QUEEN BEGINS TRAVEL ACROSS UNITED STATES

Royal Visitor, Recovering From Severe Cold, Sets Out on Long Trip With Nurse; Reviews West Point Cadets.

By the Associated Press.
TWIN FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Queen Marie of Rumania, was occasioned an enthusiastic ovation when she arrived here shortly after 8 o'clock tonight. Thousands lined the streets and she and her party were driven from the New York station to the hotel Biltmore.

At 10:30 P. M. the queen and her party left for Buffalo. The queen's first stop was at Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 25, 1926. She was accompanied by her personal physician, Dr. J. J. McLaughlin, and her personal secretary, Miss M. J. McLaughlin. The queen's trip is part of a tour of the United States and Canada. She is expected to visit Washington, D. C., and other cities.

No Call From Home.

The announcement from the royal household, preceded another by a spokesman for the queen in denial of reports from abroad that King Ferdinand had requested Marie to terminate her tour and return to Bucharest. Reports of such nature being spread, the queen's spokesman said, were baseless.

With the departure from New York this morning, the queen willingly placed herself in the hands of a trained nurse, Miss Adeline Young of Johns Hopkins hospital, who now is in supreme command of the royal car as well as the queen's health is concerned. Miss Young will keep a close watch on Marie's condition daily, reporting any developments that might necessitate a change in program.

The morning, now recovering from a severe cold, today finished all thoughts of herself, however, when she insisted on having the steps on the car brought to a halt at West Point and then at the barracks they visited.

Soldier, Too.

"I am a soldier, too," she said, kneeling down from her advisers who held her on the train for a half hour at Garrison, since she had been from West Point. Volunteering to visit the barracks and the barracks, the queen left the car and stepped through the ranks to salute the troops. Later Marie traversed through the soldiers' ranks and passed through the soldiers' ranks.

BELGIAN MONEY ON GOLD BASIS

Financiers of Europe, United States and Asia Float Loan to Hold Franc to New Level.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—(Special to The News.)—Belgian money will go on a new gold basis tomorrow, with the creation of a new monetary standard as the basis for a five percent franc and with a definite gold value of 200 1/2 grams.

The Belgian franc will be stabilized at 12 1/2 to the pound sterling, of about 17 of its pre-war value, but it will no longer be quoted on the foreign exchange market of the world. Instead, there will be the ledger for the purpose of foreign trade.

Country Approves

The loan will be placed upon the market tomorrow. It will have interest of 7 per cent, plus for amortization, and will run for a term of 50 years. The federal reserve bank of the United States, the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the German reichsbank and similar banks in Japan, Holland, Sweden, Austria and Hungary are agreed to support the loan. In addition, $35,000,000 in credits will be placed at the disposition of the Bank of Belgium to make it carrying out the immediate stabilization plan.

Thinkers and business men in Belgium received the government's stabilization announcement this afternoon with favorable comments. The only serious criticism heard were aimed against the creation of the belge, which some traders say is an unnecessary measure. The government of the Bank of Belgium appeared on the radio today and explained why the government had decided to establish the new currency for foreign trading, while retaining the franc to domestic circulation.

UPHOLDS POWER OF PRESIDENT OVER REMOVALS

Supreme Court Decision Denies Claim for Former Portland Postmaster for Salary After Dismissal; Settles Moot Issue.

(By the Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A historic ruling upholding the power of the president to remove without consulting the senate, after approval by him with the advice and consent of that body was handed down today by the supreme court.

The court, six to three, held that the president had full discretion, in removing such officers, with the exception of a few judges, notwithstanding any restrictions that the congress might impose.

The decision set at rest a controversy between the legislative and executive branches of the government as to the constitutionality of the removal of the president in 1925, and subsequently removed by him from the office of postmaster at Portland, Ore., after the expiration of his term.

