HOUSE VOTES MEDAL OF GREAT HONOR TO COLONEL LINDBERGH

Senate Approval Is Necessary Before Award Can Be Made by President Coolidge; Ballot Unanimous; Flies Cheered.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—With great commotion to that made by the "Spirit of St. Louis" across the lonely Atlantic, the house today voted the medal of great honor to Colonel Lindbergh.

Senate approval still is necessary before the award can be made by President Coolidge. The senate was to vote on the medal today.

The vote of the house was unanimous to consider and introduce the medal, the highest award of the nation for its heroes, but members never had a chance to actually vote on its final passage.

Members Applaud "The bill is passed," Speaker Longworth declared in a minute reading of the measure was concluded and members, instead of voting on it, applauded.

This action came just a few minutes after Lindbergh had been accorded a flying salute in the youthful flight which was the subject of the chamber by Representatives Tilson and Carrett.

OIL CASE CONTEMPT HEARING OPENS SOON

Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., Talkative Juror, Central Figure; Government Prepares Case.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—With Edward J. Kidwell, Jr., alleged talkative juror in the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy case, again a central figure, government attorneys were busy today preparing their case for the hearing Monday of the criminal contempt proceedings against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their associates.

Kidwell will be summoned as a government witness who would account for his purpose to some extent, though objections might prevent much of his denial getting into the record.

Ready to Take Stand For the most part interest in the contempt proceedings centered today around the expected return to the stand Monday of G. C. Burns, principal defendant, manager for the Burns detective agency, Ruddy had charge of the surveillance of the conspiracy jury by detectives employed by Harry F. Sinclair.

Defense counsel have contended procedure at the trial was in no way unlawful in the surveillance as long as no juror was conscious that he was being shadowed.

Four Lake Ships at Mercy of Elements

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP)—The four lake freighters stranded in the upper lake region as a result of the terrific gale of the last three days tonight apparently were still at the mercy of the elements. One of the four—the E. W. Copley—has been abandoned by her crew and is high and dry on Sand Point at Marquette, a big hole in her bottom and her hold filled with water.

Oklahoma Senator Is Object of Joke; Didn't Order Autos

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Representative McClintock, democrat, Oklahoma, today from the vantage point afforded by his six feet two inches to see who had played a joke on him.

A bill offered yesterday authorized the secretary of the navy to purchase Rolls-Royce automobiles for each officer of the navy. It was supposed to have been introduced by McClintock, but the Oklahoma member disclaimed any knowledge of responsibility for it.

The measure was withdrawn by unanimous consent, but before McClintock had remarked that naval officers should devote their money to ships and not automobiles.

Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, declared the procedure was a serious matter which should be investigated.

The discussion today touched upon practically all phases of the tax question, a number of members defending the bill as drafted by the house ways and means committee and others vigorously attacking certain of its proposals.

Representative Hawley, Oregon, sponsor of the bill, said today that the measure would be reported to the house Monday.

MEXICAN DIPLOMAT DISPUTES AUTHORITY OF BRIBERY CHARGE

Tellez, Ambassador to Washington, Challenges Statements by Hearst Papers That Fund Was to Be for Senators.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Authority of the special senate committee to summon Mexican consular officers in its investigation of charges in the Hearst newspapers that a fund of $1,200,000 was raised for four United States senators was challenged by Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican ambassador to Washington.

The ambassador's statement was made after he had been advised unofficially that the committee was planning to summon Arturo M. Elias, Mexican consul general at New York, and half-brother of President Calles, between whom most of the purported correspondence relating to the senators appeared to have passed.

"In my opinion Elias will not come to Washington at the summons of the senate committee," Ambassador Tellez said. "He will not be obliged to do so because he can stand on his rights of immunity under international law."

The ambassador said that while there was no question of amity between the United States and Mexico, which usually contains a provision giving consular officers immunity from court processes, it was an established practice under international law that such officers were

CREDIT MEN PREDICT GOOD BEGINNING FOR NEW YEAR BUSINESS

National Organization in Monthly Survey Lists Factors Favorable for Continued Prosperity in 1928.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—As 1927 draws to a close, the presence of a strong combination of favorable business factors promises the coming year a solid business foundation, according to the November monthly survey conducted by the National Association of Credit Men.

Among the favorable factors which have been listed in the survey are, the following: A transportation system that has made possible minimum investment in the purchase and distribution of abundant capital and credit facilities which have been conservatively administered to avoid general inflation.

A program of tax reduction. Better agricultural conditions and the outlook for an enlarged foreign market.

Economy in business, particularly through consolidation, and economy on the part of consumers by virtue of more careful buying.

The commodity prices firm. Commodity prices have shown very little change in the past month. Fisher's Index stood at 145.8 in November as compared with an average of 145.8 for the month of October.

Crump's British Index registered 134.2 in November 17, against an October average of 134.2.

"In building construction, October was a record-breaking month. Work on construction started in the 37 Eastern states in October reached a total of $62,215,800, the highest October aggregate on record and the fourth largest monthly total for the 1927.

"In production the situation continues to be bright. The steel, coal and automobiles are still quiet, while textiles continue to improve. Iron, rayon and wool manufacturers are noticeably more cheerful than they have been for some time.

"The findings for the week ending November 5 numbered 1,638,852, a decrease of 73,769 cars from the total of the week ending October 29, 1927, and a decrease of 2,200 cars from the total for the corresponding week of last year. Bank clearings for the week end November 17, as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank, are $423,017,000, an increase of 13.3 per cent over the like week of 1926.

"Both the foreign and retail trade, particularly in furs and winter clothing, have been stimulated by the colder weather. Chain stores and mail order, 18 systems showing October sales aggregating $83,658,441, an increase of 9.64 per cent over October of last year. Sales of the same organizations for the first 10 months of 1927 show a gain of 12.37 per cent over the total for the first 10 months of 1926.

Farm Situation Encouraging "The agricultural situation, except in certain parts of the corn belt, is fairly satisfactory. Cotton planters, with a smaller yield and more favorable prices, are appreciably more cheerful than they were a year ago. In the Northwest the farmers are receiving good prices for a fine crop of spring wheat.

"Employment conditions are fair except in a few cities where motor production still hangs back, waiting for the long delayed impact of the new Ford models. Commercial failures appear to involve chiefly the smaller manufacturers and wholesalers."

"The outlook for the coming year in California, Oregon, Washington, Utah and Idaho, the credit organization finds conditions fair or a little better than fair."

"In the Pacific Coast states the late agricultural season, which retarded marketing of crops up to the middle of October, intensified activity in the movement of farm products as the end of the harvest came on. Industrial plants continued their operations about the levels of a year ago, and distribution proceeded at about the same rate.

"Throughout the entire twelfth federal reserve district covering the five states every day in the months last September and early October showed a pronounced recovery in district demands for credit. The supply of credit continued adequate, interest rates remaining relatively low for the season of the year.

Construction showed up somewhat, mining will show no great activity until there is a better market for the non-ferrous metals, and lumber conditions are reported as not being entirely satisfactory."

GENERAL DEBATE ON TAX BILL GOES AHEAD

(Continued From Page One) for republican committee members look an active part in supporting the measure, saying that its proposal to reduce the tax rate on corporation incomes from 12 1/2 to 11 1/2 per cent would benefit two-thirds of the wage earners in the country. The Oregon member cautioned against congress taking action that might cause a deficit in the treasury. He pointed out that the department had planned $23,000,000 as the maximum cut advisable and that the committee had exceeded this by more than $120,000,000. Representative Oldfield, Arkansas, a democratic committee member, charged that republican politics had prevented the inclusion in the bill of provisions aimed to increase efficiency in administration of the tax law. "This bill," he said, "to save some republican job holders out in the states."

Secretary Hoover said that he was interested intensely in the work of the committee as consumer that depends on oil transportation. He offered all the information collected by the bureau. "More whole-hearted cooperation of the oil industry is needed," he asserted. "The only way to solve the past year is a danger signal to the country that our resources are being wasted and something must be done. Whether legislation or by other means this committee should determine."

What INTERMOUNTAIN LLOYDS Means

The name "Lloyds," known throughout the world in connection with insurance, and, until recently, solely identified with English interests, originally was not the name of any organization, but merely the name of the place where a certain type of business was conducted. In the United States the name "Lloyds" has been recognized by the decisions of many courts and the statutes of many states, as the name of a kind of insurance organization. Intermountain Lloyds is that kind of organization.

Lloyd's Coffee House, rendezvous for nautical men of Seventeenth Century, London.

In its simplest terms, Intermountain Lloyds is an organization of individuals who are known as underwriters and who, by making a certain cash deposit supplemented by placing in trust a prescribed amount in approved securities, become underwriters of conservative lines of insurance.

The Royal Exchange, present home of Lloyd's at London.

The organization has resulted from elaborate research and study on the part of the founders. Thus have been disclosed exceptional opportunities for substantial profits and valuable service to the public, awaiting an organization specializing in re-insurance and special classes of preferred risks.

In the list of underwriters on this page you will undoubtedly see the name of prominent men well known to you personally—perhaps they're your bankers or your neighbors or your business friends. You know them as men of discrimination and business sagacity and you would not hesitate to consult them on the all-important question of investment. It is our suggestion that you DO consult them about this investment. They can be depended upon to give you their honest opinion on this as well as any other business matter.

HOW YOU MAY BECOME AN UNDERWRITER IN INTERMOUNTAIN LLOYDS AND PARTICIPATE IN ITS PROFITS

You may become an underwriter by the payment of $250 (which is used for initial operating expense and in the development of the business) and by depositing in trust with the Utah Savings & Trust Company of Salt Lake City, Utah, of a bond, first mortgage, cash value on your life insurance policies or other acceptable security (which it is assumed you already own and are holding as an income, producing investment) to the amount of One Thousand Dollars.

