SENATE REJECTS LONG AND SHORT HAUL RATES BILL

Gooding Measure Defeated in Upper House by Vote of 46 to 33; Intermountain Country Loses Long Fight.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The senate today rejected, 46 to 33, the Gooding long and short haul bill.

Thus representatives of the intermountain territory again lost in their 40-year fight to prevent trans-continental carriers from granting a lower rate for hauls to Pacific coast ports than to intermediate points.

Two years ago the senate passed a similar measure, 54 to 23, but it failed of action in the house.

Opinion Divided.

Senators from every section of the country were divided on the measure which was non-partisan in nature. Two senators from the intermountain territory—Phipps and Means of Colorado—voted against the bill. Likewise, there were divisions among senators from the south, the middle west, west and east.

The recent division of the interstate commerce commission denying seven transcontinental railroads permission to invoke the long and short haul principle in rate revisions to permit them to meet water transportation competition was cited repeatedly by opponents of the bill as evidence that it was not necessary.

Lobby At Work.

Proponents of the bill charged during debate that a "powerful railroad lobby," was at work to defeat it. Senator Gooding of Idaho, who introduced it, declared that if the bill was defeated, the railroad lobby must be credited with accomplishing this objective, but many senators held the interstate commerce commissions rate making discretionary powers should not be transferred to congress.

The vote followed three hours of debate equally divided between proponents and opponents. Among those who spoke in favor of the bill were Senators Gooding, Pittman, democrat, Nevada; Cameron, republican, Arizona; King, democrat, Utah; Smoot, republican, Utah, and Reed, republican, Pennsylvania. Those speaking in opposition included Senators Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin; Overman and Simmons, democrats, North Carolina; Jones, republican, Washington; Fletcher, democrat, Florida, and Fess, republican, Ohio.

REPORT CAPTURE OF ONE MEXICAN

Man Who Took Part in Slaying of American Apprehended, Says Wire to Embassy.

MEXICO CITY, March 24. (AP)—One of the men who murdered Joe Hall, an American employe of the Mexican National railways, last Monday near Ixtlan is reported to have been captured. This information is contained in a telegram from the American consulate at Mazatlan, received at the embassy here today.

It is understood troops are searching for the assailants of Hall, who is declared to have been stoned to death. The government is continuing its investigation into the Hall case and also into the murder recently near Ixtlan of Rex Mellpone, and the wounding of E. H. Heidenkamp, both Americans, and the raiding by armed men of the ranch of J. M. Freeley, another American, near Acamparo.

No Reply Yet.

The American embassy here has received no reply to its representation to the Mexican government concerning the attacks on Americans and the government has not revealed the outcome of its investigations. The war department has issued general orders to the military commanders throughout the republic to redouble their efforts against bandits and for the protection of ranches in rural regions and small towns.

STATE RESTS CASE IN WEISER WOMAN'S TRIAL

WEISER, Idaho, March 24 (AP)—Married at 14, driven from home by her parents, persuaded to leave her husband by another man, who refused for years then to marry her—such was the story outlined here, today by George Donart, defense counsel, in the trial of Irene Rapin, 42, for the murder of her 80-year-old husband, Benjamin Rapin.

The state rested its case against the woman at noon, after Sheriff Linkous, continuing his testimony of the day before, had corroborated the story of his deputy and has repeated the story of the killing February 3 as he said Mrs. Rapin had detailed it to him.

"One of us had to go" the sheriff declared the defendant told him when he arrived at the scene of the killing.

Creator of Gumps To Get Choice Box Of Idaho Potatoes

Reference to Largest Spuds by Cartoonist Brings Present From State Commerce Body.

BOISE, March 24. (AP)—Spuds are potatoes to the average American consumer, but when the distinguished detective and political counselor, Andy Gump, wanted to tell Minerva, his faithful wife, the size of diamonds he would like to give her with Uncle Bim's money, he chose to refer to the world's largest and most robust tuber delicacies, so he said Idaho potatoes.

So because Sidney Smith, Andy's creator, had thus decided for all time argument as to who raises the world's biggest potatoes, the Idaho state chamber of commerce today, through its secretary, decided that the Chicago Tribune cartoonist should receive a choice box of Idaho potato kings.

MEMBERS PLAN NIGHT SESSIONS

House Committee Increases Effort to Get Farm Relief Legislation Before Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Day and night sessions for farm relief hearings will be held hereafter by the house agriculture committee in an effort to get legislation into congress before adjournment.

The committee decided on this today after members had urged that some way be found to expedite the testimony. Representative Jones, democrat, Texas, made an attempt to have the hearings closed in order to consider a bill, but the other members held that those wanting to be heard should be given an opportunity.

Urge Equalization Fee.

Meanwhile, the delegation representing national and middle-western farm organizations, were urging a measure to assess an equalization fee upon certain crops to provide a fund for marketing the surplus, arranged to appear before the senate agriculture committee Monday. It is not expected that the delegation will have completed its case in the house at that time, but several witnesses can be detached to testify before the senate committee.

Action on night sessions of the house committee came after a sharp discussion between republican and democratic members. Representative Kincheloe, democrat, Kentucky, drew fire from the majority side of the table when he said the republicans were "awaiting orders from the other end of the avenue," meaning the White House.

The Kentucky representative contended that there was no chance of farm relief legislation this session, but Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, retorted that "this congress will be not dissolved until March 4, 1927."

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS FELT

HELENA, Mont., March 24. (AP)—Two slight, but distinct earthquake shocks lasting several seconds each were felt here late today. Although they were quite pronounced at Kenwood, a suburb, no damage was reported.

Helena has experienced 32 earthquakes since last June, when the first of a series of tremblors that shook parts of Montana severely occurred.

HEROIC ACT COSTS LIFE.

AMARILLA, Tex., March 24. (AP)—Claudia May Elliott, nine years old, saved her three-year-old sister, Margaret, from the path of an onrushing automobile today, but the heroic deed cost her life. She was knocked down by the machine, receiving injuries from which she died four hours later. Margaret was only slightly hurt.

Vagrant Chickens To Be Baked For Methodist Tables

Pastor Complains Against Devastation of Garden by Flocks; Writes Order and City Dads Pass Law.

WHARTON, Tex., March 24. (AP)—It now appears that only Methodist preachers in Wharton are to get the chickens found running at large here in violation of a city ordinance which demands that chickens be penned.

It was explained here today that Charles E. Poe, a member of the First Baptist church, who first gave the story to the world, inadvertently omitted to name the denomination, thus making it appear that all preachers here had equal rights in any confiscated chickens.

Chickens Destroy Garden.

It appears Rev. G. B. Carter, pastor of the First Methodist church, is an amateur gardener. Vagrant chickens devastated it. He went to Editor Shannon, who is a candidate for mayor, and told him he could not support him except on a chicken tight fence platform. He was invited to write an order which he did and embraced the mandate that all chickens from outside of pens after the ordinance went into effect should become the property of Methodist preachers. It passed as was written.

HECTIC DEBATE HELD IN HOUSE ON PROHIBITION

Members Edge Forward in Seats When Word "Liar" is Flung About in Heated Discussion of Question.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Prohibition debate reached the point today in the house where the old-fashioned word "liar" came into play with members edging forward in their seats like a crowd watching the end of a tense race.

The prohibition enforcement unit and the department of justice became entangled in the melee and an unusual situation was created where the sergeant-at-arms was forced to issue a formal statement on the subject at issue—whether in wet days his chief duty was to drag drunks off the house floor.

Provokes Word Battle.

Representative La Guardia, progressive-socialist, New York, started the battle of words by charging that Frank L. Dodge, formerly a justice departments investigator, had attempted to dispose of $400,000 worth of liquor permits obtained from the wife of George Remus, convicted Cincinnati bootlegger, and it did not end until Representative O'Connor, democrat, New York, had called Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist board of morals, a liar.

Dr. Wilson was quoted by Mr. O'Connor as having asserted congressmen in pre-Volstead days gave the sergeant-at-arms a hard task to perform, and as having said his information came from the sergeant-at-arms. The Sergeant-at-arms Rogers extricated himself from the situation by saying he did not know Dr. Wilson and had come to work in the house since prohibition became effective.

In making his charges, Representative LaGuardia asserted that a general dry law enforcement investigation should be made and that the prohibition unit and the justice department would be a good place to start it. A special effort was made, he said, to keep Remus in the Atlanta prison although the government had accepted a court ruling under which his associates obtained freedom.

Representative O'Connor resented a press clipping quoting Dr. Wilson as saying that before prohibition the "rum element" controlled congress.

"Its a lie," he shouted; "it's a deliberate, dastardly canard."

Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, objected to O'Connor referring to a minister of the gospel in such language and demanded that the remarks be eliminated from the congressional record. He later withdrew objections upon request of Representative Madden, republican, Illinois.

Representative Celler, democrat, New York, both in a statement and on the floor, assailed Wayne B. Wheeler, of the Anti-saloon league, for his attitude toward District Attorney Buckner of New York, who has urged a referendum on the dry law in that state.

He accused Mr. Wheeler of being "drunk with his power over a lot of maudlin women and mawkish prohibitionists."

Two Battalions of Arab Women Found Among Syrian Ranks

Insurgents Fighting Against French Regime Use Feminine Recruits in Battle at Midan.

JERUSALEM, March 24. (AP)—(Jewish Telegraph)—Battalions of women have appeared in the ranks of the insurgent Syrians fighting against the French regime, according to advices received here from Syria. Two battalions of Arab women are now undergoing military training and units of these took part in a recent battle at Midan, near Damascus. The recruiting of women is said to be continuing.

PROMINENT BOISE LAWYER AND PARTNER OF SENATOR BORAH, DIES IN HOSPITAL

BOISE, March 24 (AP)—John J. Blake, prominent Boise attorney, former associate of William E. Borah in the law firm of Borah, Cavanah & Blake, died at St. Alphonsus hospital this afternoon, following an operation. Intestinal trouble was said to be the cause of death.

Mr. Blake came to Boise in 1891 and shortly afterwards entered partnership with E. J. Frawley. He was a townsman of Mr. Frawley in Vermont, Dane county, Wisconsin and came west a few months before his boyhood chum.

In 1898 when Mr. Frawley was elected prosecuting attorney for Ada county the partnership ceased. Later Mr. Blake was elected judge of the probate court, which position he occupied two terms.

Surviving are two brothers, George of Pomeroy, Washington, and James W. of Orofino, Idaho, two sisters, Mrs. John O'Grady of Cleveland and Mrs. Edward Murphy of Manitowoc, Wisconsin.

TO HAVE LARGE REPRESENTATION

Idahoans Will Exhibit More Stock at Salt Lake Show Than Any Previous Year.

SALT LAKE, March 24. (AP)—Southeastern Idaho will have a greater representation than at any previous exhibition at the ninth annual intermountain livestock show which opens Saturday at North Salt Lake, it was predicted today by James A. Hooper, chairman of the livestock committee of the chamber upon his return from a trip to the upper Snake river valley.

Mr. Hooper said that Michael Barclay of Blackfoot, feeder of the champion car of fat lambs at the Ogden livestock show last winter, believes his intermountain entry will repeat for the same honor, and that Alex Robb of Idaho Falls expressed similar hopes for his carload of fat hogs. "On the trip I met a large number of stockmen who are coming here for the show, even though they do not have any stock to enter," said Mr. Hooper, "the fact that many breeders will be here with range, breeding stock is attracting those who want new blood for their herds."

