YOUNG WOMEN PREFER DEATH TO SEPARATION

Sarah Lunsford and Ruth Drake
Choose Poison as Method of Ending Lives; Suicide Pact
Police Theory

(By The Associated Press)
SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 20.—A autopsy performed this afternoon revealed that Miss Ruth Drake, 23, and Miss Sarah Landstedt, 22, died of nu-

Report was made by Dr. J. J. Gallagher, who made the examination. The body was found a short distance from the city by the side of the Salt Lake City-Ogden highway last night. An empty bottle that had contained the poison was found nearby.

"Murder and suicide," was the announcement of Police Chief Joseph L. Ruffridge, who had a large corps of officers investigating the strange death.

The police investigation disclosed that a strange affection had existed between the two young women for a period of more than four years, as was shown by letters they had exchanged and also from a diary found among Miss Drake's effects. KING FERDINAND GAINS STRENGTH

Rumanian Ruler Reported Much Improved; Public Eye Focuses on Queen and Carol.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Nov. 29.—Reports have been received here today that King Ferdinand of Rumania is dead. These reports apparently originated from several sources, but they have not been confirmed.

The death of King Ferdinand of Rumania has been reported in several forms from various sources. The Zeitung Allgemeine Zeitung has published an unconfirmed report from Bucharest that Ferdinand died on Saturday.

The Bucharest dispatch says that the president of a proclamation of a republic.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 29.—King Ferdinand's condition is an unimproved in official circles is still good, with a tendency toward improvement. The king continues to confer with his ministers and all available reports in the capital as to his health are optimistic. Several official reports state that there is no serious or immediate danger.

PARIS, Nov. 29.—Queen Marie at 74 and Prince Carol at 35, are the chief figures in the Rumanian situation. Their expected meeting in Paris may shape the future of the country.

Paris dispatches from Bucharest, latest reports say, are continued to improve. The serious condition is admitted, yet some Rumanian officials declare he is not in danger of death.

Speculate on Queen's Action

The fall is giving the political action an opportunity to speculate on whether the queen will act in a way which will be to the benefit of the Rumanian people. Carol is keeping his own counsel, though he is reported to be involved in a declaration of his attitude in the Rumanian situation.

Carol, it is true, renounced his rights to the throne, but his supporters believe that he has a right to be considered as a legitimate claimant. He is reported to be a powerful personality or revolutionary figure. What the former queen prince thinks, he has not yet said.

The most effective weapon in the Rumanian crisis is probably the king. The Rumanian situation is a political history has been very little of late, but what has been permitted to be reported out regarding the king's attitude is probably reasonably accurate. So far as is known from the Rumanian situation, the king is making a good fight for life. Queen Marie's decision to spend a day or two in Paris is generally accepted as proving that the king's condition is not so grave.

Carol Holds Tongue

Carol has ignored all stories of his intention to return to the Rumanian capital and claim the throne. He has been silent as the press reports have been making the last two weeks. King Ferdinand's life is reported to be less and less to dominate the situation and it is apparently now a matter of what Carol and Rumania's many bitterly factioned politicians will do.

GRAVES CRISIS FACES CHINESE

Volunteers which have occurred in Hankow during the past few months, but of a threatened general strike and boycott there.

He said that the commission of inquiry, which is now in Hankow, is possible to keep the Chinese house open and to maintain a "light service" for the foreign nation in Hankow, but admitted that this might be difficult if the Chinese house, which is within the Chinese city, should be picked.

According to the latest reports, he said, the situation appeared quiet. The Chinese union had presented its demands and they were understood to be of an immoderate nature. Sir Austin added that perhaps this was only a preliminary move.

Promises Further Information

He then asked Mr. Macdonald to repeat his question on Wednesday when he thought he would be able to give further information.

Replying to further questions, the foreign secretary said that he had received a communication from the British community of Hankow expressing fear of untoward incidents involving bloodshed and stating that the protection afforded by the British naval forces there was considered inadequate. The admiralty and ministry, Sir Austin said, were giving this matter attention.

SUPREME COURT DEFINES RIGHTS OF PHYSICIANS

Subject to Enforcement

Pointing out that congress had prohibited the use of intoxicating malt liquor for medicinal use and that the court had unanimously sustained that law, the court further said that "while the court is not a legislative body, it is not to be understood that congress is exercising an express power to validate or to effect its purposes. It is not to be understood that congress is inquisitorial in the exercise of its power."

