SEVERED OXYGEN TUBE EXPLAINS DEATH OF FORMER IDAHO MAN

Slashed Air Line Mute Evidence of Tragedy Far Above Clouds; Victim's Body Found in Balloon Basket; New Record Set.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—At the request of the body of Captain Hawthorne Gray will be buried here in Arlington national cemetery.

Captain Gray was born in the state of Washington in 1883 and served as an officer of the Idaho national guard during his military career in the regular army in 1915 with the purpose of entering aviation.

SPARTA, Tenn., Nov. 5.—A severed tube, apparently cut accidentally by a knife in his own hands, stopped the flow of life sustaining oxygen, and was believed tonight to explain the death, above the clouds yesterday, of Captain Hawthorne Gray.

Gray's log, taken from the basket of his wrecked balloon after its recovery, together with the remains of his body, six miles here today, related that at 3:15 o'clock Friday the balloon ascended to 40,000 feet. That was the final entry. What happened afterward can only be constructed from mute evidence found in the wrecked basket.

Sought to Go Higher With the goal of his flight from Scott field, at Belleville, Illinois, attained, Gray apparently sought to go even higher. Examination of the body and the basket indicate that he took out his stomach knife possibly to cut away superfluous equipment in order to rise higher. The severed oxygen tube, presumably cut by a sharp piece of the iron, was found.

Local officials and aviators who examined the balloon's fragments and remains said they were sure that Gray finally reached an altitude of 60,000 feet, several thousand feet above the highest official record. Instruments will be forwarded to Washington for calibration.

Gray's body, which was attempted to follow Gray yesterday, but lost him in the fog over southern Illinois and was unable to give up the chase.

The first report of the aviator after the bursting planes lost him came this morning when a farmer

Cold and Hunger Stalk New England Hills in Wake of Angry Waters

Reduction in Apparent Loss of Life Furnishes One Bright Spot in Day's Reports; Two Score of Known Dead; Property Damage Runs Into Millions of Dollars; Transportation Delayed.

(By The Associated Press) BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Cold and hunger stalked the hills of New England tonight in the wake of the most disastrous floods of this section's history.

Substantial reduction in the apparent loss of life furnished the one bright spot in late reports today. Apprehension over the fate of Montpelier, capital of Vermont, was removed with the establishment of direct communication.

ALTHOUGH 30 square miles in and near the city had been completely inundated but only one known death had been recorded.

Crashing through power dams, reservoirs and all other man-made obstructions, scores of ordinary peaceful mountain streams now are raging toward the valley towns, bearing with them debris of mill and store and wreckage.

The crest of the flood and the crisis in the cases of scores of towns will not be reached until tomorrow noon, but already there has been recorded a toll of two score and more known dead, with property loss which will run into many millions.

Shortage of food and of medical supplies is making grave conditions in the cities of Vermont, and already there has been recorded a toll of two score and more known dead, with property loss which will run into many millions.

That seven confessions, including Lieutenant Governor S. Hollister Jackson, had lost their lives in Barre, Vermont, was definitely learned this afternoon through a radio message from Barre Times to the Associated Press, which was picked up by an amateur in New Bedford, Mass. Later word was that 13 others were believed dead. The Vermont governor, Earl Browder, in Plover, had while trying to reach his home yesterday and was drowned. His body was recovered yesterday afternoon. The news that the body of a man had been damaged to the extent that it was impossible to identify it, was a large dam at Pittsfield, Vermont, had gone out that the city of Rutland was "baptized" as a result.

The only message to go through the flooded lines of Vermont was that the city of Rutland was "baptized" as a result. The only message to go through the flooded lines of Vermont was that the city of Rutland was "baptized" as a result.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 5 (AP)—A death sentence imposed on Earle Nelson today was the last step to mark the end of a trail of terror across the continent along with the bodies of a woman and an infant, victims of the dark stranger.

Nelson was sentenced to hang January 15 after his conviction of the murder of Mrs. Emily Patterson, mother of two children. The jury deliberated only a short while.

"I am not guilty" was the only statement he made before sentence was pronounced.

Police of Pacific coast states, and in the middle west and east were seeking the stranger for a series of murders of women when the discovery of the killing here of Mrs. Patterson and of Lola Brown, Duke of Nemours, revealed his presence in Winnipeg.

THE FORUM

THE BASIS OF IT

Editor Twin Falls News. Dear Sir: In your editorial commenting on the hypocritical attitude of those who censured a work of history for saying that the lives contained in the Declaration of Independence were not original, and your editorial expressing regret at lack of thought on political and other affairs, are commendable and both of a piece with the high standard of originality in the principles enunciated in the Declaration.

What Jefferson did was to combine these separate but complementary doctrines into a document which precisely fitted the conditions which the Revolutionary Fathers were called on to meet, and the splendid results which the Declaration achieved came about because of the concrete work which people carried out separately and in the abstract.

Jefferson himself in declining orality of principles covered the subject so completely that further additions would be considered superfluous.

This was the object of the Declaration of Independence, not to find new principles, or new arguments, or never before thought of, nor merely to say things which had never been said before, but to place before mankind the common sense and common sense in terms so plain and firm as to command their assent, and to justify the American people in their stand.

Art Treasure Hunt Prospect Stirs American Imagination

Press Expects Wonderful Results From Excavations Beneath Ancient Athens Market Place Finished by Anonymous American Gift.

The prospect of a hunt for lost art treasures beneath modern Athens on the ancient site of Akropolis, financed by millions from an unnamed American, appeals strongly to the imagination of the press. It is assumed that difficulties in the way of clearing the site eventually will be overcome and that wonderful discoveries await the search to be directed by the American School of Classical Studies.

Speaking of the great progress made during the last twenty years in archeology, the New York Herald Tribune says: "Illicit digging has been stopped; careless sifting is no longer possible. Every square inch of the city is being excavated and measured in situ; proper care in the excavation, the preservation, removal or protection of the ruins or objects of the city is being given."

The thought that $2,500,000 has been given to be used for digging up the ruins of the city of Athens, the Grand Rapids Press says that "the average man that would see a check for $2,500,000 would be inclined to regard it as a windfall."

