SHEDDING MILLIONS OF A MIDDLE WEST GET RELIEF FROM SNOWER

Darkening Clouds Hover Over Parched Country Driving Mercury Downward Slowly; Trying Four-Day Spell Broken.

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, Sept. 15—A spring-like shower in the middle west of September's mid-summer heat wave, in which middle-west millions have sweated for four days.

Darkening clouds hovered earlier in behalf of a parched country, driving the mercury slowly downward here from a high point of 93 degrees, reached shortly after noon.

Hourly readings had equaled those of yesterday, and the temperature threatened to exceed that of the two previous days until the clouds appeared.

General High Temperature (The readings were reported throughout the central states, the highest being 109 degrees at Peru, Illinois.)

The Chicago downtown loop district was shining brightly once more when the National League Brooklyn-Chicago baseball game was called off 30 blocks away on account of rain.

A cool area was moving in from the west, and forecasters predicted further rain tonight with temperatures around 50 tomorrow and the normal 70s by Saturday.

Score of Deaths The bread in the west was found a total of more than a score of deaths attributable to the unprecedented rise in temperature, due, it was said, to a lack of contact between a high pressure area in the south and a low area in the north.

This resulted in a stagnant condition of the air, and the heat just kept on settling down. School children took to the beaches, and parks when classes were dismissed.

At the other buildings, the heat was so bad that each day of the heat added three million bushels to the corn crop, while 100,000 bushels of the corn advanced 30 per cent, this week.

OBSCURE PROFESSOR FATHER OF AVIATION

RELATIVES OF EDUCATOR SPEND 25 YEARS AND SMALL FORTUNE IN ATTEMPT TO WRITE MONTGOMERY NAME INTO HISTORY

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 15 (AP)—The heirs of Professor John J. Montgomery, have for themselves the task of writing the name of a 100-month-old airplane into the history of the world.

A devoted father, Richard J. Montgomery, and two sisters have spent efforts of 25 years and a small fortune to obtain public and official recognition of the inventive genius of their kinsman.

He spent his drab life as an instructor at Santa Clara university, they say, by having his elder brother, by a patent to a height of several thousand feet in the air, cutting it loose and carrying it earth in it.

They claim that their attempt to make public impressions of aviation's beginnings is a forlorn one not warranted. At three in the battle they are waging.

Only one of their undertakings is being carried out. It is the writing of a book where the government is being asked for alleged infringement of Professor Montgomery's airplane patent.

A judgment in this action, the heirs claim, would establish officially that it was Montgomery who developed the airplane's scroll of fame.

Only one nation has granted even a posthumous honor to the inventor. Montgomery was told in letters from Prince Hino Dietrichstein and Brigadier-General Leopold Schleyer of Austria that, after long investigation, the Austrian government had decided to honor Montgomery's airplane patent.

Along the Calle de Alcalá, the Grand Via and through the Puerta del Sol, whether every good Madrileño goes daily to get his watch by the government clock, the only word to be seen is that of an ancient tower known as the Torre de San Tomé.

There is one other tower well known in Madrid, the property of a religious order, the monks of San Jerónimo. Madrid earns heavy dues from the households and business people on their roofs.

Montgomery first flew in flying history when he tumbled from a 1700-foot height, but emerged with only a scratched nose. Montgomery himself lost his life in 1911 in one of his machines.

BOLE WEEVIL DAMAGE IS GREATER IN 1927

Damage of Cotton Crop Is Larger Than in Two Previous Years, Federal Experts Say

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15 (AP)—Despite an apparent divergence of opinion on the extent of 1927 boll-weevil damage, J. L. Webb, cotton-pest expert of the bureau of entomology, says damage to this year's cotton crop shows a relative increase over the damage of 1923 and 1924. While official estimate has not been made for last year's destruction in 1925 it is placed at 25 per cent of the entire crop. 6 material drop from the 30 per cent weevil infestation in 1923.

TWO GREAT FRENCH TENNIS STARS OUT OF TOURNAY

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon Eliminated From Championship by Tilden and Johnson

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 15 (AP)—Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, two of the great French tennis players who won the Davis cup, were out of the national turf court championships tournament today by Wm. T. Tilden and Wm. M. Johnston, beaten but unbowed veterans of the United States cup defense team.