Mr. Myers Testifies
The question, frequently an issue for heated political debate, reached the court in an appeal of Frank S. Myers, appointed by President Wilson to the postmaster's office at Portland, Ore., in 1921, and subsequently removed by him in February 1923. His successor was not nominated and confirmed until after four years, the period which he had been in the office had expired.

Mr. Myers challenged his removal as illegal because of a joint resolution of July 12, 1920, which provided that postmasters of the first three classes shall be appointed and removed by the president by and with the advice and consent of the senate.

He contended he was entitled to pay for the full four years because President Wilson had not obtained the consent of the senate for his removal.

The chief justice delivered the opinion for the court, which was delivered by Chief Justice Taft, with Justices Holmes, McReynolds and Brandeis each presenting separate dissenting opinions, all agreeing in the position taken by the court was revolutionary.

Under the opinion the president is recognized as having power to remove any federal official commissioned by him with a preference with the exception of a few judges. The court held that broadly this power was placed in the president's hands in order to carry out the constitutional injunction to see that the laws are well and faithfully executed, as it had been contended by those who opposed removal that power over-removes, that unless such power were given the president might be paralyzed in the execution and proper administration of executive duties.

In reviewing the reasons for this power, it was said that whatever the grounds that might be urged for those upon whom he must rely for loyal support out of harmony with his policies and openly showing allegiance to adverse influences in congress.

While it is expected that the White House will study the decision carefully and maybe consult the department of justice about its interpretation, there is no indication of any move being in sight where the president could desire to use the power of removal.

Babson Declares Business Still Above Normal With Good Outlook For Winter

BAIBSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 25 (Special to The News)—Walter W. Babson today gave a general review of the business situation with special reference to the fall and winter. He emphasized the fact that the country is still above normal. His official statement is as follows:

1926 Crop Should Be Profitable

"There is no question that the crop of 1926 is above normal. It will average on the whole, below the crop of 1925, but on the other hand, the 1926 crop yield will be higher than the yield of 1925. The value of the 1926 crops of this country now equal 1925.

General Business Still Good

"Business as a whole is still good. The business which is a comparatively small part of the total business is still above normal. It is true that business is not making the profits which it did in 1925. This is due to the fact that the cost of production is still above normal. It is true that business is not making the profits which it did in 1925. This is due to the fact that the cost of production is still above normal.

to with us, and a nation would not be progressive if its people were satisfied with a general review of the business situation with special reference to the fall and winter. He emphasized the fact that the country is still above normal. His official statement is as follows:

Best Cities to Sell Goods

"Many localities tend to pick up in the fall, due to seasonal influences. In such cases, a larger volume of business may have little significance in showing the following list of cities, however, I have made no allowance for the usual fall stimulus and have chosen those places which show evidence of real improvement. In most instances a city mentioned may be on only a tentative basis, but it is of some activity in the surrounding region.

Most Prosperous Industries

"There is evidence that the following industries are active and expanding in such areas as a whole. In picking out these lines I have been guided largely by the employment figures, number of employees, amount of payroll, and the per cent capacity at which the industry is reported to be operating. I have given weight to improvement in the underlying factors rather than the more casual activity.

Money Rates Continue Low

"Using the tremendous amount of money which has been in the country, with the general tendency of declining commodity prices, with the possibility of declining business, it is predicted that money rates will continue fairly low. Of course, if there should be a panic temporary tightening of rates would come also, but this would not be the result of any longer term basis. Low money rates do not necessarily mean that it is easy to borrow money. The recent events in the bond and other securities markets have been in evidence.

Bullish on the United States

"America is still on the upgrade. It will take some years to start the upward momentum of our great country, even though there will be periods of depression every few years. America not only has the resources and the labor, but it has the genius, the courage and the faith which make her a world power. It is the other hand, her many problems tend to solve before it can be out of danger.