"A half-political interest" is seen by the Brooklyn Daily Eagle in the fact that the old market place of Athens is being excavated and the ruins of the ancient city are being brought to light.

The extent of the time through which the ancient monuments and the different periods of antiquity through which it passed, suggests the New York Sun, may be gathered from the fact that the city of Sparta, in which there were great many of the structures, was never found to carry out his ideal of beautifying the city.

SYLVIA of the MINUTE

HELEN R. MARTIN.

In her pleasant surprise at such a July invitation for her to be in Marvin Creighton's company was rather peculiarly exciting and Mely was lonely she dropped her cool manner with radiant smiles and was seated with childlike delight.

"Will you tell me," he inquired in a tone of direct kindness, "why you are so late? I was not here when you talk to me and an English accent when you recite Shakespeare?"

"Professionally," he demanded, "I am a student of the drama and the stage."

"Working my way to Hollywood," Marvin looked rather staggered, for this knuckled out his suspicion as to why she was not at the party.

"I do not know," he asked somewhat stiffly, "it is right to use our own words in a stepping-stone for your ambitions."

"Rather a coincidence, don't you think?"

"Why, no. There must have been thousands of such coincidences, surely."

"That is a hard one," said John St. Croix, and his son's death loomed before him; but that it would have died out with him, but that the king conferred on his daughter, Sylvia, the title of baroness and the right of continuance of the title in direct line, so that her oldest son will bear the title of baron.

"By the way, I believe you told me, the first time I met you, didn't you, that you were 'illid'?"

"That's what I'd like to know! Can you understand a man's delicately and of his own free will and choice to give his name to a girl?"

"I don't know," she said, "but I'll tell you what I think of it."

"Well, if she turns him down I might be interested in her myself."

Around the World

EARLY SWEDISH COLONY

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 5.—An important archeological discovery has recently been made by a Swedish farmer who has excavated the remains of a colony near the cloister ruins of Avastara, in the province of Ostergotland. Deep down in the marshy ground he has discovered the remains of a colony built on poles, and the State Antiquarian, having examined the remains, decided that this is the oldest habitation of human beings found in northern Europe. These early Swedes, even in the dawn of the stone age, were provided with a circle of fortification defended their cattle against the neighboring nomadic hunters.

WINE-MAKING PLIES

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Wet weather has been responsible for bringing to the surface the plague of flies which are extremely annoying indoors. Professor Seguy, the well-known French entomologist, says these flies are bred in the grape juice which has been left on the ground and which has encouraged fermentation. However, it is probably responsible for their large numbers. He adds that the vinegar fly is a delicate insect, as it is disturbed too much, he falls to the ground and dies. In the wine-growing districts he performs a most useful function. He carries on his long legs the germs of fermentation from one wine-cellar to another and, dipping to the surface of the vats, causes the process of fermentation—turning the grape juice quickly into wine.

She is now confined to her room, but retains her mental faculties unimpaired.

BEARS AT A PICNIC

THESE, Nov. 5.—Five bears had a picnic at a picnic ground near the village where the patients were being a meal out of doors, and created a panic. A large bear, followed by four bears, emerged from a wood bordering the garden and advanced resolutely in the direction of the picnic grounds. The bears sniffed and tasted some of the food remaining from the picnic. The bears sniffed and tasted some of the food remaining from the picnic.

IOWA LEADING FARM STATE

IOWA, as so accustomed to the state winning agricultural laurels that it may be lacking in the good things under the 1925 agricultural census. Yet, in spite of a tendency to be a little more than a little more, it is no small matter for Iowa to rank first in value of farm products.

The whole is a result creditable to the good sense of the negotiators on both sides. They were for a time engaged in a struggle to get out of the mire of the tariff and even an ultimatum. But Paris saw the unlikelihood of the French government's correspondence that might disturb the friendly feelings between the two nations, so that the later notes were sent by the public, while our embassy and the French authorities sought a way out of the difficulty.

DISAPPEARANCE OF EDEN'S SHOE SHINE BALKS INVESTIGATION

Sensational Stories Prevalent in North Side Town as Continued Inquiry Brings No Light on Mystery.

Disappearance of Eden's "Shoe Shine" Charley Russell is far from being a finished mystery. The investigation is under way to clear up...

Circumstances that have come to light since the first few days following the disappearance of the colored man tend to provoke question of the theory that his departure was wholly voluntary...

It is certain that the negro was engaged with toil play that the negro was met late on the night of his disappearance in a crap game with five or six other men...

The only known relative of the missing man, a cousin named Brown, proprietor of a pool hall in Pocatello, advised of Russell's disappearance, but neither learned anything, nor could he shed new light on the mystery.

Four or five persons in different parts of town heard shots fired in the early morning on the day of the disappearance. The shots were fired three or four miles southwest of Eden and noticed a figure beside the fire...

Other stories that gain currency from time to time are that one or another of the men who took part in the crap game has left town. Among all of Eden's citizens probably Curtis Metcalf, rural mail carrier, was best acquainted with Russell.

On the night the disappeared man, Mr. Metcalf said, Russell was at the Metcalf home until shortly after 10 o'clock playing the banjo and dancing...

Borrowed Banjo Missing On his own account Mr. Metcalf launched an investigation when he learned on Monday of the colored man's disappearance. It was learned that nothing was missing from Russell's pockets of business expenses...

"I am convinced," Mr. Metcalf stated, "that the darkie was not a fugitive from justice and that he was happy and contented here and that he had planned to spend the winter in Eden. He was a thorough and conscientious and competent workman...

ONCE-A-LABORER, FARRELL LOOKS FOR GARY'S POST

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—The man deemed most likely to succeed the late Judge Albert W. Gary as chief magistrate of the board of the United States Steel corporation got his start as a day laborer. Jess Augustine Farrell, now president of the corporation, mentioned most prominently for the chairman-ship of the board, was in the district of Columbia, started his career in the world of steel when he quit school at 16 because of the death of his father, and went to work at a New Haven, Conn., electrical wire mill. His work took him to Pittsburgh and the foremanship of the Pittsburgh Oliver Wire company, hence through the superintendency and general management, and subsequently to the posts of general superintendent of the Oliver Steel Wire company and general manager of the Oliver Iron and Steel company.

