HOOVER LAYS PLANS FOR JOURNEY WEST TO CALIFORNIA HOME

Republican Candidate Returns Early in Day to Washington; Luncheon With President Coolidge; May Stop in St. Louis

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—J. Edgar Hoover today after closing his Eastern campaign with a vigorous success brought him an extension in the home town of his Democratic opponent, Herbert Hoover began to lay his plans for the long trip westward to California.

Except for a luncheon conference at the White House with President Coolidge, the Republican presidential candidate spent the entire day at his personal headquarters, juggling out his course of action for the remainder of the campaign.

His visit with the president lasted for an hour and a half and when the nominee emerged from the White House he said that he had had a very pleasant talk with the chief executive but declined to reveal what had been the nature of their conversation.

A smile on Hoover's face brought the remark from a correspondent that he "seemed happy."

He said that he had not yet determined what would be the subject of his speech he will make on his westward trip but that it probably would be delivered in St. Louis.

Hoover reached Washington early today from New York where last night a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel given a tumultuous reception as he appeared to deliver the last speech of his campaign.

This swing into the homeground of Governor Smith differed in many respects from his previous trips to New York. Instead of the usual parade, which on those trips kept him continually on the move through crowds, he spent his day in Madison Square Garden in conference with leaders of the party and of independent organizations that are supporting his candidacy.

Another difference came as the candidate for the first time threw aside his rule against newspaper correspondence and accepted the press conferences and expressed confidence that he would be the victor on November 5.

DEATH HALTS PEN OF FAMOUS AUTHOR

George Barr McCutcheon Drops Dead After Lunching With Friends in New York Hotel

(NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—) George Barr McCutcheon, author of the Gruesome books and many other novels and short stories, dropped dead today after lunching with a group of friends at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

He had been seated at a table at the weekly luncheon of the Dutch Treat club in the Hotel Marlborough with Loren Palmer, Arthur Train, Thomas M. Mason and Robert Healey when death overtook him.

Beginning his publication of novels with the turn of the century the author steadily explained the highly comic manner of writing with which he started his career with "Granstar" the realistic school of literature having an effect on him.

He had a host of admirers and his pen was as prolific as ever when death came. His last book, "The Millionaire," was published only a few weeks ago and another one being already under way.

McCutcheon was born in Tippecanoe county, Indiana, in 1866, and was educated from Purdue university. In 1893 he became a reporter in the "Enterprise-Morning-Journal" and from that moment writing became his career. From the Journal he went to the "LaFayette" in Decatur, becoming that paper's city editor in 1893.

His first published novel was "Orphaned" in 1901 and in what he then believed to be a burst of business acumen he sold that output for $500. The success of this publication made an arrangement has never been made public.

After that McCutcheon wrote steadily and for the next seven or a century no year passed without a new book from his pen, and in many years there were two. There was a whole lot of Granstar books, but he also wrote a "wide" variety, and among the others "Bride's Millions" was perhaps as popular as any.

CANADIANS DEBATE RIGHT TO EXPORT LIQUOR TO STATES

Justice Replies to Barrister: "It is a Courtesy, Not to Violate Laws of a Foreign Country," in Answering Query

(TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 23.—) The right of Canadians to export liquor to the United States, a prohibition country, was argued today before the appellate division of the supreme court of Ontario.

The question was raised in arguments on appeal by the Walkerville branch of the Canadian prohibition by Justice Ramsey dissolving an injunction restraining Arthur Maynard and others from exporting and selling the alcoholic liquor from their plant in Cote-deck. Dissolution of the injunction was based on a contract which Justice Ramsey held could not be considered inasmuch as it contemplated a breach of laws of another country.

Notice of Foreign Law. Counsel today argued that "it is clear law that the courts of one country do not take judicial notice of the laws of a foreign country."

"So far as enforcement is concerned, they do not seem to have any right to enforce the laws of another country," Justice Magee asked counsel "why should we assume that this law is for the benefit of the people of the United States?"

"Would you go as far as to say that you would enforce the laws of another country?"

CHARLES E. HUGHES OPENS CAMPAIGN IN SUPPORT OF HOOVER

Question of Choosing Between Two Major Candidates Should Be Dealt With "In Spirit of Americanism," Says Speaker

(By The Associated Press) ST. JOSEPH, Oct. 23.—The question in the coming election is whether Herbert Hoover or Alvin Karpis is the better equipped man to hold the presidential office, said Charles E. Hughes in an address tonight.

"We have no choice between two men," Mr. Hughes said. "It is not merely a question as to whether Hoover or Karpis is the better of the two men, but the question is between Smith and Hoover, and I decidedly prefer Hoover."

