puget Sound and thus through the Strait of Juan de Fuca with the Pacific and other oceans of the world. Constructed with the aid of the United States government, the Lake Washington ship canal has been in service.

Completion of the canal assured General Chittenden brought forward the idea of the Cascade tunnel. The work of agitation which death stayed, Judge Griffith has taken up announcing that it he would devote all his spare time from the Superior court bench.

HANSEN WOMEN PLAN FOR ANNUAL DINNER

HANSEN, July 11.—(Special to The News)—The Women's Community council met at the church Thursday afternoon. Roll call was responded to by each member giving the name of some Bible mother.

A business meeting was held after reports were given by the chairmen of the various committees. Mrs. J. R. Hall was appointed as chairman of the committee to arrange for the annual dinner which will be held at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott August 6. Mesdames Sheely, Hathock and Dailey were selected as a soliciting committee. Mesdames Blodgett and Hathock acted as hostesses and served delicious refreshments from a table which was beautifully decorated with a profusion of sweet peas and foliage.

Special musical and educational stereopticons accompanied by an illustrated lecture by Miss Eva Brown will be given Sunday evening instead of the regular sermon. Miss Brown has given a number of these illustrated lectures which deal largely on mission work among the various classes of industry in America. They are attracting good crowds and much appreciated by all present.

Rev. Tom Blodgett delivered an address on "Agricultural Publicity" before the Lamoin Grange Saturday afternoon at Castleford.

A goodly number of people took advantage of the opportunity Friday evening to attend the piano recital in which Mrs. Effie Hinton, who has for sometime been a resident of Hansen, presented some of the pupils of Twin Falls, presented Miss Ida Klingbiel of Hansen and the Misses Jean Emery and Marjorie Woods of Twin Falls, each of whom rendered several numbers which reflected their musical talent and the splendid ability of Mrs. Hinton as an instructor. Miss Klingbiel has taken training preparatory to teaching while the Misses Wood and Emery are preparing for concert work. Each number rendered was highly appreciated and enthusiastically applauded. Mesdames E. R. Hinton, V. R. Blakeley and the Sampson Girls, Mrs. J. R. Hall as pianist, assisted with the program by singing the quartet "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." Mrs. Hinton played her own composition "Melody in A Flat" and selections by Chopin as two of the closing numbers.

PACIFIC PARLEY WILL BE ANNUAL AFFAIR IS PLAN

Permanent Organization of Institute of Relations Meeting Accepted at General Conference in Honolulu.

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, July 11—Plans for permanent organization of the institute of Pacific relations meeting here was accepted by a general meeting of the institute delegates tonight. The plans contemplate conferences biennially, public declarations of personnel, which is to be elected. There also will be chosen a permanent central secretariat and research director.

An annual budget of $75,000 was suggested.

H. Duncan Hall, professor of history at the University of Sydney, declared in an address supporting the permanent organization plan that a more preventing of war in the Pacific was not enough, that there must be a positive growth of the peace ideal.

Need Pan-Pacific Group

"We need a Pan-Pacific group of governments for Pacific needs," he said.

Alexander H. Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, said he hoped the conference of the league of nations societies of the Pacific which is to be held here in 1927 may bring nearer the Pan-Pacific league of nations of which Henry Cabot Lodge and Franklin K. Lane dreamed as the real beginning of a world parliament.

Dr. Ford also said that several business conventions were asked by the Pan-Pacific Union to invite their delegates to meet in Hawaii to consider formation of a Pan-Pacific bar association. He also announced that two other international conferences would be held here in 1928—the Pan-Pacific medical convention and the conference of Pan-Pacific women and possibly a third, a Red Cross meeting. The Pan-Pacific clinical congress will meet here in 1929.

A temporary committee to handle permanent organization for the institute includes Frank C. Atherton of Honolulu, Yusuke Tsukuai of Japan, S. T. Wen of China, John Nelson of Canada and Ray Lyman Wilbur of the United States.

WOMEN AGAINST CHICAGO RODEO; HELD INHUMAN

Protests Made to Association of Commerce by Prominent Windy City Personages of Plans for Bulldogging and Roundup.

