THE SPORTS OF A DAY

Twin Falls Bruins Defeat Buhl Indians By 39 to 6

PLASTINO'S CHARGES WIN ANNUAL CLASSIC BY DECISIVE SCORE

Magie City's Eleven Using Little but Line Smashes Carries Ball Over Line Six Times; Opponents' Passing Superior.

Twin Falls Bruins bettered out a 39 to 6 victory over the Buhl Indians yesterday in the West end city. Using the line man's ability the Bruins seldom stopped when in possession of the ball and carried it over six times, always on line plunges. The Indians were not able to get a yard back but could not back up their aerial game with sufficient gains during the time to enable them to score.

Robertson and Perrine Star To Tim Robertson and Burton Perrine go the lion's share of the honors in this game. Robertson, a well-seasoned generalship in running the team, besides showing his ability as a line plunger. His run of 52 yards late in the first quarter netted the Bruins their last touchdown. It was from a line play directly through the center of the line and Robertson stopped through the line and away straight arming the half. He was forced out of the game by a broken ankle in the eighth yard line. Walk bucked it over a few minutes later for the last score of the game.

Rupert scored the first Bruin tally on an end run, racing around the Indian left wing for 45 yards the distance being covered in a couple of yards shortly after the game started. While his running was good it was his punting that noted him especially. His punts were into every play, the yard mark and were so well placed that the Indian safety was seldom near them. It was a punting play that started the Bruin attack.

The Bruin machine was working in good shape for most of the game and the line was doing its share. Puzler played his usual steady game. The Bruin line was well protected by the guards, Lincoln and Bradford, after the first bludge of buck fever passed. Two touchdowns were caused by the Indian backs some tumbled. Lucas at end also played his usual handy game. Kempton at center was the Bruin's main breaker up passes and played well on the defense. His brother at tackle relieved Berg in the second quarter and made an injured ankle was into every play.

Buhl's line while unable to withstand the assault of the Bruin backs, displayed a little more courage in the last state tackle in 1927 they gave the Bruins plenty of opposition. The passing game was the Indians' only hope. The Bruins and they gained many yards through the air.

The first score of the game came when the Bruins tried an unsuccessful short kickoff. Rugg gained 12 yards in two plays, but the Bruin line was not able to get back to the 10 yard mark. Perrine promptly returned the punt. Cuyler fumbled on his own 40 yard mark and the Bruin recovered. Rugg trying the ball to the 10 yard mark Walk fumbled, the Indians recovered and punned to the 45 yard mark. Perrine dashed around end for the total distance with the Bruin's first score. He failed to convert.

The second play ever seen after when the Bruin kickoff was fumbled on the 35 yard line after the Indians had returned it 15 yards. The Bruin opened with a line play that marched over the goal with Robertson carrying the ball. Perrine converted the kick.

Side Lights of World Series

(By The Associated Press) The Yankee two-run rally in the first inning of the game was helped along by a still shaky Pirate defense, although no errors were charged.

There was a wild demonstration by the Yankees in the fourth against a called ball. Lloyd Warner, who appeared to have been burnt, aided by this decision, Lloyd had three straight balls, but Penneck put the rest three over the plate and the crowd's outcries proceeded to lazzetti.

Meadows had the Yankee slugging, but the exception of Gehrig, who batted first, the Yankees in the first six innings, whiffing Meusel as well as Lasserri twice each with slow curves or fasters.

PITTSBURGH HAVE MANY OPS AND DOWNS DURING YEARS

Team Winning National League Pennant for Sixth Time in 26 Years Holds Record for Advertisers and Triumphs

(By The Associated Press) PITTSBURGH—The Pittsburgh Pirates, National League pennant winners for the sixth time in 26 years, probably have had more ups and downs than any club in the modern history of the game.

The last seven years particularly, during which their fans' tongues itchy to the top, have been filled with the vicissitudes of the Buccaneers. Their story is as stormy as those of their name-akes.

Throughout this seven-year period Pittsburgh always has been a pennant contender, but usually the league leaders appeared to have the "Indian Sign" on the Pirates. In 1921, the Pirates, leading most of the season, "blasted" away in September, starting with five straight defeats at the hands of the Giants.

When the Pirates finally gained the top in 1922 and conquered Washington in the world series, they looked like the best club in baseball. They had youth, speed and the punch they were a brilliant collection of stars. But last season, mutiny broke out in the clubhouse and in September, starting Adams were let out after a run-in with manager Bill McKechnie. The team finished third, beaten not by the Red Sox, but by the Yankees.

This year Donie Bush, jumped from Indianapolis of the American Association to Pittsburgh, and in September, starting Tiger shorts found the club to succeed a thrifty one. The club was generally better before the season than it was after. The team began to get a better start. Injuries and illness beset the regular line-up. Bush, aggressive catcher, was fined $500 and suspended for thirty days for punching Dave Bancroft. Ray Kremer, finishing second, was suspended for twenty days for hitting Bush. Bush was at odds through the latter part of the season with Riki Cuyler, hero of the 1923 world's series, and one of the best outfielders in the game.

Cuyler, recovering from an ankle injury, was out of the game for a long time, failing to slide to second on an important play. He was fined and kept on the bench. Given in the heat of the season, the Cardinals, who were the Pirates' jumping into his shoes, were a surprise. The Pirates' jumping into his shoes, were a surprise. The Bat
A Novel from His Play
By Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood

It was an emotional moment, it seemed to have developed even through the haze of forgetting the man in his place. Bailey he got up like a man who has been waiting for his moment, and now that it had come was in no hurry about it.

"The Bat" allowed himself a little nervous smile. "You're not a doctor, are you?"
"Of course not," said the doctor. "I'm a lawyer."

The local police had come and searched the bodies of Courtleigh Fleming and his nephew had been removed to the mortuary; Beretford had returned to his home, though under suspicion as a material witness.

When Lizette came at last to rest and could see her left bed, she was sitting happily at the table, surrounded by a group of articles which she was reading.
"Look at this," she said, "this is a clipping about the 'Bat' from the evening newspaper; a piece of paper on which was a well-defined fingerprint; a revolver and a heart of the color of his mouth at Miss Cornelia's who was pointing out the revolver that the 'Bat' had flung at her—her own revolver."
