

LEAGUE CRISIS CENTERS ABOUT FRENCH CABINET

Sudden Conference Between British Official and German Delegates Yesterday Reveals Most Striking Move.

(By the Associated Press) GENEVA, March 9.—A sudden conference between Sir Austin Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, and Chancellor Luther and Dr. Stroessner of the German delegation, immediately after receipt of the news from Paris that M. Briand had agreed to form a government, brought to the league of nations council crisis.

From German sources emanated the report that in order to remove the League of Nations from the hands of the signatures of the Rhine, it was planned to eliminate possible dissentients of other members of the league on the ground that the British foreign secretary was anxious to arrange an unofficial meeting between the members of the council and the Germans.

State Off Complications.

In the meantime the assembly leader, headed by Sir Austin Chamberlain, succeeded in saving the day by averting complications by obtaining immediate adjournment of the sub-committee which had been appointed to investigate Germany's application for league membership.

The German delegation, however, declined to respond to any questions as to whether Germany has been fulfilling her international obligations.

In view of the fact that the Germans have not yet determined as to what to do, the leaders will assure they can enter the council with permanent membership unaccompanied by others, the leaders did not wish to put Germany in the position of having to wait for the committee before the investigating committee.

China Brings Hope.

China brought a hopeful note into the council, entitling discussion while the committee sat, by announcing his withdrawal of his claim for a permanent seat at this session of the assembly if the other claimants would do likewise, with, of course, the exception of Japan, who was making this announcement, Chan Hau Chiu, the Chinese representative, said:

"Some critics assert that 'China should not be given a seat because of its having been a member of the League of Nations since 1922, but I think such an allusion fails, because no country can entirely escape domestic trouble.' Despite political differences, the Chinese people think as much of world peace as far as possible as we do. They are concerned, while holding the key to the peace of the Far East and peace in the Far East will mean the peace of the world."

Toronto Lawyer is Still After Child

SALT LAKE CITY, March 9 (UPI)—James H. Cooke, who is seeking trial for his six years of kidnapping from his family of the child, Billie, Cooke, took the witness stand before Judge Chris Mathison today and his testimony was heard in part.

Cooke, brought in as a lawyer of the defense, was in practice, said that he was a "slimy" proceeding against himself, brought by Mrs. Cooke, had been dismissed because the trial, for the guilty of the crime, concluded with the court met the only grounds, for exemption of, alimony there.

Cooke was on the stand at the close of the trial today and will resume today morning. Judge Mathison, sitting as referee for the supreme court, held all testimony of Cooke to be inadmissible as incompetent, yet refused to specify so that his evidence might go before the supreme court for its review.

DRY LAW HEARINGS REFUSED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9 (UPI)—While wet and dry were wrangling today on the Senate floor, members of the judiciary committee indicated that requests for a hearing on the proposed bills on their bills for modification of the prohibition laws would be refused.

Executive discussion of the measures offered by Senator Edge, Republican, and Senator Johnson, New Jersey, and Senator Mahan, Massachusetts, almost unanimously against hearings on measures which their proponents concede have no immediate chance of enactment.

THE SUPREME AUTHORITY.

Senator Borah, campaigning against membership in the Court of International Justice, says:

"If the spirit of '76 still dwells in the heart of America, we certainly can get out of this proposition that is neither court nor anything else."

There is just one supreme rule in the United States from which there is no appeal—public opinion.

Now it is up, as most of us would agree, arguing any more about the World Court. Neither is it any use abusing an honest man because he doesn't see a certain public master as some of his fellow countrymen do. But the statement quoted seems worth picking up and looking at, because of that last sentence if for no other reason.

"There is just one supreme rule in the United States from which there is no appeal—public opinion," is that true? Doubtless so, in the long run. But is it true at any particular moment?

Ask statesmen, who know how in our government of checks and balances and assured tenure of office for 12 years, a policy or a program may be enforced for years. In spite of popular opinion, until the official cycle ends and an overturn is possible.

