FLOOD CONTROL ACTS SOLONS' ATTENTION

House and Senate Receive Conference Report Action Is Deferred to Short Period

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Both the house and senate today received the conference report on the Mississippi river flood control bill as passed yesterday, but action on it was deferred.

In presenting the report in the house, Chairman Robert La Follette, said he would call up the report tomorrow after it had been printed for the information of the membership.

Since the senate managers accepted yesterday all of the house amendments with only slight modifications in some instances, he anticipated little delay in approval.

In presenting the report to the senate, Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, author of the bill and chairman of the conference, explained that the house would act first and that he probably would not ask for senate action until next week.

Large serious objection to the house changes has developed in the senate thus far, and Senator Jones is hopeful that the measure as finally written by the president before the end of next week. Mr. Coolidge there would have 10 days for study and final decision on the bill, some features of which are known to be objectionable to him.

Proponents of the legislation are hopeful, however, that these provisions will not prove an insurmountable barrier to presidential approval.

In his final form the measure authorizes appropriations aggregating $220,000,000 for carrying on the general flood control project on the lower part of the Mississippi from Cape Girardeau, Missouri, to the head of the passes, south of New Orleans.

His never-fading interest in his students while they attended the institution and after they left it, caused him often to be called "the best loved college professor in America."

Dr. Smith methodically made up lecture notes for his students and former students at Christmas time each year. The mailing list grew with each succeeding class, but he always managed to find time to see that the letters were sent and appeared to him as a duty to be done.

As a chemist, he made important contributions to electrolytic methods of analysis and atomic weight determination. He was a member of the National Academy of Sciences, was president of the American Chemical Society in 1921 and 1922 and of the American Philosophical Society, 1922 to 1923.

President Harding appointed him to the board of technical advisors of the disamenagement conference held in Washington in 1918. He was made an officer of the Legion of Honor by France in 1922.

METHODIST MEETING PROGRESSES RAPIDLY

Quadrennial Conference of Methodist Episcopal Church Plans for Trial of Bishop

KANSAS CITY, May 3 (AP)—The organization perfected and vocalized in the Methodist Episcopal church quadrennial conference referred to the 10 standing committees of the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today squared away for the trial of Bishop Anton Bast, Copenhagen, on charges of conduct unbecoming a minister.

Chairmen of the standing committees and Secretary R. J. Wade expected to bring the conference to a close tomorrow night of the 17 ministers whom they have chosen to sit on an ecclesiastical committee.

The conference will clear up the preliminary and Secretary Wade said Bishop Bast would face the tribunal.

Suspended in 1922 Bishop Bast was suspended from his area by the church tribunal at The Hague, following conviction and a three months jail term in Copenhagen on a charge involving alleged misuse of church funds.

A clear division of sentiment was apparent among the 676 conference delegates. Resolutions were read from the camp opposed to Bishop Bast. Charges may be filed against Bishop Edgar Bast, and John L. Nielsen, Zurich, on allegations amounting virtually to collusion to defend the Copenhagen Bishop.

Both men are avowed friends of Bishop Bast, and have had supervision over his area since his suspension.

His 1927 report to the conference sounded a ringing defense and praise of Bishop Bast, and bitterly censured the Rev. John P. Ingleslev, deceased pastor of the Jerusalem Methodist church, of Copenhagen, who was expelled by a church tribunal for testifying in a civil suit against his superior.

Mr. Ingleslev, who later saved the church from bankruptcy, owned $100,000 in a Danish church stock, is said to be en route to Kansas City to defend his position and to carry on the

The final trial will be held behind closed doors. There have been indications, however, that an effort will be made to get the case on the conference floor for a thorough airing regardless of the verdict of the church court.

The western Republican independents, gave a ringing of one-rod-for-wild-heresies the cause of the bill which he inquired about the intelligence tax. Senator Smith explained that the bill called for no change in this tax but said he understood an attempt would be made to raise it.

The Idaho made no reply but it is no secret that the western group is ready to fight to the finish against this tax. Democrats likewise are divided on this point.

Otherwise a straight-away battle between Republicans and Democrats as to whether the bill should produce $200,000,000 or a $100,000,000 reduction is impending with an early decision in prospect.

Action of Congress To Save Ducks From Death Gets Comment

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—Passage by congress of a bill appropriating $350,000 to flood alkali marshes along the Great Salt Lake to save wild ducks from death has attracted attention.

This bill makes the federal government the owner of the alkali marshes along the Great Salt Lake. It also provides for the construction of a drainage system to drain about six feet of water from the lake during the summer irrigation season.

During the past decade from ten to fifteen millions of wild ducks have died of alkali poisoning in the West. The bill provides for the construction of a drainage system to drain about six feet of water from the lake during the summer irrigation season.

The funds will be used in constructing the dikes to keep the alkali waters of Great Salt Lake from backing up into the River marsh, and to hold the fresh water in the lowlands.

AUTOMOBILE TITLE LAW IN OPERATION

Secretary of State Announces Transfers in Future Will Not Require Certificate

BOISE, May 3.—All work incident to getting the new certificate of title law in operation has now been completed. It is announced by Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, and in the future transfers of cars may not be made without a certificate of title. This feature of the law has not been enforced while the work of installing the new law was in progress but the department is now caught up with all work and there is no delay in issuing title for all applicants.

Dealers are urged to require title to be used cars now in their possession so that when a sale is made they will be able to give title to the new owner. In the case of new cars dealers are presumed to own them without a certificate so that the first owner will make application to the secretary of state for the certificate.

The department has issued title to approximately 80,000 cars in the past three months and the secretary of state has high compliment to Idaho's dealers for their cooperation in handling the work.