Then he organized his own company, and he became general manager of exports in the American Steel and Wire company, which he changed a number of individual groups. In the export field he won the presidency of the United States Steel Exports company, and two years ago he was made president of the United States Steel corporation. A man more than six feet tall, deep chest and broad of shoulders, Farrell has been an outstanding figure in the steel world, but he has steadily stunted personal publicity.

First Army "Hitch" Hardest for Soldier WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—If Uncle Sam's soldiers keep out of trouble during their first enlistment they stand an excellent chance of avoiding infractions of discipline altogether. Of 1200 prisoners serving sentences at the United States disciplinary barracks, the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, 831 were serving their first enlistment when convicted, 237 were serving the second, 92 the third, 40 the fourth and only 11 the fifth. These figures were revealed in the commandant's annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30. The report shows that desertion is the predominant cause for sentence, there being 1102 deserters in the prison population of 1360.

HIGHWAY BOARD TO GRAVEL TWO ROADS

Bids Are Asked for Mile in Park Lane District; Force Account on Another Stretch.

Call for bids for the gravelling of a mile of road in the Park Lane school district was issued Saturday afternoon by the Twin Falls highway district commissioners. The road has already been graded. The bids will be opened next Saturday at a special meeting called for that purpose.

The board received a delegation of farmers north and west of Twin Falls who also wanted grading done. The board decided to go as much of this work as possible this fall on force account, considering weather, finances and possibility of getting gravel at a satisfactory price. It is hoped to finish about a mile before winter. V. C. Clifford will do the work.

The settlement for the right of way through the W. H. Forrester farm south of Rogerson on the Sawtooth highway on the basis of $10 an acre or $10 was announced. Suit to secure easement had started against Mr. Forrester and some others, but he offered to accept the price charged by the state for its holdings. But, against others who have not settled is still on the records.

THEATRES

"TILLIE THE TOLLER"
As Tillie, in "Tillie the Toller," her latest Cosmopolitan starring vehicle, which opens at the Orpheum theatre, Miss Davies gives the crowning performance of her entire film career up to date.

Miss Davies has an excellent supporting cast of screen comedians to assist her in this picture. They include, at least half a dozen featured players, among them George K. Arthur, Bert Roach, George Fawcett, Gertrude Short, Estelle Clark, Arthur Hoyt and Claire McDowell.

"TELL IT TO SWEENEY"
It may be fun to steal rides on top of freight trains, but it's dangerous and will put white hairs in any man's head.

That advice comes from Chester Crenkin, Paramount comedian, who once took a flitter atop one of those 60-mile-an-hour express trains running between Omaha and Nashville. He admits that he was out of a job and entirely without funds. He says he can't say how new he did it again.

The adventure was brought to mind when Crenkin resumed his railroading during the filming of "Tell It to Sweeney," which will be at the Idaho today and tomorrow only. The Paramount comedy which introduces him with a new comedy team-mate, George Bancroft.

"CORPORAL KATE"
They blew up a French village—all for the sake of the movies! In Vera Reynolds' latest production, "Corporal Kate," a Paul Shane production which will be on view at the Idaho theatre today, nearly a ton of "plant" powder was used to make kindling wood of a French village—a motion picture background.

Ten cameras recorded the scene which took three days to prepare. Insofar as blowing it up was concerned, and which will appear to be a little more than a flash on the screen.

Scene with Thomas plays opposite Miss Reynolds in "Corporal Kate." Julia Faye also is featured and Majel Coleman is a leading member of the supporting cast.

Fifteen Years Ago in Twin Falls

Taken from the Twin Falls News, Thursday, November 7, 1912.

Another special train of Twin Falls potatoes left Thursday for southwestern points. The train consisted of 25 box cars, sent out by the Boyle Commission company under the direction of Mr. DeLong, local officer of the company. The cars were equipped with oil stoves and the potatoes were packed in straw to insure against freezing while en route through the mountain districts. The train is in charge of L. H. Brasher. Large banners were placed upon the train announcing that the potatoes were grown in Twin Falls.

With a majority of better than 700 votes over Eugene L. Lake in his own county, the election of Addison T. Smith to congress has been accomplished by a splendid majority. Incomplete returns so far received show heavy voting in his favor in many counties, and the total majority for Mr. Smith will probably run between 8000 and 10,000.

Dr. and Mrs. John E. White and family arrived the last of the week from Colorado Springs, Colorado, and will make this their home.

The election of Governor Woodrow Wilson as president and Governor Marshall of Indiana as vice president by a safe majority of electoral votes was made certain by incomplete returns received from the country at large up to 10 p. m.

Miss Bernice Babcock and brother,

Master Edward Babcock, entertained a number of their young friends at a Halloween party last Thursday evening at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Babcock. Japanese lanterns and fall flowers were used to decorate the rooms. The evening was spent with games.

Miss Adah Avant and Miss Vernetta Anderson were hostesses at a delightful Halloween party last Friday evening at the home of the former. The evening was spent with games and refreshments. The long table at which refreshments was served was attractive in yellow and white and a large plumage containing fortune was used as a centerpiece. The hostesses were assisted in serving by Miss Alice and Myrtle Anderson.

FALSE PRETENSE IS CHARGED TO FORMER CITIZEN OF OAKLEY

Frank Fairchild Is Taken Into Custody at Idaho Falls for Alleged Effort to Use Mails to Defraud.

Frank Fairchild, 23, otherwise known as Henry Bell, Duke Jackson or "Blackie," who is wanted here on charges of attempting to use the mails to defraud Charles Astrom of Vernonia, Oregon, has been arrested at Idaho Falls. He is to be delivered into custody of Charles J. Jones, Twin Falls county deputy sheriff, who is to go to Idaho Falls today to receive the prisoner.

Fairchild, according to telephone messages received last evening from Idaho Falls, has signed a statement admitting the charges.

