BROKER'S LOANS REACH BIG SUM

Borrowings of Stock Exchange Members on Collateral Placed at $3,513,174.154

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Making public the volume of brokers' loans for the first time in the history of Wall street, the New York stock exchange announced today that the borrowing of its members on stock and bond collateral at the end of January totalled $3,513,174.154.

The increase from such a large increase of loans was believed to be the result of the operation of the securities markets during the financial crisis, since the highest unofficial estimate of brokerage loans on record was $2,500,000,000, and this was at the peak of the bull market last November.

January Estimate
Early in January, private estimates placed the total borrowings at $2,500,000,000 and the curtailed activity in the stock markets as indicated a further reduction since that time. Numerous figures ranging from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 have appeared within the past several weeks, but few went beyond the $3,000,000,000 mark.

The figures made public by the New York stock exchange include borrowings on collateral placed in the hands of member banks but do not provide a full measure of the credit underlying the "big" and "small" markets. Several large financial institutions in New York, such as Dillon, Read & Company and Blair & Company, have not made use of the exchange and their transactions are not reflected fully in the stock exchange's compilation.

In the stock exchange's compilation the exchange also includes loans which are carried outside. New York went not reported, although the total loans amount to $2,200,000,000. The exchange borrows through out-of-town branches and corresponding offices.

Debt Assumed
Data compiled by the exchange from the loans made by its member banks of stock and bond collateral probably will be made public next week. These figures, showing comparisons for each week beginning January 1, will be made public next week, but will not necessarily coincide with the monthly figures issued by the stock exchange.

Fate of American Potato Industry Hinges on Production Improvement, Warning Sounded by Eugene Grubb

Including possibility of the potato industry's production improvement, Eugene Grubb, Colorado, American's foremost authority on potato production, depends upon development and maintenance of types of potatoes that will produce economically and with freedom from deficiencies of crop of plant disease.

Mr. Grubb was for many years one of the most successful of Colorado potato growers and his study of the industry has extended over a period of 20 years including two years spent in Europe and a considerable amount of familiarity with the potato industry in Idaho began nearly 20 years ago when he spent several months in personal investigations in this regard and subsequently was placed in charge of potato trials on the Union Pacific System over its lines in Idaho. He returned to Idaho recently in practicality of the studies of the agricultural industry in general and potato production in particular, and was a guest last night in Twin Falls.

Industry Faces Crisis
"Declaring that the potato industry in the United States already faces a crisis, Mr. Grubb last evening pointed out that consumption of potatoes in this country had declined from six bushels to two bushels per capita during the past 20 years.

"Quality of higher potatoes," Mr. Grubb stated, has fallen for now, that of 10 to 15 years ago. In this connection Mr. Grubb stated:

"By classification, by cross-fertilization, by selection, by sowing with the cutting, by sowing with the tuber, by sowing with the French fry, and by sowing with the best way of sowing the potato, I find that they have lost their delicacy of flavor, color, maleness and firmness, and that they are no longer a real modern delicacy."

"There is cause for this deplorable condition, and it is the result of the careless reputation, and the fact that you have had and you will have 200,000,000 bushels of potatoes for a product of super excellence will be lost.

"The loss to you, agriculture, and consequently to your business and to the welfare of your community will be done. The 200,000,000 bushels of potatoes for a product of super excellence will be lost.

Would Be King

ARCHDUKE ALBERT-HEINRICH

ARCHDUKE ALBERT-HEINRICH will be placed on the throne of Hungary if a coup, said to be planned by Admiral Horthy, regent, is carried out.

History tells us that Budapest reverted back to a desert under irrigation and remained a desert for a thousand years. It was again claimed and was productive for 2000 years, when it again became a desert and so remains to this day.

"Unless careful methods are employed the arid areas of America will revert to desert wastes. Without replenishing these elements and without the use of the science of bacteriological nutrition, iron, phosphorus and other essential elements available the available reserves of potato, phosphate, sulphur, iron, magnesium and other essential elements will be exhausted.

Sailors' Superstitions
Sailors in the good old days had many curious ideas about the wind, but they seem to have varied a good deal as regards latitude and in the different oceans and routes. Thunder, also, according to its nature and the quarter from which it came, meant evil in one form or another. But the modern seafaring man does not bother his head about most of these things.

