HANDLE ONIONS WITH CARE, ADVISE DEALERS

Crop Is Not Much Damaged but Is Tender for Period After Frosty Period.

The same advice that was given in regard to apples following the frosty nights is being urged by dealers on those who have onions in the field; that is, do not handle until the outer skin, touched by field frost, has become solid after the weather warms. Dealers now believe that the onion loss so far will not be heavy, and that most of it can be salvaged. Should weather threaten it is advised to get them in under cover at once, otherwise it is suggested that it would be well to leave them a day or so more without handling.

The result of the frost, involving more care in sorting of potatoes, onions and apples still in the field, resulted in another heavy slump in outgoing shipments from the depot today. Just before closing, P. E. Haasch, Oregon Shunt black and red, the total number of cars going out would not exceed 20, of which only about half a dozen were of apples and three of spuds.

CLUB WOMEN OF DIXON GIVE HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. John Kinder Honored Guests at Interesting Community Event.

DIXON, Nov. 3—Members of the Lend-a-Hand club were hostesses at a charming Halloween party Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Shepherd, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Kinder, who are leaving soon for the coast. Ghosts, jack-o'-lanterns and festoons of black and red were in evidence in all the rooms. Ghosts met the guests at the gate and escorted them into the house by way of the outside basement stairs. In the deep corners of the basement witches and goblins held sway. Halloween games were played, and ghost stories told. The ladies of the club served refreshments in keeping with the season. Mrs. Kinder was presented with a gift by the Lend-a-Hand club. Mrs. Annie Perkins died Tuesday afternoon, November 1, at her home south of Dixon, following an illness of several months' duration. Three surviving children reside here: Mrs. Myra Buchhorn and Joe and Glen Perkins. Other sons and one daughter live in Utah. Funeral services will be held from the house and burial will be at the Hazelton cemetery where her husband is buried. The L. D. S. will have charge of the services. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Judson and small son moved the first of the week to Hansen, where they will reside for the winter. Tom O'Brien attended the Jesters club dance at Twin Falls Monday evening.

Miss Isabelle Buchhorn has returned home after an extended visit with relatives in southern Utah. George Judson spent several days in the hills this week getting out a load of poles. Hualto Steele of Twin Falls came over Tuesday and moved the bean thrasher back to the South Side. Dogs have been getting into the band of sheep owned by Dave Douglas and have so far killed five ewes. Potato digging in this vicinity has been retarded by the bad weather. Roy Ellenwood has finished digging four acres which netted him 1000 sacks. Emery Vanette's three acres made 200 sacks per acre.

MANY MOTOR TRAVELERS GUESTS AT BURLLEY PARK

Records Show 2410 Cars Carrying 7885 Persons Register During Past Season.

BURLLEY, Nov. 3—According to the report submitted to the city of Burley by the superintendent of the municipal tourist park, 2410 cars carrying 7885 persons, made use of the park the past season ending October 8. The park has been kept open since under private management. California supplied the largest number of visitors, 300 cars with 950 passengers. Oregon and Washington came next, each with 200 cars. Washington, though, seemed to be more chummy, as there were 92 passengers compared with only 68 from Oregon. Idaho registered 222 cars, filled with 84 travelers. Forty-three states were represented. Park receipts were almost $100, with $200 expenses. A station man who has kept records of tourist disbursements has estimated that tourists make an average expenditure of $4 a car for each day.

PIONEER OF RAFT RIVER DIES SUDDENLY AT DECLO

BURLLEY, Nov. 3—Henry Eugene Bigler, 85, dropped dead of heart failure at his home at Declo Tuesday morning. Mr. Bigler came to Raft river valley in the early 80s and settled on Cooner creek. He soon thereafter went into the sheep business and became well known to sheepmen as Gene Bigler. Mr. Bigler had been hunting pheasants, returned to his home, and passed suddenly while apparently resting in a chair. Interment will be at Declo Thursday. Plans for Christmas and greeting cards may be on display at Umbagog's.