BRITISH HOUSE HEARS LEADERS' VIEWS ON DEBT

World War Heritage Is Given Periodical Airing by Winston Churchill and Philip Snowden in Commons.

(By the Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 24.—The problem of the world war's heritage of inter-allied debts was given a periodical airing in the house of commons today, and Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer and Philip Snowden, laborite and former chancellor, who are poles apart politically, joined hands in the house in agreeing that the burden of responsibility of the war debt difficulties rests on the United States for refusing to adopt a policy of all around cancellation.

Mr. Snowden precipitated the debate in the hope of helping to bring Great Britain's recalcitrant continental creditors to time.

Hopes to Collect.

Mr. Churchill on the whole was hopeful of obtaining from Great Britain's debtors the necessary 33,000,000 pounds sterling which this country now is paying to the United States annually. And thus he believes the British government will be enabled to carry out the principle of the Balfour note, whereby Great Britain declared her intention of collecting from her continental allies only sufficient sums to pay her indebtedness to America.

The chancellor declared that an extraordinary situation, which would not pass out of the minds of any responsible person either in the United States or Europe, would exist when most of Germany's war reparations were "drawn from the devastated and war-stricken countries of Europe in an unbroken stream across the Atlantic to that wealthy, prosperous and great republic."

Gift Is Compensation.

Philip Snowden took the line that the terms made through Great Britain to the allies constituted America's "gift as a sort of compensation for her late arrival on the battlefields of Europe," but he went on, "if the United States insists that Great Britain must pay, he would point to America's success in funding 40 per cent of her war debts, and argued that if Great Britain did not follow suit taxpayers here must bear the burden. It was difficult to believe, he asserted, that better terms could not have been made with France, while he characterized the Italian settlement as "trivial in the extreme."

CHAPMAN SIGNS PETITION TO SAVE NECK FROM ROPE

HARTFORD, Conn., March 24. (AP)—Harold Chapman, bandit and convicted killer of a policeman, today signed a new petition for a writ of habeas corpus raising the constitutional question whether he had a fair trial. The petition will be discussed at the conference of Chapman's lawyers in New York tomorrow at one of the plans to save him from the gallows on April 6.

Government Fails to Satisfy Vodka Thirst Of Russian Populace

Output of National Drink Has Been Doubled in Last Six Months, Figures Show.

MOSCOW, March 24. (AP)—Russia is developing an insatiable thirst for vodka. Although the government within the last six months has more than doubled its output of vodka, it has been unable to meet the demands of the population for the national drink.

According to figures announced today, the government will produce 500,000,000 quarts of vodka during the coming year, which will yield the state about $250,000,000 of revenue, or ten per cent of the entire budget.

The vodka now manufactured by the government has a strength of 40 per cent and sells for 90 cents a quart. Many distilleries which were destroyed during the war are being rehabilitated.

Tells Senate Committee That Tariff Provision Is Threat and Deterrent to Business.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—The flexible provision of the tariff law was attacked as a threat and as a deterrent to business by Thomas Walker Page, former chairman of the tariff commission, in testimony today before the special senate committee investigating administration of the law.

The charge also was made that President Harding had sought to influence the election of members of the commission staff and became "very angry" when he failed to get the commission to accept his candidate for the job of secretary.

Wrong Principle.

The principle of the flexible tariff is all wrong, the former democratic chairman asserted. Tariff should not be flexible but should be stabilized by fixed rates set by congress, he held.

"Business feels that it is under a constant threat and can not make future operations," he added. "It is a deterrent to business and adds a speculative element that is highly undesirable. It has subjected the president to the charge of tinkering or refusing to tinker with the tariff for political reasons.

LaFollette Questions.

Pressed by Senator LaFollette, progressive-republican, Wisconsin, for an elaboration of his charges of White House influence over staff appointments, the witness said that President Harding had sent for a commissioner and requested him to vote to retain a staff man after the commissioner had decided to oppose him. The commissioner came back from the White House, Page said, and voted for the man.

At another time, he related, an outsider made application for the job of secretary and addressed his application to President Harding and former Attorney General Daugherty. The commission was satisfied with the secretary and then engaged and refused to heed the request of the president to remove him for the other man, he said, and the president did not like it at all.

TO HOLD WOOL HEARING.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—A public hearing on proposed government numerical grades of wool and corresponding grades of wool to be held in Washington April 29, is announced by the department of agriculture which has invited all persons interested to attend.

REVENUES ARE HIGHER.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Internal revenue receipts in the first eight months of this fiscal year, up to March 1, before the lower tax rates became effective, were $110,636,718 higher than in the same period a year ago.

Desert Boomtown Flourishes Under Repeated Strikes

New Discoveries of Lead-Silver Ore Near Leadfield, Nevada, Brings Increased Activity to Mining Camp.

BEATTY, Nev., March 24. (AP)—New discoveries of lead-silver ore were reported here today. One of these is said to be a large vein found on the Western Lead property in Titus canyon below Leadville, while the other is reported on the Burr Welsh group of claims above the town. This strike is said to contain an ore running about 25 per cent lead and proves the total length of the mineralized ground to be more than three miles long and a mile wide.

To Build Modern Hotel.

More lumber arrived today and is being hauled across the state line to Leadfield, where work is to start on a new 50-room hotel with baths. One rooming house containing 18 rooms was recently constructed of boards and sheet iron.

Dynamos are already on the ground and will shortly be connected up with Diesel engines, thereby giving Leadfield its first electric current. Plans are being made for the construction of a power plant at Beatty, and an option has been taken on the water at the L. C. Burrel ranch six miles from town.

Work has been started on a telephone line from Beatty to Leadfield. As yet only one line available.

TREASURY HEAD DEFENDS ACTION ON SETTLEMENT

Secretary Mellon Declares Solution to Problem Was Best to be Obtained Without Resorting to Force.

(By the Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—America's war debt settlements with European nations were the most favorable which could be obtained short of force, Secretary Mellon declared here tonight in an address before the Union League club.

Touching on the moral obligation to assist other peoples to clear away the wreckage of war, Mr. Mellon said "we do (owe this obligation), and will carry out this duty."

Would Help Europe.

The administration believes in help and not charity, he continued, "and our financial policies toward Europe are backed not by sentiment but by sense."

The address of the treasury head had been prepared prior to the remarks made in the house of commons today by Chancellor of the Exchequer Churchill, who also discussed the moral aspects of the war debts.

Mr. Mellon confined his remarks chiefly to a defense of the settlements so far made, one of which, that with Italy, is under fire in the senate pending a vote on ratification. He called attention to the fact that negotiations were pending with France, Greece and Jugo-Slavia, the only European nations which had not funded their debt.

Must Balance Budget.

If Europe is to be re-established on a sound basis, he declared, it must balance its budget, its war debts must be funded, and the American investor must intelligently and profitably invest his surplus capital stock abroad. All of this is taking place, he added, and financial reconstruction of Europe is in sight, with an improved and healthy market for this nation as the probable result.

"There is a surplus," he explained, "and to dispose of this surplus we must reach markets abroad, which means having purchasers abroad with money or credit to buy. If the exportable surplus cannot be disposed of abroad, the prices in this country will drop. We all need our best customers."

Referring to criticism that the debt settlements were too lenient, the secretary said he preferred to have solvent customers with prospects of a profitable business in the future, rather than force his customers into bankruptcy.

HOUSE REFUSES PROMPT ACTION

Republican Leaders Will Not Give Legislative Right of Way to Canal Proposal.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—Republican house leaders flatly refused today to give legislative right of way at the present time to consideration of the all-American canal proposal that would link the Great Lakes with the Atlantic via the Hudson river.

At the same time it was disclosed that Henry Ford looks favorably both upon this proposal and one to connect the lakes and the Atlantic by a channel down the St. Lawrence river.

Would Serve Mid-West.

W. B. Mayo, of the Ford Motor corporation, in a letter to Chairman Dempsey, of the house rivers and harbors committee, said the All-American route would serve the central west as a whole and had the advantage of being free from ice for one month longer each year than the other, but he also endorsed the St. Lawrence project.

The action of republican leaders was taken at a republican steering committee meeting held after Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, had visited the White House and conferred with President Coolidge.

PLANE OF FLEEING CHINA WAR LORD FORCED DOWN

LONDON, March 24 (AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Peking says an airplane in which General Feng Yu Hsiang, leader of the defeated Kuominchun army, fled to Mongolia was forced to descend in the Gobi desert in southern Mongolia. A Moscow report that Feng arrived at Urga, on the northern side of the desert, is doubted in Peking, the correspondent says.

Feng's main armies, defeated on all sides, are said to be retreating from the west and north of Peking toward Kalgan to escape the allied opponents.

RAIL VICTORY IS TEMPORARY

Salt Laker Declares Defeat of Gooding Measure Work of Powerful Co-operation.

SALT LAKE, March 24. (AP)—Defeat of the Gooding long and short haul bill in the United States senate today is merely a temporary victory which certain trans-continental railroads have secured over the inter-mountain country and other sections affected by its application in the opinion of W. S. McCarthy, vice president of the traffic service bureau of Utah.

Mr. McCarthy said the senate action showed that certain railroads, including the Union Pacific, Santa Fe, and the Northern Pacific cooperated with Pacific coast, Chicago and other midwest organizations to override demands of the inter-mountain country.

The vote of the senate last year was 51 in favor of the bill and 28 against it, Mr. McCarthy pointed out. The united sentiment has been due, he declared, to the very aggressive action of the Pacific coast chambers of commerce and the Chicago Association of Commerce, among with the railroads.

"The fight will be carried into succeeding congresses until favorable action is finally accomplished, he concluded.

Christmas Seals Sale Shows Gain

Announcement of the state-wide sale of Christmas seals last December has been received by Miss Charlotte Pond, county chairman, from the offices of the Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis association. The report gives a total of seals in Twin Falls county totalling $1,249.35 which was 3.4 seals for each person in the county.

The 1925 sale of the little penny greetin' seals reached a $10,477.28, or exceeding last year's sale by $3,012.61. To make possible this sum, 101,732,000 seals had to be sold, and the joy in the success of the sale will be shared by hundreds of workers who, nigh cold and snow, cheerfully sold the Christmas seals in order that they might perform their mission.

Shoshone county, Mrs. A. V. Bowers, chairman, led the state with a per capita of 11 cents, Boundary county, Mrs. Harold McCoy, chairman, was second with 8.7. These two counties have led the state for four years under the same leadership. Power, Kootenai, Lincoln and Ada came next with seven cents per capita. Mrs. Joe Wendlick, Gleans Ferry, led all the towns in the state with a per capita sale. Dubois, Bonneville and Clark counties more than doubled their sales of the previous years. Bannock county made one of the biggest jumps, coming up from thirty-first place to twentieth and making one of the large cash sales, $1,155.29. Other high cash sales were as follows: Ada, $2,464.31; Shoshone, $1,577.06; Kootenai, $1,305.31; and Twin Falls, $1,040.35. Oneida, Franklin and Bear Lake counties always maintain their places well up at the top of the list of counties.