Anti-Theft Move Next

The secretary of state will be to put the anti-theft feature of the law into operation. All sheriffs are required to send in reports of stolen cars. Each month the department compiles these into a report which is furnished to sheriffs and the police.

The law also requires that all cars registered in the state be inspected at least once in three months when the car is being operated on the highway. The "inspect" is the small sheet of paper, about three by four inches, furnished each car owner by the secretary of state. Its purpose in the car is for immediate identification in case of accident or theft of the car.

Accident Records Privileged

Under the law the department is required to furnish all sheriffs with accident report blanks. These have already been sent and are for the use of individuals reporting an accident. After sometime was limited or property damage exceeded $50. Mr. Lukens wants it clearly understood that the only purpose of this report is statistical and the information will be used only to promote highway safety.

The law definitely states that such reports are not even public record and cannot be used as evidence in a court action to establish claims of liability.

WINS FIRST ROUND AGAINST WYOMING'S TAX ON RESERVOIR

Federal Court at Cheyenne grants Twin Falls company motion for temporary restraining order.

Twin Falls Canal company won the first round of a fight in federal district court at Cheyenne when the court granted a temporary restraining order prohibiting Wyoming state tax officials and Teton county from attempting to levy or collect taxes on water stored in Jackson Lake reservoir for water users of Idaho.

Word to this effect was received here last evening in a message from Judge J. B. Botwell, attorney for the Twin Falls company, who now is in Cheyenne.

The temporary restraining order is to remain in effect pending trial of the case on its merits which, Judge Botwell advised, is to take place sometime before next June 10.

Call for Tribunal Because the constitutionality of a Wyoming statute is involved in the case, Judge Botwell for the company asked that the constitutional question be tried before a tribunal of three federal judges and his recommendation was accepted.

The court refused from the bench the application of the North Side Canal company for an order holding the officers of Teton county in contempt of a former decree, and also refused to modify the former decree in conformity to the North Side company's petition.

Big Stake Involved The case now before the court involves claims of the Wyoming officials to taxes amounting to several hundred dollars on water stored in Jackson Lake for equibran rights.

New key-opened coffee can!

—with entirely new and

different features

The key is embedded in a patented key-groove that protects it from loss in transit and enables you to grasp it easily and to remove it with two fingers.

The lid fits inside the top of the can. It is not necessary to span the can with the hand to pull off the lid. Simply place both thumbs under the edge of the lid and exert a slight lifting pressure—the lid will open easily.

M. J. B Coffee is now packed in a key-opened vacuum can. More important still, it is packed in an entirely new type of key-opened vacuum can with striking new features.

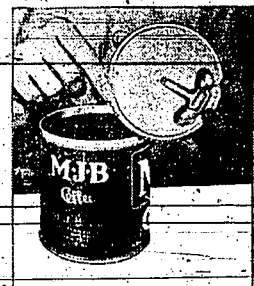

The new M. J. B key-opened vacuum can is entirely devoid of sharp or rough edges, insuring you against cutting your fingers.

The new M. J. B key-opened vacuum can has a tight cover that fits inside the body of the can, making an exceptionally tight seal to keep the coffee fresh after the can has been opened.

For some time, we have packed M. J. B Coffee by our own patented vacuum process adopted because of its overwhelming supremacy in producing the highest and most uniform vacuum commercially attainable. This process brings the coffee to your kitchen as fresh as the minute it was roasted. And now, better to preserve the coffee after you have opened the can, we have developed this key-can with a cover that can be replaced to make a tight seal.

M. J. B Coffee is blended of only the world's finest full-bodied coffees and has been known for years for its unquestioned superiority of flavor. It is characteristic of this flavor that it is always in the cup, whether you drink M. J. B mild, medium, or strong.

Try this marvelous blend today and note how your whole family enjoys its satisfying flavor.

There are no rough edges anywhere on the M. J. B can to cut your fingers. Both the edge of the can and the edge of the lid are rolled into smooth surfaces. No matter how you grasp them or how hard you press or rub your fingers against them, there is nothing to cut or annoy you. Most women will find this the greatest feature of all.

Because the lid fits inside the can, it is easily replaced. More important still, the new type of top makes a tight seal. This protects the coffee after the can has been opened and keeps it fresh to the last spoon-full.

Now available in one-pound size. Other sizes later.

WEATHER CONDITIONS FAVOR WORK ON FARM

Fruit trees in bloom in early sections of Southwest Idaho. Situation promising.

Farm work throughout southwestern Idaho has advanced under favorable conditions and good progress was made, according to weekly summary of weather and crop conditions, issued by the Boise office of the agricultural bureau last Wednesday. Fruit trees are in full bloom in all the early sections and conditions are considered very promising. Early seeded spring grain is coming up to good extent. Pastures and meadows made some improvement and are more plentiful. Beet planting is pretty well along and early potatoes are planted in some localities.

Weather conditions during the week were more favorable for the advance of vegetation. There was considerable rain in the afternoon and temperature were mostly above normal in this district. Frost occurred but was not severe in the mountains. Soil moisture was rapidly depleted, causing a heavy demand for irrigation water in some sections.

In Southeast Idaho, the week has been favorable and farm work is making fine progress. Winter wheat is fair to good, but some winter killing is reported. Spring wheat, oats and beans are being sown. Potato planting is well started in some sections. Peas are being planted in the seed section at Alpha and going to the hills. Ranges are improving, but no rain. Cattle and sheep will go on forest ranges in North Idaho and the moderate growth of vegetation. Sunshine was ample and the absence of precipitation except showers Friday night and Saturday, allowed the soil to dry so that plowing and the setting of spring rains will be under way over most of the district. There were some warm days, but temperatures were not excessive. No frost occurred in the fruit districts. Pull down wheat looks exceptionally well and pastures have a rapid growth. The warm days followed by the showers at the close of the week benefited gardens.
