

AMERICANS TENNIS HOPES FADE; TILDEN BRANDED INELIGIBLE

Sensation Hopes European and United States Following of Sport; Action Comes on Eve of Italian Inter-Zone Finals

PARIS, July 19.—The American tennis house that "Big Bill" Tilden built for 1928, just before reaching the upper stories, suddenly crashed to the ground today when the architect was deposed.

Charged with violation of the amateurism law of the United States Tennis association through the writing of newspaper articles "covering" the English championships at Wimbledon, Tilden was removed from the American Davis cup forces today on the eve of the inter-zone finals with Italy, by President Samuel H. Colom of the association.

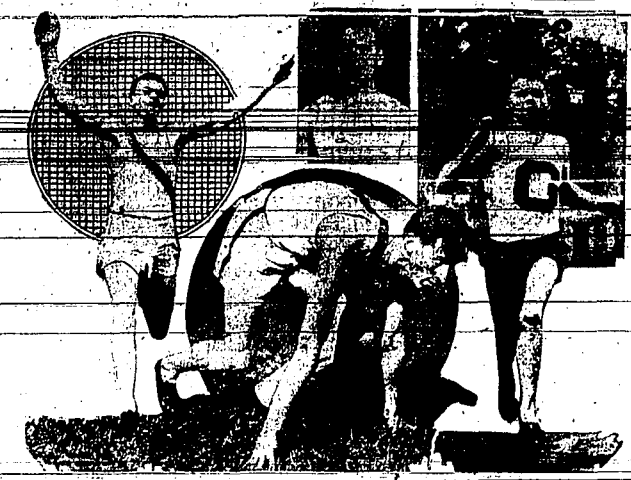

And so like a pastboard structure, tumbling the hopes and the organization "Big Bill" had built with his own hands, he was today taking care for the recapture from France of the historic trophy, lost last year to the "Cherry Blossom" of Pennsylvania, and for the first time in nine years, Tilden's famous smash and educated slices will be missing from the competition.

One sensation stumbled over another throughout the course of a day today in the tennis world. American tennis circles alike. Coupled with the announcement that the lanky American, in whose fiery racket rested more than half of his country's hopes of final victory, had been booted from the squad came the declaration that "Big Bill" was ineligible to play in the Davis cup tournament. The American Davis cup committee, that he would resign his office, effective upon the team's return to the United States.

French tennis officials, at first inclined to keep their hands off the matter, decided to cable to the United States Lawn Tennis association late this evening asking that Tilden be permitted to compete against Italy, and the principal through the soothing advice of "Big Bill" himself, a threatened strike of tennis racket makers in the United States was averted.

Thus it was settled that American "Big Bill" acting as an unofficial coach from the side with fight through the inter-zone final with Italy, offering Francis T. Hunt, Richmond, Va., as a substitute, with John Hennessey and George Lott in the doubles. But the general opinion is that their chances have been wrecked.

REPRESENT UNITED STATES IN OLYMPICS

CLAUDE BRACEY, left, sensational Texas sprinter; Bob McCallister, upper center, flying New York cop; Frank Wykoff, right, "fastest human" from Glendale, California; and Hank Russell of Philadelphia are the team "special merchants" who will oppose the world for the United States at Amsterdam. Their sterling performances in the tryouts indicate great strength. Wykoff alone equaled the world's record in each of the four races which he ran at Boston.

CAVALRY EDITOR. A certain twin falls hardware store has on display a cooking appliance known as a "waterless cooker".

Prior to a few months ago this same appliance was disposed of in quantity through house to house selling, the price obtained being eleven dollars.

Literally dozens if not hundreds of people paid eleven dollars to a peddler for an article which could have been purchased in a local store for approximately half the amount.

House selling may not actually be on the increase but a strikingly large amount of goods of various kinds are so sold.

It is capable, through persistence of a kind which could not be successfully practiced by an established merchant, to break down the resistance of the buyer and sell almost any kind of goods to persons who, left half way to their own devices would not purchase at all.

His prices are usually high and his profits correspondingly large. As a rule he pays no taxes and contributes not one cent to costs of public upkeep of town or country.

If he ever offers a real bargain the goods are a rare one, but he sells goods and gets the money, usually cash in delivery, in volume which might surprise a good many people if there were any way to get hold of the actual figures.

Such salesmen are interested only in single sales. They give no credit, make no exchanges. They are here today and gone tomorrow. All of which presents quite a different picture to that of the established store or business with its heavy stocks and wide selections, its earnest desire to continue to serve and its honest purpose to make steady and satisfied customers of all purchasers.

