UNITED STATES SEVENS SHIPS TO HAWAIIAN ISLES

Light, High-Speed Cruisers Dispatched to Honolulu, to be Available in Event of Serious Trouble in Shanghai.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—Despite "reasonably hopeful" prospects of treaty negotiations with China seen by Secretary Kellogg, three additional American warships were dispatched to Honolulu today on standby orders.

They will be quickly available there in the event of serious trouble in Shanghai to supplement the naval forces in the Chinese coast, to rush to the aid of the Philippines, or to take aboard American soldiers evacuated of the international situation.

The ships are the light cruiser Cincinnati, and Richmond, and modern high speed vessels of the 7500 ton class with cruising radius on oil engines of 10,000 miles.

Admiral Blakely has the advantage of having received his instructions in the Washington office in San Francisco and will sail February 5 from that port for Honolulu to assume command of the Asiatic fleet.

Secretary Kellogg's hopes that there will emerge from the Chinese civil war a new government which will negotiate a peace settlement.

Washington Ready to Talk

It was stated that the Washington government is ready at any moment to enter negotiations with the Chinese government.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 29 (AP)—Diplomats from Tampico say that the foreign oil interests there are greatly alarmed by the decision of the United States to obtain "definite approval" from the district court at Villa Guzman, Vera Cruz.

THE government is withholding official confirmation or denial of reports that Secretary of the Treasury, Albert B. Frazier, has resigned.

CARL ZAMBOGI NOT AVAILABLE

DISTRICT RACE TIGHTENING UP

EAST END QUINT WILL PLAY HERE

Rupert to Furnish Opposition for Plastico's Bruins Monday Night on Local Court.

The Twin Falls Bruins will play the Rupert squad here tomorrow night in a game that will not doubt be a fight from the starting whistle. The Bruins are smarting under the defeat administered at the hands of the east end winter last week and are thirsting for revenge in the game here Monday.

Brain Machine More Effective

The Bruins—beginning to take on a more finished appearance on the floor and with the brilliant work of Kelly as an incentive have been progressing nicely. Failure to break on defense fast enough is largely accountable for the defeat last week and although they will not win a practice before the game the Bruins seem to have learned the lesson of the fast break.

North Side Contends

The North Side may be pretty well narrowed to Grading and Jerome, with the first mentioned team holding a lead over Jerome. The teams from the North Side that will come to the district meet will go through a sub-district tournament a week before the big meet. Even the present day defeat and Grading will be main contenders in that sub-district and will no doubt lock some to the meet at Dahl.

Outstanding Games

Only three battles of interest are on the schedule for the coming week. Twin Falls will meet Rupert on Monday and Grading on Friday at the local home court. Both will be hard contests and will give a real line on the strength of the teams in this section.

ACCUSED WOMAN TO MAKE FIGHT

Mrs. Effie Stevens, Young Mother of Five, Faces Felony Charges in Burglary Case.

Mrs. Effie Stevens, young mother of five daughters from a few months to 12 years old, who pleaded guilty in district court here Saturday to felony charges of receiving stolen property, probably will ask permission of the court to withdraw her plea and file a demurrer to the indictment which she is accused of the crime. It was learned Saturday evening that she had been entered by Judge W. A. Babcock when Mrs. Stevens entered her plea Saturday, she will again appear in court Monday morning to face the judgment of the court pronounced.

Mrs. Stevens is accused of criminal possession of a wide range of articles that were identified as having been stolen from seven business houses and residences. She was arrested at her residence at 511 Third avenue east, following the arrest last month of Clyde Hutton, who had been a partner in her residence. Hutton confessed his responsibility for burglaries committed in connection with these and other thefts and is now serving a sentence in the state prison.

Many Suggest Names for New Inter-County Bridge

Interest in a name for the proposed inter-county bridge being constructed to span Snake River canyon two miles north of Twin Falls, Idaho, was expressed during the past week in a number of places. The idea of naming the bridge was suggested in a letter to the editor of the Twin Falls News, published in the issue of January 23. The letter, which was signed by John D. Sims, editor of the North Side News, has been received at the office of the Twin Falls News, and is being given to interested persons who reside in Eden, Jerome, Blaine and Twin Falls.

