SENATOR CURTIS MAKES PLEA FOR CHANGE IN BILL

Kansas Solon Declares Public Interest Is Unprotected in Railroad Labor Measure in Its Present Form.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Passage of the railroad labor bill by the senate is virtually the same as it was approved by the house was forecast today by leaders on both sides of the question.

Five hours' debate today revolved around the amendment of Senator Curtis, the republican leader, to delegate final authority in wage disputes to the interstate commerce commission.

Breaking his usual role of silence, Senator Curtis made an impassioned plea for adoption of the amendment as a protection to farmers and shippers from increased rates. He was supported by Senators Underwood, democrat, Alabama, and Williams, republican, Missouri, who declared that they would vote against the bill unless the amendment was adopted.

Attack Amendment.

The amendment was attacked by Senators Wheeler, Montana; Dill, Washington, democrat; Pepe, Ohio,; Gooding, Idaho, and Lenroot, Wisconsin, republicans. They argued that the public interest already was protected in the bill and that the amendment would relegate the interstate commerce commission to a new field, embody and destroy its usefulness in rate making.

As the republican floor leader energetically urged his amendment, he engaged in a running fire of debate with senators on both sides of the chamber. Charged by Senator Wheeler with charting his course to comply with the desires of Kansas constituents whose support he will seek in November election, Senator Curtis retorted that when he found it necessary to abandon his conviction to "catch votes" he would resign from the senate.

Aroused by this suggestion, the Kansas senator jumped down the center aisle, pounding desks and speaking in a loud voice. He declared the public weal was not protected under the bill as drawn but that the managers of railroad employes, and he presented petitions from a number of farm railroad and business organizations urging further hearings so that they might voice their opposition.

Earlier the senate voted down without a record vote an amendment by Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, to establish a special board of adjustment to decide wage disputes between subordinate officials and carriers.

THREE INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

Investigation of American Metals Company Sale Brings Charges of Fraud.

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—The special grand jury investigating sales of the American Metal company today indicted Harry M. Daugherty, former United States attorney general, Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, and John T. King, former republican national committeeman, from Connecticut for conspiracy to defraud the government.

Probe Began in January

The grand jury, concluding investigations begun last January, charged Daugherty, Miller and King with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with transfer of $7,000,000 of American Metals company funds from the custody of the government to the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs de Metaux, a Swiss company alleged to have been German owned.

The indictment charged alleged conspiracy on the part of Daugherty and Miller, acting for the government, in the matter of turning over American Metals company securities to the purchasers by preventing the government from participating in their honest and unbiased judgment. It charged conspiracy between Daugherty, Miller, and the late Jesse W. Smith to receive from the claimants of the securities $391,000 alleged to have been paid for effecting the transfer of securities.

She told police that she married Atwell in Mobile, Alabama, in 1924, where he was known as "Earl," and came to Reno with him last year. For several months, she said, she had lived in San Francisco, until a message had aroused her suspicions.

OKLAHOMA HIT BY BAD STORM

Tornadoes That Strike in Three Counties Cause Considerable Property Damage.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 7 (AP)—Three persons were killed in a storm late today in Leflore county, according to reports received here tonight. A man and a boy were killed and two children seriously injured when their home, midway between Spiro and Panama, was destroyed. A woman was killed at Nubbin Ridge, in the same county. The town of Poteau and Heavener are in darkness, failing trees having destroyed power service.

ORMTLGEE, Okla., May 7 (AP)—Tornadoes that swept sections of Oglusker, Okmulgee and Muskogee counties late today destroyed nearly a score of houses, injured at least six persons, five of them negroes and damaged wire communication. No fatalities had been reported tonight.

The heaviest damage was wrought in Okmulgee county, in a section northwest of Okmulgee, inhabited chiefly by negroes. It was in this neighborhood that the only reported injuries occurred. Five houses were destroyed and about 10 damaged.

Farmer Injured

J. J. Klutts, a white farmer, was cut about the head and face when the tornado tore the top story from his house.

Francis Johnson, a negro widow, and her son Volley, were injured when their house was destroyed. They had taken refuge under a mattress.

Another tornado, apparently originating near Okemah, damaged the small inland towns of Morse and Meadow.

Two houses were destroyed at Morse, and the twisting cloud narrowly missed the school house, which was filled with children. A check showed that no one was injured.

At Meadow three buildings were destroyed. No one was injured. Torrential rain and hail storms occurred in the western section of Muskogee county and the lowlands near Taft were flooded.

ASK COOLIDGE FOR VIEWS ON RELIEF LAWS

Republican Leaders Seek Statement From President Regarding Farm Aid Legislation; House Debate Continues.

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 7.—While the house continued debate on the Haugen, Tincher and Curtis-Aswell farm relief bills, republican leaders today sought a statement from President Coolidge as to his views.

After a visit to the White House, Representative Vestal, of Indiana, republican whip, represented the president as hopeful for farm legislation and prepared to approve any proposal economically sound. He indicated Mr. Coolidge looked upon the Tincher credit plan as coming within this category, but of the opinion that any measure tending to raise price levels would be ill-advised.

The republican steering committee also discussed the situation, apparently without reaching any conclusion as to what should be done.

Senate Group Active.

Meanwhile, in the senate, another meeting was held by the group that is endeavoring to postpone adjustment until some form of relief legislation is enacted. Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, was appointed to head a legislative committee to confer on the subject. He was selected on motion of Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, spokesman for the corn belt delegation.

Republicans attending were Senators Bingham and McLean, of Connecticut; Frazier and Nye, of North Dakota; Norbeck, South Dakota; and Gooding and McNary. Democrats were Senators Copeland, of New York; Fletcher, of Florida; Kendrick of Wyoming; Neely, of West Virginia; Ransdell, of Louisiana and Steck of Iowa.

Night Session.

While debate progressed on the house floor, continuing at the session tonight, members gathered on the subject in chalk rooms and lobbies to line up support for various proposals to get a line on sentiment. Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, the democratic whip, expressed the belief that only a few democrats would support the Tincher bill, which has been endorsed by Secretary Jardine. He said most democrats would prefer no farm legislation to this proposal, adding that he would vote for the Haugen price stabilization measure.

Friends of the Tincher bill contended it would draw almost the solid support of eastern states, both republican and democratic votes in large numbers also, and some strength from the south.

