"Your Laundry Service Costs Me Nothing!"

My weekly bundle cost about $1.60. The hours saved I spend in shopping personally, instead of by telephone. The savings made have more than paid for my laundry. Besides this, I am relieved of my hard household duty, and the risk of cuts and sickness, and to mention doctor bills.

Soundly logical, doesn't it. What she can do for you, and our laundry service costs you nothing.

The Austrian Legion in Paris issued a communique which stated:

After yesterday's incidents at Vienna the government of Chancellor Seipel succeeded in re-establishing order in the capital.

CAVALRIES NOT ESTIMATED

The casualties as well as material damage in Vienna were difficult to estimate on the basis of the few messages which have trickled through from the historic capital.

TERMINATES IN WIDENESS

This, the first flight of civilians from the mainland to Hawaii, the first of which was witnessed by eleven thousand, terminated in a wilderness miles from the nearest house and with critical fires and scattered fires of small size.

THE SCENE OF KILLING

was dead when an explosion and detonation arrived.

was Reason

Mrs. Barrett was promptly arrested. She was quoted by detectives as explaining her actions as to why she shot Mrs. Moore by saying "there was reason enough."

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Barrett, according to the application of the court, were both sane at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Barrett had quarreled with Mrs. Moore some time after the shooting.

Mrs. Barrett had passed could not be found and Mrs. Moore insisted that Mrs. Barrett could find the documents among his effects if she would.

"Well," I resumed with a sigh, there are lots of young women with black hair, and I suppose a good many of them wear green cloaks...

"Yes," said the doctor, "Ashton would laugh. He laughs rather too easily, that young man."

SEARCH UNAVAILING FOR JAILBREAKER AT JEROME

JEROME, July 16.—Special to The News—Unavailing search continued today for Walter Todd, who escaped Friday night from the county jail here. Todd, who was awaiting trial on grand larceny charges of theft of sheep from Frank Simpson last November, escaped after locking the jailer in the cell room.

Todd and another prisoner who attempted to follow him in his break for liberty, had been permitted to remain outside the cage in the cell room until late hour when the jailer went to check them in the cage. Todd concealed himself behind the door and when the jailer returned he slipped out, leaving the door behind him on the jailer.

It would be no more senseless to drive through the mountains without brakes than to drive through the streets of Twin Falls without insurance!

MOVEMENT FROM CITY AIDS IN OFFSETTING RURAL DEPOPULATION

Two Developments Bring Lull to Storm of Migration of Farming Populates to City; Jardine Report is Complete.

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Two developments have brought a lull to the storm over farm depopulation.

In a report to the President, William M. Jardine, secretary of Agriculture, outlines a favorable picture showing that no matter how near the farm-to-city rush, there is always a backward stroke of the pendulum.

"A reasonable interchange of population between city and country," he told the chief executive, "is a benefit to society. It is only the excess of excess movement from farm to city that is disturbing."

The other ray of light is information reaching the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics that 58 per cent of the nation's farmers are earning a questionnaire, said they prefer farming as a means of livelihood.

Growing determination of the young generation to stay on the farm, coupled with the fact that national unemployment here is 10 per cent, Oklahoma, came to the Washington camp as an exponent of the "stay on the farm" movement.

He has been honored for his work as a public leader and speaker in agricultural circles.

Continuing in his report to the President, Secretary Jardine estimates that the farm population as of Jan. 1, 1916, was 20,000,000 men, women and children.

"In normal times," the secretary said, "there is a constant interchange of population between the country and the city. As farmers retire to cities, 30 city people retire to the farms, one at a time, and the other at a time, and the stream of youth of both sexes goes permanently from farms to cities."

"All agencies seeking to promote the general welfare, whether rural or urban, should work together to reduce to a minimum the inevitable disturbances due to this interchange."

It is estimated that the gross movement from farms to cities since Jan. 1, 1922, has been slightly more than 2,000,000 persons annually. There is a certain back-flow, but little is known of its average size. Government figures show 2,035,000 persons moved from rural communities to cities, towns and villages in 1925.

"The reverse in recent years but were obliged to move to farms is estimated at 1,135,000, leaving a net movement of 900,000 persons away from the farms. But births are estimated at 719,000 and deaths at 288,000, reducing the net loss due to the cityward movement to 171,000 persons."

Students of the situation find it an former farm tenants who had failed economic impulse, constituting an index to agricultural conditions. Rise of the cities."

PEANUT COMPETITION FOR UNITED STATES

When China's Warring Sabres Clash It Means More Warfare for Industry for America.

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—When China's warring sabres clash it means more peanut competition for the southern United States.