Ask any member of the Supreme Court, who will tell you that that body was established by the fundamental law of the nation to sit apart from public opinion, and above it, deciding cases not open the shifting mood of the people from day to day or year to year, but upon the Constitution by which our government was created.

An appeal may always be made from public opinion to the Supreme Court. It is that court itself from which there is no appeal.

And while we're on the subject, it may be added that the World Court is not like this. It's a court-like an Supreme Court takes up an instance of only one party; both parties must consent. It cannot, like our Supreme Court, enforce its decision.

BULLS AND BEARS

"All men are either bulls or bears by nature, whether in the stock market or out of it," observes a philosophical banker. "Fortunately most of us are bulls. For whatever we think of the perils of optimism, it is hard to conceive of any program that most men were pessimists."

He is something to say to a cynical friend next time he boasts himself on being so superior. Cynics and pessimists are all right in their way; they serve a useful purpose by putting on the brakes when optimists become too optimistic, by throwing cold water on fiery natures about to burn themselves up. But the merits of the pessimist are purely negative. Pessimism is never constructive. At this shrewd banker suggests, it never has a program; and if it has any, would lack the pep and energy to put it over. It is only the "bear" that holds back and pulls down."

The optimist is constructive. He forms programs and labors to bring them to realization. He fails sometimes, but as often through weak listening to pessimists as from over-turing too much. It is the optimist—the "bull"—who accomplishes. Every time he succeeds, the world is built the civilization and made possible the wealth and culture and permanent advantage of.

Respect the bull, then, as the Mayan did, as a symbol of life that lives and moves. The bull is the symbol of the constructive forces done.

MORE ANTI-EVOLUTION

Mississippi follows the example of Tennessee and several other states in banning evolution. The state legislature makes it unlawful to teach unsupported theories. "That might be scandalous to lower animals."

Apparently it is still possible to teach the evolutionary doctrine in private schools or parochial schools or in the press or pulpit or on the lecture platform or the street corner. If so, it cannot be held that freedom of speech or freedom of circulation is really stifled.

It may be all right for taxpayers, through their legislatures, to furnish the advocacy in the schools they support, of ideas they believe in. But is it sensible for them to forbid telling children what the theories are, in an impartial way, so that the young people will not be ignorant of them, as part of a civilized culture? Any intelligent person is sure to find something about evolution, anyway, sooner or later, and decide for himself whether to accept it or not. Why not get it straight at first?

CLAIM MEXICAN FAIL TO OBESE TREATY TERMS

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Mexican officials have charged that the Supreme Court, which has ruled that the arbitration award of $100 million in favor of Mexico by the U.S. department, had taken the matter up with the Mexican government. So far Mexican users have continued to violate the treaty, and the U.S. government with diversionary projects of water from the Rio Grande entitled them to.

Representative Radburn advocated legislation to authorize the construction of greater irrigation facilities on the Mexican side of the river, and the U.S. department, which Mexicans are diverting the water. In this way, he said, the water could be obtained before the Mexican could get it.

He also charged that the committee members, the Texans asserted that he knew of no other way to stop diversion unless American troops were sent to Mexico to compel them to respect the treaty. Under the treaty, he said, the U.S. government had agreed to contribute to irrigation 25,000 acres of land, but they now are opening outlets to irrigate 250,000 acres.

NEW YORK, March 9 (UPI)—Mysterious circumstances in the death of Martin Niem Van Buren-Wheeler, recently descendant of President Martin Van Buren, were clarified today by the voluntary testimony of the friend who was with Wheeler when he received the injury which caused his death.

Wheeler died Friday night at Harlem Hospital. An autopsy revealed he had a fractured skull, though he was entered at the hospital suffering from abdominal pain. Withdraws From Proposed Title Match With Mickey.

NEW YORK, March 9 (UPI)—Tommy Milligan, Scot, weighing 165 and middle weight champion of England, withdrew from a proposed title match with Mickey Walker when he informed the state athletic commission that he had suffered a slight right shoulder and a 147-pound weight crown.