Tilden and Johnston needed only four sets to win from the French today. Borotra, who had defeated Tilden and Johnson in the Davis cup, was out of the tournament today by Wm. T. Tilden and Wm. M. Johnston, beaten but unbowed veterans of the United States cup defense team.

As Henry Cochet was beaten in consolation style yesterday by John Hennessy of Indianapolis, only one of the French entries now remains in the running for the championship.

Playing marvellous tennis to outdistance his opponents, the lone French survivor, Rene Lacoste, who won the title last year, continued his onward march toward a probable final meeting with Tilden by defeating Manuel Alonso at Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

As Francis T. Hunter, United States tennis cup doubles player, was fourth to reach the semi-finals, that round was filled by three Americans and a single Frenchman instead of the three French and one American who reached the bracket a year ago.

DOMINANT NOTE AT

IDAHO'S UNIVERSITY INTELLECTUAL GAIN

Dr. A. H. Upham, President, Outlines Institution's Achievements and Objectives at Faculty Meeting.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Sept. 15.—The dominant note of the University of Idaho is interest in some intellectual achievement, and advancement of scholarship, declared Dr. A. H. Upham, president of the university, in his address at the first faculty meeting for the 1927-28 college year. "I am pleased that the university can make this assertion and substantiate it by fact," he continued, "at a time when higher education is being generally assailed as ineffective throughout the country. It is gratifying to know our standards are so high."

In support of his assertion President Upham cited that eight members of the faculty of the university were on leave of absence for advanced study and research, had just returned from such leaves, or were soon to leave, "our Idaho faculty members are doing considerable research at home as well as elsewhere, and it is pleasing to note the general interest and enthusiasm in the study of advanced subjects."

"It means that our faculty members are keenly interested in their opportunities of improving their qualifications to teach students who come to the university."

Dean Studies Abroad
Dean J. O. Eldridge, dean of the faculty and this year, acting dean of the college of letters and science, has just returned from eight months' travel and advanced study in Europe. Dr. H. L. Sater, professor of electrical engineering, recently returned from a semester leave of absence spent at Harvard university. Dean E. J. Idings, of the college of agriculture is spending his year's sabbatical leave in travel and study of all phases of the agricultural industry in Europe. Dean Robert M. Davis of the college of law is away for the year as Thayer research fellow at Harvard university, a fellowship of considerable standing in the legal profession. Dr. Carl L. Van Dyke, head of the department of chemistry, leaves the beginning of the second semester for a half-year tour abroad in the college of agriculture. L. E. Lonsley, assistant professor of horticulture, has gone to Cornell to take work leading to a doctor's degree. And F. P. Whitehead, associate professor of entomology, is spending the year at Ames, Iowa, in graduate study towards a master's degree. Professor of agricultural chemistry, has been granted a year's leave of absence to undertake a master's thesis study for a Canadian smelting company. This project is essentially research work and subject will be material drop in his work to agriculture from another angle.

Graduate School Grows
Another barometer of the high standing of the university, the president announced, is found in growth of the graduate school. Out of a total enrollment of about 100 students in it last year the 174 came to the university with advanced standing from 65 other institutions. The graduate school had an enrollment of 123 students, more than double the number taking graduate work five years ago. In the class of 1927 the university conferred 33 master's degrees, compared with 15 such degrees five years ago.

"This healthy growth in graduate study at the University of Idaho indicates that our master's degree means something," it was the president's terse comment.

BRITAIN WILL ENLARGE OLD STONEHENGE SITE

SALISBURY, England, Sept. 15 (AP)—Stanley Baldwin, England's prime minister, is to award a grant of $150,000 to the British government to purchase the site of Stonehenge, ancient temple of the Druids, from an English building.

Among others who are backing the movement are Francis Macdonald, labor leader and Lord Greer of London, liberal statesman. The money is to be used for purchase of 1,000 acres of land surrounding Stonehenge, to prevent its being built upon by those desiring to make the antiquary of commercial benefit.

Stonehenge is one of Britain's most ancient historic sites. It stands on high on Salisbury Plain and is visible for miles around. The "Stonehenge Circle" itself containing the ruins of the temple of the Druids, was purchased nine years ago by Sir Cecil Chubb and presented to the nation. The stones of the temple, laid many years before Christ by the Druids, are kept in a state of preservation by the government.