Couch Properly Defined

Now that the couch has become a large factor in motordom, the question arises—what is a couch? The Society of Automotive Engineers defines it:
"An enclosed single-compartment body, similar in general appearance to the sedan, with two or more cupped cross seats for four passengers. There is a longitudinal compartment or space for a trunk at the back of the body. There is no glass in the front quarters. The conventional type has two doors only; the forward seats being divided and the right-hand seat tipping forward to give access to the rear compartment. Some models have two doors on the right-hand side, there being two fixed cross-seats."

Day Notable in History

The Ninth Territorial of the year 11, in the French Revolutionary calendar, is historically memorable as the day on which the national convention deposed Robespierre, and thus put an end to the Reign of Terror. On the following day the tyrant and 22 of his partisans were guillotined.
It is said that the following epithet was inscribed on a tablet in the hall of the convention: "Passerby, lament not for Robespierre; for, were he living, thou wouldst be dead."

What's-What in The Sport World

Copyright 1925, King Features By FRANK G. MERRILL

Perhaps the trouble with pitching these days is due to the fact that most of the managers reckon that their moundmen or the rest bulk of them are slightly incompetent. Usually it is in the way when pitchers used their own brain-pitching according to their knowledge of the strength and weakness of various batters—hits versus specific things. But since managers, thinking they were handling the same kind of ball as was McGraw, started following the McGraw method of pitching from the brush, the brand of hitting has deteriorated badly.

The way they play the game in this era makes brains within a pitcher not nearly useless but rather a menace. For if he had brains he may try to use them in opposition to the orders of the manager—and then, having committed a mistake he finds himself very much out of luck.
"Tuck back along the trail of the ball," says John Clarkson, "Old Home" Halborg, Al Spalding, The Knave, Christy Mathewson, Cy Young, standing forth not merely as the brightest luminaries of their own years, but among the starriest stars of all time. They did their own thinking, they pitched their own brains against those of the batters; they used their knowledge, gained through years of experimenting with the shoggers, and so they pitched their own brains against the softness of their arms before the year, changed them along that in this decade managers think they know more about what a pitcher can throw—and what he should throw—than the pitcher does himself. And it makes the pitcher a somewhat chattered worker, those managers, after giving the pitcher his program applicable instructions in the matter of pitching, then adds:

"The pitcher will be back of the catcher to meet along the pick-off-throw instructions to you."
A better stopper.
"The pitcher remembers that this particular avianish can't hit a low curve, but can remember a straight that one. And then perhaps the catcher signals for a straight. And the pitcher—
"You've got your orders. Pitch as you are told or you'll be derecked."
"The manager," undoubtedly angered by the revolt of the pitcher, will wage a regimental, then—and deals out a severe punishment, or even a somewhat broken, across upon the straight fast one. If the batter fails to hit it then the catcher may say later:
"See, you big sappy, I was right, I knew he couldn't hit one like that."
But if the batter slugs the fast one a mile, the catcher has some sort of a break. The pitcher didn't break the ball right, he didn't put a wrong leg to it. Something was wrong—the pitcher himself was at fault. And later on records show another hit charged against that particular pitcher who, using his own knowledge, perhaps could have baffled the batsman.

The idea came into existence with John McGraw. Nobly ever since he used him of trying to get smart on batters. McGraw didn't want to fool them. He started now with million dollar arms who would pitch as he told them. He got such men he put them on the firing line—and told them what to do. He did the thinking for them.
Because McGraw, in the main, had pitchers who didn't do much thinking of their own they had no opposition ideas to McGraw's. They did as they were told. And they performed well with the combination of their arms and McGraw's brain.

McGraw's success fired other men to try to do the same thing. They called it "do it for years—but with good results." And all because McGraw's idea worked wonderfully with the "bug" Raymond, the dummy Taylor, and the other "dumb" men who worked with Christy Mathewson. And McGraw was smart enough to realize that the result is "hit" the pitcher cannot do himself justice because he is in a state of constant confusion between his own ideas and his manager's opposing orders.
Some of these days the managers perhaps will awaken to the fact that they can do much successfully for a smart pitcher. They'll cease trying to do it—and then intelligent pitchers will do their own ideas, they will restore pitching to some of its earlier effectiveness.

Now, wait, and reach the people you wish to attract.