Editor, The News, Twin Falls, Idaho: Dear Sir: I agree with those who suggest the name "Ferrite Bridge." It would be very fitting, exceedingly appropriate for the new bridge. When the history of the great Twin Falls country is written, the name of Mrs. Barton Ferrite will be integrally inscribed in the pages of the history. It was through his grand-nephew, the late, distinguished, his serene, his bright, his untiring energy, his length and depth and breadth of vision and his amazing astuteness that the North Side and the North Side exist today. He made the great Twin Falls country today. He is, and always has been, a human dynamo, a live wire, a tireless fighter, a progressive, a man of vision, a man of action, a man who serves a lasting monument to his name, fame and memory.

Editor, The News, Twin Falls, Idaho: Dear Sir: I suggest that the new bridge be called, "The Twin Falls Snake River Bridge." The Twin Falls Snake River Bridge.

Will You Be One of the 2,000,000?

Ten years ago almost every woman baked her own bread. Today, in most of the United States, the majority patronize the baker.

Five years ago almost all the washing was done in the home. Today over 2,000,000 homes send their entire family bundle to the laundry.

And nowhere is this modern method more popular than here in Twin Falls. If you were to call any day at this laundry we could show you proof.

Why? Because the service we offer takes the washing completely out of the home—no water, tubs or soiled clothes to struggle with. Just a minute at the phone and all the worry is taken off your hands—all this, cheaper than you can do it yourself at home.

WITNESSES ADD TO EVIDENCE OF TRIGUERIO GIFT

Claim of Former Employee and Companion Based on Deeds and Bill of Sale to Estate Receives Further Support.

Frank Triguero, Cashford stock man who also here last October gave a long illness, in order to make certain that his business estate, consisting largely of live-stock and lands, should be delivered intact to Mauricio Coto, administrator of the estate, and his wife, and to the children of the same, and to the children of a deceased brother of Mauricio, testimony to this effect was given in district court here Saturday.

Defending claim Guerciochabarrin, manager as defendant in a suit instituted by H. A. B. Neal, administrator of Mauricio's estate, is defending his claim to the property in a bill of sale to Saturday court. In this bill of sale, the administrator, in this action, presents the claim as to the business man and sister and the children of a deceased brother of Mauricio, in the contention of the administrator that Triguero was mentally undervalued and that undue influence was brought to bear upon him, shortly before his death to induce him to leave his farm to Mauricio. Nine witnesses were called to testify Saturday in support of Mauricio's claim to the estate of Triguero. Mr. Miller testified that Triguero in early last year, told Mr. Miller that he had decided to transfer the property to Mauricio by deed rather than by will in order to avoid litigation. Two days prior to that time, Mr. Miller said, Triguero had expressed purpose to leave a large part of his estate to Mauricio and some to the Catholic church.

Traces Triguero's Rise
 Story of Triguero's rise from humble beginnings to a position of prominence in the livestock industry of this region was related in testimony of Matt Lewis of Cashford, who said that he had known Triguero for 35 years. At that time, he said, Triguero was employed on a ranch in the Situenita valley that was operated by a woman named Triguero was paid $1 a day. When he had saved $200 out of his wages he bought some sheep, but so began his career as a stockman.

"The day's testimony again brought in evidence Triguero's alleged purpose to leave some of his estate to his relatives," he told Mrs. V. G. Oliver on one occasion according to her testimony that he had "more relatives in California than Brigham Young had Utah," that they had no other thing for him and that he was determined to best their hopes of sharing his property.

Mrs. Myra Moore of Tish and P. E. Johnson of Twin Falls both testified in regard to long conversations that they had had with Triguero at

State Department of Agriculture to Appear in Court Here in Injunction Proceedings.

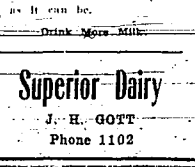

Idaho's department of agriculture will be represented at a hearing in district court here next Thursday to defend regulations promulgated by A. W. Kinnison, former commissioner of agriculture, to regulate grades and marketing of potatoes in this state. The regulations, which were last year amended to give effect to a temporary injunction obtained by the Marshall and other growers of this district, who are represented by E. R. Howell and W. Orr Chapman, attorneys.

