

Spokesmen of Stage Tell Tax Committee of Drama's Decline

Representatives for Actors Ask Repeal of 10 Per Cent Levy on Theatre Tickets of 75 Cents or More in Value.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Inter-views with an appeal for elimination of the miscellaneous tax remaining from the war, testimony at the house ways and means committee tax hearing today a story of the actual decline in popularity of the spoken drama throughout the country.

Representatives for actor and manager associations and the committee at its concluding public session, specifically for repeal of the 10 per cent tax on tickets costing 75 cents or more when it takes up the writing of a revenue bill behind closed doors next week.

The testimony told how in recent years the footlights on one had been turned off in cities throughout the country and how, in the words of one speaker, "theatrical enterprises in New York, the popularity of the actor had given way in favor of personages such as Babe Ruth."

Spoken Drama Vanishing Frank Gilmore of New York City, speaking for two actors' equity associations, described how the drama had played each night for six weeks in Texas, adding:

"Tonight I don't believe you could find a single spoken drama in the whole of the great state."

"I doubt if half of the actors pay income taxes," he continued, "and the average working year of an actor in New York now is only 22 weeks."

Other witnesses told of the passing of the round show, Leson Johnson, New York actor representing the National Theatrical association, declaring:

"Since that tax was imposed the number of shows on the road has decreased by one-third. The jumps between shows are long ones now. This is the worst year of an actor's life that the tax can be absorbed and consequently is passed on to patrons."

Witnesses representing the treasury for urging retention of the excise levies and Mr. Brady objected to a tax on theatre tickets.

The government levied on tickets to the Dempsey-Turner fight in Chicago. The tax on admission to the fight admitted repeal of the tax would not solve all the problems, they contended it would help.

Elimination of the 10 per cent tax on club dues, initiations and fees was sought by Henry Clay Anderson, representing the Hoping Green in Kentucky, and other country clubs.

He argued that golf and country clubs are no longer a rich man's hobby and that they provided healthy employment for boys during summer vacations. Last year, he said, the total earnings of clubs approximated $44,000,000.

J. H. Farrell, Auburn, N. Y., representing the national organization of the bands, urged repeal of the legislation of the tax on admissions. If this could not be effected, he asked that the tax at least be taken off $1 admissions.

WEATHER IN OCTOBER AIDS NATION'S CROPS

(Continued From Page One) corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, buckwheat, flaxseed, rice, grain sorghums, beans, tobacco, pumpkins, melons, peaches and some late vegetables substantially improved over a month ago. Apples, however, have declined a percentage in the crop of 119,217,000 bushels in prospects.

Yield Above Average For the average yield now appears to have been 24 per cent above the average during the last ten years. Crop production, however, is about 3 per cent less than it was last year, as yields generally are lower and a smaller acreage has been planted.

The corn crop is an exception, the acre yield being 25.2 bushels compared with 20 bushels last year. It is estimated that 75.2 per cent of the corn crop is of merchantable quality compared with 72.6 per cent last year.

Passenger Train Wreck Takes Engineer's Life; Score of Persons Hurt

LOUDON, Tenn., Nov. 10 (AP)—The engine and three coaches of the "Memphis Special" fast Southern railway train, which was derailed from the New York to Memphis, leaped off the rails a mile east of the station here at 6:45 p. m. today, resulting in a 150-foot embankment, killing the engineer and injuring a score of passengers.

Howard Powell, the engineer, met death when the train broke from the rolling engine and crashed to the bottom of the hill. The fireman, Jim Nichols, was a broken leg and a fractured skull.

FARM LEADERS FAIL TO AGREE ON RELIEF

J. Taber, master of the grange, called on President Coolidge to report the difficulties encountered in the attempt to work a compromise.

The controversial equalization fee provision of the McNary-Haugen bill, which the president, yesterday, proved the stumbling block in the farm meeting.

The grange urged again its substitution of the export debitum plan, whereby costs of marketing the surplus would be taken from tariff receipts. An outline of this program was left at the White House.

The farmers' union was represented as the conciliator in the party, hoping for a compromise looking to enactment of legislation at the approaching session.

Determined to solve the farm relief problem which already is assuming importance in the republican presidential situation, Senator McNary declared "the road for this legislation will be made much easier if the farmers only can reach an agreement."

quest for continuation of the merchant marine, leaders indicate the government may be asked to own and operate ships in foreign trade and to appropriate funds for replacement of vessels lost to the fleet. They declare that private shipping interests have been wholly inadequate for the last 30 years and that American agriculture must not be forced to depend upon ships of competing nations, or subjected to the possibility of exorbitant ocean freight rates.

The grange opposes government subsidy of private enterprise and believes that since maintenance of favorable shipping rates is of paramount importance to profitable disposal of agricultural products abroad, security to be found only in the operation of a strong merchant marine.

Three business sessions are scheduled for each of the ten days of the convention. An attendance of approximately 10,000 is expected, the largest in grange history. The candidates for seventh degree work may total 12,000, more than were initiated at the 2000 Boston convention in 1920.

Reports will show almost $20,000,000 invested in 200 granges throughout the country, the bulk of which are of unpretentious but sturdy construction. Official changes are expected only in minor offices. Louis J. Taber, Columbus, Ohio, national grange master, and A. S. Goss, Seattle, only member of the executive committee whose term expires this year, are slated to succeed themselves.

COWGIRL TAKES STAND IN HER OWN DEFENSE

Lorena Trickey, Charged With Murder, Tells Jury Her Own Story of Part in Killing.

LAKEVIEW Ore., Nov. 10 (AP)—With the hour fast approaching when 12 of her peers will decide her guilt or her innocence of the charge of murder, Lorena Trickey, cowgirl, charged with killing Smiling Slim Harris, rodeo performer, today told her story in a voice choked with emotion and with tears rolling down her cheeks.

For two hours she occupied the stand and brought her tale down to within a few hours of the time she killed Slim.

She met Slim Harris early in June, 1925, Miss Trickey said. He had called at her ranch at Union, Oregon, and asked for a job as a ranch hand. He was a nice appearing, debonaire, sort, deferential and pleasing, she recounted. Harris was hired and went to work on the property of a prominent local merchant.

"That winter 'Slim didn't drink very much," the cowgirl said. On several occasions, she said, he struck her when intoxicated, but she decided to put up with these few indignities. She explained to the jury that she believed the combined influence of Slim's family and herself would bring Harris "out of it."

KING BENJAMIN PURNELL BANISHED FROM THRONE

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Nov. 10 (AP)—Aged ruler of a religious cult, King Benjamin Purnell has been banished from his throne.

Circuit Judge Louis H. Ford, Newberry, today entered an order in the Berrien county circuit court declaring that a layman, business man or attorney, shall assume the direction, as trustee of the House of David colony which the state of Michigan sought to dissolve as a public nuisance.

The order is emphatic that Benjamin, whom the state charged practiced fraud and immorally bequeathed a cloak of religion, must leave forever the colony he founded a quarter of a century ago.

Bachelor Will Quit If Woman Is Mayor

DEPTFORD, England, Nov. 10 (AP)—If Mrs. B. M. Drapper is elected next mayor of Deptford, Councillor J. C. Harbey will resign—because they are of different parties, but because she is a woman.

Harvey, who is a bachelor at 40, said: "I object to sitting under the chairmanship of a woman. It is bad enough for women to have votes and to elect to borough council and parliament."

Mrs. Drapper, who probably will be elected, has been a member of the Greenwich and Deptford board of guardians for 21 years, and a member of the Deptford borough council for eight.