If congress may prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating malt liquor for medicinal purposes, it may also prohibit the sale of such liquor for other purposes. The court said, it is equally and to the same end may restrict the prescription of other intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes.

The authority, in an opinion by Justice Sutherland, held that the decision by the ninth circuit court was not binding, because malt liquor had no substantial medicinal value. While the court said that the decision was not binding, it was not without serious consideration, they insisted that congress, in preventing their use, should be supported by the court as conclusive evidence on the point of value.

HIGH TRIBUNAL DENIES REVIEW

United States Supreme Court Refuses to Hear Belridge Oil Case; Orders Sinclair Action.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The United States supreme court today refused to hear the Belridge oil case, which was argued before the court on Monday. The court's decision was a surprise to many, as the case had been expected to be heard.

The case, which involves the Belridge oil field, was argued before the court on Monday. The court's decision was a surprise to many, as the case had been expected to be heard.

Acting on another case, which also involved the Belridge oil field, the court ordered government counsel to file by December 9 their objections to the appeal of Harry E. Sinclair, for a review of the court of appeals decision annulling his Texas lease contract.

The government had requested that the Sinclair proceedings be continued, but the court had refused to do so.

No Fraud Charges

In the Belridge case, an charge of fraud was made but the department of justice attacked the Elk Hills reserve made to the company by the interior department as an invalid delegation of authority by the navy department. The solicitor general also requested that the Sinclair case be continued, but the court had refused to do so.

The Belridge and Sinclair cases presented substantially the same questions of law, making it unnecessary to go into the Sinclair case, if the lower court was sustained in the Belridge case. (Continued from page one)

Sinclair asserted, however, that a decision in the Belridge case would not necessarily dispose of the legal questions in the Sinclair case.

PLACE TUNNEY UNDER ARREST

Heavyweight Champion Pugilist in Toils for Violating New York Boxing Statute.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Gus Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, was arrested today charged with violating the boxing law by appearing in an unauthorized exhibition in the city. Tunney, 33, was arrested by police officers at the New York Athletic Club, where he was training.

Tunney, with his boxing mates, Harry Houdini and Frank Marshall, were taken to the West 47th street station where the champion was held as a prisoner. The manager of the boxer, Joseph G. Smith, was taken into custody, charged with permitting the boxing exhibition without first having obtained a permit from the state boxing commission.

All four were released on $2000 bail. The arrests followed the complaint of Edward Curry, an inspector of the state boxing commission, which previously had refused to sanction the boxing exhibition.

A similar ruling had been made in the case of Tiger Flowers, shortly after the news of the middleweight fight.

PARENTS TO SALT LAKE LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—

Mr. and Mrs. Ruth Lundell, whose daughter Sarah and a girl friend, Ruth Drake, were found dead in Salt Lake City last night under circumstances indicating suicide, prepared to leave here at 2 o'clock tonight for the Utah city.

An aunt of the dead girl, who declined to give her name, and the parents of the girl, who declined to give her name, are expected to arrive in Salt Lake City about December 15, and to come to Los Angeles. On receipt of a telegram that their daughter was dead, Lundell with his family left their home and are apparently seeking further details of the tragedy.

A letter received recently said she planned to attempt for employment in Salt Lake City about December 15, and to come to Los Angeles.

TEAM TO LEAVE FOR LEWISTON

Seventeen Members of Bruin Squad, With Coaches and Manager, to Make Trip.

The Bruins will not leave for Lewiston until Wednesday morning was the chief item of the coaches yesterday. It is thought that two long in the lower attitude before the team might be injurious to the players and consequently the Bruins will have but one day in the northern city before the trip begins.

The Bruins took their last workout of the season last night on Lincoln field and the faithful second string players turned in their suits after a long hard season. To the credit must go a large share of the credit for this showing the Bruins have made this year. It is these lads that have taken the doubling night after night in dust and mud and that the first string might get playing experience and many of the scrubs have stayed out all season when they had but a remote chance of ever being used in a game. From these youngsters the coaches will have a wealth of material for the 1927 season and many of them have made remarkable progress for the first year out.