Jesse Husted, chief of police at Luhl, reported Friday to the sheriff's office that Charles Astrom, 21, of Buhl, had delivered to him a letter from his father in Oregon, in which another letter said he had been signed by the name Frank Fairchild was enclosed. The Fairchild letter told the elder Astrom that his son had been very ill and that he had paid for medical treatment, medicine, care and so forth in the sum of $40 for the boy, for which the amount was reimbursed. The father sent the letter to his son, who denied that any such condition of health on his part or expenditure of the part of Fairchild had existed, and turned the letter over to the Buhl chief. The latter reported the matter to the postoffice, which also took steps to investigate the matter.

Goos to Idaho Falls

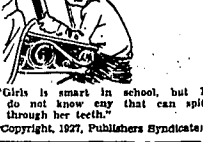

It is said that Fairchild went to Idaho Falls, from where, it is said, his wife came, and where he is said to have been known as Henry Bell. He was taken into custody Thursday, and is said to have claimed at first that it was a case of mistaken identity. Deputy Sheriff Owens who made the arrest telephoned to Mr. Jones and the latter suggested that the Idaho Falls deputy tell him that he could file to anyone he pleased, and after the letter had been written and delivered for mailing tell the young man plainly that they had the original letter which had been sent back from Oregon and that comparison would be made of his handwriting which would show whether he was guilty or innocent. The Idaho Falls deputy said that this plan had been carried out and that Fairchild then admitted that he had sought to get money improperly and by misrepresentation by letter, and after making what he claimed to be a complete statement signed it.

Fairchild is said to be one quarter blood Cherokee Indian and to have a very dark complexion. He and young Astrom are said to have worked together near Buhl.

WOMAN ALMOST LOSES SCALP IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Barks, formerly of this city, and now a resident of Murtaugh, is recovering her hair from effects of an auto crash Friday night, which almost tore her scalp from her head.

Mrs. Barks, J. W. Adamson and Ray Joyce were going home early Friday night from Twin Falls in a car owned by Joyce and driven by Adamson when within a mile of their destination they were met by a truck said to be coming west from Pocatello. The truck, they allege, had only one light. This led to a miscalculation of location of the truck by Adamson, it is stated, with the result that both motor vehicles were badly damaged. Mrs. Barks was taken to Twin Falls where her scalp was stitched by a surgeon, after which she returned to her home.

Health Officer Says Few Cases of Whooping Cough in One District Only Epidemic.

During the past week and a half no cases of infectious disease have been reported to Twin Falls county health department, it was stated last evening by Dr. George C. Halley, county health officer.

There has been no appearance of infantile paralysis in this county and there are no epidemics at the present time except for a few cases of whooping cough in one district, Dr. Halley stated.

Pointing out that infantile paralysis is a disease of entirely different nature from meningitis, Dr. Halley stated that two cases of meningitis have been reported recently to the county health department. Recovery is complete in one of these cases and the patient is well on the road to recovery in the other. Dr. Halley stated.

The two diseases run entirely different clinical courses. In the treatment of meningitis a serum is used and cures are effected in about 90 per cent of the cases. Infantile paralysis, Dr. Halley stated, involves dread not so much because of its death rate as because of serious and lasting effects.

Harness Is Stolen Off Back of Team in Town of Murtaugh

Somebody stole the harness off the backs of a team of horses owned by George Hartley, which was hitched to a wagon in Murtaugh shortly after midnight Saturday morning, and then turned the horses loose. Hartley reported the theft to the office of the sheriff, Deputy Sheriff Charles R. Jones went to Murtaugh Saturday and rounded up Oscar Cox and Paul Smith, who were said to have been near the horses. The boys said that they had turned the horses loose from the wagon but had not taken the harness off. However, they said, as the harness had been taken after they had led the animals go, they would pay for it, as its disappearance might have the indirect result of their act, they stated.

Twin Falls Apple Growers Harvest Million Dollar Crop

Orchards, Under Season's Favorable Conditions, Contribute to Region's Wealth

CONDITIONS and circumstances from every angle this season have played into the hands of apple growers of the Twin Falls country who are now completing the harvest of a million dollar crop.

With a total estimated production of 4,250,000 bushels this year as compared with 2,775,000 bushels in 1926, Idaho alone among the important apple producing states has a larger crop this season than last year. The fruit, federal and state inspectors declare, is particularly clean and free from worm damage.

The season's apple crop in the Twin Falls country, will approximate 650,000 bushels, filling about 1000 freight cars, in addition to the fruit utilized at dehydrating plants.

Light frosts in the early autumn, except in orchards where the crop had been thinned, prevented development of fruit to normal size this season in the Twin Falls district, but imparted to the apples a brilliance of coloring that contributes much to its desirability from a sales standpoint.

The phrase of one of the apple buyers, "apples is apples" is applicable to the situation this season, and Twin Falls growers have found a ready market for all of their product.

Top New York Market

Carefully selected and packed Jonathan apples from one Twin Falls orchard this month commanded the highest prices on the New York market in competition with Jonathans from all other districts, bringing for the extra fancy grade $3 per box and for the fancy grade $2.75 per box.

Twin Falls apples are to be found this year in markets overseas as well as in many markets in this country which they have not entered previously. Press dispatches one day recently went out over the country telling of the wreck of a train in Missouri in which a carload of Twin Falls apples bound for England was upset.

In most instances growers of the Twin Falls country have sold, or are consigning their apples for sale in transit or storage at terminal markets. The lack of storage facilities for apples in the region was one of the conditions that was brought into prominence this season when it was learned that the crop from one of the larger orchards of this district would fill almost all of the available storage space in Twin Falls.

On many of the larger orchards, packing plants have been constructed and facilities for storage have been provided. In some instances the grower packs the fruit to packing plants of which a number are in operation at shipping points in the district.

Export requirements have brought into play this season a device which seems likely to be made standard equipment at all apple packing plants. It is a washing machine, for the removal of residual lead arsenate spray applied to the fruit for control of worm damage. Two of these devices have been installed and are in operation in Twin Falls packing plants and another is in operation at the Blue Lakes ranch. Under ruling in effect this season only one-one hundredth of a grain of lead arsenate is tolerated for each pound of apples to be sent into export trade. This requirement, inspectors assert, will be extended next season to apply to all apples offered in both foreign and domestic markets.