"This is just an example of men's weakness," Mrs. Drapper replied to Harvey's attack. "My husband, who is also a member of the council, has no objection to the prospect of obeying my ruling as mayor. He would not have a seat at all if it were not for the strength of the women's vote in his ward."

STRIKE LEADERS SEEK FREEDOM FROM JAIL

Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus Filed by Attorney From Denver; Release Sought

DENVER, Nov. 10 (AP)—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus demanding the immediate release of eight Colorado coal strike leaders now held incommunicado was filed today in the United States district court here by W. F. Pew-Collins, Denver attorney.

The writ was directed against Governor W. H. Adams, John Marley, sheriff of Las Animas county, H. L. DeWine, state attorney, George Kearney and Captain Louis N. Scherf, chief of the state law enforcement body, the state of Colorado why they should not be imprisoned and their agents, servants and employees.

Immediate release of Kristen Svamund, Hugo Oehler, C. R. Orr, Karl Clement, A. S. Moore, Fred Mendez, A. B. Harris and E. H. Hueber, all imprisoned strike leaders, is demanded.

Claim Imprisonment Unlawful The imprisoned strikers allege they are being held without cause, that no warrants for their arrest were prepared or presented and that their continued imprisonment is unlawful.

They demand a writ of habeas corpus and the others named as defendants to show cause why they should not be discharged, and ask release on bond pending a deposition of the hearing.

W. F. Pew-Collins, Denver attorney who filed the petition, left the city early today and his associates being not yet where he had gone. Judge J. Foster Symes, of the United States district court, knew nothing of the filing of the petition until he was informed of the action of a newspaperman.

He said no action could be taken until counsel for the strike leaders appeared.

Governor Adams, who is ill at his hotel here, could not be questioned on the matter because of the order of his physician that he be not disturbed tonight.

ILLINOIS PRIMARY LAW IS NOT CONSTITUTIONAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 10 (AP)—The Illinois primary law is unconstitutional, Judge Harry E. Fisher today held in circuit court a suit brought by E. C. Kreeger, as a citizen, against County Clerk Robert Switzer and County Treasurer George Harding.

Three points were covered by the judge in his ruling. The general primary act is unconstitutional because it declares it deals with no subjects under one title, primary elections and party organizations.

This legislation did away with registration in Chicago on some occasions and is therefore unconstitutional because some who could not register were disqualified from voting.

In fitting the voting strength of precinct committeemen, there is no provision for determining that strength or the substitution of public primary. This void of the act, Judge Fisher, is void under a ruling of the supreme court, which held the primary law of 1915 invalid.

He said that on October 18, day called him on the long distance telephone at New York from Sinclair's apartment at the Mayflower hotel here and told him to inform the head of the Burns detective agency to get in touch with him.

This was after it became apparent that the jury in the oil conspiracy trial was not to be locked up as was done with the Fall-Doherty trial jury. The Burns agency was employed on that day to set its operatives on the trail of the Bureau of action which finally led to a declaration of a mistrial.

Some more of the Burns operatives were questioned during the day by the grand jury and others will be called in tomorrow as the hope that the whole investigation can be concluded either on Saturday or Monday.

FIELD WILL BE FAIR FOR ARMISTICE GAME; ELEVENS ARE MATCHED

Effort to Change Time of Game of No Avail; Nampa Team is in Twin Falls Ready to Go; Big Crowd is Anticipated.

Prospects for a dry field for the Nampa-Twin Falls grid contest this afternoon brightened last night with clearing skies and a high wind.

The time of the game is 2:30. Efforts to change the time were of no avail. The arrival of the Nampa team yesterday indicated the interest of the local fans and the crowd promises to be one of the largest of the season.

The Nampa team is expected to work out last night because of the muddy field but contented themselves by strolling about the city.

The Nampa team is heavy and experienced and while it has suffered some defeats this season still is recognized as one of the formidable teams of the state.

The Bruins are in excellent shape for the contest. Berg, who was injured in practice this week, will be available as a substitute but only still bothers him so that he will probably not start the game.

Probable lineups for the two teams is as follows:

BOARD HOLDS TOONE ELIGIBLE TO PLAY

Protest Overruled by State Board of Athletic Control; Gooding Star May Compete.

The state board of athletic control has ruled that Clifford Toone of Gooding is eligible to play for the Cougars in the first game in the high school symposium last night.

On November third U. N. Terry, Twin Falls high school principal, talked with Superintendent Doane of Gooding over the telephone and on that date Superintendent Doane stated that Toone has played against Hagerman in 1925 but that he was in the eighth grade at that time.

The decision seemed to turn upon the fact that the present constitution of the board is retroactive to 1922 and that the constitution in 1922 would not charge a lad with one year of competition who played while in the eighth grade.

Joe Dundee and His Manager Get Permit To Return to East

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—Joe Dundee, welterweight boxing champion and his manager, Max Warner were given permission late today by City Prosecutor E. J. Lickley to return east at once, despite charges of false advertising still pending against them here in connection with the Dundee-Hukkie fight fiasco of last Thursday night.

The trial of the champion and his manager and Dick Donald, the promoter of the fight which failed, had been set for December 2. The fighter and his manager had been placed under $2500 bail each after they had been arrested on an eastbound train the day following the Wrigley field affair.

STAR INELIGIBLE NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10.—Bruce Caldwell, All star halfback, was declared ineligible to represent Yale in football by the board of conductors of the Yale athletic association here tonight.

The decision was reached by the board after a session of more than two hours and a half, and it was based on Caldwell's participation in Brown football in 1925 while he attended that university as a student.

The Piler game will be called at 2:30, and many Buhl fans will take in the Buhl-Piler game while others will go to Twin Falls for the Twin Falls-Nampa contest, which is scheduled for 2:30.

Speculator, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Tex Rickard has informed at least half a dozen persons that he appointed Leo P. Flynn as "kick Dempsey's" adviser, allowing them to understand that he (Rickard) actually was managing the fighter.

ARRANGE TITLE MATCH NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A world championship boxing match for the junior welterweight title now held by "Mushy" Callahan of Los Angeles actually was assured today for the winner of next Monday night's match at Madison Square Garden between Emilio Martinez of Spain and Andy Divot of New York.

BURLEY, Nov. 10 (Special to The News)—Interest has reached a fever heat here over the annual Armistice day clash between Burley and Rupert. Interest is unusually high this year because of the championship feature of the game.

CLUBWOMEN SEND DOLLS AS GIFTS TO ORPHANS

Nearly 100,000 Girl Toys to Be Resurrected to Help in Making Little Folks Happy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Old forgotten dolls are being drawn from nooks and corners of homes in many cities preparatory to being dressed anew to gladden the hearts of orphans on Thanksgiving.

The custom of giving dolls to orphans on Thanksgiving had its inception in New York City about 20 years ago and has gradually spread until now the work is carried on by women's and girls' organizations in many parts of the country.

It is estimated that this year over 100,000 dolls will be resurrected. In recent years the movement extended to schools of many cities, according to Mrs. Erna McCready, chairman of the national Thanksgiving doll offering committee.

Schools in New York City, Boston, Tulsa, Oklahoma, San Francisco, Wilmington, Delaware, Chicago, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and a number of other cities are collecting dolls so that local asylums may be supplied.

The local council of Camp Fire girls of New York City is making a strong drive to secure and rehabilitate several thousand dolls for Protestant, Catholic, Hebrew and Negro asylums in the metropolis. Their efforts are being augmented by a number of New York women's clubs. One station recently received 200 dolls in two days.

Many clubs undertake to collect dolls for an entire country, as the Business and Professional Women's club of Erie, Pennsylvania, is collecting 200 dolls for the inmates of the Erie orphan asylum.

