BEES BEAT GUNNERS BY SCORE OF 9 TO 3

Salt Lake Takes Third Consecutive Contest From Uden; Camilli Hits Home Run

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Bees made it three straight over the Ogden Gunners and eight out of their last 10 starts against Del Baker's club when they romped rough-shod over their rivals from the Junction City this afternoon to win the game, 9 to 3.

For seven innings it was a pitching battle between Valery Glyn, the league's ace right-hander, and Dick Young, late of the Oregon Aggies. In the seventh Dorr Camilli, Bees first sacker, wanted an Herculean homer over the center field fence with Steve Hammock on the base ahead. This was Camilli's third home run in the last two days and it put the Coltrix cubs ahead 8 to 3. The local team garnered four more runs in the eighth for good measure. Johnny Walters hit his thirty-third and thirty-seventh two-baggers of the season and only needs five more to establish a new Utah-Idaho league record.

"It brings out vividly the ties which have attached our lives to the state of Iowa and we leave it most regretfully. We will long remember with gratitude the kindly expressions and good wishes we have had on every side." The Republican presidential candidate's last day in Cedar Rapids was given over to further conferences with farm and political leaders during which he received supplemental reports as to the political outlook in the great grain state, both west and east of the Mississippi. Noisy Farwell Piled by a committee of Cedar Rapids business men, the standing bearer made a second tour of Cedar Rapids and was given a noisy farewell by the people who crowded the streets despite threatening storm clouds overhead. A halt was made before the railroad station was reached so that Hoover might inspect the new $6,000,000 memorial to the soldiers of all wars erected on an island in Cedar river which bisects the town.

ST. LOUIS LEADING IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pirates Haul Giants From Top Place by Administering One Defeat, 13-3, in Twin Bill

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Pirates hauled the Giants from first place in the league today by administering a 13-3 thrashing in the first of a double-header here today. The Giant Melvin had humbled Carmen Hill by 6 to 3 with a five-run assault in the eighth round of the opening game. The event division against the Pirates cost the Giants two points in the percentage column, dropping them to 598 or one point below the Cardinals, who were idle at home today awaiting the arrival of the Phillies. The Red Birds remained half a game ahead of the Giants in games as they have been all through the four days in which the New Yorkers led in percentage. First game—R. H. E. New York 6 9 2 Pittsburgh 3 5 0 Batteries: Benson, Scott and Hogan and O'Farrell; Hill and Hensley. Second game—R. H. E. DEFINING ISSUES
Governor Smith's speech in acceptance of the Democratic nomination for the presidency has the merit of positive declaration with respect to a number of the issues of the present campaign, and serves well to point out the difference in principle and viewpoint between the Democratic and the Republican nominees for the presidency.

NO BLOC OF WOMEN VOTERS
During the protracted fight for equal suffrage much was said by the "No Bloc" that would develop when women received the right to vote. Giving the ballot to the woman would, many predicted, revolutionize politics because women voters would be united against the divided male forces.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S CLAIMS for his proposals relative to prohibition that "the country is an economic whole." Since he has rejected the "equalization" factor in favor of relief legislation, Governor Smith and his party platform hold out no promise for improvement of the status of agriculture that has not already been pledged by the Republican nominee, and the question to be determined is which is best qualified to lead the way in this direction.

It would be exceedingly unfortunate for campaign work among women to result in the emergence of a woman's bloc. The women-workers movement is not to be confused with the advent of equal suffrage which is distinct in the realm of politics were abolished once and for all. As active factors in the American electorate, women have assumed their rightful role—they are citizens, concerned primarily with the broad problem of citizenship.

DEBATE AND DISCUSSION
British-American debates among college students, as arranged by the Institute of International Education, have led to some instructive results. Various debates have been held in the last five years, in England and the United States, and now Australian and Canadian students are getting into the game. Each side learns something from the other. The public also learns something.

Life itself is not a bed of roses, when one is the manager—both business and personal—of his own vacation. The very youthful manager of the Maritime orchestra, which played last night in the Pitzer roof garden, did not realize his responsibility when he left his home last May to shepherd 100 units of students to the coast of Nova Scotia to Vancouver, and back across the States, via Seattle, Huntington, Oregon, Twin Falls, Koonceer, Warrenton, to Chicago, and back to Canada.

Every American knows how American high school and college students debate. It is a method inherited from the country library society and developed by expert coaching in debate. It is an earnest effort to present a convincing argument, for or against whatever the speaker happens to be for or against at the moment. The big thing is to win the decision of the judges.