The Power of the Pennies

Ninety-five percent of the money raised through the sale of seals in Idaho in 1926. The increased sale will help the state association to carry its campaign against tuberculosis into every county of the state acquainting the people with the facts about tuberculosis, working to secure care for the victims of this dread disease, building up the health and resistance of all children and teaching them good health habits. Definite health programs are being carried on in twenty-five counties of the state. The little health seals will promote the nursing service, the health crusade, nutrition classes and milk campaigns for the undernourish children, and health camps for those whose frail bodies invite disease.

WOODLOCK TILT STIRS WHEELER

Montana Senator Says Contest Between President and Senate is Mere Horse Trade.

WASHINGTON, March 24. (AP)—The contest between President Coolidge and the senate over the nomination of Thomas R. Woodlock of New York, as a member of the interstate commerce commission has "degenerated into a New England horse trade situation," Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, declared today in the senate.

His assertion was made after he had read a dispatch containing a White House pronouncement yesterday that in selecting members of the commission hereafter the president will consider the south, southwest and Pennsylvania, and the subsequent announcement by Senator Reed, republican, of that state, that having won his fight for recognition of his state, he would join the administration in supporting Woodlock.

Want to Swap Appointments.

Senator Wheeler said he had assumed that senators were not opposing Mr. Woodlock "simply because of the fact that they wanted to make a trade of some kind or a deal with the president of the United States to get some one appointed."

Explaining when he would vote for Woodlock, Senator Reed asserted that he say there was a "political mix-up" or whether aspect which the matter does not disclose."

"I have not consulted the president about it at all," he said.

Conscience Is Clear.

"He publishes his statement. I have taken my position in reply to it, and I do it with a clear conscience. There is not a bargain, there is no deal, there is no promise."

Mr. Reed reiterated that Pennsylvania, despite its great volume of traffic and railroad mileage, never had representation on the interstate commerce commission. Replying to Senator Wheeler, Senator Reed said one important reason why he had opposed Woodlock was that the nominee had come [illegible] over the shippers and rather in favor of the railroads.

IMPRESSIVE TRIBUTE PAID TO MRS. FARRAR

Simple and super-eye tribute was paid by neighbors and friends at funeral services held Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Alice M. Farrar, mother of H. W. Farrar and Miss Minnie Farrar of Twin Falls and of L. O. Farrar of Frankfort, Kansas, and Mrs. J. O. Jones of Minneapolis. Floral offerings covered the casket and were banked high about it. Dr. R. G. Humphrey of the Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the services and vocal solos were sung by Lloyd Patrick with accompaniment played by Mrs. W. A. Patrick.

The body is to be taken, with that of deceased's husband, the late Jonathan Farrar, whose death occurred here about five years ago, to the former home of the family in Frankfort, Kansas. Burial services will be held there on Saturday.

DEPUTIES ACT TO AID BABES

While Committee Considers Finance Plan, Chamber Votes to Abolish Rubber Nipples.

PARIS, March 24. (AP)—The finance committee of the chamber of deputies began its study of Finance Minister Peret's measures for the restoration of the treasury today while the chamber was engaged in the defense of the infants of France from the alleged pernicious effects of rubber nipples.

After hearing an attack by Deputy Pinard, dean of the chamber, on the "nefarious nipples," the deputies voted to abolish rubber nipples throughout France and her colonies within three months. M. Pinard declared the use of the rubber nipples exposed the babies of France to dangers ranging from sitting to poisoning.

France Continues Drop.

Meanwhile the franc continued to decline under the influence of political and financial uncertainty. The lobbies of the chamber were filled with pessimism, and the majority of the deputies were inclined to despair of reaching a solution of the financial problem before the Easter holidays.

There was a revival of talk today of a dissolution of the chamber and new elections as soon as parliament finds time to repeat the electoral law, which provides at present for the proportional representation of all parties within each department.

Politicians Busy.

Meanwhile political activity is centering in the second electoral district of Paris, where a second ballot to elect two deputies will take place Sunday. The socialists, whose candidate was a bad third on the first ballot, have retired in favor of the candidates of the radicals, who finished first and second. The socialists, however, are still active among themselves, their militant leaders supporting the communists, while those of the moderate faction endorse the candidacy for two candidates of the blue national.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Blue Triangle club met for twenty minutes Tuesday morning to discuss the vesper service to be given in the Presbyterian church on the afternoon of Easter Sunday. Eight girls will be ushers, and a choir will be composed of the following: Deon Mahrt, Irene Hurst, Marcella Wynn, Marion Brillsford, Alpha Pierce, Jerome Kovanick, Charlotte Vogel, Marjory Woods, Helen Barnes, Blanche Beckwelter, Noemi Navin, Grace Lemmon, Phyllis Evans, Hazel Grimes, Ila Parks, Ruth Shreve, Dorothy Hedstrom, Patricia Wilson, Harriet Dunlap, Amy Pihl and Ruth Arlander. Proceeds will go to the camp fund.

The April issue of "G. B. Nus", a Girl Reserve paper edited by the girls of the Boise club for distribution throughout the state, will be put out by local members of Blue Triangle. Editor in chief will be Jane Maxwell, assistant editor, Ruth Darling; business manager, Leon Ward; joke editor, Violet Adams; and copy reader, Ruth Taylor. The last issue was especially clever, being a "scandal sheet" with many references to local girls.

Blue Triangle meeting Thursday will be the annual election of officers.

Cast has been chosen for the senior play, Hello, Wilk Out, and rehearsals began Tuesday evening under the direction of Miss Helen Knapp, coach. Personnel of the cast will be changed during the first week in any case where grades do not prove satisfactory, since high grades are a necessary qualification for participation in any school activities. The cast is as follows: Jane Maxwell, Melba Nelson, Corra Jensen, Betty Wilson, Ila Peoris, Jewel Berry, Alex McGinnis, Milas Walters, Walter Slaughter, Keith Evans and Carl Hahn.

Junior high assembly Thursday at one-twenty will be a concert by the junior high orchestra and a talk by F. Douglas Hawley, district scout executive. The musical program under the leadership of Director Ralph Eplesgard will be as follows: march "West Righ" (Zamecnik); overture, "Jolly Bandits" (Zamecnik); violin solo by Audrey Gabbart; "Barcarolle" from "Les Contes" (Hoffman); oriental intermezzo "Salome" (William Lorraine); romance "Tender Thoughts" (Jules Reynalds); coronet solo by

TWO BOYS TO DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR MURDER OF PROFESSOR

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 24. (AP)—Ted Coggeshall, 21 years old, of Clayton, Ill., and Floyd W. McClelland, 20, of Brockton, N. Y., announced themselves ready to die in the electric chair tomorrow for the murder of Professor W. C. Wright, Putnam county school superintendent.

They made the statement after governor Clifford Walker today had refused to commute their sentences, thus concurring in the recommendation of the state prison commission. Coggeshall has been visited during his final hours by his parents and other relatives. None of McClelland's kin have been to see him. Tonight he asked for pencil and paper and penned the following message to his mother in Wattsburg, Pa.

"Dearest Mother: My case has reached its end. The governor refused to give us a life sentence, must die in the electric chair Thursday. So good-bye. —Remember your son died an innocent man and a Christian."

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

The house agriculture committee decided to hold night sessions.

The Gooding long and short haul railroad rate bill was defeated by the senate.

Thomas Walker Page attacked the flexible provisions of the tariff law before a senate investigating committee.

Attorney-general John G. Sargent and Federal Judge George W. English were approved by the house judiciary committee.

WARD COMPANY DENIES CHARGES

Food Products Corporation Files Answer to Government's Petition in Equity.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 24. (AP)—General denial that the Ward Food Products corporation, incorporated under Maryland laws with assumed capitalization of $40,000,000, and alleged to be intended to monopolize baking of other food industries was entered in federal district court here today. Three other corporations and three individual joined with Ward corporation in filing answer to a government petition in equity filed against them last February. The government charged that seven corporations, headed by the newly formed Ward concern, and other individuals with violation of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts in the formation of a "huge combination in the baking industry." The other corporations and individuals named are expected to reply specifically later.

Housewives Bake Half.

An assertion that "half the bread consumed in the United States is produced in the consumers' homes," was cited as making impossible the creation of a monopoly as charged. It was admitted that inventions have effected economies in the industry, but denied that costs to the consumer had been increased despite economies or that saving resulting from economies had been absorbed.

"A sighing smile" put on by the multimillion teachers of 3-A school was the unusual program of junior high school assembly Friday afternoon. Two pupils were chosen as the representatives of each class of the school, making 6 B-1's, 6 B-2's, 6 B-3's, 7-A's and 8-B's. First the individual classes contested. Phyllis Mulliner becoming winner in 7-B division, Mary Frances Holt in 7-A, Harold Reed in 8-B, and Barbara Sanger in 8-A. Then the two winners in several grade tried for first place, Mary Frances Holt being victorious. In a similar eighth grade race, Barbara Sanger won out. Representatives of the two grades held the final contest, with Barbara Sanger winner of the entire meet. Mrs. Ruth Holmes read the problems and Miss Laura Robinson kept score. Miss Helen Busse and Mrs. Lulu Weatherly are the other mathmatics teachers.

Idaho Farmers Will Plant More Wheat

BOISE, March 24.—Idaho farmers are planning to increase their potato acreage 20 per cent, and spring wheat acreage 15 per cent over last year's plantings, according to a survey just completed by the federal department of agriculture. This is not a forecast of planted acreage, but merely indicates what farmers in general had in mind to plant about March 1.

At the same time, farmers throughout the United States expected to plant 2 per cent less spring wheat and 1 per cent more potatoes than in 1925.

In the far western group of states, consisting of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, California, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho, farmers indicated an intention of planting 0 per cent less spring wheat and 14 per cent more potato acreage. It should be remembered that in the spring of 1925 a very large acreage of spring wheat was planted as re-seeding of winter wheat, which had been killed the previous year, especially in Washington, Oregon and Montana. The indicated interest in potato acreage over last year is: 11 per cent in Colorado, 28 per cent in Utah, 10 per cent in Oregon and 10 per cent in Washington. The western states apparently are following the old practice of increasing potato acreage following a season of high prices.

Intended plantings in 1926 in per cent or acreage grown for harvest in 1925 are as follows:

	Idaho	United States
Spring wheat	115	99.8
Corn	100	98.3
Oats	80	98.9
Barley	100	100.8
Potatoes	120	114.0
Hay	99	99.7

Considers Power Back of Universe

Discussing "The Power Behind the Universe," in one of a series of Lenten sermons in the Methodist Episcopal church here Wednesday evening, Dr. C. E. Powell of Spokane suggested that in the light of modern knowledge of the universe the sublime conception expressed by the Jewish prophets gain a new richness and meaning.

Dr. Powell is to speak this evening on "The Miracle Within the Universe."

Considering first the vastness of the universe in his sermon Wednesday evening, Dr. Powell said:

"There are those for whom Christianity seems an impertinent exaggeration of man's place in nature, a delusion inconsistent with the size and majesty of the universe, with the revelations of astronomy and biology, and with the facts of cruelty and struggle apparent in the unfolding process.

"Jews no doubt thought of God as His Father, and impressed His disciples with the possibility of belief; can we, in view of the astronomy and geology, the chemistry and physiology, the anthropology and psychology of today, share His optimism and His hope?

"We cannot deny that since Galileo's discovery of the telescope and his first primitive application of it to the study of the heavens, our concept of the universe has undergone a very radical change, but it has been a change wholly in one direction—towards a vastly increased scene, of the majesty, the complexity, and the almost inconceivable grandeur of the universe.