WORLD REACTS TO BRITISH DISPUTE

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK—General improvement in the strike situation in England was reported this evening in a cablegram received by the Cunard line officers here from the home office at Liverpool. This cablegram followed receipt of information today that the sailings of the Mauretania of the Atlantic Transport line, and the Cedric of the White Star line, from British ports have been cancelled.

MOSCOW—The general council of the trade unions of the Union of Soviet Socialists republics has transferred 2,000,000 rubles to the British trades union congress. This is the second installment of the collection being made among the soviet unions for the British strikers. Subscriptions are still coming in.

MADRID—The Spanish government has decided to facilitate the bankering of English bonds with gold at Spanish ports. It is explained that this measure was taken because the government desires to assist the British government in coping with the strike situation.

BOMBAY—The All-India Trade Union congress is arranging to assist the British strikers financially and already has collected 200 pounds sterling to the British Trades Union congress.

AMSTERDAM—In response to a telegraphed appeal to affiliated and non-affiliated though friendly national labor centers abroad, the International Federation of Trade Unions has received promises of moral and financial support from American and Mexican labor organizations in its campaign to aid the British strikers.

PARIS—The administrative committee of the general labor federation issued a communique today announcing that it approved the measures already taken by the miners, railways, dockers, sailors and printers' federations to impede exportations to England and help the British workers obtain their "legitimate demands."

ATTORNEY DETERMINED TO BRING MEN TO UTAH

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Edward Morrissey, assistant United States district attorney of Utah, declared his determination today to take the two Syracuse men, alleged ring leaders of a country wide alcohol conspiracy, to Utah for trial, no matter how long it takes to get them there.

"If Commissioner Henderson refuses to hold them we will appeal to Judge Cooper," he said.

The declaration was made as the hearing of Harry Pearlman and Louis Steinburg before United States Commissioner Harvey Henderson drew to a close with attorneys for the defense as determined to keep the men out of Utah courts as Morrissey is determined to get them in.

NO DISPOSITION TO YIELD SHOWN BY EITHER SIDE

Deadlock Between British Trade Unionists and Government Remains Unbroken; Absence of Violence Notable.

(By the Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 7.—Neither side of the strike dispute shows the slightest disposition of yielding to the other. There is a tendency to use stronger forces on both sides. The government is enrolling thousands of additional volunteers to substitute strikers, and announces it will reinforce police by recruiting, if possible, 30,000 special constables.

The trades union congress is talking of bringing in its second line of defense which, it is claimed, would add another 2,000,000 to the strikers.

So far as the general public is concerned things seem to be growing easier daily. Organizations provided by the government and volunteer efforts, especially for transport, is continually improving, with consequent lessening of public inconvenience.

No Serious Disorder.

A notable feature of the gigantic conflict, now at the end of its fourth day, is the complete absence of serious disorders; not a single death has been laid to the strike. In almost all previous mines strikes there was considerable trouble in the coal fields, but on this occasion they are remarkably free from disorder.

Although there were vague rumors today that a possible settlement was imminent, so far as the general public is concerned, peace has still made no headway. Nothing appears to have yet developed from unofficial talks between Premier Baldwin and J. H. Thomas, who, as head of the railwaymen's union, is looked to as the man most likely to bring peace between the government and the trades unions.

"The British Workers," mouthpiece of the strikers, in tonight's issue, says that the council of the trades union congress when it clearly understood that no official or unofficial overtures have been made to the government by any individual or group or individuals, either with or without sanction of the general council. The council declared that it is ready at any moment to enter into preliminary discussions regarding withdrawal of lockout notices and ending of the general stoppage and resumption of negotiations for honorable settlement of the mining dispute, but adds that "these preliminary discussions must be free from any condition."

No Basis Of Approach.

FOUR CONVICTS SCORE IN WALL SCALING FEAT

BALTIMORE, May 7 (AP)—Four convicts went over the Maryland penitentiary wall early today.

Two still were at liberty tonight. George Cuebum, believed to have been leader of the break which opened way to freedom for 21 other prisoners who were too timid to follow, and Elmer Jenkins, were being sought in the vicinity of Hagerstown. Bars were sawed from a dormitory window.

Liberty was short lived for Charles Jenkins, brother of Elmer and Phillip Duessenberry, negro. Charles Jenkins was taken at the home of his sister soon after his escape.

CHEAP MOTORS IN FEW YEARS

Figures Issued by Automobile Chamber of Commerce Indicate Value of Dollar.

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—A vision of the finest motor cars being obtainable during the latter part of 1933 in exchange of a standard loaf of bread with probably a chauffeur in full uniform thrown in for a bunk of coffee cake—might well rise before an optimistic eye cast over figures issued today by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

According to these figures, the 1914 cost of living dollar is now worth only 58 cents, whereas the automobile dollar of that year is now valued at 61.16. In other words, it required 1,482 bushels of wheat to buy the average motor car in 1913, while only 952 bushels are needed today.

May Need Coaxing

If this rate of 71 bushels less every year continues no doubt the citizen 16 years from now can only be coaxed to take a car away from the show room if it is equipped with a bread hook, filled by the dealers.

Other items of the report are: In 1925 there were 3,839,302 cars and 407,852 trucks produced in the United States and Canada. Of the cars 50 per cent were enclosed types.

Of the world's motor vehicles 81 per cent are owned in the United States, foreign countries, however, bought 206,741 passenger motor vehicles during the past year.

The automobile industry employs 3,445,842 persons.

More than 1,500,000 motor vehicles were scrapped during the year.

POCATELLO POLICE REPORT

POCATELLO, May 7 (AP)—Intoxicated persons and traffic law violators led the list of the 1,243 persons arrested in Pocatello during the fiscal year ending April 30, the annual report of Police Chief L. A. Lehrkind revealed today. During last year 852 persons were arrested on intoxication charges and 173 for violation of traffic ordinances. The remainder of arrests made cover a list of over 100 different charges.

DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST TWO KANSAS CITY BANKERS

KANSAS CITY, May 7 (AP)—M. M. Moss, Dano, Texas, and Granville M. Smith, Kansas City bankers, were freed of charges of misapplication of national bank funds in federal court here today.

A demurrer to dismiss similar charges against L. C. Smith, Kansas City, a half brother of Granville Smith, was overruled by Judge Merrill E. Otis.