Seventeen to Make Trip

Seventeen Bruins, Coaches Plastico and Jones and Student Manager Alexander will leave Twin Falls Wednesday morning in buses to catch the early morning train at Bliss. Members of the Klamath club will furnish the cars for the trip.

The following Bruins will make the trip: Lucie, Vance, Williams, Anderson, Lewis, Dattier, Simpson, Robertson, Jorg, Owens, Sullivan, Perrine, A. Krampton, E. Krampton, Nye, Haynes and Martin. It is possible that three

DUMBBELLS HUMBLED BY WILD TURKEYS MAY BE IDAHO GAME BIRD SOON

DOSE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Idaho's first game birds may be wild turkeys. Mr. Tamm, state game warden, announced investigation of the possibility of introducing the birds here, reports for the investigation having been received from northern Idaho sportsmen.

The wild turkey is one of the most common and most abundant of game birds in the world. It is a native of the United States and is found in many parts of the country. It is a game bird and is much prized by sportsmen.

COACH PLASTINO GIVES APPRECIATION DINNER

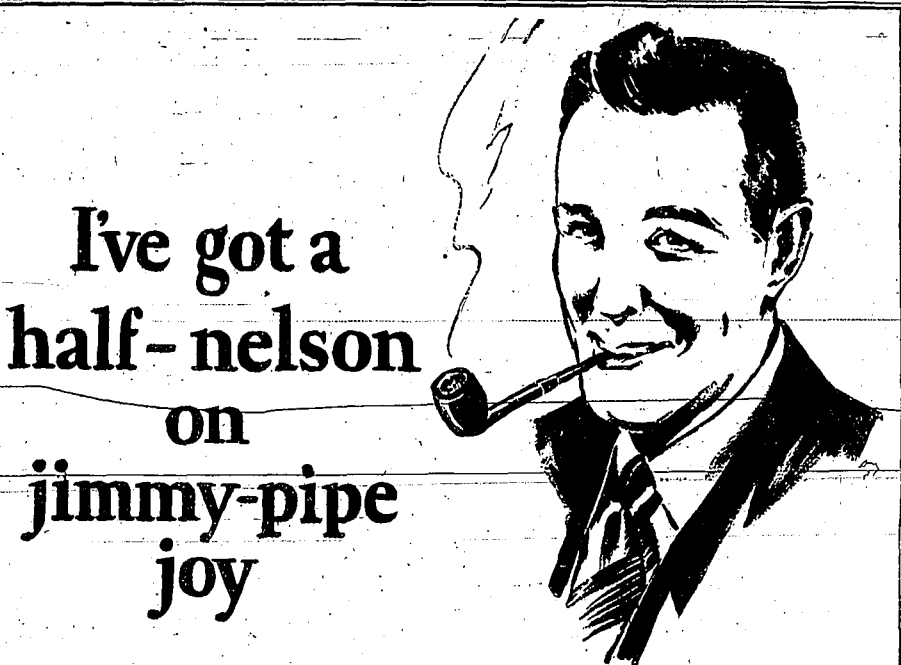

Coach Felix Plastico entertained the members of his football squad at a dinner in his home last night. It was an appreciation dinner for the Bruins, who have fought through 10 hard games and lost but one. A team that has kept its goal unbreached by a district team this season, and one that is deserving of much praise.

Coach Jones and E. M. Streeby were also guests, and the team went away with a team spirit that bodes ill for the Lewiston Bruins next Friday.

GUARDS DINNER MEETING SCENE OF ENTERTAINING

Sergeant O. D. Guffey, Transferred to New Field of Duty in California; Guests Stress Value of Military Training.

Sergeant O. D. Guffey, regular army instructor for Idaho national guard units, who has been in the service for nearly five years, and stationed at Twin Falls for the past two and a half years, received orders Monday to report within the next few days to Fresno, California, for similar service with California national guard in the same position.

Gallied men of Company B, Twin Falls, and officers of Company B, Twin Falls, held a dinner and meeting Monday evening to bid adieu to their comrade, who has been in the service for nearly five years, and stationed at Twin Falls for the past two and a half years, received orders Monday to report within the next few days to Fresno, California, for similar service with California national guard in the same position.

Guests, almost without exception, when called upon to bid adieu to their comrade, stressed the importance of the service rendered by national guardsmen and spoke of advantages gained by members of the guard as a result of their training and discipline.

