GRADUALLY BUT SURELY the matter of farm river moves forward. The House committee on agriculture will hold executive sessions on the subject beginning early in March.

Probably the new bill will not get very far away from the McNary-Haugen measure in principle. It seems to be generally recognized that control of surplus products must in some form be provided for.

There is no means of guessing what the effect of such a measure will be. In the benefit to the wheatgrower, for instance, amounts to a reasonable guarantee that he will receive twenty-five per cent more for his product than he now receives there is nothing to prevent every wheatgrower from doubling his acreage, in which event one of two things happens.

As a major premise anyone will admit that agriculture, except in a few favored sections, is not the prospective occupation it used to be but whether or not measures can be restored by resorting to artificial means to raise the price on a world market, remains to be seen.

Such reduction would be a fine thing. The rate now is too high to interest the general public. It is only an occasional letter that is important enough to justify the extra twenty cents it costs to send by airplane.

CORN TAKES LEAD IN ADVANCES ON MARKET

Unexpected Decrease of Corn Visible—Supply Largely Responsible; Oats Show Advance

Today's general advance of grain values an unexpected decrease of the corn visible supply largely responsible, and to some extent assertions that corn supplies official estimates of farm reserves both of corn and wheat.

Temporary Downward Trend Arrival of 910 cars of corn in Chicago today have a temporary downward trend to the corn market in the earlier quarters, however, that today's big receipts are the last heavy move of the crop and are rapidly toward the last.

Wheat values were lifted chiefly on bullish forecasts of March unofficial estimates of 1928 receipts. The advance was also helped by good domestic milling prospects together with a decline in the Central West.

Oats displayed more independent movement than in the earlier quarters. Cash oats were in exceptionally good request. Provisions were firmer, sympathizing with hog values.

There were no new developments on the week-end to indicate that the movement, although commission house comment indicated that considerable uneasiness still existed over the brokers' loan and industrial unemployment situations. The slow pick-up in general business also had a rather depressing effect on speculative trading.

Call money appeared to be in volume, but the daily sales falling below 2,000,000 shares.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE FINANCIAL PROBLEM PUT UP TO COUNCIL

Chamber of Commerce Represents for Appropriation to Retain Federal Agent.

Twin Falls city council last week considered a proposition to raise the fee for plane bills to $4 a night and to increase the fee for the night porter hire the special pull-out and matron; discussed the proposed raising of the minimum wage change from $1 to $1.25 a week; and the proposal submitted by Secretary, Newell S. Wright and Harry Bonick representing the chamber of commerce, for a permanent federal employment agent, and transferred the business.

Employment Situation
Secretary Wright told about the same situation of the employment bureau last week, during the time that Charles L. Hunt presented the federal bureau here. He said a letter from Francis I. Jones, head of the employment bureau of the department of labor, saying that the funds of the department were not sufficient to cover every instance where a bureau was made permanent it was necessary for either the city or the connected organization of both to assist. Mr. Wright said that Asher D. Wilson, president of the chamber, had suggested that the city should contribute something like $100 a quarter, if it might be possible, with the aid of the chamber of commerce, to set an employment office here. The office of the secretary is continuing its work in this field.

Director Jones said in his letter that it was a two-man job, but if one were here permanently, it would mean a great deal. Mr. Bennett followed up on the matter. He said that Captain Sweeley, city attorney, agreed with him that the city might under the law, pay $25 a month in an employment agent.

It had done so for some time but abandoned the practice several years ago. Captain Sweeley agreed with him that the city council should consider the plan and have its opinion as to whether it would fund it. The council has not yet taken any action. Individual members expressed sympathy with the idea but said the council had no power to put it in the budget.

The increase in the water rate minimum would increase the street department revenues about $22,000. It was stated by Commissioner W. A. Chapin. It was estimated that considering the present $2,000 increase would be needed next year. The correct legal way, according to the city attorney, to raise this is through an increase in the rates of the utility operated by the city. If not so raised it would mean an increase in taxes. This maintenance amount of water delivered will, at the same time, be increased 2000 gallons. It was pointed out that fire-gallons that 42 per cent of the water used in Twin Falls is for necessary flushing of sewers in winter all get the benefit.

Dance Hall Plan
R. E. Leighton, chief of police, laid the question of dance hall regulation before the council. He declared that dance hall proprietors were complying with the ordinance requiring employment of special officers and matrons, but asserted that the system would operate as usual. In some cases if the person occupying the positions were appointed directly by the city and looked to the police instead of their employers for their places and salaries. He said it would work no financial hardship on the dance hall proprietors, since they said the employees, anyhow. The matter was submitted to Captain E. M. Sweeley, city attorney.

This agreement of $100.13 were allowed of which $10.00 was for state insurance fund; $200.72 on an estimate of William Harkins for special improvement district No. 56 and the balance for small general fund obligations.