The voters, he declared, were called on to determine what were the policies of the national motto for the prosperity and the security of the country.

"Economy Necessarily Means a Tighter Administration. We have had it in an extraordinary degree. No decision or clarifying mis-statements will alter the policy of protection to a party that has always opposed it."

"The way to business success is to give everyone, employer and employee, producer and consumer, a feeling of greater security as he looks forward to the next four years with all their uncertainties, to secure the most earnest effort under complete leadership to deal with all the economic problems that confront us."

VOTERS TO CONSIDER EIGHT AMENDMENTS

Proposed Changes Modernize Fundamental Laws of Idaho; Asserts Secretary of State

BOISE, Oct. 23.—In addition to choosing national, state and county officers at the November 6 election, Idaho voters have the extra job of deciding whether or not they desire to add eight amendments to the state constitution. These proposed changes will, it is said, bring the constitution up-to-date so that it will fit into the present economic situation.

Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, has the job of educating those proposed amendments in a newspaper in each county of the state and, feeling that the best reading of the amendments as they are printed might not be entirely clear, he has given an interview explaining each.

One of the most important ones pertains to the investment of school, endowment funds of the state. Under the present constitution these funds may be loaned only on first mortgages on improved farms in Idaho or invested in state, United States and Idaho public utility bonds. The amendment asks for an enlargement of the investing field to include county, village bonds of Idaho.

The great majority of voters favor terms for their elective officers and one of the proposed amendments asks that the terms of Idaho's state officers be fixed at four years instead of two.

Amendment No. 3 provides for paying the salaries of all state elective officers monthly instead of quarterly.

Amendment No. 4 asks that all county officers and their deputies be paid monthly instead of quarterly.

Amendment No. 5 proposes to give the legislature power to fix the salary of a prosecuting attorney, not to an amount which would bear some relationship to the size of the county and the amount of work required.

Amendment No. 6 proposes to give the legislature power to remove officers other than the county treasurer, tax collectors, etc., if they are found by experience that assessors are often "over-rented" by members of their class at the time they assess the property which tax would be lost through the property being bought by the time taxing up the arrearages.

Amendment No. 7 gives the state power to regulate and limit the use for power purposes of unimproved lands in any natural stream of the state.

Amendment No. 8 proposes to settle an old question by raising the pay of legislators from $5 per day to $10 with $500 as the maximum amount for any one session.

MINI-CASSIA DAIRY COWS IDAHO'S BEST PRODUCERS

BURLEY, Oct. 23 (Special to The News).—Franklin Simpson, president of the Mini-Cassia dairymen's association, presided by D. L. Fourt, field dairyman of the university, exhibition, placed the Mini-Cassia dairymen again at the top of the list with an average production of 27.9 pounds butterfat per cow daily. Goodness-tenure dairy associations come second, with 26.3 pound average production. There were 206 herds containing 4022 cows in the exhibition.

Four calls attention to the fact and shows held this fall in which the dairy cow claimed many honors. He states that progress in dairying is shown by both larger numbers and higher quality of dairy cattle exhibited in all shows in the state. A notable asset, he states, were the county herds. There were seven Holstein herds exhibiting four Jersey herds and three Guernsey.

"The boys' and girls' Four-H club clubs were especially outstanding this year," he reports. He asserts that this indicates that Idaho will continue to have not only good dairy cattle, but good showmen, good dairy stock judges, and good dairymen.

PRESBYTERIANS INSTALL NEW MINISTER IN EDEN

Eden, Oct. 23 (Special to The News)—The pastor of the Eden Presbyterian church following the usual services held here Sunday morning, Rev. D. D. Hays, Caldwell, delivered the address at the services. Rev. John L. Morris, Burley, and Rev. H. W. Wagner, Twin Falls, were also present and assisted with the installation.

Eden Parent-Teacher association opened a membership drive Thursday evening at a meeting attended by about 50 people. Two chapters were appointed to represent two teams known as the Hoover and the Educational. Mrs. C. V. Everitt was named to lead the Hoover forces and Mrs. Rober will head the Smith aggregation. Each captain will be assisted by five runners. The contest will continue for one month. The losing team will give an entertainment to raise funds for the work of the Eden organization next year.

Mrs. Ira Hayes was appointed manager and Mrs. C. C. Knott, publisher, were named to edit the paper for the third Thursday evening of each month. Mrs. D. L. Black presided at the home where Mrs. Edith Kleinkopf had charge of the program which included a singing, a demonstration of teaching reading in 15 primary grades, and a short talk by E. Smith on the subject "Home Study."

