CURTIS REITERATES PLEDGE FOR HIGHER PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Democrats Propose to Remodel Underwood Bill of 1913 and Let Down Bars Protecting Agriculture, Declares Kansan

(By The Associated Press) HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 30—Renewing his pledge for a higher protective tariff, Senator Curtis today told a gathering of Pennsylvania farmers that the Democrats proposed to remodel the tariff act along the lines of the Underwood bill of 1913.

They have put a little bait in their platform, Curtis said, "hoping to catch the American farmers and the laboring man, but they would put that old law which injured our business back on the statute books. They want to let down the bar protecting American agricultural products."

Speaking at an outdoor Grangers' picnic at Williams Grove, near the city, the senator interrupted by a sharp downpour of rain. As some of the huge throngs in the grove started for shelter, Curtis ceased but several minutes later he resumed. "I can stand it if you can," he replied from the protected platform, "and I'll even go down there in the rain and shake hands with you when I am through."

The rain fell intermittently but the crowd was protected by the city's firemen, who were working out at the next session of congress. When he had concluded the sun was out and the nominee remained to shake hands with many of the crowd who came to the stand.

Reiterates Statistics Speaking without reference to a prepared address, Senator Curtis recited statistics showing the decrease in importations of agricultural and other goods under the present tariff, "as compared with the Democratic tariff law."

"I am greatly impressed with reports brought to me by leaders in various sections of the West during my trip out here, with regard to the condition of the farmers," he declared. "It unquestionably is the outstanding campaign issue in the farm belt."

ARKANSAS CHALLENGES FOES TO FIGHT OUT CAMPAIGN ON ISSUES OF AGRICULTURAL AID, PROHIBITION AND CORRUPTION

After warning that "political serpents were abroad seeking to poison the minds of the people, Mr. Robinson plunged directly into a discussion of the farm relief question. Referring to the party's platform, he said the facts proved that the "Republican party is either incapable of successfully dealing with the issues of farm aid, prohibition, merchant marine and political corruption."

ARKANSAS CHALLENGES FOES TO FIGHT OUT CAMPAIGN ON ISSUES OF AGRICULTURAL AID, PROHIBITION AND CORRUPTION

"Mr. Hoover, as the president's trusted advisor," he added, "is perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation during the eight years of his administration than any other single political leader."

His declaration that the time has come "when an economic adventure is justified in the millions" of farmers was received with applause, the cheers echoing and reverberating through the saloon between the towering ranges of the Ozark mountains.

"Turning to the prohibition issue, Mr. Robinson also received applause when he quoted in part the party platform approved by the Houston convention.

"The senator quoted in part the telegram sent the convention by Governor Smith of the day after his nomination, saying that "it is the will of the people of this state to protect and defend our constitution and laws. I will execute that oath to the limit of my ability, without reservation or evasion."

"Can it be said," the senator went on, "that because Governor Smith believed in the prohibition law, to the old evils of the saloon, temperance and respect for law can be promoted through changes in the existing laws? No, it cannot. It is an enemy of the constitution!"

Such arguments impeded the intelligence of the audience. "Bain Falls, Steadily A steady rain that soaked the crowd had stopped falling by the time Mr. Robinson began his address but clouds made the night-pitch black although there should have been a full moon."

"Rain will open his speaking activities in Detroit on September 18 and afterward will move through the Mid-West and the East. Later in the month he will be in Chicago." (Continued on Page Two)

SMITH-TAKING PART IN STATE POLITICS

New York Governor Aiming for Presidency and Democratic Campaign on Way Home

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP)—Governor Smith not only is aiming for the presidency but he is determined that the Democratic administration will not be able to control the reins of the New York state government. He made this known today in a speech before the Democratic state committee which met here to organize and prepare for the campaign. Sounding a call to arms, he declared the state is in a perilous position and that he will not permit the state campaign to become absorbed in the movement to put him in the White House. Speaking at the close of a morning meeting, the governor led it to the committee to perfect its own organization and turned out to the state headquarters to inspect the exhibits and take in the races. There, amid the throng, he received a salute from the police and state clearing a way for him. He was escorted to his stateroom at the headquarters, the Democratic presidential nominee left in the morning for Albany. He plans to remain there over the Labor day week-end and probably until he sets out on his campaign tour. Speaking at the close of the state committee meeting, preceded the election by that group of Mr. William E. Tray, its chairman. He said: "I am urging the committeemen to get into the campaign with a clean conscience. Everybody that comes within the circle of our influence should be registered and be eligible to vote. I have been ably supported by the Democrats in both branches of the Legislature, under the government of fearless leadership in being able to make a record for the party in the administration of the affairs of this state that has never been broken. Often maligned and I say that with due humility."

The mine is the largest producing mine of the company at Coal creek and employs several hundred men. The accident apparently happened after the morning shift cut work for lunch.

Utah Police Guarding Highways; Seek Trio Suspected of Slaying

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 30 (AP)—Officers were guarding the highway as far south as here as Cedar City in quest of three men who early yesterday shot and killed James E. Watkins, night watchman in a Spanish Fork. One of the three officers believe that Miguel Scondino, who last Sunday was arrested here, shot and killed Florino Pacheco in Bingham. The latest clue to the whereabouts of the three men was that they had passed through there early yesterday morning and tried to sell a .25-caliber rifle for $5. A similar rifle was missing from the Spanish Fork store when William Wilkins, night watchman at Cedar City, was shot. Second-in-command are two ex-convicts, named Ray Lund and Leonard Olson. Rogers Hornsby Will Manage Boston Club For Next Six Years

BOSTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby has signed a contract to manage the Boston Braves for the next six years.

BASEBALL "BIG SIX"—Action in the "big six" yesterday was confined to Rogers Hornsby and the American league half of the caravan and Babe Ruth was the only one of these members to disturb the peace and quiet of a lazy summer afternoon.

The Babe crashed out No. 47 and a single, lifting his average another two notches to .339. Ty Cobb failed as a pinch batsman and dropped a point to .292 while Harry Heilmann went hitless before Cleveland pitching and left once more into the cellar with a mark of .208.

Heilmann's decline gave the "big six" two men below the 300 mark for the first time this season. Frisch and Paul Waner were rained out at Pittsburgh.

MODERN WOMEN OF CHINA DROP CODES AND TABOOS OF OLD

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek Takes Seriously Her Part of Interpreter of West and Its Arts; Graduate of Wellesley

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—An interviewer who tries to get Madame Chiang Kai-Shek to talk about her self finds it difficult to keep her on the subject. She continually strays from discussion of her own tastes to tell of the likes and dislikes of her husband, the military leader of the Chinese Nationalist revolution.

An informal interview with Madame Chiang, youthful, vivacious, speaking English with hardly a trace of an accent, revealed to the Associated Press correspondent that she takes very seriously her role of interpreter of the West and its arts and ways to her conservative, Orient-trained husband.

As an alumna of Wellesley she has an outlook much like that of an intelligent, cultured young American woman. She enjoys tennis and swimming. The music she loves best is that of the violin of G. S. P. Her acquaintance with western literature is extensive and intelligent, and she gathers that her true intellectual recreation is found there. She confesses a liking for the American movie, and goes to "the pictures" frequently when living in her residence in the French concession in Shanghai.

But she tries hard to share these tastes and pleasures with her rather taciturn husband, whose essential character is wholly Oriental, and to make available to him the knowledge and experience of the West.

Madame Chiang is hardly out of the bride stage in her matrimonial career, for it was only last September that the former Mayling Soong, daughter of a Methodist mission helper, became the wife of the nationalist generalissimo in Shanghai.

Madame Chiang's taste in occidental literature runs to biography and history. "I like to know what living people do and think," she explained, "I read what other men who have been beset by my husband's problems have done, and I like to go to the sources of their inspirations. Such literature is of great service, and I feel a double responsibility because General Chiang does not read western languages and must therefore receive his knowledge of the West directly from me.

