POWER DEVELOPMENT VIEWED AS FACTOR IN IDAHO'S PROGRESS

Officers and Directors of Company on Inspection Tour Meet Local People as Guests of Division Manager.

Directors of the Idaho Power company... Mr. Putnam... Mr. Putnam... Mr. Putnam...

Organization of the Idaho Power company has been built up with view to furnishing the largest possible measure of service at the least cost.

Since the first of this year, Mr. Putnam said, the company has invested one and three-quarter million dollars in rural electrification program that has increased the number of rural customers by 1100 to a total of 6300.

Indicating a continuing policy of rate reduction, Mr. Putnam pointed out that the average rate now received by the Idaho Power company is less than two-thirds of the average rate for which electricity is sold throughout the United States.

Next to the payroll, Mr. Putnam said, taxes constitute the power company's heaviest item of expenditure.

Development of the company's customer-ownership policy was indicated by Mr. Putnam when he stated that the company had on last June 1-1-284 stockholder members.

Expansion About Twin Falls... Mr. Orr stated, "We expect to have invested this year more than $250,000 in the extension program in this division, and next year we hope to make electrical service available to every farm in the territory."

Mr. Bobler expressed appreciation of reduction in municipal power rates that he said, had effected a saving of $1400 a year in Twin Falls street lighting bill.

"The father of hatred is fear; the father of suspicion is fear; the father of suspicion is ignorance," Dr. Wirt asserted. "These elements form a row of bricks—touch one and they all topple."

Public Opinion Vital "Crystallization of public opinion into a demand for a substitute for war as a means of settling the differences of nations is the aim of the National Council for Prevention of War," Dr. Wirt explained.

LAWYERS CONCLUDE CONCLAVE HERE WITH BANQUET MEETING

Western Division Convention Convened for Higher Pay for Judges and Authorized-Publicity for Bar Association.

With a banquet at the Park hotel, last evening the Western division of the Idaho Bar association closed its annual session here after two days during which many topics of interest to lawyers and judges were considered.

The regular addresses and reports yesterday consisted of a talk on Idaho abstracts by D. L. Rhodes of Nampa; the annual report of the committee reports led by Judge Dana E. Brinck of Boise and a paper on defects of Idaho corporations read by Samuel S. Griffen, secretary of the Idaho State Bar association.

Musical numbers included two piano solos by Miss Charlotte Vogel and two vocal solos by Mrs. F. S. Bell for whom the accompaniment was played by Mrs. P. Duval. Chief Justice William E. Lee and Justices Raymond-Olvens and Herman Taylor of the supreme court and D. S. V. D. and D. S. V. D. were present at the meetings during the day and took part in consideration of different subjects.

Adopted Resolutions Resolutions were adopted at the closing of the convention amending statutes to provide for increased salaries for justices of the supreme court and district judges, and a suggestion that the state commission appoint a publicity committee and preparing a code of ethics for the bar.

Dismiss Salary Raise The question of a raise in salary for the judges created a long discussion, mostly favorable to the bar. Savelly raised the issue, by pointing out that an explanation might be needed by the public, especially in view of the endorsement given the address of Henry Z. Johnson, Tuesday regarding growing public expense.

Work of Judges Judge William M. Morgan, former chief justice, took the range view. He said that the duties of a supreme judge are contained in charts requiring intense application. During the first two years supreme court justices, in spite of the most strenuous efforts, usually made many errors which they regretted. At least he said, that was true in his case. They improve with experience and the bar is indebted to keep them on the bench where their services were satisfactory. He was poorer when he left the bench than when he went to court to borrow money from one banker to pay what he owed to another. Judge Albin told him that after 12 years on the supreme bench he found himself in debt in the sum of $10,000 though he owed nothing when he went on. Turner H. Beckman said that during the last century of public life, beginning when a mere boy had taught him that the public appreciated the necessity for proper pay for public servants, especially judges. C. A. North spoke on the same vein. Senator Sweeney said he had raised the question to get James H. Harris, which was endorsed unanimously.

Want Better Understanding A proposal that judges of the supreme court and district judges attend meetings of the bar association and hold a judicial meeting the day before the opening of the session was adopted without opposition. This was also the case with reference to the plans of appointing a member of the advisory committee in each county to arouse interest in the meeting and provoke discussion of matters of interest to the bench and bar.