College Stars From Professional Football

DETROIT, Feb. 6.—Professional football stars are being recruited to participate in the college football after their season has ended. The list of 40 stars of the National Football League is announced.
The action which was announced was a direct result of the approval of a resolution of the National Football Association last fall immediately after his football career was ended.
There was a strong sentiment expressed against any act on the part of the league to draw up a set of regulations of the college players by annulling the stars. In furtherance of the sentiment a committee was named to confer with representatives of the national collegiate athletic association in an effort to draw up a set of regulations for the protection of college players.
Grago, who is attending the meeting with C. G. Taylor, the manager, applied for a franchise in the league. The franchise, he said, would be located in New York. The Yankee stadium has been leased for a period of five years for football games and would be the home of the proposed new club. Taylor announced.

Learning Things

* Children aren't taught words by syllables any more; but by their meanings. They learn it's the use of a word that counts—not merely its pleasing sound.

When you buy, you know it's the use of a product that counts, not merely its pleasing sound. You can learn its uses and all it means—before you buy. If you read the advertisements, you know definitely how a certain refrigerator will act in your own kitchen; how that furniture polish will improve your own chairs. What is advertised has to do what it's advertised to do. Advertisements are honest. They invite too many thousands of testers not to be honest. Their continued advertising proves them honest! You take advertised facts on faith—as you take the dictionary on faith. You know that the perfume, hosiery, canned goods they describe are the perfumes, hosiery, canned goods widely enjoyed. You read advertisements to know the true meaning of things before you invest in their use.

Thrilling Rescues by American Liners Have Done Much to Bring Back Merchant Marine Prestige

LONDON, Feb. 6 (AP)—Epic stories of the 1915, such as the "Princess Patricia's" rescue of the crew of the British steamer Antion, and similar exploits in recent years have done much to restore the American merchant marine to the prestige it held in England a century ago, when the fine old American clipper ships, carrying cargoes to the farthest corners of the world, were the product vessels afloat.

America's past struggle for her share of the world's shipping has been an uphill fight, involving fierce competition against the more heavily subsidized and mercantile nations of foreign countries. Lord Astor will try again this year to capture the premier class of the English turf, the derby. He has now more than fifty years in the great Epsom race, but the best entries have been able to get his horse second place on five occasions. There was a heart breaking disappointment in 1924, when St. Germain, carrying the Astor colors, was second by only a neck.

Entries from Lord Astor's stable have been favorites for four derbies. Last year his crew how started a hot favorite at 7 to 2 but found flung in his favor all around the famous track.

This year the Astor nomination for the classic are Stags, Black, Black and Kingbird, but probably only two will be sent to the post.

Old Style Revived

London's well dressed men have reached back into the 18th century for some of their styles of 1926. The Prince of Wales and other young Londoners who are responsible for the leading fashions, have revived the black evening waist coat, double-breasted, with heavy lapels and cut straight at the waist line. This is made very much after the style of thirty years ago, modified, here and there to meet certain requirements. A new evening tulle coat with small bow lapels and a high collar at the neck also has been re-embraced to the garments of other days.

Max Violet Hedger, 25 years old, has taken over her duties as pastor of the Baptist church at Little Over, near Derby. Miss Hedger is a keen sportsman, being a champion long distance swimmer and a splendid tennis player. From girlhood she has been fond of scriptural studies, in which she always excelled. At the age of 17 she passed the London matriculation examination with honors, getting a mark of 100 per cent for her scripture papers.

Hundreds of Beer Drinkers Climbing Back on the Wagon

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (AP)—Hundreds of veteran beer drinkers of Bavaria are climbing on the wagon again now. They complain that the price of the foaming beverage is too high.

"Wagon" drinkers are being organized in many Bavarian cities. Before an unfavorable altar on which forms a giant statue of beer, the faithful pledge themselves not to touch another drop until the price of beer hits the pre-war level of 7.12 cents a quart.

Bevoly drinkers of from ten to 20 percent cash on last year's business have added impetus to the abstinence movement. The brewers, however, assert they "can't afford" to sell beer at the prices demanded.

Dogs are among the most discriminating of radio listeners, says Paul Van Nair, wife of a popular radio entertainer, who has made a study of the reactions of animals to the wireless. In her experiments, she uses a loud speaker because, she says, a human by mistake has not been able to hear the same as a subject, making them hear with fear.

Paul Nair's Griffons and other lead dogs yelped, growling and barking when listening to radio-casting of their canine yelp, but barked freely at the howling of cats and growling of roosters, growl of hares and barks with which the dogs had had no experience. Will not affect them.

The dogs recognized Herr Nair's voice when it came through the loud speaker and rushed through the house hunting their master, finally when their mistress put the loud speaker on the floor one-pup dove to the horn.