"Naturally western-made means much more to me than it does to General Chiang. I do not think we have the great artists who come to this country. We have radio in both our Nanking and Shanghai homes, and my evening bathing is more relaxing than to me in, especially if the program affords a vivid scene. Perhaps I will not be long before I will be able to see the pictures which would not be possible here.

Madame Chiang had a Christian upbringing, but in China lives in the United States, and she has retained her affiliations with the church and close interest in the Y. W. C. A. She expressed the hope that "the understanding between our revolutionary army and the Christian missionaries, who have done so much for our country, will come to an end and that the missionaries will continue their useful work in China. These are misunderstandings are possible in the future."

"My early influences were perhaps more western than those of most Chinese girls," she went on, "and I have a partly American outlook. It is natural therefore that while my husband is at the front I should devote myself to public service. The Chinese woman of the old type felt she had no place in public affairs, but the modern woman is different. Now we definitely participate in the affairs of our country: Hospital work, social service, the uplifting of the condition of women all require our attention."

Madame Chiang has been a leader in welfare work for the nationalist soldiers similar to that done by the Red Cross in the American armies in France. In that field her energy and organizing ability have found useful scope.

"I prefer outdoor sports to indoor games, tennis and swimming are her favorites. She has no use for the traditional Chinese amusement, mah jong, "Both my husband and I dislike it," she said. "My husband always gambles, and my early training is against it."

From her long residence in America, Madame Chiang has acquired a taste in western dress. Her fashions are smart and up-to-date, and she wears them with a Fifth avenue air. But she prefers Chinese costume and is much interested in the evolution of new Chinese styles.

"I think we are developing an interesting and beautiful costume in the combination of the national Chinese blouse and the foreign style skirt," she told the interviewer. It should be explained, however, that

Irish Cheer Kellogg Who Disclaims Credit For Pact to Ban War

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 30 (AP)—Speaking at tonight's state banquet, Secretary Kellogg disclaimed credit for the war renunciation treaty.

"I did not do it," he said. "I could not have done it. That treaty is an expression of the hope of millions of people in the world. I cannot believe that it would have been done if the people whose voices are more listened to today than at any other time in the world's history."

Mr. Kellogg was cheered loudly by the guests upon rising in response to an eloquent speech by President Cochrane in which the Irish executive praised the American secretary's services in behalf of peace.

Police Trace Hungry Robber Who Ate Soap

BRESLAU, Aug. 30 (AP)—An unusual case led to the capture of two professional burglars guilty of a series of baffling crimes.

One of the robbers while ransacking an apartment, had picked up an apple from the kitchen table, and started to bite it. It happened that the fruit was imitation and made of soap. He dropped it quickly in disgust and the police used the teeth marks later to identify a captive under suspicion.

"The combination," Madame Chiang went on, "affords opportunity for all the variations of style that fashion women. We delight in testing our ingenuity in evolving new forms of this particular adaptation. We retain, however, the upstanding collar which is a familiar characteristic of Chinese clothes, and do not have décollete, front or back. In the fogginess of the moment we have achieved a graceful line which would with profit adopted in the West."

"Why Wives Worry" Is Toby Walker Offering

"Why Wives Worry," which, as its name might indicate, is a domestic comedy, is one of the most humorously interesting plays provided the stage in the West.

Walker company will offer this comedy for Saturday and Sunday in the big tent theatre. The story being one of exceedingly novel complications, it would not do to unfold the plot or details before presentation. To thoroughly enjoy it, you should not know the gist of the trouble beforehand, nor when the terrific fire of discontentment is going to be extinguished.

Simply human, two men and their wives love and fuss and share their troubles and their joys, but their troubles seem to be far in the foreground. There is good, clean fun and merriment, guaranteed by the name of the author, Charles Harrison.

John B. Hughes and Dick Castleman will have the parts of the two husbands, while Constance Forde and Arcady Pike will be seen in the roles of their wives. Toby has the most unique comedy part ever written in this play.

Young Director Pilots Star in "The Racket"

Although he is only 30 years old, and has been handling the megaphone less than five years, Lewis Milestone today ranks among the foremost directors of motion pictures. Director Milestone directed "The Racket," Thomas Meighan's latest starring vehicle, now showing at the Idaho theatre and has succeeded in piloting the popular star to a tremendous success.

Trained in the cutting-room, the "breaking in" spot of many famous directors, Milestone has steadily forged to the top, and has established himself with the veteran directors of many years' experience.

With a natural flair for comedy, and an alert sense of dramatic values, Milestone has distinguished himself in the realm of comedy drama. Last year he reached the zenith of his success by turning out one of the best comedies of the year, "Two Arabian Knights," as acclaimed by critics throughout the country.

Following this widely-heralded triumph, the young director was placed under contract with Howard Hughes, youthful president of Caddo Productions, who is producing Thomas Meighan's pictures for Paramount release.

Another one of Milestone's successes under his new contract was that of a recent Corinne Griffith production. The combination of start and director of "The Racket" is not a new one, as Milestone director, Thomas Meighan in "The New Klondike" for Paramount, a very popular and successful production, with Mr. Meighan, selected "The Racket" as his latest starring vehicle. He asked for Milestone as director.

An all star cast supports Meighan in his new production, Marie Prevost and Louis Wolheim both have prominent parts and add to the excellence of the performance.

Screen Shows Fight To Best Advantage

Motion pictures of the Tunney-Heeney fight, now being shown at the Orpheum theatre, present a more adequate showing of that famous encounter than could have been obtained by any of the ring side spectators at the event itself. The photography is exceptionally good, and cameras were placed at convenient angles about the ring so that the viewers present the affair to the best possible advantage. Every round is full of action and the tenth round, showing the finale, is presented in slow motion.

The added feature, "Fleewings," was adapted to the screen by Elizabeth Pleckett and is a thrilling story of love and adventure amid the sands of Araby. Ben Bard, Barry Norton, Dorothy Daniels, Eville Anderson, James Anderson and Robert Koriam portray the principal roles.

This show closes tonight, and a new program is to be presented tomorrow with the mystery melodrama, "A Thief in the Dark," a comedy, "Wild Puppies," and the latest Pathé news.

DONATE POTATOES TO CHINESE—SAYS FARMER W. D. Avertit Suggests That Second Grade Spuds Might All Be Donated to Starving

"I am heartily in favor of the idea suggested by John E. Walpole of Revere in his article in the News this morning on the potato situation and the condition of Chinese famine stricken areas."

"My idea is that we should agree to give all the second grade potatoes to the Chinese relief. I am willing to give all such in my field of seven acres. It would not be fair to place all the expense of digging and delivering the potatoes on the farmer who raised them. People who might have second grade spuds might donate those. The truckmen might donate some hauling and merchants might help hire trucks, while laborers might give a little time to digging the crop. In my field of seven acres, it would make a great difference in the supply of potatoes and mean a raise in price. At the same time, the quality of the supply furnished would be so much better that it would advertise us throughout the country, since only first grade products would be put on the market. Of course, as suggested by Mr. Walpole the matter of delivery would still have to be worked out but I believe the railroads would be glad to help.

POLITICAL CHANCES DEPRESS PRICES AT NATIONAL RAM SALE

L. L. Breckenridge of Twin Falls, Head of Idaho Hampshire Breeders, Quotes Figures of Stock Exchanges

Influence of the political campaign was seen by L. L. Breckenridge of Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Hampshire Breeders' association, as a factor making for reduction in commodity prices with last year, in prices prevailing at the National Wool Growers' association's fourteenth annual sale that closed in Salt Lake last evening.

Mr. Breckenridge entered some of his own ram in the sale and spent three days there, returning yesterday.

"Prices were fairly good," Mr. Breckenridge said last evening, "but were somewhat lower than last year in consequence, I believe, of apprehensions over possibility of tariff changes. While the feeling is general that Herbert Hoover will be elected president," Mr. Breckenridge said, "the possibility that the election might result otherwise has had its effect on prices. The sheepmen say that previous years' sales has always been excessive to the sheep buyers."