Representatives of the state department of agriculture will appear in court here to answer to an order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. It is anticipated that the case for the department will be conducted by Frank L. Stiglich, attorney general.

Time for hearing on the order was announced Saturday by Judge William A. Babcock presiding in district court here.

Other witnesses were Walter Reece, Frank Sabala and Amos Howard.

ONE-ARMED MEN STAGE GUN PLAY AS SEQUEL TO FISTIC ENCOUNTER

Between 25 and 30 men were held at bay behind locked doors of a Shawlone street pool hall early Saturday evening by a one-armed man flourishing a .25 caliber revolver and waving a sign upon which one-armed men by whom he had been vanquished in a fistic encounter in another pool-house in the same vicinity.

The man was the late E. J. Richard Martin, a shepherd, 40 years old, and who is known also as Richard Hatfield, formerly of Kentucky, was arrested by police officers, and is being held for arraignment on criminal charges. Loss of his left arm is said to have been the result of a shooting accident in a pool-room in Louisville.

Clark Tipton, against whom Martin is said to have won vengeance, also had suffered a shooting accident in a pool-room in Louisville, one night recently in the city jail, and the trouble between them Saturday evening is said to have grown out of Tipton's proposition that Martin had taken money out of his pockets at that time, and Martin's counter charge that Tipton had caused Martin to be searched a second time by the police officers.

Tipton ran the Duffin pool hall in which the trouble started, to the Club pool hall where he and the other men (indulged) behind locked doors when Martin returned in the verge of action which he kept quiet temporarily with the expressed purpose of getting a gun, officers reported.

FORMER TWIN FALLS GIRL DIES ON COAST

Mrs. Nellie Alma Cagle Elliott, wife of Clarence A. Elliott, former Twin Falls resident, died Friday, after being in Los Angeles, according to word received here Saturday. She was 26 years old. An infant son died a short time after Mrs. Elliott expired.

The body will be taken to Gooding where Mrs. Elliott's parents live, and where funeral services will be held in the Christian church at 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Elliott will her recently lived in Twin Falls for some time prior to her marriage to Mr. Elliott some months after his return from foreign service in the world war.

During the past two years, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott had lived in Los Angeles, where Mr. Elliott was pursuing studies in the University of Southern California, the school of dentistry.

They spent vacation months here last summer. Mr. Elliott's name was listed among the members of the E. J. Stephen cylinder works.

LONDON STUDIOS HIT ON PLAN TO DEFEAT FASHION

Photographers of English Metropolitan, Confronted by Problem of Style Changes, Find Way to Suit Trade.

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 29.—Master photographers who take the fashion photographs for the magazines are finding themselves confronted by a problem of style changes. They are finding it difficult to get their cameras to take pictures of models in styles which are being worn by the masses. Yankee Fishing Ports Yielding to Change in Times; Old Sea Lore Thrives—Only in Gloucester Now

GLoucester, Mass., Jan. 29 (AP)—One of the famous old New England fishing ports, Gloucester, retains the full flavor of the spicy old days and even Gloucester has changed in that new and improved methods have reduced loss of life among the men who go to sea in ships. The fishing industry was the mainstay of the town, and the whaling ports are now fishing for cod, haddock, and salmon. Gloucester has just completed what the old timers claim is the last season of cod fishing in its history. Gloucester is a city of snow-banked streets, in which the fishermen are making their last hauls along the waterfront, and whaling whistles through frost-stiffened strands and flapping sails from the crests of white-capped waves in the harbor.

Old Times Talk At the Fishermen's institute, the fishermen can breathe deep of the salt atmosphere. Old times there, weathered by veterans of the banks, taking it easy between trips, a bit nostalgic about this fishing business, and a bit proud of it, too, will talk with apparent reticence of the old days and now.

H. G. Wells. Makes Old Stable Into Part of His Playground; Modernizes Building.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP)—H. G. Wells has taken to living in a barn, now and then. It is a part of his playground. He may do a little writing in the old stable, too, if the notion strikes him.