"To many people a discarded doll seems like a trivial thing," said Mrs. McCready. "Yet when it is dressed in a new gown an orphan is extremely happy. Last year the colored orphan asylum of New York received an allotment of dolls. In writing his appreciation, Dr. Mason Pittman, the superintendent, said: 'We appreciate this gift of 150 dolls as much as that every child of the children had a wonderful time.'"

The national executive committee of the girl scouts has approved the movement, and girl scout troops in many sections are carrying on an aggressive campaign to secure dolls to supply the inmates of their local orphanages.

PENNSYLVANIA STRIKERS EVICTED FROM THEIR HOMES

Californians Mapping Automobile Highways Into Ancient Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 (AP)—Motorists' ever-eager quest for the quaint and primitive is turning backward over the old Catholic Mission trail to little known regions of Lower California, where bits of old Spain have survived undisturbed by the rush of modern life.

Through the agency of the Automobile Club of Southern California, the first step has been taken to chart and suggest a highway through the desolate wilds that have isolated the southern third of the long peninsula from the new world. The route retraced the course that civilization followed in the northward advance—150 years ago.

The northern district of Lower California has been modernized through close proximity to the United States, but the southern part, because of barriers erected by nature, still thinks in the terms of a century ago.

The inhabitants of this realm of repose now number approximately 25,000. They have retained the ancient simplicity of customs, and scarcely know the meaning of time except as darkness ends a day and dawn begins a new one. It was found by a party of club officials which penetrated to the town of Mulego, on the gulf.

In the central section, which the new auto road will reach, is San Ignacio mission, one of the grandest and sturdiest of the chain built by the Franciscans. The structure is of solid stone. It was erected largely through the donation of 1,500,000 pesos by the Queen of Spain.

There are many quaint fishing towns in the territory and it is rich in copper, onyx and other minerals.

Giant cactus, growing more than 50 feet in height, are scattered over the central wastelands.

MADRID BROTHERHOOD IS AIDING HONEST POOR FOLK

MADRID, Nov. 10 (AP)—Madrid has a quaint institution in the Brotherhood of Refuge and Piety, founded in 1815 to provide immediate necessities to the vagrant poor.

Funds were first collected by monks who went through the streets of the city calling on the pious public to furnish them with an egg and a piece of bread for the poor. When without shelter, the vagrants found a resting place in the monasteries.

Today the brotherhood possesses a refuge in which normally about 30 homeless people are lodged every night and are provided with a bowl of soup, an egg, a loaf and a glass of wine. The brothers also visit the homes of the honest poor, carrying them all ailments and medical comforts when they are sick. Expectant mothers are looked after, orphans are found homes, and a provision of milk is sent daily to growing children whom their mothers are unable to feed. Convalescent homes are free to workers, both men and women, who otherwise would have to return to their labor before they have recovered from an illness.

The brotherhood is no longer fundamentally a religious institution. In its ranks are found the king and queen, several of the princes of the royal family, and many members of the leading aristocratic families. No appeal is made for funds to carry on the charitable work, which costs the brotherhood an average of $40,000 annually provided from the pockets of the members.

Missouri Woman Gets Federal Post

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Besse P. Bruggeman of St. Louis was today reappointed as member and chairman of the United States employees' compensation commission for a six-year term, having been a republican party worker in Missouri for years.

The first woman to sit on the commission was Mrs. Bruggeman, appointed in 1921 by President Harding. She was given a recess appointment by President Coolidge. The commission passes on all claims of employees of the government, who have been injured in the discharge of their duties.

A former republican national committee woman from Missouri, Mrs. Bruggeman also was a delegate-at-large to the last Chicago convention of the party and a member of the republican national advisory committee.

Alfalfa Declared Good Table Dish

ST. PAUL, Nov. 10 (AP)—Crowned alfalfa as an extra dish for the home table is not as odd as it sounds, says Miss Alice Child of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics.

Prepared like spinach, alfalfa makes an appetizing dish, she says.

"We first experimented with the tender sprouts of the plant," said Miss Child, "and later conducted experiments with the older plants. The stems of the older samples proved rather woody, but the leaves were used to good advantage."

A cup of boiling water should be poured over the greens, she says, a teaspoonful of salt added, and the contents boiled a half hour. The utensil should be left open to retain the plant's color. The plants then are drained, seasoned with butter and served hot.

RED CROSS CHAPTERS SERVE VETERANS

Annual Report Shows Average of 61 Ex-Service Men and Families Assisted.

Figures taken from the annual report of the American Red Cross and made public today by the Twin Falls chapter show that an average of 61 ex-service men and their families were assisted each month by the 21 Red Cross chapters carrying on this work in Idaho during the fiscal year ending July 1.

Many types of service were extended to ex-service men during that period, including help in settling their government claims, assistance in procuring hospital treatment, and the extension of aid to their families while they are in process of settlement.

Of the utmost importance, the report emphasizes, is the help the organization extends veterans in solving their personal problems which often seem as almost insurmountable obstacles to their readjustment. While the veterans' bureau is sympathetic and cooperative, there is a point beyond which it cannot legally go. Perhaps an ex-service man has had to stop work because of tuberculosis, possibly contracted in the trenches. While the bureau often in such cases is willing to send him immediately to a hospital and determine later whether he has a claim against the government, he could not accept this generous offer unless the Red Cross assured him his family would be cared for while his claim was going through the necessary process.

Burial Barriers
The report also points out the almost impossible task which would face such a disabled veteran if he had to collect without Red Cross assistance the evidence required by law to get compensation from the government. Affidavits, signatures, and other evidence often are necessary from many and others in a dozen or more widely scattered cities. The Red Cross chapters in Idaho relieve him of this responsibility and through other chapters, one of which is located in every county in the country, collect the evidence and presents the veteran's claim in the correct form before the proper officials.

The M. S. and S. club met at the home of Mrs. W. A. Poe Wednesday afternoon with twenty-nine members present and the following guests: Mesdames Capen, Erbald, Satterlee, Fortner and Johnson. The meeting was with the salute to the flag, and roll call was answered with patriotic songs. The home was tastefully decorated with the American flag in remembrance of Armistice day, and autumn leaves and flowers. During the business meeting $10 was voted for the Girl Reserve fund. The annual Thanksgiving dinner was dispensed with this year. The subject for the program, "Our Schools," was ably directed by Mrs. George Erbland of the Parent-Teacher association, who stressed the importance of our children's reading clean literature, doing away with smoking and fastly more Christian religion in our homes. Rev. H. R. Humphrey, also a guest, gave a few words to the club. At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Ben Caldwell and Mrs. Zella Jordan, served refreshments in keeping with the patriotic season.

Margaret Mastel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Magel, celebrated her eleventh birthday with a pretty arrangement party. The birthday cake was "her" parents on Maple avenue. A basket of fruit formed the centerpiece for the table, which was lighted with pink candles. The birthday cake was also ornamented with pink papers. Preble, Helen White, Minnie May Pryor and Mary Jane Owen.

The international relations division of the American Association of University Women, of which Mrs. I. E. Jocklyn is chairman, met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. M.

Lucy Gates, Noted
Singer, To Appear In Local Engagement

Emma Lucy Gates of Salt Lake, renowned coloratura soprano, is to appear in two concerts in this state before leaving for the east. She, who is due in Chicago on November 26, will appear in concert in the Twin Falls high school auditorium next Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. She will appear in Boise on the following Friday. Samuel Harwell, pianist, accompanied Miss Gates.

Miss Gates has appeared in all the larger cities throughout the United States and Europe, and has won the praise of the most exacting critics. She appeared here last year and was enthusiastically received by local music lovers. In view of the limited time she has at her disposal it was only after considerable persuasion that she consented to appear in Twin Falls.