"Do we not feel that, sublime as the expressions of the Jewish prophets are, they gain a new richness and meaning from our modern knowledge of the universe? What was true of the small scale universe is even truer of the greater.

"Wherever we turn in the Old Testament the peculiar fusion of holiness and power in the person of the Deity confront us. It is as though the Jews, at all the highest levels in their spiritual experience, were unable to think of that spirit from the love of manifest purity.

"The fatal disease of our day is the disparity we see in ourselves between right and power. The moral [illegible] makes [illegible] Christ is [illegible] vision of love. Love is the test and touchstone of humanity. Romance is rooted in the awe and reverence of love. Romance in our time is dead, for we have lost that austere reverence and that magnanimous awe."

EXCURSIONISTS TO BE GUESTS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Business Men of Northern California Metropolis to Greet Idahoans at Luncheon Meeting.

Twin Falls county citizens on a trade excursion to Nevada and California centers leaving here at 6:30 o'clock Friday morning, will be guests at luncheon for several hundred business men in San Francisco Monday noon, according to telegram received Wednesday by Asher B. Wilson, president of Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, from Robert Newton Lynch, vice president of the San Francisco chamber.

Detailed plans for the reception and entertainment of the Idaho excursionists in San Francisco are being worked out by the San Francisco chamber directors, Mr. Lynch advised.

The excursionists will make the first leg of their trip over the Twin Falls-Rogerson line in a special train furnished by the Oregon Short Line, and will board a Southern Pacific train at Wells where they will be joined by D. S. Spencer, Oregon Short Line general passenger agent, who will accompany them on the remainder of the trip. Stops are scheduled to be made in Reno, Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

In Los Angeles on Wednesday of next week the Twin Falls excursionists will join forces with members of an Idaho excursion for which arrangements have been made by Governor C. C. Moore of Idaho in cooperation with the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

The schedule provides for an over night stop in Salt Lake on the return trip.

PUPILS OF WASHINGTON SCHOOL TO STAGE PLAY

A play, "Ten Minutes by the Clock," will be given by pupils of the Washington school under direction of Mrs. H. C. Reynolds as a feature event in connection with a meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Washington school to be held Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Those taking part in the play are Clara May Bowles, Margaret Reynolds, Wallace Cooper, Margaret McCully, Janet Felt, Dale Smith, Grove Wiley, Donald Patrick and Victor Goertzner.

Teachers of the school will hold open house in their class rooms until 8:15 o'clock to confer with parents. Pupils work will be on display. Following a brief business session and a solo by Wilton Peck, the play will be staged.

JURY AWARDS DAMAGES

Verdict awarding judgment for $262 to D. T. S. Bryant from Roy Hill on claims for personal injury damages was returned by a jury in district court here Wednesday. At a former trial in the case the jury had failed to reach an agreement on a verdict.

Bryant sued for $1000, alleging that sudden starting of a threshing machine owned and operated by Hill last fall, had caused his team to become frightened so that he was thrown to the ground and injured. Bryant was working as a member of the threshing crew, hauling beans to the machine. He was represented in trial of the case by J. W. Porter of Porter and Witham.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Pythian Sisters will hold their regular temple meeting Friday evening, March 26, at 7:30 in the I. O. O. F. hall. There will be initiation and all officers and members of the staff are requested to wear white. Eats will be served.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet in the church parlors Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. C. D. Weaver as program leader and Mrs. W. M. Fisher as hostess.

The Brotherhood of American Yeoman will meet Friday night at 7:30 at the Business Women's club rooms. There will be initiation and all officers are requested to be present. There will be a social after the meeting and refreshments will be served. All Yeoman and their friends are invited.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Edited by Mrs. H. B. Williams Phone 396

A most delightful meeting was enjoyed Wednesday, when twenty-one members of the M. S. and S. club and three guests, Mesdames P. T. Kellogg, H. C. Maguire and J. D. Whelan, came to spend a pleasant afternoon at the hospitable home of Mrs. W. S. Parish. The meeting opened with the singing of "America" and "America, the Beautiful." After a short business session, with the president, Mrs. Charles Eldred in the chair, the meeting was turned over to the program committee with Mrs. C. B. Lindsey in charge. The subject was "Indian Day," and two splendid papers with Indian affairs and citizenship as the keynote were given. Mrs. Arthur Eldred read an article by W. S. Hart, entitled "A Red Letter Day for Red Americans." Mrs. H. C. Maguire sang two pleasing solos, "Pale Moon" and "The Weavers." Mrs. J. D. Whelan gave an interesting talk on Americanization work being carried on in Twin Falls. A clever guessing contest, naming flowers from magazine pictures was a feature, with Mesdames Mary Hamilton and Edith Galloway as lucky contestants, the prizes being corsages of sweet peas. In behalf of one of the loyal members who is leaving soon to live in California, the club, through the courtesy of Mrs. Eldred, presented Mrs. H. B. Conenanon with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostess with Mrs. Mary Sherman and Mrs. Josephine Mentch assisting. The next meeting of the club will be election of officers and members having new resolutions to present are requested to telephone Mrs. C. Shipman.

The Addison Avenue Social club met Wednesday, March 24, with Mrs. T. M. Duerig. Nine members responded to roll call. The club had as guests Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Duerig Jr. The afternoon was spent with sewing and music. Two duets were given by Mrs. W. O. Smith and Mrs. R. O. Kuykendall. The hostess served delicious refreshments at the close of the afternoon. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. R. O. Kuykendall.

Mrs. Oscar C. Allen entertained with a charming bridge luncheon Tuesday at her home on Eleventh avenue east, complimentary to Mrs. Harry F. Allen. Places were marked for nine including the hostess and honored guests, at one table centered with a large bowl of jonquils, with place cards in the same design. Favor for score was won by Mrs. Leonard Smith, and Mrs. Allen was presented with a dainty gift.

Mrs. H. A. Brizee and Mrs. Henry N. Champlin entertained with a lovely one o'clock luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Brizee on Third avenue west. The guests were seated at small tables centered with calendulas, yellow nut cups, novelty favors and tallies decorated in yellow served to form exceptionally attractive tables where the delectable two course luncheon was served. In the bridge games following favor for high score was won by Mrs. Kenyon Green, and consolation by Mrs. Leland Brizee. The guest list included Mesdames B. L. Price, James R. Bothwell, C. E. Jones, P. J. Costello, T. J. Foster, Glenn Jenkins, C. E. Lind, Glenn Blue, W. Orr Chapman, H. B. Johnson, Kenyon Green, Sherman Little, W. H. Burkholder, H. O. Milner, Leland Brizee, Carl Benson, Frank Hovorka, Fred Harder, Alvin Casey and Charles Casey.

Mrs. L. T. Wright was hostess to the Wednesday Bridge club this week. Sixteen members were present and the club favor was won by Mrs. W. I. McFarland.

Mrs. C. D. Thomas entertained the Breakfast club Wednesday at her home on Seventh avenue north. Covers were laid for nine at one table centered with pink and lavender sweet peas, the same dainty hues being carried out in the candy cups and other table appointments. In the bridge games which are the diversion favor for score was awarded Mrs. H. O. Milner.

Mrs. McLean was hostess to the Women's Progressive club Wednesday. Seventeen members answered roll call with current events. The usual business was transacted and a social hour following during which the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Hafer, served dainty refreshments featuring the Easter motif. The club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Carl Jungst on April 14.

Members of the Wimodausi club were entertained with a one-thirty luncheon at the home of Mrs. W. A. Babcock, with Mrs. S. H. Kaylor joint hostess, on Wednesday. Yellow and white flowers in vases and bowls decorated the rooms and the tables were centered with jonquils. The color scheme of white and yellow predominated in the delicious two-course luncheon. The afternoon was spent socially.

THE GENEVA FAILURE

The failure of the recent League of Nations meeting at Geneva is almost as disappointing to America as to Europe. Americans have hoped that the Old World would derive real benefits from the League, and that American would share indirectly in those benefits. American co-operation with the League has been based on that view.

The deadlock in the League Council over the admittance of Germany is disheartening not so much because of the failure of a program as because of the spirit engendered. There was little of Locarno in Geneva this month.

It looks as if Europe is dividing again into two camps, seeking to establish a balance of power within the League as they did before without any league. The Latins flock together against the British, Germans and Scandinavians. There is menace in this racial grouping, aside from the nationalistic bitterness developed.

Especially unfortunate, from the American viewpoint, is the effect on disarmament. The European powers will not want to disarm as long as they are at swords' points politically, in Geneva conferences. The American disarmament program is halted. There is no use building an other conference, to consider limitation of armies and air fleets, until the nations are in a different mood.

The situation, however, may not be so black as it now seems. It is possible that the quarrelling diplomats at Geneva have represented themselves rather than their nations. The common people at home may be heard from in a way that will compel an amicable settlement when the League Council meets again to consider German membership next September.

If the people who bore the brunt of the great war have a genuine will for peace and a voice to express it, this is the time.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S SONGS

Equality between the sexes should not extend to singers' programs. So declares Reinald Werrenrath, famous American baritone. He admits it is a matter of individual opinion on the part of the artist, although he himself feels strongly on the matter.

"I don't sing a woman's song; I won't even sing a song if the text is not such as would naturally come from a man's mouth. And I don't want to hear women, however great they may be as interpreters, sing the 'Erlkonig' or any other song, traditional or otherwise, that suggests strongly the male spirit."

He sees no reason why men should sing lullabies—on the concert stage, at least; he probably does not dictate a father's choice of songs at home. And he sees no reason why a woman should sing swashbuckling sea songs or drinking songs or the love songs of a masculine suitor to a fair maiden.

Mr. Werrenrath undoubtedly will find many persons to agree with him about this when they stop to think it over. Ordinarily, however, if the songs themselves be beautiful, if the singer has a pleasing voice and interprets with dramatic and artistic skill, the listeners are satisfied.

FOOLISH HURRY

Reckless drivers may learn something from this unusual test recently made in a big, busy community to prove what almost every driver knows by ignoring traffic rules and common sense.

The route covered was five miles long, through the heart of the city's congested territory nearly all the way. There were two cars used, one of them equipped with police siren to help it get away with the program planned.

The driver of this car used every device known to get through traffic in the shortest possible time, regardless of consequence. He sped on beyond the legal limit, cut corners, smoked past stopping street cars, disregarded "boulevard stop" signs, ignored crossing signals several times, passed in and out of traffic, passed other cars on either side, cut through safety zones, passed schoolhouses without slowing down, etc. And when he finally reached his goal, and mopped his brow and lit a cigaret to soothe his frazzled nerves, to his amazement along came the second car, only 2 1-4 minutes behind him, after following exactly the same route without breaking a single traffic rule or taking one reckless chance.

Was it worth while to save those 2 1-4 minutes in five miles? We ask you.

CASTLEFORD CLUBWOMEN ARRANGE FOR GUEST DAY

CASTLEFORD, March 24.—On Thursday afternoon the Everywoman's club will hold a Guest Day at which time they plan to entertain members of the federated clubs of the county. Miss Esther M. Kahle of the extension division of the state university, and Mrs. Bureeraus of Burley, former president of the district federation, will be the speakers of the afternoon. Mrs. Rutherford, who is chairman, has also arranged musical numbers. The meeting is called for two o'clock and will be held in the high school auditorium.