During talks in civil strife brigands and the peanut trains. But they are in the army now. Export lanes are open, and again the Chinese peasants millions flood the United States market, federal data show.

Tariff and shipping charges are offset by low production cost. The mills may summarize the war, but the Chinese has his river boat, his wheelbarrow and his mule. He'll make port, if the bandits sojourn else.

Already China has sent to Pacific ports of America 50 per cent more peanuts than in a corresponding period last year. Still further increased imports are predicted.

In 1926 peanut importation reached 41,722,675 pounds, and peanut oil totaled 7,823,423 pounds. However, the government is impeded of increased acreage in southern Virginia, and there is no immediate knowledge that prospective hot competition with China has impaired peanut enterprises in the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Texas, Tennessee, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Louisiana.

These states, utilizing a total of 83,800 acres, produced 652,256,000 pounds of peanuts in 1925. Virginia, Georgia and North Carolina led, with Alabama and Texas close behind.

Georgia was first, with 218,000 acres, but North Carolina topped the list in yield, 820 pounds per acre for a total of 180,129,000 pounds.

The provinces of Shantung and Chihli, in northwest China proper, supply the bulk of imports. They produce the large podded type, used chiefly for oil, peanut butter and roasting. While huge quantities are used for salting and in the manufacture of candy, the small podded, or Spanish type, has a higher average use as a confection.

Georgia and Alabama specialize in the small podded variety, the country producing 50 per cent of the peanuts used by American confectioners.

MRS. COOLIDGE CALLED MODEL FOR WOMANHOOD

CLEVELAND, July 16 (AP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge is a model of Christian American womanhood whose habits of dress, conduct and thought may well be emulated by young women of the nation, Christian Endeavorers were told recently.

"The wife of the president is by all the rules of precedent, the society leader of the nation," Edward P. Gutz, general secretary, told the International Endeavor convention.

"Young women who desire to measure their own habits and attitudes should use Mrs. Coolidge as an example instead of looking to Paris for their dress or to Hollywood for their hints on home-making."

"If they use Mrs. Coolidge as a pattern they will be neither old-fashioned in their dress, nor old-fashioned in their attitudes."

Comparatively small quantities to the United States. The Spanish type peanuts are always shelled for the market, and usually sell at a higher price than the large podded peanuts of Virginia.

FOOD COSTS STILL HIGH; 1913 RECORDS STANDING

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The cost of living as far as the principal articles of food are concerned, is 55.4 percent higher than it was before the war, as measured by Labor Department statistics.

But to lower than it was at the peak of high prices in 1918, 1919 and 1920. In those years it was 683, 859, and 1034 percent, respectively, higher than in 1913.

Ham, tea and coffee, however, are higher now than they were in the peak years, and potato prices have been exceeded only in 1920. Prices for many articles have doubled, and some have almost tripled since 1907, and some have more than doubled since 1913.

Comparing the figures for May, this year, with the 1913 average, inflation attack is shown to have increased 66.5 percent: round steak, 659; rib roast, 256; chuck roast, 403; plate beef, 256; pork chops, 233; bacon, flat, ham, 1093; hens, 673; milk, 562; butter, 204; cheese, 674; lard, 203; bread, 128; flour, 667—new meal, 703—elect, 218; potatoes, 1617; sugar, 327; tea, 423; and coffee, 617. Only eggs are cheaper, having declined 2.7 percent.

TIMBER DRIVES CROCK STREAMS WHEN SUN-MELTS WYOMING-SNOW

CHEYENNE, Wyoming, July 16 (AP)—The annual timber drives, which have rapidly decreased in the United States with the melting of Tennessean snow-brook—the year and released 10,000 ties before it could be repaired.

At Riverton the ties are piled down a spoolway to inspection sheds, where representatives of purchasers receive them in conformity with chains to the cording yards, where they are stacked for treatment to withstand the elements.

Most of the timber cut in this state is used for railroad ties. During the winter hundreds of thousands of ties are stacked at "banks" at the head of the streams and in the dammed-up areas.

The longest drive in Wyoming, if not in the United States, is that down the Wind river from DeWalt to Riverton, a distance of more than 110 miles. The boom structures built across the stream in hold the floating ties, and are used on the drive, one at a time, and the other at a time, and the stream of youth of both sexes goes permanently from farms to cities.

More than 25 drivers are stationed in three camps along the river to keep the ties moving.

The drivers, with their long contracts, have a continuous battle against the decline of farm prices, taxes and supply and demand as related to farm products enter into the question.

"The long movement back to the farms in 1924 and 1925," Secretary Jardine said, "doubtless included some persons who had sold their farms on the rentals of their farms. They probably were many farmers and students of the situation find it an former farm tenants who had failed economic impulse, constituting an index to agricultural conditions. Rise of the cities."