WILSON AGAIN TO BE COMMERCE CHAMBER EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Directors Effect Organization Following Election of Seven Members; N. S. Wight Retained as Secretary.

Asher B. Wilson has been elected president of Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce for a third successive term. The election was recorded at the organization meeting of the chamber members last evening following the recent election at which seven new members of the board were chosen.

Newell S. Wight was re-elected secretary to enter upon his fifth year in that capacity, an interval of two years, having elapsed after his first election to the office in 1923.

Harvey Bennett was elected vice president and H. B. Grant, treasurer.

Discussion of the chamber's proposed activities during the coming year in which the directors engaged after completing organization, indicated that suggestions from the membership would be invited, and that a general meeting of the members would be requested to indicate the projects on which the chamber should center its efforts.

The next meeting of the board is to be held Monday evening, November 14.

Mr. Wilson, re-elected president of the chamber is returning from a business trip to Los Angeles, and is expected to arrive here today or Saturday.

Although Mr. Wilson has been chosen for a third successive term to serve as head of the chamber of commerce, he has not served as a member of the board by election in consecutive years, but last year filled by appointment a place on the directorate made vacant by resignation of another member. He served his first term as president of the chamber in 1918.

George E. Belski, another member of the board elected this year, also served last year as a director by appointment to fill a vacancy.

Members of the board for this year, besides the officers, are: B. F. Magel, D. D. Alford, F. L. Atkins, O. K. Hunt, J. Robinson, J. H. Sawyer, T. F. Wilson. Members retiring this year were R. W. Gardner, W. A. Patrick, Alvin Harbort, L. E. Smith, and W. A. Van Engelen.

Government Assigns Juvenile Offenders To Idaho Institution

Among 16 juvenile offenders who are wards of the United States government received during the past 30 days at the Idaho industrial training school at St. Anthony, one, according to reports given to W. J. Young, Twin Falls county probation officer, is the son of a former Idaho citizen and a Japanese mother. The lad, who speaks four languages fluently, was tried and sentenced by an American court at Shanghai on charges of thievery.

Another one of the government's wards at the St. Anthony school is a young girl received from St. Paul, who is a talented musician, but addicted to writing of bad checks. The St. Anthony school, Mr. Young was told, has been rated by the Russell Sage foundation, which made a detailed investigation for the government, as the best institution of its kind in the country.

An Old Saying, Worth Repeating

Why Not Shop On Rainy Days

"Last week I went shopping in the rain," a customer told us, "and it was a delightful experience. Thanks to my sturdy rain clothes I didn't get a bit wet and I found your store almost empty. Everyone had lots of time for me and I accomplished more in an hour than I usually do in three."

This seemed a good idea to us. On rainy days there is no atmosphere of hurry, such as creeps into even the best regulated stores. You would be more likely to choose exactly what you wanted, rather than something you "hoped would do."

Why not try Rainy Day Shopping sometime? We believe you will like it.

