Formal Election of Great Republic Set for Today, According to Perfected Plans of Leaders at Geneva Session.

(By the Associated Press)

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 7.—Germany will be elected admittance of the league of nations, the League having tonight, and by tomorrow evening German statesmen will be spending time in Geneva assuring that at last the application for membership can be ratified. The League of Nations, which will include the United States, France, Italy, Spain, Portugal, and Greece, will be admitted.

Germany will immediately take its seat as a permanent member of the council of the league at the forthcoming session of the committee of the non-permanent members of the council from six to midnight, according to the schedule of admissions.

The committee agreed, however, that the other details of the council's organization—seats, will be regulated finally until fractions are satisfactorily presented and adopted.

Report Causes Stir.

There was some excitement tonight over the distribution of a report that had been received from the Spanish government of an extremely friendly treaty and giving the Spanish fleet a free port in the Elbe river. It was not known if it was the outcome of an editorial which appeared in Prime de Rivera's Madrid newspaper, indicating that the government would adopt a policy of alliance with Germany.

The present plans indicate that both Spain and Poland will be elected to permanent seats in the council.

Balkan Situation Better.

General changes in the situation of all the Balkan countries at the session of the council this afternoon gave the impression that the political situation is improved in the Balkans that a general Balkan peace may be expected.

The Balkan peace, the adoption by the council of a detailed plan for the settlement of 120,000 Bulgarian refugees who have been obliged to leave their homes during the war, and the decision of a large number of Balkan states to change the route of the railway.

The Bulgarian minister of finance told the council that the refugee plan had proved of the greatest importance in the Balkan peace, and that the Balkan system, after the October revolution and greater opportunity for passenger and express business between Salt Lake City, Utah, and the northeast.

Senator Harrison Takes Firm Stand On Foreign Debts

Fiery Mississippian, Returning From Europe, Declares Against Any Cancellation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP)—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi returned from Europe yesterday, having been abroad for three months, returning home to find himself pitted to fight to the last ditch any weakening on the part of the United States in its present position of neutrality.

Persons reported that the senator caused a ripple of excitement aboard the ship at sunset, Saturday night when he declared that he was not in favor of, and "wouldn't" further the American policy of cancellation of debts. Some controversy was reported between American and European tourists as a result of his speech.

Mr. Harrison said today that we hold them over there that we have our poor men and poverty stricken people as well as they and Uncle Sam has got to let us in to join in Europe, he had promised to back out for good and that is what I propose to see done, so long as I have a voice to talk."

MASTERY OF THE ATOM Would Re-build World

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7. (AP)—An audience of the entire school attended the induction ceremony of Professor James E. Flanagan, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in his annual address to-night as president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

We know the atoms consist of unthinkable amounts of bound energy. They like a jack-in-the-box. When we learn how to touch the button the energy will spring out and we can use the power of the atom.

There will then be no underground mines and no coal barns. A limitless supply of energy will make over the world. Every man will have the taste of the atom.

Prolonging out such a discovery would destroy our present system of social values, he predicted. "The economic upheaval" would force upon the present society a new and more fundamental—perhaps the value of man's labor, or on mere sympathy communities."

TWO FIRST EDITIONS OF "PILGRIM'S PROGRESS"

LONDON, Sept. 7. (AP)—A peculiar mishap has occurred over the copy of the first edition of "Pilgrim's Progress" by John Bunyan, which was recently put on sale in a London auction room.

Examination of the volume by the purchasers, a firm of antiquarian book dealers, revealed the fact, however, that the copy was not the present one, but a copy which had been sold almost immediately to the original purchaser by private arrangement with the auctioneer.

Biblical History Is Confirmed By Exploring Party

BISHOP M. Dubose of Methodist Episcopal Church South Declares Discoveries Tally With Scriptural References.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 7. (AP)—Undeniable proof of the Biblical history of the land of Israel, the existence of the well of Jacob, the existence of the well of Ruth, and other Biblical facts is established by explorations in Palestine in which Bishop R. M. Dubose, president of the Methodist Episcopal church south participated.