Intensive Short Course The daily demonstration train will be an intensive short course in dairying, prepared by the university experiment station and university extension division from extensive studies in all phases of dairying. Two states are being included, including 12 to 15 head of the best breed of cattle in the state will illustrate points in production and type.

Publicity Committee Proposed The publicity committee proposal was adopted. It is the purpose of the committee to know its scope. Chairman Hawley said that a committee would have no authority to bind the association and it was necessary to have the approval of the association.

University Offers Aid to Farmers of Idaho Recommendations for the eradication of insect pests and plant diseases are contained in charts recently compiled by the University of Idaho for distribution through its extension division services at Boise and elsewhere. The charts will be sent to every farmer, orchard or stock raiser who will write for this information.

SUPREME COURT HOLDS DEPOSIT NOT SPECIAL

Reversal of the decision of the Cassia county case of the Pacific Savings and Loan company against the Commercial State bank and E. W. Fitch by the supreme court was received here yesterday. Stephen and North are attorneys for the bank and commissioners in favor of which decision was rendered by the supreme court.

The bank closed its doors with $300,000 owned by the Pacific company on deposit. The company claimed that it was in the nature of a special deposit and that the total amount should be returned instead of a pro rata parley with other depositors. Judge T. Bailley decided in favor of the company. He disqualified as a member of the supreme court when the case was appealed. Three members reversed the decision, while Justice Alfred Judge filed a dissenting opinion in favor of upholding the opinion of the lower court.

CITY WEIGHING STATION TO HAVE LARGER SCALES

Workmen are busy removing the old concrete base of the city scales in preparation for the installation of a new weighing instrument of a considerably larger capacity. The old scales could handle loads of eight tons and less and had a platform measuring 6 by 24 feet. The new scales will have a platform 9 by 24 feet, and will have a capacity of 20 tons.

You had never heard of that particular brand, but you had the utmost confidence in him and took him at his word. You opened the can and found it contained a very inferior product. You were keenly disappointed, your confidence in your grocer weakened considerably, didn't it? You decided you would never accept his judgment again. NOMINEE AT HOME—When the Democratic national convention concluded the business of nominating candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the choice of the delegates for second position on the ticket, left with Mrs. Robinson for their home in the Rock, Ark. They're shown above in the plum orchard in the rear of their pretty home at No. 1900 Marshall Street.

AUSTRALIAN SMACK—That's what greeted Capt. Sir George Wilkins, famous North Pole flier, when he arrived in New York with Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, U. S. A. The pretty girl shown rewarding the hero is Miss Suzanne Bennett, herself a native of Australia.

HAIL BREMEN FLIERS—Here are only a few of the airplanes which participated in a sky parade in honor of Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, Capt. Koehl and Maj. James Fitzmaurice as their ship docked at Bremen. The "three musketeers" of the air now plan a tour of Germany before separating.

STUNNING CREATION—Miss Grace Brinkley is a charming picture in this gown which combines the transparent rayon-velvet in the skirt with a silver brocade bodice. Shimmering rayon chiffon is used for the long shoulder wrap that falls to the wrists and is caught there by a jeweled band.

TENNIS FINALIST—Here is a good-action shot of Ben Gorchakoff, of Occidental, who defeated Berkeley Bell, of Texas, in the semi-final round of the Intercollegiate Tennis Championship. He will meet Julius Seligson, of Lehigh, in the final round.

FLYING DOCTOR—Dr. Elizabeth W. Neil is pictured in the cockpit of the plane in which she plans to fly across the continent from San Francisco to Charleston, S. C. Her itinerary includes El Paso, Tex.; New Orleans, and Jackson, Miss.

REACHES FINALS—They used to refer to 'em as representatives of the "weaker sex," but that's hardly a good description of Gladys Coleman, of Harrisburg, Pa., who has shot her way into the finals of the marbles championship tournament at Atlantic City. John Selzer, of Pittsburgh, another semi-finalist, is pictured with Gladys.

FAVORITE PASTIME—Since Bebe Daniels moved into her Summer home at Santa Monica she may be found almost any afternoon when she isn't working riding in on the crest of one of the Pacific's best billows. The little star is quite an expert at surf-planting.

OLYMPIC CONTENTERS—They're a formidable appearing aggregation and the members of the University of California crew, pictured above in their shell in the Schuykill River ready for their first workout in preparation for the Olympic rowing trials. The men are: 1. Fredrick, No. 3; Thompson, No. 4; Daily, No. 5; Brinkley, No. 6; Caldwell, No. 7; Donlin, stroke, and Blessing, coxswain.