PONY MAN LOANS MOUNTS TO 40 SCHOOL CHILDREN

SPRINGFIELD, S. D., July 16 (AP)—Forty school children of Edmunds county ride between home and school every winter on Shetland ponies loaned to them by J. W. Parmley.

Twenty years ago Parmley, land owner and good roads enthusiast, bought a Shetland pony for his son, Loren, who was frail and needed outdoor life. Loren liked the pony, and his father bought a dozen, starting a pony farm. Loren grew strong and expert in horsemanship, serving as an everyman in two wars.

Parmley senior has kept his pony farm in operation as a hobby. He likes children, and any child in the neighborhood who is trustworthy and who promises to treat the pony kindly may borrow one in the fall and keep it until spring.

"Loren's motto" is the thing to which other people give the credit for his success of your hard work.

One
It knocks out that "knock"
Turns carbon into power

Two
An amazing pick-up to snap you ahead in traffic

Three
Smooth running at any speed—practically no vibration

Four
A speed and pull in high that "flattens" second-gear hills

Five
Cooler running in the long pulls that overheat many motors

Are these advantages worth 25¢ a week to you?

YOU'LL say they are—and a great deal more! Yet you get all these advantages with Conoco Ethyl Gasoline at an average extra cost of only 25¢ per week.

Since they've used Conoco Ethyl Gasoline, many motorists have forgotten that their motors ever knocked—and they are pleased not only because of the smoother riding but also because Conoco Ethyl—by eliminating knocking—has saved wear and tear on the engine and thereby saved double its extra cost in overhauling bills. It is the real economy fuel—the anti-knock gasoline which has no substitute.

To be sure, regular Conoco Gasoline is the ideal gasoline for normal motoring operation, but when abnormal conditions have to be met, as, for instance, when the cylinders are choked with carbon, you need Conoco Ethyl—because the Ethyl itself gives very definite quantities which no gasoline—Conoco or any other brand—can have without it.

Those who want anti-knock smooth motor operation under all conditions will ask for Conoco Ethyl Gasoline at the sign of the Continental Soldier.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD FISHERMEN'S MEGGA

Isaak Walton's Thatched Cottage at Shallowford, in Staffordshire Demolished by Blaze

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The news that the thatched cottage at Shallowford, in Staffordshire, England, which had been the home of the late Isaak Walton, has been destroyed by fire, has been a great disappointment to the anglers of the world.

Mr. Andrew Stoddard, the secretary of the American Fishing Club, said that the cottage at Shallowford has been the place of the birth of the fishing industry in England.

Northwest, a few miles from the Shallowford estate, Mrs. Madeline, the widow of John O'Byrne, went to Spain Walton dedicated the Comstock Angler's appreciation for the fishing industry.

Nothing could be in greater contrast to an American person's feeling than the Cotons fishing house on the Dove. The latter presents the appearance of a rather large, private manse.

Flanking the arched, stone doorway windows admit light to the fishing room through diamond-shaped and class panes.

Mixed Fishing and Philosopher. Walton did not take his fishing strictly. He mixed trout with a kind of philosopher and poetry.

"Of recreation there is none. So free as fishing is alone. All other pastimes do less than mind and body both possess."

The most famous fisherman of them all was as unprofessional as to let his pole and line fish unattended while he sought shelter under a tree to talk with a pupil or a woman.

He also preferred worms to flies for catching trout. And who but Walton or the great Shakespeare would, when a "whopper" threatened to break away, throw the pole in the air after the fish?

Walton was born in Stafford in 1630. His life and work were devoted to his philosophy, and he proved his contentment by attaining the age of 80.

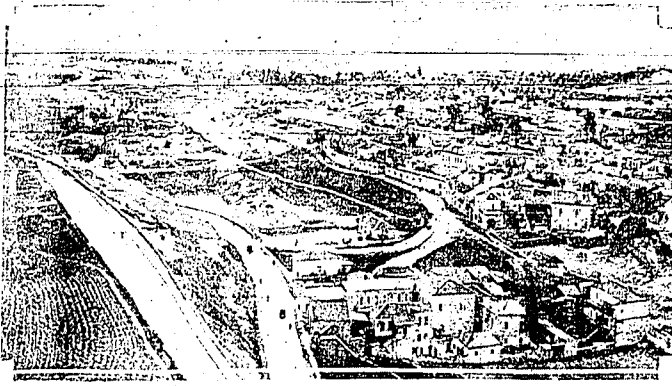

Lived in Turbulent Times. "We regard the span of Walton's life as one of the longest in the land's history. The pilgrims were sailing to New England to escape religious persecution in the latter part of the 17th century.