A Solid Business Investment. Affiliation with Intermountain Lloyds is not a speculation. It is a solid business investment. Investment in insurance corporations is profitable. This is well attested by the record of leading American life insurance companies. Three of these companies have enjoyed an unbroken record for 60 to 100 years; 27 from 40 to 60 years; and 57 from 10 to 39 years.

Should you desire to substitute other acceptable securities from time to time, you are privileged to do so, it being solely necessary to maintain a market value of not less than One Thousand Dollars. The securities so deposited by the Intermountain Lloyds underwriters constitute a guaranty fund to secure policies and contracts of Intermountain Lloyds for the protection of the policy holders.

PLACES AND COUNTY EACH WILL COLLECT TAXES THIS YEAR

New State Law Divides Task; Municipalities to Gather in Own Special Improvement Assessments.

Owners of taxable property in Twin Falls and other Idaho municipalities will pay taxes this year on the county court house, and at the city hall. The pink tax notices that came from a great deal of short lived jubilation over apparent tax reductions on the part of city property owners who had failed to take into consideration the fact that not all of the customary assessments were listed on these notices. A few days later of the cities' notices dispelled the notion that the tax collectors might have overlooked something.

It all was caused by action of the state legislature last winter in requiring municipalities to collect their own special improvement assessments for such purposes as street sprinkling, paving or sidewalk construction, and relieving the county of the duty.

Work Left to County. It was left for the county, however, to collect the cities' levies for general and special funds including bond redemption, library and band funds. This duty the county retains along with its obligation to collect state county taxes and the levies of school districts, highway districts, and in this region, the assessment of the American Falls reservoir district.

In some states, it is said, each taxing unit—that is, each county, city, school district and road district is required to collect its own taxes, and the taxpayer, instead of paying all taxes to one collector, makes his settlement with a half dozen or more tax collectors.

Validity of the new Idaho law, in respect at least, to its effect on municipalities' special assessments that had been authorized prior to the adoption of the law was called in question in the courts, and the question may not yet be finally settled. But for this year, at any rate, the county may be relieved of necessity for collecting the cities' special assessments.

Two Sets of Notices. Tax notices sent out from the court house set forth an itemized list of the assessments making up the total tax to be collected by the county for distribution among the several taxing units. Twin Falls city's tax notices this year do not show whether the city is to be paying or sidewalk, or sewer, or sprinkling, but call for payment of the total of the special assessments which only is given.

But whether itemized or not, the taxes to be collected both by the county and city are now payable in at least one-half the total must be paid on or before next December 24, to escape the penalty for delinquency. Payment of the remaining half may be deferred to next June without penalty.

Another interpretation has been placed on the law in a number of Idaho towns, including Pocatello and Boise, where the entire amount of the taxes collected by the city are to be paid in a single payment, on or before next Christmas eve.

TWIN FALLS MAYOR IS DRAWN ON JURY

Municipal Executive Is First Man Selected Out of Thirty New Jurors Called.

Mayor Richard E. Bobler was the first of the dozen Twin Falls men who were drawn on the list of 30 jurors selected in the regular way by the regular panel yesterday to appear in district court here, Monday, December 19, when the second trial of Joseph L. Snowden, burglar, suspect, will begin.

The case of Nora Kalliah against the Clear-Denis company, et al, was continued at 2 o'clock yesterday until Monday, when the plaintiff rested, and E. M. Wolfe, one of the defense attorneys, reported that it was necessary for him to go to Boise. All jurors of the present panel not in the box on this case were excused from further attendance during the term. Although the first Twin Falls man drawn, mayor Bobler was the second person drawn, being preceded by Charles Wiseman Hansen.

SHIPPERS' ADVISORY BOARD GIVES FORCE TO PUBLIC OPINION

Executive Representative Indicates Importance of Sessions That Will Bring Captains of Industry to Twin Falls.

When the Central Western Shippers' Advisory Board meets in Twin Falls Wednesday it will be a common meeting ground created by this board between shippers and railroads for a better understanding of each others' problems, to adjust informally service difficulties, and to study the general economic progress of each district.

These meetings are of extreme importance to the community in which they are held. They afford the opportunity for local participation in the affairs of national railroad operation and this meeting, particularly, is to be of importance to this district because its agenda has been arranged with view to placing before the public the problems peculiar to this district. Further, the scope of discussions has been extended to include consideration of problems of farm credits and finance, and the whole subject of standardization of products.

Big Attendance Forecast
Farmers, business men, shippers and railroad men will be present at the sessions which will be held in the Elks lodge room. The general meetings will be held on Wednesday from 10 a. m. to 12 m., when the convention will close.

Already, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting announced last evening, nearly 100 reservations have been made and it is estimated that a number of special cars and one full special train will bring a large number of the guests coming from all of the five states of the region and including outstanding leaders in the fields of commerce, transportation and finance.

Whole Community
Discussing the coming meeting, W. L. Harvey of Denver, executive representative of the Central Western Shippers' Advisory Board, said here last evening:

"In all controversial matters, results satisfactory and just to both the opposition and the opposed are seldom found through litigation, or compulsion."

"The meeting of the shippers' advisory board here next Wednesday will exemplify the principle and give enlightened public opinion in the solution of railroad transportation and car service matters in lieu of compulsory mandates of law."

"No man's judgment is any better than his information," is a motto of the shippers' advisory boards, and as these boards and the reports delivered at the meetings reflect the requirements of the various sections of the country for railroad transportation and car service, they affect not only the individual who is the direct agency through which such service is utilized, but also every individual residing in the community dependent upon the railroad for the exchange of its articles of commerce. If our national business affairs could be closely checked, it is safe to say we would find that there is often altogether too much snap judgment and quick action in this country of ours because of lack of information, or because of misinformation, and it is the prime function of these advisory boards to so analyze, and to so carry to the man in the street and in the ordinary walk of life, the common everyday problems of transportation to that he in turn may cooperate to the fullest extent of his ability with transportation, get a grasp of its problems and make his contribution in an effective way towards its solution.

Fares Way to Mutual Benefits
"A mutual consideration of our everyday problems more often than not points a harmonious way to their solution. Therefore, insurance against transportation failure is provided through consideration of problems affecting railroad and patron alike and from the round-table discussion of these subjects in the open meetings of the advisory boards comes enlightenment to both sides which permits amicable adjustment with its inherent fair results in place of litigation which too often does not do justice to either side."

"A wonderful avenue of helpfulness to the Twin Falls territory is opened through this meeting to be held in our midst and the farmer, business man or executive of industry who fails to avail himself of this opportunity to learn more about the workings of the advisory board will have missed an opportunity of serving himself as well as his community from the prosperity of which he gains his remuneration."

COUNTY AUDIT IS AWARDED EDMUNDS

Commissioners Act on Bids of Two Firms; Will Meet Again to Cruise Tax Sale.

If C. Edmunds, Twin Falls accountant was awarded the contract for auditing the books of Twin Falls county for the last three years, late yesterday connecting with an audit made by Edwin A. Wilson. Bids were opened Saturday by the board of county commissioners. The bid of Clark E. Moon, of Pocatello, was for $1462 and the bid of H. C. Edmunds of Twin Falls was for $1500. The question of whether there should be a separate audit of the books of the weed eradication department was discussed.

Mr. Edmunds stated that a separate audit of these books would cost $200. The Moon bid was made to include this. The majority of the board held that this amount would be covered in the report on the books of the county auditor and awarded the contract to Mr. Edmunds.

The commissioners will meet Monday to cruise the forthcoming sale of property for county taxes set for December 15.

FOREIGNERS QUERY ABOUT GOVERNMENT

Students at Americanization School Go Into History of Early Period of Nation.

That foreigners preparing for citizenship can ask questions relative to the American government that many native Americans would on occasion find it hard to answer off hand is exemplified by queries made at the Americanization school now conducted in the high school.

As an example of the questions asked, one student wanted to know if there were any presidents in this country before George Washington. That there were presidents, though not presidents of the United States, under the articles of confederation is something most folks do not think of. There is no provision made for election of presidents of the congress in as a matter of fact, each congress elected a president while it was in session. There is a provision that a congress shall be appointed to have charge of the affairs of the country while congress is not in session and that this committee shall elect a president from its membership who shall not, however, hold office more than one year out of a term of three years. In practice there was a president of congress, while congress was in session and a president of the executive committee while congress was not in session, but nobody known officially as president of the United States.

Mr. B. H. Atkinson teaches the classes who study the English language and A. H. Nielson, attorney, has charge of the instruction of those preparing for citizenship.

It was four degrees below the minimum for the season and two degrees below the Thursday minimum, which had held the season's low record. The maximum remained the same as on Friday, 37.

Auto Dealers Present Scenic Winter Panel

Coal, cinders, clinkers and earth are the four commonest materials which form the basis for the attractive scenic roadway which may be seen in the window of the A. Barrett Automobile company's shop on Main avenue south.

The scenic panel represents a stretch of roadway visualized in the dream of H. V. Muser, window decorator for the automobile company. Below the roadway in the foreground is a little ice-covered lake. The highway are three snow-covered peaks; Mt. Commander, Mt. Erskine and Mt. Delator, named for the three models constructed by the Studebaker company. High on the jagged crags of the peaks mountain goats can be seen.

The setting of the bit of mountain country modeled in the window is shown by roadside mileposts to be 40 miles from Hatley and 22 miles from Twin Falls.

Forming the background for the panel is a Deltor sport coupe, covered with a snow, driven by a charming young woman who apparently cares little for the rapidly falling snow. Exotic designs pencilled by Jack Frost about the outer margins of the window serve as the frame for the holiday picture.

Jr. O. U. A. M. desire the attendance of all members at their sessions Monday evening, Dec. 13, at 7:30, at J. O. P. hall. There will be nominations for officers and work in the presence, after which the social committee will serve oysters.—Adv.