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—A committee from the anti-rodeo league comprising women prominent in Chicago society today presented in person to officers of the association of commerce an emphatic protest against the rodeo which the association plans to conduct here in August. The league invited representatives of the press to be present but officials of the association excluded them.

"We are going to talk turkey," explained H. F. Miller, in charge of the preparations for the rodeo.

Spokesmen of both organizations afterward disclosed what had been done at the meeting.

Presents Letter

The league presented a letter of protest from the Women's City club, signed by Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen as corresponding secretary. Mrs. Bowen for years, president of the Women's City club, was recently president of the Woman's Roosevelt republican club and chairman of the First Woman's fair. Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh of the anti-rodeo league said, "We are back in the former times, except then humans were sacrificed to animals and now animals are sacrificed for the amusement of Christians.

The association of commerce said that asked their visitors to stick to facts and alleged that pamphlets from New York presented by the league were "misrepresentations."

Bulldogging Opposed

They said the bulldogging which was to be part of the show was not the kind of "bulldogging" the league thought it was. "Just what kind it was, they said, would be "a long story."

Miss Charlotte L. Hunt, president of the league said she had long been a resident of Spokane, Wash., and was familiar with rodeos. Hunt went to the conference armed with letters from Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, the actress, and from humane workers in the east and farwest applauding the idea. Among them was a communication from F. G. McCarthy, superintendent of the society for prevention of cruelty to animals of New York expressing the opinion that rodeos had been financially unprofitable there and that such exhibitions in the east were about finished.

A letter from States Attorney West E. Crowe, promised that if humane laws were violated at the rodeo and warrants obtained his office would prosecute.

IOWA MAN IS HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IN DEATH OF IDAHO BOY

AURORA, Ill., July 11 (AP)—F. J. Morlock of Burlington, Iowa, was held under $10,000 bonds at Wheaton, Ill., today on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Earl H. Radtke, 20, of Moscow, Idaho, a student in the theological seminary at Wheaton college.

Radtke was killed yesterday when struck by an automobile. A coroner's jury decided he was struck by an automobile bearing a license number corresponding to Morlock's car.

Morlock was accompanied by A. E. Wassung, also of Burlington, but the latter was not held. Morlock came to Wheaton today from Chicago. He claimed he had hit Radtke after another automobile had struck the boy and hurled him into the path of his car. Witnesses said they did not see another car strike the youth but that it was possible without them observing it.

ROCKEFELLER SELLS HIS TOWN HOUSE AND WINTER HOME TO JOHN D. JUNIOR

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Sale by John D. Rockefeller, Sr., of his estate at Pocantico Hills and at Lakewood, N. J., of his town house and garage in New York city, and of his winter home at Ormond, Fla., to his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for a price "in excess of $3,000,000" was announced today.

The sale leaves one of the world's wealthiest men without a home of his own. The price paid for each parcel of property sold was announced as being in excess of the taxable value of the property.

A representative of the Rockefellers denied that the sale was made to escape payment of inheritance tax. He said that the valuation had been reached by real estate experts.

The sale did not decrease the wealth of Mr. Rockefeller, Sr., but constituted an exchange of cash and securities for his real estate holdings.

DECREASE SHOWN IN POPULATION ON U. S. FARMS

Department of Agriculture Survey Shows Approximately 182,000 Less Farming for Living Last Year.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 11—The department of agriculture estimated today that the farm population of the United States decreased last year approximately 180,000. The rural population was placed at 31,134,000 January 1, compared with 31,310,000 a year earlier.

The statistics showed varied movements. New England and the south Atlantic states reported net increases of farm population, while the other divisions show losses, with the mountain states leading in the decline.

Thus, while 2,075,000 persons left the farms last year 1,890,000 returned to them, and these, with the natural increase of births over deaths of 497,000, reduced the loss in farm population to 182,000.

Although the balance is still in favor of cityward migration, the figures were said to show a back-to-the-farm movement. In 1923 the movement from city to farm was 880,000, which was 516,000 fewer than in 1924, while the movement away from the farm was 2,060,000, only 75,000 fewer than last year.

GRAHAM BROTHERS AGAIN OCCUPY LARGER FACTORY

Following closely the information that Graham brothers produced more 1 1-2 ton trucks than any other manufacturer during the first quarter of 1925, and ranked second in the 1-ton and 1 1-2 ton fields combined, comes the announcement that their Detroit factory has again found it necessary to take greatly enlarged space.