HIGHWAY BUILDING BIGGEST FEATURE OF PUBLIC WORKS

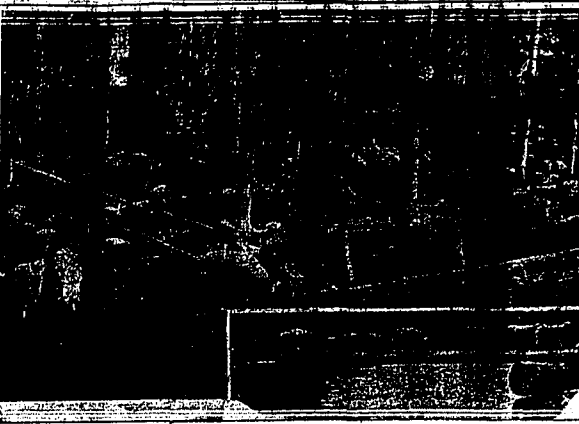

Construction of Roads Affords Employment to Thousands of Men, Increases Purchasing Power, Aids Production

(Special To The News) HANSON PARK, MASS., Aug. 23.—Construction of public works is one of the most important factors in sustaining good business. It not only affords direct employment to thousands of workmen, but stimulates production of the various material industries and increases general purchasing power. There are, of course, two sides to this question. Should Federal, state, and municipal governments embark upon large expenditures for public construction? Obviously there must be a limit to public spending or the taxation burden on the individual and business reacts unfavorably. However, during times when employment is slack the pushing of public works is economically sound and highly desirable. In fact, the government is justified in going heavily in debt at such times to provide funds for needed public construction. It is literally true that building public works during times of unemployment may so stimulate general business and thereby increase wealth that the public improvements themselves actually cost the country nothing. In fact, the country would lose through business depression and unemployment, more than the cost of the improvements. Therefore, according to economic conditions, a scientific opinion is that the government should make the most careful study and support of the part of public works and political leaders.

Road Building Leads A study of contracts awarded during the first six months of 1928 indicates that if it had not been for the huge road building program the total public construction including post offices, city halls, schools, hospitals, arsenals, etc., would have fallen below the first six months of 1927. The total public works of all kinds built during the first six months of 1928 was $1,139,000,000 compared with $1,135,000,000 in the first six months of 1927. More than one-third of this amount was for road building. For the month of June alone, $77,000,000 worth of roads were built and $11,000,000 worth of bridges. Estimates by the Highway departments of 45 states show that more than half, altogether 28,538 miles of good roads during the full year 1928. This highway expenditure will amount to $1,377,000,000. Assuming that the total of building of $7,000,000,000, one-fifth of it will be for new roads. The common impression is that public construction of all kinds is exceeding last year's totals. This is not true. The creation of public buildings, such as post offices, armories, city halls, fire stations, etc., totaled 29 per cent less in the first half of 1928 than in the first half of 1927. Religious memorial buildings were 18 per cent less; social and recreational buildings were 18 per cent less; hospitals and institutions 19 per cent less. There were increases in the construction of military and naval buildings and schools and colleges.

Verdant Pastures of Western National Forests Lure Millions of Sheep From Valley Ranches

WHEN THE SNOW has disappeared from the mountain sides and Spring brings tender shoots of grass in the forest-wilds of the west the shepherd gets restless and starts to move his flock to the hills for summer pasture. Millions of sheep graze this way in western national forests. Idaho is one of the great sheep states and each year several million head of sheep find forage among the evergreen forests. Pictured above is a small band of lambs nibbling their daily rations in the Payette national forest, Idaho. Inset shows the trials and tribulations of being a wandering sheep on a forest preserve. A makeshift bridge of logs has been thrown across the Deadwood river in the Payette forest to permit the sheep to cross. Idaho is marketing two million lambs this year at an average price of more than $10 a head. The lamb crop was virtually 100 per cent above the year before in an additional $7,000,000. It is estimated the expense of caring for sheep this year will be about $3.50 per head.

Paris SAYS BONNETS PREVAIL IN AUTUMN Head-Gear of One-Year-Old Baby Furnishes Pattern for Women During Coming Fall

By HAZEL DEAN (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—To get an idea of what some French milliners are expecting for fall hats take a look at the bonnet of a one-year-old baby. The felt bonnet shape, built from a circle flat on the back of the head and extending well forward over the ears and forehead, is a serious contender for autumn favor. American buyers say the French milliners have failed to take into account that American women are getting their hair grown, or have actually grown it again. The milliner reply that for America there are other hats. There is, for instance, the modified double-decker with a wide brim. The hat is cut at the base of the crown and the brim lifted up off the face to give a line reminiscent of pre-war days before women pulled their hats down around their ears. There is also the felt beret, the draped beret, and the felt of velvet hat with pleated or shaped brim. There has been evolved a new silver-turban covered with intricate worked-pelais, fringe, leaves and imitation feathers. Some of these hats resemble cockatoo heads. Other hats look like gigantic flowers with a woman's face in the heart of them. For conservative women are shown shades of felt or velvet in dark color. Trimming is slowly winning its way back into milliners' favor. Some of the best houses are showing hats discreetly trimmed with broad silk and shaved or curly lamb.

