CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

STATE CHAMBER
COMMERCE WILL
FILE ARTICLESOrganization to Incorporate Under Laws of Idaho for the Purpose of Advertising Resources Within Borders.(By the Associated Press).
ROBIE, Idaho, Jan. 22.—Seeds of civic pride were sown in Boise yesterday when the formation of a state chamber of commerce was fruit this afternoon when it was announced that articles of incorporation will be filed Saturday morning by the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, with the secretary of state.Announcement of the decision of the directors to incorporate came following the first day of a two-day meeting. By dissension the directors hope to have perfected their organization as regards financing and membership and anticipate they will be ready to select the man who will be secretary of the chamber's publicity department.The director, it was the sense of the meeting today, should be an Idaho man.

Non-Profit Organization.

Articles of incorporation provide that the Idaho Chamber of commerce shall be a non-profit organization requiring no capitalization.A group of prominent railroad representatives joined with men from the timber and farming industries of the state today in attending the meeting of the directors in an advisory capacity.Decision to incorporate was reached during the forenoon after which committees were appointed to report Saturday afternoon. The membership committee, composed of W. M. Mitchell, of New Peters, M. H. Yocom, of Idaho Falls, and T. L. Martin, of Pocatello, recommended:

First Farm Relief
Bill Up in House
For Action TodayHouse Expects to Turn Attention to Haugen Measure During Session Saturday.WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)— For the first time this session the house tomorrow expects to turn its attention to consideration of a bill designed to improve the condition of the farm.By unanimous consent it delayed today to give the Haugen bill right of way on the legislative calendar after passage of the annual farm bill, which is expected to be completed tomorrow afternoon.The Haugen bill, embodying the administration plan for a division of the department of agriculture, already was slated for consideration the first of next week and by giving it further precedence, house leaders had given the administration a handicap. Whether that will be realized depends upon the time the navy bill is finished, which is somewhat problematical.SENATE MOVES FOR CLOUTUREProponents of World Court Act to Limit Each Senator to One-Hour Debate on IssueWASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—The long-threshold move for cloture on the world court, was made tonight in the Senate. It was followed by a bitter debate of an hour with signs at the end that some sort of an unanimous vote would be required to sustain the cloture motion.The debate, it was expected, will be reached before the signature of 48 senators—from each side of the aisle—will be needed to invoke the cloture rule.The petition was presented after an effort being made to postpone the debate until the next day, but after a vote against cloture might be received.

Senate adjourned.

World Limit Talk.

Administration leaders declared they could muster at least 75 votes for clu-ture, upon which its adoption would allow each senator to one hour in the debate. That is more than the necessary two-thirds majority to invoke the cloture rule.The petition was presented after an effort being made to postpone the debate
until the next day, but after a vote against cloture might be received.

Senate adjourned.

SPORTS

FILER QUINTETS ARE VICTORIOUS

Boys' and Girls' Basketball Teams Defeat Kimberly in Game, at Home Easily.

FILER, Ida., Jan. 22 (Special to The News)—Filer Wildcats took two games from Kimberly here yesterday, winning the first game, 27 to 10, and the girls, 33 to 9. The games were very closely contested and were slow. Captain Moore was able to play for the first time in three years. Atkinson took a very active part in the games, although took a very short time of the time. Atkinson was high point man of the game and Smith second.

Filer will meet Boise next Wednesday afternoon in the first game of the hard-fought games of the season. Boise is reported to have a strong quintet and are invading the Twin Falls area for two games, one against Wildcat and the other with Twin Falls.

OLD DANUBE MADE NEW

Henry Ford is obviously getting somewhere with his campaign for the old-fashioned dances and their old-fashioned little music. From his propaganda centers in Detroit, Mich., and Sudbury, Mass., waves of square dances are spreading visibly over the country.

Many other like-minded folk of the last generation of dancers are helping along the movement. And lately the reformers are beginning to take flight. Some colleges that had no dancing for years, because they disapproved of the modern dance forms and music, have started reviving the old stuff.

But it isn't only "deliberate" reform efforts that are producing these results. Thousands of people, the young as well as the resolute middle-aged, are discovering to their surprise that there is a lot of fun to be got out of those old-time dances, and that they are none the less pleasurable because they're wholesome and decent.

They are much more "social" than the modern round dances. They leave few wallflowers drooping around the edges of the dance floor. Everybody can join in and have a good time, and usually everybody does. It is not only rhythmic motion, but it is playing an exhilarating game.

Improbable as it seemed a short time ago, there is now a prospect of these old-new dances sweeping, virtually through every section of the United States.

THE NEW METAL

For long ages civilized man got along with only three or four metals. First, copper; then bronze; then copper alloyed and hardened; then gold and silver; then the more useful metal, iron. The mighty Greek and Roman civilizations scarcely went beyond those. The Middle Ages used other materials for little more than laboratory experiments. Our modern industrial world now makes large use of metals by the dozen, many of them unknown a century ago.