High mass sales
The first two of the sale were taken up with the Hampshire rams. Mr. Breckenridge said. Stud rams sold at high prices. The range stock was somewhat lower than at the sale last year. Yearling range rams owned by Charles Clark of Twin Falls sold for $400.

The average price of Hampshire rams in the sale on the 31st was somewhat lower than the 1927 average. One stud sold for $475. Mr. Breckenridge had one that brought $725, and another that brought $300. Yesterday was closing day and was devoted to the sale of other breeds.

Mrs. Bohler suffered dislocation of her wrist and was cut severely bruised about the face. Mrs. Olson also received bruises. Miss Lillian Bohler, daughter of Mrs. Bohler, and two younger children escaped unhurt, and all members of the party crawled out through the back of the car while motor continued running and gas and oil were escaping.

They remained for a time in Winnemucca, Nevada, and returned to Twin Falls last Saturday evening.

CAR THEFT CHARGED TO FORGER SUSPECT

Robert O. Smith, Wanted in Brigham City, May Be Held for Taking Ohio Automobile

Robert O. Smith, 25, wanted at Brigham City, Utah, on forged charges, has confessed guilt of theft of an automobile taken in Streeter, Illinois, a week ago, Ralph E. Leighton, Twin Falls police chief, stated last evening.

Smith was arrested yesterday morning near Jerome when a deputy sheriff found him vainly endeavoring to start his car after the gas had given out. He was lodged in the Twin Falls jail along with Samuel Colt who says that he traveled with Smith from Streeter, Nebraska, and had no part in the theft of the car or the alleged forgeries. Colt was arrested here as he was leaving a theatre Wednesday night.

BURGLARS AT GOODING RIFLE CASH REGISTER

Burglars broke into a second hand store at Gooding Wednesday night and rifled the cash register, taking $150, which was all the money in the store. Officers here were advised yesterday. Hope is entertained that fingerprints left on the register may assist in capture of the burglars.

WANTED MAN FACES PROSECUTION HERE

Police Chief Indicates Federal Charge of Automobile Theft Will Be Made Against Catlin

Art Catlin, wanted in Oklahoma for automobile theft and jail breaking, and wanted also in Indiana for robbery, probably will be held to answer in federal court in Idaho for automobile theft, Ralph E. Leighton, Twin Falls police chief, stated last evening. In that event Catlin would be formally accused of theft, which he is alleged to have confessed, of an automobile taken from Woodville, Ohio, in which he traveled to Twin Falls.

Catlin was arrested here Monday night in connection with theft of a blanket alleged to have been admitted by James A. Miller, who said that he had traveled with Catlin from Lake Andes, South Dakota.

FILER MEN PURCHASE BARRETT AUTO COMPANY

The J. A. Barrett Auto company, distributor of Studebaker automobiles and one of Twin Falls' first automobile concerns, has been sold by J. A. Barrett, its founder, to H. L. Cedarholm and Fred Conant, both of Filer. It was announced last evening. The deal is to be completed today when the new owners are to be continued for a time at least under the present firm name. Mr. Barrett will leave in the near future for Los Angeles where Mrs. Barrett has been for some time. Mr. Cedarholm and Mr. Conant, the new owners, have been engaged for some years in farming on an extensive scale in the Filer district. They will establish their residences here.

FUNERALS

CLAMPITT—Funeral services will be held in Filer this afternoon for Ray Glenn Clampitt, five months old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clampitt, whose death, caused by enteritis, occurred Thursday morning at 5:15 o'clock. Funeral services will be in charge of the P. J. Groesman mortuary.

CONSOLIDATION NOT PANACEA FOR EVERY ILL, BABSON FINDS

Great Change to Larger Units in Industry and Trade Unquestionably Feature Present Age, Declares Statistician

(Special To The News)
 BABSON PARK, Mass. Aug. 30.—History will record the past six years as a second industrial revolution. It will speak of the great change to larger units in industry and trade. Unquestionably this is the dominant feature of the present age. The cause of it is well known—over-capacity, narrowing margins of profit, scientific discoveries and inventions, less competition and toward the elimination of the weaker units in industry. This, however, does not mean that the size alone spells success. The small or medium sized company with an honest, efficient, and progressive management has a better chance of success under present conditions than the large corporation whose management is self satisfied, dilatory and non-progressive. Today as always the fate of the man at the head of more importance than the size of the business.

Growth Not Stifling
 Investors have, for some reason or other—come to believe that there is some magic in a merger that necessarily means an advance in the price of the securities of the companies merged. However, this by no means is always the case. True, the speculators play on merger rumors and prospects to advance the price of securities involved; but from the standpoint of the long-puller, the industrial consolidations of the past few years have yet to prove their value. For illustration, out of 20 typical industrial mergers completed prior to 1925, nine have since shown a declining net income, whereas 11 have shown some increase. Only four of these industrial consolidations could be called highly successful. Five of the 20 are in a weaker financial position, as indicated by net working capital, than they were just after the merger.

Utility Mergers Successful
 The consolidation never extends throughout our economic life. We find it not only in all manufacturing lines, but also in distributive trades, transportation, and public service companies. The big public utility consolidations of the past 10 years seem to be working out more favorably, on the average, than those in other lines. To some extent this is doubtless due to the monopolistic nature of the business. Competition is practically non-existent for most of these utility combines. Furthermore, the public utility business seems to lend itself to this type of organization more readily, and to derive some immediate and spectacular benefits in the way of economies in financing and operation. The savings made possible through public utility consolidations are passed on to the consumer in the form of lower rates. Moreover, the small and isolated towns and cities who are in most need of improved service and lower rates are the ones which get the greatest benefit. In such cases the production of electricity or gas can only be obtained by an independent company at a high rate. Where such companies are taken into a large system the costs are at once lowered through conspicuous savings. There have been cases in the past few years where "to-carry" public utility combinations were made without any economic justification, but on the whole the concentration into a few large systems is working to the benefit of the consumer.

Mergers for Efficiency
 There are two kinds of industrial mergers. Most of them are caused by necessity or expediency. A large one caused by the belief that, while the companies involved may be highly successful already, they would be more efficient if merged. In analyzing the mergers from a financial standpoint, therefore, we must take into consideration what would have happened had they not been merged. Competition is fierce. Many mergers of the past few years were dictated by necessity. Their failure to show remarkable growth since consolidation may not be entirely an argument against the value of consolidation. Had they not merged some of them would doubtless have fallen by the wayside. Nevertheless, the investment public's blind faith in the efficacy of mergers to solve all of the company's troubles and put it on the highway to success is often times unfounded. Given good management and proper financial structure, consolidation does not doubtless aid to progress, but it should not be regarded as a panacea for all ills.

He'll Brave Antarctic Peril

(It of the consumers, the companies, and their stockholders.)
 Railroad Consolidation
 There has been much smoke but very little fire in connection with railroad consolidations. Numerous mergers have been planned and some have actually gone as far as to call for exchange of securities; but few mergers have actually taken place. This is because the ideas of the Interstate Commerce commission are at variance with those of the railroad executives. One of the principal lines of contention is the demand by the latter that any consolidation should take care of short lines in the territory. The big railroad systems on the other hand—see consolidation of those unprofitable short lines. There are, in all, about 650 class 2 and class 3 railroads, which are mostly short line roads. They represent a total property value of around $1,000,000,000. While a few of them are operating profitably, the great majority are not. They are subject to keen competition from motor trucks and buses in the short haul business. Most of the short lines that are paying well are already controlled by some of the larger systems. Earning power of the others is negligible in proportion to the investment in them.
 "We now learn that a new railroad consolidation bill will be presented this year calling for special favors for the short lines. The whole railroad consolidation program, therefore, is facing an impasse. The rail executives on the one hand do not believe it is economically beneficial for their roads to incorporate non-profitable short lines in their systems, and the Interstate Commerce commission, on the other hand, refuses to allow mergers of important roads unless the short roads are taken in with them. Each element of consolidation schemes which include short lines believe that by getting them into a big profitable system their earnings power will be in-

created and their property built up on the other hand, it often times happens that when a small non-profitable short line road is taken over by a large class 1 road, the net income decreases rather than increases. That is because local interests at once demand more trains, better connections and generally better service than traffic on the road by itself would permit. Also the states in which such short lines are located demand more taxes, labor wants higher wages, and the expenses of the small road rapidly mount, whereas the gross revenues do not keep pace. Such has been the experience in several instances, and it has discouraged railroad executives from taking on these non-profitable lines merely for the sake of carrying forward their major consolidation plans. Ultimately this railroad merger struggle will be straightened out, but the situation is involved politically and otherwise that it is impossible to predict how soon an effective merger movement will get under way in this country. It is not wise to speculate on railroad merger prospects. Business is still a long way from normal as recorded by the barometer.