So it costs the grower money to put the spray on his apples and more money to take off the spray that remains when the fruit is harvested—and this is only one of the items of expense entering into the cost of growing apples.

Production Costs Run High

It is estimated that the cost of producing the crop in any one season of 3500 acres devoted to apple orchards in Twin Falls county will approximate a quarter of a million dollars, and most of this outlay remains in the territory surrounding the orchards.

Expense involved in the production of apples is one of the factors that has brought about a reduction in Twin Falls county's apple orchards from 15,000 acres at one time to about 3500 acres now.

The most successful growers, however, are the ones who do not spare expense in the production of their crop, but bend their efforts toward growing and packing a product that will command a price commensurate with the expense and one for which the trade and consumers are glad to pay the price.

These growers see in the situation that is most auspicious for Idaho apples this year an opportunity for rehabilitation and development of the industry. Twin Falls apples, they say, are entering new markets where favorable impression gained on introduction to the Twin Falls product may be expected to bring about a continuing demand for it.

Apple orchards have played an important part in the Twin Falls country since its first days when it was recognized and heralded abroad as an apple grower's paradise.

Natural conditions of soil and climate, combined with control through irrigation over the orchard water supply, offered in the territory under the Twin Falls canal system opportunities for successful apple growing almost unparalleled elsewhere. The apple orchard was given a place on almost every farm that was wrested out of the desert, and big tracts of newly reclaimed land were converted into apple orchards by corporations that were organized to engage in production of the fruit on a large scale.

Some of the larger orchards in this district were set out originally by corporations many of which were organized as cooperaa few lots under the cooperative project took over the properties from the creditors and are today operating big orchards successfully. These men were T. George Hislop and Charles Simpson, both Chicago business men at the time they contracted for purchase of small orchards in the Twin Falls country. Mr. Hislop and his son, Tom; Hislop, now own and operate an orchard of 30 acres constituting one-half of what was storage in all available storage room here.

One of the larger orchard properties of the district is that of the Decatur Orchards company in the vicinity of Filer which will this season ship to market around 200 carloads of prime fruit. Other large orchards are operated by John W. Hardin at Kimberly and Twin Falls; E. O. Spielburg at Castleford; Joseph H. Seaver of Twin Falls; H. O. Milner of Twin Falls; A. J. Milner them to destruction of the trees on which they had built their erstwhile towering hopes.

The marketing problem was the rock on which hopes of many of the early orchardists were wrecked. Organization of successive cooperative marketing associations failed for one reason and another to solve the problem, and in some instances took additional toll from the pockets of the growers. Inexperience and too much reliance on that certain buyer's policy expressed in his phrase that "apples is apples," brought dis-appointment then as now to growers, who failed to establish themselves on a basis of quality production that is outside the influence of competition.

So for some years the history of apple growing in this district was one of a declining industry, illustrated with scenes of the uprooting of hundreds of acres of bearing trees.

Lessons taught in this hard school are the basis on which the leading growers of the district are building toward re-establishment of the industry on the scale of importance which natural conditions warrant to it in the Twin Falls country.

Pioneers Pave Way

In one respect, at least, it is conceded, the first apple growers of this region reached a wise conclusion when, at a meeting held in Twin Falls more than 20 years ago, they determined that their effort should be centered toward production of only one or two varieties of apples that were best adapted to this territory and for which the market would be most favorable. They agreed that for commercial crops, two varieties, Jonathan and Rome Beauty, should be grown in the Twin Falls country. This decision has been adhered to pretty closely in subsequent stages of the industry, a notable exception being ascribed to include in the list the Delicious apple which for many years has commanded a premium on all markets and which in large measure has supplanted other varieties in orchards of the Twin Falls country.

Apple growing, the first attempts in this district disclosed, holds not only promise of high returns but it involves a heavy initial investment coupled with a non-productive period of years before young trees come into bearing; a big expense each year thereafter for cultivation, harvesting and marketing the crop; constant vigilance against incursions of pests and continuing study to determine the most satisfactory methods and equipment to be employed.

Here is the situation as it is stated by T. George Hislop, who not only is a successful orchard operator but a student of the industry. "Is the apple crop one of Twin Falls' important crops?—One time the territory under the Twin Falls canal system had 15,000 acres of apple trees. Today it has perhaps 3500. Why?

"Not because apples as grown in recognized apple districts, do not pay and pay exceptionally well, nor because our soil and climate are not especially adapted to the production of apples of the highest quality.

"The reasons are many, but all lie with the grower and with local lack of faith in the industry.

"Even the small acreage now left is important far beyond the recognition usually given it. No other crop requires so great an expenditure of labor and material for its production and marketing. No other crop grown leaves as large a proportion of the proceeds of its sale with the merchants of the centers in the producing region.

Some Interesting Figures

"To illustrate, the picking of the crop on an eighty-acre orchard keeps 30 men busy for 40 days, and that is only one of many operations in the industry. An eighty-acre orchard is picked from twice to four times each year at a cost for material and labor of from $500 to $900 for each spray.

"An orchard of that size will yield perhaps 40,000 boxes of marketable apples. The empty boxes cost about $8000. To make and "fill" the boxes for an eighty-acre orchard in full bearing requires two tons of little "five and half penny" nails and 3000' of wire at the end of one harvest to the next. The average annual expenditure for a well cared for orchard, including harvesting, packing and delivering aboard the car, is about $520 per acre. On our 3500 acres that means a total outlay for labor and material of over a quarter of a million dollars.

"Is there any other crop on 3500 acres that turns over to the people of Twin Falls for labor and material such a sum? I think not. It will pay to foster the important line of endeavor. It is growing and will grow faster if it is recognized and encouraged."

Better methods of cultivation and handling of the crop; unity of purpose on the part of the growers to produce fruit that will gain and maintain a preferred position on the markets of the world, and encouragement for the industry on the part of the community at large are the foundation principles on which the leading growers are working toward enthroning of the Twin Falls apple.