NAVY GUNS BOOM IN CHARLESTON DRILLS

Atlantic Coast Destroyer Squadrons of United States Scouting Fleet Start Annual Drill.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 3 (AP)—Officers shot commando jumps are cleared for action, men duck to their posts, guns boom, airplanes zoom above, great screens of smoke hide speeding ships cutting the water into spray—all in practice for the real business of war. The Atlantic coast destroyer squadrons of the United States scouting fleet, consisting of 36 destroyers, two tenders and 1000 officers and enlisted men, have started the gunnery year with drills and short races in the practice off the coast of Charleston. This is the most elementary of the gunnery training program, which occupies more than six months every year so that men and ships are kept in trim. Five days a week the ships leave port in the morning, go out the bar for 10 or 15 miles, wait until mid-afternoon and then return for the night. In making quick runs past targets towed by tug the destroyers keep their guns trained on the objects while the mechanism is snapped. There is no actual firing at this time, but check is kept on the gun crew's aim. Then, on regular schedules, the ships fire at the targets. Solid shells are used. The tugs are painted, so that when a hole is made in the target, a ring of color is left. Thus the accuracy of gun and crew may be recorded. Gun crews making a high average are given prize money. Complete files of all shots are kept and studied. Over week-ends the destroyers remain in port and the crews are given 18 hours of shore liberty. Regular police systems are established, but order is preserved among the 5000 men on the city streets. Occasionally trips are made to sea to work out tactical problems of attack and counter-attack. The remainder of the Atlantic scouting fleet, cruisers and battleships, has been at Hatteras Roads for practice. Later all the ships will go to their home yards for the Christmas season and to prepare for the winter long range gunnery drills. This is the first time Charleston has been used as the fall base. Heterodox Guantánamo has been both the fall and winter base for the drills, but the expense entailed in making the long trips to Cuba, returning for Christmas and going back again to Guantánamo—more than 1000 miles of January, February and March is so great that naval officers are seeking a reduction in the cost. As Charleston is successful the port may become the official fall base of the squadrons. Winter exercises, which call for long range battles, are held in the Gulf of Mexico to be held in Guantánamo. The expensive torpedoes are actually expended in the practice, and 50 fathoms of water, and the abating shore of the South Atlantic Coast makes such drills, one of the most important for destroyers. After the work in Cuban waters is completed the ships return to the north for brief maneuvers. In the summer all destroyers take naval reserves on cruises, and by the time these are completed it is time for the gunnery practice again. The naval year is one complete cycle of training.

Dollar Beckons to Another Pugilist

PARIS, Nov. 3 (AP)—Young Asperio, bantamweight, is another French pugilist who has heard the call of the dollar. He will shortly join the colony of foreign boxers who are making their temporary homes in the United States. Asperio is not a boxer, but he begins fighting from the sound of the gong. Many times during his five year ring career in France the referee had had to tear him away from his opponent at the end of a fight. He will train at Madame Bey's farm in New Jersey, where Paulino Uzcudun, Andre Routin, Yvan Laffleur, and Kid Francis are quartered.

HERRMANN IS SECOND TROJAN OF BASEBALL TO PASS THIS YEAR

After Careers That Parallel Closely in Time and Achievement Two Members of "Old Guard" Pass From Activity.

(By The Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 3.—After careers that parallel closely in duration and achievement, August (Pops) Herrmann and Ben Johnson, Trojans of baseball's "Old Guard," have passed from active ranks together. It is a coincidence...

The Slater case, in 1916, brought Herrmann into conflict with club owners of his own league and furnished, perhaps, one of the first revolts against the rule of the old National Commission, commonly known as "the Slater case," in 1916...

In his early days, Herrmann had to struggle for a living. He amassed his own fortune. From newsboy, he served as apprentice for a trade and later became active in politics.

In 1902, Herrmann was associated with George Cox and Max and Julius Fieldman in the purchase of the Cincinnati club from John T. Brush...

STAGG'S FOOTBALL CUNNING PUTS CHICAGO ELEVEN IN FRONT AGAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Coaches come and coaches go, but Alonzo Stagg seems to go on forever. The shaggy-headed "old man of the Midway" is 63 years old and he has started his thirty-sixth season in the Western Conference by pushing the University of Chicago team into an undefeated position in the Big Ten...

The gentle-mannered Stagg renews his youth each evening at 4 o'clock when his boys trot out for practice. This season, so far, he appears to have done his best work with the squad by leading the backfield, or the ends or men in the center of the line, off to a corner and expounding gridiron strategy to them.

Stagg has Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin to contend with, and there will be few to dispute his laurels if he goes over his books now is president of the corporation.

Elephant Remembers Benefactor Years After Colic Attack

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Elephants play the chief roles in reminiscences of the "Barnum of Britain," E. H. Bostock, who spent 20 years on the road with circuses, menageries and theaters. Bostock tells how, when boxing kangaroos were all the rage, he had to train the animals for these stunts, and finally, seeking something new, he gained a great lead over other rival circus men by producing a wrestling lion.

