Controverted Question of How to Treat Problem in Relief Legislation Taken Up in Two Quarters

(By the Associated Press.)
 ARHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The converted question of how to treat the surplus acre of farm relief legislation was revived today in two of separate quarters where agricultural proposals were discussed with

WESTERN MEN HOLD MEETING

Second Day of Convention
Given Over to Combined
Program

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 11 (AP)—Delegates to the American National Livestock association's convention held today after a somewhat business session for a day and a half, were entertained at an old-fashioned barbecue at noon and spent the balance of the day touring the Salt River valley and inspecting irrigation and agricultural methods employed here.

The establishment of an export jointly was advocated by Robert D. Carey, former governor of Wyoming, in an address during the morning session. He proposed the beauty as a means of stabilizing the industry and bringing the price level to a point where stock raising and farming would be profitable to the producer.

Agreeing to the plan proposed by the McNary-Haugen bill, which would create an export commission to handle surplus crops, the export board, Mr. Carey explained, would be designed to fix all livestock and farm crops when there was an overproduction. This tax would go to pay a bounty to those forced to export their crops because of this overproduction and would aid in maintaining higher rates, Mr. Carey said.

John W. Hamilton of Kansas City, Mo., editor of the American Hereford Journal, urged the delegates to continually uphold beef cattle standards through the introduction of blooded stock in herd.

This frequently resulted in number four stock being five months than the loss of least five cents a head in some of the best herds.

Agriculture also came in for attention today on the second side of the program. The Kansas agricultural committee, Mr. Carey said, was to be given the Caraway bill, which would prohibit future trading in cotton and grain.

In his speech before the cooperative conference, Mr. Carey urged not only cooperation among the farmers, but cooperation among the farm leaders, lack of which, he said, had been a big factor in holding up development of agriculture.

Wearing the cloth tunic of his native land, V. H. Dismeyer, extension superintendent of Bombay, India, told the delegates how the cooperative marketing was expanding in that country, which has a crop estimated to be second to that of the United States. Mr. Dismeyer expected to compete with this country in cotton, he said, the marketing of a million bales far surpassed the appearance of cotton which had been in this country.

HUGHES STORY UPHELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11 (AP)—George Washington was "well up" on the hills of his time and allusion. It is questionable whether he ever indulged in many of them, he "carried and drank like a gentleman and a man of the best whiskey in Virginia."

John Tamm, Washington, great-grandson of the general and today in sponsoring Robert Hughes' address to the Sons of the Revolution in Washington last night, John Washington, who is the great-grandson of Samuel Washington, eldest brother of the general, is a retired San Francisco newspaper man, now approaching eighty years, and a veteran of the Civil War.

Was certainly George Washington drunk, John Washington said. "Every year of his life drank and smoked, danced and played cards. Why, I can remember back in 1841, when I was of my grandfather's home in Virginia, we drank. Men that came from the cellar of Mount Vernon, I remember, that best, because in those days we did not have much food in the south and the wine and a bit of corn bread were often all that we had for dinner."

Views Unrepresented

Mr. Carey may not be so biased entirely for the statements, but his views on the sheep industry are unvarnished and without bias. Mr. Hagenworth declared.

Another speaker during the afternoon was Mr. William C. Dill, secretary of the Idaho Cattle and Horse-Drovers' association, who spoke on the "Unity of the Cattle and Horse-Drovers' association."

Mr. Dillingham, Mr. Hagenworth, supported Mr. Carey in his criticism of Colonel Doolittle and the cattle and horse growers would side with the sheepmen in their fight on the forestry chief's policy.

Mr. H. H. Rutledge, district forester, and Bob Bush, state forester for Idaho, told of the timberlands and how they are of value to the sheep and cattle industries.

S. K. Neill, president of the cattle and horse growers' association, spoke to the convention on cattlemen's ideas, in which he took issue on the general fight for better freight rates on cattle and sheep.

He also stated that under plans introduced by the national wool growers, now under consideration by the interstate commerce commission, would raise rates 20 per cent in the state of Idaho.

At the same session, State Senator Frank L. Stephens of Tuli Falls spoke on the migratory sheep tax.

Tonight the delegates attended a banquet and the evening session was devoted to the "more" sheep and cattle men and their wives. The program for tomorrow will be largely devoted to "matters" of the state wool growers.

BEAN BROWERS TO DIVIDE CASH AT CONVENTION

Distribution of $75,000 Making Total of Four Payments $45,000 to Mark Association's Annual Meeting.

