LEGION COMMANDER OUTLINES PROGRAM FOR ENSUING YEAR

Ten Years Ago Head of National Organization Commanded Field Artillery Brigade in Camp in South Carolina

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Ten years ago, when the news was flashed around the world that the armistice ending the world war had been signed, Paul V. McNutt, the new national commander of the American Legion, was commanding the fifth field artillery replacement depot at Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

Today finds him in peaceful retirement, but standing behind a program which pledges rehabilitation of disabled veterans, adequate care of orphans of soldiers, improvement of American citizenship and a strong national defense.

In connection with this armistice day anniversary Commander McNutt outlines the American Legion's program for the next year as follows:

"First and most important is the rehabilitation of the disabled veterans. We must improve and extend this service to the disabled.

"Child welfare. We must make adequate provision for the orphan and for the children of the disabled. The Legion campaign for improved child welfare legislation in the various states where needed, will be continued with vigor.

"Americanism. The Junior baseball program has now been firmly established, and it will be extended to include many more thousands of boys who will learn fair-play and sportsmanship under Legion guidance as a stepping stone to future good citizenship. We must improve the quality of American citizenship. To accomplish this the Legion proposes 'universal public education'—a national athletic program for children, a more concentrated Boy Scout movement, education of adult foremen, community service and an awakened national consciousness of all citizens to their duties as Americans.

"National Defense. It is the purpose of the Legion to obtain this defense sufficient in size and organization to be protective. There can be no peace which would permit the destruction of the nation or render it helpless. With world conditions as they are today it is imperative that this nation have an adequate national defense, not as a gesture, but as a practical means of preserving the national integrity and protecting the institutions under which we have grown great.

Ever since the end of the world war Commander McNutt has used his ability as a speaker in behalf of a stronger national defense. He found time to do his share toward helping the disabled soldiers and in 1925, to become dean of the law school of Indiana university. He was then 34 years old. Commander McNutt was an assistant professor in the Indiana university law school when the war began. He entered the officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison and was commissioned a captain of field artillery. Later he was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Original Sin
It is lucky that our knowledge does not usually extend beyond our parents, or, at the most, our grandparents. If so much were also known of our remote forefathers, we should not have a single fault nor commit a single indiscretion which we should not attempt to justify as our inherited burden.—Arthur Schopenhauer in Vanity Fair.

Gold Star Mothers Keep Tryst Over Unknown

By SUE McNAMARA (Associated Press Feature Writer)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—The nation turns towards Arlington on Armistice day and the crosses, row on row of the National Cemetery are hidden by flowers. But the Gold Star mothers keep coming all the year round.

They come from every part of the United States on an average of one a week. Always with tear-wet eyes, they tell the sympathetic civilian guard in his blue uniform: "I'm a Gold Star mother."

As they stand before the majesty of that simple, white tomb of the Unknown Soldier and feel the solemnity and significance of this mighty city of the dead, these mothers who have lost sons in the war seem to feel a pressing need to talk to some one. The military guard stands by in attention, or pacing up and down, is a little forbidding. Perhaps the uniform calls up too unhappy memories. At any rate, these mothers turn impulsively to the blue uniform of the civilian police guard. There's something in the kindly eyes of Sergeant Snyder that invites confidence. "Every week at least one of these mothers wearing a little gold star comes here," Sergeant Snyder says.

Signing of Armistice Unknown For Month to Fleeing Prisoner

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP)—Armistice day, for millions of ex-servicemen, is a day of rejoicing; but for former Lieut. Howard C. Knotts, D. S. C., it's just the memory of 9 painful days.

Knotts, now in Springfield, attorney, doesn't know just where he was on November 11, 1918—time passed uncertainly. He was escaping from a prison camp. When final negotiations were being made, he was hiding in the pantry of a Belgian farmhouse, turning a very sore leg constantly apprehensive of discovery by his hostile captors.

Knotts and Little were hiding on a wagon drawn by fellow prisoners. The "human horses" brooded over hungrily. The German guard's imitation apple butter or refuse to draw the wagon. The two captives crawled down and ran by a hedge road to watch the dispute. Little nudged Knotts. "Let's back through the hedge," he whispered. They never misjudged. Half a mile away—the men could not have walked further—was a farmhouse, annexed to a chateau in which were quartered German troops and officers. Miraculously escaping discovery they were hidden in a pantry by the farmhouse mother, where four other fugitives were hiding.

Meanwhile, various rumors floated to the men—the most persistent being that 20 days armistice had been signed for burial of the dead. Then one day came the report that American troops were quartered in the German prison camp. "Taking what he considered a 'long chance,' Knotts 'smuggled' a letter to the commandant at Spa and shortly thereafter General Rhodes took him to American headquarters. After a few days' rest Knotts' name was placed in the list of those who did not want to "go back into the mess with a strange outfit" when released from the hospital. Disbelieving his name, General Rhodes asked Knotts to repeat his statement, which he did. There followed the general's explanation.

Looking back, Knotts still contends that his ignorance was understandable. The possibility that the war had ended was "blurred" from the thoughts of the fugitives, and as Knotts says, although they might have guessed it, "you don't like to bet yourself about a thing so important when you are in a place such as we were."