SEVENTY-NINERS SHORT OF MEMBERSHIP LIST

BURLEY, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Lulu Sears of Albion, secretary of the Seventy-Niners, an association of southern Idaho pioneers, announces that she has sent out invitations for the meeting to be held in Albion, September 5. Mrs. Sears states that the list of members, which was misplaced at the time of the death of Mrs. Annie Bricker, former secretary, has never been found. Mrs. Sears, however, has been able to send invitations to only about 300, the names and addresses of very many not being obtainable. She wishes it announced through the press that all old timers, and their descendants or wives or husbands who arrived in old Cuyler or Cassia county during or before 1882, consider themselves invited to the annual gathering of the association, to be held this year on the normal grounds at Albion, September 5.

There will be exercises, morning and afternoon including speaking by prominent visitors. At night, there will be a big dance. Meals will be furnished at noon and night in the normal dining room, by the citizens of Albion. A photographer will take a group picture on the steps of one of the normal buildings, at noon.

FAMINE THREATENING 200,000 PEASANTS ON ANATOLIAN PLATEAUS

Turkish Government Taking Relief Measures in Region Where Natives' Prayers to Allah Have Been Unavailing

(By The Associated Press)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29.—Famine threatens more than 200,000 Anatolian peasants whose crops for the third successive year have been ruined by drought.

The Turkish government has been aroused to take vigorous relief measures by the cry of starvation from a large region of Anatolia where the people have found their prayers to Allah unavailing.

Information concerning the famine has not been easy to obtain because Turkish officials regard it as a task for the Ankara government alone. The districts most affected are the six provinces stretching over the Anatolian plateau from Ankara to Konia, where the yearly average rainfall is only 5 3-4 inches.

Save Anatolia
The Kemalists, who have saved Anatolia from the sultan's despotism and foreign invasion, are now jumping into action to rescue it from famine and utter depopulation. Late in the day, but at last they have determined to inaugurate a far-reaching "water policy," a policy as important as their remarkable railroad construction program.

The Anatolia plateau is to be irrigated. The Kilis Irrigation and other rivers of the region and the huge volcanic lake of Otrank are to be utilized after centuries of neglect by the ignorant and fatalistic peasantry and the do-nothing sultans.

One day exists—the "Balkan" field press, "those who go from Ankara to Konia will traverse not the desert of the Ottoman Empire, but the green, rich, cultivated, wooded garden of the Turkish Republic."

Two German agricultural experts are elaborating the program for the vast system of irrigation necessary to produce the dream of "garden" and are recommending also other drastic measures. These include wholesale transportation of populations from such sterile regions as Van and Trebizond to the more fertile valleys of the southwest and a vigorous campaign of education for the peasantry to teach them the necessity of the rotation of crops, the majority of them only plant wheat and oats, year in and year out, and methods of fertilization and irrigation.

Build for Future
Thus the young republic builds for the future. The Obama had selected one of his most active right-hand men, the minister of the interior, Chukri Kaya Bey, to save the situation. The minister, after visiting the six provinces concerned from border to border, has made his report on the tragic conditions in no mincing terms, and the cabinet has voted immediately in favor of the measures he proposed.

The minister's alarming picture of famine and villages utterly deserted on the Konia plain, and of thousands of peasants abandoning agriculture to fall back on the more primitive, nomadic life of herding, has shaken the Kemalists out of their high dreams of progress and civilization created and supposedly made per-

The cost of $3,000,000 worth of seed through railroad companies here of "top" grain (trainloads of grain and fodder, hit-of the disaster zone within the next three months at reduced tariffs so that prices will be 10 times less than at present.

In order that the penniless peasantry may buy, the ministry of public works has allotted $500,000 for their employment on irrigation, road and railroad building, and the government rail lines.

Many Men Work
For irrigation alone 100,000 men will be employed immediately for 100 days, and for the road-building women and children will be given work as well as men. The Turkish Red Crescent society, the equivalent of the Red Cross, is distributing another $500,000 among those unable to work. To save next year's crops from this year's disaster, other measures besides irrigation are being taken such as the distribution of $3,000,000 worth of seed through railroad companies here of "top" grain (trainloads of grain and fodder, hit-of the disaster zone within the next three months at reduced tariffs so that prices will be 10 times less than at present.

Grand Central Air Station Is Cuba's Great Vision of Future

(By The Associated Press)
HAVANA, Aug. 30.—Cuba's dream of becoming the hub of Latin American airways is rapidly being realized. Award of contracts for the carrying of mail between the United States, Cuba, Porto Rico and Panama are being received by the Pan-American Airways Incorporated. This concern, owned by United States capitalists, is purchasing for equipment certain quantities of dollars, including six new planes.

Each machine is equipped with 100-horsepower motor and has a load capacity of 12 passengers and 1000 pounds of freight. The company has called for bids on larger planes capable of carrying 20 passengers and more freight.

Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico, Honduras, Nicaragua and Guatemala are being studied by engineers and contractors are being selected for long line fields. Two fields already established at Havana and Havana are being re-conditioned and air roads are estimated to be complete.

The most fanciful dreams of Juan Varona and the more recent predictions of G. C. Lewis, the future of aviation, are being fulfilled in the formative labors of the Pan-American engineers. The studios of aircraft that will dot the skies of the tropics; the whisking of people from distant lands to a formerly remote place in a matter of a few hours; the creation of a "three" particularly to aviation and an consequently, unique in type and structure, will make many picture flow appearing in current months, graphically depicting aviation a few years hence on common place.

Detail of the Panama service are now being worked out and, with completed present process, will be ready next week. In the meantime, the United States-Cuba mail and passenger service are in force and within the very near future the Island of Cuba will be connected with a dependable service between Havana, Santa Clara, Camaguey and Santiago de Cuba while the line at Miami will serve Porto Rico.

MERCHANTS TO BUILD AT CASSIA COUNTY'S FAIR

BURLEY, Aug. 30.—Burley Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Monday night, heard announcement by members of the fair committee that a merchants' pavilion would be erected for use in displaying merchandise and automobiles at the coming county fair.

Buildings will be provided for 25 merchandise displays and for seven automobile dealers. Earl-Crum, who has the merchants' pavilion project in charge, stated that all spaces had been sold except one and that work on the building would begin at once. Announcement was also made that the race horse track recently destroyed by fire were being partially replaced, and that 20 new cages would be built. County funds were being assembled by both Holsteln and Jerg, breeders, it was brought out, for entry in the Twin Falls and Cassia county fairs.

John Shimmert, Jersey fancier, requested that the chamber of commerce sponsor an annual dairy show, the first to be held the coming spring. It was resolved that a committee be appointed to have charge of a county dairy day and that the Mini-Cassia Holsteln association be invited to hold its annual picnic at the same time.