People like to spend their money where they like it only for the reason that it is their money, but it is a short-sighted policy in the long run, and year in and year out, a costly one.

WHO MAY VOTE.

Idaho's election laws carry a penalty for failure to vote. As amended at the last session of the State Legislature, the law provides that citizens, although registered, two years ago, and failed to vote at the last election, must register again in order to vote in the coming elections.

Citizens who voted two years ago are not required to register again unless they have moved since that time from one voting precinct to another.

The riding restriction rule of dead timber, this provision of the law provides at the same time a penalty for failure to vote that would seem to be a reasonable one and one that might go far toward preventing repetition of the offense.

MORALITY IS RELATIVE

If a canvas of theatre-goers were made nine hundred ninety-nine out of every one thousand would say that he is opposed to immoral and obscene plays, but no two out of one hundred would agree with his constituents in moral aid obscene play. Most people are moral except to those whose definition for morality is a mite more restrictive.

Not infrequently modern America is accused of drinking the dregs of immorality. And yet, a critic of the French theatre says that some of the finest plays have come out of France.

CANDIDATES BEGIN TO STIR MEDICINE FOR PARTY VOTERS

Republicans Have Many Contests While Democrats Are Content With Two; Followers of New York Man Fill Ticket

With all the announced candidates for county office still in the ring, the campaign in Twin Falls county for nominations which will end August 7—48—the county primary—has not yet begun. There are no vacant places on the Republican ticket, while six county offices lack Democratic candidates.

A large vote is expected in both the Democratic and Republican primaries as there are contested places in both. The effort of sheriff is most sought after in both parties. E. P. Prater has resigned as deputy sheriff and is out in the field on a contest for nomination on the Democratic ticket in a contest in which Frank M. Fench and M. E. Finch are both "in the hands of their friends."

The Republican hierarchy ring looks like the hot division of a department store. There are a number of styles, shapes and sizes to suit the taste ready at hand for all eligibles. Jess Haskins, halls from Buhl and George W. Dyer, B. H. Gilbert, R. P. Redmond and D. C. Keenan are from Twin Falls.

Count on Scribblers There are plenty of applications for positions as psychomotor malouts in the elephant pen, while the monkey division applications have been relatively scarce so far. However, the disciples of any day that this committee will not appear in the name of the voters, write in names to fill vacancies.

In the Republican column the contest begins right at the start. M. J. Sweedy, former state senator, and P. C. Graves, former member of the public utilities commission, are pitted against one another as candidates for the Idaho senate. In the first district W. A. Thompson of Buhl, T. E. Hinkle of Blaine, H. C. Hinkle of Clover Park and C. W. Hinkle of Clover Park are vying for the commission. In the third district there is another contest, between W. M. Moyers of Murtaugh and W. P. Breckon of Kimberly, for the same position.

Two Democratic Contests Aside from the office of sheriff there are two offices in the county office in the Democratic column, that of commissioner for the second district where J. T. Windle and J. P. Hinkle are in the contest. The candidates for state senator, one for representative, one each for commissioner of the first and third districts, one for county attorney and one for coroner. No candidate has filed the positions of county treasurer, probate judge, school superintendent and assessor. Two positions on the legislative ticket are vacant.

Republicans lack delegations in Alameda, Deep Creek, Murtaugh, Rock Creek, Rogerson and Thomals precincts. The same precincts and Kimberly precinct lack candidates for membership on the county committee. In the Democratic column delegates are lacking in Berger, Castleford, Clover, Lucerne, Rock Creek, Rogerson and Rogerson. The same precincts lack candidates for membership on the county committee.

Resigns As Deputy To Make Race For Sheriff E. P. Prater, deputy sheriff for five years past, resigned last Tuesday to devote his attention to his campaign for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Twin Falls county. In this contest he is competing with M. E. Finch, incumbent seeking re-election for a fourth term, whose deputy he has been since he entered the office five years ago, and with Frank M. Kendall, former sheriff.

REQUEST FOR DATA ON ECONOMICS MAY CAUSE NEW OFFICE

Now Era of Farm Management May Make Trained Business Analyst as Important as Pro- per Cultivation of Crops

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 19.—A new era in farm management, one in which the trained business analyst is as important as fertilizer or proper cultivation, is predicted by agricultural economists as a result of increased demands for market interpretations.