On June 18, it is also announced, Graham brothers opened a new Pacific coast plant in Stockton, California, including Graham Brothers, Canada, Ltd., this gives them four factories.

The rapidity of Graham brothers' growth is clearly indicated by the repeated increases in their space requirements, which have much more than double each year since 1921.

The first Detroit plant in 1921 had 15,000 square feet. During 1922 this was increased to 27,000 and during 1923 to 40,000. In May, 1925, they moved into a plant of 60,000 square feet, more advantageously located with respect to Dodge Brothers from whom they obtain the engine for their trucks. Soon still more space was required. First 30,000 then 60,000 more square feet were added, and on June 1, 1925, another move gave them 250,000 square feet.

The new plant has been laid out for direct flow of materials, units and parts from the receiving docks through the various departments and stock rooms to the assembly line without any retracing or unnecessary handling.

Now—a One-Profit Car in the Quality Field

STUDEBAKER has achieved one-profit manufacture in the quality field. This marks a new era in the automobile industry. Studebaker's achievement eliminates unnecessary profits running up to $500 on a single car. It banishes double overhead. It results in quantity production of quality cars. It vitally affects pricing by establishing a new criterion of value in the fine car field.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago practically all "manufacturers" of automobiles were nothing more than assemblers. They purchased motors, bodies, tops, axles, etc., from parts makers who were the manufacturers in reality.

On this basis it was easy to become an automobile manufacturer, and more than five hundred makes of automobiles have had their day in the American market and disappeared. They are represented only by "orphan cars" with practically no resale value.

Notwithstanding this writing on the wall many manufacturers still assemble their product, piling profit upon profit for the ultimate purchaser to pay. Each profit-maker in turn adds to the cost of the car before it reaches the next one. Each body builder puts on his profit. Each supplier enters into his costs just as though he had spent the money for steel or plate glass or upholstery. Although it represents no value he not only passes it on to the purchaser but figures his own profit on top of it.

• • • •

The Ford is a one-profit car and reigns supreme in its field.

In the fine car field Studebaker and Studebaker alone now offers the American public one-profit values.

During the past seven years, when demand exceeded supply, Studebaker has been plowing earnings back into plants and machinery until we are now able to make this announcement.

Foundries, stamping mills, machine shops, are now complete. As final links in the chain of one-profit production, the enormous Studebaker body plants have been operating for months at full capacity. Resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated on the production of this one-profit car.

No other individual manufacturer in the world (except Ford) possesses such facilities for the complete manufacture of automobiles.

That is why Studebaker is able to put fine steel, fine wood, fine upholstery, better workmanship, hundreds of miles of refinement, into a car and serve transportation into every car—yet keep down the price to you.

This sound manufacturing principle not only holds down price, but it insures a better car regardless of price. The car is not a patchwork, but a unit.

Last year at the New York and Chicago automobile shows four well-known automobile manufacturers exhibited coaches mounted with the same body—a body made from the identical dies, jigs and fixtures. Certainly these manufacturers must have sacrificed engineering advantages in chassis construction to accomplish this "standardized" coach body built by an outside supplier.

Contrast this with Studebaker, where the entire vehicle is made complete in our own factories—engines, chassis, bodies—all complete. This construction means (1) longer life—(2) greater comfort in riding—(3) greater freedom from repair expense—(4) greater resale value.

With the advent of this one-profit-one-overhead plan of motor car manufacture, it is folly today to buy a car by the same comparisons you used yesterday. Today you must measure all cars with this "one-profit" Studebaker.

• • • •

One-fourth of all American passenger cars built today belong in the fine car field—a total of 9 different makes selling more than one thousand daily.

There are 3 Studebaker body styles available on the medium-priced chassis. The Standard Six Models, 113-inch wheelbase, 50 h.p. engine, $1195 to $1650 f.o.b. factory. The Special Six Models, 120-inch wheelbase, 65 h.p. engine, $1495 to $2150 f.o.b. factory. And the Big Six Models, 127-inch wheelbase, 75 h.p. engine, $1875 to $2650 f.o.b. factory.

