DEMAND EARLY
ACTION TO AID
FARM MARKETS

Delegates to Corn and Cotton
Conference at St. Louis
Adopt Declaration of Principles at Final Session.

(By The Associated Press) ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 17. Early legislation to "enable the farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at their own expense so as to obtain a reasonable return for their valuable product," was demanded of congress in a declaration of principles adopted at the closing session here to day of the corn and cotton states conference.

"We assert our conviction," the statement says, "that such legislation must function through and foster cooperative marketing."

Outstanding points of the declaration are:

E endorse Lowden Plan

Endorsement of the federal farm board plan sponsored by Frank E. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; a plan similar in principle to the McNary-Haugen bill of last winter to create a board with power to accumulate surplus and provide the corn and cotton market with a reasonable return.

Criticism of both political parties in Congress for failure in the past to provide adequate farm relief.

A demand for immediate reduction in the prices of certain basic materials, as aluminum, steel and chemicals, which cut costs, it is charged, afford shelter for price-fixing monopolies.

Suggestion for Probe

A committee of entrepreneurs has been investigating of certain signs of agricultural legislation, particularly "the interrelationships which appear to give industrial advisers, interested as dealers and speculators, deciding voices in the enactment and administration of agricultural legislation."

A demand for a permanent program for cotton, and criticism of the present cotton and cottonseed market with a view to withdrawal of surplus from the market as "inefficient" and a "temporary expedient."

A defense of the "McNoe system," in which cottonseed dealers who sought out and represented from agricultural regions "organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit regardless of party to express and work for the common welfare of agriculture."

Holiday Revels

The closing section of the statement calls attention to "the spirit of unity and harmony which dominated the conference and which is the significant fact that farmers and farm leaders from south and north had got together successfully for the first time."

Senatorial Brookbank of Iowa said the conference had also decided to day, insuring the delegates they were wise in not endorsing any specific farm relief bill. He declared a federal farm board would be more likely to control and withhold surplus crops than to ensure the farmers' cost of production and a five per cent profit.

The conference failed to form any permanent committee, Dr. Tad Smith of Memphis, chairman, explaining it was not desired to form "a heavy, wieldy organization of agriculturists." He declared the "whole point of the conference to establish of unity and understanding between the founders of the various sections, had been realized."

Leader of Strange Religious Cult to Remain in Texas

Patriarch of Sect Abandons Plan of Moving Followers From Fort Worth After Quationing by County Officials.

(UPI) FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 17 (UP)—An anti-religious crusader who left Fort Worth, W. S. Nentall, howling-eyed protagonist of a Christ-like cult late today said he and the 24 women and two men of his flock will continue for the present their residence in a two-story brick house at 1309 Main street.

Harold H. Stanford, 38, who had informed the crusader, expatiated it was not destined to form "a heavy, wieldy organization of agriculturists."

He declared the "whole point of the conference to establish of unity and understanding between the founders of the various sections, had been realized."

Stanford earlier had intimated that the band might pack up and depart. Their large moving van, after questioning by county officials, seeking the fugitives' whereabouts, had remained, now under arrest in Michigan on charges preferred by women members of his house of David colony.

No grounds for action were found.

Palmer, Ark., Nov. 17 (UPI)—K. H. Stamford, responding to requests that Stanford be ousted from the county, said he had no grounds for such action. He said his wife will not interfere with the operation of his religious rights, if the need to worship at it pleases.

There are no marriages within the group, Stanford said, and the sect has no name and no purpose other than spiritual salvation, according to Stamford.

Eleven of the women, who range from 25 to 70 years of age, live on the first floor of the house with their cult master, making 12 of a total of 14 people.

Four men, including the master, are housed on the second floor.

Church precedent of 12 disciples, the heart-beating flock shepherd revealed.

Mrs. Clements, according to witnesses, had just alighted from a north bound city bus. She walked in front of the coach, then stepped aside, allowing her way home. As she cleared the bus, the northbound coach approached her. According to witnesses, she apparently did not see the coach and continued directly in front of it.

DEATH SUMMONS C. B. CARTWRIGHT

Twin Falls Pioneer Business Man and Descendant of Famous Family Found Dead.

Charles B. Cartwright, who in 1911 with W. G. Cartwright, established Twin Falls' first newspaper, died Saturday morning at his residence at 412 Ninth Avenue. Death was attributed to effects of earlier colds and throat trouble which he had suffered for many years. He was 77 years old. Mr. Cartwright never married, and had lived alone for many years.

Death is believed to have occurred during the night. The deceased was a son of Dr. M. C. Cartwright, a neighbor who, apprehensive over Mr. Cartwright's condition, called at the house where he failed Tuesday morning to observe any signs of life. Mr. Cartwright had been absent from his place of business, the Greenback Mortuary. No arrangements have been made for funeral services pending arrival of relatives. The body will be held at the Greenback Mortuary until November 20.

