

ARMY AND NAVY OFFICIALS ARE AGAIN ASSAILED

Mitchell Lets Loose Verbal Bombardment Against His Superiors for Policies in American Air Defense.

(By the Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Another verbal bombardment was let loose on the basis of the war and navy departments today by William Mitchell, who already has provoked attention on American air policies.

After appearing before the president's air board, the former assistant secretary of the navy, apparently undisturbed by the almost certain disciplinary action to follow, Mitchell today let loose a verbal bombardment for a sweeping reorganization of the system of national defense which he said would be a "disaster."

His appearance brought his face to face with a body of military and naval officials, and he made a series of statements in which he charged that "almost criminal neglect" had been shown in neglecting the army and navy air service.

After being on the stand for more than an hour, during which time he read a majority of the eight "constructive" articles he had prepared, the board adjourned until tomorrow when Mitchell will conclude his testimony with an oral "detractive" argument which he was unable to give today because of fatigue and shortage of time.

MARKET IS UP
Lively Buying on Exchange
Sends Breadstuffs to Higher
Ground After Slump Period

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—On the heels of a warning to the board of trade to take immediate steps to adopt proposed reforms, lively buying of wheat and other grain today sent prices advanced enough after a week of relative price stability.

Belief that the action of Secretary Jardine might possibly have been to a considerable degree responsible for today's advancing prices was expressed by many market observers.

STOCK PRICES RESUME THEIR UPWARD TREND

Table with columns: Stock Name, Price, Change. Includes: Industrials, Railroads, Foreign exchanges, etc.

Stock prices resumed their advance with fresh vigor today, sweeping upward at a fast pace until the last minutes of trading when a wave of heavy selling checked the advance.

Despite a continuance of stiff money strings, aggressive bullish demonstrations were conducted successfully in a wide variety of representative industries.

The last minute reaction was attributed partly to profit-taking and partly to selling inspired by recurrent reports that the Federal reserve bank of New York would advance its restrictive action to the rate of 10 percent.

EXPERI SPENDS DAY ON STAND

Handwriting Specialist Testifies for State in Trial of Embellishment Case.

Testimony of Charles R. Kingsley, Boise, handwriting expert, in district court here Tuesday occupied the entire fourth day of the trial of J. J. Leach, charged with embellishment of $10,000 from the Idaho Power company during the five years period ending July 9, last, that he served here as head bookkeeper for the company.

Leach explained more than 200 receipts and expenditures by the power company and testified in each instance that figures showing the amount of the expenditure had been altered. He gave the original and altered figures. In several instances, according to testimony of the expert, alteration had been made both in the amount and in the date of the entry. Leach explained, so that several receipts for $12.70 for stamped envelopes, the expert testified, had been originally receipts for $1 for stamps.

See 'Fictitious Expense' It is the contention of the state's attorneys that Leach altered the receipts in this manner to create a fictitious expense for which the company was reimbursed by the power company's central office at Boise, and that the receipts thus obtained in this manner.

Postoffice records of sales to the power company and the money company's receipts for purchases from the postoffice were compared during the trial of the many discrepancies being disclosed. Mr. Kingsley will be recalled to the witness stand when he is asked to testify relative to alleged alterations in several sets of receipts which the state's attorneys have in their possession. Mr. Kingsley's testimony here as soon as possible.

Mr. Kingsley's testimony Tuesday was given in response to questions by E. H. Huggins, who is associated with prosecuting attorney A. W. Taylor in this action.

Defense counsel offered but few objections after Mr. Kingsley had been qualified as a witness and foundation laid for admission of his testimony, but each of the receipts submitted to the expert was closely scrutinized by Frank L. Stephens, a defense counsel, who received a question in each instance to the witness stand for this purpose.

Wherever taste counts...

HANDSOME hangings, recessed books, easy chairs, an open fire... the moment you enter the room you know here is a home where taste counts...

Taste is the touch of last appeal, whether you go home decorating or coffee-buying. People who choose the better things of life instinctively choose M-J-B. For here is coffee so uncommonly fragrant, so richly smooth, that you single it out at once as a coffee of character.

Drink it as you like it—in cups small or tall, strong or mild, with cream or without—the same aristocratic taste of M-J-B is there to greet you.