And you may buy your Studebaker today with the assurance that it will not be obsolete or outmoded by any act of years ahead. Studebaker has adopted the policy of keeping its cars up-to-date in body styles and chassis design every year in the year, instead of "new yearly models." Studebaker has adopted the policy of keeping its cars up-to-date in body styles and chassis design every year in the year, instead of "new yearly models."

WAGNER WILL BULLDOG STEER FROM MOTORCYCLE

AMERICAN FALLS, July 11—"Slim" Wagner will bulldog a steer from a motorcycle, without a side car, as part of the rodeo show here in connection with the dam and reservoir celebration on July 18.

Wagner, who is in charge of the show, says he has selected a bunch of genuinely wild Mexican steers as well as a lot of tough "broncs."

There will be three relay races of two miles each, four horses to the rider, one for cowboys, one for Indians and the other for squaws.

Four races, quarter mile, half mile, three-eighth and five-eighths, are scheduled with trick riding and roping, Roman and chariot races and other features. The rodeo starts at 3 p. m.

Tourists are here for the week end, many coming early to take advantage of the auto camping park in the city park, at the Indian Springs Natatorium, near town and along the river.

The carnival shows are in full blast and attracting many evening crowds from near-by localities, particularly Pocatello.

While the barbecue plan early considered, had to be abandoned because of inability to place it conveniently for large crowds at this time of year, ample provision has been made for feeding the visitors, the committee announces.

A large number of the visitors will doubtless visit Pocatello in the evening in response to an invitation from the Pocatello Real Estate Board there "to visit Pocatello on the evening of July 13 and continue the festivities here."

The special train on the Twin Falls branch will leave Buhl on July 13 at 6:45 a. m. and running 15 minutes ahead of regular train, will arrive at American Falls at 10 a. m. The special will leave American Falls, returning, at 6 p. m. The committee arranged for this special train with the thought that many would prefer to come that way rather than in autos.

Timely Extra Base Hitting Causes Washington to Take Short End of 10 to 5 score; New York Beats Chicago.

(By the Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, July 11—Timely extra-base hitting gave the St. Louis Browns a victory over the world's champion Washington Senators today, 10 to 5. Manager George Sisler hit a triple with three on in the fourth and in the next inning pounded out a home run with the bases filled. The visitors were guilty of three errors and their mound men allowed nine bases on balls. Three Title Bouts Coming in Week

Crowns in Two Divisions Will Be Contested for --Monday Night; Berlenbach to Fight.

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Pugilistic title seekers will claim three championships in metropolitan rings next week.

Crowns in two divisions will be contested for Monday night at Newark, N. J., and Long Island City. Paul Berlenbach will risk the lightheavyweight honors he recently tok from Mike McTigue, meeting Young Stribling of New Orleans in a 12-round no-decision fight at the New Jersey arena of the National Sporting club, while the final round of the lightweight championship tournament sponsored by the New York state athletic commission will be fought at the Queensboro Athletic club.

Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, N. Y., and Stanislaus Loayza of Chile, finalists in the lightweight event, battled their way to the last round by eliminating six other aspirants.

Their bout Monday night, which will be fifteen rounds to a decision will be preceded by a 10 round semi-final between Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, former bantamweight champion, and Irish Johnny Curtin of Jersey City.

The Berlenbach-Murullo match will mark the champion's first defense of his newly acquired crown.

The week's third title fight brings Eddie Shea of Chicago here in quest of the bantamweight mantle now draped over the shoulders of Charley "Phil" Rosenberg.

Shea who has engaged in more than sixty-five fights without losing a decision, will have fifteen rounds to dethrone the champion.

The contest will be fought as a benefit for a Jewish center building fund.

YALE-HARVARD TEAM VICTORIOUS

Oxford Cambridge Combination Defeated in Track and Field Events at Cambridge.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 11 (AP)—The combined Yale and Harvard track teams defeated the Oxford-Cambridge combination in an international track and field meet at Soldiers field today, 7 1-2 to 4 1-2. Under the English system of scoring only first places count, but in the event these are evenly divided the point system reverts back to second places. The teams divided first places in today's meet, each winning six, but the Americans had a decided edge in second place victories, winning seven outright and splitting with their opponents in another while the invaders could do no better than win four seconds outright.