THE CONVENTIONS

A singularly quiet convention was held at Twin Falls this week when the Republican and Democratic parties nominated a blanket endorsement of the present State administration by renominating practically the complete set of officials in office for the past two years. W. D. Gillis of Piler, will make the race for the Attorney Generalship, Frank Stephan of Twin Falls having withdrawn as a candidate.

A Democratic ticket was selected under very similar circumstances. Perhaps the outstanding feature of both gatherings is to be found in the almost singular unanimity of judgment among the delegates.

"All right," Norman said daily. He took off his coat and prepared to jump on the boat.

"I'll break some day, just like a fish net. Not now, maybe. Some day when you're least expecting it."

"You people have great health," Delong uttered to his feet. "You want all water just as the Lord made it. This girl here thinks a farm can be nothing but a jumble of potatoes and pasture."

SENATOR ROBINSON ACCEPTS BOURBONS CALL TO LEADERSHIP

Remedy for Agriculture's Ills Important Task for Party; Prohibition Comes in for Arkansas Statesman's Views

(By The Associated Press) HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 30.—Farm relief, prohibition, merchant marine and political corruption were singled out tonight as leading campaign issues by Senator Joe T. Robinson, Arkansas, in accepting the Democratic vice-presidential nomination.

He cited farm relief as perhaps the "most important" of the four and declared that Herbert Hoover, the Republican standard bearer, who he described as the president's trusted advisor, was "perhaps more directly responsible for the failure of farm relief legislation" during the Harding-Coolidge administration than any other single political leader.

The senator said that if a more effective plan than that comprised by the equalization fee proposal of the McNary-Haugen farm bill were discovered that should be adopted, but that "the time has come, however, when an economic adventure is justified" in behalf of the farmer.

Discusses Prohibition
Mr. Robinson, a consistent supporter of dry legislation in congress, opened his discussion of prohibition with the statement that "there has always been room in the Democratic party for those who refer to the best means of promoting temperance and of suppressing the traffic of alcoholic beverages."

He reviewed the respective positions of the Democratic and Republican platforms on prohibition, declared the Houston convention had recognized that Democracy was neither a prohibition nor anti-prohibition organization and launched an attack against those who have referred to Governor Smith, the party's presidential nominee, as a nullificationist. "Can it be said," he declared, "that because Governor Smith believes that without restriction to the old constitution the freedom of temperance and respect for law can be promoted through changes in the existing system, he is a nullificationist and an enemy of the constitution?" Such arguments, he said, "insult the intelligence of their authors."

"It is recognized that the people constitute the reservoir of all political power and have the right in the constitutional manner to call for changes in either or both the constitution and the law. The executive has no power to modify either."

"It is in no sense an attempt at nullification to suggest changes in the constitution or the law. Nullification consists of refusal or wilful failure to enforce."

The senator in discussing the American shipping policy said an adequate merchant marine was recognized by the Democratic party as "essential to the safety of the nation and the independence of its commerce," and on the question of political corruption he held that "honesty in public affairs is of transcending importance."

Red Signal of Decadence
"Corruption is the red signal of decadence," he said in reviewing disclosures in recent years by senate investigating committees, adding: "The Democratic party pledges itself to 'rescue the government from those who have betrayed their trust by disgracing it.'"

Recapitulating the events of the last eight years the senator contended the record disclosed that the Republican party "has admitted the urgent character of the agricultural problem."

"The facts prove also that the Republican party," he continued, "is either incapable of successfully dealing with the question or has deliberately violated its express promises to the farmers of the nation."

"It would seem that eight years have afforded ample time for action and that a political organization which has had every opportunity which the years could bring to obtain beneficial results, should not now be heard ask for a renewal of its lease on power merely to repeat the old promises which have been so often broken."

Mr. Robinson, a supporter of the

JOSEPH T. ROBINSON

McNary-Haugen bill, said that Mr. Hoover's "position touching upon legislation for agricultural relief marks no material advance," and that the Republican nominee in his acceptance speech recognized the "persistence of the farm problem and what is more significant the failure of his party to advance a constructive program of relief."

Reviews Remarks
The senator reviewed Mr. Hoover's remarks on the farm question and declared that the Democrats repudiated his "proposal to limit farm production to domestic demands as calculated to belittle rather than to encourage the great industry of agriculture."

"The Democratic party recognizes the right of farmers," the senator went on, "to lead in the development of farm policies. While the equalization fee provided for in the McNary-Haugen bill is not expressed approved, the Democratic platform does recognize the principle of distributing the cost of operations with respect to surplus crops to the market units whose producers are benefited thereby."

"If a more equitable and effective farm relief program is discovered, the equalization fee is discovered, it should be adopted. The time has come, however, when an economic adventure is justified in behalf of the millions who engage in that industry without whom civilization could not survive."

The Democratic nominee for president has committed himself to prompt and decisive action in accordance with the principles outlined in our platform.

Among other things during the course of his speech, the senator said that the "wholesale frauds perpetrated by Republican office holders since March 4, 1917," had prompted the Republican national convention to place in its platform a plank declaring in favor of honesty in government.

He also declared that throughout the Harding-Coolidge administrations the prohibition bureau had been under the treasury department "whose head, prior to national prohibition was largely interested in the liquor business."

"Mr. Vane (William S. Vane of Pennsylvania) who thwarted the movement to stop Hoover at Kansas City and forced Mr. Hoover's nomination," he added, "obtained election to the senate on a platform containing a single plank—the repeal of national prohibition."

CIGAR MAKING TRADE FOR WOMEN TOILERS

Girls With Eye For Color Can Earn $50 Per Week in Cigar Factories, Survey Reveals

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 30 (AP)—A girl with an eye for colors can make $50 a week by looking at cigars, but a girl with a sensitive nose will probably be tickled out of her livelihood.

Left-handed girls, quick-eyed girls and girls with robust noses can earn more making cigars in New Orleans than they can get in most trades.

According to a survey made by Lucie Westfield, research secretary of the High School Scholarship association, cigar-making is primarily a woman's job. The report of the survey comes in response to 1927 data that of the 1546 persons employed in the cigar industry here, there are 1233 women. Of these, 19 are girls under 16 years of age.

There are nine jobs in the process of making a cigar, and each is a trade in itself.

The most lucrative jobs are those of the roller (which is particularly suited for left-handed girls); the packer (where the girl, with the keen eye for color, is important); and the checker, who makes the body of the cigar. As a strong odor of tobacco pervades even the best-ventilated factories, and becomes rank when the windows are so damp that the windows must be closed, there are some workers who leave the trade for this reason. The machine operator, however, become accustomed to the atmosphere.

Except in the case of workers on the most expensive cigars, who are paid a flat weekly rate to encourage them not to hurry to the possible detriment of quality, the cigar maker is on a piece work basis. The hours are in a large measure their own affair, and if the ambitious enough she, may be on hand when the factory opens at 7:30 a. m. or if she has been to a party, the night before she may arrive as late as 9 o'clock. She may leave as early as 2:30 in the afternoon or she can stay until the factory closes at 4 o'clock. Usually factories do not permit workers to arrive after 9 o'clock or to leave before 2:30 o'clock, but outside of these hours they may work as they like, except during a rush season.

RARE BOOKS GUARDED LIKE GOLD IN LIBRARY OF CONGRESS SECTION

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Behind the steel bars of bankers' cages atop the big stacks of the library of congress are kept some of the rarest books in the world.

The collection of guarded-buffon is carried out when V. Valia Parma, librarian in charge of the rare book section, cautiously and carefully brings out some of the 35,000 treasured volumes.

The section, which has completed a year, as a special division of the library, has an air of aloofness up on the top floor high above the common books.

The inanimate objects are alive to Parma. Her human stories of mankind's progress. A large square, slim volume, selected at random, displays a page of the Gutenberg bible. It is one of the first printed pages in the history of the world, the German's first printed experiment with movable type. Parma goes to another shelf and brings to light a very ordinary-looking book in a modern, dark blue binding.