Commodity Prices Declining

"Commodity prices will tend to decline over a long period of years. The increased production capacity, the development of scientific research, the increase in the number of producers, all point in this direction. When only the immediate outlook for commodity prices is considered, it would not be surprising to see some strengthening this fall and winter. Every commodity, however, should be judged on its own merits. They cannot be judged generally. For instance, I would not be surprised to see coal and rubber go up in price; while grain, cotton, cement and most building materials may go down in price.

Stock Market Outlook

"I cannot be bullish on the stock market at the present time. Of course, there are exceptions to every rule, but the chances are close to one that we will see lower stock market prices in 1927 than we saw in 1926. If there ever was a time when you should take profits it is today. The average of the stocks on the Baltimore market stands at 101 compared with a low of 87 in the summer of 1924. It may take two or three years to bring about a readjustment or it may occur in a year. I emphasize this statement for general advice, but not for business. Those who wish to realize real service today can do so by starting up cash paying the most profitable thing that is being sold at the present time. The latter is more gambling and gamblers ultimately wind up with disaster. The only safe and honest way to make profit is by rendering service.

Conclusion

"As above stated, business at the present time is good, considering the country as a whole. Fair conditions exist in the Pacific West and in parts of the Central West and the Southwest. Good crops are being raised in Minnesota, Iowa, and westward through some of the Rocky Mountain states, and the situation is still unsatisfactory in Florida and in other Southeast states. The weakness in cotton has been an unfavorable and far-reaching factor. Lumber and money is easy; commodities are stable; and most industries are enjoying a good volume of business. The three lines in the business situation are: First, the foreign situation, which is still unsettled; Second, the installment credit situation which is being worked with the American people; Third, the fact that the manufacturing capacity of almost all industries exceeds the existing power.

Added to these is the fact that no one wants to work; so many want to get something for nothing and all are clamoring for something—something. In such a time, we are in a period of prosperity, and just things point to some further and more prosperous period of the future. It is our duty to get back to the fundamentals of integrity, industry, thrift and a desire to be of real service.

SENATOR GOODING

does not claim support because, like John F. Nugent, he has—

- ✓ Avoided criticism by doing and being nothing;
  - ✓ Worked with a party which created big deficits;
  - ✓ Opposed legislation that would bolster up farm prices;
  - ✓ Permitted a flow of immigration deadly to industry;
  - ✓ Permitted gambling with farm products;
- Served as a Democrat in the period of wasteful spending and misuse.

Senator Gooding

does not ask votes like H. F. Samuels.

- ✓ Samuels is fighting the tariff on farm-produced food and raw materials and manufactured articles made from them.
  - ✓ Samuels is dodging national issues by limiting his speeches to state affairs.
  - ✓ Samuels' record is one of shirking duty.
- Samuels' petty quibbling has no place in the United States Senate.

FRANK R. GOODING

A man with an active record not a passive one.

Seeks your support because he has worked with the group which has achieved:
The budget,

- Emergency tariff relief,
- Immigration restriction,
- A billion dollar "war finance" fund for loans to farmers and stockmen,
- $25,000,000 for additional farm loan funds,
- It made farm loan bonds more marketable,
- Restrained grain gambling,
- Curbed corrupt practices of packers,
- Reduced Federal taxes over a billion a year,
- Provided $75,000,000 for expenditures on public highways,
- Established intermediate credit banks for farm loans,
- Liberalized war risk insurance procedure,
- Prohibited shipments of filled milk,
- Protected butter sales with high standard regulations,
- Fought valiantly for freight rate reduction,
- Provided for reclamation project farmers the fact-finder's bill giving honest relief,
- Brought new development and prosperity to Idaho,

Senator Gooding

Personally headed the tariff fight,

- He introduced and succeeded in passing of the pure seed bill,
- He won place on the senate steering committee,
- He is on the interstate commerce committee and in line for the chairmanship of this committee, the agriculture committee, or the irrigation committee,
- With Addison T. Smith, he secured the passage of the fact-finder's bill by Congress,