The most notable new metal of which our own age has already made use is aluminum and platinum, one valuable chiefly for its lightness, the other for its hardness and resistance to corrosion.

Now comes another which most of us have never heard of—it's beryllium. Our ignorance is pardonable. In 1914 the world's available supply of beryllium was four ounces. As more was produced, the price dropped to 25,000 a pound. Now, as the result of a new process of manufacture, the metal is to be available at $200 a pound, and increased production will soon reduce that figure. So beryllium becomes popular for industry. We shall hear more of it.

This wonderful metal is quite thirds as heavy as aluminum, but is harder and does not corrode. It will withstand twice the heat of aluminum, and melts at only a little lower temperature than steel. It is malleable, but will not dissolve in water. Beryllium, with copper, it makes a light, extremely hard bronze. A little of it in silver keeps the silver from tarnishing.

There will be a big demand for it from the airplane and automobile industries. There may be a demand from jewelers. Those not immediately interested in beryllium will do well to look very much like platinum. What will it do to the market for platinum?

CHILDREN'S EYES
About one-third of America's school children are found to suffer from defective vision. Some of these cases are easily corrected, therapeutically. If the child's eyes are not otherwise interfered with, the result is a good deal of trouble.

But if the child is with poor eyes, one out of every six happens to need glasses. That need is so little realized by parents that only one-tenth of the children needing glasses have them. This is proved by the statistics of the federal Children's Bureau.

A large part of the children require glasses, though far from defective, and might have been saved from the fate by proper care. Here are some valuable suggestions offered by the Eye Sight Conservation Council:

"The time to begin to preserve eyesight is at birth. The eyes of all newborn babies should be treated with drops to guard against infection. Since the eyes are not fully developed at birth, the baby should sleep in a dark room for the first three or four weeks of life. Baby's eyes should never be exposed to the direct rays of the sun. A saliva or other drop from the top of the baby's earlobe is a common cause of cataracts.

The toy, games, puzzles and picture books used by children should be big and clear. Anything that demands close inspection in order to be seen and enjoyed is not a proper toy for a little child.

The inadequate illumination provided in so many of our homes also inflicts severe strain upon the immature eyes of children. Children should not be allowed to play games, read or study on the poorly-lighted floor or in dark corners of the room by the window during twilight. Unintended glaring light is just as harmful as insufficient light.

IRWIN HEAD BOXING COACH AT STANFORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Jan. 22.—(Special to the News)—The head of the Stanford University's new-born men's head boxing coach at Stanford University, following the resignation of Harry Mahaney, for years the coach of the Stanford team, is M. Mahaney, recently graduated this year in order to take up studies in the Stanford medical school in San Francisco.

Mahaney, a former captain of the university boxing team and a well known fighter in the school, first learned his game in the army and was a member of the 1917-18 Twin Falls high school team to many victories. At Stanford Irwin has been prominent not only in boxing circles but also in football, having been a member of the 1923 and 1924 teams. He is the office of vice president. He will graduate in June of this year in the education school. At the present he is the coach of the Stanford team, and has been named head coach for the freshman students, where he has exerted much influence in establishing the senior control system which has taken the place of sophomore and junior control systems.

WHIST BREAKS DURING SESSION

Hurried Selling to Stop Losses Turns Sharp Turnaround on Chicago Exchange.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Hurried selling set to stop losses on the part of speculators who had been buying wheat sharply downward today. Heavy world shipments of wheat, including Argentina's 1,000,000 bushels in effect, the day before, wheat's total for the harvest, started the market for wheat up $1.10 to $1.70 per bushel. May new, $1.71 3/4 to $1.71 3/4; and July $1.48 1/2 to $1.48 1/4. Corn finished at $1.50, 50 cents above its actually unchanged and previous, unchanged to 16¢ off.

Weakness of wheat values became evident in the opening of the market, which took place a little subsequent to the opening. Increased selling developed on the advances, and met with important buying, especially from mills, grain elevators, and processors. Argentine and Australian new crop offerings, the downward swing of the market here was noticeably accelerated by the heavy foreign wheat arrivals.

Many of the selling orders forced into action by the sudden consequent tumble in wheat prices were evidently speculative in character. The limit-limits were so few, however, at the higher figures that efforts to sell proved futile, and a break that came in the market after the day's top figures caused the break, nevertheless, improved demand for immediate delivery of wheat to go to market, and wheat values had a fairly good recovery in the later trading.

Corn influenced by an upturn in hog values, received excellent support. It reflected the general market, which was stimulated by the action of corn.

Provisions despite temporary strength due to higher quotations on hogs, were unattractive by selling described as the break in wheat.