Under the American system of scoring on the 5-3-1 point basis, the American athletes had a margin on the English feats, scoring 31 points to one 47 for Oxford-Cambridge. Of the 61 scored by the combined Yale and Harvard team, Yale accounted for 30 points and Harvard 25.

Several Records Fall.

The meet, the seventh of the international contests in which Oxford and Cambridge have emobled against American teams, brought out three new records. At the same time two others were equaled.

In winning the pole vault Babis Carr of Yale shattered the meet record of 12 feet with a vault of 13 feet. The former record was made by S. S. Schelpy of Yale in 1923.

L. L. Robb of Harvard topped ten sticks in the 220-yard low hurdles in 25 seconds, 1-5 of a second better than the meet record established by T. Hubo of Oxford in 1922.

But the outstanding individual of the meet proved to be a determined English runner, D. G. A. Lowe of Cambridge. Lowe won the half mile in the record breaking time of 1:53 2-5 and then gave his team an even break on first place in the final event, winning the mile in 4:21, two fifths of a second lower than the record.

Lowe's time for the half-mile was 1:3-5 of a second better than the meet record established by Tom Campbell of Yale in 1921.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

What's What in The Sport World

Copyright, 1925, King Features By FRANK G. MENKE

Eight entertaining gentlemen have announced into fragments the venerable idea that the job of managing a big league outfit detracts from a player's natural ability. And, have done that, they've established the fact that piloting a club is really an inspiration and an urge to greater feats as a performer.

Frank G. Manke.

About the only effect that club management has had upon Ty Cobb has been to increase the vim and dash of his young years, revitalize him, make him fight harder and better to achieve spectacular feats and keep him running amuck on ball fields where normally he should be in his diamond dotage.

The will of Cobb to win, his frantic eagerness to lift his club to championship, has, through several years exalted him. Realizing that he is a leader of a band of men, cognizant of the fact that they will follow him in his endeavors, Cobb, with ambition flaming within him, has gone on and on to newer fame and greater glories as a player and now —at 38 is playing a game that matches the most brilliant year of his youth.

It's six years or so since Tris Speaker became boss of the Indians. As his stewardship of the club began, there were many who proceeded to chant a dirge over him. For he was well beyond 30 at the time and it was felt that the cares of leadership would sap the last bit of playing prowess that was within him and retire him to the bench for all time. Yet Speaker, now 37, is playing a game that no man in either league excels—unless it's Ty Cobb. He is hitting now close to the .400 mark, seems to have all of his amazing speed, plays the outfield with the same deadly accuracy of his younger days and yields to no man in all-around greatness as a gardener.

What has accomplished the miracle? Apparently nothing except the same thing that transformed Cobb—the will and the wild desire to win a fling and thus the refusal to yield to the encroach of the years and the unswerving determination to set a real example for his men.

Stalwart backs has played a greater game than this year—and that applies the presumed handicaps of team management. His work around the initial sack has been superb. He has put the boys with all the dash and the fleetness of yore and nothing—unless it's Ty Cobb—seems likely to stop him in his efforts to become 1925 batting champion of his league, known until the beginning of 1925 as Stanley Harris as a good second baseman and nothing more. Then he was made manager. Based upon the earlier reasoning, the elevation of Harris to team guardianship meant burdening him with cares and worries that would reduce him to a mediocre keystone guardian.

Yet Harris in 1924 not only led his club to world's championship heights but played a game around second that was perfection itself. He was the mightiest cog in the inner defense during rallies and an attack he was the team's most dangerous hitter.

And, in the world series, it was the miraculous work of Harris that halted one Giant rally and then another and it was his splendid and consistent hitting that assisted so remarkably in lofting the Senators to the top of the baseball world.

Look at the averages and you'll find that Dave Bancroft, who bid beyond .300 only a few times when he was just a player, now is crashing for .360 or so and is fielding with a sureness and the greatness that no shortstop has excelled since Wamby was in his prime.

If Bancroft's elevation to the management of the Braves didn't accomplish the transformation, what really has been the cause?

Ever since Rogers Hornsby has become chieftain of the Cardinals he has seemed to be a different player. Before then he was presumed to be lacking color; he was without fire and fight; he was modest, retiring. But now Hornsby, vested with a new authority and really required to set a good example for his men, has been playing a different—and a more brilliant game of ball.