London room. With the defeat of the royalists by Cromwell in 1649, he fled to Stafford. All England struggled amidst the tumult of revolution but took refuge in the banks of the Trent to the banks of the Dove.

Nothing but the beauty of an English field after a shower, plaining how to put a worm on a hook and discussing the excellence of the European fly; the discussion, until as a May morning, first appeared in that hectic year when Cromwell proclaimed himself Lord Protector and England became a republic.

"No life, my honest scholar," Walton has Pleator advise Venator, "is life so happy and so pleasant as the life of a well-governed angler; for when the liver is swallowed up with business and the stomach is contented by contriving plots, then we sit on campstools, hear birds sing, and possess ourselves in as much quietness as these silent, silver streams; we now see elude so quietly by us. Indeed, my good scholar, we may say of angling as Dr. Butler says of berries, 'Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but he doubted God never did' and so, if I might be a judge, God never did make a more

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Potter of Boise stated several days the past week at a quiet, intimate occasion that taking.

"It is quiet in keeping that Walton should have inserted a tribute to the meadow lark which is poetry translated into his observations on the bird."

"At first, the lark he wrote, 'when I means to rejoice to cheer herself and those that hear her, she then quits earth, and sings as she ascends, higher into the air, and being ended, her heavenly employment, cross their nature and tend to think she must descend to the dull earth, which she could not touch, but die, possibly.'"

CIVILIZATION HAS TAWED LAND OF WARS

Government Has Appropriated $2,000,000 for Building of Red Bluff Dam in Southwest

PECOS, Texas, July 16.—If Billy the Kid were to come back to the land west of the Pecos, upon whom he was summarily banished by Pat Garrett's barbed-wire in '80, an alien scene would meet his gaze.

For civilization has leaped that narrow, serpentine stream which under, down from New Mexico across Texas into the Rio Grande, and the days of the cattle baron-rustler war.

The government has appropriated $2,000,000 for the building of the Red Bluff dam in New Mexico to bring water to the irrigation farmers spread along its banks in Texas.

At another point an electric plant supplying a $250,000 distribution system is being built and where once a settler could prevent eight sections of land for a hundred dollars, there have risen and are pouring forth untold wealth in liquid gold.

It was only a matter of about 50 years ago that the land west of the Pecos was a wild, untamed country, a refuge for outlaws who hid in the hills.

In those days peace officers exulted their determination to catch a criminal by the statement: "If I follow him to the Pecos."

When Billy the Kid, who is one of the Southwest's best known frontier figures, was carrying his mark on the history page, most of the Pecos country was a cattle range for one John Chisum who claimed some 600,000 head of stock under the Jingle-sock brand.

The first long-horned cattle had been brought north from old Mexico into Texas before the Civil War. During the war these heads ran wild and were forgotten.

Afterwards when the great westward push of discharged soldiers and bankrupt

CATHOLIC GIVES REASON FOR CHINESE SITUATION

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The relative freedom from incoherence and casualties enjoyed by Catholics in China during the recent disorders is accredited by Mr. Fauson-Holmes, Apostolic delegate here, to the "light exercised by the Vatican when, in 1919, it began 'renewing' the church in that country."

"Nationalization" to give the Chinese a full share in the responsibility for the conduct of church affairs, was undertaken by the Vatican, Mr. Fauson-Holmes said, at the suggestion of Father Lebbe, a French Lazarist missionary. The latter said, that it might solve the problems raised by the general loss of foreign prestige there after the world war and the rapidly growing Chinese national consciousness.

Pope Benedict XV, acting on Father Lebbe's suggestion, laid the foundation for a native clergy in an encyclical, November 30, 1919. His directives were amplified by Pope Pius XI, in another encyclical February 24, 1925. The Vatican's intentions were even more definitely clarified in a letter, June 15, 1926, to Nicas and Apostolic Legation in China. This, specifically, urged them against participating in the politics in any way that might arouse suspicions of seeking foreign favor.

Since they were worn about three dollars a head, branding mavericks was a legitimate and laborious way of getting a start in life. But once a number of men had large herds under brand, they looked with hostility upon newcomers with heavy branding irons. They could not patrol their herds adequately, and their calves and yearlings tended to fall to some other man's eye and wear his brand. So began the battle between the cattlemen and the rustlers which lasted a quarter of a century and made the Pecos the sole law west of the

The small ranches and rustlers and the cattle barons each hired cowboys chosen for their skill as fighting men. One by one the old landmarks are passing. The cow pony has given way to the flarer and the old cattle barn to the farmer-rancher.