Many types of service were extended to ex-service men during that period, including help in settling their government claims, assistance in procuring hospital treatment, and the extension of aid to their families while they are in process of settlement.

Of the utmost importance, the report emphasizes, is the help the organization extends veterans in solving their personal problems which often seem as almost insurmountable obstacles to their readjustment.

The Women's Council of the Christian church met at the home of Mrs. W. S. Parrish, 826 Shoshone street, Thursday afternoon. Devotionals were led by Mrs. W. A. Patrick. The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. V. C. Ballantyne, the president, at which time it was decided to hold the bazaar and serve light lunches of waffles, pie and coffee on Saturday, December second and third in the old library building.

Mrs. Harry Benoit entertained the H. P. club Wednesday evening at her home on Seventh avenue east. Bridge in the club diversion with three tables of players. High score favor was won by Mrs. Fredman Pook. Following the games refreshments were served. Mrs. L. G. Stettler, Mrs. Granville Haight, Mrs. Alvin Harbour and Mrs. James Winterholer were club guests.

The Fidelity class of the Methodist church gave a musical program Thursday night at the home of Mrs. F. A. Goodykooniz, 260 Walnut street, on Wednesday evening. About forty members of the class were present. The program consisted of a nice donation from the proceeds derived from an assessment of one cent per member on Saturday afternoon.

The Presbyterian Missionary society met in the church Sunday morning. The program was interesting and well presented. STAFF SELECTED FOR NEW SCHOOL PAPER

Publication Will Appear Every Month; Byron Rendahl Appointed Editor-in-Chief.

Twin Falls high school is to have an official school paper according to plans recently formulated by the student council and school authorities. The student council at its meeting last Tuesday appointed most of the staff for the new publication.

Members of the staff will meet next Tuesday with the council to complete the staff organization and to formulate plans for the publication of the first issue. The sheet will start publication on a monthly basis.

Three points are being considered in connection with the new venture. Superintendent W. B. Smith stated yesterday. It is expected that work in English will be more strongly motivated by the possibility of the student seeing his own writings in print. The paper will also serve as a communicative medium to the student body and its friends. It will also serve to increase opportunities for student participation in school affairs.

Those who have been named to serve as the staff of the new publication are: Byron Rendahl, editor-in-chief; George Sprague, business manager; Jack Gardner and Barbara Jane Crowl, news editors; Tim Robertson, sports editor; Violet Adams, literary editor; Oren Boone, circulation manager; Dorothy Parks, society editor; Bert Woods, art; Alfred Dunn, humor; Norman Alvord, senior reporter; Tom Peavey, junior reporter; William Morgan, sophomore reporter; Miriam Babcock, freshman reporter; Anna Breeley and Fred Sanger, general or "club" reporters; and Oliver Meigs, proof reader. An assistant editor will be named from the junior class in order that he may be trained to fill the position of editor-in-chief for next year.

SYLVIA BOLDER WINNER

LEGION PEACE MOVE TOLD TO BUHL CLUB

Harry Benoit of Twin Falls Discusses Veterans' Organization Program Against War.

BUHL, Nov. 10 (Special to The News)—The peace program of the American Legion was the subject of an address given by Harry Benoit of Twin Falls at the Buhl Rotary club luncheon today. He said that the organization of which he is a member does not agree with the pacifist, nor does it go to the other extreme of compulsory soldier training and large armaments, but rather a middle of the road course.

"No one knows better the terrible consequences of war, nor the happiness of peace than the men of the American Legion," said Mr. Benoit, "but we do not believe in 'Peace at any Price.' One way to maintain peace, we believe, is to be prepared to defend ourselves against outside oppression.

"There are two methods by which the American Legion hopes to bring about lasting world peace," the speaker said. "One is for the United States to be adequately prepared for war in time of peace. The other is to provide for the universal draft of men, labor, capital and factories in time of war. If we will take the profit out of war it will go a long way towards preventing war."

Continuing, Mr. Benoit said the American Legion believes in the immediate creation of a regular army of 12,000 men and 12,000 regular army officers, supplemented by 90,000 national guards. The national guard organization should be increased to 250,000 men by 1936. The navy should be maintained on the ratio of the 5-5-3 plan as adopted in the treaty following the World war.

Supporting the contention of the American Legion program, Mr. Benoit said that if the United States had been adequately prepared during the World war, we would not have been provoked by Germany to join the allies.

"A nation cannot maintain peace without being somewhat prepared for war any more than the city of Buhl could discharge its police force and law enforcement officers, the latter and expect to eradicate crime. The law violators would not leave Buhl, nor would criminals stay away from here, but because there were no law enforcement officers, the speaker said.

Girlhood Goal Won By Welfare Worker
WILMINGTON, Del. Nov. 10 (AP)—A quarter of a century of devotion to the good and ideal of the girlhood and her girlhood has brought success to Miss Sarah W. Pyle. She established what is believed to be the initial settlement movement in Wilmington, in a section of the city infested with saloons. Her aim was to improve home conditions, to curb drunkenness and vice and to provide education for neglected children. Miss Pyle is now head-worker of her institution, the People's Settlement, which gives industrial and business training to more than a thousand children annually.

Woman Studying Law To Help Social Work
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10 (AP)—Not content with laurels won as a social worker and as representative of Connecticut's largest city in the 1927 legislature, Mrs. Edith Violet Cook has begun a four year's course in the Yale law school.

Mrs. Cook has been a prominent figure in social work since 1917. For the past three years she has been executive secretary of the Connecticut Child Welfare association. The usefulness of a knowledge of law in this work, emphasized by her experience as a lawmaker, led Mrs. Cook to seek a bachelor of laws degree.

COOKIE LEAGUE FORMED IN FILER HIGH SCHOOL

Organization to Provide Opportunity for All Students to Play Basketball.

FILER, Nov. 10—With view to making practical application of the ideal of physical training for every student, Filer high school is organizing a Cookie basketball league. At the present time, all freshmen and sophomore students attend physical training classes three times per week. In addition there are approximately 80 boys out daily for football practice. The Cookie league idea for the girls gives all girls of the seventh and eighth grades and high school an opportunity to play basketball. Eight girls' teams have been selected, each being captained by one of the older girls with basketball experience.

The Maroa and local grade schools have each formed a team which, with the six teams from the high school, will constitute an eight-team boys' league. This boys' league is sponsored by the local Kiwanis club, the idea being to foster a plan whereby all boys may have the opportunity to engage in sports.

The first game of the schedule started yesterday with a girls' game at 4:20 o'clock and a boys' game immediately thereafter. Each team will play one game per week with two games coming each evening during the next three weeks.

POTATO CROP HARVEST FAVORED BY WEATHER

Minidoka Tract Production Average Shows Increase in Pops Acre Yield.

BURLEY, Nov. 10—Continued mild weather has permitted the potato crop on the Minidoka tract to be practically all harvested. The yield was better than last season, apparently around 200 bushels to the acre this year as against 122 bushels last year. Russets are rather rough, but comparatively free from disease. Rurals, however, show much disease this season, mostly mosaic and spindle tuber. Growers have stored most of the crop, apparently believing they will lose nothing by holding. Much of the storing is done in farm potato cellars, although the city storage is fairly well filled up. Dealers are offering 45 to 55 cents, sacked, for Russets. Rurals are five cents lower. Acres to approximately 6000 this season on the south side of the tract, according to County Agent W. W. Palmer, as against 4921 acres last year.

Ore is being shipped steadily and the quality is improving right along as new stopes are encountered and opened up. The mine is a close neighbor to the North Star, operated several years by the Federal Mining company.