After his return from the land, Bishop Dubose and a party of German archaeologists explored the Biblical sites of the Jordan valley, the Dead Sea, and the land of Canaan.

The party found the Biblical cities of Shechem, Bethel, and Jerusalem, identified the well of Jacob, the well of Ruth, and the gates of the city of Shechem.

The gates of the city of Shechem, the well wall, and the gates of the city of Bethel, the well of Jacob, and the well of Ruth, were definitely located, said Bishop Dubose, after his return from the land.

The ancient city of Shechem, with not a contradiction of the memory of the ancients, was established, said Bishop Dubose, to be the gate of the city of Shechem, the gates of the city were built and the well dug within the space of two or three hundred years of each other.

From the time of the conquest of the city by the Israelites, the gates of the city were built and the well dug within the space of two or three hundred years of each other.

CHAMP DOES FADAWAY

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 7 (AP)——The gates were locked at Jack Dempsey's training camp today. The world's champion boxer, after a week of training, returned early yesterday morning. Henry Graham, state champion in 1923, and Island Empire champion in 1924, was the first to meet him. He was in the hands of Melvin Gallagher, champion of the city of Salt Lake. In the doubles Graham and M. H. Slanoff, both of this city, were defeated by Guelher and McCallum, Rocky Mountain champion.

J. L. Mc, former doubles champion of Idaho, was eliminated during the earlier part of the struggle, as was his son, Leonard, New York.

The contest, which started from start to finish, was a contest between the Twin Falls men and the Salt Lake aggregation it was stated by witnesses.

Twenty-two competitors were entered from Utah, Oregon and Idaho.

THOUGHT OLDEST LIVING TWINS IN THIS COUNTRY

LEWISBURG, Sept. 7 (AP)——Birth of the oldest living twins in the United States has become something of a fete in Mercer County, peopled by the fast-vanishing German and Alsacian immigrants and their descendants.

The twins, Mrs. Margaret Konz, who lives near Colmar, a few miles from Celina, and Mrs. Catherine Relet, of Louisville, Ohio, they were born on July 20. They staunchly maintain their "right by seniority" to the title of the oldest living twins in the United States.

SALE FOR "BLABE FOLES"

BELFAST, Sept. 7 (AP)—"Jax" is all very well for blab foles, and more, but the new "Jax" is not so good," said Cardinal Archbishop O'Flaherty in Galway, "but for boys and girls, with elasticity in their limbs, it is unsatisfactory. Then their blab dances are best."

WHY, WORRY?

The announced change of attitude on the part of Senator Gooding in respect of the World Court has served to again focus attention upon the matter.

No matter what the United States may do in the future it does not seem at all likely that, on the present basis, the United States will ever become any more closely affiliated with the institution than she now is.

The Senate, it is understood, expressed the willingness of America to become part and parcel of the machinery of the World Court, "with reservations". A mere glance at these reservations will show to them that they will be and never can be accepted. As a matter of fact the reservations are not mere reservations; they are changes in the basic structure of the court itself, and in order that they be accepted it will first be necessary to build another World Court, added to which, to cap the climax of the whole matter of the American "reservations", provision is made whereby all treaties sanctioned by the court must, after being agreed to by all other nations, be sent to Washington to be rewritten, and from this redraft there shall be no appeal whatever.

So much for American participation in European affairs via the World Court.

The opponents of the Court need have no uneasiness. America is just as definitely out of the World Court business as if she had no announced in the first place.

Which is to say that the World Court is a bad thing or an awful thing, or that the Senate did nothing but the right thing in declining to Frankly and wholeheartedly join in the movement.

CROWDS.

Gratitude Edelle found harder navigating in the sweltering streets of New York, than in the English Channel. Applause for her victory was more writhing than winds, waves and tides. Her strenuous swish did not exhaust her, but the strenuousness of her homecoming welcome drained her vitality, shattered her nerves, overwhelmed her emotionally, and sent her to bed immediately, the care of a physician, with hyperesthesia to bring her a little needed sleep.