SITUATION OF RETAIL TRADE COMES IN FOR DADSON'S ATTENTION

"Statistics Show One-Third of Independent Stores Are Unprofitable." According to Massachusetts Authority.

(Special to The News) DADSON-PARK, Mass., July 12.—"Statistics show that one-third of the independent retail stores are unprofitable, according to a survey made last year. Moreover, one-half of all independent retailers are doing only 5 per cent of the total business. Ninety five per cent of all independent stores are done by 54 per cent of the stores. Whether the great chain systems come into existence or not, it is bound to be a big housecleaning in the retail field. Chain competition has simply speeded up the weeding out process. I am convinced that there is no room for the efficient independent retailer in the distribution system, and there always will be. I, however, do not believe that we are always going to lose 30 per cent more retail stores than there is need for. Economic law will surely eliminate them."

"No Use for Abuse
"There is no use in abusing the chain store. That doesn't help the independent any. Doubtless there are some unfortunates who are being run out of business just as there are among the independent retailers and in other lines of business. But the chain store idea is a fair one and is not playing fair. Moreover, the chain store is not successful because of such men but in spite of them. The rank and file are succeeding because of the following reasons:—merchandise, advertising, policies. That is why, for instance, the chain stores are doing 30 per cent of the total business while the independent stores are doing only 5 per cent of the total business. It is the reason why the chain stores are doing 27 per cent of the total business and the independent stores are doing only 5 per cent of the total business. It is why they are doing 33 per cent of all the eggs and 21 per cent of the total stores. Similar figures can be shown for other lines."

System Can Be Extended
"It seems to me that independent retailers could make use of the ticket idea. So far, only a relatively small number of independent retailers are using it. I mean that the grocer, for example, would sell his customers books of tickets in advance. The tickets would be good for purchases of groceries. The grocer would be operated so that both the customer and the grocer would greatly benefit. The customer, for instance, would get 10 per cent off on all his groceries for $10 and the grocer would get cash in advance with no billing costs, bad debts, or other losses. I believe the average grocer could be induced to buy these tickets steadily for the following reasons:
(1) She would get a substantial saving for buying cash. As it is there is no way for the independent retailer to give a cash discount without offending his charge customers.
(2) The mechanics of the idea would be very simple. Just as the housewife now buys tickets in the back entry for the ice man to tear off when she delivers ice, she could leave them for the grocery man, or other merchants. The tickets could be registered in her name, numbered, and non-transferable, so no opportunity for their loss would prevail.
(3) Many families are now operating on the weekly envelope budget plan. They put so much money in an envelope for food, so much for clothing, rent, and in others for putting fuel, light, etc. Instead of putting cash in these envelopes they would simply buy tickets each week for all their needs in advance and would at all times know exactly where the budget stood by examining the tickets.
(4) There is a psychological advantage which the average housewife would probably appreciate. It is far less painful to part with a ticket than it is to part with cash. When at the time of the month she has bought her allotment of tickets she doesn't need to worry about the matter thereafter.
The advantages to the retailer are obvious, however, as the idea is fundamentally sound the retailer would do well to consider this method as a supplement to their selling forces.

Weather Improves Sales
"Reports coming to me from Chambers of Commerce in various parts of the country show that the better weather conditions during the past month benefited retail trade considerably. During the early spring months unfavorable weather conditions generally retarded distribution. Improved weather during the past six weeks has stimulated demand for seasonal goods, and pre-vention buying is reported generally good. Conditions now in the retail trade are somewhat better than a year ago at this time. Out of 24 leading cities, 11 report conditions good to excellent, and 14 are fair or fairly good. Among the cities reporting good trade are Waco, Texas; Toledo, Ohio; Wichita, Kansas; Peoria, Illinois; Trenton, New Jersey; Montgomery, Alabama; Jackson, Mississippi; Scranton, Pennsylvania; and Paterson, New Jersey.

Retail conditions have changed greatly in the past six weeks. The retailer no longer seeks the merchandise, but rather the merchandise seeks the customer. We are in a period when retailers must overhaul their organizations; they must make all possible economies without sacrificing the interests of their customers. They must learn to train their personnel as the chain stores train them. They must stock quick moving lines, watch turnover, and generally adopt systematic stock management principles. The weaker units in the retail field are sure to be eliminated; only the strongest will manage ones to survive. The Bar-chart of business now stands at 3 per cent above normal.

