CALIFORNIANS SEND HOOVER EAST TO DO BATTLE FOR OFFICE

Republican Nominee Joins Citizens in Desiring Great Dam in Boulder Canyon; Candidate Reads Prepared Speech

(By The Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17 (AP)—A crowd cheering enthusiastically on a tumultuous ovation at Los Angeles, were accorded Herbert Hoover today as Southern California sent him east to do battle for the presidency.

As the Republican candidate, turned to face the turbulent months ahead, he gave the citizens of the state the assurance that he joined them in desiring the "greatest reservoir on the highest dam at Boulder Canyon" that the engineer will recommend.

Thousands gathered from the sunny front of the Los Angeles city hall were greeted by cheers from the largest crowd that has ever assembled in nomination. Thousands were massed about the broad entrance to the building, and in front of him and covered the face of the hill before the mass-covered hall of records.

The nominee returned the salutations of the crowd, which far exceeded any that has greeted him in any city since his nomination.

At the towering stone column that is the only hall, Hoover read a prepared address, in which he addressed the crowd that filled the broad plaza and overflowed into nearby streets.

Reading from a prepared text as his sun-brown face beamed with his unshaken stand for the growth and development of the nation.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the city hall, Hoover returned to his car for the drive to Long Beach where he was greeted by his native townspeople. Also here to inspect the Pacific Southwest exposition there.

YOUTHFUL VIOLINIST PLAYS FOR ROYALTY

Harry—Braun—to Be Guest of Famous Banker on Trip to Europe; Romance Marks Rise

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 17 (AP)—An immigrant boy, 16 years old, New York from Russia 16 years ago as a stowaway passenger will sail for Europe within two weeks the guest of Otto Kahn, banker and violinist, and his wife, who is a violinist whose talents have attracted favorable comment from acknowledged masters of the instrument.

Braun will accompany Kahn to play before European royalty and to give recitals at the London Symphony Orchestra and the Philharmonic Orchestras of Paris, Berlin and Vienna. On his return he will be a member of the New York Philharmonic.

The youth's career began at the age of 11 when he showed a preference for music rather than for his mother earning enough to buy her son a 810 violin. Through Rabbi C. J. Kohn, then connected with a local synagogue and now in Chicago, he met Leopold Auer who explained to him the correct interpretation of his instrument, but specified that he must live in New York to study.

It was in New York that he became interested in the boy's ability and for the next six years his musical background was built.

Last summer Braun gave his initial public recital before over 10,000 people in Chicago and then August Heckscher, president of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, valued at $25,000. His coming trip to Europe is the next big step forward for the young musician.

STEPHAN ADDRESSES POLICE CONVENTION

Soft-Hearted Persons Have No Place on Board of Pardons, Says Idaho Attorney General

BOISE, Aug. 17 (AP)—There was no place for a soft-hearted person on a board of pardons, Attorney General Frank L. Stephan of Idaho, said today in an address before the Northwest association of sheriffs and police in their convention here.

The attorney general's address was delivered in the afternoon session of the convention which heard addresses by United States Representative Burton W. Brien, Idaho legislator presiding officer of Colfax, Washington, and Clarence E. Long, warden of the Washington state penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Attorney General Stephan described the functioning of the pardons board and the importance of preventing miscarriage of justice, of equalizing sentences and of rewarding good behavior in prison.

But the board must also consider the welfare of the prisoner, and the punishment will have not only upon the prisoner but upon society. If prisoners are released on parole, it is a punishment of inequality and severity then indeed the body politic will suffer in a disquieting way.

On the other hand, a little punishment is unfortunally for both society and the prisoner. It misleads criminals, actual or potential, into believing that the people of the state are more interested in criminals than in their victims.

The convention will adjourn today, resuming the Northwest Police Journal as the organ of the association on the grounds that the publication is the only one of its kind.

STORMS AND FLOODS IN SOUTH CLAIM 11 LIVES IN ONE WEEK

Property Loss Totals Several Million Dollars; Cities and Communities Emerging From Isolation; Waters Go to Sea

(By The Associated Press) COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 17—Rivers in the northern section of South Carolina were swollen to record flood stages as a result of the recent storms, but fears of serious inundations were alleviated with reports on falling water levels on several streams.

The Broad river, which caused the greatest destruction by overflowing through the power dam at Lockhart, South Carolina, was receding. Residents of Lockhart moved back into their homes tonight. The stream washed away several bridges and marooned a Southern railroad train at Streeton. The Saluda river also was reported to be receding.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 17—Seven lives and several millions of dollars' damage stood tonight as the cost of this week's storms and floods to five southeastern states as the flood waters drained toward the sea, and cities towns and communities emerged from isolation.

Rain from raging waters stretched through the valleys of streams from northern Virginia to the Lake Okechobee district of Florida. All of the great rivers were subsiding at the Carolina or Virginia. One man was killed in Georgia.

Crops, highways and railways suffered the most extensive damage, although property losses were severe in some sections as a result of cyclonic winds and inundations, thousands of acres of crops were destroyed and additional destruction was expected before the waters had passed off.

Special trains were run to carry the stranded people. The water was above the flood, but quickly re-established communications. Railway service was completely restored and work on patching damaged highways progressed swiftly.

