Evolution Trial Shortened by Days When Tennessee Judge Refuses to Permit Defense to Put Experts on Stand.

(By The Associated Press)
DAYTON, Tenn., July 17.—The brief session of the court today brought the stormiest hour of the trial and forecast the end of the "evolution test" soon. Judge John T. Eason, by excluding proposed testimony from an array of scientists, shortened the trial by days. The court's decision aroused the ire of attorneys for the defense, sharp words being directed at the court soon after he had read his opinion.

With their experts precluded from filing affidavits, the defense will place affidavits in the file, bringing forth what the zoologists, biologists, paleontologists and others would have testified had they been allowed to speak. To this the defense of these statements adjournment was ordered until Monday morning.

The defense was not expected to offer other witnesses, after filing of the scientific instruments, arguments would be in order.

To Jury Tuesday
Varying details were made of the trial required for speech-making, but it was considered probable that they would be concluded in two days and the case given to the jury Tuesday.

Today's session was devoted to the reading of the judicial decree against occupancy of the witness stand by scientists and sharp language by attorneys.

The first flap-up from the defense table came immediately after the opinion was read when Arthur Garfield Hays asked that an exception be noted, following:

Contrary to procedure
"It is contrary to procedure of Anglo-Saxon procedure and judicial procedure to refuse to permit scientists to file affidavits as to what evolution is and what it means and what the Bible is and what it means."

Attorney General is Delighted With Ruling of Court Barring Testimony of Scientific Men in Evolution Case.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 17.—The greatest victory that possibly could have come to the state, Attorney General A. T. Stewart, characterized the exclusion of scientific testimony from the evidence in the Scopes evolution case.

"The state is fortified in the end that the so-called 'experts' and their pet theories would have been blasted and so far as the question involved in such testimony might be concerned I want it distinctly understood that the state had no fear but that it would take care of its side, but courts must be conducted in accord with the rules of evidence known to the public."

AUSTRALIA TURNS TO U. S. FOR LOAN

First Time in History of Commonwealth That London is Ignored in Favor of America.

NEW YORK, July 15.—For the first time in its history, the commonwealth of Australia has turned from London to New York for its external financing. J. P. Morgan and company ended today the purchase of a $25,000,000 Australian loan, which will be offered for public subscription Monday.

The Australian government is to be financed by the American market instead of the London market, and even this was a concession to popular demands that New York should not be allowed to monopolize the business.

Terms of the American loan placed the Australian government on the same credit basis with Canada, the only British dominion which has previously sold bonds here and one of the few governments which have been able to borrow at a five per cent interest rate.

The present issue takes the form of $25,000,000 in five per cent bonds, priced at 98 1/2 and not negotiable before 1935. The only difference in the sterling loan is in the range of maturity, which runs up to fifty years.

Receipts of both the New York and London loans will be applied by the government of Australia to meeting war loan maturities of about $24,000,000 and December. The remainder of the obligations is expected to be retired through internal refunding operations.

The Australian financing had been sought by several New York bankers.

STEPS TAKEN TO MAKE AMERICA'S POSITION CLEAR

Washington Presses Suggestion That Nine Power Treaty Participants Unite in Chinese Customs Conference.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 17.—Recalling that Spain, and Peru, in addition to the powers signatory to the nine power treaty, have been advised officially of the United States' position in favor of a Chinese customs conference and the creation of a commission to investigate the question of extraterritorial rights in China. The four governments have agreed to the treaty and resolutions which resulted from the Washington area conference and are entitled to participate in the customs conference to be held in London.

The matter was discussed recently in Paris and previously transmitted to the other signatory governments by the United States.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—In pressing its suggestion that the governments which approved the nine power treaty and approved resolutions regarding China should unite to participate in Chinese customs conference, as well as in the creation of a commission to study extra territorial questions, the Washington government has taken steps to present opposition to its plans springing up in the foreign capitals through misunderstanding of its attitude.

Each of the nine government signatory to the convention have been given a clear and complete understanding of the position taken by the Washington government. It is no longer possible for any of the nine governments to be misled by the propaganda of lack of information from Washington.

Views Presented
The views on all points involved in the exchange regarding customs and extra territoriality, including those which grew out of the recent discussions in Shanghai and consequent action of the Peking provincial government, have been officially presented to the proper officials in the various foreign capitals.

France was the last government to be advised by the state department of the views of the United States. This step was taken as soon as official news became available.