"I believe, and I hope that I shall live to see the day when military training will be made compulsory for period of four years in our high schools, to be followed by six months of active service," declared Captain McElbert, veteran of two wars, and for many years commander of Twentieth Century club.

"Such a course of training," Captain McElbert continued, "would develop most efficient citizen soldiers, and it is a pity that the young men of this city are not given such a course of training."

J. Paul Thomas, lately appointed first sergeant of the Twin Falls unit, was introduced by Private Julian Newman.

The next quarterly social session of the Twin Falls gunnery club, Captain McElbert, veteran of two wars, and for many years commander of Twentieth Century club, was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. L. Hodgins, and since the third annual fall gunnery competition, the next, it was suggested that a celebration of the event be arranged.

NEW CHURCH TO BE BUILT HERE

Members of Christian Church Directorate Take First Steps Towards Construction of $60,000 Building.

Plans for the purchase of a site and erection of a new church building are being completed by the directors of the Christian church here Sunday afternoon.

Recommending the building committee to purchase the site of the lot on the corner of Sixth avenue north and Shoshone street north, opposite the high school campus, were approved by the directors.

The building, which will be used in the present site, is the completion of the new building, and will be remodelled for use as a parsonage.

A financial campaign will be launched by the church in two weeks.

More Power FOR Less Money

STUDEBAKER offers you more power at lower cost. Only seven American cars have higher horsepower than the Studebaker Big Six—and the Big Six far outstrips every one of them.

The Studebaker Standard Six is rated by the Society of Automotive Engineers as the most powerful car of its size and weight in the world.

70% of all makers of motor cars have now adopted the L-head type of motor such as Studebaker has used for years. Annually Studebaker spends $600,000 to build balance into the Big Studebaker crankshaft to insure its vibrationless performance—its smooth flow of power.

Think of power to cross the continent in 88 hours and 20 minutes—as one Big Six owner did recently.

Think of power that gives scores of thousands of miles of satisfying service—87 Studebaker owners have driven their cars 100,000 miles and more.

Think of power to keep up to many American corporations operate fleets of 10 to 140 Studebakers.

Now Studebaker offers you this brilliant performance—and outstanding beauty in one of these new Custom cars—at a One-Price price.

MORE IDLE MONEY IN AMERICA THAN EVER, BARBON DECLARES

Noted Statistician Looks for Easy Rates Throughout Coming Winter, Unless Unusual Disturbance Takes Place; Optimistic on Outlook.

BARBON PARK, Mass., Nov. 29
(Special to The News)—Roger W. Barbon was today interviewed on the subject of the money market and the outlook for the coming winter. He feels that there is more idle money in this country today than there has been for a long time. He points out that the money market is very loose, and that the Federal Reserve Bank has been buying up government securities in large quantities. He believes that this will lead to easy money conditions throughout the coming winter, unless there is some unusual disturbance. He is optimistic about the outlook for the future.

Banking Statistician
The figures published by the Federal Reserve Bank today show that the money market is very loose. The total amount of money in circulation is at a record high, and the Federal Reserve Bank has been buying up government securities in large quantities. This has led to a decline in the discount rate, and to a general feeling of ease in the money market. The statistician believes that these conditions will continue throughout the coming winter, unless there is some unusual disturbance.

been a great factor in bringing about higher wages. Moreover, money received, instead of being employed solely for hiring labor to manufacture whiskey and beer, has been used in hiring labor to build houses, make clothes and other things that are worth while. will try to get credit for reducing taxes. All of these movements should tend to help the money situation. The only weakness in the situation is that Europe may have something which would upset the world financially. Europe is far from settled. Europe is hampered by its own financial situation. What Mother really wants.

An Automatic Hotpoint Electric Range

It Will Make Mother's Christmas the Happiest Ever—It's the Easiest Gift to Give

In the matter of gifts, Mother deserves the best. And what gift could be more expressive of your thoughtfulness than a dependable Electric Range? Make Mother's greatest task—preparing three meals a day—a labor of love. Make her happier every day for many years to come by giving her an electric range, thus eliminating the scouring of soot from pots and pans, the carrying of coal and ashes, the fuss and bother of old fashioned cooking methods.

A Beautiful All-White Electric Range

This new All-White Christmas Range has every modern convenience, yet is so compact it will fit into the smallest home or apartment kitchen. It takes little space but is amply large in cooking capacity.