It is a very tiny and a very old barn on the edge of a farm in Essex which has been fitted for centuries. The barn, like the land, was pretty well worn, but Mr. Wells cleaned out the horses and cows, put a new roof on it, paraded up the sides and installed electric lights and an up-to-date heating plant. In the part where they used to sleep, he put a table and his friends, on rainy days, play rummy and hand-foot ball with an electric blower which blows back and forth among the curtains. Just as an inventor, Mr. Wells, intended it should be.

She has passed the days when clothing is the all important question, and in most cases has trained herself to think of other things than men, dress and pleasures when working hours. This quite naturally increases her efficiency for her profession, he says.

Three years ago the first Chrysler with its previously unknown measures of performance, and a host of refinements and improvements new to the industry at its price, created a new school of design, which others promptly emulated.

And now, this finer "70" with its more exquisitely graceful bodies, its greater luxury, its smaller wheels and its more attractive color blendings—and its new low prices—further widens the gap between itself and the conventional and commonplace.

GASOLINE ALLEY—THE REALM OF ART

SEES NO REASON FOR LETUP IN BUILDING ACTIVITIES OF U. S.

Roger W. Babson, in Discussing Leading Industries of Country, Gives His Views on Prospects for 1927; Easy Money Rates Boon.

ROGER W. BABSON, Ph. D., Jan. 29 (Special to The News). In view of the rising price of building materials during the past three years, Roger W. Babson was today asked to give his views on the building industry and the prospects for 1927. He states as follows:—

Building Industry. "The total volume of construction in 1927 will in all probability be somewhat less than in 1926, however, as long as money conditions plentiful and rates comfortably low, there is no reason to expect any drastic readjustment in building. Rather, I look for a gradual readjustment until rates are stabilized and the demand for building once more catches up to the supply. Government construction should help somewhat, although it is a small part of the total. Public works and educational buildings, however, will continue to be constructed in heavy volume this year. Office buildings and apartment houses seem to be overdue. Nearly all requirements are present, each of them in lower cost dwellings. In spite of the tremendous number of houses built in the past five years there is a great demand today for houses that can be built from $1000 to $2000 less. Those who find the way to do this without sacrificing too much of comfort and serviceability will find a ready market."

Building Increases in 1926. "Notwithstanding that the month to month trend in 1926 was for the most part downward, the total volume of building for the year was a record. According to estimates compiled by F. W. Dodge corporation, $6,800,000,000 was the construction total in 1926. This represents an increase of about 1 per cent over 1925. It should be noted, however, that the second half of the year 1926 was slightly lower than the second half of 1925. A notable increase in the amount of road building, public works, and public utility construction is also a feature of the 1926 results, and this type of work is expected to continue very active in the present year. Increases were also seen in commercial and industrial buildings, hospitals and institutions."

Trend of Building Costs

A great deal of discussion is heard as to the trend of building costs. Union wage scales are hard to reduce, but I believe that a lot of the arbitrary and wasteful savings that have been made will be wiped out this year. A softening in the amount of building and consequently in the demand for materials should increase efficiency of those saving and result in lower labor costs. Builders may as well look to other means than reducing wages in order to reduce costs. Building as at present carried on is far from perfect from an efficiency standpoint. Increased use of machinery, better plans of work, and utilization of improved methods of all kinds must be relied on to cut down the labor cost. Such improvements provoke labor troubles, but none that the shortage of building has been made up, costs must come down through competition. The unusual demand for high priced and medium priced houses has been met, but there is a need for lower cost houses. Building materials have declined slightly in the past two years, even though construction was at record levels. On the whole, however, building materials have been fairly stable during 1926. In the past few years of feverish building activity, producing a glut of material plants has been built up to meet the great demand. If the volume of building is somewhat lower in 1927, as seems probable, building materials will sell in a more highly competitive market, which may lead to some price cutting. It does not seem probable that there will be any serious crash in building material prices, but will be revolutionized. New kinds of plaster, stucco, and other paint are coming into use. Experimental with paint spraying machinery is going on and promises much in the reduction of painting costs. Another big step toward economy in building is the increased use of stock frames produced by lumber mills, such as kitchen cabinets, medicine chests, showcases, and various other parts. Really artistic millwork is now obtainable at much lower prices because of production as stock items. Cheaper and still durable methods of brick and masonry construction are being developed. Improvements in the cement and other wood shaving blocks have been worked out. Economic pressure for lower cost of building is forcing the industry to make improvements in materials and work out new and more economical methods of construction."