Willie Zimmerman, who for 26 years toured the world directing orchestras while impersonating noted conductors and composers, has settled down in Berlin at the age of 72 to run an international piano and vaudeville booking agency.

Zimmerman played at intervals in the United States for 25 years, included in his repertoire were impersonations of Wagner, Verdi, Suppe, Hous, Tchaikovsky, Liszt, and even Lincoln and Napoleon. His choicest hinder, he said, was made in a small town in Kentucky in 1884. Howls of laughter greeted his appearance on the stage to conduct an orchestra in "Lehngrie," impersonating Richard Wagner. Although greatly mortified, he went through with his stunt and did not leave until later that he had made up an Lincoln by mistake.

a Record Breaking Year ... and a still Greater Year to Come

With sales in excess of 250,000 cars, Dodge Brothers, Inc. have just completed the greatest year in their history. Had it been possible to produce cars in sufficient numbers, their increase over 1924 would have been even more substantial.

This year the production problem has been mastered. A $10,000,000 expansion program stands completed—and the enormous output of 1925 will be nearly doubled!

Production on this stupendous scale makes possible the astounding low prices announced January 7th.

It makes them possible even though the car is better today than ever before. These are but a few of the vital refinements—

- Rich and attractive new colors.
- Absolute smoothness of engine operation.
- A new snap and elasticity of operation throughout.
- Smart and stylish new body lines.
- Complete vision from every angle of the sturdy all-steel body.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car has always been an exceptional product. With these refinements, at these new prices, it is without question the greatest value Dodge Brothers have ever offered.

Export Situation Hopeful, Says Roger W. Babson, Statistician, In His Review of Present Trend

Sale of Products to Foreign Nations Will Increase so Long as United States Buys Their Bonds is Assertion.

HAIBSON PARK, Florida, February 6.—Roger W. Babson, in his weekly statement today, commented on our exports and imports. Where signs of inflation exist in so many other lines it is encouraging to see our foreign trade developing so steadily and naturally. Every year since 1922 shows a healthy increase. The 1925 figure of $1,000,000,000 shows a decline which many economists predicted would follow the war and the depression. Mr. Babson's official statement is as follows:

Our Sales Abroad "As shown by the official government figures, our sales of merchandise abroad for the year 1925 amounted to about five billion dollars. These figures exceed all previous years excepting for the year 1919 from 1919 to 1922. Furthermore, when the volume rather than the value of goods is considered, we find 1925 even exceeded some of these peak years. This is due to the decline in the prices of commodities during the past six years. This, of course, is encouraging because it properly allows for the amount of commodities changed rather than their prices. Although we prefer a small export and high prices, yet the world as a whole is far better off with a large export and medium prices. People cannot eat or wear figures. Lumber is needed to shelter us, wool and cotton are needed to clothe us, and food is needed to feed us. Hence, we should regard prime importance to the volume of goods produced and sold abroad. "In analyzing our sales abroad we find them roughly divided as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Value of Exports, Million Dollars. Rows include: Total, 4591; Agricultural Products, 1223; Manufactures, 3368; etc.

In addition to noting how our exports are divided, it is also interesting to note in what the greatest gains were when comparing 1924 with 1925. The greatest advance of all was in Automobiles and Machinery, which shows a gain of over thirty per cent. Next came a gain in Textiles of about eleven per cent, and a similar advance in Metal Products. Of course, that does not mean that we are exporting chemicals to Europe, nor are we exporting automobiles to Europe. It merely means that the value of these industries has been brought about by developing exports to South America and the Orient. Of course the expansion of automobiles has been to England and Europe. South America, the Orient and the rest of the world are the main markets for our exports. My travels into the heart of South America and Asia I have found in the present condition—but as Babson's weekly the volume of foreign trade, and the tendency would be for imports to increase. Increasing imports, however, do not necessarily mean decreased exports. Lowering of the tariff leads for increased manufacturing efficiency and consequently lower prices, thereby enabling us to compete abroad in many lines in which it is almost impossible for us to compete today. Personally, I believe that the tariff should be used to protect certain infant industries, where such manual labor is involved; but a protective tariff can easily be raised. The development of substitutes for goods and was production is the best insurance we can have against foreign competition. "The only fly in the ointment of foreign trade outlook at the present time is the connection with rubber, the price of which has been so successfully manipulated by the English government that American manufacturers are now having for help. If this manipulation stops with rubber, nothing is to be feared; but the character of such other goods, which control our markets will vary the same game. Experience shows that any scheme merely for making money is always over-worked until it collapses of its own weight. If it were not for our tariff policy, the English people claim, we would have a moral right to appeal to the English sense of justice to have this rubber situation rectified.