This new electric range means better cooking, easier cooking, less time in the kitchen, comfort and economy of a lifetime.

What a wonderful gift for Mother! For years, to come its gleaming whiteness will be her pride. Every time she uses it, its exactness, convenience, and time-saving features will make its use a pleasure. The beautiful white enamel of the range cannot stain or discolor. It keeps its snowy white appearance—"clean as a china plate."

Decide now to give Mother this wonderful Christmas gift. Call the family together and plan to take advantage of the remarkable opportunity offered. Think of it! You can present Mother with this "greatest of all gifts" for a first payment of only $2.50. And you can pay the balance next year in convenient sums of $5.00 a month.

Remember, every one of these ranges is guaranteed by the Service Department of the Idaho Power Company.

FACTS
Frigidaire...
ONE reason for Frigidaire's overwhelming popularity is the fact that it freezes more ice, by actual weight, than other electric refrigerators of the same size.
The Frigidaire freezing trays are self-sealing. The white enameled fronts of the ice trays completely overlap the top of the tray, thus preventing the loss of the ice within the trays.
Long ago, Frigidaire developed the brine tank in favor of the more efficient frost coil. The frost coil causes simpler, quicker temperature control, which is so accurate and stable that it never has to be adjusted once it has been properly set.
Frigidaire is superior in ice-freezing capacity, food storage space, low operating cost and quiet operation. Frigidaire offers unequalled standards of construction and beauty of design. Frigidaire offers a permanent and thoroughly trained and established service organization. It is the only electric refrigerator guaranteed by General Motors.

LET'S REMEMBER THIS

"The year Christmas shopping ends" say the stores of Twin Falls, and "the Christmas shopping ends" say the stores of Twin Falls, and "the Christmas shopping ends" say the stores of Twin Falls.

It may seem like a small thing; one of the matters which can just as well be postponed as not, but the people connected with stores and Post Office have a different sort of a tale to tell.

There will be a last minute rush of course there always has been and always will be, but let's not forget at the last minute the Christmas activity by those who serve in store and office—let's lighten their labors all we can.

It will mean letter writing for customers and less, much less of back breaking toil during lengthened hours which is always associated with the Christmas season by those whose duties bring them into close contact with the public.

COAL AND COTTON

"Day a spool of cotton," the South used to plead when there was a surplus production. That helped a little.

"Day a cotton mattress," a Texas grower suggests now. Yet it is hardly the ultimate solution, because it is only temporary. The more mattress people buy now, the fewer they will buy a year from now. People can sleep on only one mattress at a time. What is needed is a permanent solution for the problem of utilizing big cotton crops.

Cotton and wool are doing with coal. The coal used to be "only good to burn," and none too good at that, the way they burned it. Now they are making gas, gasoline, lubricating oil, grease and a thousand other valuable things out of it. This coal can be used for the most valuable of products.

The same thing, in less degree, can immediately be done with cotton. It is a basic raw material with thousands of uses, many now known but not applied, many awaiting discovery. Cotton growers could well afford to support laboratories and scientists devoted all their time to creating new uses for cotton and making them known to the public. Congress could well support such research. The demand for cotton would then expand as a matter of course.

NIPPONESE PRINCESS TO GET FISH ON BIRTHDAY

TOKYO, Nov. 29 (AP)—Princess Tenu-Miya, the first child born to Prince Akihito and Princess Nobuko, will have a birthday party on December 6 at which time she will be just one year old.

Tallie little American girls, her imperial highness will not receive a single doll as birthday present. Instead she will be presented with fish—not too many, freshly caught and carefully wrapped in sealed boxes and delivered in costly and beautiful baskets.

This is the custom in Japan. The first birthday always is for fish. The emperor, the empress and all members of the imperial family each pay two fish to the little princess. Gifts of fish on the first birthday mean that many birthdays will follow, with all sorts of luck and prosperity.

ARAB AND JEW TALK

QUICKLY TO ELECTRICITY

JERUSALEM, Nov. 27 (AP)—Arabs and Jews have taken so enthusiastically to electricity for cooking and heating that the Jewish Electric Company has been able to declare a 6 per cent dividend.

Millions work in connection with a great electrification scheme on the Jordan, designed to revolutionize Palestine's economic conditions, is going ahead with a rush.