The terrific hitting pace he set before he became manager has become even greater; his fielding has become more flawless and Hornsby, of a sudden, has come out of the shell of diffidence and actually is fizzing and spluttering on the ball fields—and actually fighting every inch of the way in every battle.

Eddie Collins, nearing 40, has taken on a new lease of baseball life since he became manager of the Sox. His batting had been wonderful, his fielding splendid and, beyond all that, the quiet little man who seemed to avoid arguments in other years, now is showing all the "pep" and aggressiveness of which great managers are made.

Instead of managerial "cares" detracting from the play of Collins, they seem to have increased his mechanical ability and fired him with a divine fighting flame that's destined to carry him on to greater deeds—and to carry his men along with him on the swirling tide of the rejuvenated Collins.

It's only a few weeks ago since Zack Wheat became manager of the Dodgers. But the same something that made fighters, inspiring leaders and greater hitters out of the other playing managers, already is transforming Wheat. He has been playing his field with a newer sprightliness, he has been hitting with renewed vigor and, of a sudden, this quiet, unassuming athlete has become a feverishly active leader.

So, it seems that in baldpate the thing to do to loft a player to superlative accomplishments on the field of play is to load upon him the "trials" and the "tribulations" of club management.

DARK HORSE WINS CHICAGO DERBY

Thirty-to-One Shot Noses Out Favorite by a Neck; Crowd Gasps at Upset to Dope.

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—The darkest of dark horses, Caractus, a 30 to 1 shot in the betting, raced to victory by a neck in the $20,000 Chicago derby at Hawthorne today, leaving a crowd of 30,000 to 35,000 spectators gasping at the upset.

King Nadi, came under the wire in second place, two lengths ahead of Silver Fox, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, one of the two favorites. Bothermel finished four lengths ahead of Kentucky Cardinal. Dangerous, Gifford A. Cochrane's entry, also heavily played, was sixth, four lengths ahead of Battle in Wells Arbitration with the famed Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, astride his back, finished eighth, two lengths ahead of Mark Master, in last place.

Caractus, owned by C. W. Bridges of Lexington, Ky., was admirably ridden by Jockey Harry Thomas, traveling the mile and quarter route in 2:04 flat, clipping a fifth of a second off the track record for the distance established by In Memoriam, two years ago.

A few seconds after the last cheer of victory had echoed through the stands, a downpour of rain swept the course, drenching thousands of the sweltering spectators to the skin, paralelling the finish of the Kentucky derby last May.

WHEAT PRICES ADVANCE AS RESULT OF REPORTS

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Skyrocketing prices for wheat today accompanied reports of 100 per cent blackrust infection to wheat stems in North Dakota, together with news of a widespread hot wave that carried temperatures of around 100 degrees. Net advances ranging from 5½ to 8c a bushel were established, and the wheat market closed excited at the day's top-most figures—July delivery $1.53 to $1.54½, Sept. $1.48 3-4 to $1.49 and Dec. $1.50 3-4 to $1.50 3-4. Corn finished at 1 3-4 to 3 1-4c gain, oats 7-8 to 1c to 1¾c up and provisions showing 5 to 30c advance.

Notably upturns in the value of wheat began as soon as trading opened, but it was only in the final half hour that the market went wild in the general scramble. The concluding 30 minutes brought on a whirlwind rush of buying in which previous speculative sellers took the lead. Earlier, the trade had been in receipt of more serious blackrust news than any heretofore at hand, especially word that between Fargo and Jamestown, N. D., 10 to 100 per cent of head stems of all wheat except Durum was infected. The full consequence of such adverse crop news, however remained partly dormant until reports indicated that over the northern and central plains, east of the Rockies, a hot wave was gone, and "that in some places the mercury had risen to 104. It was at this juncture that fear became general as to the likelihood the excessive heat would bring to a crisis the black rust menace of heavy destruction of spring wheat crops both in the northwestern states and in Canada. The fact that the domestic winter wheat crop has been relatively small this season made apprehension the greater regarding possible extensive harm to spring wheat. Besides, estimates were current that based on the latest Canadian government crop report and taking no account of unusual damage from blackrust, the 1925 exportable wheat surplus from North America would be 75,000,000 bushels less than in 1924 and that the world's carry-over would be at least 100,000,000 bushels below last year.