The apple in the present situation brings immediate profit to the grower and that they see in this situation a large opportunity for permanent prosperity of the industry when Twin Falls apples shall be known far and wide as fruit of superior quality, and they are working toward that end.

tive enterprises. Each stockholder was to have purchased one or more lots of five or ten acres each, paying for them in installments and with view eventually to making his home on the property, or arranging with the company to operate it for him and pay him his share of the profits. None of these enterprises were successful. Failure generally was caused by inability to collect installment payments. One after another the cooperative orchards passed into the hands of creditors, and in two outstanding instances, men who had contracted to buy only originally a cooperative orchard project about eight miles southeast of Twin Falls, and Mr. Simpson owns and operates the other half of this tract, both having achieved outstanding success in their new field of endeavor.

Another of the original cooperative orchard projects, situated east of Twin Falls, is owned and operated by C. A. Robinson of Twin Falls, who this season has adopted a policy that is exceptional among growers of this region in that he had declined all offers for purchase of his crop and is putting it in of Behl; C. Fahrney of Twin Falls; M. A. Strunk of Twin Falls; Kenyon Green of Twin Falls, and I. B. Perrine, "father of the Twin Falls country" whose world famed Blue Lakes ranch produced fruit that won premier honors at expositions overseas years before the Twin Falls country was brought into being.

But if the cooperative concerns had their troubles that brought them down to bankruptcy, so also did the smaller orchardists in the early days of the industry in this district meet with grievances that provoked

Warehouses Bulging With Bounteous Harvest

CROP conditions in the Twin Falls country are quite satisfactory according to reports from the dealers in the local warehouse district at the close of the week. Grading houses continue to be busy packing and shipping fall crops.

Orchard men are bringing in the last of the apple crop. The recent frosts did little damage to this crop, warehouse men state. Only those apples picked early in the mornings before the frost had left the fruit were damaged. Authorities state that the fruit will be but little damaged unless frozen to the core, and they point out that this locality has had only frosts and not a freeze this season.

Enter Many Markets

Idaho apples are finding markets throughout the South and East, some having been shipped as far as London, England, this season. Idaho is the only apple producing state this year which has a full crop, according to government reports. This fact indicates the price which producers will receive for their fruit this year.

Apples are somewhat smaller this year than in previous seasons, dealers state. The fruit however is particularly sound and is of a high color which does much to offset the handicap of size. Most of the basket fruit has already been shipped. The remainder of the crop will be packed in most instances.

Idaho stands seventh among the states in potato production this fall, according to reports received last week from the state chamber of commerce. Warehouse officials estimate that about half the potatoes from the Twin Falls tract have been harvested. About 75 per cent of the crop is in from the territory immediately surrounding this city. Only those potatoes which were left exposed in the fields and those at the surface of the ground were damaged by the recent cold weather and these were but slightly damaged. Farmers report that the recent rains aided in the digging of the crop. All local storage space has been filled or is spoken for, cellar men state.

Officials hesitated to make predictions concerning the market for potatoes this year. Eastern conditions at present do not indicate a very good price for this commodity. Large crops and a slow demand does not make the outlook for a high potato market very rosy, but warehouse men hope that this condition may soon be relieved.

Potatoes will furnish labor to a considerable number of men in this locality for the greater part of the winter. Many farmers are storing their crop in cellars at their farms due to the lack of storage room in the city. Sorting and grading will be carried on throughout the winter.

Spuds in Storage

Approximately 75 per cent of the crop is now in storage awaiting a demand from eastern and southern markets. Quotations now offered are no inducement to make the crop. The Wisconsin round whites are selling on a par with Idaho russets, which is an unusual market condition, dealers say. Local shipments are being made only in response to orders and no difficulty is experienced in obtaining cars.

New rulings went into effect last Tuesday concerning the branding of potato sacks. All containers for first grade potatoes must now bear the brand: U. S. No. 1 Idaho Selected Potatoes. White potatoes may still be shipped in plain unbranded sacks at the option of the shipper. Private marks used with the government brand must be registered and approved by the state department of agriculture. Sacks must not be faced with potatoes of superior size or quality to the remainder of the contents.

Bean harvest is completed in this vicinity although contractors on the North Side are still threshing, it is reported. About 10 per cent of the crop was damaged by the cold weather. The damaged beans will not be a total loss to the producers, dealers say. The frosts discolored the beans, causing veins to appear. Prices for the discolored beans which must be carefully sorted by hand pickers are about 50 per cent less than for the undamaged crop.

Bean Prices Higher

Although the bean crop for this year is about 50 per cent greater than last season prices are slightly higher. Most of the local crop finds markets in the East and South. Due to higher freight rates and competition from California very few shipments are made to northern or western points. Forty per cent of the crop has been shipped to date.

Definite figures are not available for the beet harvest as yet, although from all indications this vicinity will establish a United States record for yield per acre. About 80 per cent of the beet crop has been harvested in this locality. Large yields, good prices and strong markets indicate that the present season will be a very profitable one to the beet growers of this community.

October witnessed the breaking of the produce shipment record for this locality. The local depot handled 2503 cars during the month. Of this number 1157 were shipped out and 1346 received. The largest number of cars handled in any previous year was 2300 in 1925. The greatest volume of business last month was in apples, beans and sugar beets.

BERLIN CREMATIONS OUTNUMBER BURIALS; ECONOMIC REASONS

Number of Funerals in Recent Months Run About 2100 Per Month; Lots in Cemeteries Are Expensive; Loan Coffins.

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—Berliners prefer cremation of their deceased to burial or interment in mausoleums. The number of funerals in recent months has been about 2,100 per month. Of these the number of cremations is usually about 1,075, that of burials 1,025. The chief reason for the preference given cremation is an economic one. In a world city like Berlin, burial lots are expensive, and the cemeteries are far beyond the confines of the city and only for the inner coffin, which is buried with the corpse, while the outer coffin is heavy oak and the inner coffin is lead. The family pays only for the inner coffin, which is buried with the corpse, while the outer coffin remains property of the crematory and is loaned successively to bereaved families.