Never was there a greater demonstration of what might be called, the crowd-power of modern life, than Stanley Lee, when he wrote his popular book on that theme some years ago, could hardly have foreseen, the extent to which crowd power would come to dominate a civilized existence.
Roused by publicity-power, they tend to overwhelm anyone who attains any kind of special fame or popularity.

One of the growing problems of mankind is to protect the individual against this crushing pressure of crowds. Will there be left in all the world, after a few more generations, enough quiet spots for that?

If not, the individual will have to take the advice of eastern sages, and cultivate a space for quietude, and privacy within his own spirit.

STEAM MOTORS.

The steam automobiles of a decade ago were largely transited, but they may come back. The latest thing along this line is an steam-powered motor for which these claims are made:

"This motor is full speed without a jet under the worst traffic conditions.
It can instantaneously stop the car, and start again in one-half of a mile, or less, in four seconds.
The motor is silent, and the steam engine is silent."

It is claimed that the motor will run for 10 hours on a single charge, and that it can be recharged in 10 minutes.

Now want Ads reach the people you wish to attract.

cars revolving around a fixed shaft, and the fire is electrically controlled and fed by a fuel spray, and the car is started by turning a switch and "stepping on the steam," and there is no starter, carburetor or gearshift, and gradually speaking, it has the pep of the gas engine with the flexibility and smoothness of the steam engine.

If all this is true, the new bus should be popular. And if there can be such a marvel in public use, its principles may be applied to the private bus. The steam engine may be obsolete—fore as a while.

BORAH WILL ADDRESS
UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Sept. 7.—Senator William E. Borah will speak at the annual meeting of the first assembly of the university on the Tuesday, September 24, instead of September 25, as was originally announced. Senator Borah has well established himself in South Idaho and he will be unable to be in Moscow for a morning address on the twenty-fifth.

The opening session of the opening assembly will be the sole change in the opening week program. Class work will start at 8 o'clock on September 20, the first Monday of the term. Students will register on Friday and Saturday, September 17 and 18.

The south Idaho special train will arrive in Moscow at 1:15 p.m. Tuesday, September 11, and is scheduled to leave Pasco at 11:30 Monday morning.

The first assembly is scheduled to take an English test at 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and will still have one day of business-like conversation on the job in hand, he adjusted the linen ropes, and after a preliminary survey of the grounds, led her through the window and out on the veranda roof. Here he briefly told her what to do, settling action to words with entire confidence, and assuring her of complete obedience as a matter of course.

This morning was the simple exercise he had expected, "any more than the upward climb had been. Light as she was, it was clear that her unpor-tent weight would be a heavy drag upon a body resting insecurely on a slippery roof with nothing more substantial than snow and ice to cling to.
But she was down, and the familiar, aquatique figure of Shaw stepped forth.

"You, let's see how fast you can run," he said, and she had a ring at youth she knew. "Shaw's watch may suddenly begin to watch, or even to see something."

She responded, and changed into what was an unmistakable sign of relief, which he attributed to excitement.

"Don't worry. All right now, I think," he said, with an immediate return to earnest. It steeled her an no other situation on his part could have done.

"Can you drive a Pierce Arrow?" he asked, as they plumped ahead through the snowdrifts.

"That's fine. That's great," it was said. "I was afraid you couldn't." This was Lauren. He went on urgently. "If we're stopped or separated, do exactly as I say. Don't lose an instant. Rush

The GIRL in the MIRROR

By Elizabeth Jordan

He stared at her frowningly, then walking to the best striped suit with an arm-swing and solaced the sheets.

"Then it's simply a question of leading you from the front," he cried, easily, "and doing you as far as I can, and we'll have to risk a drop or a foot. Show's quick."

As he spoke, he was hurriedly tearing and ringing the sheets. "Used to do this school when I was a kid," he explained. "Quilt like old times.
Now get on the coat and shoes, please."

She needed the minister. She was not at this stage, who was the father of the man she knew and the voice and manner of a stranger. All trace of young Devon's debonair difference was gone. He had the cold eyes and set jaw of a determined man, busy at some task which would surely be done, but who set about it with a peremptory air.