MRS. MCCORMICK SAYS HER POLITICAL DAYS START WITH M'KINLEY

Women Chosen to Run for Congress in Illinois, Was Interested in Politics Back in 1895 When Still Just a Girl.

(By The Associated Press) THOMASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 10.—Ruth Hanna McCormick, who has chosen to run for congress in Illinois, was "looking in" on politics as early as 1895, when she was only 13 years old and her father and William McKinley were here planning the campaign which made the latter president of the United States.

For many years, numerous of the wealthiest and most prominent families of the country have maintained homes here, but at the time Mark Hanna was in the limelight and his visit with McKinley attracted much attention locally, residents recall.

So far as the country at large was concerned, however, little was known of the conference. While the nation was speculating on the next occupant of the White House, Hanna and McKinley laid the groundwork for the race which brought the latter history against William Jennings Bryan.

While all this was transpiring, Ruth Hanna looked on and listened in. Three years later, she began working for her father. At 23, she became the wife of Joseph Medill McCormick, of Chicago, who served his state in both national houses.

"Politics were very different in those days from what they are today," she recently told the New York Times. "The chewing tobacco era was passing. No man was a statesman who did not own a top hat and a frock coat except a factory owner from the south and west who insisted on substituting a broad-brimmed felt hat for the silk one."

"A conference room in those days had as many cupboards as it did chairs and a cigarette was looked upon as a sign of effeminacy. I can still feel in my throat the smoke that used almost to suffocate me as I went into my father's office after a number of political friends had been there."

"Many a deal was pulled off in the back room of a cafe over a whiskey bottle. Of course, I am not speaking of my father. I am only trying to tell you this: I am only trying to give you an idea of what the times were like when I was in politics. I want you to know the schooling I have had."

Mark Hanna spent many of his winters in Thomasville, and in 1899 President McKinley returned for a visit during which plans for his next campaign were discussed. Ruth Hanna, who was then working for her father, was in the party again as were Vice-President Garrett A. Hobart, his son, Mrs. Hanna and Mrs. M. J. Harney, brother and sister of Mark, now own large plantations here. Mrs. Harney's pure bred Holstein cattle have won many blue ribbons, thus rivaling Mrs. McCormick, who also produces prize Holsteins.

CONTRACT AWARD IS LET ON GREAT ROAD

Member of Highway Commission in 1914 Making Award Thought Little of Future.

BOISE, Nov. 10.—In June, 1914, when the members of the Idaho state highway commission let a contract for the construction of nine miles of highway between the Malad river and Owsley's ferry in Gooding county, they unknowingly started work on what has become one of the country's greatest transcontinental highways—the Old Oregon Trail.

Recently the present state department of public works asked for bids on 8.63 miles of the trail between Sheep Creek and the Wyoming line. Ordinarily such announcements have no significance, but the building of this section of road will complete the construction of the Old Oregon Trail in Idaho, and with the Gen state the distinction of being the first intermountain state to complete the construction of a transcontinental highway within its borders.

Since the old commission let its first contract in 1914 approximately $6,000,000 has been spent on highway construction along the Old Oregon Trail in Idaho. The first contract was let to W. L. Blackwell. At the same time the commission let another contract from the Owsley ferry to the Cassia county line, 44 miles to Helmer and Mill.

The Old Oregon Trail enters Idaho from Wyoming and after traversing the counties of Bear Lake, Caribou, Bannock, Power, Cassia, Twin Falls,

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY IS LOWER THAN IN 1926, BUT ABOVE NORMAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The productive activity of United States industries continues to rule lower than last year, although production in a number of lines increased in recent months more than the seasonal amount, but is above the average.

Activity in the iron and steel industry has remained smaller than last year and both passenger car and motor truck production have been considerably below last year's levels. Other industries showing decreased production including bituminous coal, copper, zinc, silk, sugar, flour, tobacco, tires, and newsprint.

Increases were noticeable in mill consumption of cotton, wool and leather and in industries producing cigars and cigarettes, boots and shoes, cattle, sheep and hogs, tin, cement and leather.

RULER OUSTS ELEPHANTS

BANGKOK, Siam, Nov. 10 (AP)—The king of Siam has cut down the royal elephant herd in the interests of economy.

Aliming to set an example for a state which long has found it difficult to make its budget balance, King Prajadhipok started by reducing the size of the accounts of the royal household. First the dispensable servants were dismissed, and then the royal elephant herd, which is used on all occasions of state, was reduced drastically.

For several years Siam has been trying to bring its expenses inside its income, and the country's finance, entirely dependent upon agriculture, now promise to grow to a healthier state.

TWO LABORS OF LOVE IN BROADWAY THEATRE

'Pickwick' and Revival of 'The Mikado,' on Street With Reputed Lack of Sentiment.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Broadway, the street with a reputation for lack of sentiment, has witnessed two "labors of love" this theatrical season.

They are the play "Pickwick" and the revival of "The Mikado."

Como Hamilton, who has written some 30 plays and novels, and Frank C. Kelly, comparative newcomer among theatrical producers, are loyal admirers of the works of Charles Dickens. So they collaborated in writing "Pickwick," which critics found to be a reverent dramatization of "The Pickwick Papers."

The "local color" with which the play was strongly tinted is attributed to Hamilton's familiarity with his subject. The author's interest in Dickens was aroused by his mother, who was fond of Dickens' stories. Enticed by her accounts of the legends of old London and her reading of Dickens' tales, Hamilton often visited the Dickensian landmarks.

Just before writing the play, he made an intensive study of these places in order to recapture the proper "spirit." Like Hamilton's regard for Dickens, Winthrop Ames' love for Gilbert and Sullivan operettas was born in his youth. His father acquired a Boston theatre in the course of other business. Himself unfamiliar with the ins and outs of theatrical producing, the father asked his wife to pass judgment on the presentation of "The Mikado" in his new possession.

Nobel Prize Winner Starts Swedish Saga

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—The saga of a Swedish family is being created by Selma Lagerlof, only woman to have won the Nobel prize for literature. The first volume of the series, by the "grand old woman of Sweden," called "Charlotte Lovenskind" is the seventh novel to be published by the "grand old woman of Sweden."

Two years ago Miss Lagerlof wrote her autobiography, "Marbacka." The book took its name from the old family homestead in Varmland, which she recently remodeled according to plans which her father made before his death.

The author personally superintends the 140 acres of her farm and devotes much time to the education of the peasants on her land.

Rights for Abstrainers Is Non-Smoke Slogan

LONDON, Nov. 10 (AP)—If smokers consumed their own "Marbake" cigarettes they would be bright and rosy; but they don't and therefore they should be annihilated. F. J. Phillips, secretary of the National Society of Non-Smokers, avers in his annual report.

"The N. S. N. S. is to safeguard the rights of non-smokers to equal consideration with smokers," said Phillips. Impressed by the performance, but Winthrop, then a schoolboy, enjoyed it immensely. Afterward, through his school and college days, he seldom missed an opportunity to attend a production of a Gilbert and Sullivan piece.

When Ames became a producer he resolved to revive Savoyard operettas as a source of pleasure to himself, and perhaps to enough others to make it profitable. His success with "Idiot" and "The Pirates of Penzance" last season appears to be repeated with "The Mikado."

On November eleventh a large part of the civilized world observes the ninth anniversary of the signing of the armistice between the Allies and the Central Powers that marked the end of the World War.

There have been many in the years since then to point out that the war was premature, that the armistice was premature, that the peace which followed was a very bad peace, and that a whole lot of achievements were sacrificed to it.

Don't let the pessimists follow you. The hysterical rejoicing that followed upon the announcement of the armistice revealed then clearly enough that, wise or foolish, the end of the war, the cessation of international fighting, was recognized as greater than any other aim.