POLICE FIND MAN SOUGHT BY RELATIVE IN NEW YORK

William F. MacIntyre has been found. Following a telegram received Thursday night by Twin Falls police from William M. MacIntyre, 38 Clinton avenue, Albany, New York, asking that they locate W. F. MacIntyre and ascertain if he is ill a search was instituted which resulted in the location of the local man. The relative in the east feared that his kinsman here was in need of funds for medical care and asked the aid of the Twin Falls police who located their man yesterday at the Waverly hotel. W. F. MacIntyre had been ill and out of employment but is now with the Idaho Power company here.

GRADE SCHOOLS OF KIMBERLY LEAD SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS

Parent-Teacher Association Hears Report on Progress in Anti-Tuberculosis Campaign; Sophomores Stage Play.

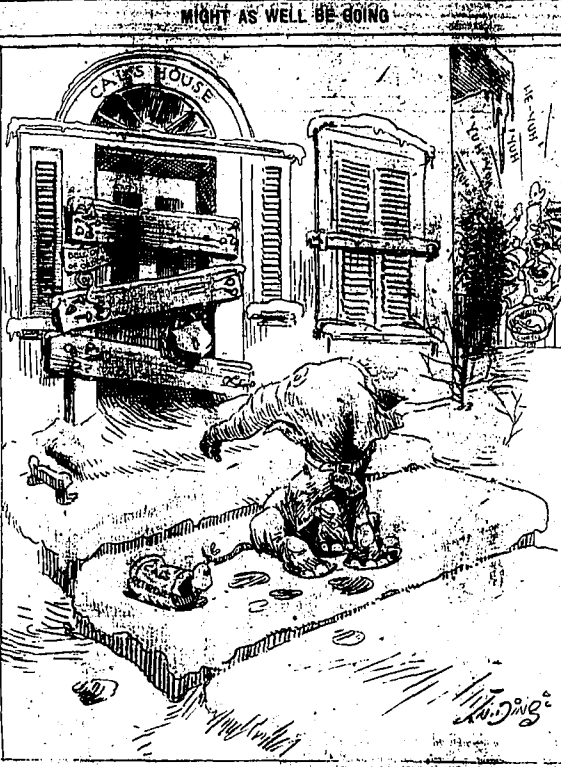

KIMBERLY, Dec. 30.—The Parent Teacher association of Kimberly held its regular meeting at the high school auditorium last Thursday evening with a large percentage of members in attendance. The regular business session occupied the early part of the evening and Mrs. E. O. Hozer gave an interesting report on the work of the anti-tuberculosis movement. Mrs. W. M. Arnold, chairman of the anti-tuberculosis seal sale, gave a report of the amount sold last fall and the percentage of sales for the town. J. W. Forbes had charge of the program and the unique one-act play, "The Light Went Out," given by the sophomore class and sponsored by Miss Frances Robinson and received with much evidence of appreciation. Miss Helen Craven played a violin solo, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Augustus Place and Mrs. Beck with announced a series of high class plays that will be given by Mrs. Clifford Merrill of Twin Falls. These plays will be staged at various times at the high school auditorium and will be sponsored by the students of the Kimberly high school. "The Valiant" was played on Friday night, December 31 and was in charge of the senior class.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Powers left Saturday by motor on a trip to California for an extended visit with their son Frank Powers at Los Angeles and other relatives and friends in southern California. They will go by way of Portland and the coast route.

The Calendar Tea for the month of December will be held on Wednesday afternoon December 31, at the home of Mrs. B. S. Taylor with Mesdames W. P. Dodd, O. E. Sigard, J. E. Hallock, Frank D. Spahr, and Mrs. E. O. Hozer as hostesses. A social afternoon reception will form a part of the program.

Members of the Ladies' Pioneer club of Kimberly enjoyed an unusually interesting afternoon today when they met at the home of Mrs. Geer Meyer. The early afternoon being devoted to a short business session presided over by the vice-president, Mrs. C. M. Fisher. The club voted to buy a Health Bond of $5 and the public welfare committee reported the barrel of fruit sent to the Children's Home. It was decided by the club not to purchase chairs for the present time and through courtesy of Mrs. W. H. Turner the club is provided with a supply of extra chairs for their meetings. Mrs. W. H. Houten was in charge of the program on Christmas carols and read a number of interesting articles on the Christmas spirit. Included in the program was a group of songs by a ladies' chorus that was highly appreciated. The assisting hostesses, Mesdames O. T. Brown, E. B. Wilkerson and B. Walters, served refreshments in keeping with a Christmas menu from an attractively decorated table, with Mrs. Harry West, Sr. presiding at the always service.

in the Kimberly schools, has been absent from school duties since Tuesday on account of illness.

Mrs. Wm. Van Housen is ill at her home suffering an acute attack of colic.

Mrs. H. W. Houghton left Sunday morning for Colorado with the body of her mother, Mrs. Kelley, who died at the home of her daughter in Kimberly on Thursday night. Burial will be in that family lot at the Palmyra old home in Colorado.

Allen Fonger returned home Wednesday from California where he spent three weeks visiting his brother Frank at Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry West Jr. entertained on Friday night with an attractive 7:30 o'clock dinner party. The house decorations and tables were beautiful in the Christmas mood. After dinner several games of bridge were played, Mrs. G. O. Wilson winning the high score for the women and H. T. West, Sr. the men's prize. Mrs. J. W. Forbes received the consolation gift. Covers were marked at small tables for Messrs. and Mesdames R. H. Denton, R. G. Wilson, J. Frank Henry, H. T. West, Sr., F. E. Wilson, J. L. Shepard, W. A. L. Stone, J. W. Forbes, W. T. Seal of Twin Falls and Miss Meredith Hahn of Los Angeles.

A large percentage of the members of the Kimberly Grange attended the meeting and debate. Resolved, that the Molay-Haugen bill, as passed by congress is unconstitutional and unjust to the average farmer. The meeting was held on Friday night in the Professional and Business Women's club rooms in Twin Falls.

Diners Entertained
Radio phonographs arranged at each table in a Vienna restaurant are said to have built a fine business for the owner of the place.

BUHL SUPPLIES BEANS FOR NAVY YARDS' FARE

BUHL, Dec. 30.—The Buhl Seed and Grain company shipped 8000 sacks of Great Northern beans Wednesday to government agents for shipment to Pacific coast ports as ration rations for the navy. The shipment from here was only a part of the 20-car shipment from various points in the northern part of the state.

Mud and Snow Make Travel by Auto More Difficult; Conditions Near Here Are Good.

Final closing of the summit on the best of the Sawtooth highway between Salmon and the Montana line; presence of two feet of snow on the Selkirk highway at McCall and increasing difficulty in traveling on the muddy parts of the North and South highways were principal features of the report of the Idaho State Automobile association contained in its weekly bulletin, received last evening. No change for the worse was reported in Twin Falls vicinity. The Sawtooth highway is reported fair to good from Ely to points beyond Shoshone. The old Grand trail from Portland to Sheep creek east of Montpelier is good to excellent, and east of Sheep creek to the Wyoming line is reported good. Gooding to Jerome and thence all the way to its termination at Declo is reported good.

The report in full follows: Idaho-Montana Highway Idaho Falls to Montana good over improved sections. Balance rough and muddy. Monticello to Dillon poor. Bad going may be encountered on account of weather conditions.

Idaho Central Highway Mountain Home to Hill City fair. Hill City to Fairfield and Bailey very poor. Halley to Pileabo and Arco good. Arco to Howe fair.

Old Oregon Trail From Portland, Oregon east, paving and macadam to the Idaho line. From Payette to Parma, Notus and Caldwell good. Weiser to Payette good. Payette to Fruitland good. Fruitland to Caldwell good. Caldwell to Boise via Nampa, paved to Nampa, gravel to within eight miles of Boise, then oiled and hard surfaced into Boise. Caldwell to Boise via Star, rough to Star. Star to Boise paved. East from Boise to Mountain Home good. Mountain Home to Glenns Ferry, King Hill, Bula, Hagerman, Buhl, Twin Falls, Burley and American Falls and Forestale good. Forestale, Montpelier good. Montpelier to Idaho-Wyoming line good. To Sheep Creek, fair from there to the line.

To Emmett Turn north one mile east of Star. The road is very rough.

North Side Highway Gooding to Wendell and Jerome good. Jerome to Eden, Hazelton, Paul, Rupert and Declo good.

Sawtooth Highway Ely, Nevada, to Twin Falls fair. Twin Falls to Jerome fair. Jerome to Shoshone good. Shoshone to Halley via Timmerman Hill good except rough in spots. Shoshone to Halley via Richfield poor to Pileabo. Pileabo to Halley good. Halley to Ketchum good. Calena Summit closed. Stantley to Challis considerable snow. Challis to Salmon good. Salmon to Montana line, summit closed.

North and South Highway From Weiser to Starkey Hot Springs muddy and rough in places. Starkey Hot Springs to Round Valley deeply rutted and is not recommended for travel, although it is still passable. Round Valley to Rigbins Moscow and Harvard good. Harvard to Emida and Santa passable. Santa to Harrison, nine miles crusher rock surfacing, balance dirt road very muddy. Harrison to Coeur D'Alene, several miles earth graded, balance good. Coeur D'Alene to Sandpoint, 19 miles surfaced, balance dirt very poor. Sandpoint to Bonners Ferry good. Bonners Ferry to Port

State to Hire Man To Ride Herd on Elk In Power County

BOISE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Employment of a range rider to ride herd on the state's elk in Arbon valley, Power county, was announced today by R. E. Thomas, state game warden. Farmers of the valley had complained of depredations of the elk, which had invaded agricultural lands, smashed fences, and destroyed hay stacks.

The range rider is authorized to drive the 800 head of elk away from Arbon valley farms and into the mountain ranges where there is plenty of food that does not belong to farmers.

Hill pool, chains necessary on dirt sections. Bonners Ferry to Eastport good.