K. E. Selby has begun work on the senior play "Are You a Mason" which he hopes to present in about six weeks.

The masquerade dance given by the Castleford grange was a big success and many interesting costumes were worn. Judges composed of Howard Harrow, Mrs. Hilliard and Earl Lillibridge awarded first prize for the lady to Miss Vera Chelline, and second to Mrs. Jack Downey. Miss Chelline represented Miss America and Mrs. Downey a witch. First gentlemen's prize went to Earl Hudson, who was a hobo, and second to Mr. Orr, a sailor.

The high school has organized a basketball team with fifteen members. Coach Selby is arranging with other schools for a schedule of games.

Mrs. C. J. Miller, who has been a patient at the Twin Falls hospital for several weeks is to return to her home Tuesday.

A Guild organization has been formed of the girls of the Baptist church with the following officers, Emma Smith, president; Eunice Derrey, vice president; Bessie Todd, secretary; Ruby Lewellen, treasurer, and Mrs. S. A. Babb, guardian.

Mrs. E. H. Harding entertained the Wednesday afternoon card club at her home on St. Patrick's day. Irish motifs were used for decorations, and on each card table was an illustration of something pertaining to Ireland. Guests and members included Mesdames Quigley, Bennett, G. F. Thomas, Vogel, John Thomas, Margaret Thomas, C. C. Davis, Rutherford, Ringert, C. E. Ward, Irving Ward, Patten, Young, Spike. High score was won by Mrs. G. F. Thomas and a little wheelbarrow of spuds for consolation went to Mrs. Ringert.

On Thursday afternoon the Baptist Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. I. N. King with a good attendance. It was decided that during the spring and summer months the aid should meet only once a month.—Mrs. Sam. Roberts will be hostess to the aid at their next meeting.

The executive board of the P. T. A. announces the following stand committees for the organization: Membership, Mesdames Glunder, Sheelhouse, C. C. Ward and Miss Julia Howell; program, Mrs. Howard Darrow, K. E. Selby and Frank Keenan; publicity, Miss Margaret Bernard, Miss E. N. Derrington and Ed Logan; social Miss Wilson Nob, Mrs. E. C. Davis and Guy Putman.

CHINESE GOES TO DEATH ON SCAFFOLD IN ENGLAND

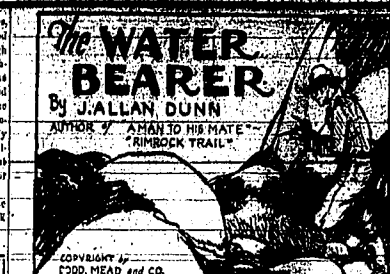
(AP)—An execution took place here yesterday the like of which is known in British crime. An unmarried Chinese, Lock-Ah-Tam, went to the gallows for the killing of his wife and beautiful daughters, and it seemed as if the mounting for this fate was as great as that for those he had killed.

Lock-Ah-Tam was known as "the beloved murderer," and the reason for his crime remains a mystery, for he had surrounded his family with every luxury, and showered every token of affection upon them.



"That is true. We own a certain number of artesian wells around the lower end of the bay but they are only a drop in the bucket. The outlook is not very encouraging."

"How about across the bay?" Caleb put the query with a degree of nervousness. He feared that Hinckley was about to uncover his own precious theory and demolish it.

The engineer's eyes twinkled.

"They say that water, like gold, is where you find it. And findings—keepings! There is water over there that ethically belongs to Oakville. Our company naturally considers Golden more important. But it is difficult of development. Means large expenditure. We should have a hard job to get water rates raised sufficiently to warrant it. Filtration is the big trouble. The work would be elaborate and expensive. We can't see our way clear."

Caleb kept his face clear of everything but earnest attention. But he was breathing more easily. His theory was still virgin.

Hinckley proceeded to go into the present filtration system and the layout of the conduits that supplied the hydrants of Golden. Caleb's interest in Crystal Lakes had been satisfied but he followed technical detail with intelligent comment and left the road-neer at last on terms that were more than merely friendly. He reached Golden after the stores were closed for the day but, early the next morning he obtained geodetic section maps of the quadrangles covering Caliente valley and the Gabilan range. He put in most of the day studying these and making little drawings to scale in vertical plane.

It was all in support of a mere theory but it was his habit to be painstaking, even in preliminaries, and he surveyed his sketches with a good deal of satisfaction. If the theory panned out it meant, not merely money and fame if he handled his discovery properly, but it would make him, Caleb Warner, an actual factor in pioneering in city building. He quoted to himself what Betty Clinton had said at El Nido.

"That is what I should prefer, if I was a man. To create something, to be a water-bearer to the thirsty earth or to thirsty people."

Baxter, coming in, broke through his reverie.

"You look like a latter-day prophet seeing visions," said Baxter. "What's the big idea?"

"Just a hunch, so far, Ted. I'm going across the bay tomorrow, prospecting."

The other looked at him oddly.

"Expect to uncover a gold-mine at El Nido? Beware of the sirens who lie behind the rocks! As I remember her, that day at the dog show, the Clinton girl was a looker. Beware!"

"I'm not looking for that kind of a mine, Ted. And I hadn't thought of going to El Nido this trip. You seem fairly happy yourself."

"I am. I've heard from my partie in the land deal. They'll be out in a few weeks. Probably some time next month. Thereby greatly relieving the general situation. Now it's up to me to extend in the Orient. Formality or finding the land to please them. I wonder if there's anything across the bay? I must look up my notes. Want me to come along with you, Cal? I wonder if the El Nido valley is for sale?"

He glanced mockingly at Caleb and laughed.

"Old Chief Wonder Face, aren't you? Don't worry. I won't butt in to poach on your preserves. Give my regards to Miss Clinton. She may vaguely remember me. I was introduced to her at the Show. But, remember my warning. Stones like you, when they fall, fall hard!"

CHAPTER VI

The Diviner

Caleb caught an early ferry for the six-mile water trip across the bay from Golden to Oakville. At Oakville he took a local train that paralleled the shore of the lower bay for a time before striking west through Gayota canyon, the natural gateway through the hills for the overland trains. As he had done on Hermanos creek, Caleb noted flood signs. When he gave himself up to studying his sketches, covering the region he was going to prospect, going over them while the train tugged up the canyon until he knew them by heart.

He left the train at the same station he had used on his previous trip, buying some fruit to serve as luncheon before he crossed the bridge and started up Hermanos. He had brought along rod and creel, more as a mask to his real intentions than from any idea of fishing.

The sandy bed ran in a deep channel gouged out by floods. He examined the sides and found them all of gravel. A wagon road that had followed the creek up from the railroad turned off to wind behind a low ridge. It was deep-rutted and Caleb traced it. He found that it ended at a gravel pit, dug into the side of the ridge, used probably for roadmaking purposes. The pit had been bitten out in the shape of a horseshoe and, standing where one of the cusps would come, he saw a dilapidated shed from the roof of which smoke was rising through a rusty stove pipe. A man, leaning against the open door, surveyed him curiously.

Caleb nodded to him as he walked over to the shack, crunching through the gravel. The man was lank and tall, stooped of shoulder and constricted of chest. A hooked nose stuck out from between eyes that glittered unhumanly, lying in the shadow of his shirt collar.

As he rested against the door jamb a fit of coughing shook him and he shook with it like a reed in the wind. He was so helpless in the grip of the attack that Caleb hurried to support him, thinking him about to fall.

But the violent efforts ceased and the man fumbled, smiling wanly, with a gray handkerchief set to his lips. Caleb caught sight of telltale flecks of bright-red blood quickly folded into the rag. The cough was from the lungs, the man tubercular.

"It's all right, stranger," said the man. "I've had a right worse. I'm getting it baked out of me here. Lungs ached but they're healin'. Fixin', are you? Better work up to the canyon yonder. No use wastin' more time down here. Folly the road below the pit an' then trail the crick. It's tough goin', Silla's chokin', what little they is of it."

"Mostly gravel underneath, to judge by the pit," Caleb answered. "Thanks for the tip, I have a claim."

The man took it wolfishly and bit off the end.

Caleb gave him a match.

"I thought that perhaps you owned the gravel pit."

"Me. I don't own nothin', 'Cept this cough, and I'm willin' to get shet of that. Mine's a charity job. It's good gravel an' I sell makes it handy to git at. I can't work at my trade no longer. It takes it out of me, you see."

Caleb didn't see. The glitter in the man's eyes was not so much that of fever as of the spirit, he decided. He fancied him a little demented, by way of being a crank or a fanatic.

"I'm glad the land's worth something," he said. "It doesn't look like it."

The man shot over a quick, burning look.

"That's to them as looks only on the surface," he said.

"What do you mean?"

The man led the way into the shack. From the two-by-fours that supported the corrugated iron roof hung some leathern pouches. Some were old and dried. And ah, gore forbid—

"Know what those are?" asked the man. "Them's divinin' rods. I'm a diviner. A water-finder. That's my trade. It's the power within me that goes out an' leaves me weak. Too weak to work at it. Each job means another nail in the lid of my coffin. Mebbe you're one of them that laugh at it?" he demanded fiercely. "But there's many in the upper valley as has blessed me when I showed 'em where to bore."

The thing seemed uncanny. Yet, somehow, it fitted in. The hunch stirred in his brain. To Caleb, under the spell of his vision, it seemed predestined that he, the Water-Bearer, should meet this Water-Finder to confirm his hope, a living signpost that he was on the track.

He knew that within the year the French Academy of Sciences had accepted the demonstration of a number of scientifically controlled cases where the "water-divining rod" had proved beyond a doubt that certain persons were gifted with the power to discover subterranean springs and reservoirs. Scientists did not attempt to explain the mystery, but accepted the phenomenon and were making it the subject of expert research to discover the natural causes.

"I have known many cases back in the East, where I come from," Caleb said, "where water has been found by the use of the rod."

The man was instantly mollified.

"Ah," he said. "It's all true. I ain't quite human, mebbe. It's a gift, the power. Like a medium's. Supernatural. The spirits talk to me about it sometimes. I'd like to show ye, but it is too wet. But you can take my word for it—Jesse David Evans—the Welsh Water-Finder, what's discovered a score of wells north of Coyotacrick; that there's water all under here—under this gravel."

"But it ain't no good," he said, suddenly disconsolate. "'Cause why? What's the good of water 'less you can use it? The silo here ain't thick enough to put down a pure pipestraight. It wouldn't screw a radish. An' the wells wouldn't be artesian. They'd have to have windmills to work 'em. And, as I said, they ain't no silo. Seems like a plumb bit of foolishness to put water where it ain't no manner o' use, don't it?"

"Have another cigar," said Caleb. "Where do you suppose all the water comes from?"

The Welshman looked at him pityingly.

"You fish that stream an' you'll see. This is Caliente sink. The stream runs into it like dishwater goes down the drain. Wish you luck, mister. An' thanks for the smokes. Some day, if you come this way, an' I'm feelin' better, I'll give you a demonstration. I'll be glad to see you any time. Kinder lonesome here in this oven, but it's baking me back to health."

Caleb went on upstream in a maze. It seemed, though his Yankee mind affected to scoff at the suggestion while it considered it, as if he had come into close touch with mystery. He fingered the emblem on his seal and smiled. Had the sign of the zodiac, Aquarius, really charged him with destiny; leading him along the trail to be the Water-Bearer to the frontier city of the sands?