Knotts is credited with destruction of eight enemy airplanes, and besides winning the Distinguished Service Cross he was cited by General Pershing and awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (British).

Buy on Test and PROOF!

TEST No. 1

Never mind the "high pressure" sales talk—insist on making the 1-2 TEST and getting the PROOF before you buy your tire.

Come into our store and make the 1-2 Test for yourself. See the Goodyear Tire demonstrate before your very eyes the definite superiority of both (1) TREAD and (2) CAR-CASS. So simple a child can understand:

Test No. 1: Press your palm down on the Goodyear All-Weather Tread and feel how the deep-cut sharp-edged blocks grip and pinch the flesh. That is what the Goodyear Tread does on the surface of the road, and why it has superior traction.

TEST No. 2

Test No. 2: This machine shows you the 60% greater stretch in Goodyear SUPERTWIST Cord. This extra stretch gives the Goodyear Supertwist Carcass its extra life—enabling it to withstand road shocks and continuous flexing without premature failure.

Proof—More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Let us explain to you the new Goodyear Lifetime Guarantee.

We carry the complete line of Goodyear Tires—every Goodyear made with SUPERTWIST and every Goodyear guaranteed against defects for life—the size and type and price that suits your needs and purse. Our standard Goodyear Service always ready for you.

Slender Waistline Blamed for Plight Of Potato Farmers

THE PENINSULAR counties of Virginia, known as the nation's "potato kingdom," are suffering the effects of a sluggish market, much of which they blame on the American women's habit of avoiding starchy foods. Above is one of the fields that failed to pay the cost of production, and (below) a handful of choice tubers that will never reach a dinner table.

ACCOMAC, Va., Nov. 10 (AP)—The American woman's desire for a boyish figure is blamed by farmers on the Virginia peninsula for the present plight of the potato market. They know all about the argument of economists that poor prices are the result of a huge crop and increased acreage, but they also know that fewer pounds of potatoes are consumed per capita than in the good old days. That they say, it became women's food—starchy food.

Whatever the cause, the decline in price has been a blow to the two counties on the narrow peninsula across Chesapeake bay, known as the eastern shore of Virginia. Here the people grow potatoes as the principal crop, while the price in good and so falling when the market is slow.

The "kingdom of the potato," as this section is sometimes called, long has been one of the best farming sections in America, the last federal census showing that Northampton county ranked first and Accomac second in the value per acre of crop produced. Only one county in the United States, Annapolis, produces as many potatoes, and its area is much greater than either of the eastern Virginia counties. Last year was $20, 172,000 and was approximately 135 per cent of the gross income of the 100 counties in Virginia.

Not just in the country is feeling more keenly the effect of the queer economic picture than brings low prices with bumper crops. Yields seldom have been equalled, and those who watched the market barometer have aches in their heads.

WOULD YOU send your tots to school BLINDFOLDED?

Of course you wouldn't. Every child that may be taken to school should first have his eyes examined. Little things are so tender—springing beans so delicate; they can easily be wrecked and wrecked by the strain of defective eyesight.

Three out of four "big" school children already have defective vision. But poor eyesight is too great a handicap for them. Dullness in school leads to make them backward—afraid. And the effect may wreck careers. Be. Don't hesitate too long. Be sure. Have the "little tot's" eyes examined.

TWIN FALLS

Two Veterans, Wounded in Hour Of Peace, Still in Same Hospital

By GORDON M. SESSIONS (Associated Press Staff Writer)

MAYWOOD, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP)—Acting Sergeant W. J. Coughlin didn't know the armistice was to start in 40 minutes and if somebody had told him he wouldn't have believed it. "They had circulated a rumor like that a month before and nothing had come of it. He was born at the replacement out here under a machine gun cross-fire. He was scared to crawl into shell holes. He was going to get out there and get shot. A machine gun bullet struck through Coughlin's leg and he dropped just in front of St. Elizabeth's—forty minutes before the armistice.

Twenty minutes before Coughlin went down, L. Bates, husky private from St. Louis, was advancing with a negro company on another sector. It was Company K, 15th Infantry, 62nd division. "He got me, too," in the leg.

Today—10 years later—both men are patients at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital here, a suburb of Chicago. Coughlin's wounds are healed—his twice had been hit before November 11—but he has been in bed since the war. Bates' leg, still bothers him. He has tried to work, but never has been able to stay on a job. He hopes he'll be able to get out here under the hospital this time.

No, we didn't know the armistice was to start in 40 minutes, he declares. "In fact, after I was wounded, and a couple of fellows were helping me back, we ran into a bunch of Fritzies throwing their helmets in the air, and jumping up and down like they were crazy. I grabbed a gun and was going to take a shot at them, but the boys made me stop. I said the war was over—I didn't believe it then."