Macon, central Georgia city, had most of the routes open for traffic, including the railways which had repaired washouts and restored usual service to all points south of the city. Georgia, emerged from its isolation, and Milldevelly, Oconee river town, saw the flood waters drop five feet, saving the city from total destruction. No estimates of the damage to highways were available.

IDAHO'S CROPS ARE ESTIMATED LIGHTER THAN 1927 HARVEST

Peas, Peaches and Pears Show Only Increase; Productions Generally Greater Through Nation; Forecasts Are Made

Forecasts for 1928 crops in Idaho are slightly under the production reported for last year according to the August crop report issued by the division of crop and livestock estimates of the United States department of agriculture. Increase in production over last year is predicted in peas, peaches and pears, while all other products are expected to show a decrease in the year.

Wheat Returns Uncertain

Winter wheat production in Idaho is estimated at 1,628,000 bushels compared to last year's yield of 12,274,000 bushels. The estimate is based on a yield of 5 bushels to the acre, a little less than the 6 bushels per acre reported by August 1, it is quite possible that this estimate will be revised after harvesting the fall wheat period late in the fall.

Spring wheat is estimated at 12,318,000, while the 1927 crop totalled 20,100,000 bushels. The total wheat yield of the state is placed at 22,000,000 bushels for the state compared to the 1927 harvest report of 32,374,000 bushels, Northern wheat.

Indications point to a less crop of 1,500,000 bushels which is 145,000 bushels more than the only estimate.

Conditions here were unfavorable in the northern regions. The crop is prospectively low because the number of late planted fields and the prevalence of disease. Favorable conditions during the fall would permit late planted fields to produce a normal yield.

Estimated production of same has been placed at 2,644,000 bushels.

Prospects for apples improved during July. A crop of 4,914,000 bushels is estimated of which the commercial crop is 1,310,000 bushels. Last year's harvest netted 3,000,000 bushels, 1,800,000 bushels being classified as commercial.

Estimates in bushels for other Idaho crops compared with the 1927 production follow: Corn, 1,027,000—3,110,000; oats, 5,570,000—12,120,000; barley, 5,078,000—5,878,000; dry peas, 1,045,000—500,000; peaches, 337,000—144,000; pears, 1,100,000—1,100,000. The estimate compared with the 1927 harvest of crops measured by the ton unit follow: Sugar beets, 27,000—381,000.

Pioneer Frontiersman Here With Huge Man-Eating Cat

Colonel Pearson, "Idaho Bill," With Two Companions Capture Mysterious Beast After Hard Struggle; One Man Slain

Colonel R. R. Pearson, widely known as "Idaho Bill," scout, guide and outstanding figure of the frontier West, arrived in Twin Falls yesterday, bringing in a substantial steel cage built on his automobile, an unidentified monster cat that he captured two months ago in southern Mexico, about 200 miles south and west of Mexico City.

The colonel is traveling to Washington, D. C., to place the beast in the national zoological gardens. He expects specialists there to identify the animal. It is a feroocious beast about twice the size of a mountain lion, weighing about 800 pounds with peculiar beard and mane similar to those of an African lion. Its ears are pointed like those of a mountain lion. The mountain lion resembles the ears of a gorilla and lie flat against the head.

Natives Fear Beast

Colonel Pearson had seen the animal's tracks while on a number of hunting expeditions through that locality and had heard the frightened natives speak of a savage man-eating cat which haunted the country. The colonel, with two companions set out on horseback for the locality where the beast was last seen. He was successful in locating his tracks in a small open flat in a hilly and timbered region.

We figured that this was the only place we could hope to catch him. We camped there on the flat to wait for him to come back. If the beast's capture in Twin Falls two weeks had passed, during which time we hunted in the daytime and slept on the flat at night, we heard around early one morning.

See Giant Cat

We got up unhabbed and nudged the horses and started out to see what the rumpus was. We saw a huge mountain lion sitting in the grass about a hundred feet away. Top of us circled around him to keep him from breaking for the trees, but that wasn't necessary. As soon as he saw us he made for the other man and I had our rifles, catching the horse just behind the rider. The horse went down and was dismounted at a single blow. The other man and I had our rifles on the brute before the horse went

"I wish I'd known"

THERE'S always a new experience ahead—something you haven't done before and which calls for a decision.

You become engaged—and immediately you are called upon to decide on the purchase of many, many things you never bought before.

You marry—and furniture, draperies, silverware, china, talking machines, oil-burners, gas-stoves, automobiles claim your dollars and call for your choice.

A baby comes—and again you face a new experience in purchasing clothes and powders and blankets; in buying a crib, baby carriage, foods, toys.

Next—what school? For the years pass incredibly fast. Once more, a new decision.

Every room in your house requires a choice. Every meal served in your dining-room results from your having decided on what to serve. Every day confronts you with a multitude of possibilities from which you must select those which make life happier and better, and make the dollars go farther.

How on earth are you going to make these decisions? How can you know what you want and what you don't want? How can you buy to such advantage that you'll seldom, if ever, have occasion to use that futile phrase, "I wish I'd bought something else"?