The Need Today

Building has been one of the industries of the prosperity which this country has enjoyed in the past five years. Any recession in it naturally affects general conditions of the country. Of course, any decline in general industrial activity affects building. If building and other industries are to be revived, it is necessary to have a revival in the industry as a whole. The danger of slump in the industry will be greatly lessened, if everyone has been building office buildings that have a very good reason why you should turn in some other kind of building. If everyone in your locality is

Many of London's old lamp posts are made from antique guns. Old Admiral Boscawen was one of the architects of the fashion, for he created outside his residence two posts, the bases of which were cannon he had captured. A number of such old guns, planted upright, are still in use as curb posts.

Famous Harps

Some of the oldest harps are the so-called harps of Brian Boru, preserved at Trinity college, Dublin, having 29 strings; that of Robin Adair at Holywell, having 37 strings, and the Dalway harp of 22 strings, dating from 1621.

King you!

You live better than any of the kings of old. Where you switch on the electric light, he had a smoky torch. You go to bed on springs—his couch rested on planks. A few overworked minstrels were the best he could get together when he wanted music. You turn a dial and a great symphony fills the room. And today, a thin copper wire carries more power than his scepter ever boasted.

You have a thousand king-comforts that the emperors of distant days never knew. To what magic power should you offer thanks? Turn the pages of this paper to the advertisements!

Advertising tells you about each new invention, every improved product that comes on the market. It describes what these new products will do, where to get them, and just how much you should pay for each one. It helps you purchase wisely and economically. Through it you hear—far sooner than the fastest courier of ancient times—what's new!

Read the advertisements. They are couriers of comfort and economy.

Kimberly Woman Is Summoned to Iowa. KIMBERLY, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Willam Graham left Thursday last week for Oklahoma, Iowa, in response to a summons to appear at the trial of the body of her son.

Her hope was over and she saw now how wild it had been. With a heart like stone she sat by him, feeling the contact of his body, his foot, his hand, his face, his hair, his eyes, his nose, his mouth, his lips, his teeth, his tongue, his throat, his neck, his chest, his stomach, his back, his arms, his hands, his feet, his legs, his feet, his legs, his feet, his legs, his feet, his legs.

"But they must be feeling about after some one." "Thinking what's the good of talking about it? We don't get many minutes together and we don't want to talk about it." "Let's try to forget that while we're here."

"I'm not a member of the Aunt Bessie Club, but I should like to be admitted to it. Detailed information furnished upon application." "No responsibility is assumed for the care of unclaimed members, photographs or other contributions, and those admitted to membership will be required to pay their dues and no membership will be returned without payment of dues."

When he heard the butler grinning around the what he walked to Bessie. "Hawson's coming. And it's nearly nine." "Hawson came in by the window, his eyes blinking in the room's brightness. He tried to look stern but satisfaction shone in his eyes and he was a little torn-jawed face. He was like the bearer of good tidings who would have worn the high smile of triumph if a single word were missing."

minimize square, and Mrs. Whitney was finally moving about hitting the lamps. "No moon tonight," said Bessie, and getting up, drew her to her feet. "Come, let's go in. It's too chilly for you out here."

After supper Bessie and Williams retired to the library. They were surprised and intrigued by the length of Hawson's absence. "Williams was in the office," she remarked with her lips pursed. "Mr. Hawson's away on business," Williams answered. "You can keep something for him."

Williams went back to the library where Bessie still slept. He looked at his watch—a quarter to nine. He thought, "I wonder if what Hawson has got hold of on the main floor when it was an extra printing. Mrs. Stokes was the guilty party. He started and moved to the window; the door swung open and he saw the light from the street. He was looking through the window at the night scene."

"I could gather up anything. And I did. The baggage man told me that he had been there before he left for White Beach leaving a suitcase and a bag of clothes to be held till Tracy called for them. They're there now. I saw them."

Fought For

"For God's sake don't mind anything anybody says," implored Mrs. Corbitt. "This is a murder case, not a social function."

Mrs. JANET BEECHER HOFFMAN. Mrs. Beecher Hoffman was awarded funds to continue her fight for custody of her son, Richard Hoffmann, who was awarded to his father for nine months a year after a separation action.