Dr. O. C. Stine, chief of the division of statistical and historical research in the federal bureau of agricultural economics, says the last year has brought a constantly increasing number of requests from farmers for production and market forecasts and for price predictions on agricultural products. They use the data, Dr. Stine explains, to adjust production to market demands and to sell their crops advantageously.

Further revealing the new turn to farm practice and management, the national conference of the department of agriculture has completed a survey which will show agricultural colleges, in addition to the federal government, are training frequently-published information available to farmers in more or less popular form. Several additional states, the conference says, contemplate the issuance of similar publications, aimed to present the basic factors which make up the current picture of production, movement, consumption and price of farm products. The agency with which these data are employed by farmers for economic conditions in domestic and world markets is considered indicative of the future importance of farm analysts.

In the matter of price forecasts the government eliminates cotton. Orders existing this product were issued by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine following protests against the price statement of September 18 last year, which were made by some members of congress for the wheat market at that time. It was contended that the price forecast by the government was aimed to fix prices and to cause them to become.

Maintaining the "attitude" he held before the congressional investigating committee, Dr. Stine declared that the government's price forecasts are even with the backing of the government, can change the real value of a crop. A large crop cannot be sold at the price of a small crop.

The importance of economic analysis for the farmer, Dr. Stine explains: "If market prices at the beginning of the season are too low, in view of supply and demand conditions, the farmer who anticipates a surplus of his crop will not plant with assurance of higher prices. If on the other hand, market prices at the beginning of the season are higher than supply and demand conditions will support for the season, he can take advantage of this temporary situation and sell his crop at prices equal to or above the real value of the product for the season. In many years farmers undoubtedly could add millions of dollars to their income by planning marketing with a knowledge of the real value of the product.

In three years of price forecasting, Dr. Stine says, the government has based its predictions on its research at what makes prices and resultant statements have been about 90 per cent correct.

State Association Computes Bad Road Taxes in Gem State

BOISE, July 19.—Bad road taxes, equivalent to 72.3 cents on every gallon of gasoline consumed, are paid by motorists, according to the Idaho State Automobile association which bases its calculations on statistics for this state, Iowa and North Carolina.

The figures were on the basis of a car making 10 miles to the gallon on a rough highway. At a speed of 20 miles per hour, the test showed the cost of gasoline and tires per 1000 miles over rough roads used in the experiment was $35.10 for an average four cylinder car weighing 2500 pounds. The cost for the same car at the same speed over a very smooth improved road was only $12.90, according to the tests.

TAXATION EXPERTS TO ADDRESS CONVENTION

Boise Gathering to Listen to National Authorities' Lead

BOISE, July 19.—Several national authorities on taxation have been invited to speak at the 1923 meeting of the western states taxpayers' conference which will be held in Boise, August 16 and 17. It is announced by R. E. Shepherd, president.

Cognizant of the close relationship existing between taxation and the rising costs of education, the conference has invited Dr. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, as one of the principal speakers.

Brigadier General Lord, national tax officer, has been invited to be present and speak on the value of the federal government. He will also emphasize the value of the budget generally in the expenditure of public money.

Phillip Zoehrer, member of the Indiana tax commission and a recognized authority on the "Indiana plan," has already accepted a place on the program and will tell what has been done in the Hoosier state to raise barriers against tax extravagance.

Professor Frederick Paulchild, Yale budget in the tax program of the federal government. He will also emphasize the value of the budget generally in the expenditure of public money.

United States Senator William Borah, Idaho, and Senator Reed Smoot, Utah, have also been invited to be present and speak on the value of the 12 western states urging them to be present and to appoint representative delegations as spokesmen for the respective states.

will lay a sure foundation for the construction of a tax edifice that will be sound, stable and meet the needs of modern society as well as our complex economic situation.

While it is possible, all interested taxpayers may not receive a personal invitation, all who have an interest in this question may consider themselves free to come to Boise and register as interested taxpayers to join with the official delegates.

CHERRY CROP TOPIC FOR FROIT GROWERS MEETING

Development of the cherry production in southern Idaho is one of the important topics to be discussed at a meeting of fruit growers of this region to be held on Twin Falls county fairgrounds at Pler this afternoon and evening under auspices of the Twin Falls County Horticultural society.

Growing importance of cherry production here was indicated in the statement of George Taylor, secretary of the society that there had been shipped from Twin Falls this season 242,000 pounds of cherries to an Odean cannery, and that this amount was one-third of the total amount of cherries used by the cannery this season.