The demurrers, arguing the evidence offered by the government was not sufficient to support the charges in the 22 counts of the indictment against the three bankers, were presented shortly after noon today when the government had rested its case.

The men went on trial here early this week. The charges grew out of the failure of the Commonwealth National bank of Kansas City four years ago.

MOTOR BUS OPERATORS TO BE PUT ON CARPET

BOISE, May 7. (AP)—Motor bus operators who are delinquent in their payments to the state treasurer in the collection of gasoline taxes will be required to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked, it was announced today by F. A. Jeter, secretary of state, announced the call Friday, and added that immediately after the hearing all those delinquent will be prosecuted summarily. Prosecuting attorneys will be given lists of operators in their counties and told to proceed.

In addition the department, in cooperation with the state highway bureau, will put on a field man to check up those companies which have not even applied for licenses, but have totally disregarded the law.

OFFICERS HOLD 3 SUSPECTS AS SAFE BREAKERS

Two Men and One Women Are Taken Into Custody in Connection With Recent Series of Burglaries in This Region.

Two men and one woman were arrested here Friday evening as suspects in connection with a series of burglaries and safe breaking in this region, culminating Thursday night in forcible opening of the safe in the office of the superintendent of schools in Twin Falls high school building from which approximately $600 was taken.

Police and deputy sheriffs who made the arrests this afternoon, after lengthy interrogation of the suspects, expressed positive opinion that the burglars had been caught.

The suspects in custody gave the names of Carl Mason, 31; George Hunt, 25; and Mrs. Pearl Morris. A woman who claims to be the wife of George Hunt was under surveillance Friday evening. The arrests were made in a residence at 126 Fifth street north where the two men and two women have been living for some days.

Came From Spokane.

They stated, according to the officers, that they had come together to Twin Falls three weeks ago from Spokane with the purpose of buying a farm here.

Two Buick automobiles were in their possession. Officers expressed belief that one of the cars had been stolen. Both cars carried Washington licenses.

Mason and Hunt were in bed when the officers arrived at their residence at about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. They stated, according to the officers, that they had gone to bed at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Mrs. Miller was in the house at the time and the other woman arrived some time later while the officers were questioning the suspects following search of the premises.

Search Reveals Firearms.

The search, according to the officers disclosed a quantity of automobile tools; two new automatic .32 caliber revolvers, a camera, a sounding, about 15 cartons of cigarettes, two cartons of smoking tobacco. Tobacco and some of the clothing, the officers believe was stolen from the Hansen Mercantile company store which was burglarized two weeks ago.

Impeachment and Alien Property Awards Linked in Hickey Petition to House.

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—Impeachment and alien property awards were linked today in a petition to the house by Daniel P. Hickey, former employe of the internal revenue bureau income tax unit, for removal from office of Federal Judge Isaac M. [illegible]

The petition charged that Judge Mocking acted as a "tax fixer" while general counsel for the alien property custodian under Thomas W. Miller by "selling his political influence" with *David H. Blair, commissioner of in*ternal revenue, "and probably with other officials of the government."

Mr. Hickey declared that the judge received an annual salary of $3,000 as a voting trustee in the Roessler and Hasslacher Chemical company when holdings of some of the company's stockholders were seized by the alien property custodian, and that he succeeded in having a ruling on the company's tax returns reversed, for which he is alleged to have received "not less than $20,000 for his services."

A violation of moral and legal ethics in handling other matters while associated with the alien property custodian are alleged as the basis for the request for the judge's removal from office and "such other action as that the evidence may call for."

BANK HEAD IS PROBE WITNESS

Charles H. Mitchell, President of National City, Testifies in St. Paul Case.

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—The board of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad were counted from the closed of the National City bank in 1924, Charles H. Mitchell, president, told Commissioner Cox of the interstate commerce commission today, in testifying at the hearing into the bankruptcy of the road.

Mr. Mitchell said that as far back as 1921 the financial condition of the road impressed him as "doubtful," and that in 1923 he also advised the bank to sell its stock in the road's securities. The late William Rockefeller was so enthusiastic about the road's future that he offered to buy three years of the market quotations, Mr. Mitchell testified.

Reorganization Necessary

Mr. Mitchell also testified that in 1925 a reorganization of the road became necessary, but although several plans were submitted, nothing could be done without sufficient earnings.

In concluding his testimony he paid a tribute to the work of Frederick H. Ecker, vice president of the Metropolitan Insurance company and a St. Paul director, for his work in aiding the road.

Mr. Ecker, who testified just before Mr. Mitchell, speaking his twenty third anniversary of his association with the Metropolitan as the witness stand, said his company held about $12,000,000 worth of St. Paul securities. Most of these, he testified, were acquired prior to 1917.

Mr. Ecker testified that for some years he had felt that the financial position of the St. Paul was serious and that when the crisis was reached he suggested that a plan of reorganization be published at the same time further securities were called from stockholders. This idea, said to be predicted they would obtain a majority of the republican vote, coupled with some democratic support would pass the bill over the veto. This estimate, however, was challenged by opponents of the proposal.

Little Chance to Pass.

It was generally believed that the Curtis-Aswell bill has no chance of passage.

Defending the Hangen bill, Representative Purnell, republican, Indiana, said he would admit he proposed $375,000,000 appropriation was a subsidy and that proponents of the measure were "not lying to fool anybody." He declared most of the agriculture interests of the country were back of the bill.

"We are justified in taking from the treasury money enough to relieve the farmers," he asserted.

The Hangen bill found another champion in Representative Palmer, democrat, South Carolina, who said he "did not see how we can boggle over $375,000,000 if it is for agriculture. The measure was denounced by Representative Newton, republican, Minnesota, and Parks, democrat, Arkansas, who assailed the "subsidy" provision.

there seems no basis of approach between the two sides. Nevertheless J. Ramsay MacDonald, former labor premier, and the parliamentary labor party still are doing everything possible to promote peace.

The country is trying to carry on in as near normal manner as possible. There have been disorders in London, especially attacks by hooligans on volunteer transport workers. In Glasgow, Edinburgh, Hull, Middlesbrough and Nottingham, there has been trouble, but for the most part is taking the form of attacks on omnibuses on the food transport services. All these disturbances have been easily controlled by the police without need of calling upon the military for aid.