Bird Protection Holds Attention In Many Nations

Great Britain, France, Sweden, Belgium and Australia Take Steps to End Abuse of Feather Industries.

The International Committee for the Protection of Birds, which is periodically held by the National Association of American Audubon Societies, has recently issued a report for the British section which states that efforts to obtain official recognition of the destruction of birds for feather industries have resulted in a decision that international action is needed though no definite action has resulted.

The committee has successfully brought to the attention of the Swedish government that wholesale commercialization and destruction of birds in the basis of the Baltic sea and that government is proceeding to deal with the matter on the basis of international cooperation, both at the source of supply and in the countries where markets are found.

Probe Bird Smuggling

Alleged smuggling of birds of paradise from the upper waters of the Fly river in New Guinea has been investigated by the Australian government and assurances have been given that smuggling from the Fly river in the future will be impossible, but that it may go on in a neighboring state. The investigation is continuing.

Excessive and indiscriminate shooting of scarlet ibis in the island of Trinidad on the part of the native population has been reported to the British government. The Trinidad government is dealing with the problem.

The French government has established a sanctuary for pelicans and other birds on the territory of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, on the islands of St. Paul and Amsterdam, and that portion of the Antarctic continent under the control of France.

The French government has issued a decree directing a reserve to be known as the Albert National Park in the French colony of Madagascar, in the vicinity of Lake Rana and Uagahia, in view of the rapid opening up of this country for industrial purposes. This action is considered an enlightened step toward safeguarding the wild life resources of its African provinces.

DALLIN'S PEACE STATUE RESTORED FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 (AP)—Dallin's celebrated peace statue "A Signal From Peace" is to be restored to Chicago.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the privilege of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe that every woman would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 2050 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential.—Adv.

The Doom Trail

"You are sure you can stay out so long?" I asked with some surprise.

"No," he said solemnly. "When you hear a noise like a fish rising three times, that's Peter."

He settled knife and tomahawk against either thigh, along a spare flask of powder behind him, snuck forward to his chin and began to cleave the water with powerful, overhead strokes.

"We must hurry, brother," admonished Taw-near-as.

He started off at right angles with the path we had been following, and we felt a circle around the group of fish, coming ultimately to a high point above the shore half a mile beyond there. Here we rested, both because our weariness was very great and because we desired to witness Peter's exploit, and, if need be, be prepared to aid him.

It was past midnight, and the fire had burned low and the brandy stirred themselves stupid. Not a sound came to us, except for the calling of a wolf from the heavy timber inland and the croaking of water-birds.

Taw-near-as's eagle vision, which saw the danger signal. He gripped my arm.

"Look, brother," he hissed.

I jerked, and a flame sprang upward between the fire and the water. There was a sharp explosion. A long minute elapsed, and then a cluster of excited yells rose, dropped and was sustained.

We listened for ten minutes, and whilst the yelling continued, with intermittent shouting there was nothing to indicate triumph or satisfaction.

Peter had killed, after thorough grandly, gradually did out as the unweakened savages removed those rances which had not caught fire and threw on such as were only smoldering.

Half an hour passed uneventfully. Then the steady tapping of the water against the beach was disturbed by a splash, a fish making its rising. It was repeated twice. Taw-near-as leaped over and splashed the water, thrice with his hand. A grant boomed out of the darkness. Hisses sprang in a widening circle, and a huge form stepped noiselessly ashore, ignoring our helping hands.

"And that was a good joke on Taw-near-as," muttered Peter. "Some rances I smash with der der and some I blow up with der powder and some are burned. While you my friends? I am soaked like der mosquito."

"You were long in coming," said Taw-near-as. "My brother is not hurt?"

"No, no. Oof, what a swim! I tell you I half bubbles under my skin! Ja?"

"Did you damage them much?" I asked eagerly.

Peter suspended the operation of strutting into his shirt and checked shrilly.

"I would like much to see der face of that Joneau when he counts his cane cuts der der puma he has lost twice now we get der joke on him."

Yet as he was, with the water dripping from his tank hair, he laid upon, cutting that dangerous hostility to us. We trailed across country until the sun was high, and we stumbled upon an isolated family of Ononagas, who made us free of their acquaintance.