PLAN LUMBER EXCHANGE
SUSHIAK (Yugoslavain) lumber dealers are in a period of adjustment of a lumber exchange at this port through which foreign purchases could place their orders without passing through intermediaries in Y. and H. Budapest. The Yugoslavain traffic in lumber amounted to 30,000 carloads a year and it is believed can be expanded.
BIG BEACH CROP EXPECTED
WASHINGTON.—If present prospects are fulfilled the department of agriculture says, the 1928 peach crop will be next to the heaviest ever produced. With a projected 44,500,000 bushels now in sight, steadily improved conditions may allow the crop to exceed all previous records.

STUDY OF BODY HEAT PROVIDING BENEFIT FOR ENTIRE MANKIND

Simplification of Methods of Measuring Release of Energy in Vital Processes of Body Brings Aid to Human Race

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 12.—Simplification of methods of measuring the rate of heat energy in the vital processes and activities of the body has placed in the hands of scientists a new instrument for the benefit of mankind.
Energy requirements of both man and animals for various purposes can be ascertained, together with the nutritive values of different foods and the effects of normal or unusual conditions and situations.
After devoting many years to the study of the intricate problems involved, Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington is convinced that every healthy individual has a fixed basal metabolism, or heat production when in complete rest.
When this basal metabolism is altered the cause is likely to be found in some disease or profound change in general makeup, which may be either beneficial or detrimental. At any rate, he believes that the basal metabolism affords an excellent basis for the study of individual vital activity.
Much work concerning metabolism remain only partially understood, but considerable progress has been made in the past few years. Since all life processes and vital activities depend on the varying rates of combustion of food when it is united with oxygen in the body, the study of metabolism, the efforts of scientists working in this field have been directed toward the measurement of the heat output of the body.
"Roughly, that output is approximately equivalent to the amount of heat that would be produced if it underwent numerous definite fluctuations which, correctly interpreted, can give the answers to many questions that are of great importance in making measurements that have been more or less impracticable because of the unwieldy and expensive nature of the apparatus required."
"Called a 'calorimeter,' the apparatus first consisted of a chamber constructed of non-conducting materials in which a person could remain for long periods without discomfort. Water circulating through a system of pipes carries off the heat given out by the body, and this could be measured by computing the differences in temperatures of the water as it entered and left the chamber, taking into consideration the volume of its flow.
Improvements made possible the measurement also of the amount of oxygen consumed and of carbon dioxide eliminated by the subject. After a sufficient number of experiments had been conducted with this apparatus, the investigators were able to show that the liberation of heat, energy, production of carbon dioxide and consumption of oxygen were closely correlated in such definite ratios that any one of the others could be determined by simple calculation.
With this information it has been possible to measure metabolism merely by ascertaining oxygen consumption with a relatively simple and inexpensive respiratory apparatus which, instead of requiring several technicians for its operation, can be handled by one. By measuring the oxygen consumed in the performance of a given piece of work and subtracting from it the amount needed to maintain the vital processes in repose.

SIX KINDS OF FLEAS ARE MEAN TO GAMPER

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—As the summer season already may have suspected, there are only about 500 species of fleas.
"The fleas of the world are divided into six groups, but only the human flea, dog flea, cat flea, stickle flea, hen flea and rat flea, are the principal species that annoy man and domestic animals in the United States."