A study an acre or more in extent, within sight of the "circle," but if the surrounding land will be bought up this site will be protected, and the public history of the monument and the legends of its worship mysteries of the Druidical period will be retained for the benefit of antiquaries and historians.

Built to Order
India abounds with cities built to order. One of the earliest was built to order nearly 1,000 years ago. Constatine became the capital of the empire. The British soldiers landed who built the defensive walls of Constantinople 15 stadia west of the towers of Byzantium, but many of them must have tried to see the new city.

CONSTITUTION STORY IS TOLD BY SPEAKERS

Kiwanis Club Sponsors Public Observance of National Anniversary Here

Addresses outlining the development of representative government and the birth and objectives of the constitution of the United States were given by the speakers at the public Constitution day observance held under the auspices of Twin Falls Kiwanis club in the high school auditorium last evening.

W. B. Smith, superintendent of Twin Falls schools, lined up the government from its inception to the adoption of the constitution, and Shad L. Hodlin, former Twin Falls mayor and a recognized student of the constitution, discussed relations between the states and the federal government under the constitution.

The musical program was conducted by a quartet composed of Messrs. Patrick, Delaney, Moore and Hall, and songs by Nelson Howard.

Speakers were introduced with introductory remarks by Judge O. P. Duval, president of the Kiwanis club. Dr. H. G. Humphrey of the Methodist church offered the invocation.

Traces upward movement Mr. Smith, tracing our steps in our representative government, noted its ups and downs in the course of history. He said, showed how government on a large scale could be handled according to law.

The fall of the republic and the decline and fall of the empire were traced, and the institutions of the barbarians briefly described, with feudalism and the rise of the free-oligarchy, followed by the Renaissance.

From this point the speaker reverted to England, from which our system of law has been derived and from which we have drawn many of our principles. The Magna Charta, wrested from King John in 1215, defined and guaranteed certain rights.

The struggle under Stuart's The century of 1228 and the long struggle with the Stuart were touched on. Early rudimentary parliamentary institutions in the colonies made possible the harmonious relations which prevailed in the continental congress of 1774 and after, and laid the foundation for the articles of confederation. Revolution and the defects of the constitution were outlined. This summary concisely and logically arranged and delivered in convincing manner was followed by the address.

Make Secretary speech The address of Mr. Hodlin was a profound treatment of the subject. The purpose of creating a government of limited powers was designed at length. The idea of allowing the states to control their own internal affairs was dominant in the founders of the nation. Mr. Hodlin pointed out and controlled the purposes of the founders of the country. His speech appears elsewhere in this issue.

ASKS HEAVY JUDGMENT FOR INJURY IN FALL

Judgment for $4700 is asked by Mrs. Merrill and J. D. Merrill, her husband, in an action filed Thursday against A. B. Wood and Margaret P. Wood, his wife. The plaintiffs claim that the Woods placed obstructions in a passageway leading into their Hollister store and that Mrs. Merrill on following the obstructions, fell and her child, was knocked down, fracturing her arm. It is claimed that the injury of the child was somewhat healed, but the husband had to take the child to care for it; that Mrs. Merrill had not recovered completely and is unable to work for some time. Two hundred dollars, physician fees, the sum of $2500 for physical suffering, $1000 for mental suffering, and $1000 for loss of labor claimed to result, is asked. The complaint was drafted and filed by John H. Barnes, attorney.

Observations and Impressions At Jerome County Fairgrounds

"Have a lunch, have a lunch. With an onion in the middle. And a piece on the top. Have a lunch, have a lunch. Hurry up."

This chaotic and noisy individualism was the keynote of the Jerome county fairgrounds. To be exact, three great waves of the Jerome fair spirit were apparent at the Jerome fairgrounds on Thursday.

Over a ton of barbecued meat was passed out across the counters to the hungry throng. To be exact, three great waves of the Jerome fair spirit were apparent at the Jerome fairgrounds on Thursday.

One-way traffic prevailed at the entrance to the fairgrounds. The separate alleys of approach and exit, many exits. This was a great improvement over the method employed in former years where the entire crowd had to serve in a single column, in spite of the numbers who availed themselves of the free lunch privileges.

The boys at the bridge and on the gravel trucks worked hard to make the approach to the bridge as smooth as possible for the caravans.

Whatever the bridge cost, it is worth it. Anyone who has stood on the bridge and studied the scorching heat of the canyon will agree with this statement.