With an outlook that the hot wave would be protracted, the buying stampede was unchecked when the last gongs cleared the perspiring crowd of brokers out of the wheat pit.

Corn and oats and rye all ascended with wheat.

Provisions were responsive to the upward swing of grain values.

Low 1925	119.81	96.12

Total stock sales 1,350,500 shares.

Stocks lost ground today on renewal of profit-taking and short selling although special strength was shown by a dozen or more issues. Pool operations were generally suspended with the result that the volume of trading was the lowest of any half holiday since April. The undertone was fairly firm as is evident from the fact that an extreme break of over 15 points in United States Steel common, most of which was later recovered, failed to unsettle the general list.

Dodge Brothers issues were again in good demand, the common attaining a record top at 29 7-8 and the preferred at 83½. Trading in the other motors was rather quiet, Jordan closing more than a point lower and the others showing only fractional changes.

General Railway Signal soared 12 points to a record top at 185, Nash Motors jumped nine points to 145 on a couple of sales, in reflection of the declaration of an extra dividend of $6.50 in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $3.50.

MANY PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF PIONEER

Funeral services for James Chesley Porterfield, pioneer citizen of Twin Falls, and one of Idaho's best known civil and irrigation engineers, held Saturday afternoon on the lawn at his late residence at the outskirts of Twin Falls, were attended by one of the largest assemblages ever gathered on a similar occasion here, including many of the early-day settlers of this region and members of the engineering profession in Idaho. Many beautiful floral offerings bore witness of the esteem in which deceased was held.

The services were conducted by Dr. E. L. White, district superintendent for the Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by the Rev. Paul Worcester, of the Twin Falls Mission. In accordance with Mr. Porterfield's wish three hymns were sung by all assembled with the choir of the Methodist church, of which Mr. Porterfield had been a member, leading. These hymns were "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," "Oh, Holy Savior," and "Abide With Me."

Pallbearers chosen from among men with whom Mr. Porterfield had been most intimately associated during 22 years' residence and work in the Twin Falls country, were C. L. Baker, E. K. Darlington, G. M. Hall, C. L. Husbaw, John W. Brown and J. E. White.

STORE THEFTS IN TWO TOWNS TRACED TO BOYS

A series of thefts from business houses in Filer and Buhl was investigated Saturday by county authorities with the result, according to John R. Ault, probation officer, that in Buhl a group of seven to eight boys ranging in age from 14 to 18 years confessed to several of these thefts and similar admissions were made by seven Filer boys of about the same ages who were brought into probate court here Saturday afternoon.

One of the Filer boys, it was stated, was lately paroled from the state industrial school.

Officers, besides Mr. Ault, who took part in the investigations Saturday included Probate Judge J. L. Hodgin and Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor.

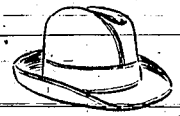
Some Practical Suggestions For the Overland Tourist

You'll need some sturdy clothes for roughing it along the wayside. By starting out well equipped with camping togs you'll save your better clothes and be dressed neatly at all times. Now that so much traveling is done by automobile, special dust-proof things are really a necessity.



A HAT like this of closely woven duck affords protection from both sun and rain, since its flexible brim can be turned down. And the crown is so stiffened as to stand the strain of outdoor life.

Increasing the Riding Ease of Tires and Springs

Balloon and low-pressure tires go far in their contribution to easy ridingi and improved Gabriel Balloon-Type Snubbers go the rest of the way.

The one calls for the other, because Gabriel increasing braking power and Gabriel free play perform functions which are beyond the capacity of low air pressure.

The improved Gabriel Balloon-Type Snubber has a braking power that is 100 per cent greater at the beginning of the snubbing action—braking power that lets you softly over the bumps because it increases in the snubber in direct proportion to the force of the rebound.

Free play means that Gabriel exerts no force at all on the little ridges and bumps which you cannot see, leaving the tires and springs free to ride you over them without constant tremor and jiggle.

Both actions are absolutely necessary if you want your car to ride with all possible ease.

Clearly, you need improved Gabriel Balloon-Type Snubbers—just as much on city paving as on the rougher country roads.