Miss Cartwright was a nephew of Dr. Peter Cartwright, a Methodist minister, who died recently at Alameda, California, in 1919, for election to the United States House of Representatives from Illinois. His older brother, the late Rev. Dr. J. C. Cartwright, a representative of the Illinois state supreme court at the time of his death, a few weeks ago, at the age of 81 years.

A graduate of Princeton university and an ordained minister of the Unitarian church, Mr. Cartwright left the east in early manhood and spent many years in western states and in Alaska. He devoted many years to public service as an instructor, to public schools.

The grocery, which was established here by Mr. Cartwright and Mr. Cartwright's father, was sold to the late Harry Allen and became the nucleus of the Idaho Department store, which was organized subsequently by Mr. Allen and associates. Mr. Cartwright was a member of the school board for some years, a director of the Bickel school, and was held in high regard both by teachers and students.

ACTIVE OLD FELLOW.

He was a member of the Twin Falls Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which was instituted in 1905, and was active in the affairs of that fraternity. It was his wish expressed in his will that his body should be buried in the Hillside Cemetery, which should be built in Twin Falls by the local lodge. Advice received Wednesday from the sister were to the effect that the body should be interred in Hillside Cemetery, and in view of the fact that the body was enfeebled, it was decided in the service of the Odd Fellows that the body should be buried in Twin Falls by the local lodge. When stricken by his grievous affliction, Mr. Cartwright was compelled to retire from active pursuits, and in later years was a patient in the well-known medical specialties in Rochester, Minnesota; Portland and St. Paul.

MAY. VALENTINE GLAD TO HEAR YOUNG SINGERS

May Valentine, owner and director of May Valentine's Grand Opera Company, who will present "The Bohemian Girl," Friday and Saturday, November 19 and 20 with a special matinee for schools on Saturday afternoon, has been pleased to receive letters from her business associates and friends, in which they have expressed their admiration for her business acumen, her ability to elicit and retain the services of young prospective artists, and the success of her organization.

"The Whole Town's Talking," comes from the collective pens of that famous team of movie writers, John Emerson and Anna, Ladd, and is set in a small town where the young people have taken up a plan of starting their scenes myself life as of the starting point and center of the highly amusing plot.

Like sparkling white, sparkling and cheerful, the story begins with the same opportunity to singers of this town.

However, she is coming to them as the company proceeds on its transcontinental tour. May Valentine's story long enough, such as the hear and advise, and singer who may call upon her.

During the three years lost of this present company, many discoveries of unusually good voices have been made. In some instances offers have been made to the singer, and others have made open to operate work and made good.

Miss Valentine will be pleased to hear and advise any young singer should call at the office of the Orpheum at 514 Main, Friday, November 19.

JURY ACQUITS IN WATER CASE

Verdict Declares William George Not Guilty of Interference With Irrigation Ditch.

William George, Twin Falls district farmer, is not guilty of negligence and damage of irrigation ditches in irrigating his land. He has been indicted twice since March 1, last, according to the indictment returned by a jury in district court here. A writ of certiorari was granted by the U. S. District Court, the defense and prosecuting attorneys, J. W. Taylor, to the state.

The verdict was rendered a few minutes after the trial began yesterday morning and was read to the court reading in part of the testimony of George he had implanted on May 24 to remove the irrigation ditch water from his land which was not to the benefit of his neighbors, L. C. Griffin, both of which are noted by the same date. Mr. Griffin was the principal witness for the state, which charged that a piece of wood placed in George's irrigation ditch did not allow water to flow from it without a greater amount of water than that to which it was entitled.

William H. George, son of the defendant, was present in the courtroom with his attorney with whom he came down from his ranch at Idaho Falls to hear the proceedings here.

ENDORSER'S LIABILITY TO BE TESTED IN SUIT

Idaho's stock judging team at the American Royal Livestock show in Kansas City, composed of Chester Clark, Clifford Davis and Duran Miller, were delayed on their return from the show, which was scheduled to open in district court here today.

The notes in question, six in number and each drawn in the sum of $50, were given to the judges to be used in completing the Haileyton show on November 11.

They were payable at intervals of one month, the first one falling due seven months after date of note, the last note being due to the judges 26 days later.

The notes were given to the plaintiff Wilker. Officers were unable to find the judges to make service of summons in which the suit was instituted in August 1925.

Clifford Davis, defense, argued that the notes were given to him on behalf of the stock judging team, and that he had paid the amount in full, and defendant Goodman by letter advised him.

Wilkes, defense, argued that the notes were given to the stock judging team.

Mr. Erwin, attorney for the defense, stated that he was present in the office of the stock judges when the note was given to him and he saw no evidence of payment.

The defense, however, insisted