Payette Lakes Highway Boise to Emmett poor. Boise to Horseshoe Bend muddy and rough. (Best road via Cartwright Hill). Emmett to McCall very bad. Road liable to be blocked at any time between Banks and Smiths Ferry. McCall to Now Here good.

Lost River Highway Blackfoot west to Bingham county line good. Several miles gravel surfaced or paved remainder earth graded. Butte county line to Arco and Mackay good.

Yellowstone Park Highway Idaho-Utah state line to Warm river excellent. Two feet of snow at McCall.

Bear Lake Highway Montpelier to Idaho-Utah line all gravelled and in good condition.

TURKEY-GROWERS MAKE SHIPMENT FROM BURLEY

Buhl Contributes to Two Car-load Lot of Christmas Birds Sent Rolling Eastward.

BURLEY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Trucksload of fat turkeys that rolled into Burley for the cooperative Christmas pool, were loaded for shipment to Philadelphia Friday. Two cars were billed out; part of the shipment coming from Buhl. Burley was the last of 25 assembly places for this pool, the territory extending into Oregon as far as Burns. Six receiving crews handled the turkeys, and it is estimated by Mrs. C. O. Brink, secretary of the Idaho Turkey Growers' association, who supervises receipts at Burley, that 35 to 40 cars will comprise this pool.

This sixth annual Christmas pool of the association was bid in by the Central Poultry corporation of Caldwell, at 42 1/2 cents for tops. Shipments will go direct to big retail corporations for holiday trade.

There were 3,500 birds delivered from the Burley district, which brought growers $12,021. Malia furnished the larger share, one grower, Bryan Scott, receiving $1,014 for 184 birds, and P. M. Kosman getting the second largest check of $490.

The turkeys graded 73.8 per cent number ones. The quality was superior, the cut in grade being caused mainly by defective handling in killing and picking, and in crooked breast cuts.

The 39 Burley district members of this last cooperative pool generally expressed satisfaction with the price obtained by the association and with its efforts in maintaining prices that

Bankers Urged to Encourage Higher Tax to Pay Bonds

BOISE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Bankers are urged to encourage increasing taxes to retire bonds in a circular issued today by E. W. Porter, commissioner of finance. The burden of public debt, the total bonded indebtedness of counties and governmental subdivisions reported at the bureau of public accounts, is increasing yearly, the statement points out, and "the slogan of the enthusiasts, who as only voted these bonds, of 'let the next generation pay' has proved false."

"It seems to me when contemplating this large indebtedness of $37,200,000," Commissioner Porter said, "and realizing the large amount required each year (approximately $3,000,000) to pay the interest thereon, that the time is now upon us when it should seriously be considered how much further we are justified in mortgaging the future generation to accomplish the most desired ends."

bring profitable returns to members. One more pool will be sold to clean up turkeys not mature enough for this delivery.

BURLEY AUDIENCE HEARS SHIPPERS BOARD SPEAKER

Objectives of Meeting of Central Western Regional Organization A Told.

BURLEY, Dec. 10.—At a banquet given Friday evening by Lincoln Wilder, prominent Burley potato dealer, W. L. Harvey, executive representative of the Central Western Shippers' Advisory board, explained the purpose of the meeting of shippers and traffic men to be held at Twin Falls next Tuesday and Wednesday. More than 30 farmers and business men were the guests of Mr. Wilder.

Mr. Harvey stressed the importance of the proposed meeting to shippers of this district. The Central Western Shippers' Advisory board, representing the states of Colorado, Idaho, Nebraska, Utah and Wyoming, will hold an executive session on Tuesday and a meeting of interest to the general public the following day. Expect traffic men and other prominent speakers will address the meeting. An attendance of close to 500 from the central western territory is expected.

The purpose of the shippers' advisory board is to expedite car movements, provide proper car distribution, eliminate transportation waste and in other ways improve railroad service to shippers. Mr. Harvey announced the association has saved many millions of dollars to shippers.

COURT WILL HEAR SUIT TO OUST WATERMASTER AT SHOSHONE NEXT YEAR

BOISE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Idaho's supreme court today advanced the hearing of the suit brought by E. E. Whitton, Boise county senator, to oust B. H. Chapman as watermaster on the Big Wood river. The case therefore will be argued about January 10. Whitton, the candidate of the Big Wood canal company, claimed he was elected watermaster at the regular 1927 meeting of waterusers. Chapman, however, took possession, asserting the Big Wood canal company was entitled to one vote only and his side of the case was sustained by the district court.

For Her Merriest Christmas — The World's Champion Car!

NO jewel case ever held more joy at Christmas than the Keys to Happiness will bring her. Give them to her Christmas morning—watch her ecstasy when, out the window, she sees her own Studebaker Commander, world's champion car, standing at the door!

You've given her a car that has written new motor car history—the car that holds every endurance and speed record for stock cars regardless of power or price. For it was this car that traveled the amazing distance of 25,000 miles in the astounding time of less than 23,000 minutes under American Automobile Association supervision! Nothing else on earth ever traveled so far so fast.

In these records is proof positive of advanced design, precision manufacture and quality materials. The durability which was demonstrated by 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes insures years of satisfying service to her. It means long life, low maintenance cost, superlative performance.

She will adore driving The Commander, for it handles so easily, and slips along so smoothly. And she'll love its smartness, its authoritative motor-car modishness, its dainty appointments, its roominess and rich, comfortable upholstery.

Call today for the Keys — Christmas Eve, Christmas morning or when you like, her Commander will be at your door. Then, be prepared for compliments on your thoughtfulness!

EDEN MASONS LODGE ENJOYS GALA EVENT

Members and Families With Guests From Other Towns Assemble for Annual Meeting.

EDEN, Dec. 10—Members of the Eden Masonic lodge and their families enjoyed a gala event at the "Eden" dining room last Wednesday evening.

The Eden organization is composed of members from Eden and Hazelton and many from other towns. The guests also included the resident members of the Eastern Star lodge and their husbands and a number of people from Jerome.

The evening's entertainment opened with a program with H. E. Cunningham as master of ceremonies. The program consisted of a reading by Harriet Lind; piano duet, Merle Smith and Ed Hazelton; and a variety from Hazelton; singing, Fred Smith; piano solo, Miss Edith Lowery.

The banquet was served after the program. Abundance of things good to eat and served in a most tasteful manner helped to make this hour most enjoyable. The banquet was prepared and served by members of the Ladies' Aid of the Eden church.

Members and visitors numbering more than 80 were present at the regular meeting of the Executive and Teachers' association at the Hillside school house Monday evening. One of the special features of the evening's program was the reading of the minutes of the Executive and Teachers' association.

KIMBERLY, Dec. 10—Kimberly high school students in a body, Friday evening, attended revival meetings conducted by the Rev. Theodore Cresswell, Dales, Texas, at the Methodist church here, filling the entire middle section of the church and sitting a week night vigilance service.

The meetings are causing interest that is general and increasing throughout the community. The Christian church will forego regular service Sunday evening on account of the revival. The meetings will continue next week.

ROMANTIC CHINAMAN BACK IN LIMELIGHT

Chiang Kai Shek Appears as Civilian Leader of Nationalist Movement; Faces Task.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10 (AP)—Chiang Kai Shek, romantic young generalissimo of the nationalists, after his resignation seven months ago, is back in the "Chiang" news again. This time he appears in a civilian role as leader of the nationalist movement and as "generalissimo" a title under which he swept from Canton northward to the Yangtze valley in 1926, bringing Hunan and Shanghai under the nationalist banner.

Today party leaders, faced with the task of bridging the split in the nationalist ranks, turned to their drive on Peking, according to Chiang Kai Shek again assuming active leadership of the movement. He was drafted unanimously by the leaders of the various factions.

Chiang Kai Shek, who lately was married to Miss Meiling Soong, Wellesley graduate and sister of the widow of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese republican leader, will not resume the title of generalissimo, it was explained, but will take a civilian title. By this means, it was said, he will avoid making a petition akin to a dictatorship such as is exercised by Marshal Chang Tso Lin, northern leader, a situation that all of those attending today's conference want to avoid.

COUNTY'S POPULATION CONTINUES TO GROW

Twin Falls Leads in Number of Births During Month of November; Flier Ranks Second.

Records at the office of Dr. John F. Coughlin, vital statistician for Twin Falls county, show that the number of births within the county exceeded the number of deaths during the month of November by nine. Twenty-nine new arrivals were registered with Dr. Coughlin during the month and 20 deaths.

Boys outnumbered the girls on Dr. Coughlin's books almost two to one. Nineteen boy babies and 10 girl babies can claim November as their birth month. Twin Falls had the greatest increase in population with the arrival of 15 new citizens. The following towns can add one to their census lists: Burley, Elgin, Gooding, Hollister, Kimberly and Murtaugh.

Birthdays and parents of the new centers are:

Man-Eating Fleas in Madagascar—Maybe; But No Man-Eating Trees

LONGON, Dec. 10.—Ever since a traveler discovered fleas in Madagascar at the head of the man-eating tree, some credible folk have clung to the notion that the island of Madagascar was an aboriginal terra which made breakfast, luncheon and dinner off unruly pests by the millions, of course, and always was, says Dr. Ralph Linton of Philadelphia, back in London on his way to the United States after two years in Madagascar on an ethnological survey for the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

But perhaps he suggests the fellow who told the story first had heard somewhere about man-eating fleas of Madagascar.

"It so," says Dr. Linton, "he was at least a little nearer right."

In months spent on the island off Africa's east coast, Dr. Linton had adventures by the hundred, survived 21 attacks of malaria and became an "as-

THIRTY WOOL POOLS IN NEW MARKETING GROUP

National Wool Organization Lately Formed Represents 60 Per Cent. of Operators

Thirty wool pools representing probably 60 per cent of all wool marketed cooperatively in the United States, are represented by the National Wool Marketing Council, which completed its organization in Chicago on December 3, according to a wire just received from R. A. Ward, general manager of the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers of Portland, who was active in the formation of the council and who has been elected to its board of directors.