His favorite elephant was Lizzie, born in the African jungles. While showing one day in Tenbury, Lizzie was taken with a severe attack of colic and was obviously in such pain that the local "vet" not being within call, Bostock called in the best known Tenbury chemist. Though unused to prescribing for elephants, the chemist made a bucket full of a mixture which Lizzie swallowed without demur when told to do so by her trainer.

The good effects were immediate. The colic was conquered and within a day or two Lizzie was herself again. Here is the sequel: "Four years later the menagerie was back in the same town. The local chemist, keen to have a look at his former patient, was standing on the curb outside watching the entrance of the show."

"The moment Lizzie came abreast of the chemist she recognized her former benefactor, swung round, described the formation and with a honk of joy almost rushed the gentleman off his feet. Playfully and joyfully she then fondled him with her trunk and the procession was held up several minutes by the animal's evident exuberance."

Bostock recalls many narrow escapes. He has been attacked by lions, leopards, snakes, bears, monkeys, kangaroos and other animals, but never by an elephant.

STAR BACKS PROMISE BATTLE WITH VANDY MEETS GEORGIA TECH

Billy Spears, Vanderbilt Stars in Breaking Away From Field for Long Gains and in Passing and Receiving.

(By The Associated Press) ATLANTA, Nov. 3.—With four consecutive Southern Conference victories to its credit, the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech faces one of its strongest opponents on the remaining schedule when Vanderbilt hit it tonight here November 5.

Each team has its big guns ready to train the other, though Tech enters the game only a week after its hard battle with Notre Dame. For more than the Bear. Dan McGugin has coached the Commodores and this season he presents, as usual, a strong backfield.

In Billy Spears, Vanderbilt has a star grid in breaking away from the field for long gains and in passing and receiving. William A. Alexander, who has been one of the eleven's principal scorers. To offset these two, the Tornado has "Bumpy" Thomson and Walter Mizell, recognized as two of the greatest backs in the South this season.

Following the 1918 season Georgia Tech began to slip from the top. And during the last few seasons the once Golden Tornado has been scarcely more than a gent. Johnny Heitman, often referred to as the "wizard coach," left for other fields long since.

This year, however, Georgia Tech seems to have finally found itself and with Thrash, Durant, Thomson, Mizell and others carrying its standards eleven than any that has represented the local institution in a long time.

Vehicular Tunnel Is Closed to Horses

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Dobbin's ironshod feet will never clump their way beneath the Hudson River in the Holland vehicular tunnel, greatest of under-water roadways, which opens November 13.

The dictionary describes a vehicle as anything "in or on which something is or may be carried," but the rules decree that all of the 3,800 vehicles which may pass through the tunnel in an hour must be horseless.

"The reason is that Dobbin is too slow to keep up with the procession. It is held that he would slow down the streams of passenger and commercial traffic through the tube between New York and New Jersey."

SPANISH GAME OF BALL IS THOUGHT TO 'FIXED' ONE

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Nov. 3.—Professionalism is causing the rapid decay of Spain's national sport—the Basque ball game—which formerly held its own with the national spectacle, the bullfight.

Since professionalism was introduced, the public has suspected that the matches are decided according to the betting. For on several occasions a well-known player holding a strong lead is beaten on the winning point by an inferior performer.

This refers, however, only to the public courts where entrance fees are charged to witness the games, and where bookmakers gather in large numbers to shout the odds and, according to common report, to enter into bloody fights between the spectators.

In the villages and small towns of Galicia and Asturias the game continues to be played for the pure love of the sport. Every inn in these regions possesses a court which summer and winter is utilized by the farmers and their laborers after their long day of hard work to devote their hands to a round of drizits. The amateur players generally use their hands in the same way as in American handball, but many among them know how to wield the heavy cast—a kind of basket in which the ball is caught, to be swung back to the wall with terrific force.

OLD-TIME COTTON GIN OF SOUTH YIELDS TO MODERN MACHINERY

Picturesque Cornerstone of a Hundred-Million Dollar Industry is Disappearing at Rate of Almost 100 Every Year.