Many theaters in London have closed, but others are asking half empty houses and heavy fines. Sir Oswald Stoll, theatrical magnate, vowed an appeal to the king to recognize the workers in their attempt to spread cheer in depressing situations.

wake of the burglars at the school building here was delivered to J. W. Wheeler, state prison warden, who stated that he would photograph the prints for comparison with finger prints of any suspects that might be taken.

The same method of attack was used in opening the safe in the school building here Thursday night as was used in opening one of the three safes in Buhl one night about a week ago. The combination lock was broken off and a long chisel or punch was used to break the tumblers inside the door so that it could be swung open.

Enter Through Window.

The burglars gained entrance into the school building through a window in the principal's office which was pried open. They disturbed nothing in the principal's office, but entered the hall and entered the superintendent's office, opening the door from the inside and operating the lock through a hole broken in the glass ticket window within a short distance of this door. Desk drawers as well as the safe in the superintendent's office were ransacked.

Money taken from the safe included $200 receipts from the first showing of the senior class play, "Hollo's Wild Oat," that had been staged in the building a few hours earlier. Other funds taken from the safe, according to list made Friday morning, were as follows: Receipts from operetta, $175.25, of which about $50 was in checks; girl reserves, $6; junior class, $23.75; library change, $28; student manager's change for athletic events, $20; money for basketball games, $20; state declamatory fund, $46.40; district declamatory fund, $18.85; subdistrict athletic association fund, $13; office cash revolving fund, $20; stamps, $3. A box containing $25.95 chemistry fund that had been delivered by Miss Meinicke of the faculty to Miss Ada Walkington, secretary to the superintendent, was not. Miss Walkington's desk and was overlooked by the burglars.

The arrest Friday afternoon was made by Pubs. Chief R. E. Leighton, Police Officer Wilton Montgomery and Deputy Sheriff E. F. Prater and H. R. Davis.

CONVENTION TO SETTLE UNIFICATION QUESTION

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 7. (AP)—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will fight out the question of unification on the floor, despite efforts to bring about peace by the appointment of committees to consider the matter.

This is the opinion of practically every delegate at the conference. The church relations committee, which has before it all the memorials concerning the question of the union with the northern branch of Methodism, has instructed its chairman to appoint a committee of three which in turn will nominate a committee of nine to weed out non-essential memorials and bring in report on the remainder.

Under the law of the church the conference must either vote favorable or unfavorable upon any memorial submitted to it. The committee has a small majority of unification and is expected to recommend concurrence in memorials asking that the unification

BISHOPS BOARD HEARS REPORT

Mexican Religious Situation Explained by Church Authority Before Washington Session.

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—A report on the recent expulsion of foreign religious leaders from Mexico was made to the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church today by Bishop Miller of Mexico City, who asserted that the Mexican law permits complete freedom of religious activity to any church which obeys it.

The board heard reports on conditions in India by Bishop Clair of Covington, Kentucky.

While the Mexican law may have been unhappily worded, Bishop Miller told the conference it constitutes no handicap to any church that wishes unhumbly to bring religious leadership over to the Mexican brotherhood.

Obeys Law.

As this has been the aim of the Methodist church there, he said his work had not suffered from any government restrictions. Instead of protesting against the laws of Mexico, he added that he has obeyed them with the result that the ability of Mexicans as religious leaders had been demonstrated more successfully than had been expected.

Bishops Badley and Fisher, describing the problems facing the church in India, declared that additional missionaries are needed there not to do additional pioneering work, but to take care of the increasing number of natives who want to adopt the Christian religion.

Advancement of the prohibition cause in India was declared to be a tedious problem by Bishop Badley, who asserted to advocate prohibition is almost equal to fighting educational work now going on there. This, he explained, is true because the educational budget is largely made up of appropriations from revenues from the liquor traffic.

He reported that every religious and political faction in India favors prohibition but the British government is seeking to decrease the number of places selling liquor and to shorten hours of sale.

More Than Hundred Injured When Cable Car Makes Mad Dash

Presence of Mind of Conductor Probably Saves Many Others From Serious Hurts.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7 (AP)—Warnings by a cable car conductor to lie flat on the floor or remain in their seats perhaps saved many passengers from serious injury today when a cable car, dashed four blocks down the California street hill here today.

The car crashed into another car at the foot of the hill and one woman was injured, perhaps fatally, and approximately 125 other persons were hurt.

The car got beyond control at Powell street and at Montgomery street struck a motor truck filled with men. It continued on to Sansome street where it struck another car that was stopping to unload coffee sacks. DECISION OF CIRCUIT COURT GIVES HAILEY MAN FATHER'S FORTUNE

HAILEY, Idaho, May 7 (AP)—By a decision just rendered in the circuit of appeals of the District of Columbia, James McDonald of Hailey becomes a millionaire in his own right.

James McDonald, Sr., at his death 26 years ago, left Standard Oil stock with a trust company for the benefit of James Jr., and his two sons. The elder McDonald has accumulated a fortune as representative in London for the Standard Oil company.

For the last four years James McDonald, Jr., has contested the trust company, under whose ruling he received for himself approximately $3,000 per month, the income for his wife and his two sons, inherited $6,000,000, to be distributed when the younger son is 30 years old, which is 17 years hence. The contestant receives at once half of the accumulated earnings of the stock $1,250,000 and half of the yearly earnings as they accrue.

Mr. McDonald is expected to return to Hailey soon.

ADVOCATES NON-MARRIAGE AS DISEASE ERADICATOR

SALT LAKE CITY, May 7 (AP)—Prevention of marriage of persons suffering from cretinism was advocated as a means of eradicating the disease by Dr. Charles G. Tiffin, chief surgeon of the Seattle clinic from 1920 to 1924 in an address Thursday before the Utah State Medical association which is holding its thirty-second annual convention here. Dr. Tiffin declared that when marriage did take place among those afflicted, sterilization should be made to prevent further inheritance of the disease.

Edmund Jacobson, research associate in physiology, University of Chicago, detailed a course of treatment for those suffering from intestinal troubles. Among other speakers were J. P. Pratt, assistant surgeon in chief of the Henry Ford hospital, Detroit, and E. P. Sloan, chief surgeon of the Sloan clinic, St. Joseph hospital and Mennonite hospital, Bloomington, Illinois.