Deep down in human hearts is profound agreement. With Benjamin Franklin's appraisal: "There never was a good war or a bad peace."

What about the American Revolution? What about the Civil War? What about the "war to end war"? How could we get along without them?

Well, even in those wars which we tacitly recognize as "righteous," the fact remains that the many were made to suffer for the blunders of the few. Wise statesmanship on both sides might have warded off those wars.

When wars between civilized nations come to an end, the conditions of peace are worked out slowly and with much argument and compromise, by men who fight with words and ideas instead of guns and pistols.

There is a distinct note of pathos in the sight of England's unemployed, of all ages, staking a demonstration for the benefit of Parliament consisting of a two hundred mile tramp into London.

Probably less than half of the four hundred to start will actually finish the journey. Every additional mile will bring it added suffering.

The incident serves to recall the historic demonstration in our own country when Coxey's Army descended upon Washington with a demand for work about the middle nineties.

The movement began at a number of different points the hosts converging as the lines reached the capital. But where England musters a bare four hundred, Coxey's followers ran into the thousands.

Perhaps the demonstration had an effect upon pending legislation. Certainly the conditions complained of, such as lack of work, disappeared about a year afterward, and in all the years which have followed there has been no recurrence.

Perhaps good will come of the British effort, indirectly if not directly.

In the meantime one sympathizes with the marchers. It is interesting to contrast the conditions which obtain in British labor with those in America. In England unemployment has regained supreme since the close of the war. In this country a period of deflation was visited upon, not labor, but capital, large and small. And for the past two or three years neither capital or labor have any legitimate ground for complaint whatever.

THE CURTIS EXAMPLE

(The Washington Evening Star) When Senator Curtis of Kansas so frankly threw his hat into the ring he gave other presidential possibilities a new lease of life. The habit of shrinking modesty has prevailed so far among them; an inclination to let the job seek the man, rather than the man seek the job, is a proper attitude, and dignified. But in the world of practical politics, the candidate for the presidential nomination must be advertised. He must be seen, he must be heard, he must be known.

The nominating convention of the future. The first presidential primary, which takes place in New Hampshire, is in March. Sooner or later it is inevitable that the candidacy of those gentlemen who aspire to the presidential nomination must come into the open. A great amount of time is being spent today by the friends of Lowden, Hoover, Hughes, Dawes and Norris on the Republican side, and by the friends of Root, Ritchie and Donahoe on the Democratic side. Most of it is being done quietly. Fences are under construction.

Picking the psychological time or place for the announcement of a presidential candidacy is not distinguishable from jockeying for start in a yacht race. The candidate who comes forward first for the presidential nomination is at an advantage. He can attack from the rest of the field. A candidacy may be announced so soon, or it may be withheld until so late, that it is being seen by the Democratic camps this year the situation has been even more difficult than it is now.

Obtaining a presidential nomination is no simple matter. A vast amount of organization is usually necessary, and the candidate must be seen by various States. This cannot be done overnight. It cannot be done on mere campaign trails. It must be done in a series of public appearances. The time is rapidly approaching when the fight must get into the open. Senator Curtis has started it.

WHAT'S IN A FACE? (The New York Times) Nobody has been able to discover exactly why it is that the perfect complexion clings in his heart to play high tragedy and the most dramatic of comedies. But so it goes. Al. Jolson, the singer of Mammy songs, changes his face to suit the occasion.

His own mystique have stood him in good stead as he played "hard-boiled" lines. Yet he has been able to change his face to suit the occasion. But so it goes. Al. Jolson, the singer of Mammy songs, changes his face to suit the occasion.

WHY NOW? (The Cincinnati Times-Star) The spectacle of alumni and students demanding the resignation of Coach Wiley of the Ohio State football eleven, is not edifying. The eleven which Wiley coaches has lost two members to Michigan. Unless the game had been tied, some team had to lose, so why not Ohio State? What is the great importance of the game in which every coach must commit during the course of his career?

Football as now played is too temperamental a sport for both players and alumni. Harvard men are too prone to express their disgust for the present. Harvard men are too prone to express their disgust for the present. Harvard men are too prone to express their disgust for the present.

New Calculating Conivance Frees Mind for Higher Things

Newspapers Speculate on What Machine Solution of Algebraic Equations May Mean to Development of Future Generations.

New hope for "art and music and poetry and inspiration in a too mechanical world" is being offered by the announcement that science has developed an electrical device capable of solving intricate mathematical problems. The quotation is from the Brooklyn Eagle, which thinks the human mind may give its time and attention to higher things, at last having discharged its duties at last having discharged its duties.

It is explained that the new contrivance will solve any second-order equation and will make a computation in eight minutes to a few hours which would take from a month to a year to work out by ordinary means. Nevertheless, there is general objection to the name "thinking machine" to what the San Francisco Chronicle has called a "human calculator." Elaboration of the arithmetic adding machine into one equal to algebraic equations.

"Does it really think?" asks the Charleston Daily Mail. "Can a child operate it? Can one who cut mathematics while he was at school do so manipulate the machine that it will of its own innate power solve a second-order differential equation? Hardly. Nevertheless, the human factor cannot be dispensed with, and the human mind and human knowledge are the essential elements in the machine, yet no doubt it is a wonderful piece of mechanism."

"It opens the field to hitherto inaccessible research along electrical lines," in the opinion of the Wall Street Journal. "The machine is of interest in the prospect that it indicates problems may be solved without going through the usual processes of the human mind. The Santa Rosa Press-Democrat, however, while admitting that this is a mechanical feat, nevertheless holds that "it takes a human intellect to make the machinery."

"If science can invent one machine which outdoes the human mind," says the Flint Daily Journal, "is it not possible that it may produce another? Small wonder some day make use of mechanical devices which can think better than we can, which will be better memorex and keeper perception than we are. The human mind, meters and checking devices in commercial use today would appear to such marvels to the ancients. The human mind admits of no such invention 'is too complicated to be understood by any but a mathematical expert' and 'is beyond the grasp of the average person'."

The attitude of the average person toward the mechanical mind and the results to be expected in future generations is the subject of an article by the Washington Courthouse Herald, which states: "Seems impossible. It is impossible of itself, because we have seen too much of the 'impossible' accomplished during the last few years. The human mind, meters and checking devices in commercial use today would appear to such marvels to the ancients. The human mind admits of no such invention 'is too complicated to be understood by any but a mathematical expert' and 'is beyond the grasp of the average person'."

SYLVIA OF THE MINUTE

By HELEN R. MARTIN

"I'm not moved," said Miss Selwenschen, "but she's so young!" He said truthfully as he took the check and gave her a roll of bills—ten five-hundred-dollar notes. "And it was at the very moment of her reception that the faintest sound of a car stopping outside interrupted them."

"It's come back again," said Mr. Croighton bitterly, "in the hope that by the time I'd be gone, you have played your game well." "And this time," she answered blithely, "my head bent to listen, I thought your car was there, he didn't seem to be driving away again."

"Little did they dream that the first car that had stopped and then driven off was the car of the man who, at the moment she had recognized her husband's car parked nearby, had been faintly convinced that Marie's fanciful suspicions of a plot to kidnap her were not unfounded. She, Croix, was not after all fantasist. For what else in the world could bring her husband to the schoolhouse?"

A half hour after she had driven away, Marie, sitting at her desk, felt as if she were in a dream. She was in William Penn schoolhouse, that that spot was fast becoming to him the pivot on which his whole universe turned. "As he came nearer, the light of a car standing before the little building made his heart sick like lead in his breast. Was Miss Selwenschen having a rendezvous again with St. Croix?"