REMOVING SNAKE VENOM BY SUCTION, SAVES LIFE

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Successful treatment of rattlesnake bites by suction has been reported. The use of suction has been suggested as the best method might be used in treating human beings who have been bitten by the reptile.
"Experiments in which the lives of dogs were saved by withdrawing injected poison with a rubber bulb attached to a small inverted glass jar, described in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Dudley Jackson, of San Antonio, and Dr. W. H. Harrison, of the University of Illinois, public health service, Washington.
At the beginning of the treatment a tourniquet was applied above the injection to restrict the venom and prevent its absorption. In some cases the venom was made to coagulate by escape. The poison, as injected, was a small inverted glass jar, described in the Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. Dudley Jackson, of San Antonio, and Dr. W. H. Harrison, of the University of Illinois, public health service, Washington.
In one dog five minutes were allowed to elapse between the injection and the beginning of the suction. In another animal the venom was given an hour's start. The suction was repeated at intervals during a period of more than a day. Both dogs recovered.
"It is quite evident," conclude Dr. Jackson and Dr. Harrison, "that rattlesnake venom experimentally injected into dogs can readily be removed from the tissues by incision and suction, an animal receiving as few as four minimum lethal doses recovering when the treatment has been delayed for one hour. This highly toxic material will escape in part from the redemolting tissues if simple punctures of the skin are made. That this is a highly toxic material which can cause death with all the signs of venom poisoning."
The experimental evidence offered, they add, "would seem to constitute a rational basis for employing this method in the treatment of rattlesnake bite in human beings," either alone or in conjunction with antivenin. The serum made from the venom.

BARLEY PROVES SUCCESS AS SUBSTITUTE FOR CORN

CROOKSTON, N. D., July 12 (AP)—Barley as a substitute for corn in fattening steers has been proved successful in an experiment conducted by the University of Minnesota farm school here.
The experiment opens a new era in livestock feeding in northern states where corn cannot be matured with consistency, in the opinion of Professor O. M. Kiser, who had charge of the work.
Thirty-two head of Herefords, fed out at the farm school in 24 days under conditions that might prevail on any average farm, brought the top market price of $14.00 on the South St. Paul market. All rations were standard except grain where barley was substituted for corn. In the northern wheat states, barley grows as readily as corn in the corn belt.
"CAN MAKE BEEF TENDER"
GRAIN VALLEY, Mo., July 12.—There is no excuse for tough beef, E. W. Sheets of the federal bureau of animal husbandry told livestock specialists here. He insisted it was the stockman's task to produce by wise selection of stock, proper feeding and intelligent management, a beef animal of which "every cut will make a tender, juicy dish."
"LAND OPENED IN OREGON"
SALEM, Ore. (AP)—More than 12,000 acres of land in Lake county will be open to entry by the general public on October 15, the general land office of the federal government announced. The lands are suitable for grazing during the spring, summer and fall and will carry from 15 to 20 head of cattle per 640 acres. Irrigation is problematical.

TARIFF BODY WILL STUDY HAY MARKET TO MEET REQUESTS

Farm Organizations Call for Survey of Industry Through-out Canada and United States; Hear Complaints of Losses

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 12—At the request of farm organizations and individual farmers of the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio, the United States Tariff Commission has ordered a study of the economic study of the hay industry in this country and Canada with a view to tariff readjustment.

The commission explains that domestic producers have complained of economic losses because of the substitution of motor power for animal power on the farms. While the same situation is expected to prevail in Canada, the complainants believe that a tariff readjustment between the two countries is necessary, and for that reason the industry should be studied and a report made to congress to determine the proper relationship between foreign and domestic producers.

Hay has been imported from Mexico, Cuba and the Philippines, but figures indicate Canada is the principal competing country. The study will include price relationship between American and Canadian hays, marketing conditions and supplies.

Authorized sources state much of the hay that is marketed in this country is produced in Gilbert, Guster, markets for hay in the north west, pointing to "the tendency to over-produce hay in recent years," says an extent over supply to pressed markets that the average price on the farm for loose hay was even lower last year than in the five years immediately preceding the war.

Under blames the increase in hay acreage on low prices for cash crops and the high cost of farm labor. He says that instead of allowing fields to remain entirely idle in winter, the readjust agriculture, they have been put into grass. The decline in livestock population probably reduced past requirements and thus increased the area cut for hay.

Edward C. Parker, federal hay marketing specialist, fits in declining hay acreage of the United States to be over-expanded at the present time. The hay market is the least productive meadows in the over-expanded acreage, he says, are the old timothy meadows in the north central and north Atlantic states, and the prairie meadows in the north central and south-central states.

On these lands, he says, the demand for hay is insufficient to absorb all the surplus hay possible of production. Charts authorized by the department of agriculture illustrate the tendency of total hay production to outrun demand. By reducing all domestic animals to hypothetical "animal units," equal to adult cattle in feed requirements, the amount of hay produced per animal unit, excluding swine, is found to have increased irregularly since 1919 and by 1927 was far above any other year.

He explained that the excess of hay production compared with consumption would be a serious matter if the reduced requirements of horses in gites were taken into account.