We spent two days with these people, recuperating in preparation for the stern task ahead of us. After parting with them we continued in leisurely fashion eastward, keeping well to the north of the trail of the Long House and avoiding as much as possible contact with the Ononagas, Ononagas and Mohawks, whose country we traversed. Some ten days after leaving Taw-near-as we found ourselves on the verge of that untracked domain which was roamed by the Keepers of the Dream Trail.

In order to assure that our departure would be free from the observation of spies we left our last camp after dark and in two parties. Taw-near-as and myself going on one direction, and Peter in another.

Our meeting place was a grove on the bank of a creek, one of the tributaries of the Mohawk. We reached it without observation, and lay in concealment most of the day, starting early in the late afternoon and moving swiftly through the forest, following no particular course, but addressing ourselves rather to the escapement of all evidence of our passage.

We discovered nothing, and the next day and many others went by with no better luck. Our provisions were exhausted, and we were compelled to live from hand to mouth upon such game as Taw-near-as could snare or kill with his tomahawk—and certes he was wonderful proficient in both arts. But we kept on, hearing always eastward and quivering the country in every direction.

In the very midst of this desperate wilderness we came upon what we sought. We had abandoned the headwaters of the Mohawk and were following one of its middle branches, a shallow stream with pebbly, shelving banks, wading close beside us so as not to disturb the close-growing shrubbery. We all saw it simultaneously—a tattered, weather-stained fragment of canvas, caught on a snag in the current. I dashed it out with my musket barrel.

"A park-cooler," declared Peter immediately.

"And safely identified," I added, putting my finger on an unmarked handle in the center of the fragment. It was a sunshade at eating the ax, but this was no time for hesitation. I lunged it with all my might, and yanked the nearest approach I could compass to the van-whorl.

near with the burr-like shudders and whole sections of growth which had been laced together with vines on a backing of boughs, lifted gate-fashion. Beyond stretched a narrow alley, whose carpet of grass showed it to be seldom traveled.

"If this be not the Doom Trail 'tis worth a look none the less," I whispered.

Peter nodded, and slipped through the opening. I followed him, and Taw-near-as brought up the rear.

Here in this hidden path the forest noises became remote. Even the birds ceased to twitter overhead, and the slightest stirring of the treetops made us drop to earth in expectancy of attack. Yet when the attack came we were taken completely by surprise.

We were all of us alert, but the first warning that we were under observation was a green-feathered arrow which swooped between Peter and me and hurled his head in the ground.

"Don't fire, whatever you do," muttered Peter as he threw himself behind the nearest trunk.

Taw-near-as and I copied his example. I found myself on the right of the three. The others had selected standing trunks. I had chosen, perhaps, a fallen log, a rotten stump, a fallen log and had overthrown. I crawled along the trunk into the tangle of roots, and from there gained a clump of bushes growing about the hole from which it had been torn.

The green-feathered arrow had ceased quivering and I idly followed the angle of its inclination. My eyes traveled forward—and focused upon a hideous painted face which peered from a screen of sumac.

The watcher motioned behind him, and a second painted figure glided to his side. Taw-near-as, seeking to draw their fire, thrust out the end of his spear, and the first water instantly drew low and sent an arrow that grazed the trunk.

When I was paralled with the sumac clump I sought shelter under a patch of wild blackberry bushes. Cautiously I peered across—which was exceedingly slow and painful—I was able to view the Keepers from the rear. They were enconced in what was evidently a permanent station of the Chintheese in the summer-dump. Beyond the summer was a low bark hut masked with boughs. At their feet were muskets. The bows and arrows were employed for the purpose of making mystery to their attack.

I worked myself a little more to the rear of their position, then rose quietly and drew knife and tomahawk. It was an unutterable at eating the ax, but this was no time for hesitation. I lunged it with all my might, and yanked the nearest approach I could compass to the van-whorl.

GERMAN PRINCE IS REPUBLICAN

Third Son of Former Kaiser Not in Favor of Restoring Monarchy in the Fatherland.

BERLIN, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Hohenzollerns are far from being united in favor of the restoration of the monarchy. Among the most outspoken in opposition is Prince Adolph, third son of former Emperor William. Shortly after his wedding in November, 1918, Adolph, now 28, visited the United States, and during his stay in the United States he became a member of the Republican party.

Prince Henry, the ex-king's eldest son, is a Catholic and a monarchist. He is a member of the German Nationalist party. He is a member of the German Nationalist party.
