President, Concerned over Recent Disasters, Plans Investigation to Determine if Overseas Aviation Can Improve.

(By The Associated Press) - RAYBURN, Sept. 9.—President Coolidge is concerned over the recent disasters involved in transatlantic flying attempts.

Mr. Coolidge doubts if government reports of the flight can be of any great value. He can hardly imagine that a government board would be made to take responsibility for sending anyone across the Atlantic on a flying expedition.

However, the president realizes he is no expert on aviation and he will assemble all the facts involved in the recent losses of life in transatlantic flying and make a careful investigation of the chief situation.

He expressed regret today over the numerous recent tragedies which he felt were mourned in common by him and all American people.

Stopping in his preparations for the return to Washington tonight, Mr. Coolidge made inquiries at the White House as to the feasibility of a recent transatlantic attempt, making particularly about the news of Old Glory which has not been sighted since it was launched from New York to Paris with a message in mid-Atlantic on its way to Rome.

No One to Blame - Before entering on his investigation, the president feels there is nothing the government could have done in the way of adding anything in equipment or aid to the flight.

It has occurred to him that perhaps it will be well not to permit single-minded land planes to make overseas flights but to make them in a composite plane in mid-ocean.

These problems along with a thorough investigation of transatlantic flying are expected to be involved in the investigation the president has in mind but just what will make this investigation, and how it will be conducted, will be started, have not been indicated.

Germany Opposes Attempts in Germany, Captain Herman Kehl, chief of the German air force, said fighting was seemed to be a lone battle with the strong tide of public opinion against making a transatlantic attempt.

London newspapers carried caustic comment on "fool flights" and opposition to further Atlantic flights was expressed in an interview in the London Evening News with Lord Thomson, former British air secretary.

The Koba representative of Edward P. Schlee and Wm. S. Brock, would stirling here on the way there to Koenigsberg, announced that he was arranging to charter a boat to take them to the Midway Islands, the most difficult ocean hop of their flight.

Mr. Schlee previously had requested government intervention, expressing the belief that her "look and feel" would be killed if they should attempt the long Pacific flight.

27,000 LEGIONAIRES WILL COME TOGETHER AT PARIS CONVENTION

Along Champs Elysees, electric bulbs lit, the night of the Legionnaires will be a night of light.

Place de la Concorde will resemble Broadway on a hectic night. One hundred thousand electric lights, varying from 50 to 100 candle power, turning night into day, will assist the Legionnaires to find their way through Paris after the parade breaks up.

Thus far, the Legionnaires have been received enthusiastically everywhere. The much advertised offensive by the "reds" against them seems to have been nipped in the bud.

The "boys" unassuming, quiet behavior, has endeared them to the French population and they are forming a part of the happy French family of 1927 as they did in 1917.

"The uniform alone has changed, the hearts remain alike," said an aged Frenchman who said as he watched a dozen Legionnaires march past.

"We like them just as much in military as we did when they were khaki."

DEMPESEY SPARS WITH LAW IN COURT ROOMS

Ex-Champ Snatched From Atmosphere of Leather and Arca to Hear Lawyers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Jack Dempsey today spars with the law in court rooms, as he continues to fight arguments on a petition to restrain him from boxing Gene Tunney for the championship on September 22. Judge Otto Hecker in superior court reserving his decision until tomorrow.

Dempsey sat for a day of activity at his training camp, Lincoln Fields, was snatched from the atmosphere of leather and arca to the one of law today upon the demand of the plaintiff.

Wallo attorneys fingered legal terms and became oratorical in their pleadings for, or against the petition. Dempsey watched the conflict from a jury box seat. An extra detail of officers controlled the crowd which flowed through the small courtroom, or raced play after the action as he entered and left the county building.

Fight With Dempsey

With Dempsey was Leo P. Flynn, his manager; and others of camp. Flynn continually mopped his face with a handkerchief as the heat of the crowded room made conditions uncomfortable, but Tunney, the challenger, wore the well dressed boxer should wear in court appeared comfortable and apparently enjoyed the proceedings.

Frequent citations by Ralph Rosen, attorney for W. E. Clements, who seeks to halt the soldiers' field exhibition, claiming the Chicago Coliseum athletic club, of which he is president, holds an unfulfilled contract between Dempsey and Wills, amused Dempsey. Parties usually did he enjoy Rosen's contention that Dempsey "could not be replaced after the boxer is he entered the ring because of quality ability."