Speaking at the meeting of the fruit growers will include Congressman Addison T. Smith, and a delegation of four representatives of this state department of agriculture and University of Idaho coming from Boise including John S. Welch, state commissioner of agriculture; M. L. Drenth, director of the state bureau of plant industry; W. H. Wickes, chief field inspector; C. C. Vincent, professor of horticulture, and G. R. McDole, soil technologist of the university.

This meeting will open at 2 p. m. and picnic supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

RAFT RIVER DISTRICT WANTS FOREST FUNDS

Disputes With Cassia County Commissioners for Pro-Rata Share of Fund for Roads

HIGHWAY, July 19.—Raft River highway district now has a controversy with Cassia county commissioners that local interest to all southern Idaho and to counties that are not reserve land, within their boundaries. This district has filed claim with the commissioners for $115,000, claimed to be from forest reserve monies.

Should the claim be allowed, there should be some funds available to complete a first class highway through Raft River valley to connect with the highway to Teton now being worked on by Utah commissioners.

The Raft River district makes claim for these monies, by reason of a difference of opinion developed between their lawyer, S. T. Love, and the county attorney, T. M. Morris. The controversy is over the interpretation of an amendment to the statutes by the 1921 legislature, concerning apportionment of forest reserve monies received by the counties. A county accountant, having called attention to a possible claim against the county, the district might have the highway district books, the claim was presented.

County Makes Contention
Teton highway district is entitled to such an amount as the forest reserve in the highway district bears, pro-rata, to the forest reserve in the unorganized territory. The county attorney contends that the highway is entitled to such amount as the forest reserve in the highway district bears to the total area of unorganized territory in the county.

The county attorney also claims that interest can not legally be claimed by the highway district on any back payments of these monies, point disputed by the highway district.

The district claims $4742 principal and $1412 interest. The county attorney concedes that approximately $3200 is due the district. The commissioners seem willing to turn over whatever amount the attorneys can agree on, but the case is a complete disagreement. It is likely that the courts will be called on to decide.

QUOTATION ON WHEAT UNDERGOES SETBACK

Market Influenced by Favorable Prospects for Spring Crop Harvest Near at Hand

CHICAGO, July 19 (AP)—Wheat prices underwent a decided fresh setback today, influenced by favorable prospects for the spring crop harvest now nearly at hand. Predictions were current that with ordinary weather the crop promise would be for 200,000,000 bushels yield of domestic spring wheat.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, as to 1 1/2 cent lower, corn unchanged to 1/4 cent up, oats varying from 1/4 cent decline to 1/4 cent advance, and provisions unchanged to 1/4 cent down.

Downturn today in the value of wheat was practically unresisted by late indications that export business today in wheat from North America amounted to 1,500,000 bushels including some soft wheat which at almost the end of the year it had appeared that European demand was at least only fair, and that circumstances were of considerable effect in promoting bearish sentiment. Meanwhile there was an unusual lack of speculative interest in the market.

PREDICTION OF HIGHER MONEY RATES ON MART

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Predictions of higher money rates, later in the month slowed up the recovery price in today's stock market. Poorly received in market—only about a dozen specialties to new high record, but public participation in the general list continued at low level.

Call money renewed at 5 1/2 per cent and dropped to 4 1/2 when another large influx of funds appeared at the high 5 1/2 rate.

Merchandise and mail order shares were again the favorite market for speculative for the advance. Fears that a further stiffening in rates would check the full expansion in business had a restrictive effect on trading.

Selling pressure again developed in the market for the season was established in the case of the Bellis, Philippines at 4 1/2 and 5 1/2, and at Porto Rican at 4 1/2 for August arrival.

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR ARRANGES NATIONAL MILK COATS SHOW

Finely Bred Animals Will Compete for Honors at Exhibition During Later Part of Summer; Plan Many Entries.

(By The Associated Press) SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19.—Milk coats of record will likely be bred at the best of dairy cattle will compete for national championship honors at each fair at the Illinois State Fair, August 18 to 25.

Hardy Toggenburgs, white Saanens, Anglo Nubians and tall and rangy French-Alpines will be the leading breeds of the show. The show has been designated as the annual convention of the American Milk Goat Record association—the national organization of purebred milk goat owners. Between 50 and 200 individual animals, including bucks and does from all sections of the country, will compete for recognition.

Over 100 exhibitors from 24 of them are valued at close to $100,000. In a special pen D. Imported Vanita, reputed to be the highest priced milk goat in America, will head the exhibitors. She is owned by Wm. L. Smith, publisher of the "Overland" at Denver, Colo. Smith's show ring triumphs pay this venerable matron the same degree of homage that Man O'War receives from lovers of fine horses.