The object of the council is to bring these various wool cooperatives together to coordinate their general activities, and to work together for the advancement of the interests of all wool growers who are members of the pools represented.

The organization of the National Wool Council is of the most vital importance to all wool growers of the western states," says Mr. Ward. "The wool growers' associations in the United States—the Pacific Cooperative Wool Growers and the Ohio Wool Growers' association—are members of the council, and the close cooperation between all of the wool pools, which will result from the formation of the council, will mean a better marketing service to the grower members."

The plan for a National Wool Marketing Council was first conceived by a group of growers who attended the wool marketing conference held in Washington, D. C., under the auspices of the United States department of agriculture in February of this year. Their preliminary meeting at the time was followed by a second meeting held in Chicago on June 23. Preliminary investigation work done by the growers following these two meetings resulted in the final formation of the council, as outlined above.

175 WOODS IN ONE TABLE

EL DORADO, Texas, Dec. 10 (AP)—Wood from all the 475 varieties of trees that grow in Texas is in the table which W. T. Connor built with saw and a pocketknife. No nails or other metal are in the table. Connor recently refused $500 for his product.

NATURE GIVES NEW LAND ANCHORAGE

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 10 (AP)—Many square miles of land, slowly rising out of Arctic waters along the shoreline of Alaska, may be the contribution of submarine earthquakes to the enlargement of Uncle Sam's great domain in the far north.

Small boats cruising in what have been considered safe waters in upper Cook inlet have gone aground, and crews report that regions which used to have a tide of several feet are now several feet higher than the highest tide, which attains 34 feet at Anchorage.

MINNESOTA HOBOS Get Shelter Hut

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—When winter winds blow coldly and lodging is at a premium, Minnesota hobos will be getting their "mulligan" in sure comfort in a shelter hut here. In an unprecedented section of the city, a "hobos' hut" has been organized as a result of the annual meeting here of the International Brotherhood Welfare association, often known as the International Hobos' association.

Two tables, bearing tall-tale "mulligan" marks, ten or twelve chairs all slightly the worse for wear and a few other dilapidated articles comprise the furniture of the club.

CRIPPLE WINS NEW HONOR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—Although handicapped by crutches, George Smith, an orphan, passed the athletic tests to become an "eight scout" George is a good swimmer, and for his dry land credits he showed the judges that he can train athletes, plan a track meet, act as official and take part in several field events.

CHINESE BOYS FLY

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two Chinese youths are among 770 students enrolled in four Kansas City flying schools. Several young women are known graduates of the schools. A three month ground course for which students are divided into groups of 20, preceded eight to 10 hours of actual flying in an standard school. At another, one student is taking 200 hours in the air to win a transport pilot's rating. Rating ranges from $350 upward.

Impressive Potatoes

In no country in the world will one find more garish display in the way of dress than in Idaho. Both men and women of the highest rank present the most gorgeous appearance when they are "all-dotted up." Magnificent jewels are worn and no royal ruler in other lands can show more magnificent pearls than are worn by some of the potatoes of Idaho. The high and light of the land present a fearful and wonderful appearance on state occasions, and it is worth going far to be present on an occasion of this kind.

Idle Island

ETHEL HUESTON

"Well, I tried to get into the clubhouse, and I couldn't. And into the bathroom, and I couldn't. You would have burned them to the ground—if you couldn't get in, you should have."

Gay laughed. "Don't be silly—Well, it was lovely in the core, and I stood there and saw—coming in. Hand, it was a man. He came in and with my two hands I pulled him up on the sand. There was a rope about one ankle, a stout rope, with one end dangling loose. He had been shot in the temple—here, she touched—she broy with a slender finger. The blood was washed away, but the hair was clogged about it. I laid his hand upon his breast, and put my handskerchief over his face. I called for help, but of course nobody heard me. So I went for the Captain. You know what happened."

Hand was impressed. She could see that. "It sounds very reasonable." "Oh, Rand! When I went back the sand was wet where the body had lain. I showed it to the Captain, and he said it had splashed there, it couldn't have splashed. It hadn't splashed anywhere else."

"And Mr. Ingram—" "Gay smiled at his persistence. "Well, I sent the captain away, and I sat every line of the poor, thin, anxious face, and the long hair, and the drooping hair. I took my drawing pad, and drew it, like this. I was going to send it to the police department, so they could fry three men—Mr. Ingram was looking for you down to the shore, and I went up and took him back through the woods the other way. I showed him the sketch, and he was greatly interested. He wanted to see it in a newspaper man's hands."

"And now he comes again—" "Oh, he came before—" "Oh, I see," Hand's voice was quick. "Oh, no, you don't see. Well, I met him on the rocks beyond the little club one day—he is very nice, so gentle, so friendly, sympathetic, so I brought him home, and we had a long talk. He was thinking of buying up part of the island for exploitation, to build and sell, you know, things like that. It is very nice. Hand's face was very stern. "Why didn't you tell me all this before?" he demanded quietly.

"Because if you want to be a damned close knob, you will be. I will be damned close myself," she said angrily. "Hand, he felt terrible about the sketch—Oh, I didn't tell you about that."

"What? What about it? What did the police—" "Now, Hand, now is your chance to decide once and for all that I was entirely out of my head—am I still, perhaps? But Auntie's story is a part of it. If she will, though she made me promise not to tell, she said folks would think queer of it."

"I was nervous that night—anybody would be! At that I was all jumpy nerves, hearing noises, seeing shadows. So I went down and stayed all night with Auntie. Hand, I ran in bed, and when she raised the blinds on the night, she saw me. She said, 'Oh, you tell the lights on.' I didn't, because I went down before dark. So I went over and looked, and there was a light in the window. The summer color now it faded, pale and misty, not bright. And Hand, I swear on my word of honor, that I saw—was both a hand reach out from the darkness into the light, a hand long and slim, like his. And then the light went out, and the hand was gone."

voice. She wrapped herself in a heavy robe and ran down the Capitan's stairs to the plaza carefully unloading her things. "You darling," she said, "How adorable to have you order me about like that. But of course I shall do no such thing. I don't hold to obedience."

"First of October, Gay, I alius put the storm windows up come October first. Looks some like a big nor'wester headin' in. Think?"

"He looked persistently away from her, down the peaceful smiling little valley, the production of heavy apples festooned with silver cobwebs. A nor'wester!"

"She flew into her clothes, down the hill and up the lane to Mrs. Andover's. She was shouting; "soon, quickly, let's put up the storm windows!"

"You just told him I said—" "I shall tell him nothing. You're the administrator. You must come yourself."

"Well, I'll come then. If anybody thinks it's any pleasure to be the administrator for a day, that is to run good tenants out of his own house—Well, come on then."

"Not one word passed between them as they made their way up the hill along the street and up the hill along the street. John, Alice Andover began with her. "Will you kindly tell me who is the administrator of this estate?"

"John removed a rusty nail from his mouth. "You are, Alice," he said, "telling it carefully into a hole in the frame. But I'm the one that puts up the storm windows. Hand, I haven't went the last time as he spoke, Alice Andover wavered uncertainly, flushed with anger, but clung to the side of the car. "How happy you are going to be—John," she said, "you're dear to me."

CHAPTER VII

One day, toward the end of the month, when Rand had gone to the city for the early boat and was not present at the cottage, Hand, who had surrendered to his love, Gay went bravely up to the Captain's door and told him she was still too ill and weak to return to the city. She felt the part of wisdom to remain in Lone Pine through October.

"The Captain scratched the thin line of gray hair that outlined his turban and said: "I alius put up the storm windows on the summer houses come October first," he said bravely.

"Not the Lone Pine, not this year," she cried, "because the wind will be wait until November. You wouldn't shut me up behind storm windows, would you?"

"But I alius do put them up come first of October," he persisted. "Then Alice Andover breezed in, smiling good cheer, a little out of breath. "I alius put up the hill," she said. "I suppose you are off to Broadway like all our summer birds of Paradise. It is only we drab and sallow native sparrows who brave the island winds."

FOUND

Autumn's pleasure in Gay's remembrance was renewed, for she loved the girl, and Alice Andover had already asked her to remain in the Apple Tree during the winter, so she felt no disappointment on that score. "I will be nice to have my little neighbor on top of the hill," she said pleasantly. "I like the Apple Tree better anyway. It was only for the Christmas party that I came up here."

"That is the beauty of it, Hand, I shall not be tied down. This is my home, but I shall look my door and my window to the city when my mood, or my work, suggests it. I shall stay away as long as I like, and then come home again with joy."

"But when you came to love me, you will come to love this hill," she said. "I shall not be tied down. This is my home, but I shall look my door and my window to the city when my mood, or my work, suggests it. I shall stay away as long as I like, and then come home again with joy."

"I shall not be tied down. This is my home, but I shall look my door and my window to the city when my mood, or my work, suggests it. I shall stay away as long as I like, and then come home again with joy."

WINTER CLOSES BURLEY COUNTRY CLUB SEASON

First Snow Storm Futs End to Outdoor Activities at Well Improved Social Center.

BURLEY, Dec. 10.—Snow falling in the first storm of the season has put an end to outdoor activities at the Burley country club, at its 80-acre grounds a mile east of town.

The club, which has some 75 members, maintains a well laid out nine-hole golf course, and two excellent tennis courts. Snake river, bounding the grounds for half a mile, affords fishing, boating and bathing for members during the season. There are six or eight boats on a cabin cruiser, and four row boats. A large floating boat house and floating dock are part of the club's equipment.

The club house is of concrete blocks with basement and water, surrounded by a grove of large shade trees and a small orchard. Money lawn parties are held here in the summer.

Rupert people have organized a country club, which has rented grounds along the banks of the Snake river and laid out a golf course. The place has been seeded and is being improved, but while awaiting the completion of their grounds for winter, people make use of the Burley course at New Brunswick records every Thursday at Umbaugh's-Adv.