University Laboratory Becomes Chimpanzees' Honeymoon Cottage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The scientific marriage case at Johns Hopkins University in which the young chimpanzee, Popinguid Dayton Pan, is growing up under ideal conditions, has taken on the aspects of a honeymoon cottage. Dayton is only a little more than two years old. He was born at the University and has been provided with a bride, Evo, a female chimpanzee. The couple are now living in a "honeymoon cottage" and, although the bride is of the family Pan Satyrus, which is distinguished by the blackness of the face, and the degree is of the Pan chimpanzee line having a white face, their union thus far has been a happy one. Evo takes the unscientific part of her name from the word "evolution," just as Dayton was named after the name of the species in Tennessee. Both are being studied by Dr. Adolph H. Schultz, associate professor of physical anthropology, with a view to obtaining physiological and psychological data during their period of growth similar to that already available for human beings. Such information is almost entirely lacking at present and several years of observation and periodical measurement must pass before his record will be useful for comparative studies, but he expects it to prove of great value in increasing man's knowledge of the higher apes and by comparison of himself.

BOYS MAKE MODEL PLANE FROM AIR-CRASH DEBRIS

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 23 (AP)—A model airplane constructed from the wreckage of the plane which crashed in the vicinity of Richmond, is on display at the post office here. The airplane, which was built by a group of boys, is a perfect replica of the original. Throughout the construction is identical with that of a real airplane, even to the dome light, pilot's seat and cockpit. It has a wing span of 20 inches and a length of 12 inches. The parts were collected by E. Keith Comprom, Jr., and Thomas Whitmore of Richmond, members of the Richmond Model Club, who worked for one year on their project. The work was done in spare time and the boys estimate that it required 624 hours to complete the model. The five planes used in making the model were the plane of the Bellanca in which Clarence Chamberlin and Roger Q. Williams crashed in an attempt to break an endurance flight record, two Boeing mail planes, a marine Fokker and a small pacer monoplane. Each of the mail planes carried a pilot to death while the big trimotor marine Fokker killed three of its occupants when it crashed at Fife, Virginia. The cylinder blocks in the engine, which are set in a wooden block, have been salvaged from planes used by American aviators and the boys estimate that they acquired them from a government store.

FILER GRANGERS TALK WEED CONTROL PROBLEM

FILER, Aug. 23.—The Filer Grange met in regular session at the Grange Hall Friday evening. Due to the extremely busy season for the farmers attendance was small. 33 members, one visitor and eight children answering roll call. Regular business was transacted and the following program was given: "Idaho, My Idaho," by the Grange; roll call "Name some natural beauty spot near us," song "Prisoners Song," Junior Thomas' general discussion, "Noxious Weeds and Their Control," led by Mr. Bennett; piano solo, "Midred, Bennett"; reading, "The Faithful Few," Mrs. Wright; song "It's a Good Thing to be a Granger" by Grange; selection, "Swanee River" by the Grange Harmonica Orchestra.

Owing to the fair being held on the regular meeting night the next meeting will be postponed one week and held August 31 at the Grange Hall. Roll call "Name your favorite recreation."

BUS OUSTS RAILROAD STOCKHOLM, Aug. 23 (AP)—Motor bus competition has caused the loss of the oldest in Sweden, that of the operators have asked government permission to abandon the route. A few years ago the line was one of the most prosperous in the country, but the more elastic passenger and freight service provided by bus in the densely populated area attracted most of the patronage and trailers recently have been running virtually empty.

BERLIN (AP)—German owners of radio receiving sets, by paying 50 cents monthly for the privilege, contribute more than $12,000,000 annually to the central government, which distributes the fund among nine subsidiary broadcasting companies. Payments are made to letter carriers or at the post office, and deliberate failure to pay or to notify authorities of possession of a radio set, makes the owner liable to imprisonment.

LONDON (AP)—The Nederlandsche Bank of the Netherlands has been revealed as the "unknown buyer" of gold in the London market during 1927. Banks of Poland, Hungary, France and Austria also acquired quantities of the metal.

Coats That Play Smart Roles In the Autumn Mode

The newer Fall Fashions concern themselves with lavish fur trimmings, intricate seaming and tucking in the back, and rich, luxurious fabrics. Every coat will delight you.

The Fall Mode Has Tucked Itself Into Favor

These new coats show distinctive use of seamings, tuckings and inserts, especially on the back. Styles have an individuality that is adaptable to every type of figure.

Fashion Veers Sharply Toward the Back

One of the distinguishing marks of the new style is the tendency to concentrate all style details toward the back although the line still remains straight and slim.