The kids at the rock school house across the bridge certainly knew how to give the visitors from the South Side a rousing reception.

The chap in the black derby gave the crowd a night good "steeer" (or shall we say three of them?) when he turned the wheels in the direction of the free lunch counters.

The fair board is doing over-zealous things in making this fair the best ever for Jerome county.

Many women who wore their heavy coats as a protection against possible "heavy weather," soon put them into the discard when Old Sol got busy.

The young barred Rock hen, who has the distinction of being the mother of nine at six months of age, was very jealous of her brood, and eyed the interested onlookers suspiciously.

"Make this cautionary by asking questions," is the statement which appears on placards posted conspicuously about the fair grounds. The fair management advertises its service to the visitor in every way.

"In the 'weed booth' is a display bearing the following identification: 'This plant is wild yre, but is not as wild as the kind you get in bottles.'"

We'll believe anything now after seeing in the display of noxious weeds a plant that somebody said was a cross between a pig weed and a sunflower. We're still skeptical.

While looking at the exhibit of the swarm of bees in the glass hive occurred to us that it might be inadvisable to throw stones where one lived in a glass house or not.

Somebody lost a nail on the road between Twin Falls and Jerome. We know this to be a fact, because our right rear tire found it.

The Weather

Idaho weather: Fair, with rising temperature.

Having noted the mercury down to 28 Wednesday night Old Man Winter quit suddenly. Old Sol got himself into action and gave a few uppercuts. Thursday afternoon the thermometer stood at 72 above and at 65 with no frost in sight. The rise yesterday was striking, the maximum exceeding by 14 degrees the highest of Wednesday. The low point for the 24 hours was three lower than that of the previous night.

Policeman Has His Own Tribulations, Says Del Kennison

"The night cop has his own troubles," said Del Kennison, Twin Falls policeman, discussing incidents of the week. "Just as a sample," he continued, "last evening I met a rather heavy individual carrying a heavy grip, who stopped and asked me if I knew where he could get a room. I told him that I did not, and that the town was pretty well thick. He became indignant and wanted to know if I meant to tell him that a town of 10,000 or 12,000 would not be able to furnish a spare room. Then he asked how much a room would cost and I told him a good room would be $1. This made him madder than ever. He said he could get fine room in Salt Lake for 50 cents.

"I cited him to a rooming house where I thought he might get a room and he went. He got an inside room for 25 cents and quarrel with the landlady about the price and wanted her to let him collect 50 cents worth of business, but he finally paid the four bits. We are up against that sort of thing right along."

CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Because he failed to appear in the district court when called as an executor in the Suttler case yesterday afternoon, Rex Thomas has been cited to appear at 1:30 p. m. today before Judge Tamm A. Baret, to show cause why he did not comply as demanded. Thomas was one of a special venire called.

BOOZE CASE IS UP IN DISTRICT COURT

Owner of Threshing Machine on Trial for Alleged Giving of Moonshine to Minor.

Willie Willis

BY ROBERT QUILLLEN

Bernard Stricker, thresherman, was called Thursday morning to face the charge in the district court that he gave intoxicating liquor to Charles McCarty, 16-year-old son of Edward McCarty, while threshing at the Hanks farm beyond Kimberly on the evening of August 24. The defense had several witnesses to examine when court adjourned last evening to resume at 9 o'clock this morning.

According to the boy, Stricker gave him the liquor in the evening and he became very drunk some time after after Stricker pleads not guilty. The condition of the boy that evening was attested by several witnesses and Stricker had some sort of beverage in a can or jug. The defense follows the line that it was impossible for Stricker to have given the boy liquor at the time alleged, that the amount the youth is said to have taken would not be sufficient to make him drunk and that the period which elapsed between the time the alleged booze is said to have been taken and the time the boy was first seen to be intoxicated was too great for him to have gotten into that condition from moonshine he Stricker claims to have received from Stricker. Jurors in the case are J. P. Avant.

GOVERNMENT TRACED IN DEFENSE OF RIGHTS

Many many governments have been instituted. The government of the United States as originally organized was not a democracy but a republic.

Once the states' rights are broken down, we will have to deal with the federal government at a great distance, through its bureaus and departments; and not only will we have to comply with acts of the congress of the United States, but the practice has grown now to authorize the departments to make rules and regulations to carry on the department of the federal government.