TWIN FALLS COUNTY'S TWELFTH ANNUAL FAIR PASSES INTO HISTORY

From a Greater Range of Territory than in the Past, the Exhibition to this County through their entries in many departments. Community exhibits that have done much to improve although farm products were the main attraction.

Business displayed by merchants and industries to avail themselves of opportunity to enter exhibits at the fair this year indicates probability that a next step in the development of the fair will be the construction of a permanent exhibit hall for merchants and industries, but as last year's automobile show led to the construction of the splendid automobile show building for this year's fair.

A first step toward establishment of a new department of the fair also was to be seen this year in the showing of paintings exhibited by young artists, notably of the Kimberly community.

In the building of the fair, each and every exhibitor and patron has played an important part, and it is only as their agents that officers of the fair would lay claim to credit for the success of the institution.

Quiet, efficient and courteous, Frank J. Keenan, secretary, has been an outstanding figure in this year's fair. Organizing with and working through the secretary's office, the directors have given generously of their time and attention, while back of this organization stand the county commissioners as representatives of the county's citizenship in this enterprise.

Here is the personnel of the fair directors: President, Carl J. Miller, Castleton; vice president, R. G. Wilson, Kimberly; T. D. Connor, Filer; H. W. Graves, Filer; J. H. Blair, Filer; L. J. Breckenridge, Twin Falls; Nepti Larsen, Rock Creek; C. D. Peeler, Buhl; C. D. Boring, Buhl; R. E. Brock, Twin Falls county agent and ex-officio director.

The commissioners are T. E. Moore, Filer; L. H. Gillin, Twin Falls, and James L. Barker, Buhl.

Heads of the several departments have capably discharged special responsibility, contributing largely to the success of the fair.

Women's part in the fair has been fostered and encouraged this year by the women's executive committee composed of Mrs. H. W. Cluickler, Twin Falls; Mrs. Ralph C. Moore, Buhl; Mrs. A. A. Newberry, Filer; Mrs. Walter L. Breckenridge, Twin Falls; Mrs. Stuart Stevens, Hansen; Mrs. W. C. Brown, Castleton; Mrs. Glenn Whitman, Kimberly.

And here is the list of department superintendents: Horses, Walter Miller, Filer; beef cattle, C. Bruce Requa; dairy cattle, A. H. Jangle; swine, L. S. Otto; sheep, Sam Thompson; poultry, E. J. Diehl; farm products, B. E. White; fruit, Mrs. A. W. White; salt, Grover C. Davis.

Gentlemen:—

A word of appreciation for your Lucky Strike cigarettes.

On May 29th last, I was operated upon for gastric ulcer and appendicitis. The day after I wanted a smoke real badly and asked my doctor. He advised strongly against it stating that even a slight cough would "rip me open" and cause additional pain, and if you've had the experience you know that to be so. However, I had a package of "Luckies" in my coat pocket and persuaded my nurse to get them. She did and I smoked eight that day. To make it short I smoked all the two weeks at the hospital with nary a cough or throat irritation or the least discomfort, and by the way, smoking was prohibited at the hospital but nurse kept my door closed and window open so I enjoyed my smokes to the full extent.

I am just a school teacher in a small town and not setting a good example to my pupils because I smoke, I suppose, but there is certainly "pep" in Lucky Strikes.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. McPherson

Mysterious bunk

Once in a blue moon now some bright, old-fashioned cynic says: "Aw, I never read the advertisements. They're full of bunk."

But when one starts to look for it, the "bunk" in advertising shows a mysterious tendency to be absent. Specimens of it are hard to locate.

The reason for that is simple. Bad goods cannot be successfully advertised. To stand up under the pitiless glare of publicity, merchandise must be honest. It must live up to its promises. Otherwise you would quickly cease to buy it.

So advertisers discovered long ago that for them, too, honesty was the best policy. More—the only possible policy, if they were to remain advertisers!

Read the advertisements. They are not full of bunk. On the contrary, they are full of honest information and interesting news. They show you ways to be more comfortable. They make life easier. They help you to be happier and healthier. They teach you prices and values.

No doubt about it—advertisements do you many a service. Read them every day!