VETERAN ON LONG HIKE LANDS IN TWIN FALLS

Within a few hundred miles of the goal on a 40,000 mile trip over the the United States, J. H. Duffy, shell shocked and gassed world war veteran of the 117th engineers, Rainbow division, arrived in Twin Falls late Friday evening. He spent the day on the road from American Falls. He expects to remain here until Monday, and journey on to Carson City and Sacramento and return to Boise by way of Portland. He expects to complete the 40,000 mile trip late next July at Washington, D. C.

The trip started from Boston on January 1, 1920. Eighteen other veterans entered the contest for which, according to Duffy, a prize of $25,000 and an automobile has been offered. Only seven other contestants, who now is in Florida, remains in the contest, Duffy stated.

One of the conditions of the contest is that each participant must obtain certificates from the governors of all the states and from the president. Duffy stated that he has yet to obtain only the certificates of the governors of Nevada, California and Idaho.

Duffy is making expenses of the trip by selling post cards. He has led a varied existence, he says, on the trip, on some days having lunch with the governor and dinner with a mayor and sleeping in a city jail, but mostly, when weather permits, living in the open.

NATHAN LEOPOLD AND RICHARD LOEB REFUSE CHANCE FOR FREEDOM

JOLIET, Ill., May 7. (AP)—Nathan Leopold Jr., who, with Richard Loeb, killed young Bobby Franks "for a thrill" in Chicago two years ago, was offered an opportunity to flee from the new prison at Stateville Wednesday, by seven convicts who escaped after the killing a deputy warden, H. Rehn, states's attorney of Will county, said tonight. Leopold had told him.

Leopold, however, refused, according to his story to Rehn. Warden John L. Whitman, who said that Leopold was not in the section of the prison from which the prisoners fled, asserted he was in the solitary confinement block where the deputy warden was killed, but added he knew nothing of any offer made to Leopold to accompany the seven convicts.

Rehn said Leopold told him he had been placed in the solitary confinement block because he had taken some sugar from the culinary department.

Progressive Merchants

CELEBRATION

TWIN FALLS

May 8, 3 p. m.

BE SURE AND SETTLE YOUR ACCOUNT AND BE READY TO GET THE FULL BENEFIT OF THE CELEBRATION

Everybody that has progressive ideas is invited, also those that think everything should be as it always has been. To standpatters in business, we think we are able to prove that they are in the same predicament as the boy is when riding a bicycle; when he wants to stop and rest a while on his bike he'll fall off. The same is true in business—you can't stand still very long or you'll fall off like the boy. So as for me and my house we want to be progressive. Don't fail to come, it's worth while just to see the thousands of progressive farmers meet with the progressive merchants. Some merchants are like Pat's snake he killed and the snake kept wiggling its tail, so Pat said, "He is dead and don't know it."

IRRIGATORS WIN FROM SALT LAKE BEES; SCORE 9-4

Twin Falls Team Easy Victors in First Game of Series at Capital City; Daglia Allows Only Nine Hits.

SALT LAKE, May 7. (AP)—Twin Falls trimmed the Salt Lake Bees by a score of 9 to 4 here today. The locals were only able to get nine hits off Pitcher Daglia of the Idaho aggregation.

A wild first inning by Gardner, Salt Lake twirler, sensational work of Nielson, local shortstop and, snappy action on first base by Fitzgerald of the Twin Falls, and a home run slout by Flowers, the first of the year in the Utah end of the new loop, were the features of the game. The contest was played on a heavy field and the thermometer was not at a heighth conducive to good ball playing. But after the first frame the game settled down to a real struggle.

Gardner was wild in the first and presented four walks. These, combined with a hit, an error and a wild pitch, netted the Idahoans five runs. Box score:

RENAULT WINS SLOW BOUT

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, outpointed Jack De Mave of New York, in a tame 10-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

De Mave always on the aggressive, rushed his foe throughout the fight but he was outboxed and outfought at every turn. The crowd booed the exhibition largely because of Renault's tactics in refusing to come out in the open and fight.

The Canadian had the better of De Mave in most of the skirmishes but failed to follow his advantages. Renault cut De Mave badly about the face with his jabs, but failed to score a knockdown. Renault weighed 195 1-2 pounds and De Mave 182 1-2.

COMMISSION REFUSES TO ACCEPT TUNNEY'S DEFI

NEW YORK, May 7 (AP)—Gene Tunney's claim to recognition as the leading heavy weight contender received a setback today when the state athletic commission refused to accept his formal challenge for a title match with Jack Dempsey on the grounds that Harry Wills has prior claim.

Nevertheless, the attempt by representatives of Tunney to file the challenge is interpreted as another move in Tex Rickard's campaign to displace Wills in favor of Tunney as an opponent for Dempsey in a title bout here in September.

A blanket challenge on Tunney's behalf for a bout with any other leading heavy weight contender but preferably Wills, may be filed next week, his representatives said.

MORE LIBERAL "Y. W."

The Young Women's Christian Association is now opened to women of all creeds. The pledge requiring applicants for membership to signify their acceptance of "Jesus Christ as my Savior and Lord" is abolished. Jews, Unitarians and others not eligible before need only express their desire to enter the "Christian fellowship" of the association.

This is another example of expanding religious tolerance, which would not have been possible a decade or two ago. Orthodox theology is regarded as less important; more stress is put on the spirit of life and service than on definite articles of belief.

The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. have always been characterized by [illegible] of social service and moral morality rather than religious propaganda. With more liberal membership requirements, such organizations should find a wider field of usefulness without sacrificing their main purpose, which is applied Christianity.

BUSINESS WITH RUSSIA

Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissar of foreign affairs at Moscow, thinks friendly relations may be patched up with the United States. Reports from America he tells his red brethren, "point to a new trend in responsible business circles respecting Soviet Russia."

This may be true. There is an unexpected amount of friendliness for the Russian Soviet government shown by American business men. Much as they deplore Communism, they are eager to sell anything to the Communists that the latter can pay for.

With the American government, Litvinoff admits, there are still difficulties. But governmental approach, he intimates, hangs more on finances than political principles. Official recognition, he thinks, can be obtained if Soviet Russia will agree to pay the debts of the Kerensky regime. And his government might do that.

Only—and here is the Bolshevist joker—America would have to consider "the principle of Russian counter claims." That is to say, if the Soviet gentlemen paid us back what we lent Kerensky's republic before they withdrew it, we would be expected to pay damages for helping Kerensky.