Half a mile up the canyon from where the gravel road branched off, an arroyo entered from the east through a bench that was thickly furred with underbrush of desert species. Only a trickle of water was in the almost dry watercourse, barely hinting to might when freshets rave.

The place was wild enough, and at rest. A rough road close either bank at random, fording the creek at frequent intervals. He found stones to keep his feet dry as he crossed.

Up the road he began to come across evidences of an abandoned ranch-cherin. There was little left but the roots and a scattering of tentative tendrils, scantily leaved. He passed a deserted mission, a tenantless shed without a roof, a leaking flume, a tumbledown wall of stone, and then he became aware that he was walking through what had been once a garden, a stately garden, still with a certain dignity.

The garden had attracted him unconsciously and he had left the bulldozer road and, not-so heedful as to it but wandered on to the house that rose above the cypress guard. Caleb's footsteps rang hollowly as he passed over the flags and glanced in through where a door had fallen as warder. He was beginning to people the place with such ghosts as he imagined should present the former occupants when he heard the high, clear sound of laughter at the very instant that his nostrils conveyed to his nerves of smell, thence to palate and to stomach—so that his mouth watered—and his appetite proclaimed itself with no uncertainty—the smell of broiling bacon.

His hope of something from a ranch larder, a glass of milk, a piece of cake or pie. If nothing more substantial, had died with sight of the deserted house. The tracks he had been trailing must lead too far for him to follow uncertainly. And now he had abandoned on to a picnic—a California picnic, which promises a barbecue.

Caleb's stomach yearned, rose in revolt against his manners and so far won that he ventured to the outer door of the arch and peered through.

The laughter had ended but he could hear the clatter of young voices, men and women, hidden somewhere down by the stream that had wheeled to flow in front of the old house and sparkled through the interstices of a tall, thick mantle of wild grape, flung over the arms of the trees.

Hansen Senior Class Entertains

HANSEN, March 24.—The church basement was the scene of a merry carnival staged by the seniors of the high school Friday evening. The fortune-tellers, phrenologists, etc., were much in evidence and helped make an enjoyable evening for all present. From the sales of the different booths which were conducted, a neat sum was realized for the class.

The Rev. H. G. McAlister and wife came over from Gooding Sunday morning to conduct the services here. Mr. McAlister preached a thoughtful sermon on the topic of naturalization. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett during the remainder of the day.

The choir of the Community church church, under the leadership of Charles Calvert, are rehearsing for an Easter cantata which will be given on Sunday morning, April 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dark and Miss Lillian Nelson were Eden visitors Wednesday. The two latter will assist with the musical part of the operetta "Princess Chrysanthemum" which will be given at Eden on Friday evening of this week.

Miss Elsie Scherrup spent Saturday night and Sunday at Buhl, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Brown and family.

Harry Bean and Charlie Kling of Rupert spent the last of the week in Hansen.

Mrs. Kelly LaCourse has been a sufferer the past week with abscesses in her head.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith and little daughter of Twin Falls were guests of Mrs. Clyde Hughes Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. E. Bates went to Salt Lake Saturday to get her daughter, Luella, who has spent the winter with an aunt in California. They returned home on Monday noon's train.

Ida Klingman, who is now employed at the county hospital, visited over the week-end with her parents here.

A number of pupils of the seventh and eighth grade are suffering from attacks of mumps and are forced to remain out of school this week. They are: Charles and Henry Croiner, Opal and Howard Johnson, Bernice Hill and Clarence Eaton.

Mrs. Warren—Anderson—entertained the Misses Marie and Lillian Nelson and Mrs. Geyer McVey at a six o'clock dinner at her country home Friday evening.

Mrs. Holman, a casual missionary of the Nazarene church, has taken up his residence in town for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Bubout, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bubout, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Gentry and Miss Zelma Bubout, all of Boise spent Sunday and Sunday evening with Mrs. V. B. Blakeley.

J. B. Lewis has been confined to his home the past week with an attack of the flu.

John Rigney is building on an addition to his residence in the south part of town.

The Women's Council will meet this week at the church and each member will answer to roll call with a quotation on "Smiles."

The Hansen Mercantile store is undergoing a complete change in arrangement and is being enlarged by the removal of partitions. The work is being done by Frank Brewer and Locke Kelly. Mr. Schaefer expects to rearrange and enlarge his stock to make a much more commodious store.

RHEUMATISM

Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatism Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenru, the one conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without a murmur.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and hitcons and where the patient was helpless.

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Twin Falls druggists are my appointed agents in your city. If you live out of town I'll gladly send you free particulars.—Adv.

LIKES TO MEET OTHERS AND TALK ABOUT KARNAK

Great Medicine Rid Him Of After Effects Of Flu And Made Him Feel Like A 'Million,' Says Denver Citizen.

"I don't guess there's anybody in Denver that hasn't heard about Karnak by this time, but this medicine just lifted me up as the wheel Irwin said that condition that I just like to talk about the medicine every chance I get," says William Andrews, of 4753 Bryant St., Denver.

"Over six, I just like to meet up with people who have taken this medicine like I have and swap experiences with them about it," continues Mr. Andrews. "About three years ago I had one of the flu that left me run down, short-tempered and my entire system out of gear.

"I felt tired and tuckered out all the time, couldn't get any strength from what little I ate, and had headaches and dizzy spells, and was so nervous I couldn't get a restful night's sleep. I tell you it was an effort for me to pull through a day's work. Then, a few months ago, I had another attack of the flu, and some pains in the back of my head and neck started in me getting sick.

"Now, at last, I've started using Karnak. Pills run ridden by side and have no equal. Why, they soon got right down to the root of my troubles, and put me in the right of condition. You just ought to see me out now, and, man, I feel like a million! All of those bad after effects of the flu are gone, and I'm just brimful of new life and energy. You only just tell 'em to see me about Karnak."

Karnak is sold in Twin Falls exclusively by Schramm-Johnson Drug Co., and is a splendid tonic-building medicine every town.—Adv.

FASCISTS SCORE AT TRIAL OF 5

Men Accused of Slaying Mussolini's Arch-Enemy Virtually Freed by Italian Jury.

CHIETI, Italy, March 24 (AP)—The fascist regime, won a crushing victory tonight over its opponents, when five men accused of having kidnapped and slain Premier Mussolini's arch-enemy, the socialist deputy Giacomo Matteotti, virtually escaped punishment at the end of the trial before a jury in the court of assizes. All but one subordinate plea submitted by the defense were upheld, while all the pleas of the prosecution were rejected.

Ringleader Gets Term.

The jury acquitted two of the men, outright, while the confessed ringleader, Amerigo Dumini, and Albino Volpi and Amelato Proveromo were sentenced to imprisonment for 5 years, 11 months and 20 days each. The sentences will be reduced as to actual further jail service to less than three months since Judge Danza deducted from the sentence four years on account of the king's amnesty last year, and the period already served since the men were arrested in 1924.

Those found guilty are prohibited forever from holding public office and must pay the expenses of the court. They also are deprived of all legal rights during their period of imprisonment.

SOVIET WAGES WAR ON SMUGGLERS IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, March 24 (AP)—The soviet government has declared war on smugglers, who according to government estimates, brought goods worth $15,000,000 into Russia last year, or one-tenth of the entire imports of the soviet union.

A new regulation provides that each resident of Russia hereafter may receive only one package a year by parcel post from abroad, and that the contents of the package must be guaranteed to hold solely for the use of the receiver. The government also has increased the duties on certain articles five and ten fold, so that a pair of women's shoes now are taxed $25 instead of $5; cosmetics $18 a pound instead of $1.80, and felt hats $10 each instead of $1.25.

AMSTERDAM TEACHER ILL

AMSTERDAM, March 24. — Miss Julia Kunkel is teaching this week for Mrs. F. R. White, who is in Twin Falls, suffering from influenza aftermaths.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Reed are now located on their property in this vicinity and are busy preparing the soil for seeding.

Mrs. John Caldwell and Katherine returned on Friday from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Colorado points.

A. E. Kunkel met Attorney Wright from Seattle in Twin Falls on Sunday. Mr. Wright came out into this vicinity to look after Salmon land interests of Mrs. Harrington, who lived here several years ago.

Dale Skinner returned to Boise to resume his work at a business college after spending a week with his father and family.

Miss Gladys Caldwell is visiting friends in the vicinity of Richfield.

Mrs. Emma Kuhns is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. John Farmer.

Sight Not at Best Before Age of Six

A child does not attain his keenest eyesight until he is six years old or more. Small objects are not so well seen, the parts of the brain devoted to vision being incompletely developed.

This is the statement of Dr. Edward Jackson, Denver specialist, who writes for Hygeia, popular health magazine published by the American Medical association, in an article on "The Baby's Eyes."

Abundant reason exists for using large type in primers, says Doctor Jackson. Fine stitching, beadwork and similar exercises, such as are sometimes expected of young children in kindergarten, may be quite harmful. Even when the object looked at is not small the young child must not be expected to look at it long at a time, but should be encouraged to turn the eyes away frequently to rest them. To "keep the eyes on the book" at times when they are tired does not help the child to learn and may be harmful.

Because they can hold things close to their eyes and still see them, and because they need larger images of what they look at to make up for the incomplete development of the eye, young children are liable to acquire the habit of holding things too near their eyes. As they grow older this should be corrected by encouraging them to try to see things at longer distances. Many children starting to school have eyestrain, or even inflammation about the eyes, merely because they hold their books too close to their eyes.

At the Theatres

COLOR ADDS TO CHARM OF NEW MIX PICTURE

Tom Mix in "The Yankee Senor" will be the attraction at the Orpheum theatre today, Friday and Saturday. This is the screen version of "Conquistador," the famous novel by Katherine Fullerton Gerould, and many of the scenes are in Technicolor.

"The Yankee Senor" is a colorful story of Old Mexico and affords Mix a wonderful opportunity for some splendid action. Many of the patio scenes are strikingly beautiful. There are numerous close-up shots of Mix and other members of the company.

The cast includes the vivacious Olive Borden, Margaret Livingston, Kathryn Hill, Martha Mattox, Francis McDonald, Alec Francis and others. Beautiful wildflower sequences were filmed in Wyoming. The Spanish hacienda scenes were laid in Southern California.

Tony has his usual high moments—and his master does a tango with Margaret Livingston.

This is one of the most romantic pictures in which the western star has appeared during his long association with the William Fox organization.

BRILLIANT CAST FEATURES "SONG AND DANCE MAN"

If the term "all star" were not so often misused and abused, so that it has practically lost its pristine glory, it would be a temptation to apply it to the notable cast of screen and stage players Director Herbert Brenon has assembled for the proper interpretation of "The Song and Dance Man," the cinma version of George M. Cohan's distinguished Broadway comedy success now showing at the Idaho theatre.

Tom Moore, whose Irish smile and finished acting have won him an enviable following, portrays the title role of "Happy" Farrell, the generous, egotistical vaudevillian, whose trials, tribulations and triumphs provide most of the pathos and humor in this sentimental story of backstage life. This is the role made famous by Mr. Cohan in the stage version.

Bessie Love, the diminutive film favorite and the screen's foremost exponent of the "Charleston," is happily cast as the small time performer who eventually wins fame and fortune in the musical comedy field.