Like cattle, each milk goat breed developed for years along very definite lines, has its own following. The Toggenburgs are the most numerous, are very hardy and thrive in any climate. A doe of that variety holds a record of 100 pounds of butterfat in one year's production. They are brown with white stripes down each side of the face and with white markings on the legs.

The Saanen is the largest of the Swiss-bred goats, and is white in color. One doe of that breed produced 24 1/2 pounds of milk production record of 29 pounds and 11 ounces, and a record of 406 1/2 pounds of milk in 10 months. The French-Alpines are a cross between an English doe and an African buck. It is called the Jersey of the milk goat world. Its milk makes up in richness what it lacks in quantity of production. Anglo-Nubians are rangy with ears that droop, and are of good color.

The French-Alpines, recommended as uniform and persistent milkers, are bred for productivity rather than for range. Although there are commercial goat dairies in various parts of the United States, the industry has not developed to any important extent.

Edward L. Shaw, formerly senior administrator of the department of agriculture, says that during the last several years considerable interest has been manifested in the milk goat in this country. It is well supplied sufficient milk for the average family and can be kept where it would not be kept in other countries, especially by people living in small towns and the suburbs of the large cities. The milk goat is adapted to its environment, he explains, and should become of greater importance every year. Scarcely of good stock for foundation, but the goat in America was an animal of more of less ridicule—an "alley scroab" suspected of being a thief and a vagabond. People have not learned to differentiate, Shaw says, between the porch climber, the "lippy" developed breeds "so much needed" in America as an adjunct to the dairy industry.

COURTEOUS-TRUCK-DRIVER IS GOOD-BUSINESS-ASSET

BOISE, July 19.—Courteous action on the part of truck and delivery wagon drivers is a good business investment, according to J. B. Norton, executive of the Idaho State Automobile association, which calls the attention of firm managers to the fact that many organizations have been organized in this method of fostering good will of the public. The survey driver who hops the right-of-way who curses every motorist he meets and who practices other discourtesies creates an antipathy toward the firm he represents, whereas the driver who is willing to give the other man every advantage actually acquires his company, according to the automobile club.

Science Probes Coyotillo Poison, Mystery for Century and One-Half

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, July 19 (AP)—Known by a dozen different names since 1789, the mystery plant of the Rio Grande has barred its secrets under the searchlight of science. Botanically it is Karwinskia humilis, but Mexicans call it el jidoro or canchillo, while from the dry, gravelly hills of Arizona county, Texas, Corpus Christi and Brownsville to the mouth of the Pecos, it is known as coyotillo, calicho, coyoto, coyote, rivedoro, murchara, cascabela, and a host of other names. Clinchey first wrote of its queer poison, nearly a century and a half ago, men of science have attributed the plant with varying results. They differ in opinion as to whether the poison was contained in the twigs, leaves, blossoms, fruit or seeds. The Cochimi Indians refrained from eating the fruit, "large as a vetch, round and black when ripe," because they well knew that it was very harmful. However, he continued, the Periculi ate the fruit without any bad results, first taking away the seed, then the leaves.

method a "key" banker will be selected in each county who will have charge of the work in his district. The most feasible projects will then be developed and encouraged. Lumber and wool will be likely products in some localities, whereas some other livestock industry, or wheat or some farm crops, might be the projects in other districts.

Key Bankers to Meet

Key bankers from all the counties are expected to meet at different places within a short time, one meeting to be at Moscow and the other in southern Idaho. Methods and plans of operation will be discussed and decided on at these meetings, and the bankers will be organized into a working body.

Mr. Hetland is greatly interested in the furtherance of this scheme and believes that the farming community will be saved serious losses by being put in a position to command the best prices for its products. Hetland came to Burley in 1919, as cashier of the newly organized "Burley National bank." He is an Iowa man and has had banking experience in Montana and in Portland, Oregon.

When Your Mirror And Purse Agree

The woman who shops for summer clothes with one eye on her pocketbook, and the other on her mirror, is often in a quandary. Mirrors can be so tempting at times, and pocketbooks so stern.

One of the pleasantest ways we know to economize is by making your own sport frocks from gingham and percales, that is, if they're the kind that can jump into the weekly wash tub and come out smiling. A faded gingham is a tragedy.

We never offer such unsatisfactory materials to our customers. Your mirror would rebel, and only when pocketbooks and mirrors agree perfectly about a purchase are we quite satisfied.