The upshot would be that we owed Russia recognition and Russia owed us nothing.

OUR WAR MONUMENTS ABROAD

General Pershing, as head of the American Battle Monuments Commission, is afraid Americans are going to mass Europe all up with war monuments, thus spoiling good scenery and getting their country in bad with the natives.

He finds that France, Belgium and Italy are erecting very few such monuments, while Americans are very busily planning to flood Europe with them.

General Pershing fears that many of the proposed monuments would exceed the bounds of good taste, or even that danger of offending taste is special risk of offending taste in the delicate business of setting up any monument to our own exploits or losses in a foreign country whose losses were much greater than ours.

The commission has authority to pass judgment on the proposed American memorials, and the French and Belgian governments have agreed not to permit any not approved by the commission. This arrangement, authorized by President Coolidge, may serve the purpose. It will help all around if American states, cities and private organizations will go slower in planning foreign monuments, and remember that none will be approved that are not of such a nature as to be regarded as public improvements or of practical use to the inhabitants.

YELLOW POSTERS ENTER PACIFIC CAMPUS DISPUTE

FOREST GROVE, Ore., May 7 (AP)—Yellow posters bearing the text of an article entitled, "In Defense of Wrecking," appeared on the campus of Pacific university Thursday and caused a sensation equal to that of Wednesday when the issue of the college paper, containing the article, was suppressed. The posters were soon removed, the assistant editor suspended and the staff of the publication dismissed.

At a meeting of the student body shortly after the posters were discovered, Dr. J. J. Dobbs, president of the college, appealed to the students to stamp out the "encouragement of bestiality." An investigation of the origin of the posters was ordered.

An hour after they entered the plain there came suddenly out of the west the tonguing of the wolf-pack. It was not far distant, probably not more than a mile along the foot of the ridge, and the sharp, quick yapping that followed the first outburst was evidence that the long-fanged hunters had put up sudden game, a caribou or young moose, and were close at its heels. At the voice of her own people Mahegun laid her ears close to her head and was off like an arrow from a bow.

The unexpectedness of her movement and the swiftness of her flight put Baree well behind her in the race over the plain. She was running blindly, favored by luck. For an interval of perhaps five minutes the pack were so near to their game that they made no sound, and the chase swung full into the face of Mahegun and Baree. The latter was not half a dozen lengths behind the young wolf when a crashing in the brush directly ahead stopped them so sharply that they tore up the snow with their braced forefeet and squat haunches. Ten seconds later a caribou burst through and flushed across an open not more than twenty yards from where they stood. They could hear it swift panting as it disappeared. And then came the pack.

At sight of those swiftly moving gray bodies Baree's heart leaped for an instant into his throat. He forgot Mahegun, and that she had run away from him. The moon and the stars went out of existence for him. He no longer sensed the chill of the snow under his feet. He was wolf—all wolf. With the warm scent of the caribou in his nostrils, and the passion to kill sweeping through him like fire, he darted after the pack.

Very soon he found himself close to the flanks of one of the gray monsters of the pack; half a minute later a lone hunter swept in from the bush behind him, and then a second, and after that a third. It was as if Baree had belonged to the pack always. He had joined it naturally, as other stray wolves had joined it from out of the bush; there had been no ostentation, no welcome such as Mahegun had given him in the open, no hostility. He belonged with these slim, swift-footed outlaws of the old forests, and his own jaws snapped and his blood ran hot as the smell of the caribou grew heavier, and the sound of its crashing body nearer.

It seemed to him they were almost at its heel when they swept into an open glade, a stretch of barren without a tree or a shrub, brilliant in the light of the stars and moon. Across its unbroken carpet of snow sped the caribou a spare hundred yards ahead of the pack. Now the two leading hunters no longer followed directly in the trail, but shot out at an angle, one to the right and the other to the left of the pursued, and like well-trained soldiers the pack split into halves and spread out fan shape in the final charge.

The two ends of the fan forged ahead and closed in, until the leaders were running almost abreast of the caribou, with fifty or sixty feet separating them from the pursued. Thus, adroitly and swiftly, with deadly precision, the pack had formed a living, slow cordon of fangs from which there was but one course of flight—straight ahead. For the caribou to swerve half a degree to the right or left meant death.

It was the duty of the leaders to draw in the ends of the horseshoe now, until one or both of them could make the fatal lunge for the hamstrings. After that it would be a simple matter. The pack would close in over the caribou like an inundation.

Baree had found his place in the lower rim of the horseshoe, so that he was fairly well in the rear when the climax came. The plain made a sudden dip. Straight ahead was the stream of water—water shimmering white in the starlight—and with the sight of it sent a final great spurt of blood through the caribou's bursting heart. Forty seconds would tell the story—forty seconds of a last spurt for life, of a last [illegible] of death. Baree felt the sudden thrill of these moments, and he forged ahead with the others in that lower rim of the horseshoe to one of the leading wolves made a lunge for the young bull's hamstring. It was a clean miss. A second was darted in. And this one also missed.

There was no time for others to take their place. From the broken end of the horseshoe Baree heard the caribou's heavy plunge into water. When Baree joined the pack, a maddening, mouth-frothing, smarting horde, Napoleons, the young bull, was well out in the river and swimming steadily for the opposite shore.

It was then that Baree found himself at the side of Mahegun. She was panting; her red tongue hung from her open jaws; but at his presence she brought her fangs together with a snap and slunk forward to the heart of the wind-run and disappointed pack. The wolves were in an ugly temper, but Baree did not sense the fact. Nepeese had trained him to take to water like an otter, and he did not understand why this narrow river should stop them as it had. He ran down to the water and stood belly deep in it, farther—far—instant the horde of savage beasts about him, wondering why they did not follow. And he was black—black! He came among them again, and for the first time they noticed him.

The restless movements of the waters created now. A new and wonderful interest held them right. Fangs gleamed sharply. Under the open Baree saw Mahegun, with a big gray wolf standing near her. He went to her again, and this time she remained with flattened ears until he was sniffing her neck. And then, with a vicious snarl, she snapped at him. Her teeth sank deep in the soft flesh of his shoulder, and at the unexpectedness and pain of the attack, he let out a yelp. The next instant the big gray wolf was at him.