"What do you go down the coast for?" "To find a man called Gabriel Harvey." "Gabriel Harvey? That's our telephone man?" "Exactly. And I had a deal of a time to find him. Down by a place called White Beach, hidden away with friends in a shack without a telephone."

"What's the meaning of it?" "It's incomprehensible," he exclaimed. "I can't make head nor tail of it. No one ever questioned that she had the money and took them. No one said they'd seen him but his sister," came from Williams. Bessie looked on him.

"I'm not saying anything yet. But I'd like to see the papers and explain it. He says he's going, leads every one to think he's making all the preparations for his departure, then secretly, without divulging any change of plans, he leaves the house and returns—well to put it mildly—questionable."

"What purpose?" "You may imagine a purpose," Mrs. Bessie said. "Good God, you don't mean to say you think he did it?" "I'm not saying anything yet. But I'd like to see the papers and explain it. He says he's going, leads every one to think he's making all the preparations for his departure, then secretly, without divulging any change of plans, he leaves the house and returns—well to put it mildly—questionable."

SAYS LIQUID AIR IS CURE FOR POISON OAK. CORVALLIS, Ore., Jan. 29 (AP)—Cases of poison oak among the students of Oregon Agricultural College have been successfully treated with liquid air, by Dr. F. E. Howland, professor of industrial chemistry. Liquid air is made by compressing ordinary air at a low temperature. When the substance is about 300 degrees below zero, it is applied to the affected portions. The liquid air tends to deaden the surface of the fresh eruptions, stopping the irritation caused by the poison oak. It is used with extreme care, mercury or any vegetable matter into a little mass. Dr. Howland says there was no danger of frost if it is applied directly to the skin.

WHEAT VALUES SHADE HIGHER Market Gives Evidence of Underlying Strength; Closing Quotations Remain Firm.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—Wheat gave evidence of underlying strength today, especially in the late dealings. Further reduction of the United States available supply total on Monday was forecast, and North American wheat was in fairly good demand by Europe. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, unchanged to 1/4 higher, corn a shade 1/2 to 3/4 up, oats unchanged to 1/4 to 1/2 and provisions varying from a decline to a shade of an advance.

At first, wheat showed a downward trend, but was influenced by a heavy advance in Liverpool, where the market was responsive to word of larger offerings from Australia and India, brought conditions and firm broken. Taking sales on the part of the Chicago holders was also an early benefit, but the market was not so active as buyers of all grades and that selling pressure was light except when prices advanced.

Among the strains which have encouraged buyers was disclosure that quantities of domestic red winter wheat were being taken for France. Further reports from Liverpool showed a heavy sale of wheat from German growers had been reduced to insignificant proportions and that the four million bushels of foreign wheat, which was to be shipped to the United States, had been sold to the United States.

On the other hand, the market was not so active as buyers of all grades and that selling pressure was light except when prices advanced. Among the strains which have encouraged buyers was disclosure that quantities of domestic red winter wheat were being taken for France.

ADVISE AGAINST OVERPRODUCTION OF FARM CROPS

Agricultural Outlook for Coming Year Compares Favorably With 1926: Little Likelihood of Increase in Prices.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 29.—A favorable year for livestock producers is in prospect for 1927, but with an average decrease in production of relatively low returns from most crop crops is probable unless averages are reduced, says a report issued by the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture.

Domestic demand for farm products of the 1927 season is not likely to be substantially different from the present.

Some improvement in the purchasing power of foreign countries for agricultural products in 1927 may be expected, but it is probable that larger foreign production of livestock, fruits and agricultural products will be a serious demand for our exportable surplus of these products.

A slightly larger supply of farm labor will probably be available in regions where wages may be lower. No material changes in the price of farm machinery are anticipated, but it is probable that the price of fertilizer will be lower than last year.

What Looms Lower
This spring and through what crops will be greater demand during the coming year as compared with 1926. The market value will be determined largely by the supply of these and other crops. The price of wheat is not likely to be increased because the number of hay containing animals continues to be about the normal level, allowing for increase in population year to year. The present year's crop of beef is not likely to be increased because the number of hay containing animals continues to be about the normal level, allowing for increase in population year to year.