One of the amendments that passed the congress and was submitted to the state legislatures was a child labor amendment. This further deprives the states of the right to determine whether children might be employed, and if so under what conditions.

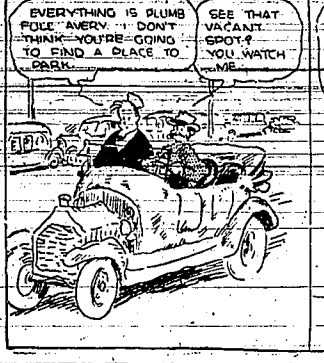

There are other amendments proposed, one of which, as I understand it, is to create a federal department of education. If such an amendment should pass, I need not say to you that it would only be a short time until the department given control of that work would be passing upon the qualifications of your school teachers and determining who should teach and who should not teach.

This leads me to call attention to the departure in the matter of amendments to the constitution of the United States. The first departure will be found in the fifteenth amendment.

The eighteenth and nineteenth amendments are a wide departure from the principles of government set up by the founders of the federal government. The eighteenth amendment deals with a moral question entirely; and whether it is wise or unwise is not the question.

The nineteenth amendment deals with the franchise, or better words, is known as "the Women's Suffrage Amendment." It restricts the states in reference to granting the franchise, thus taking away from the states some of the powers that were reserved to them by the constitution of the United States.

At the close of the last congress, there was pending in that body about fifty proposed constitutional amendments.

Announcing THE NEW ZEROLENE
To the motoring public of the Pacific West the Standard Oil Company of California presents The New Zerolene, "The Standard Oil for Motor Cars."
The New Zerolene is the latest achievement in petroleum products of the Company's research laboratories. For more than two years Company experts have striven to produce a new and better lubricant for motor cars, particularly an oil to meet the requirements of the present-day automotive engine. The experts succeeded, and have created a modern oil for modern motor cars.
The New Zerolene is a wholly distilled oil—by Company processes which take only the highest lubricating values from the best of California crude oils. Every drop is pure lubricant.
The New Zerolene is made in three grades or bodies, No. 3, No. 5 and No. 7. There is a scientifically correct grade for every type and kind of motor vehicle. The New Zerolene is available at Standard Oil Service Stations and at 15,000 dealers and Correct-Lubrication Special-ists on the Pacific Coast, where Standard Oil Correct Lubrication Charts indicate which grade of oil each type and model of car requires.
Zerolene "B" for Fords, an oil especially manufactured to meet the demands of the Model T Ford, remains unchanged.
The New Zerolene stands up at any engine temperature. The New Zerolene forms no hard carbon. The New Zerolene does not break down when the crankcase is drained it still flows easily.

DESIRES TO MARKET
CORN WEAKENS PRICE

Constant Pressure to Sell New Spring Wheat in Canada and States Tends to Lower Values.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15 (AP)—Indications in the wheat market today are that the new spring wheat crop both in the United States and Canada did much to weaken wheat values. A statement issued by the United States department of agriculture was circulated, saying that the general average of farm prices for the remainder of the year are not likely to exceed the present level.

Closing quotations on wheat were unchanged, 16 to 14c net lower, corn at 16c to 15c advance, oats 1/2c to 1/4c up, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a gain of 2c.

No Great Demand in Canada
Enlarged selling which was in evidence during the last hour of wheat trading, appeared to be based on a good deal not only on the increasing movement of new wheat northwest, but also on the fact that frost in Canada had done no damage. Furthermore, late export advices failed to redeem early predictions that European demand for breadstuffs today would prove to be of liberal volume, the embargo finally estimating that but 300,000 bushels of wheat had been bought for shipment across the Atlantic.

What Movement Traders Carriers
Railroad reports at hand said the movement of new wheat northwest was taxing transportation facilities to the limit and that further transient embargoes at cutting points had become necessary. Under such circumstances, speculative power here was not in the later dealing, whereas earlier the trend of prices had been upward on account of unexpected firmness in the Liverpool market because of wet cold weather in Canada, especially, south that had formed at Edmonton.

Influence by wheat weakness, correct much of an early advance that was associated with expected lower temperatures in the corn belt. Oats were steadied by the relative strength of corn.

Most of the provisions list became weak after the finish, relative to conditions in cereals, hog, veal and chicken.