Again caught unexpectedly, Baree went down with the wolf's fangs at his throat. But in him was the blood of Kazan, the flesh and bone and sinew of Kazan, and for the first time in his life he fought as Kazan fought on that terrible day at the top of the Sun rocks. He was young, he had yet to learn the cleverness and the strategy of the veteran; but his jaws were like the iron clamps with which Pierrot set his bear traps, and in his heart was sudden and blinding rage, a desire to kill that rose above all sense of pain or fear.

That fight, if it had been fair, would have been a victory for Baree, even in his youth and inexperience. In fairness the pack should have waited; it was a law of the pack to wait—until one was done for. But Baree was black; he was a stranger, an interloper, a creature whom they noticed now in a moment when their lust was hot with the rage and disappointment of killers who had missed their prey. A second wolf sprang in, striking Baree treacherously from the flank; and while he was in the snow, his jaws crushing the foreleg of his first foe, the pack was on him en masse.

Such an attack on the young caribou bull would have meant death in less than a minute. Every fang would have found its hold. Baree, by the fortunate circumstance that he was under his first two assailants and protected by their bodies, was saved from being torn instantly into pieces. He knew that he was fighting for his life. Over him the horde of beasts rolled and twisted and snarled; he felt the burning pain of teeth sinking into his flesh; he was smothered; a hundred knives seemed cutting him into pieces; yet no sound—not a whimper or a cry—came from him now in the horror and hopelessness of it all.

It would have ended in another half-minute had the struggle not been at the very edge of the bank. Undermined by the erosion of the spring floods, a section of the bank suddenly gave way, and with it went Baree and the pack. In a dash Baree thought of the water and the escaping caribou. For a bare instant the cave-in had sent him free of the pack, and in that space he gave a single leap over the gray backs of his enemies into the deep water of the stream. Close behind him half a dozen jaws snapped shut on empty air. As it had saved the caribou, so this swift water submerging in the glow of the moon and stars had saved Baree.

The stream was not more than a hundred feet in width, but it cost Baree close to a losing struggle to get across it. Until he dragged himself out on the opposite shore, the extent of his injuries was not impressed upon him fully. One hind leg, for the time, was useless; his forward left shoulder was laid open to the bone; pieces of hair and flesh were torn out of his neck, and his left ear hung limply as it dripped from the stream, the trail he left in the snow was a red path of blood. It trickled from his panting jaws, between which his tongue was literally [illegible] as he crawled up the bank. His body, and it dripped from his ears, one of which was slit clean for two inches as though cut with a knife. His instincts were dragged, his perception of things clouded as if by a veil drawn close over his eyes. Half dead, he dragged himself on until by chance he came to a clump of dwarf spruce. Into this he struggled, and then he dropped exhausted.

All that night and until noon the next day Baree lay without moving. The fever burned in his blood; it flamed high and swift toward death; then it ebbed slowly, and life conquered. At noon he came forth. He was weak, and he wobbled on his legs. His hind leg still dragged, and he was racked with pain. But it was a splendid day. The sun was warm; the snow was thawing. The sky was like a great blue sea, and the flood of life coursed through the [illegible] veins. But now, for all time, his dearest friend was gone. Nepeese was dead. Never again could the hunt-call lure him or the voice of the pack rouse the old longing. In him there was a thing newborn, an undying hatred for the wolf, a hatred that was to grow in him until it became like a disease in his veins, a thing ever present and insistent, demanding vengeance on their kind. Last night he had gone to them a comrade. Today he was an outcast. Cut and maimed, bearing with him scars for all time, he had learned his lesson of the wilderness. Tomorrow, and the next day, and for days after that without number, he would remember the lesson well.

Chapter X

At the cabin on the Gray Loon, on the fourth night of Baree's absence, Pierrot was smoking his pipe after a great supper of caribou tenderloin he had brought in from the trail, and Nepeese was listening to the tale of the remarkable shot he had made, when a sound at the door interrupted them. Nepeese opened it, and Baree came in. Three days and nights of hunger in which he could not hunt, because of the leg that dragged had put on him the marks of starvation. But he scarred and covered with dried blood clots that still clung tenaciously to his long hair, he was a sight that drew at last a long breath from Nepeese. A queer smile was growing in Pierrot's face as he leaned forward in his chair; and then slowly rising to his feet, and looking closer, he said to Nepeese:

"Ventre Saint Gris! Out, he has been to the pack, Nepeese, and the pack turned on him. It was not a two-wolf fight—non! It was the pack. He is cut and torn in fifty places. And—mon Dieu, he is alive!"

In Pierrot's voice there was growing wonder and amazement. He was incredulous, and yet he could not disbelieve what his eyes told him. What had happened was nothing short of a miracle, and for a time he uttered not a word more but remained staring in silence while Nepeese woke from her astonishment to give Baree doctoring and food. After the pain and hunger and treachery of his adventure, it was a wonderful homecoming for Baree. He slept that night at the foot of the Willow's bed. The next morning it was the cool caress of his tongue on her hand that awakened her.

The Value of Reputation

The value of a man is what he does, the worth he shows the world. He may be ever so good inside. If he doesn't prove it, he's worthless.

The value of a watch, a skillet, an automobile, is what it does, the worth it shows its user. It may be of highest serving power. If it can't prove it, it's useless. The reputation of any product is the known proof of its worth. The value of that known proof is that you can recognize it.

When you buy an advertised watch or skillet, you buy value with a reputable manufacturer's name behind it. You don't have to wait till you use it to know it. The qualities which made it advertisable have proved the worth for you. You need only ask for the product by name. Fastened securely to that name are quality, service, satisfaction.

DROUGHT RELIEF LOWERS PRICES

Wheat Leads Decline In Which Corn Establishes New Low Record for Season.

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—Widespread relief from drought sent all grain values downward today. Wheat led the decline, in which corn established a new low price record for the season. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 7-8c to 1 5-8c net lower; May new $1.58 1-8 to 1.58 3-8, and July $1.38 1-4 to 1.38 3-8; with corn 1 to 1 3-8c down; oats 1-2 to 5-8c to 5-8c off, and provisions at 20c advance.

Moisture was heaviest in the southwest and west but only of a scattered sort in the northwest, virtually skipping Canada altogether. Improved crop conditions expected to result from the rains caused general selling of wheat and although on the price setbacks heavy buying for eastern account developed, the market failed to rally much. Southwest houses did most of the selling and it was pointed out that rain reports from that section mentioned various places from which yesterday's the worst complaints of drought were received. The eastern buying was ascribed largely to previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit.