MORE SHIPS THROUGH SUEZ

PORT SAID, Dec. 10 (AP)—The net tonnage of American ships passing through the Suez canal reached 398,035 during the first six months of this year, or more than twice as much for the entire year 1919. Many of the American vessels were tankers which discharged mineral oil cargoes in India and returned in ballast, or went on to the Souda Islands and returned laden with benzine for Europe.

young shade trees this year, and seeded considerable lawn. A tractor, three section lawn mower and other machinery are part of the equipment. It is contemplated to continue the policy of improvement and a program of further beautifying the grounds is being considered for the coming year.

CEDAR DRAW GRANGERS PICK OFFICERS FOR YEAR

BUHL, Dec. 10.—The following officers have been elected to serve the coming year in Cedar Draw grange: Master, E. L. Metz; overseer, Fred Karl; lecturer, Mrs. Holmes; steward, Mrs. Blanz; chaplain, Mrs. Hicks; treasurer, Frank Popovich; secretary, Mrs. Metz; gatekeeper, Mrs. Ewing; canteen, Mrs. Karl; reporter, Mrs. Hicks; Mrs. Fred Blenz. The Cedar Draw grange will entertain the New Livestock grange December 13.

TAKEF FROM BULHRUSHES

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 10 (AP)—Aid is being sought from the Argentine government to develop paper making from bulrushes. It is reported that experiments made with rushes from the banks of the Plata, Parana, Uruguay, Pilcomayo and Bermejo rivers show that the plant contains much cellulose and it is believed this may be extracted at low cost.

SUPREME COURT GRANTS REHEARING OF RUPERT MAN'S DISBARMENT CASE

BOISE, Dec. 10 (AP)—Rehearing of the disbarment proceedings against Edward R. Dampier, Rupergrange, was granted today by the Idaho supreme court in an order which submitted certain questions to attorneys for both sides on argument for rehearing.

After Dampier had been convicted in federal court of sending obscene letters through the mail, disbarment proceedings were brought by the Idaho bar commission and the report of the disciplinary committee and commissioners recommended disbarment.

The supreme court in reviewing the case reversed the ruling of the bar commission on the ground that Dampier was convicted under federal law and was consequently not guilty of moral turpitude under Idaho laws.

THE SUPREME COURT IN REVIEWING THE CASE REVERSED THE RULING OF THE BAR COMMISSION ON THE GROUND THAT DAMPIER WAS CONVICTED UNDER FEDERAL LAW AND WAS CONSEQUENTLY NOT GUILTY OF MORAL TURPITUDE UNDER IDAHO LAWS.

A Safe and Sane Christmas

A striking example of the adjustment of an old custom to the exigencies of modern life, is the adaptation of practical, workaday articles to Christmas giving.

There was a time when a "Christmas gift" must be something with a single quality—uselessness. Today it is not even good taste to select such things.

A glance thru our store will give you many practical suggestions with hundreds of them. Even such prosaic things as kitchen towels, bath mats and pillow cases can be loved so artistically that none of the Christmas touch is lost.

Let's make this a safe and sane Christmas. Give useful things.

Idaho Dedicates Monument to Memory of Frank Steunenberg, Martyred Governor

BY BYRON DEFENBACH
On the afternoon of December 11, 1937, on a beautiful triangle of ground in front of the state capitol building in Boise, Idaho, a monument was dedicated to the memory of Frank Steunenberg, Idaho's martyred governor. Twenty-two of the youngest men who ever occupied the governor's chair in Idaho. The credit for the memorial is due to a group of patriotic citizens, prominent among whom are Ex-Governor James H. Hawley, W. A. Coughanour, Judge C. C. Cavanaugh, Frank McMillan and W. B. Heyburn.

Not alone upon his increasing age, but upon the fact that the state's history, if Steunenberg were living, he would be a few months over sixty years of age. The work occupied the governor's chair in Idaho. The credit for the memorial is due to a group of patriotic citizens, prominent among whom are Ex-Governor James H. Hawley, W. A. Coughanour, Judge C. C. Cavanaugh, Frank McMillan and W. B. Heyburn.

year. In the meantime, one Vaz Durcoran, secretary of the Idaho Legion at Boise, was placed on trial for murder. His defense was tried by the Western Justice Court in Boise. He was convicted of second degree murder, after a brilliant and dramatic trial. He was sentenced to life in prison, but was pardoned after two years.

Steunenberg's record through all these terrific tribulations shows up well. He was exposed to constant persecution and threats. Himself very much a man of the common people, he was accused of being the tool of corporate wealth and of the tyranical, corrupt and treason. He was a man singularly devoid of dramatic or spectacular incidents, but went quietly and unostentatiously along the road of his convictions, firm in his desire to uphold the dignity of the law and set off by persecution and a commonwealth. He paid for his devotion to his ideals with his life.

The country at large from 1899 to 1889 was unusually prosperous. As one reads the story of political and economic conditions in the new class of the nation, there is very little indeed to attract attention, until we come to the consideration of the series of events which surrounded the act of the second section of this article.

This famous labor outbreak was not of mushroom growth; it was rather the culmination of seven or eight years of constant agitation. As early as 1892 a pitched battle was staged in the little town of Oen, in Shoshone county, in which six men were killed and large property interests destroyed, and a steady war between the mine owners and the workers continued to be waged until it reached its climax.

In April, 1900, the miners demanded that all underground mines be safer than $30 per day, and that the mine plants be closed down, and the Bunker Hill and Sullivan announced that it would no longer employ union men.

On April 26 a large body of miners, estimated as approximately 1,000, took possession of a train, pulled a car of explosives, and set out for the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine. Many of the men were armed and masked, and among them was one Harry Orchard, known to the public as "Red."

For federal troops and sent to the scene of the trouble his personal representative, State Auditor, Sinclair, who distinguished himself by absolute fearlessness and by the accuracy of his reports to the governor. On April 26 a large body of miners, estimated as approximately 1,000, took possession of a train, pulled a car of explosives, and set out for the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine.

Two men had been killed in the riots. A thousand were arrested, and the government received a full and complete list of names of the participants in the riot.

Marital law continued for over a year. In the meantime, one Vaz Durcoran, secretary of the Idaho Legion at Boise, was placed on trial for murder. His defense was tried by the Western Justice Court in Boise. He was convicted of second degree murder, after a brilliant and dramatic trial.

He was sentenced to life in prison, but was pardoned after two years. Steunenberg's record through all these terrific tribulations shows up well. He was exposed to constant persecution and threats.

Orchard himself was brought to trial for murder in March, 1901. He pleaded guilty to the murder and was sentenced to life in prison, but was pardoned after two years. He was exposed to constant persecution and threats.

Life and Public Record of Steunenberg

Frank Steunenberg was a native of Iowa, where he was born on the eighth day of August, 1864, and in which state he was engaged in the newspaper business at two different times. He came to Idaho in 1886 and it is interesting to remember that year as practically the beginning of development in the Coeur d'Alene mining region, with whose troubles he was officially burdened and which finally caused his death.

He was a delegate to the Idaho constitutional convention in 1890, and a member of the lower house at the first session of the state legislature, but was not an especially conspicuous member of either of these bodies. In 1896 he was nominated for governor by the democratic party, endorsed by the popular vote in November, 1896 and it is interesting to remember that year as practically the beginning of development in the Coeur d'Alene mining region.

As early as 1892 a pitched battle was staged in the little town of Oen, in Shoshone county, in which six men were killed and large property interests destroyed, and a steady war between the mine owners and the workers continued to be waged until it reached its climax.

On April 26 a large body of miners, estimated as approximately 1,000, took possession of a train, pulled a car of explosives, and set out for the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine. Many of the men were armed and masked, and among them was one Harry Orchard, known to the public as "Red."

Two men had been killed in the riots. A thousand were arrested, and the government received a full and complete list of names of the participants in the riot.

Marital law continued for over a year. In the meantime, one Vaz Durcoran, secretary of the Idaho Legion at Boise, was placed on trial for murder. His defense was tried by the Western Justice Court in Boise. He was convicted of second degree murder, after a brilliant and dramatic trial.

The Assassination

Ex-Governor Steunenberg's untimely death, which was the result of a bullet fired from a street in Caldwell, Idaho, at the corner of 10 and Dearborn streets in Caldwell, Idaho, December 11, 1901, has been a subject of business just before 6 o'clock every evening to the house. On Saturday evening, December 30, as he opened his door to go to his room, a bomb exploded near his feet, from the effects of which he died 20 minutes later.

The bomb was made from an ordinary lamp of kerosene, and contained a high explosive and set off by percussion cap, which in a piece of flashings had been attached.

No one questioned the motive for this dastardly crime. Governor Frank B. Gooding, accompanied by other state officials and prominent Boise citizens, arrived in Caldwell at 9 o'clock the same night, and an intensive search for the perpetrator was set in motion. Several arrests were made, and among them was Thomas Hogan, who had lodged at the Baragon hotel two weeks before as "D."

Search of his room, No. 19, disclosed some explosive and a piece of flashings similar to that used with the bomb. Hogan was placed in solitary confinement in the penitentiary on January 15, and several days later "went to pieces." He confessed that his name was "Harry Orchard" and that, as an agent of the Western Federation of Miners, he had committed a long list of crimes, including the murder of Steunenberg.

William D. Hill, Bill Haywood, secretary of the Federation, Charles H. Moyer and George A. Pettibone were members of his official staff, and among them were Harry Orchard as forming an "inner circle" whose tool he had been for years.