It is one of the most called-for books in the department, said to be one of two copies in existence. The other is in the library of the Vatican.

It is Dicky's memoirs of Mary Baker Eddy. All other copies are believed to have been destroyed.

On another shelf are five delicately but securely-bound volumes that represent a fabulous sum in the language of book dealers, the first five editions of Isaac Walton's "Complete Angler," written by the same author.

A book published in 1663 and believed to be one of two copies in existence is Roger Williams' "Key into the Language of America, or A Help in the Language of the Natives of That Part of America Called New England." In it a puzzled Englishman attempted to give a translation of the Indian language as four folios of Shakespeare's works.

OIL LESSEE LOSES RIGHT IF INDIAN LAND HAS GAS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 30 (AP)—The policy of the federal government in leasing Osage Indian lands for oil and gas separately has brought about an unusual situation in the fields of northeastern Oklahoma. Gas leases must turn over their wells at cost if oil is found and holders of oil rights surrender the holes they drilled, if gas is discovered.

When eastern Oklahoma was yet Indian territory, the interior department sold gas leases on the restricted Osage lands to several large companies, reserving oil rights. Each lease covered several thousand acres.

When oil was found on the Indian property, the government sold oil leases on ground already leased for gas. Discovery of oil by the holder of a gas lease requires him to surrender the flowing well to the man who purchased the oil rights, the latter bearing expenses of drilling.

The same rule applies, conversely, when gas is struck by an oil lease holder.

A trick of the trade has caused the government to construct a number of offices in the Osage fields to see that the leases are respected. A driller can "mud off" gas and drill to a deeper oil sand, instead of giving the gas to its lawful owner.

They were found by adventurers from across the sea.

A history of the Plymouth Colony written in 1622, two years after the founding of the settlement, is one of the most valuable books in the collection. It has been of great assistance to research workers in American history.

After a year of organizing the collection Parma now is planning to assemble special groups of books. In England and from William Morris, who made Chaucer—a thing of physical beauty, to and through the modern press.

AUTO HELPS PHILIPPINES

MANILA (AP)—American automobiles are being given credit for development of the Philippine Islands because of their contribution to the cause of good roads opening up unsettled areas with resulting creation of additional sources of wealth and the closer contact of the island peoples. Average annual income of the population is only about $28 per capita, but the islands have increased automobile imports from less than 250 in 1910 until nearly 30,000 now are registered.

Business Uses Air Route From Mexico To United States

MANY business men are employing the airplane as a method of transportation from their interests in Mexico to the United States.

Luella Wolfe, who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wolfe, said in an interview last evening, Miss Wolfe has been in Tampico on the eastern seaboard of Mexico for the last five years where she is secretary to the chief geologist of the Mexican Gulf Oil company.

Rates of travel by airplane are about two times that of railroad travel, Miss Wolfe said. Two and one-half hours are required to go by plane from Tampico to the American border, a distance which otherwise requires 24 hours to traverse by train. Railway service is rather poor and schedules do not permit speedy travel by rail, Miss Wolfe has found.

Tampico is rapidly becoming Americanized. Oil companies are constructing new buildings there which are modern, but with those exceptions, the city is thoroughly Mexican. Most of the buildings are made of stone and are constructed flush with the street. Offices and other rooms open from a patio or court within the walls.

Native about Tampico are employed by the oil companies or are engaged in farming. Most Mexican farms are quite small, although American methods are rapidly coming into use by the American and Mexican ranchers of larger holdings.

Tomatoes and peppers are the principal agricultural products of this vicinity. Native oranges, which are very juicy, are grown here. The natives often play jokes on newly arrived Americans by giving them a smaller orange which is very bitter, Miss Wolfe said.

The laboring classes do not understand English, but the Mexicans are little higher in the social scale than come to the United States to receive their education.

Tampico is little affected by the unrest in the interior due to its position on the seacoast. There is no feeling against the American interests near Tampico. In fact, the Mexicans pay very little attention to foreigners, Miss Wolfe stated.

Stage is one American paper, printed for Americans in Tampico. The Mexicans have three large dailies and several weeklies printed in Spanish.

Miss Wolfe leaves next week on a return trip to Mexico. She has been in Twin Falls about two weeks.

CHINESE FARMERS JOIN FORCES IN NEW UNION

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30 (AP)—A new style farmers' union, supporting the Communist peasants' union, which has been abolished in China by the nationalist government, is coming into being in China and is expected to receive government support so great has been the success of the first such union to be established.

The new organization has come into being on the island of Hingtung, off the Peking provincial coast, known in former days as the stronghold of a famous band of pirates which repeatedly raided coastal shipping.

A native of the island, after touring almost all China studying the needs and problems of the farmers, returned and organized a farmers' union. No name has been given to the union, but farmers are benefiting more from it than they did from those now named by the government.

AERIAL WORLD TURNS EYES TO LOS ANGELES

Glittering Cash and Trophy Awards Will Serve as Magnet to Draw Fliers to California

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (AP)—Overtopping cash and trophy awards, with the promise of as many thrills as the increasingly busy efficiency of aviation can provide, will serve as a magnet to draw the aerial world to Los Angeles September 8 to 10 during the national air races and "aeromachical" exhibition, when eight air derbies of first importance will terminate here.

The California Air Race association, sponsor of the meet, has pledged $15,000 in cash prizes. In addition, trophy awards and other cash prizes offered by the 17 control cities through which the transcontinental devices are routed, and by individuals and business firms, will bring the total value of the victors' spoils to more than $200,000.

Already testing engines and putting planes in trim, more than 200 there, including many well-known pilots such as Art Goebel, winner of the Dole race to Honolulu, have filed entries for the various events. Among other prominent entries are Henry B. Dupont, Wilmington, Delaware; Lieutenant James Ames and Dan Kearns, United States army; Paul Braniff, El Paso, Texas; Phil Thaw II, organizer of the Lafayette-Birmingham; W. H. Emery, Bradford, Pennsylvania; Harry Tucker, Santa Monica, California; Eugene Detmer, New York, winner of first place in a 1927 derby; H. C. Lippitt, Los Angeles, and Thomas Colby, Detroit.

In addition to the races, attractions will include the national conventions of several aviation organizations, among them the National Aeronautical Association, Professional Pilots' association, Flight Ames' association, and the newly formed organization of airport managers, and the exhibits of manufacturers of airplanes and airplane accessories.

The races, to have their finish lines at Mines field, east of the air-drome, include a non-stop air derby from New York City; three controlled races from the same city with stops at designated points en route; an international race from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Canadian pilots; a race from Mexico City, pilots limited to those of Pan-American rating; and two California state races, one from Los Angeles to Los Angeles and the other from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

In addition to the cross-country races, many important closed-circuit events are planned for the nine-day meet, in which army and navy participation has been promised.

But while thrills are in store for the spectators, this year's races will take the form of a proving ground for commercial flying. Generally speaking, the races have been deliberately built up to spread before America a great bazooka of information.

Many vexing questions concerning flying as a business have arisen in the last year or so, due to the impetus given commercial aviation as a result of publicity drawn by spectacular flights. Answers to these, say officials of the National Aeronautics association, may be obtained at the races.

The Pulitzer speed event, topped off in 1925, will not be resumed, but many fliers will try for the John G. Mitchell speed trophy for pursuit planes. The Mason M. Patrick trophy for military attack planes will be contested for the first time. The army, navy and marine corps will send crack performers to the national parachute jumping contest. Many events, however, are planned for civilian planes.

PRINTED VELVETS
PARIS, (AP)—Velvet prints in dark colors now are being used for men's dressing gowns. The designs for masculine garments are small, or of contrasting stripes, plaids or checks. Revers and cuffs are of silk faille or ottoman.

London Will Employ Official Pied Piper

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Official rat-catchers are to be placed on the pay-roll of the port of London authorities in consequence of the findings of the recent health international sanitary convention. The holders of these posts will be required to know everything necessary to rid a vessel of rats. For instance, he will have to be able to estimate the number of rats in a ship before he begins to fumigate, and that estimate will be checked by the number of rats found.