"As when, however, as he was near enough to recognize the car, he saw to his startled surprise, that it was not St. Croix, but his father's car. He was convinced, just as it had been, that his suspicion of a collusion between "Miss Selwenschen" and his father, to entrap him into a marriage, had been well founded. He did not, with his mother's defecy, decide not to intrude upon them. On the contrary, he lost not a moment in parking, alighting, and striving to catch the echo of the telephone to come from "his dear little brain and brain in a whirl."

"What about it? You signed promise to make no demands on my son—" "I'm not moved," said Miss Selwenschen, "but she's so young!" He said truthfully as he took the check and gave her a roll of bills—ten five-hundred-dollar notes.

Tom Comes Home

Author's note: Tom Moore, a 24-year-old boy, was killed in action at Villers-Bretonneville, France, during the war. His death was too much for his mother, when she was told his body was being sent back to Idaho it was laid beside her in the village cemetery.

Well, mother dear, at last I'm here. As I promised you I'd be. That summer day when I marched back to camp down by the sea. The khaki men are back again. In the land that they love best. And I'm back, too, to my promise true. Back to stay with you—and rest.

You said "Adieu, be brave, be true. While I, with Love's concern Will here await, disconsolate, The day of your return." So, mother dear, at last I'm here From fields across the deep. And find, at your heart, you've done your part. You're waiting, though asleep.

Sleep on in peace, a sweet surcease Of earthly woes we've won. I gave up all to country's call When I was sent to France. So I again the khaki men March down from out the west To war's turmoil and blood and toil. We'll stay at home—and rest.

this paper, and accepting that money you dare to go off driving with my son." "What on earth?" asked Marvin, then, looking at the money and not only not bearing out his proposition, but suggesting a very different state of things.

"Look! at this!" his father exclaimed, holding the paper at him. "Read that! And then decide whether you want to go off driving with that girl!"

"I'm resigning, feeling dazed, read the few sentences on the paper signed 'Amelia Selwenschen.'" "But what, in God's name, is it all about? What sort of 'business' is this swearing not to make on me?" he stopped short, a staggering idea flashing upon him. "You must mean St. Croix!" He turned to the girl. "Does this refer to Croix?"

"You don't know?" cried Mr. Croighton. "Why," he explained, "are you looking at Amelia's letter? It's a thing she has written to you. As if I'd ever have to buy a girl from marrying him?"

"Are you buying off Miss Selwenschen for such a thing? There's no money, and as he spoke he tore the paper into bits and scattered them on the floor." "That makes you think, Father, that such deperate measures as this are necessary for my protection against even so dangerous a person as Miss Selwenschen?"

"And anyway, the girl spoke in French. My resigning, please mind a teacher, 'I'm resigning for my school, will you?' 'I'm leaving tonight.' 'Father! I've got on earth are you driving me away? There's absolutely nothing between us and—'"

"Dangerous person is right, Marvin, and an exaggeration! I have just signed a check for ten thousand dollars for the named promise which you so imprudently destroyed!" "I don't believe it!" cried Marvin shrilly.

Education in Sweden. STOCKHOLM, Nov. 10.—The new school reform in Sweden, now sanctioned by the Riksdag, implies that all education has to begin in compulsory primary school common to all classes of the people, and lasting six years, after which follows a four-year secondary school common to all classes of the people, and the third stage is a three years "gymnasium," thus paving the way for the most interesting features of modern pedagogic ideas, inasmuch as in the two highest classes the obligatory compulsory instruction in four central subjects, together with three others, form the nucleus of knowledge necessary for the matriculation examination at the university, instead of eleven compulsory subjects, as previously. By reducing the number of compulsory subjects, it is expected to sever the authorities desire to eliminate the consequence of too much strain, and at the same time to introduce a system of more varied and more useful group of subjects, thus giving the boy or the girl a chance to work on his own terms. Buhl Citizens Talk Christmas Program

Another Community Tree for Coming Holiday Seems to Meet With Favor.

BUHL, Nov. 10 (Special to The News)—There is considerable discussion in Buhl this week favoring the providing a community Christmas tree similar to the plan followed here during the past two years, and it is expected that a meeting will be called next week for the purpose of perfecting plans for the tree.

There is no chamber of commerce in Buhl, so there is no organization representing all the business men of the town to sponsor the movement, and so far no other organization is willing to assume entire responsibility, although sentiment strongly favors a community tree. At the meeting held last evening for the purpose of reorganizing the Buhl Red Cross chapter there was some talk of this organization assuming responsibility for the movement.

Dr. H. C. Coleman, who has been treasurer of the community tree fund, reported a balance of $22 left over from last year's fund. In making his report he said that a balance of $10.07 was carried over from the 1925 community tree fund. Receipts for 1926 were $794.25. Expenditures were as follows: Expenses for the community tree, $100.00; for the purchase of nuts and fruits distributed at the tree was $340.25, and the cost of Christmas baskets distributed to needy homes after the community tree celebration, and the cost of coal, food and clothing provided in homes in and around Buhl during 1926, was $422.02. If a community tree is had this year, the charity dispersed during the year will be handled by the Buhl Red Cross chapter, Dr. Coleman said.

Blind Woman Is Envoy Of Cheer to Sightless

JANESVILLE, Wis., Nov. 8 (AP)—Miss Caroline Palmer, herself sightless from the age of two, has become an unofficial dispenser of cheer to the blind of southwestern Wisconsin.

She came to Janesville several years ago and began quietly to help the hundreds of sightless people in and around Janesville, many of whom had sat in silent dejection for years. In Baraboo, Wisconsin, she taught a 78-year-old woman to make baskets of such excellence in workmanship that she is now able to earn a livelihood.

In another Wisconsin town a blind man could not read because his fingers were blunted and tough—not sensitive enough to follow the raised dots of Braille. He was taught to use his thumbs and he now reads with facility.

Miss Palmer, a high school graduate, does many things that persons with sight find difficult. She is an accomplished pianist, an expert with a knitting needle, decorates pottery, and is handy in other forms of craftsmanship.

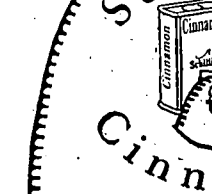

Paris Dressmakers Keep Many Secrets

PARIS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Long before the world is informed of society engagements certain Parisian dressmakers know the date of the proposed wedding as well as what the bride will wear.

Julie Larvin is a favorite house with many prospective brides. Millicent Rogers, the Countess Salm, bought several thousand dollars worth of clothes from Mrs. Larvin before she sailed for New York.

Idaho Students Take "Special" to Big Game

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Nov. 10—Idaho students will not attend the Idaho and Oregon State college football game at Portland November 19 in their own special train. It has been voted by the academic council of the university. Plans originally were launched by Blue Key, a national service fraternity, and it was planned to have a strictly student special train similar to the one sent to Seattle last fall when Idaho and Washington played. Many students, however, will attend the Portland game on a special train planned by Moscow business men. Students attending the game, however, will be given "cuts" in all classes missed, the student council has ruled.

Maine Moose Thrive Under Protection

ACQUSTA, Me., Nov. 10 (AP)—Protection of moose has proven effective in Maine—so much so that they have become a source of annoyance and even fear to residents in some localities. A big bull moose that drove people up trees not far from Portland has been captured at last. A driver suffered injuries that necessitated hospital treatment when a moose frightened his horse.

In Waldo County moose have invaded the highways and outskirts of towns in increasing numbers. To provide relief there a special act has been adopted to permit moose-hunting in that county for a week, beginning November 21.