Professor Quits Class BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—Dr. Phil C. Bach, adjunct professor at the Geological Institute of Heidelberg University has decided to give up his scientific career and become a professional boxer. The promising champion, however, is by no means a novice in the manly art, as for the last three years, besides holding his geological lectures, he filled the position of sporting teacher at the University.

To Watch Their Steps BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—German jailbirds will have a hard time making a get-away once they begin to wear the specially devised "crooks' shoe" invented by the Commissary in Criminal Cases of Magdeburg.

The shoe is of sheet steel, lined on the inside with felt, so that it occasions no discomfort to the wearer. The lock automatically adjusts itself to the ankles in such a manner that the prisoner can move from place to place only walking slowly. Running or jumping is impossible.

It is claimed for the shoe that the hardness of the steel precludes the possibility of its being filed through. Even an expert locksmith, says the inventor, cannot open the lock without the special key. The new invention is first to be tried out in connection with transcripts of criminals from one place to another, to prevent their escape enroute.

Wine Cellar Will Do BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—Butterflies, spiders, moths, flies, bugs, gnats, and myriapods have a penchant for wine cellars, Professor Fritz Stelwag of the zoological station at Neustadt-on-the-Havel asserts. The temperature, absence of light, and hydrogen and carbon dioxide content of the air in wine cellars produce conditions, he finds, much like those prevailing in caves, and the fauna to be found in wine cellars therefore resemble closely those of caves.

In the course of 24 hours Professor Stelwag collected from one wine cellar 2088 living things, of which 930 were butterflies, 630 moths, 620 flies, 622 bugs, 183 spiders, and the rest myriapods and snails. Most of these he found, subsisted on cork or wood, the rest on leavings of wine or vinegar.

Experiment in Hypnotism BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—For the first time in history of German criminology, hypnotism was resorted to for the detection of crime. The experiment was conducted by Dr. Georg Platau of Berlin, noted authority on hypnotism, on Frau Neumann, housekeeper for the late Professor Rosen of Breslau, who was murdered over a year ago under circumstances which still baffle the police. Frau Neumann was suspected of the ing implicated. She has steadfastly denied this, and the police, after arresting her several times, has dropped the charge. But Frau Neumann felt that she owed it to herself to be cleared of even the semblance of suspicion, and therefore accepted the suggestion of her attorney that she be hypnotized and in this state be induced to testify. Dr. Platau hypnotized her in the presence of police commissioners and of her attorney. The testimony given in the hypnotic stage differed from her previous testimony only in that her mind seemed to concentrate better on details. She also remembered one person as having been seen frequently with the murdered professor during the days immediately preceding the crime, whom she had not recalled in her normal state. Whether this name will furnish a new clue, remains to be seen. The fact, however, that the testimony in the hypnotic state in no way runs counter to that given when she was first heard by the police, is cited by her attorney as a proof of her innocence.

German Wedding Waits BERLIN, Nov. 5 (AP)—Presenting themselves for a church marriage service in short skirts with low-cut bodices, a bride and bridesmaids were refused admittance by the parish priest of Samter, near Posen.

Someone hit on the bright idea of borrowing white chorister's vestments reaching to the feet, and after donning these the party were permitted to enter the church and the ceremony was proceeded with.

Earthquake's Velocity An earthquake wave has been known to travel across the Pacific ocean in twelve hours and sixteen minutes—that is, at the rate of six miles a minute.

PUPILS HAVE NOT TIME FOR COLLEGE ATHLETICS HARROGATE, Tenn., Nov. 5 (AP)—Abandonment of intercollegiate football has not hurt attendance at Lincoln Memorial University.

Instead, registration this season has increased 33 per cent over last and 100 students were turned away, officials say. Because of expense and because 88 per cent of attending students earn all or part of their support at school, it was decided time could not be spared for football practice. The sport was dropped this season.

A physical director, however, is in charge of a program of exercise.

"Duckling" Stocks Become "Swans"

NEW YORK, Nov. 5 (AP)—Many stocks now selling far above their par value on the New York Stock Exchange once were objects of derisive laughter. As strong an issue as Union Pacific, now paying annual dividends of $10 a share, was not exempt, for the recent rise of this stock to above $177 a share recalled a time when a bright young market reporter, now a prominent financial editor, wrote: "Even such rubbish as Union Pacific advanced half a point."

U. S. Steel common, regarded as so much water when the corporation was formed 20 years ago, recently sold above 160 after the deduction of a 40 per cent stock dividend.

STRESS IDAHO PRODUCTS IN MONTH OF NOVEMBER

Home Industries Association Enlists Cooperation of Women's Organizations. BOISE, Nov. 5—The month of November has been especially designated by the Idaho Home Industries association as a month to call attention to the necessity of buying at home and the buying of Idaho products. The State Federation of Women's Clubs has pledged its cooperation and a state committee under Mrs. J. J. Arthur of Burley will stimulate the club women to renewed activities along this line.

Practically every community in the state will do something along the line exhibits, public meetings, displays, dinners, special sales, etc., to call attention to the necessity of buying at home and buying of Idaho products. "Make Christmas an Idaho Christmas is also a slogan for the campaign and housewives will be encouraged to store up Idaho products, canned goods, etc. for the winter.

Poastello has already had a big "Idaho Products Show and Style Show," which was a great success. A number of clubs have also staged "Home Products" dinners and meetings. Last year, women of the Boise Columbian club solicited groceries, selling Idaho products exclusively for the local merchants, and received a good commission for their work. A great deal of good was done not only in stocking up home products but in acquainting many housewives with our products. Several clubs will use the same program the coming month.

M'CLINTOCK FORTUNE WILLED TO SHEPHERD; IS SOUGHT BY COUSINS

The $1,000,000 Bequest That Once Led Man to Shadow of Gallows, Will Be at Stake Again in Chicago Law Suit.

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, Nov. 5—A $1,000,000 bequest, which once led William Carling Shepherd to the shadow of the gallows when the state demanded his life for that of the youth who killed his fortune, will be at stake when the trial is begun here of a suit of eight cousins of William Nelson McClintock to break the will.