SMITH HOMESTEAD FAMOUS AND PROUD

Thatched Cottage on Edge of Peat Bog in Farming District in Old Ireland Rises to Fame

CAVAN, Ireland, Aug. 31 (AP)—On the edge of a peat bog in the farming district near here stands a one-story thatched cottage built of rough white-washed stone, which has become famous as the ancestral home of the Democratic candidate for president of the United States.

It is the birthplace of Governor Smith's grandfather, who set out from this humble homestead to seek his fortune in America during the turbulent period of the Ulster farmers' revolt against oppressive landlords. In which he was a leading agitator.

The house, situated in the heart of a region noted for its sylvan beauty is typical of farmers' cottages throughout the Bruskey district. Weeks of hard labor went into its erection and although it is now well-preserved, it is a veritable part of the soil and as sturdy as the Smiths who occupy it still. The stones for its masonry were carried in creels or wicker baskets on the backs of the Smith farmers from a quarry a mile away, and were built in by hand, with rough mortar.

Beside the cottage is a wild stretch of bogland where the exiled Smiths once sought refuge.

James Smith, the present occupant of the homestead, and John Reilly, both second cousins of Governor Smith, cut turf near the cottage. This district is a veritable colony of farmers named Smith, all of whom are very proud of the Democratic candidate who has brought their name into prominence in America. Proudest of them all is Mr. James Smith. He is sure that his little home will soon be famous.

ITALIAN PRESS 'REBELS' AGAINST FASCIST RULES

ROME, Aug. 30 (AP)—A revolt against the authority imposed by Fascism on the Italian press, has been launched by a Fascist paper, "Brillante."

"Restore the newspaper to newspaper," is the battle-cries and the complaint goes on to record that 99 per cent of the "present so-called decadence of the Italian press can be traced to functioning of press offices."

The paper says that under the strict laws of the Fascist government, newspapers have lost their individuality and are obliged to print only news obtained from official agencies. Henceforth, it is declared, freedom of the press, never, must be paid for at regular advertised rates.

CHANGE CAR LIGHTING HELSINGFORS (AP)—

So many complaints have been received by the Finnish State railways that some occupied by sleeping cars are awoken by reading at night by the light of their gas lamps that electric lights are to be installed. The heavy current of electricity supplying a separate dynamo for each car will probably limit the number of cars so equipped.

Smith's Mother Is Remembered As Proud of Governor's Family

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP)—The regret that a mother did not live to see her oldest born achieve the distinction is the only flaw in the otherwise complacent political and family life of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

When he had been selected by the democratic party in Houston as its choice for the presidency, one of the governor's first reactions was to regret that his mother could not have lived to see her hopes realized.

Mrs. Smith, Jr., the daughter-in-law of blue-eyed Catherine Mulvihill, who was young Al's mother, was a fond of the elder Mrs. Smith as was her husband and counted it a great day when the grandmother of her children would leave her Brooklyn home for a visit to the executive mansion in Albany.

In the sweltering excitement of the Houston convention, had the night of Smith's nomination, the first words Mrs. Smith uttered after the announcement were, "Oh, how I wish my mother were here to see this."

Friends and neighbors of the Smiths in Albany knew little of the mother, except as the slim little white-haired woman whose greatest delight was to watch her grandchildren in the yard playing with the dogs, in the house busy at their books, or leaving the mansion on sundry youthful missions.

After her children were grown and able to take care of themselves Mrs. Smith forsook the old South street neighborhood in New York's lower east side and made her home in Brooklyn with her daughter, Mrs. John J. Glynn. When Alfred and his wife with their brood of five children were living in the little Oliver street home, Mrs. Smith was a frequent guest.

In the later and more prosperous days when the boy had become governor of commonwealth New York, his visits to his mother's home were among the highlights of his frequent trips to New York. The memory of the governor's booming voice echoing through the little Brooklyn home calling out for his mother is a common one among the neighbors.

Women Engineers Have Paris School

PARIS, Aug. 28 (AP)—In the wake of women doctors and lawyers, women engineers are coming into the limelight in France.

They have a school all to themselves in Paris, and industrial magnates dispute the privilege of engineering out for his mother is a common one among the neighbors.

The Electro-Mechanical Institute for Women is installed in the National Conservatory of Arts and Crafts. To follow its course women must have an A-B degree in mathematics or must pass the examinations of a preparatory section.

These courses are especially designed to create an elite corps of women engineers, trained in all commercial phases of industry as well as the technical sides.

DRESSMAKERS URGE DIGNIFIED CLOTHES

With Retirement of Sport Apparel Distinction Between Ages Creeps Back Into Style

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP)—With the forced retirement of sport clothes from the fashion fastidious distinction between ages has crept back into style. The dress-makers are by no means urging women to look their age. But autumn styles have a new dignity that has been lacking for some time. The recent fashion collections as a whole, there are dresses for mothers and daughters in the autumn collection. If there are no dresses for grandmothers it is because modern grandmothers are no longer classified as such.

The simplicity of fashion creators are showing extra groups of dresses for young girls of debutante age. These costumes have a style and grace of their own, not to be confused with the clothes made design for elder sister. By differentiating between mothers and daughters the designers are enabled to add new sophistication and grown up charm to winter clothes.

Dignity, without dowdiness, is achieved, particularly in the new afternoon gowns of satin, flat crepes and velvets. Slightly longer skirts are responsible, but in general it is the result of restrained trimming and choice of color. Black, dark blues, dark browns, rich reds, soft greens and gray are the dominant shades for day costumes, with beige almost as popular as it was for summer.

Lines which are lighter than navy and darker than natter are shown by such of the important shades meant for daytime and evening clothes.

INFLUENCE FASHIONS

PARIS, Aug. 30 (AP)—Cassiole is the newest influence in fashion, traceable through the taffeta evening wraps in the collection of Madame Lavin. Above very full long taffeta skirts are posed shaped pelmuses, curved toward and downward; covered with brilliant oriental beading. The pelmuse is sometimes lined with brilliant color as in a black taffeta dress jeweled in silver with a scarlet pelmuse lining. There are also heavy, orientally shaped collars of brilliant beading, so heavy that they look like harness. They are cut in big shapes meant to be worn with the broadest front.

BUYING DORMANT IN CHICAGO GRAIN PIT

Traders Awaiting New Trend to Develop; Prices Go Down Slightly; Damage by Frost

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP)—Buying was dormant in the grain market today and the traders apparently awaiting some new trend to develop, prices yielded a trifle. A break of 3c in September corn was accompanied by the sale of a round lot of mixed corn by the leading holders, and other deliveries followed September downward at the close.

Thrashing returns from the Canadian harvest fields were high, and this, coupled with continued forecasts of clear weather, deterred buyers at the start. There was a short lived spurt soon after the opening that lifted quotations back to Wednesday's level, but support was hesitant and trade quieted down.

Interest was expressed in the amount of frost damage to Canadian crops, one observer reported that the damage was considerable, but placing the probable yield in excess of 500,000,000 bushels, while another believed an estimate of 500,000,000 bushels conservative and the frost damage to quality rather than quantity. Private crop figures are due next Tuesday.

Wheat finished 5c to 1 1/2c lower, September $1.10 to $1.10 1/2; December $1.15 1/2 to $1.15 3/4; March $1.20 1/2 to $1.20 3/4; and May $1.22 1/2 to $1.22 3/4. Corn closed heavy, 3c to 3 1/2c lower, September 92 1/2 to 92 1/2; December 74 1/2 to 74 1/2; March 76 1/2 to 76 1/2; and May 77 1/2 to 77 1/2.

Oats were dull and easier with corn, closing 3/4c to 1/2c lower, September 40 1/2 to 40 1/2; March 42 1/2 to 42 1/2; and May 43 1/2 to 43 1/2. Provisions were quiet today, September lard down 10c to $12.30 to $12.32.