should understand that when a product is sold at an abnormally low price for a certain period, an abrupt increase to abnormally high prices is inevitable. Purchases, more, when a product has sold too long at a very profitable figure, this profit encourages competition and causes a price-cutting war which kills the goose that lays the golden egg, and abnormally low prices follow. The same principle applies to general business as a whole. When business has been below normal for a certain length of time, it inevitably rises above normal for a period. This is what is taking place at the present time. For the last three years, the stock market has risen 14 per cent above normal compared with 5 per cent a year ago. Attention the only immediate signs of a decline are in connection with the stock market, yet is general business grows too much above normal there is bound to be a reaction to a corresponding amount below normal."

Driving Finishes on Three Tracks Stir Thrones of Racegoers; Neck and Neck.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—Driving finishes at the spring thrones at Miami, New Orleans and St. Louis were "a day with favorites racing in feature events."

Twister and King of Three were neck and neck from the start of the six-furlong Parsona graded handicap at Miami; the latter won by a nose. Light Brigade to win by less than a length. The race was run 1:12 1/5, and the fastest split was 29.8.

Mabel won at New Orleans the winner surprising track experts who had her out of the money. The third race developed the most sensational finish of the afternoon, however, with Frost coming from second to pass Beant and Allen in a close finish.

Facilit came tearing down the stretch to overtake Great Luck in the Tin Juana feature handicap at a mile and a sixteenth before crossing an irregular race across the trees.

Chenoweth, who came close to being an ex-president. Among the older politicians in France the cult of abstinence at least from "hard liquor" has been gaining many adherents since the war.

The nude had its day on the Paris music hall and review stage, in the opinion of Andre Antoine, an authority on the Parisian theatre. M. Antoine visited three great houses in Paris where shows noted for their sumptuous magnificence include a generous allowance of the nude—and nude, on these stages means just that—in order to match the reaction of the public to this particular part of the entertainment.

He no longer found, he said, that somewhat equivocal feminist thrill that once marked the appearance of a number of Eve before the fall figures on the stage. The public seems to have become indifferent, almost bored. A feeling of lassitude due to monotony is to be noticed. He describes one scene wherein a completely clothed figure was the center of a specially selected group, and notes that it was the completely covered figure that drew all eyes in the house.

Top Hats Passing.
Top hats, the ancient "stove-pipe" of joke and story, are passing away in Paris, to the great disgust of would-be arborists of fashion but without worrying the hatless masses. Paris is one of the last great European strongholds of formality to give in before what haberdashers regard as "the American influence" in matters of sartorial fashion.

Men have to wear hats, said a prominent hatter on the Boulevard, "but they don't have to wear top hats. The top hat still is worn by Europeans for solemn functions—and here, in an enjoyable falling off in its vogue for such purposes. It is due to American influence, however, that the top hat is no longer worn to the theatre, concerts, dances and other evening amusements. Personally, I think it is for the best. Most men look absurd in top hats anyway. A dark suit hat will do just as well, for the dandy makes a good compromise."

Montparnasse has definitely expelled Mont Martre as the favorite resort of Paris artists, and official figures have attested the retreat of the former in the bitter rivalry which had grown up between the two quarters. Statistical statistics on the distribution of artists in Paris give Montparnasse 20 per cent of the total, while Mont Martre, with 11 per cent, has fallen from its former leadership to third place, being eclipsed even by the Grenelle quarter, which first just west of Montparnasse and takes its overflow.

Beet Growers Tell Stand on Contract

POCAHELLO, Feb. 6—The Idaho Beet growers state committee, composed of grower representatives from each of the best-growing Counties of Idaho, having concluded their discussions and studies pertinent to the 1926 Idaho sugar beet contract, at a second sitting of the committee at Pocatello, Idaho, Feb. 5 and 6, filed a request with the officials of the sugar companies operating in this state, for a meeting of the committee with those officials and the committee, and are now waiting for that date to be set, says a statement issued by the Idaho Farm Bureau federation information service. The committee, in its most recent discussions, found no reason for treating Idaho growers in 1926 Idaho contract, similar in many respects to the contract already being offered Montana and Colorado growers by the Great Western Sugar company.