Young "Billy" McClintock's death from typhoid fever four years ago set in motion a battle over his fortune, which has continued since then with high lights of swift drama. Shepherd, McClintock's guardian, was willed the fortune, and the first development came when he was charged with murder in connection with McClintock's death. He was acquitted three years ago.

The will, which Shepherd had helped McClintock draw up when the latter reached his majority, was probated after a series of stormy court battles, and since then custody of the rich estate has been combated constantly. Shepherd has been given until November 15 to file an answer to the suit of the cousins, who contend that the guardian exercised undue influence over his ward in the making of the will. The trial date will be set later.

Those who will testify in the coming court fight will include Mrs. Jule Shepherd, who, with her husband, lived for 16 years in Billy McClintock's home, and Miss Isabelle Pope, the dead youth's fiancée, who testified at the murder trial that Shepherd prevented her from marrying McClintock. Miss Pope was the only other beneficiary under the will. She was left an annuity of $8,000. Miss Pope has testified that she and the cousins, heir-at-law, agreed to split "fifty-fifty" if the cousins succeeded in breaking the will. She has filed a cross-suit asking a widow's dower interest in the estate. Testimony was produced at the murder trial to show that Shepherd had studied germs and germ culture, Shepherd did not take the witness stand, and the jury brought in an acquittal verdict after comparatively brief deliberation.

1928 Features in the Whippet NOW!

Economy—Whippet holds A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record.

Full-Vision Bodies—Whippet's narrow front pillars remove the "blind spot".

BIG 4-Wheel Brakes—Whippet is the first light car to introduce this safety feature.

THINK of the things you'd demand in a more expensive automobile for 1928—unmistakably modern style, attractive colors, BIG 4-wheel brakes, roominess, low center of gravity, clear-vision body, speed and lively pickup. The Whippet offers them all, plus unequalled economy of gasoline, oil and tires.

The superiority of Whippet design has been conclusively proved—in official tests and through the experience of owners who have driven their cars more than half a billion miles.

The Whippet engine is the only light car power plant which develops twice its rated horsepower. That is why the Whippet out-performs other cars in its price class. A big-voiced Whippet in most duotone color harmonies, is on display. Don't fail to come in and see it.

RUST-REPORTS SEND WHEAT PRICE HIGHER

Closing Quotations in Chicago Slightly Better; Oats Shows Gain; Corn Takes Climb.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5 (AP)—Swift upturn in the price of wheat here today followed reports that rust had developed in northern Argentina. The fact that the fall of the Argentine crop now nearing harvest appears to depend largely the size of breadstuffs supplies from the southern hemisphere made the market unusually sensitive to developments indicating that the Argentine production might be seriously curtailed.

Closing quotations on wheat in Chicago were unsettled, 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c net higher, corn 1/2c to 3/4c up, oats showing 1/4c to 1/2c gain in prices varying from 20c decline to a rise of 7c to 10c.

What especially accelerated the advance of wheat here today was an announcement that the market at Rosario, Argentina, had jumped as much as 10c to a bushel. Liverpool and Buenos Aires prices also displayed unexpected strength and according to some authorities practically overnight offerings of United States winter wheat to Liverpool had been accepted as well as all Canadian wheat offered.

News of Heavy Snow

News of a heavy snowfall in the northwestern states today likely to hinder the movement of new wheat, there was a contributing bulge factor. On the other hand, early buyers in Chicago became aggressive, selling the bulges in price, and caused considerable reaction of the market as a result of a profit taking nature, but to some extent was influenced by upward revision of British estimates of wheat yields in Australia. This revision was attributed to word that timely rains had been received in Australia.

FREE HASHEESH JAG IS MADE AVAILABLE

Officers Seeking Fleeing Mexican Find 1000 Packages of Cannabis in Vacant House.

Stock creek valley near the sugar factory was "Steeple Hollow" Friday night where young and old dreamed and saw visions of various kinds as a result of the burning by officers of 1000 packages of cannabis, hashesh or marijuana.

Deputy sheriffs and police were seeking the unknown assailant of Michael Astola, and entered a vacant house a quarter of a mile from the sugar factory. They found nobody home but one closet was filled with the drug, which is labelled "poison" and used legally only under prescription. Its unauthorized possession is forbidden by federal and state law. Some Mexicans in the neighborhood were questioned and denied all knowledge of the presence of the drug, and said they knew nothing of anyone visiting the house. They took it out and burned it, under direction of the officers, and those favorably situated had a chance to get a cheap jag.

STUDEBAKER'S ERSKINE SIX

(4-door sedan, fully equipped)

victor in test of speed and endurance

American Automobile Association certifies to record unequaled by any stock closed car priced below One Thousand Dollars

NOTWITHSTANDING heavy rain and high wind throughout three-fourths of the test, an Erskine Sedan, fully equipped, traveled 1298.484 miles during twenty-four hours. This meant an average time of 54.703 miles per hour.

No stops were made except for oil and fuel and to change three spark plugs. These stops are included in the time. Immediately following the completion of the test the sedan went five miles at an average of almost 62 miles per hour—Think of it!

This record was made October 12-13 at the Atlantic City Speedway under the sanction and observation of the American Automobile Association. After the test the car was torn down by the technical committee and certified as a stock car in every respect.

What it proves!

Here is positive proof of extraordinary performance, of stamina and durability, of sound design from quality materials and superior workmanship in a car priced below $1000—proof of unusual pep and power whether or not you care to drive long distances with the throttle wide open.

What Owners Say!

Owners of the Erskine Six write us so enthusiastically you would think them to be salesmen. Send a postal inquiry to the Studebaker factory at South Bend, and you will be sent, free of charge, comments which hundreds of Erskine owners have volunteered concerning their cars.

Make Your Own Test!

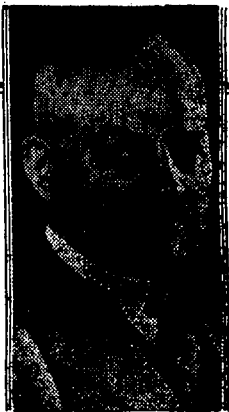

Or better still, let us loan you an Erskine so that you may drive it yourself and learn at first hand why it was able to establish the A.A.A. performance record ever set by a car in its price field.