Coolidge Visits Camp Devins and Reviews Twenty-Sixth Division, Famous in War.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 17.—President Coolidge returned to the summer White House early today from Camp Devins, where he reviewed the twenty-sixth national guard division.
Starting back from the camp, 50 miles from White Court, the president stopped for a moment at his little Concord bridge, where at the outlet of the Revolutionary war, was fired the shot heard round the world. At Devins, the training camp during the war of the twenty-sixth national guard division, Mr. Coolidge spent an hour with various units of the old Yankee division which saw valiant service overseas, filed past.

In the reviewing stand, with the president were Secretary of War and Chief of Massachusetts, Major General Edward L. Logan, commander of the twenty-sixth division, Secretary of the National Guard, and the president's physician who served overseas in a hospital unit of the division, and Representative Cramer of the seventh Massachusetts district, who served as private and sergeant with the division in France.

Troops left from the reviewing stand during the review and Major General Charles H. Morgan, retired, who led the twenty-sixth division into France in 1918, was in civilian clothes.

As he left the reviewing stand Mr. Coolidge said the general and passed to exchange greetings.

Leaving White Court at noon, the president on his way to Camp Devins traveled a part of the route of Paul Revere on his memorable ride.

Mr. Coolidge did not meet the president on his trip. Prior to his departure, while he was vacationing at White Court with Secretary of War Clegg, he was in Concord, Mass., shopping and visiting for the first time the executive offices there.

SHEPHERD LOSES FIRST SKIRMISH IN ESTATE FIGHT

Will in Favor of Man Accused of Killing Foster Son and Acquitted, Not Admitted to Probate by Court.

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, July 17.—William D. Shepherd, recently acquitted of the murder of William Henry McClellan, millionaire oilman, and his wife, today lost his first legal skirmish in a fight to get the will of the millionaire probated to himself. Judge Horner refused to admit to probate the will, which left to Shepherd all of the estate except for an $800 annuity to Miss McClellan's daughter, Mrs. McClellan's sister, Probation was refused on the grounds of a "presumption of undue influence." Judge Horner declared that the will was a "product of the brain in a higher court."

Second Contest
Immediately after the decision, the will, Shepherd on the one side and Miss Page on the other, started a second contest over the estate's administration. Attorneys for the contestants were unable to agree on an administrator, and the hearing finally was continued until next Tuesday when it was agreed to have the court will name a custodian. Attorneys for Shepherd strenuously objected to the Northern Trust company, which was named guardian of the estate at McClellan's death, being named the administrator.

Attorneys for the contestants argued that Shepherd as the principal beneficiary, had drawn up the will himself, that he had lived with young McClellan and that two women employed in Shepherd's household, one of them unable to read, had witnessed the instrument. All of this they declared was irregular and showed undue influence.

Proponents Duty
Judge Horner said that no undue influence had been proved, but that while there was a presumption of undue influence, it was the duty of the proponents to dispel it.

Shepherd's attorneys indicated an intention to appeal the ruling, but would be taken. The session was marked by the filing of helpful letters of William Eaton of California, who claims to be a close friend of young McClellan and for whom attorneys appeared.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The story of James M. Ball said he had no recollection of Scott's trip in Chicago as he seldom and time to read the newspaper. However, he saw a picture of Russell Scott in an newspaper here yesterday and immediately identified it as the likeness of one of the men who participated in the affair in which Mauer was killed.

SPEED OF LIGHT TESTS ARE MADE

Chicago University Professor Conducting Experiments in California.

PARADISE, Cal., July 17.—Dr. A. A. Michelson, head of the department of physics at the University of Chicago, declared today that the present experiments are successful the margin of doubt regarding the speed of light will be reduced to a low as 100 miles per second.

The nearest accurate result, he said, fixes the speed of light at 186,000 miles per second, which he says is undoubtedly within 100 miles of the correct figure.

Although confined to his bed as the result of a major operation undergone about six months ago, Dr. Michelson is continuing his experiments through his assistant, Fred Pearson.

Reflecting Mirror
A reflecting mirror on Mount Baldy, 22 miles away from Mount Wilson, is being used and Dr. Michelson is being given complete cooperation by the staff of scientists of the Carnegie observatory on Mount Wilson.

Plans are being made to use Mount Jacinto, ninety miles distant, for further experiments, according to Dr. Michelson. This will depend, however, upon the success of the present efforts. Heretofore, experiments have been conducted over distances of not more than four or five miles.

Dr. Michelson stated that the practical value of this computation of the speed of light was in its use by scientists in the field of astronomy and other scientific research through the measurement of distance.

What's What in The Sport World

Copyright, 1926, King-Features by FRANK G. KERRICK

This column owes no allegiance to Jack Kearns. But it does owe allegiance to the thing that is fair play and simple justice.