NEW HIGH RECORDS ON NEW YORK STOCK MART

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—The stock market chalked up another long list of new high records today. Speculation for the advance slowed up somewhat toward the close as traders lightened their commitments pending the publication of the weekly report on brokers' loans. The figures, made public after the close, showed an increase of $3,017,000, bringing the total to $4,235,148,000. The day's stock sales totaled 3,321,300 shares.

Call money renewed at 7 1/2 per cent but the supply of funds became so large that the rate was dropped to 7 in mid-afternoon.

While the demand for stocks continued a wide list of issues, the buying was nevertheless selective in character. Copper shares gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength on reports of unusually low reserve stocks of the red metal and a rapidly expanding foreign and domestic demand. American Smelting touched a new high record for all time at 25 1/2 after then slipping back to 24 1/2. A net. Anaconda crossed 75 for the first time in 10 years. Kennecott, Calumet and Hecla, International Nickel and Deere also moved into new high ground.

Except for the establishment of a new high record by Hupp, there was little interest in the motor group. Savage Arms ran up 6 1/2 points to a new high at 47 1/2 on reports that a big Chicago dealer had ordered a large block of the stock. Loose Wiles soared more than 9 points to 78 1/2, also a new peak. Stadio soared 8 1/2 points to 20 1/2 and closed within a fraction of the top on buying influenced by the return of the chief specialist in that issue. Adams Express, American Radiator, Case Threshing, Colby Drug, Inc., Flak Rubber preferred, Innes, International Business Machines, Johns-Manville, Koster Radco, National Biscuit and Vicks Chemical all closed 4 to 8 points higher.

Merger talk stimulated the buying of the tobacco shares with United Cigar Stores the most active feature. United States Cigar common closed fractionally lower at 12 1/2 while American Railway Express, Booth Fisheries, first preferred, Commercial Solvents, Public Baking, and Stanley Company of America, lost 2 to 6 points.

Snake-Raiser Finds Pleasures in Work

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 30 (AP)—Many people shake their heads at the hobby of Charles Mitchell, who lives near here, has one of the strangest. He raises snakes for a living and likes his work.

"Through experience," he says, "I have found that snakes are cleaner, more graceful, more beautiful in color, in design and in characteristics, and more sensible than any wild animal I have ever known—including the raccoon and panther."

Alone in the swampy woods of Berkeley county, Mitchell lives with his snakes. He sells them to zoos all over the country, to scientific laboratories and a few to people for pets. Mitchell takes real pride in his strange profession. A former student of King's college, Nova Scotia, he studies the reptiles and their ways. And he invites the visitor to inspect his stock in his trade.

"A rattlesnake will not bother you, except as a last resort," Mitchell explains. "They make every effort to avoid human beings. You see that little fellow over there? That's a cottonmouth moccasin, but he's every bit as dangerous as this big rattler if unprovoked."

"What do you feed them?" Mitchell was asked.

"Nothing. They can go six months without eating, and I seldom keep them more than two weeks. It isn't necessary to feed them. Sometimes, however, they catch mice."

BURLEY PREPARES FOR SCHOOL YEAR OPENING

BURLEY, Aug. 30—Teachers are coming into Burley from all points, and preparing themselves for the opening of the schools here next Tuesday. There are 55 teachers in the high school and grade schools in this independent district, and four principals of the different buildings, under the jurisdiction of Superintendent W. W. Christensen.

Supplies and new text books have been delivered, buildings have been renovated and repaired and grounds put in shape, a complete corps of experienced teachers has been employed, and all is ready for the opening.

Superintendent Christensen reports that he has devoted much time to visiting the curriculum and arranging to use the multiple-course plan of organization in the Burley schools. Under this plan, which Mr. Christensen says is widely used, it is possible to adjust the work of the schools to the maximum capacity of the individual student. Much waste of time is thereby eliminated, and failures and retentions done away with. More systematic and thorough training can thereby be given in all elementary classes and in junior high schools.

Burley school district operates ten trucks for the transportation of its pupils to and from the country districts. An additional emergency truck is also kept in commission. According to school tract data, this district stands sixth in the United States in economy of operation of its fleet of trucks. No child has ever been fully "left behind" in a school truck. Birth Rate in London Is Slowly Declining

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—London's birthrate has fallen continuously since 1911, says the London county council's annual health report. The population of the metropolis has remained stationary at about 4,500,000, but the child population has dropped considerably. The proportion of children under 15 years of age has dropped from 30 per cent in 1901 to 26 per cent at the last census.

If the decrease in birth rate and the rate infant mortality continues at its present level until the next census children under 15 will then form less than 20 per cent of the total population.

ENGLISH PASTOR FINDS UNITED STATES CORDIAL

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—American who visit England slander their own country outcropping, says the Rev. Joseph Shepherd, pastor of the Islington Chapel, who has just returned from a tour of northeastern United States.

"According to them, New York is a city where the people have no time for manners in their grab for gold. Their police are moody mandrills who swagger along the streets with revolvers dangling at their sides, swinging their batons and ready to use them if you do not fling yourself into the whitening of hiside."

"That is the dream America created by Americans and Hollywood pictures. It is a nightmare America that does not exist."

CONDITIONS FAVOR FARM OPERATIONS

Wheat Threshing About Completed in Twin Falls Area; Cutting of Beans Under Way

Wheat threshing is virtually completed in Twin Falls county according to reports from Twin Falls in the weekly summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho issued by the Boise weather bureau last Wednesday. Clover cutting is under way, the report continues; bean cutting has begun in the early crop beans and the late crop peas; peaches and plums are being harvested; apples are being picked but there is considerable loss by worms in orchards that were not sprayed late.

The week in the Twin Falls area was characterized by a cool morning week with threatening showers the last two days.

Throughout southwest Idaho, the summer days there was experienced a week of reasonable temperatures, abundant sunshine and absence of measurable rainfall in the eastern lateral sections. Light thunderstorms occurred in the mountains, but the rainfall was not sufficient to greatly reduce the fire hazard nor to benefit the range, which is very dry. Conditions were ideal for a seasonable farm operations. Harvesting and threshing are about completed in all the early districts and are advancing rapidly in the higher, later districts. Fall crops are maturing rapidly and bounteous yields of garden and truck produce are being marketed in the state. Commercial fruit crops are doing well. Prunes are exceptionally large and of excellent quality. Apples are growing nicely. Large feed is dry but abundant and livestock are thriving.

Notes From the Field

Rupert: Weather fine; second cutting alfalfa in stack; threshing making rapid progress; early potatoes poor; late potatoes good.

Burley: Cooler weather during the week; threshing in full swing with good yields reported; alfalfa growing fast; plenty of irrigation water; potatoes in good shape.

Clonding: Second crop alfalfa went into stack in good condition; on account of shortage of late water, farmers do not expect to make a third cutting.

Wendell: Warm days and cool nights; threshing in full swing; fruit coloring nicely; second crop of early peaches now ripe; potatoes look good; beans rather thin; wheat yielding well; barley poor.

BAHAMAN WHISKEY FLOOD IS INCREASING IN VOLUME

NASSAU, Bahama Islands, Aug. 30 (AP)—These prosperous islands have increased their whiskey imports 10 per cent during the first part of 1928. Customs house figures show that every man, woman and child in the Bahamas would have the use of three cases of hard liquor monthly if all of the incoming bottles stayed in the island, which they do not.

Despite the massing of coast guard destroyers, cutters and scaphandors have been cut in half because of the growing practice of trans-shipping liquors to schooners and warehouses at Grand Bahama and Bimini islands.

The latter are only 60 miles from Palm Beach and Miami. If fast motor boats dash here and there across the Gulf stream without the formality of clearing the Bahaman customs, the Bahaman authorities have no cognizance of the fact.