Governor Hugh United States Senator Gooding maintained that the important thing was to convict the principals, and the three men above named were extracted from Colorado and placed in the penitentiary. On March 7, 1906, indictments were found against Orchard, Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone

Maine Will Restore Captured War Flags To Southern States

AUGUSTA, Dec. 10 (AP)—The wondering comment of citizens gaining acquainted with the fact that the remains of Maine's captured war flags are to be returned to the Southern States, is a source of surprise to the people here, but not to the people of the South. The flags were captured by Maine troops from regiments of South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

The originator of the plan is Charles Tibbels of Augusta. He found sentiment in the Grand Army ranks prominently agreed that in keeping the flags Maine was justifying a boast which true patriotism might well forget. He hopes that all other northern states will join, as many are doing, in returning southern battle flags and that southern states will return northern banners and then that finally a great national reunion may be held of veterans who fought on either side in the Civil War.

When the return of the battle flags was first conceived Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine took them with him to a conference for presentation to Gov. John Richards of South Carolina, but the two executives agreed that the presentation might take place at Washington with war veterans sharing in the program.

No pants large enough for him were available when the 1937 squad opened, so a special pair was ordered. The task kept the tailor busy almost all season. Meanwhile "they" remained on the sidelines until the new pants—size 52—arrived just before the Razorbacks' final game. Then he and the overcast took swerve into action.

Veteran's Departure Chagrin Postoffice

MOODYVILLE, Tex., Dec. 10 (AP)—The history of the Moodyville postoffice begins and ends with the tenure of E. M. Moody as postmaster. After serving in that capacity for 48 years in this Potawatamie county, village, which he founded, Moody has resigned at 89 to commence his eighth year of retirement of old age. He was the first postmaster of the town, and now that he is retiring the government had decided to discontinue the office with his departure from it.

GERMAN COURT WILL DECIDE ON COLOR OF GREAT MODEL'S HAIR

German Woman with Black Tresses Goes to Paris and Changes Into a Blond; Case Unique in Great Tribunals.

(By The Associated Press.) BERLIN, Dec. 10.—What was the color of her hair? The courts are now deciding the question. Mrs. Schmidt, who was engaged as a model by Meyer & Meyer, Herr Meyer I. engaged her, delighted with her coal-black hair. Then he went to Paris. Herr Meyer II, inspected the new model. "All right," was his verdict. "But the hair—it ought to be blonde."

In a week Fraulin Schmidt, re-appeared with her bob a light blonde. Meyer I. also re-appeared, from Paris, with the latest creations. He was impatient to see them on Fraulin Schmidt. "Great gun," he exclaimed in horror, "where did you get the hair? My new models were chosen for brunettes."

Fraulin Schmidt, anxious to please, returned after a lapse of eight days with hair—all that was left of it, in rainbow colors. "Impossible," cried bold Meyer. "You're fired," they added. So she sued her employers for damages for tresses sacrificed on the altar of their whims. Meyer and Meyer maintained that they never directly ordered a change in color. Moreover, they contended, she was originally neither brunette nor blonde. She was very red-headed. They won the case. Now Fraulin Schmidt is suing the beauty specialist for what he advised her to do, and what he did with her tresses.

Family Portrait at Goethe's Home BERLIN, Dec. 10.—After having been out of Germany for 43 years, the famous family portrait of Goethe's maternal ancestors were restored to the city of Frankfurt by the Italian authorities. The pictures were always bequeathed from generation to generation as family heirlooms and in time passed from Goethe's grandfather, the burgomaster of Frankfurt, Johann Wolfgang Textor, to his son, Johann Wilhelm Textor, a brother of the author.

mother, the historical "Frau-Hat." In 1884 this Textor's son took the pictures to his country estate near Paltanza on Lago Maggiore, where he died during the World war. All his possessions were promptly attached by the Italian government as alien enemy's property and the pictures sold at auction to the municipality of Paltanza, which later presented them to the town's celebrated native General Cadorna.

After years of apparently fruitless endeavors, the archbishopric of Frankfurt finally succeeded in inducing the Italian government to restore these irreplaceable Goethe heirlooms to Frankfurt, the city of the great poet's birth.

Old Settlement Found

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—A 3000 year old settlement of bronze age man, with remains pointing to human sacrifices, has been discovered at Buschnuecht, near Frankfurt on the Oder.

A scientific commission appointed by the Prussian government has been examining on the spot to investigate remains of a Slav village of the sixth century A. D., but digging deeper down, Professor Unverzagt of the Berlin Ethnological Museum and his helpers came upon far older remains which they declare to date from a time when the Slavs had not yet arrived themselves from their Indo-germanic ancestry. They are said to be the wild Thracians and Illyrians who preceded the ancient Greeks and Romans in southeastern Europe and who were afterwards partly Romanized and partly merged into other invading tribes.

Never before have Thracian remains been discovered so far north in Europe. The explorers believe that the settlement after being abandoned by its original inhabitants, laid waste for 1000 years until the Slavs came upon the scene.

Old Tree Stands in Way BERLIN, Dec. 10.—As the historical Linden tree before the Reichschloss in Potsdam is proving a serious hindrance to the city's modern traffic, an attempt will be made to transplant it to the adjoining park. The tree derived its popular name of "Blitzschiffelinde" from the fact that under its petticoats were wont to assemble to attract the attention of Frederick the Great in his study opposite, whereupon the king would come out to accept the respective petitions from the hands of each. It is considered doubtful, however, whether the tree, several hundred years old, will stand such a transplantation.

Maid of All Work

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—Justly described as the maid of all work, Berlin's fire department added another credit mark to its list of heterogeneous accomplishments when, in response to an emergency call from the westend, three fire wagons dashed up to the designated house with two oxygen containers. The P. O. signals had been sent out by a doctor who with the assistance of a colleague was performing an operation in the course of which he suddenly discovered that he did not have a sufficient supply of the reviving gas for his immediate requirements. As the lateness of the hour precluded his getting a fresh supply of oxygen elsewhere, he bestowed himself of the ever reliable fire department, which, of course, to be sure, arrived promptly on the spot with the desired article.

KAPOC FROM TREES SAMARANG, JAVA, Dec. 10.—Kapoc, filling for mattresses and life-saving appliances, is exported from Java by thousands of tons yearly. It resembles cotton, but grows in long pods on trees. Native deliver the pods when ripe to Chinese dealers, who employ women and children to remove the flow from the husks by hand. The United States paid Java $2,800,000 for 7000 pounds of kapoc last year and has increased its purchases this year.

HAND WORK-ON SUITE CALCUTTA, Dec. 10.—Labor is so cheap and so plentiful in the jute-producing regions of India that all work still is done by hand and little effort being made to introduce either modern machinery or methods. Weaving mills have abolished hand weaving, but hand spinning in jute twine still is a popular home industry. Australia is the biggest buyer of jute bags, which are used in the harvest fields, and the United States buys most of the jute cloth.

HAT FIVE-DAY JOB

CURACAO, Dec. 10.—Five days work is required to make a straw hat in this center of manufacture. An ordinary harvest hat is woven by native women in eight to 12 hours, but Uncle Sam, who buys 60 per cent of the production, is much more particular and consequently the better hats are slowly and carefully made, trimmed, washed in sulphur and bleached in the sun. They sell for about $2.50 a dozen.

FEW ERRORS IN BILLS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Modern billing and bookkeeping machines are estimated to have reduced the element of error to one bill out of every 10,000,000 mailed. Business now is looking for a billing machine that prints in four or five places at one operation without retyping or repeat printing.

MURDERERS KATE IN LIVES OF QUARTET OF OLD GERMAN PEOPLE

Five Passengers Whose Ages Totaled 384 Years Recently Go Up Into Atmosphere for New Experience Near Berlin.

(By The Associated Press) BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Five passengers whose ages totaled 384 years, recently went up into the air in a plane of the "Lufthansa," the German airways corporation, shortly celebrating a silver wedding anniversary in one of the most unique ways on record.

The silver couple were a Berlin roofer named Rindfleisch and his wife. Both were genuinely toothless, of whom Rindfleisch's aged parents, an aunt and Frau Rindfleisch's mother, came over from Leipzig to present their congratulations in person. At the festive meal which followed, the wife's airplane was introduced in the discussion.

"I would die a happy man," Rindfleisch's father exclaimed, "if I could but once try out this most modern means of transportation."

"So would I," chimed in his wife. "We too," echoed the mother-in-law and the aunt.

Frau Rindfleisch said nothing, but the next day, when his relatives were ready to start back for Leipzig, drove them, instead of to the railway station, to the Tempelhof airfield.

Here an aeroplane of the Lufthansa stood ready for them, and a few minutes later the silver bridegroom and his four guests had disappeared in the clouds.

WHY A SCIENTIST IS NEVER SEEN AT PLAY

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10 (AP)—When big business or professional men meet, an elaborate program of entertainment is usually prepared. But no such program is being arranged for the meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Nashville. The commonly accepted forms of convention entertainments are not being considered. The reason the scientist does not demand such diversion is explained by Dr. Burton E. Livingston, the secretary.

"The scientist often works in the sense that other folks regard work; he is always playing, doing what he most wants to do. And his calling—whether it is designated work or play—frequently takes him into fields where other men go for recreation. If he goes fishing, he is likely to be studying fish. If he takes to the woods with a gun, he is likely to find scientific interest in his game, and in the flowers and trees and the soil and rocks. Whatever he does, the chances are, he wants to do it, and it has something to do with science."

EVERY TWENTY-FIFTH FRENCHMAN OVER 25 YEARS OLD HAS DECORATION

France Authorizes Citizens to Accept Army of 215 Foreign Orders; Movement on Foot to Create One Additional Title.

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—Every twenty-fifth Frenchman of voting age has a decoration. There are 80 varieties in France and there are half a million of them. France also authorizes her citizens to accept any of 215 foreign orders.

This rather bears out the humorous definition of a Frenchman as "A decorated gentleman who asks for more."

And, there is a movement afoot to create another title to a be-ribboned gentleman. It is proposed to have an "Order of Municipal Merit" to be given mayors and other city officials for less services or more. It is considered a complete solution, but many apparently successful experiments are said to promise that eventually there will be found one or more suitable devices that may entirely free France from "foreign tribute," as is called "the necessity for importing medals."