Harrison Ford, popular leading man, is the third featured member of the cast, as the likeable and wealthy artist who falls in love with Miss Love.

TAYLOR PLAYERS PRESENT STORY OF SMUGGLERS GANG

Since the days of prohibition the smuggling of liquor has proven a lure for many of the dishonest characters along our borders and not only is liquor smuggled but narcotics, and even Chinese in defiance of our immigration laws. Often organized bands have been formed with clever crooks at their heads, who often pass as honored citizens in their respective communities.

The islands scattered throughout the Gulf of Mexico offer exceptional advantages as a base of operations for these gangs of smugglers and Edmund Paul has written a descriptive and interesting play with all the action taking place on one of these islands, with the appealing title of "Mystic Island," which is to be presented by the Taylor Players at the Lavering theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The characters of this play are finely drawn and are typical of the locality, Miss Jean Rose has a sympathetic role and gives an excellent portrayal of the part. Glen Taylor appears in one of his famous "Toby" characters and it easily is one of the most humorous he has so far given, since this popular company has been playing here. In fact every member of the cast appears to advantage.

The play brings out the strength of mother love, with humor and pathos alternating to produce the correct amount of light and shade necessary for the successful play and will, without doubt, prove a wonderful evening's entertainment.

Mrs. Colvert and daughter, Gladys, motored to Boise Saturday to see the Buhl-Meridian game.

Billy Lou, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Van Riper, celebrated her fourth birthday Thursday when twelve little friends were invited to her birthday party. Decorations of the table outlined by a big white birthday cake were in yellow and white.

The Shamrock club met at the home of Mrs. T. W. Porter on St. Patrick's day honoring the hostess on her anniversary as well as the patron Saint of Ireland. The guest of honor received two beautifully decorated cakes and a wealth of cut flowers and plants. Irish songs and stories were given during the social hour.

The annual breakfast of the senior class was held at the Royal cafe at 7 a. m. last Wednesday. Fifty-four guests were seated at one long table, artistically decorated in the class colors, gold and blue. Coronations of the two colors tied with bows of tulle centered the table and emblems of Ireland were scattered the length of the table. Lawrence Peek was toastmaster. Grace Aldrich responded to the subject, "Mashed Spuds," Ed Joyce talked on "Irish," Norine Bartley on "Killarney," and John Quist spoke on "Erin." Other classmen responded to calls for Irish jokes. Class yells finished the 'feed' and were resumed at the school building. Superintendent M. M. Van Patten, Mrs. Rose Wilson and H. W. Barry, class advisors, were guests of the class at breakfast. The committee in charge were Nadine Tillery, Marcia Beerman, Grace Aldrich, Ernest Eustis and Henry Lacey.

Women Secure

against lost charm, this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem—offers true protection; discards like tissue

SHEER gowns and ill-timed social or business demands hold no terror for the modern woman. The insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

Alimony Dodging Proves Puzzling Theme for Court

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 24 (AP)—If a man would rather "rot in jail" than pay for the support of two children of his divorced wife, what can the law do?

"That is the question Justice of the Peace H. K. King will have a chance to decide soon when George H. Blazer is taken into court from jail where he has been since last fall when his wife was granted a divorce and $35 a month for the children's support.

Declaring he would "rot in jail" before he would pay the money, Blazer went to a cell when the first monthly payment fell due and has remained there since.

Deciding to press suit for the money, Mrs. Blazer took the case to the justice of peace court to determine whether she can collect, or whether she can't and whether or not Blazer can board with the county indefinitely. Ira S. Moyer recently spent a year and three days in the El Paso county jail as the result of a similar case, but finally weakened, paid up $800 back alimony, made a property settlement on his divorced wife and was released. He remarried shortly afterward.

Tally on Fighting Men

The "Field of Sticks" custom was recently explained at a gathering of Clachnacuddin, Royal Arch chapter, on a trip to Achnabat. The word "achnabat" comes from the Gaelic term "Auchan-n-bachte" (the field of the sticks), and it is supposed that before going into battle with a rival clan the members of one clan stuck their sticks into the soft mossy ground of the field. After the affray it was easily seen how many of them had been killed or were missing by the number of unclaimed sticks.

For the information of all concerned (which means every taxpayer on the Twin Falls Tract) we wish to advise you at this time that we will operate the Twin Falls Sugar Factory this Fall for a minimum of 60000 Tons of Beets. 50% of the 1925 Beet Growers averaged 20 tons per acre, while the general average for the Tract is 15 Tons.

At the low average only 4000 acres, or 1500 more than have already been signed are needed to insure a run for the Local Plant.

This will mean $25000 Taxes on Sugar and Live stock in addition to the $50000 already being paid, Plus, a $480,000 Beet payroll, $120,000 factory Payroll of which 85% is spent at home. Pulp and Molasses will also be available to create a hay market and induce Fall and Winter feeding, the surest and safest essential in a successful Agricultural program.

PLASTINO WILL COACH BRUINS ANOTHER YEAR

Board Re-elects Twin Falls High School Mentor for Coming Year at Salary Increase; Has Fine Record.

Announcement that Coach Felix Plastino was reelected as coach for Twin Falls high school with an increase in salary was made this week. Plastino was notified last week that he had been elected by the board.

Plastino is entering upon his third year as coach for the Bruin teams and has made a splendid record for the school. During his first season his football team was runner up for the state championship, losing the coveted title by one point to Nampa. His basketball team went to the district tournament that year but was eliminated in the semi-finals. His track team took the state title at Pocatello and were sent to Chicago to the national meet there but failed to place in that event.

Hoopsters Make Record.

This past year the football season was not so successful from the point of games won although the Bruins held the Filer team to a tie game. The basketball team of this year truly made a record for itself by wading through a hard schedule in the district tournament to meet defeat in the last game by the Filer quintet.

High Tribute.

Probably one of the highest tributes to Plastino is the large number of men turning out for track and baseball this spring. Ninety men have been turning out for track regularly during the past two weeks. Official figures are not available but it is almost certain that this is the largest number of men that have ever turned out in a school in this state. Forty men also turned out for baseball which shows that the students are behind Plastino.

For the coming season prospects look bright in all branches of sport. There is much material left from football upon which to build a team for all last season there were three teams out at Lincoln field every night. Spring training will commence next week and it is anticipated that a large squad will be out to get the preliminary training for the coming season.

DUMB-BELLS

BRUIN BASEBALL PRACTICE BEGUN

First Game of Season to be Played at Kimberly This Week End; Good Squad.

The first baseball practice for the high school was held last night when over 40 candidates answered the call of Coach Plastino. Only a light workout for the first night was ordered by the coach and the large squad tossed the horsehide around the lot for a short time. Only a few of the turnout have had previous experience and the the coach will have to build almost a complete new team. Eddie Martin and Nye are the only two pitchers reporting with experience there are several men however with aspirations but whether any exceptional ability is present or not remains to be seen.

Game Next Friday.

The first game of the season is scheduled with Kimberly for next Friday afternoon at Kimberly. This game will be a practice game only. It will be remembered that last year Kimberly had a real good ball team and they have most of their men back from last year. Plastino will have but a few days to get his team in shape but the game will give him a line on the material and some idea of what he has to build on.

No other games have been scheduled as yet but probably the schedule will be made up during the next few days. Many of the schools in the district have ball teams this season and the Bruin squad will probably have little trouble in finding plenty of games.

SHOW PROGRESS IN TRACK WORK

Large Number Still Showing at Lincoln Field for Heavy Course on Cinder Paths.

Track prospects continue to look bright with about 30 men reporting every night at Lincoln field. Most of the material is green and will require much effort on the part of the coaches to develop it.

There are a goodly number of candidates out for the sprints and some of them are showing considerable speed. Kelley and Hamilton are both showing up in good shape and should be able to place in some of the meets.

The largest number of men are out for the weight divisions that have ever turned out. Vaure, Lucas, Berg and several others are working hard in the shot, javelin and discus. None of them are showing any distance as yet but are working on the form.

In the middle distances there are several likely looking men.

Johnson's Last Year.

Johnson, who ran the 440 and 880 last year, is back for his last season and the big fellow is looking good. He should be able to place in the district meet this year. Tod Williams and Knight are both showing some form in the longer races and with the many other men that are trying the Bruins will be well represented in the longer distances.

It is planned by Coach Plastino to have one invitation meet here before the state meet, which is held at the University of Idaho this year on May 15. Later in the season it is possible that a meet will be arranged with West high of Salt Lake to be run at the latter place. This is in accord with an understanding had last year when West high came here for a meet.

In Bandit Net

MARGARET & RICHARD WHITTEMORE.

NEW YORK POLICE were attempting to lay crimes committed in twelve cities to a group of six men and a woman, arrested in a fashionable hotel. The leader of the sextet is said to be Richard Whittemore, who, the police say, escaped from the Baltimore penitentiary. His wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, was also held when police claim they found three pistols in her trunk.

MANY CHANGES OF INFIELDERS

Big League Managers Generally Satisfied With Reconstruction In Defense Jobs.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Infield reconstruction, problem of many major league baseball teams, has reached its final stage with a general atmosphere of managerial satisfaction over the training camp tests of extravagant minor league purchases.

The struggle of high priced against veteran campaigners for positions in the pivotal combinations around second base has found youngsters more than holding their own. As a matter of fact, the teams will make the training camp exodus with nine keystone changes in prospect for the season's opening.

The New York Yankees will display a brand new outfit in Mark Koenig and Tony Lazerri. The Detroit Tigers have given Gehringer, their Toronto purchase, the call over Frank O'Rourke at second base, while Hunnefield was apparently nosing out the veteran Everett Scott as first string White Sox shortstop.

May Start Peckinpaugh.

Buddy Myer, promising Washington infielder, has been regularly appearing at shortstop for the Senators, although Manager Bucky Harris announced in mid-winter he expected to start the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh. Spurgeon, once regular second sacker of the Cleveland Indians, is being pressed by a promising recruit in Guy Lacey.

Maurice Shannon, last year with Louisville, seems to have satisfied Manager McCarthy as the Cubs' best stop possibility for 1926, while Frank Emmer appears likely to crowd Bohne out of the same post in the Cincinnati inner works. At the camp of the champion Pirates, a three cornered second base fight has been in progress with Hal Rhyne, Pacific Coast find, making strong impression on Manager McKechnie, although Johnny Rawlings or Eddie Moore may get the call.

Robinson Worried.

Illness of Johnny Butler and failure of Rabbit Maranville to play up to expectations worries Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Robins. Standaert looms as an infield certainty, either at second or third base. Butler is expected to be a fixture when his health returns but the Dodgers are still highly uncertain of their opening lineup.

There may be a few third base changes, Riconda having made an impression on Manager Bancroft of the Braves and Hodapp having pushed Lutzke closely for the same job with Cleveland.

First base issues, however, appear to have been disposed of with the former Giant pitcher, Jack Bentley, satisfying Manager Fletcher of the Phillies at the initial bag and Wally Pipp closing a gap in the Reds' infield.