"Keep still," he warned, as the other started to lay his hands on her. "You think the game isn't up, but it is. Now talk, and talk."

He had to bind his hands to catch it.
The voice softened, and he was spared. "It will be all right, Outsider says... I can't believe that Shaw's letting us off as easily as this."

He increased the pressure on the three-neck. "Shaw's face began to purple. His eyes bulged horribly. He clenched his fist, and then he shrieked, and he surged. "Listen!"

The pressure on his throat relaxed.
With eyes closed, he collapsed against the nearest tree trunk.
Lauren followed him, expecting some treacherous move; but at all the right moment of the serpent. He was clutching at his coat and collar as if not yet able to breathe.

"I've had enough of this," he finally gasped, "spare me everything else."
Even the sight of Launcie, the familiar, aquatique figure of Shaw stepped forth.

Even the sound of the chattering, clanging hands—he squarely held—of what it was seeking.

Half leading, half carrying her, he had actually rabed one foot to follow her when something stirred in the shade near them, and the familiar, aquatique figure of Shaw stepped forth.

You know, I warned you of that," Lauren made sign to Shaw, which she instantly obeyed. Even before the indolent voice had finished speaking, she had dropped on the black rug he had laid, and where she was to wait for Launcie to go on to make a chance, but she had been ordered "not to stop." There was a certain exhibition in obeying that order. Crouched over the wheel, with head bent, and guessing at the turn she could not see, she pressed on through the storm.

For a moment he suffered, and then that moment, under the sense of her nearness and dearness and helplessness, he surrendered. He did not understand. Perhaps he could never understand her. But whatever was true, she was all right.

WHEAT VALUES HOLDING FIRM

Persistent Wet Weather in Canada and Fair Export Business Keep Prices Steady.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Wheat values displayed considerable firmness on the board of trade today because of favorable weather conditions that the Canadian north, which was hampering the movement of grain, had ended, and a reported liberal export business over the holidays. Wheat finished at $1.38 a bushel, up 1 1/8¢ from yesterday.

Canadian wheat sales were 1 1/8¢ down to 1 1/4¢ up, and provisions varied from the low to 15¢ up.

Persistent rains in the three provinces of Canada as well as in various parts of the northwestern wheat territory were said to have hampered the movement of grain, and a reported liberal export business over the holidays. Wheat finished at $1.38 a bushel, up 1 1/8¢ to 1 1/4¢ up.

Canadian wheat sales were 1 1/8¢ down to 1 1/4¢ up, and provisions varied from the low to 15¢ up.

Strength at Winona.

Strength at Winona. Wheat market also helped to lift values here, as did a report that between 3,000,000 and 3,500,000 bushels of wheat, domestic and Canadian had been taken for export.

Foreign demand was said to have improved, following early indications that crop conditions were less favorable because of excessive rains. Snow was reported in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, with wheat and oilseed having.

Trade, however, was only moderately active, especially in the north, where farmers were forced to hold grain when a period of dry and hot weather was regarded by the trade as needed to mature the crop before frost.

Show gave a heavy underling, the market being delivered at a new low on the crop.

Provisions were lower in line with a drop in hog values.

FIRST DAY ATTENDANCE SET NEW MARK AT FAIR

Entries in pictures on the grounds.

The program for the evening includes a grand display of fireworks and free entertainment numbers. There will be no night racing events this evening, but a race program has been arranged for Thursday night.

Visitors on the fair grounds on the opening day give future promise to the excellence and variety of exhibits in the following departments: the Twin Falls cattle department, which made good some contributions. Extent and quality of the entries in the cattle, horse and swine sections came in for particular appreciation, and the manager's building with its many and varied displays of lumber was a center of interest throughout the day.

Courtesy and efficiency of members of the Fair Board, especially Captain W. C. Scoufus, commandant of the Idaho national guard under command of Captain W. C. Scoufus, who are on duty policing the grounds, during the fair, was favorably commented upon.