Refreshments were served at the close of the program by Mrs. John Craig, Mrs. Frank Hogue and Mrs. George Phillips.

Next Sunday is "Bally day" at the Presbyterian church. George Jolliveau, who has served as station agent here for the past few months, has been transferred to Kimama, Idaho. He expects to leave with his family within the next few days for that place.

M. M. Sullivan and son, Paul, have returned to their home at McCall after a week's visit here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fulton left Thursday for a few weeks' visit in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. White left Wednesday for Florida, where they will spend the next few weeks on a vacation.

Mr. Hogue, M. C. Hoversdale and E. Shuckoff returned last week from the Sawtooth mountains, each bringing a deer. The men packed back to the high peaks where they encountered some snow on some of the ridges.

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF JAMES A. WATERS

editor of The News, said regarding Mr. Waters' pioneer activities: "Those of the Twin Falls pioneers who came 'over the grade' will recall a lonesome looking house on the east side of Blue Lakes avenue about half way between the city limits and Snake river. It was one of the first houses erected on the tract and when strangers were informed that the desolate appearing farm was a nursery they snorted and smiled. But the man who owned the house and farm kept on sawing wood and planting trees and things until today he lies in a forest. It is the property of James A. Waters who came here from Yakima valley believing he would better his conditions here."

Care of Trees Gospel
Planting and care of trees was a gospel with Mr. Waters. He was one of the foremost of advocates of planting trees for shade and windbreaks in the early days of this country when almost constant wind swept bluffs of sand and dust over the region. In Twin Falls, Waters' association of which he was an active member, he raised his voice persistently in this cause, and he remained as its nursery throughout his life. It was he who laid out the arrangement of tree planting in Twin Falls city park and actually set out these trees. Only a year or two ago, he was called upon to plan and execute a tree planting campaign for the new townsite at American Falls, and he was at work beautifying Twin Falls county fair grounds only a few hours before his work was ended.

Local Tree Favorite
The locust tree was ever a favorite with Mr. Waters. He advocated planting in the early days of the Twin Falls country, and he set out on his own farm a grove of locust trees that for many years has been a meeting place and picnic ground where the people of this region were welcome to assemble. He developed and during the years he devoted much time and attention to promoting the use of the globe locust tree.

He was one of the outstanding orchardists of the state and maintained an active interest in all subjects relating to propagation of fruit trees. He was also identified with national, state and district fruit growers and horticultural organizations. In the first year of the Twin Falls country when crop production here was largely experimental, Mr. Waters was one of the farmers to make a test of sugar beet growing. He was the first to experiment with Cassia corn production.

Exhibitor at Piglet Fair
He was an exhibitor at the Twin Falls first fair in the fall of 1905 when he was credited with an excellent collection of garden truck and flowers, and he maintained an active interest in agricultural fairs, serving for many successive years as superintendent of horticultural departments.

Mr. Waters was an expert tree culturist, and for several years during the past season he had been employed in larger orchards in Boise and Payette valleys. He was one of the organizers and directors of the first fruit growers cooperative marketing association formed in Twin Falls.

His interest in all phases of farm industries led him into breeding of registered cattle and a well known owner one time of some of the best Cheyenne cattle in this country. He imported some of these animals from the island of Jersey. Mr. Waters was elected state representative from Twin Falls county for two years term in 1914, and was re-elected for a second term. He was a member of the state irrigation commission in 1910 and 1917. A charter member of Twin Falls lodge of Masons, Mr. Waters served official positions in this lodge and other branches of the Masonic order, being elected eminent commander of Twin Falls commandery, Knights Templar, in 1910. He was a member of the Masonic lodge; Twin Falls chapter, Royal Arch Masons; Twin Falls commandery, Knights Templar, and also of the Order of the Eastern Star. He also was an active member of the Knights of Pythias lodge.

Surviving Mr. Waters besides members of his immediate family are four sisters living in Washington and Oregon.

W. J. Lynch, 438 Third avenue south, in police court here yesterday, let it be known that he had changed his mind regarding complaint lodged against him by H. S. Charming New Evening Frocks will make coming parties more brilliant.

A charming femininity is seen in these Paris-inspired evening frocks. Striking new details of line and trimming are interesting to every woman who follows the mode.

Chiffon, georgette, plain or combined with transparent velvet, moiré-cloths, and all-over lace.

Brilliant are stunning; transparent laces are effective — tiers of deep fringe are cleverly introduced.

An unique idea is the transparent velvet jacket worn with an all-over lace frock which has a slip of gold metal-cloth.

Very moderately priced.