(By The Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Slow, antiquated but sometimes majestic, the cotton gin of the old South, picturesque cornerstone of a hundred-million dollar industry, is disappearing at the rate of almost 100 every year.

In the 13-year span, 1912 to 1925 inclusive, the number of gins in the United States fell from 28,358 to 18,282, a decrease of more than 35,000 individual gins.

"With this numerical decline," say Federal census reports, "there has been a more or less corresponding increase in the size of plants. It is estimated that ginning facilities, in the aggregate, are sufficient to gin the entire American cotton crop in 30 days."

Observers see in that statement inevitable oblivion for the cotton trader's first mechanical evidence of economic freedom. While the small capacity gin still is to be found in almost every town, hamlet, and crossroad center, as indispensable to the cotton belt as the threshing machine is to the grain states, it is appearing that modern, compact, and highly efficient equipment capable of large custom-ginning is to pre-dominate in the future.

Development of large plants has been most marked in the southwest. Texas reports for 1925 show that active plants there turned out a yearly average of 763 bales, whereas the annual average for the entire country was but 642 bales. Greater capacity also decreased ginning costs. Plants with a volume of 1,000 to 1,200 bales had an average cost of 63.7 per bale, while those with a volume of 3,000 to 3,500 bales had an average cost of but 44.9.

For investment in cotton-ginning plants is estimated at more than $200,000,000. A study of representative plants shows that an average net profit of 8.6 per cent of the capital invested, in addition to an allowance of 5 per cent for interest and management, was made by 52 plants from custom-ginning, the seed business, bagging and ties, and seed cotton.

Eleven plants out of 60 failed to make a 6 per cent return on capital when all their operations were considered.

HISTORIC TREES ADDED TO NEWEST 'HALL OF FAME'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Two more living historical monuments have been added to the American Tree Association's Hall of Fame for Trees here. One, at White Plains, N. Y., was shelter to the leading figures of the Revolution; the other, at the Oklahoma, marked the end of the "Trail of Tears" for the Creek Indians when they were ordered by the government from their old Alabama homes to the Indian Territory.

The White Plains tree, nominated for the association's Hall of Fame by Mrs. Jeremiah T. Lockwood of that city, stands beside the house where George Washington maintained his headquarters during the Battle of White Plains, October 26, 1776, and again from July 16 to September 20, 1778. Not only was Alexander Hamilton, George Clinton, the Count de Rochambeau, General Lafayette, General James Putnam, Aaron Burr, General Charles Lee and James Monroe have passed under its branches.

The history of the Tulsa cotton tree is more sentimental. Mrs. Lillah D. Lindsay, placing it in nomination, told how it came to mark the "Buck Grounds of the Creeks. When they left Alabama, a warrior placed in an earthen kettle part of the embers of the last fire on their old Buck Grounds. The embers were kept alive, and at the end of each day's march a new fire was kindled from all about the "Trail of Tears," until arriving in Indian Territory, they furnished the party with the new Council Fire under this tree. It stands on property now owned by Charles B. Peters.

HERE'S AMERICA'S "AVERAGE MAN"

Man-Made Hurricanes Send Air Through New Tubes Under Hudson

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A hurricane made and controlled by men will blow safely to thousands of motorists using the new Holland Vehicular Tunnel under the Hudson river connecting New York City and New Jersey. The tunnel will be opened on November 12.

The gale is the engineers' answer to the threat of deadly carbon monoxide gas and vitiated air that ordinarily would accumulate in the twin tubes, which stretch for a mile and three-quarters and can accommodate 3,800 vehicles an hour.

So expertly is the air diffused as it passes into the two one-way tubes from channels underneath, that the motorists will scarcely feel its presence.

Forty-two great fans, twice as high as a tall man, gather the air and send it whirling at 80 miles an hour under the great floor of each tube, to spread through the tunnels from continuous slots just above the floor level. This air continually takes the place of the vitiated air, which is sucked away through the roof by 42 other great fans, carried to the tops of seven story buildings and shot upward far above the crowds on the streets below.