It is expected that the meeting between the Idaho committee and the sugar factory officials will take place within the next week or ten days. A slight delay has been caused, due to the unexpected absence of E. Holmes of Sugar City, Idaho, the chairman of the committee, who was called to leave the state on personal matters of business Monday evening, to be gone until the end of the present week.

Before leaving, Chairman Holmes authorized the release of the following statement: "After making a thorough investigation of the situation, the state committee feels absolutely justified in asking Idaho farmers not to sign for 1926 production of sugar beets until the state committee includes its present negotiations, which time the basis of the contract will be announced and authorization given. The committee to date has concerned itself only with a study of the cost-factors of production, and to a survey of the Idaho growers stand behind the findings of the committee. Data collected from every best-growing county of the state develops the fact that the average cost of production of a 12 ton crop of sugar beets is $6.78 per ton, and the grower operating in this state, for a naturally in looking for a satisfactory profit on his operations. The survey has shown conclusively that the Idaho farmer is getting behind the state committee. The fact that the Great Western Sugar company is offering its growers in Colorado and Montana the most favorable bonus clause should be sufficient reason to consider the Idaho factory owners of the facility of attempting to place last year's contract again in the field. It would be just as logical for them to accept $8 per bag for their sugar, when an $8 per bag price was offered."

Spring Fashions Now on Display In Paris With Chinese Red and Dark Blue Two Popular Colors

PARIS, Feb. 6—The spring opening of the Parisian style-makers' shops in the fall spring, Fauguin and Worth, opening today, brought the number of showings already announced to 40, and these probably will give more first class contrivers of fashion still to make their 1926 show, among them Lanvin, Callot and Hosié.

Chinese red, spring like green, beige, and dark blue are given as the colors to be most popular next season. One of the exhibits which has evoked much comment is that of Pierre Felix Vouanpoff's newly established house. The price does not claim to be the artist who designed the gowns he is showing and admits that he has at least three talented designers working for him.

Another "dry" statement in this land famous for its wines and liquor was in Paris, to the great dissatisfaction of a considerable list of prominent stalwarts. Premier Briand, acting on his doctor's orders, is no longer drinking wine or even coffee at his meals.

Former Presidents Millerand and Poincare have long been "dry," has "old father, Victory," Georges

Why Studebaker Rates on Time Purchases are Lowest

Three years ago Studebaker utilized its vast resources to enable any Studebaker dealer to sell cars on fair and liberal rates to those who buy out of income

And today no car in the world offers lower rates to the time purchaser than Studebaker

Financing rates which most competitive cars cannot approach are made possible by these 5 factors:

1. Stability of Studebaker with one hundred million dollars of net assets, no bonded debt and no bank loans—assurance that no Studebaker will ever become an orphan.
2. Depreciation cut to a minimum by Studebaker's "No-Yearly-Models" policy.
3. Intrinsic worth of the Unit-Built Studebakers which makes them stay sold.
4. One-Price prices which mean that the purchaser has an equity so substantial that he will not sacrifice it.
5. Re-sale value maintained by the popularity of Certified Studebakers sold under the famous Studebaker Dealers' Pledge on Used Car Sales.

THESE five factors constitute the basis on which banks of the United States generally provide credit at lowest rates for the buyers of Studebaker cars.

This low-cost credit is placed at your disposal through the Industrial Acceptance Corporation, which is engaged exclusively in financing the sale of cars, new and used, through Studebaker dealers.

Before you buy any car out of income (whether it is in the field of the Standard Six Coach at $1195 or the Big Six Sedan at $2145), find out exactly how much of your total payment is for the car itself, and how much for interest, insurance, brokerage, etc.

Then get the corresponding Studebaker figures and ask yourself why you should pay out money for the sheer blue sky of excessive financing rates.

WHAT HAPPENS?

WHEN AN EMPLOYER, WHO HIRES A LOT OF MEN TO RUN HIS BUSINESS FOR HIM, SEES THEM DAY AFTER DAY WASTING THEIR TIME (AND HIS) WITH "DESK TOP STATIC" AND "SWIVEL CHAIR SHOGGING" — WHAT HAPPENS?

AND ON THE OTHER HAND WHEN WE HIRE MEN TO RUN OUR BUSINESS AND SEE THEM DAY AFTER DAY "SHOOT-FAUTHING" AND "ETHER BUSTING" AND OTHERWISE WASTING THEIR TIME (AND OURS) — WHAT, IF ANYTHING, IS DONE ABOUT IT — WHAT HAPPENS?