"Southern Idaho Bean Growers" association members, at an annual meeting to be held Saturday, January 21, in Paris, Idaho, will receive checks totaling $75,000, representing the fourth payment on account of 1927 bean crop marketed through the association. The payment is made on the basis of one-half cent per pound for beans delivered to the association in addition to previous payments made by the association brings the total of payments on account of the 1927 crop up to $45,000.

The association has been an important factor in the bean industry of south Idaho during the five seasons since its organization.

Expansion in View
Expansion of the association with a view to marketing more beans, and selling arrangements, is indicated in the letter sent out to members by L. H. Offing, president of the association, at the annual meeting.

The association's expansion program, it is stated, is contingent on making definite the assurance already given to members of the association. The annual meeting this year is the last to be held under the present "beneficial" agreement, which expires after five years' period. In redefining the membership agreement, privilege of withdrawal upon notice after the third year has been given.

Three members of the board of directors are to withdraw at the annual meeting to give place to new members. Various phases of bean production and marketing and the business season will receive the attention of the program provided for discussion on "Problems of a Bean Grower," R. E. Shriver, "Field and Storage," John S. Holladay, agricultural lecturer, Twin Falls high school, and G. N. Tucker, agricultural lecturer, Idaho high school, "Bean Diseases," Walter Carter, entomologist, United States department of agriculture, "Certified Seed Northern Bean Seed," R. E. TWIN FALLS TO MEET FILER IN HOOP BATTLE

Bruins and Wildcats Will Tangle Here Tonight in Basketball Game. Visitors Reported Strong.

Pitting out the finishing touches on the Bruin squad Thursday night in preparation for the strong aggregation of hoop artists from Filer, the Wildcats are loaded-up and one of the strongest teams in the district and are expected to repeat their triumph of the football season.

The Blue and White team is shaping up rather well for early season and Platin has considerable material to pick from. Martin and Bertie seem to be the chief for forwards although Platin has been showing nice stuff lately and was going good in the Kimberly game. His shooting at present is superior to any other forward.

Some younger material to work on and it is also possible that Vincent Nolin will be eligible to play. The Wildcats came within one point of the district championship last year and several of the last year's players are back. Most spectators give Platin the best chance of taking the district championship. Gooding has made a nice showing so far and no doubt will prove serious contenders but the Wildcats look strong and no doubt will be in the final running. David and Hjalmar are showing well and are the mainstays of the Filer defense while Danny is a slippery forward and will make his mark before the season is over.

The Filer girls are a strong aggregation and the Bruin girls will meet real opposition tonight. The girls' team, as usual, stage the curtain raiser and the game commences at 7:30 o'clock.

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 15, 1926

NEWS OF THE DAY AS TOLD WITH PICTURES

"THIN ICE"—Baron Von Moltke, German ambassador to the United States, as a diplomat is accustomed to "skating on thin ice," but he also likes thick ice once in awhile, too, as he proved by taking his wife for a little sport on the Lincoln Memorial pool, Washington. (International News)

HAIL THE BRIDE—Elaborate wedding feast followed the marriage of Miss Frances Davison, daughter of Mrs. Henry P. Davison, of New York to Ward Cheney. Left to right, the bridegroom, the bride, Wells Root, best man; Miss Louise Sewall, of Washington, maid of honor and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney. (International News)

DARE DEVILS—Firemen risked lives on ice coated ladders and weakened roofs when flames destroyed Chicago building. Fireman Patrick McChesler is removing boots from frozen feet of Fireman E. F. DeFany. (International News)

SEA-GOING GONDOLIERS—These gay sons of Venice were glad to see dry land again when they arrived in New York en route to Miami, to ply their trade as gondollers. Though they work on water, they didn't care for the rough Atlantic. (International News)

BACK TO NATURE—City life is all wrong, says Professor Lew Sargent, Northwestern University, who is living the life of a recluse in the north woods of Wisconsin. (International News)

DARES PNEUMONIA—Jeanne Morgan risks a bad cold to toboggan at Lake Placid in this nifty winter sports costume. (International News)

MUMMERS—Some of the features of the annual Mummer's parade, New Year's Day, at Philadelphia. As you might guess, the "chorus girls" are husky males, all dolled up. (International News)

NATURE'S PASTRY—Jack Frost turned the fountain at the Little Church Around the Corner, New York, into an imitation wedding cake. (International News)

MONEY MAKER—Mrs. Laura Gardin Fraser, famous sculptor, is the only woman ever commissioned to design coins for the United States Government. She is shown here at work in her New York studio. (International News)

OLDEST FISH—Dr. A. J. Tjeje, University of Southern California, and Myron C. Albertson, Jr., examining a slab in which a fossil fish 5,000,000 years old has been preserved. It was found recently near Lompoc Valley, California. (International News)