Urges 8-Hour Day for Horses

PARIS, Dec. 10 (AP)—An eight hour day and one day off a week for horses is the starting point of a "Animal's Rights" League.

Cornet Player Leaves

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—First to accept a set of false teeth from his broad musicians and then to organize a competitive brass band in a neighboring town, was described as an ungrateful and low down trick on the part of the offending instrumentalist, which led to a lawsuit that was duly played up by the provincial papers of Berlin.

On the right bank of the Tyru river nestles the small town of Jandelsbich, which boasts of a full brass band which had a first class cornetist. But as this second Oltmore, unfortunately lacked the requisite teeth for his wind instrument, the other musicians clipped in and bought him a new set of gleaming ivory.

In the course of the ensuing divergences of opinion, however, the cornetist resigned and with his instrument and teeth migrated to the neighboring town of Trautenstein, there to start another orchestra that "was better than popular at the time."

The Jandelsbich brass band refused to hand back the artificial masticators "given him to play the cornet," and a lawsuit became the property of the recipient for life."

Grandson of Bismarck Gets Post

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—Prince Otto von Bismarck, grandson of the Iron Chancellor, who half a year ago resigned his seat as German nationalist member of the Reichstag in order to enter the diplomatic service, has been given his first foreign post. He has been appointed secretary of legation at Stockholm. During the summer he passed the civil service examination for this position.

Just before resigning from the Reichstag, the young prince, who has been in America repeatedly, expressed his hope to the Associated Press that he might be assigned to duty at Washington. It is understood, however, that there is no opening at the embassy in Washington for the present.

Tune and Not Noise Necessary

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—"Modern music is as dangerous as cocaine," Pietro the composer of the "Cavalleria Rusticana," said in an interview here recently. "I am not hostile to modernity," he explained, "but I do oppose stonality. Music must be tune and not noise."

"The youth of today really knows nothing of classical music, of the beauty of symphonic beauty. Their sense of hearing has been corrupted by jazz," the master added.

Management conducted for several radio concerts and phonograph records while here. He complained that his duties as conductor leave him no time for composition.

Replying to the rumors that he had given over to operetta composition he said, "The text of 'Zarewitsch' was laid before me but, as you know, that became a Lohr opera and not a Wagner score."

The master voiced his displeasure at the combination of his "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" into a single evening's performance. "Years ago," he said, "I composed a one-act opera to be played at Cavalleria, but my publishers and opera house managers frustrated my intention and refused to alter their traditional practice which unites two widely different compositions into a single program."

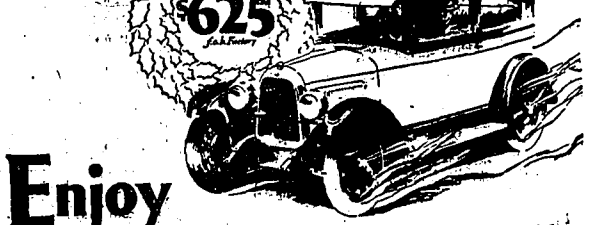

Uhlans Lose Lances

BERLIN, Dec. 10 (AP)—The historical German uhlans with their formidable lances have been definitely relegated to the past by the latest edict of the chief military command eliminating the lance from the future cavalry equipment.

Originally, uhlans were the only cavalry body equipped with this weapon, which, however, in 1880 was introduced in all German cavalry regiments, which frequently led to the erroneous appellation of "uhlans" for German cavalry of any description.

The present edict was inspired by the wish to alleviate the more versatile drilling of cavalry and, in the exclusion of the cumbersome lance, to increase that body's firing efficiency in battle.

MODERN SHERLOCK HOLMES HAS BECOME BIT CARELESS IN ATTIRE; JUNIORS CHECKING FORCE

Modern Sherlock Holmes has become bit careless in attire, say best dressed of England; Juniors' Checking Force

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Dec. 10.—The modern Sherlock Holmes has become a bit careless in his attire, says London's best dressed when he appears in an evening costume, it has been discovered, he wears a hand-me-down white

Twenty of Scotland Yard's crack detectives rode to the night club, Chase Vintages early the other evening, and fled into the place in twos and threes while merry-making was at its height. All wore swallow tails.

Instead of dancing, the detectives blew a police whistle, and began taking a census of those present, the One Victor proprietor having been suspected of serving alcoholic drinks out of hours.

But young bloods present engaged themselves in checking up on the dress of the detective while they were being checked for their own police headquarters. It was concluded that the 20 detectives who took part in the raid all wore swallow ties which society has frowned upon from the first.

In Liquor Business LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—England awoke with a start the other day when it realized that a member of the royal family is actually connected with the liquor business.

The dealer who has often been entertained at Buckingham palace, is the new Lord Cambridge, Queen Mary's nephew.

Young Lord Cambridge takes an active interest in the wine business in which his father bought him a number of shares several years ago.

He makes his home at the family estate in Shrewsbury, but often comes to London where he is very well known in society.

The late Lord Cambridge, a brother of the Queen, in 1916 was a personal aide de camp to King George and at the time of his death held the post of governor and commander of Windsor Castle, official residence of the king and queen.

He set a precedent for his son as he held the distinction of being the first member of the royal family to become interested in a business firm as had for years been a shareholder in a famous London dressmaker's shop.

Wakes Bus "Sleepers" LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An all-night "sleeper" bus is run on the Liverpool street to Crickwell route but the owners don't know it is used, for that purpose.

The bus carries a number of night-walkers in their homes and Conductor Bob Hurford knows them as well as they know him.

The passengers promptly go to sleep on paying their fares and conductor Bob does the rest. At the regular stopping place Bob halts the bus, wakes up the passengers and helps him off.

Other passengers are picked up on the way but Bob is most interested in his "regulars" and never takes them past their stopping place.

Fitting New Mayor Job LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Borough council throughout England has a problem every November to make the mayor's robe and hat fit the new holder of office for the succeeding 12 months.

This year there seems to have been more problems than usual, for outgrowths have been on the short side and as the newly elected mayors are correspondingly bigger a lengthening process of the robe has been required. With regard to the hat, no alteration is possible and the new mayor has to buy his own if his predecessor does not fit.

When a short mayor succeeds a big one, there is little difficulty about the robe, as "tucks" can easily be put in, but the lengthening process is more expensive because of the purchase of additional ermine or silk.

Some boroughs were so tight-fisted enough to purchase a robe big enough for any ordinary man. The Chelsea mayoralty robe has been worn by successive mayors since 1900, the Cardiff robe is 20 years old and the Holborn mayoralty robe dates back to the beginning of the present century. They have been altered many times to suit successive wearers.

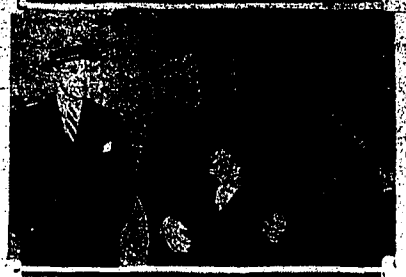

Brandy Faking Growing LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Brandy taking in England has become such a profitable business that the bootleg dealers has been filled to overflowing.

There are some 9000 firms and individuals engaged in the fake brandy business, who ever companies selling genuine vintage brands have opened a campaign against the fakers as they are eye opener to the public. The swindlers are becoming altogether too bold and too plentiful, say the old firm representatives, and have been printing their own labels and even making their own bottles after designs of bottles of many years ago.

Victims of the night clubs are the chief victims of the brandy fakers, and it is contended that the bootleggers with scot, the labels muddled up with dirt in various ways to give the appearance of age, and the brandy therefore, costing perhaps 10 shillings a gallon, sells for two pounds or more.

There is a serious label problem, and it is suggested that the authorities should be asked to order the

Noted Author's Kin Phonetically Named

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A revival of conjecture regarding the fate of Ambrose Bierce, noted American author, recalled to friends that all the children of the Bierce family were phonetically named.

Ambrose Bierce disappeared in 1913, and is now believed to have been killed after being driven out of Villa's camp in Mexico.

He had nine brothers and sisters, whose names were Abigail, Addison, Aurelius, Amelia, Ann, Augustus, Andrew, Almada and Albert.

Ambrose Bierce was born here, the son of Marcus Aurelius Bierce, who moved to Elkhart, Ind., when the author was a child. Addison followed Ambrose to the Pacific coast, and died there while the rest of the family stayed in Indiana, except Abigail, who died as a missionary in Africa.

Watch Women for Politicians LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Suggestion that men imitate their womenfolk was made by Lord Dawson of Penn, the King's physician, in a speech at the Royal Society of Arts.

One of the best things we can do to imitate our women folk, he said, "for not only have they added to the gladness of life by the beauty of their dress, but a number of women have improved their physique out of all proportion to us males.

Also another point worth noting is that it takes the modern girl far less time to dress and undress than it does the modern man. What would the Victorians have thought of condition like that?"

Lord Dawson said he thought of anything which gladdens the heart and makes life healthful and cheerful, he could not completely condemn alcohol "for it too plays its part of gladdening the human heart."

LONDON'S COCKTAIL

BARBICOLTS FAMED CHIEF OF CONTINENT

Cigarettes Ruin the Palate, Says Noted French Cook; He Drinks Sherry Before Meals, Approves English Custom.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Cocktails ruin the palate. So do cigarettes, Minister, Francois Carton, president of the Society of Cooks of Paris and famous French artist of the kitchen who accompanied him to England to attend the Food and Cookery Exhibition, were shocked at the suggestion that they take cocktails before their meals and smoke between the courses.

The beauty of true food is lost to one who drinks cocktails, and smoking before the coffee and brandy arrive is a crime against good cooking," declared the excitable Frenchman.

Mr. Carton drank sherry before his meals, in this he approved of the English custom. But he was horrified at the use of the American cocktail which has become so general in England.