Tunnel engineers say that this constant dumping of vitiated air into the atmosphere above the city—the air in the entire tunnel is replaced 62 times a hour—comprises no danger to the public.

The gale-laden air, it is pointed out, will be hot from the exhausts of many motors and this alone would carry it upward. Besides this, the fans that suck the air from the tubes are so powerful that they will force the bad air to such height that by the time it has cooled and begins to settle it will be fit to breathe again.

In the tunnel itself there is apparently a gentle stirring of fresh cool air, but only the faint whirr of the invisible fans serves as a reminder of the heaped hurricane that is roaring underneath.

The ventilating system not only gives constant fresh air but also does away with the sensation of pressure on the ears, noticeable in far shorter tunnels that are not artificially ventilated.

The tunnel is never less than 25 feet below the riverbed. At its lowest point it is 90 feet below the surface of the water.

PUBLIC HALL PAYS CLEVELAND PROFIT

When City Built Auditorium in 1923 for $6,500,000 It Was Labeled as 'White Elephant.'

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 3.—When Cleveland built a $6,500,000 public hall in 1923, many labeled it a gross white elephant.

But since that time the great structure of marble and granite, erected primarily as a monument to civic effort, has returned profits of approximately $200,000.

More than $150,000 has been turned back into the city's general fund, and out of the profits improvements to the building.

The last republican national convention was held in the hall and Cleveland is not after the next one. The secret of the success of the auditorium, say its officials, is that facilities has been absolutely discarded from its management. Lincoln C. Dickey has been in charge of the structure from its beginning and will continue to manage it as long as he "delivers the goods."

While the hall has attracted great conventions to Cleveland, it has become also a focal point of civic interest. Any individual or organization may rent the hall for its project meets with the approval of Dickey and the board of governors.

The huge main arena, seating 13,107 persons, has been the scene of circus, boxing and wrestling matches, grand opera, and even a bridge party in which 830 tables were in play at the same time.

A world record for opera attendance was set when 60,170 persons paid $18,228 to see eight performances. When "The Miracle" was staged in the hall, a world record for gross receipts from a theatrical performance was marked up. During a three week's showing, $401,000 was taken in.

The white elephant has become a goose who lays golden eggs. Clevelanders say.

HARNESS THE JORDAN

JERUSALEM, Nov. 3.—The River Jordan will be put to work producing electrical energy as soon as a $10,000,000 hydro-electric plant is completed at the falls between Lake Tiberias and the Golan heights.

The Palestine government will be the principal consumer.

STATISTICS SOUGHT ON WORLD'S WOOL

Within Few Months Experts Will Gather Figures on Quality, Weight, and Condition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The world is to find out what is going on in the wool business.

Within a few months, if plans now in the making mature, statistics will be gathered on quality, condition, weight and value of wool handled in international trade. For a year the world's total stock of wool will be estimated and monthly reports will show imports, exports, re-exports and consumption.

American wool trade organizations have approved the plans at conferences with representatives of the department of agriculture, who began action looking to obtaining such data from all wool producing countries after British interests had suggested the figures would be valuable and asked of the opinion of the American government.

A final report of recommendations of the wool trade, producers and government departments, is to be prepared at a conference of the department of agriculture, department of commerce, the treasury department and the tariff commission, will be submitted to the state department for transmission to the British ambassador.

Tomato Vine Grows to Height of 11 Feet

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 3.—Cultivators between San Francisco and Oakland are beginning to wonder if the famed beanstalk that Jack climbed, wasn't, after all, a tomato vine.

Par out on a railroad pier, where salt water breezes fan it continuously, is a tomato plant which has reached a height of almost eleven feet, and is still growing. It stands beside a pump station.

Soot and smoke from locomotives carrying passenger trains out to their connections with the ferry boats blow on the vine day and night, but it is heavily hung with ripening tomatoes.

Tomato harvesters in the vicinity who like tomatoes have to climb a step ladder.