The President Hooks a Big One

PRINCIPLES OF ISAAC WALTON will envy the president his vacation in the Brule river country of northern Wisconsin—as why shouldn't they?—where he has discovered a fisherman's paradise. The pictures show the chief executive starting out on an afternoon's sport, hooking and playing a big one and, finally, starting for Deer Lodge with a three and a half-pound rainbow trout.

'The Drag Net' and Comedy at the Idaho

Once more George Baneroff is playing the title role of the comedy "The Drag Net" at the Idaho theatre. Baneroff plays the part of a man who walks in constant peril and mocks at danger. It was such a role in "Underworld" which transformed the dynamic Baneroff from the "smiling villain" of the screen to one of the foremost dramatic stars in modern pictures. It was another such part in "The Showdown" which again demonstrated Baneroff's great dramatic abilities.

In "The Drag Net" Baneroff was directed by Joseph von Sternberg, a man who directed him in "Underworld." Evelyn Brent and Fred Kohler, Baneroff's great dramatic partners, are also in the picture. The picture is one of the most outstanding of the season.

Can you imagine Charley Chase as a brutal bruiser of the prize ring? Neither can we, and that's what makes it so funny. He becomes a pugilist in his latest Hal Roach comedy, "The Fight Picture," which furnishes the real fun in this program. A late Paramount news weekly completes this very interesting and amusing show-off today and tomorrow only.

More College Women Use Ballot, Survey by Radcliffe Indicates

(By The Associated Press) CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 12—Data gathered by Radcliffe college indicates, the compilers assert, that college trained women are more dependable voters than those who have not had a higher education.

Questionnaires sent by the college authorities to Radcliffe alumni brought 3187 replies. Of those who answered, questions concerning their participation in politics, four out of every five said they voted regularly at elections.

About half of these voted to political parties—three in five vote in primaries, and one in ten political wars. There are 393 in this number who, in returning the form which contains several other inquiries, left the political section blank. Of the 2794 who responded to the question of voting at elections, 2449—or 88 per cent—replied "yes" while 345—or 12 per cent—replied negatively. If those who ignored the section on politics did not vote at all, the college authorities concluded, then at least 77 per cent of these women vote.

According to federal statistics, only 51 per cent, or five out of 10 eligible citizens in the United States voted at the last presidential election. This would make the proportion of 77 per cent of Radcliffe voters well above the average.

Fifty-six per cent or 1400 of those who answered the question, "Do you belong to a political party?" replied affirmatively, and 1193 or 44 per cent said they did not. Among those who answered the affirmative replies on the total number who responded, 46 per cent were found to be members of a political party. Seventy-two per cent, or 191, of the 2794 women who answered the third question vote at the primaries; 702 do not. Based on the 3187 replies, it was shown that 68 per cent vote at the primaries.

Answering the last question, "Do you do political work?" 274 women, or 12 per cent, out of 2284 who replied to this said, "yes," 2010 replying in the negative. The proportion of affirmative answers of the total number of questionnaires returned is eight per cent on this question, but many more are active in women's political clubs and in the League of Women Voters.

BRYAN'S DAUGHTER FIRST WOMAN FROM SOUTH IN CONGRESS

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Goes to Legislature Representing Group of States Making Up Historic Section of Nation

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI, Fla., July 12 (AP)—In the person of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, 40-year-old daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, Florida will send to the legislature the first woman Representative from the "Old South."

When Democrats of the fourth Florida District assembled here by a substantial majority over W. J. Sears, incumbent, in the primary of June 5, it was the first time in the history of the state that a woman had been given higher public honor than county office. Democratic nomination in Florida is equivalent to election.

Mrs. Owen will follow in the footsteps of her father when she enters the house of representatives. Mrs. Bryan went to the house from Nebraska.

The daughter of the "Great Orator" will carry into her political work not only the heritage of the silver tongue handed down by the eloquent Bryan, but also the accumulated wisdom of a lifetime spent in close association with him and which dominated in public affairs the life of the nation.

For the past six years, Mrs. Owen has been in constant demand as a charming lecturer and is one of the highest paid women in that work. She represented Florida as a life-time member of the National Council for Child Welfare. As professor of public health administration in the University of Miami she declined to accept a salary and received instead scholarships which she distributed to young men and women of her choosing. She is prominent in the work of a score of civic and patriotic organizations.