Harvest Starts Soon.

According to southwestern reports, the new 1926 wheat harvest will start by the end of this month and the rains have practically assured the hard winter wheat crop over an important per cent of the country's hard wheat area. Meanwhile, export demand for North American wheat showed some improvement, today's purchases being estimated at 500,000 bushels, with Great Britain paying a big premium for immediate shipment. Exports for the week were only 2,000,000 bushels, indicating the smallest world shipments in many months.

Oats, delivery of each in which the selling pressure was most apparent was without any aggressive support, except from profit-taking shorts. Shipping sales of corn here today amounted to only 81,000 bushels. The cash corn trading basis was half cent lower to half cent higher. Eastern cash demand was slow. Future deliveries finished at about the day's bottom. May and July both touched the lowest prices yet this season. Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

OUTBURST OF SELLING SENDS STOCKS LOWER

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—A sudden outburst of selling turned the course of prices reactionary toward the close of today's stock market after an earlier period of dullness and irregularity. Final quotations disclosed a fairly strong list of net declines of one to four points. Trading was in slightly larger volume than yesterday, the day's sales aggregating 832,700 shares.

A bear drive against some of the low priced motors, based on the belief of a sharp reduction in second quarter earnings, started the selling movement which also involved the usual week-end profit-taking. Jordan broke over three points to a new low for the year at 30 3-4 and Paige Detroit fell back over two points to a new low at 15 on rumors of a possible decrease in the dividend. Mack Trucks was hammered down over four points to 111 1-4, and General Motors, Hudson, White, Chrysler, Pierce-Arrow and Moon yielded 2 to 2 1-2 points.

British strike news was closely watched, but apparently had little influence on the price movements in securities and commodities.

AMERICAN ART HAS NO BRITISH DEMAND

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—There is no demand in England for the works of American artists and in the mind of one English art authority there is little hope of any developing.

He is C. Reginald Grundy who is touring the United States in order to formulate a report to the Museums Association of Great Britain on the organization and operation of American museums.

"But what of Sargent and Whistler?" he was asked.

"Why, of course, there always is a demand for their work, but we look upon them as our own. They spent years in England and did their best work with us. Sargent was an Academician and could have been head of the Academy."

Mr. Grundy was not reflecting upon American artists. He believes much good work is being done here and attributes the lack of demand in England to unfamiliarity with American artists.

"Interest might be created through traveling exhibitions and taking advantage of every opportunity to display the work of your painters," he explained, "but artists must live and America now is a great art market center for all nations. Why should Americans send their paintings and other works to England there to have them remain on exhibition six months or longer before being sold when they can be disposed of almost immediately here?"

MARCHING BOYS STAGE ANNUAL SCOUT REVIEW

350 Lads Take Part in Impressive Event in Connection With Boys' Week Observance in Twin Falls.

Two hundred boy scouts, members of 11 Twin Falls boy scout troops, most of them in uniform, with flags and troop banners flying, and nearly 150 younger lads under the "junior scouts" banner, marched through Twin Falls streets Friday afternoon in the annual parade and review in connection with Twin Falls' observance of Boy Scout week. The march was led by the boy scout band of 60 pieces under leadership of J. T. Bainbridge.

The trophy—flag—given—by—Twin Falls scout council was awarded for a second time to scout troop No. 1 of which W. S. Hill is scoutmaster. The award was made by a committee composed of Captain P. W. McRoberts, Sergeant O. B. Duffee and Paul H. Taber, who reviewed the marching scouts from a reviewing stand at the intersection of Main avenue and Shoshone street, and the flag was presented to the winning troop by J. H. Masters, president of the scout council.

Greeted by Friends

The marching scouts, keeping time to martial music played by the scout band, passed through streets that were lined for several blocks by a throng of friends and well-wishers.

Immediately preceding the march, the scouts and a number of citizens witnessed the planting in Twin Falls city park of a walnut taken from the tree that was planted by boy scouts at the grave of Theodore Roosevelt. It is to be known as the Roosevelt memorial tree and is to be cared for by boy scouts of Twin Falls. It was planted by Edgar L. Ashton, Twin Falls mayor, who delivered a brief address, urging scouts to work for protection of bird life.

The parade and review preceded the boy scout field day program staged on Lincoln field. Time was insufficient for completion of the program of 15 events and four events which were not staged Friday will be held next Friday afternoon.

Rotary club members prepared and served weiners for all of the scouts on the field at the close of the day.

Winners in the several events staged Friday were announced as follows:

Lost nine gold rush—First, Maryand Lamion, troop No. 2; second, Glen Butler, troop No. 8.

Knot tying relay (Eight men)—first, troop No. 2; second, Troop No. 10.

Great shoe scramble (for junior scouts)—first, Francis Buchanan.

First aid contest—first, Troop No. 1; second, Troop No. 10.

String burning—first, Lynn Langdon, Troop No. 3; second, Alfred Seal, Troop No. 2.

Boat race (eight men)—first, Troop No. 7; second, Troop No. 11.

Troop No. 7 won the wall scaling event, putting eight men over the wall in 32 seconds; Troop No. 10 was second in 36 seconds; Troop No. 2 third, in 39 seconds, and Troop No. 1, fourth, in 40 seconds.

Troop No. 10, district championship first aid team, staged an interesting demonstration as one of the program events.

Events to be run off next Friday are the scout pace, friction fire, signaling and mystery event.

Adjudication of irrigation water rights on Dry creek and its tributaries in Twin Falls and Cassia counties that has been pending in district court here since 1908, was settled Friday when District Judge William A. Babcock signed a final decree and findings of fact and conclusions of law in the case of Jerry Bonard and others against Frank Terrill and others.

The petition involved more than 20 water rights dating from the appropriation of 400 inches of water made December 31, 1877, by Frank J. Terrill, deceased, to appropriations made as late as April 2, 1910 by D. H. Moorman. Decreed rights aggregated 3270 inches.

The decreed waters, the court held, have been applied for irrigation purposes from date of filings, and the duty of water held to be one inch per acre. The decree reaffirmed decree entered March 7, 1904, by District Judge Littleton Price in the case of F. J. Terrill and Annie Terrill against Samuel Land, A. J. Fuller and J. E.