A "Rolling" Mill

Rollers for both men and machines are lightening the work in a modern industrial plant. Light machines, cast-iron mounted and motor driven, are wheeled to the point where they are most needed. Packages in the shipping department are handled by boys on roller stacks. Even the plant library is on wheels and visits each department at regular intervals.

WOMEN FIGHT FOR ENFORCEMENT IN SERIES OF STATE RALLIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Ten million women are out to put the force in enforcement of law, and on November 12 and 13 they will have a meeting in New York city to tell the world how they feel about the prohibition amendment.

The meeting, which is under the auspices of the New York state branch of the National Woman's Committee for Law Enforcement, is the first gun in a campaign to compel the political parties to put a plank for law enforcement in their platforms strong enough to bear up under the weight of the candidates who will appeal for the votes of the women in the 1928 elections.

"We want doors, not dogtags," asserts Mrs. Samuel Bens, chairman of the New York state committee, while Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Massachusetts, national chairman, declares that the women are tired of the "chilly shyness" of politicians on the issue of law enforcement and are determined to compel its recognition as a national issue.

United States Senator William E. Borah will be the chief speaker at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall on the evening of November 12. A monster prayer service in one of the big New York churches will be held November 13. Simultaneously 2,000 prayer services will be held in churches and homes throughout the country.

Following the New York meeting there will be a series of conferences at strategic points, beginning on December 5 at New Haven, where President Angell has loaned Wolsey Hall at Yale University, and Newark on December 8, where 1,000 Republican women party workers will cooperate with Democratic women in a meeting at the Masonic Temple, Chicago. Atlanta, San Francisco and Los Angeles will follow.

The national committee is made up of nine affiliated women's organizations, with a combined membership of 10,000,000, and the state branch includes leagues in nearly every county.

Shops Under Street

London has adopted the idea of having a shopping center beneath the street, several shops having been opened on passageways to subway stations beneath Piccadilly circus. Jewelry and women's and men's apparel shops are among the established. Electric stairways to the upper, outside levels are to be installed. During the digging, parts of 16th-century and a fossil oyster shell were found, indicating that the district was once under the sea.

War Is Not All Like This

The advantages of a war, paradoxically enough, are many. Looking backward, on Armistice Day, those who fought and near-died can profit by the tortures and miseries they underwent. Mind and body suffered, and on the basis of this suffering, the Nation as it is today profits.

Upon the Youth of the land—the men now in their "thirties" who fought to peace and to a better self-understanding—depends the prosperity and strength of the Nation.

For an Armistice Day thought, let us dwell on that.

Armistice Day—1927

November 11th, 1918 was a day of clamor, a day of boisterous rejoicing for the finish of the struggle in Europe. Each succeeding anniversary has brought a quieter celebration. The same thankfulness for a world at peace prevails, but there is no clamor; instead a truer, deeper reverence for the courage displayed by our young men—those who died and those who came back finer citizens.

KANSAS CITY HOST TO CONGRESS FOR FARMERS

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—The view of the American farmer on such subjects as marketing, transportation, livestock and food control and inland waterways will be defined at the annual session of the American Farm Congress here November 18-19.

W. L. Drummond, chairman of the board of governors and managing director, has announced that 700 delegates will attend the traveling "The sessions of the farm congress," Drummond said, "are designed to be representative of American agriculture in the broadest sense. Recognizing that no single farm organization has sufficient membership to qualify to speak for all sections of the country and all branches of agriculture, the congress makes provision for delegate representation, not only from all bona fide farm bodies, but from the great body of farmers who do not belong to any organization. The delegates representing the latter are appointed by governors of states, state boards of agriculture and agricultural colleges.

NEW GEOGRAPHY

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Singapore, the Cross Roads of the East! Singapore, one of the world's busiest ports where a million dollars are earned annually! Singapore, the capital of the Straits Settlements and destined to become Britain's great eastern naval base! Singapore, the city of the future! Singapore, the city of the future! Singapore, the city of the future!

Singapore occupies a portion of an island by the same name that lies a half-mile off the end of the Malay Peninsula. In 1812 square miles were fever-infested swamps and thick jungle land where tigers, wild tropical snakes and many other unfriendly beasts lurked. The Raja of Johore tried to give it away, but the offer was refused.

Sixteen years later Sir Stamford Raffles bought the island for a small sum and set up a free port to compete with Batavia, Java. Its life ever since has been a struggle for existence. The one-time fishermen's haunts off the coast now are busy shipping harbors where small fishing craft were pulled up on the beach, broad bulwarks surround a crescent-shaped harbor that is filled with craft of all sizes and shapes. The harbor is now a busy going vessels flying flags of many nations, to the shell-like city of Malaya who live for coals.

The island and jungles are dignified by handsome villas of commercial barons, and plantations. Tree-lined streets and boulevards, with modern government buildings, marble-fronted banks, palatial residences, large business buildings, and modern hotels, have taken the place of trails where once no man had ventured furnished quick for carnivorous beasts.

After a long jaunt through the Orient, large signs advertising American typewriters, automobiles, sewing machines, hardware, fountain pens and other necessities are to be seen through the window of a hardware store. Yankee locks are displayed with Chinese locks that look more like rat traps. Out on the street the flowers are dodging antiquated cabs and rickshaws that are slowly going in this country.

A few moments spent on a Singapore thoroughfare indicates that the port city is no respecter of race. Out of nearly half a million inhabitants about one-half are Chinese and whose business interests are a large part of commercial prestige. In building trade they made fortunes for themselves while the Malays were contented with a bare existence.

Europeans from a dozen nations, Americans, Austrians, British, French, and Japanese, and a sprinkling of human beings from nearly every isle in the Pacific are there. All are treated here on Singapore as no resort. It lies but a few degrees above the Equator and while the climate is not unhealthy, it is usually too hot and humid to be pleasant.

Many of the orientals live in junks and sampans clustered about the quays along the banks of the Singapore River which flows through the city. In these small craft, sheltered by strips of matting, the sing-song chatter of the boatmen and their families greet the harbors of Shanghai and Hongkong from which perhaps many of them came.

A narrow, connecting the peninsula with the island, has recently been completed which affords a train service between the two cities. It is a trolley car and many other products of Malaya now are transported from Singapore to the mainland.

Thackeray's Cousin Seeks Oxford Post

OXFORD, England, Nov. 10 (AP)—Miss Anne Wynne Thackeray, a cousin of William Makepeace Thackeray, famous novelist, is running for councillor of the city of Oxford.

She was returned to the Oxford council in 1919 at the head of the poll. Previously she had been a liberal member of the Hedingham Board of guardians. Her interest in social and administrative work began in the Whitechapel slums of London's East End.

Miss Thackeray has served on a number of committees dealing with housing, health, town planning and mental deficiency. She is greatly interested in the Women's Institute movement in temperance work and in the Y. M. C. A. Her father, Sir Edward Thackeray, crossed, at his death was the direct surviving holder of the Victoria cross, won during the Indian mutiny. Her brother, Colonel E. C. Thackeray, succeeded Sir Robert Baden-Powell as commander of the Boy Scout movement in South Africa.

Even Gentlemen May Lug Melons in Paris

PARIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—An American who didn't know that a gentleman is not supposed to carry a melon in Paris caused an incident near the other day when he presented a sarcastic reference to himself as a "melon of the United States." He was carrying home a French market melon, full of provisions. Another man in front of him carrying a box of chocolates in the streets of Paris, but nothing else except his cane or umbrella.

The flowers and the chocolates are a concession to the fair sex. The melon is allowed because the late Edith Lorraine Pitts, wife of Walter, set the example. Seeing a luscious melon on a fruit stand one day, he bought it and carried it home in his arms.