As a result the commission ruled in favor of Walker, who met Willie Harmon of New York and John McNamee of Boston in a recent Madison Square Garden match to determine the challenger for the welter weight crown.

Permitting to fight Paul Beirne, the Scot, who had been denied a chance to compete in the national championship, has denied to Peter Powers, welter weight, in keeping with the committee's policy to force champion to fight within their division.

FINANCING SETTLERS MAY HELP TO SOLVE FARM DEVELOPMENT

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UPI)—The three year experience in government financing of settlers on reclamation projects in the Kenai's Fish Hill, which was passed today by the senate, will in the belief of Secretary Work, determine definitely whether such a method of developing lands under cultivation irrigation is feasible and practical.

Such a measure would appropriate $400,000 to be used in making loans to settlers on the projects to be developed by the federal government.

Entry on lands in those projects would be restricted to persons with a year's farming experience and $1,500 in cash. The measure was sent to the house after having had all his teeth extracted.

MCKINLEY MAY BE ACTIVE IN NEW ERUPTION

Alaskan Guide Is of Belief That

Famous Peak Is Throwing Off Volcano Flow and Plans to Investigate.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 9 (UPI)—Alex Laska, Alaska guide and mount climber, believes it possible that Mount McKinley peak may be in another eruption period and that he plans to ascend it, following the route taken by the late Alphonse Hudon Stark, who in 1915 scaled the heights, approaching from the North.

Stark described the crest of the mountain as containing a crater-like snow basin about thirty-five by sixty feet in dimension. He made his trip from the North, Harry P. Karp, of Belvoir, Ga., Harry P. Karp, of Belvoir, Ga., three Indian boys. On the summit reached June 7, the instrument reading disclosed the peak to be 20,200 feet, said Laska.

The climb expedition made its start March 17, nearly three months being required for the ascent. Proceeding by trail from Nome, a long later stage was established 4,000 feet above Mudflow glacier. This was twenty miles from the top. The remainder of the trip was more difficult, the greatest difficulty being a steep ridge between the lower and upper glacial floors.

The spectacular eruptions of subterranean forces, in the North, in recent years, have been attributed to the "Tin Thousand," amakas, and other natural phenomena, leads interest to the undertaking.

Religious Acts of Mexico Draw Notes

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UPI)—Mexico's new policy governing religious teaching has brought forth a note from Ambassador Sheffield to the Mexican foreign office, pointing out that American teachers should not be asked to suffice until from its operation.

The note was prepared by the ambassador after he had received instructions from the State department and views that it had delivered same coincident with efforts in the senate to force government departments to permit "nonsectarian" teachers only on principles affecting American relations with the southern republic.

Threatened street in Vera Cruz state of the Rev. F. J. Gill, an American teacher, was withdrawn by Ambassador Sheffield and he reported that it had been "satisfactorily settled." Although the nation of the United States, was dissatisfied, the Mexican government did not like it.

The priest is to remain in Mexico.

Hoover Outlines Great Waterways For Middle-West

Commerce Secretary Sees Big Future for Development of Canals and Pictures Chicago-Gulf Canal in Sight.

CHICAGO, March 9 (UPI)—Herbert Hoover, secretary of the commerce department, tonight outlined a complete inland waterway system, pointing out the necessity of connecting the middle-west and the West, believed a 12-mile foot channel from Chicago to the Gulf was the right.

He appealed for settlement of lake level disputes by the states, and the steel, rather than the lawyers.

He addressed the thirty-fourth annual banquet of John Ericsson engineers of Illinois.

Secretary Hoover's speech did not touch on politics.

He pictured the middle west as graced by a row of toll gates composed of increased rail rates, completion of the great canals, and development of ocean freight rates at virtually pre-war levels, with agriculture suffering more than industry but both in a new relation to different parts of America and to the world markets as a whole.