Newfoundland Is the Oldest British Colony

Newfoundland is often called "The Ancient Colony," because it is the oldest colony in the British empire. It was discovered by John Cabot, who sailed out of Bristol, England, in 1497. Cabot took possession of the island in the name of King Henry VII. Three years later the Portuguese under Gaspar Corte-Real explored portions of the coast. In 1588, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, Sir Humphrey Gilbert renewed the claim of British possession, but his attempt to colonize was not a success, nor were the attempts made later by Lord Baltimore. During all these years the island was visited by fishing expeditions from England, France and Portugal, and the ownership of the island was a matter of dispute. It was finally settled by the Treaty of Utrecht of 1713, which brought to a close Queen Anne's war. By this treaty France acknowledged Britain's ownership of Newfoundland and ceded to Britain the region known as Acadia, now forming the provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

YOUNG STRIBLING MEETS SLATTERY IN TEN-ROUND BOUT AT N. Y. GARDEN

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP)—Young Stribling, Georgia's light heavyweight challenger, and Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., meet for the second time tomorrow night in a 10-round match at Madison Square Garden. Stribling is expected to have a slight weight advantage, and he rules a favorite as a result of the Buffalo boy's knockout defeats last year at the hands of Dave Shade and Paul Berlenbach.

The northern entry, however, will have the confidence resulting from a point victory over his opponent in their first battle at Buffalo two years ago over the six round route. Both since then have regained their majority and are eligible under New York rules to box the limit of 15 rounds.

The match is important to Slattery as an opportunity to regain prestige while to Stribling it will bring a chance to balance his defeat by Slattery in 1924 and to improve his possibilities for a contest with Gene Tunney.

MOTHERS OF SICKLY CHILDREN READ THIS

My boy was run down—just about skin and bones, and no appetite, writes Mrs. Baker of Boston.

NOW STURDY AND STRONG

"I am writing you in the hopes that other Mothers will read this voluntary testimonial regarding McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. My boy, Emanuel, was run down completely, just about skin and bones; also irritable and with no appetite.

"I noted a wonderful improvement in him while taking your tablets and purchased three more boxes. His appetite picked up, and he is now sturdy and strong. A cheerful youngster and a happy mother want to thank you.

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like Cod Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing, and wise parents are buying, McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents, at Schramm-Johnson Drug Co., or any druggists.—Adv.

CHICAGO GRAIN VALUES RECEDE

Weakness of New York Stock Market Affects Wheat Prices; Close Is Unsettled.

CHICAGO, March 24. (AP)—Grain values here receded at the last today, largely as a result of increased offerings on account of stock market weakness in New York. Wheat closed unsettled, 1 1-8c to 2 12c net lower; May new $1.54 3-8 to 1.54 7-8; and July $1.34 5-8 to 1.34 7-8; with corn 3-8 to 5-8c off; oats unchanged to 1-4 down, and provisions unchanged to 7c decline.

It was a day of rapid fluctuations in the wheat market, but prices averaged higher until the day neared an end. Reports of dust storms in sections of Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma aroused uneasiness among traders who during the first part of the day had been sellers owing to optimistic crop advices from nearly the entire domestic wheat belt, notwithstanding that Liverpool quotations today were higher than expected and that persistent foreign buying of future deliveries here was in evidence.

Selling Pressure Evident.

On the other hand, general buying of wheat here failed to develop when prices bulged. Under such circumstances, unusual downturns in New York security quotations attracted special notice and led to considerable selling pressure on wheat, especially as export demand for North American wheat today was slack, with total sales of only 300,000 bushels. Dearth of fresh buying orders for future deliveries of wheat was most apparent during the final half hour. In that interval, the market dropped to the day's lowest figures, more than 3 cents down from earlier top figures.

Corn and oats, as compared with wheat, showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. Some improvement of eastern shipping demand for corn was noted and receipts for corn in Chicago today were small, only 70 cars.

Provisions were steadied by the relative strength of corn.

AVALANCHE OF SELLING CAUSES PRICE SETBACK

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP)—Stock market averages:

	20 Industrials	20 Rails
Wednesday	128.50	110.09
Tuesday	131.55	111.64
Week ago	134.07	111.76
Year ago	118.07	99.23
High 1926	146.07	117.89
Low 1926	128.50	106.51

Total stock sales, 2,705,600 shares.

Stock prices broke sharply in today's market under an avalanche of selling orders for both accounts. Net declines in scores of active issues ran from 3 to 10 points, with the average of 20 leading industrial stocks dropping 3.05 points to 128.50, a new low level for the year, and 17.57 points below the year's high established on February 11. Trading was in enormous volume, the day's sales aggregating 2,705,600 shares or more than double those of yesterday.

Selling was influenced by a wide variety of factors, chief of which was the heavy calling of bank loans, estimated as high as $35,000,000, which sent the call money rate to 5 1-2 per cent, the highest since the first of the month. This was widely interpreted as an indication that banks favored a further reduction on loans on stock collateral which seemed to find confirmation in the apparent absence of buying support by large financial institutions.

Pessimistic trade rumors, such as the wide spread cancellation of automobile orders, falling off in commodity buying and a slackening in certain rail lines, were freely circulated during the day and apparently found plenty of believers. Other contributing causes to the prevailing bear sentiment here was the omission of the Pittsburgh Coal preferred dividend, and failure of the Republican Steel directors to resume payments on the common stock, publication of the General Electric report showing 1925 earnings to have fallen below those of 1924 and the department of justice investigation of recent oil mergers.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 24. (AP)—The raw sugar market was unchanged today, but the undertone was steady. Trading was light, the only sale reported being 10,000 bags of Cuban to an operator for April shipment at $3.96, duty paid.

After opening unchanged to four points lower under liquidation and trade selling, raw sugar futures rallied on covering and support from brokers with Cuban connections.

Final prices were one point higher on May and net unchanged on other active deliveries. May closed 2.20; July 2.38; September 2.51; December 2.60; January 2.61.

The refined market was unsettled owing to a decline of 10 points by one local refiner to the basis of 4.90 for fine granulated.

Chinese Led in Canals

It is said the Chinese understood canal building at a very early period. They are believed to have been the first to invent locks to raise vessels from one water level to another. Evidently canal locks were in operation in China at least 1,000 years before the Christian era. In Europe there is doubt whether it was the Dutch or the Italians who first used locks on [illegible]

His Shirts Not Too Clean

The owner of a wireless installation was annoyed by the behavior of some boys of the neighborhood who disconnected his aerial. He wrote indignantly to the teacher of the school the culprits attended to complain of their conduct and to demand their punishment. "I would prosecute them," he wrote, "only I haven't got a license for my wireless."

Gestures in Oratory Must Be Spontaneous

It is dangerous to attempt "oratory" or gestures taught by schools of oratory. Gestures need not be used at all, and if used must be really felt by the speaker and come naturally.

The first speech of Benjamin Disraeli in the house of commons, accompanied by windmill gestures and oratorical poses which he had painstakingly studied, threw the house into such convulsions of laughter that he was obliged to sit down.

Disraeli had oily hair and an unprepossessing appearance. It is all the more interesting to note that after such a humiliating failure in his opening effort, Disraeli, by observation and study, corrected his faults in speaking, and eventually rose under Queen Victoria to become one of England's greatest prime ministers.

The best way to learn to speak is to do it; but one should not miss opportunities to hear good speakers.—From "Choosing the Right Career," by Edward D. Toland.

Freud, Misinterpreted?

"There are many in these days who profess to find support in the Freudian psychology for the claim that all 'sex repression' should be abandoned. This is a most ludicrous misunderstanding; the Freudian doctrines are much nearer to being a triumphant vindication of the methods of living prescribed by conventional morality."—Elton Mayo, in Harper's Magazine.

BASEBALL CLUB MAKES CHOICE OF TEAM'S GARB

Twin Falls Players to Appear in White on Home Field; in Gray and Blue in Other Towns of League Circuit.

Twin Falls baseball club players, when playing on the home field will appear in uniforms of white with white cap and blue visor, and when playing in Salt Lake, Ogden, Logan, Pocatello and Idaho Falls they will wear uniforms of gray with blue stripe and gray caps with blue visor. It has been decided by directors of the club. Order has been placed for the uniforms and other equipment for the club, and delivery here is expected within the next three weeks. The new uniforms, however, are not to be worn by the players until the opening game of the season.

Seek Right Man.

Directors of the club, convinced that much depends upon selection of the right man for manager, are taking their time and making a country wide search for the club's skipper. Almost four weeks remain before the opening of the season, and the directors are confident that the manager will be signed and and on the field with a well-balanced team in plenty of time to start the season right.

Local Players Favored.

It is the hope of the club that the team may be made up as nearly as possible of all Twin Falls players, and every encouragement is to be given ball players of this region who manifest desire to tryout for positions on the team. Among players who are expected to enter the lists are Bruce Watson, who played here two years ago, and Harry Rice. Sam Kleffner, later in the season when his duties as coach at Rupert high school are finished, may put in a bid, and Edgar Mussell, former Twin Falls high school player who has been playing ball in California, already has signified his intention of being on hand for practice.

Club Files Articles.

Articles of incorporation of the Twin Falls baseball club were completed and filed Wednesday in the office of the county recorder here. The articles contain the names of 35 subscribers to two or more shares of the organization's stock. Capitalization is $10,000, and the life of the corporation under its articles is to be 25 years. Directors are A. B. Colwell, George Sandholtz, C. A. Bailey, L. T. Wright of Twin Falls, and H. E. Hemmingway of Burley.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT

Officers of the Baptist Young Peoples Union of Twin Falls were elected at a meeting of the organization Tuesday evening as follows: President, Orrel Tucker; vice president, Mrs. F. A. Taggert; secretary, Vivian Rice; treasurer, Russel Clark; pianist, Edith Johnson; chorister, James Regan.

VINCENT COMPANY WILL MOVE INTO WHITE STORE

After more than three years vacancy the ground floor of the Big White Store building, corner of Main avenue and Second street south, will be occupied April 1 by the two A. H. Vincent Furniture company stores, one of which has been located at 214 Main avenue south for more than a year, and the other at 207 Shoshone street south.

The Vincent company is one of the pioneers in its line in Twin Falls having been in business here for more than ten years.

Remodeling work is being pushed by Monteith and Sons, local contractors, and the new location will be ready for occupancy by April 1.

BREAK INTO POOL HALL

A quantity of candy and tobacco is believed to have been stolen by burglars who broke through a window at the rear of the building to enter the St. Regis pool hall on Shoshone street south Tuesday night, according to report made Wednesday to the police.

Claim for $10,000 Damages on Trial

Trial opened in district court here Wednesday in the suit brought by John Taylor, a minor, through his father, E. Z. Taylor of Castleford, guardian ad litem against Frank A. Trigueiro, Castleford stockman, for $10,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution. Testimony on the part of several witnesses called on behalf of the plaintiff was introduced into the record during the day's proceedings.

Taylor's claim is based on alleged injuries to his reputation caused by his arrest last November on charges of issuance of a forged check. The charges were dismissed on the day following the arrest on motion of the prosecuting attorney in probate court.

Plaintiff is represented in the case by E. A. Walters and R. P. Parry, and E. M. Wolfe appears as counsel for the defendant.

Temperature Sinks To Minimum of 22

Forecast for Today—Fair.

Yesterday for the first time since March 8 the mercury sank to 22 above zero for low. Maximum temperature for the day was 56, and the difference represents a range of 34 points.

The raising of the temperature during the night to points below freezing is considered desirable by fruit growers, who point out that should the weather continue to be warm through the night, the trees would soon start blossoming, and due to the still early season a freeze later might do a great deal of damage.