Mrs. Owen is the mother of four children, Ruth II, John Bryan, Reginald Bryan, and Helen Rudd Owen. Ruth is Mrs. William Painter Meeker and the mother of Ruth III, Mrs. William Jennings Bryan who lives in Washington with her daughter.

WHISKERS PROTECTION AGAINST DEADLY GERMS

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Whiskers are likely to come into fashion in the future as a result of discoveries by public health service investigators who have been studying Rocky mountain spotted fever there for the past 20 years.

Unshaven skin, they have learned, is less susceptible to the penetrating powers of the virus of the fever tick than skin which has been freshly treated with a razor. The valley is one of the few places afflicted with this disease, but 75 to 150 cases develop there every year, and since the death rate among victims is about 90 per cent, any measure which offers even the faintest hope of immunity is welcome.

The study which brought out the value of whiskers was undertaken after the death some months ago of one of the service's employees in the laboratory at Hamilton, Montana. He was the fourth to die among the scientific workers who have been assigned to the difficult task of overcoming the deadly disease. Although, like his co-workers, this man had been in rather close contact with the virus, examination failed to disclose the source.

of the infection which resulted in his death. This suggested a series of experiments to determine the penetrating power of the tick virus and of virus obtained from infected food and tests made with laboratory animals indicated that the former was much more generous to hosts than the latter. When the tick virus was placed on freshly shaven skin, all the animals developed the disease. When it was placed on skin from which the hair had been pulled, however, only 70 per cent became ill. Similar experiments on blood virus brought negative results.

WEATHER CONTINUES COOL IN SOUTHWEST

SECTION OF STATE
 Temperatures Below Normal
 Winter Wheat Harvest Under Way; Ranges Dry; Stock Well

Weather continued cool in southwest Idaho during the week ending July 12, according to the weekly weather summary issued by the Boise office of the United States department of agriculture. While the weather was below normal for this time of year, conditions were favorable for spring grain which are heading well and are now filling.

Harvesting of winter wheat is progressing. First cutting of alfalfa is mostly in the stack, and is generally in fair condition.

Ranges and dry farm regions are badly in need of rain. Food is still adequate in most localities and livestock continues to thrive. Shipment of lambs of superior grade continues.

Low temperature in North

In north Idaho the weather during the week greatly benefited all grains, pastures, truck crops and fruit. The temperatures were below normal and there were no damaging storms or hot winds and copious rains fell over the district on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Wheat harvest is completed about Lewiston and is getting under way in the next higher benches. Haying is progressing in the prairie sections, but there will be damage to crops.

Cherry harvest has been completed, except for some scattering late varieties. The weather was uniformly favorable throughout the harvest period. Pastures and bushes have improved considerably due to the rain and cool, cloudy weather, and all livestock are doing well.

Southwest Moderate
 Moderate temperatures prevailed in southwest Idaho, except on Saturday, when it was decidedly cooler. Light scattered showers were reported. Alfalfa cutting is about completed in the north and in the higher valleys in the south and is just beginning in the north and in the higher valleys in the south.

Green peas are being marketed in Bonanza county, while seed peas are blooming in the north. Winter wheat is heading nicely and spring grains are doing well, as are also potatoes. Beets are making good growth. Livestock are doing well.

Notes From the Field
 Rupert, Blaine county. Extremely cool for the time of year; wheat crop doing very well, hay not as well as usual; other crops average.
 Butte, Twin Falls county. Cool weather has been beneficial for small grain and alfalfa is doing fairly well; beans and corn are slow; irrigation water abundant and general outlook for orchard and field crops promising.

OVER THOUSAND RAMS ENTERED FOR SALE

Hampshires Most Numerous Among Wool Growers' Offerings; Other Breeds Listed

July 12—Over a thousand head of pure bred rams will be offered at the state ram sale to be held at Piler, August 8, according to M. C. Clear, secretary of the Idaho Wool Growers' association.

Mr. Clear states that more than half the entries have already been received. He says that 750 or more will be Hampshire stud rams, yearling range rams and lambs, as Idaho range sheepmen demand Hampshires. Experience has demonstrated, asserts Clear, that Hampshires have alined the greater percent of early market lambs that have brought the most money. Six annual sales have already been held at Piler. At former sales, entries have been received from other states. The offerings have become so large, however, that entries will be accepted this year of Idaho bred rams, solely. Sales will be by auction.