And, therefore, it must trail along with those who feel that the attitude of the New York State Athletic Commission toward Kearns is a disgraceful exhibition of persecution.

It seems about time for the Governor for all that. Frank G. Mackin, State of New York, to take a few searching looks at the conduct of the Commission and ascertain if that body has not gone far beyond the limits of complete fairness and the entire Dempsey-Kearns matter.

About three years ago Harry Willis challenged Jack Kearns. He filed with the Commission a $2500 check to insure good faith of that offer. The Commission, then having William A. Mulholland as its chairman, demanded that Dempsey accept the challenge.

The champion, in willing, signified his willingness to meet Willis, anywhere, anytime before the fight club would have a chance to get in. Here and there promoters, or near promoters, lobbied up and said they'd put on the fight. They mentioned the name of Willis. Kearns asked them to back up the newspaper offer by posting a certified check with the Commission. And that silenced the crowd that had made bids only to acquire the publicity for the fight.

There'll be nothing doing on this match this year. No Kearns ceased trying to find a promoter in New York. The rumor spread that the promoter had been found. If information is correct, the check was returned to Willis.

No fair man can say that in 1922 Dempsey did not accept Willis. For his acceptance proved his eagerness, and the activity of Kearns in trying to find a promoter backed it up. It is therefore obvious that the match fell through because of an attitude toward set, by either Dempsey or Kearns but for the reason, as Kearns has expressed it, "that Mulholland and his Commission were against the fight and that settled it and killed off Jack's chances of knocking the props from under Willis' legs getting about $200,000 for the effort."

The Knuff team of the church league last night broke into the winning column by defeating the Methodist team, 10 to 4. The next batter was retired in the first. The Methodists tried to break in breaking into the score in the second frame. ## KILLED IN HONG KONG

HONG KONG, July 17.—A Hong Kong airplane crashed today, reports that 150 persons lost their lives through the collapse of the plane. The plane was flying from Hong Kong, which was due to be a real big celebration for the anniversary of the founding of the city. The plane seemed intent to secure refuge to the absolute limit. And it retained in this way.

AT THE meeting just before the Dempsey-Kearns fight, it was said that Kearns could not have a manager's second license, and then to the drastic extreme of having Kearns from the arena at night. It was said that Kearns had a meeting with Willis in 1925.

Dempsey is an ineligible fighter; so is Kearns. The latter is automatically barred from attending fights in New York City. Why Dempsey and Kearns have not yet fought is a mystery. It is said that the fight will be held in New York and it is about 10 to 1 that none ever will.

Therefore, it is the attitude of the Commission toward Kearns an abuse of authority and a punishment that certainly does not fit the crime. For the fairest sense of things, Kearns did not commit a crime.

Will the Commission of New York permit participation in such a guarantee on the part of the New York Athletic Commission.

"I Take Off My Hat"

WHENEVER I stop to think what Conoco Gasoline has done for me and my car—the carburetor-tinkering and other troubles it saves me and the mileage I am getting—I am glad to take off my hat.

That CONOCO sign always says, "Here's power, action, speed!—here's clean, lively, Balanced Gasoline, the same fine quality wherever you get it!"

Not a single weak link in Conoco's power chain—hence greater economy and satisfaction.

CONTINENTAL OIL COMPANY

Producers, Refiners and Marketers of high-grade petroleum products in Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Conoco Coupon Books give the latest and best news, and no one else. The books at this time have grown about 12 months and have changed from green to reddish in color, while most of the lower leaves have fallen away. They are sent by hand with a "look-into" strip of half-leaves and carried on carts or small cars to the sugar mill.

AN eastern millionaire gives this explanation of how he succeeds in getting his adopted daughter, age thirty, to marry him.

"I have never punished Dorothy in any way. When I want her to become a swimmer, I do not throw her into the water, force her to learn, instead, I take her to swimming tanks, have her see others win prizes. Pretty soon she comes to me to ask whether she can take swimming lessons. I am glad to give her the lessons. I am glad to give her the lessons."

"This is unquestionably the ideal psychological method—getting a child to want to do the things that are good for the child, instead of imposing anything on the child, with the result, it is not only better-natured but more successful mentally. Anything learned by reaching out for it is learned far better than when thrust on the learner, just as food eaten from hunger is better digested and assimilated than food jammed down the eater's throat."

"The children, however, would come out and would chat with the loon crew until they were tired."

"The children would have supper on the back porch and they would use the pretty old-fashioned tin water with the wooden handles and the wooden handles."