Experiments Reveal Well-Treated Soils May Never Wear Out

TO THE SOIL SCIENTIST there is no such thing as "worn out" land, a popular theory that is blamed for much of the farm abandonment in this country. Above is an experimental wheat field at Rothamsted, England, showing the 8th consecutive crop, shoulder high and yielding 35 bushels to the acre.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Thirty million acres of idle crop land, much of it abandoned on the theory that it is "worn out," some day will be brought back into active production, soil scientists say. It is their contention that, except in the popular conception, land does not wear out and that with intelligent management high yields can be maintained by the use of plant food and good farming practice.

ility and conservation Europe's far treasure house of centuries. It has shown the way on soils that have been under cultivation for more than 2000 years, to be the building of a superior fertility as indicated by crop yields far surpassing those of the precisely worn land in this country.

The census of 1920 showed 950,000 acres of land in farm in this country. By 1925 it had dropped to 624,000,000 acres, or an abandonment of 326,000,000 acres. During the same period there was a net abandonment of 76,733 acres.

"What does he know about MASH and DAIRY FEED?"

When they talk like that we talk back at 'em. We can show you better than we can tell you.

Here is our proposition: We will sell our Dairy Feed for one week at $1.50 per cwt., and our Laying Mash at $2.00. We want you to be convinced. Not over 500 pounds to a customer. We had folks tell us their cows have gained on the milk in a few days. It will take the hens a few days longer so you'll have time to make some extra nests, but you better do it as they are bound to lay.

P. S.—Be careful and don't give the cows any Laying Mash, that's for the hens. We don't want any trouble. Our feeds produce butter and eggs, but you must have cows and hens and feed like we tell you.

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 11, 1928

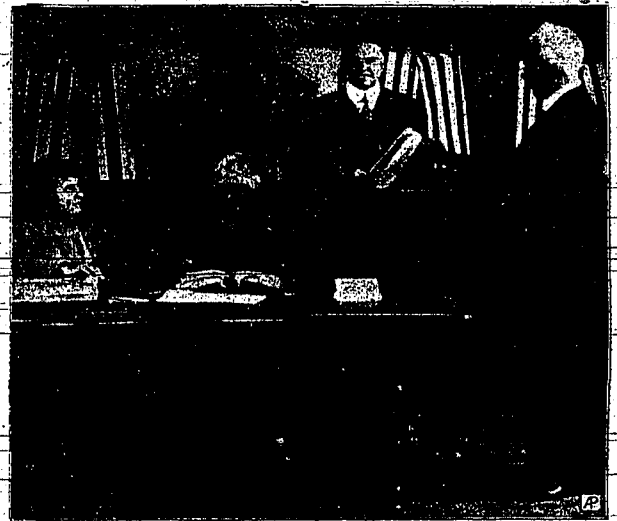

NEWS OF THE DAY AS CAUGHT BY THE CAMERA

PRESIDENT-ELECT and Mrs. Hoover, Allan Hoover and Herbert Hoover, jr., and wife, acknowledge greetings of friends who called to congratulate the Republican candidate on his success at the polls.

B. S. MOSS, New York, who has organized more than 500 theatre concert and movie stars representing industries with more than two million employees, in support of the Republican ticket. His organization is known as the Hoover-Curtis Theatrical-league. He is an internationally known theatre owner and producer, and a pioneer in the motion picture world.

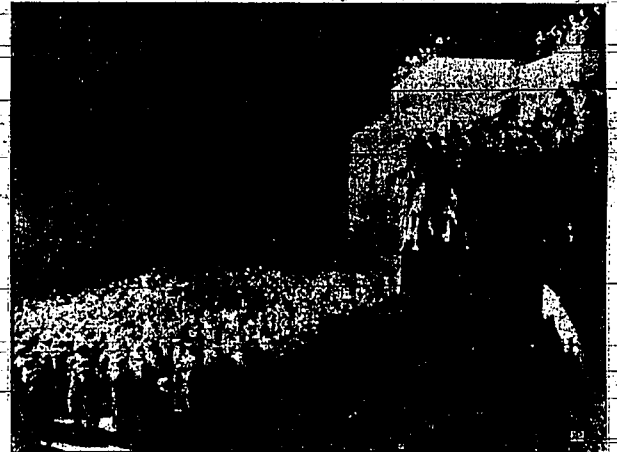

WHILE CAMERAS CLICKED and spectators applauded, Herbert Hoover handed his folded ballot to the election inspector in the booth in the Woman's Club house on the Stanford campus, voting about 10 o'clock in the morning.

CONSTRUCTION BEGINS ON HATCHERY AT CLEAR LAKES

SPECIAL: Nov. 10 (Special to The News)—Construction of the fish hatchery at Clear Lakes was started this week by J. W. Tingey, Salt Lake City, a short stretch of road leading from the highway has been completed and excavation is under way for the main reservoir. The first alignment of fish eggs which will be received about November 15. Work will be continued during good weather and will be completed next spring.

F. L. Atkins, master of Twin Falls Pomona grange, attended a rate hearing before a representative of the Interstate commerce commission in Boise. He accompanied Newell S. Wight, Twin Falls.

Word has been received here of the death recently of Mrs. Walter Creasy in Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. Creasy were former residents of the Clear Lake City. Mr. Creasy owns farm property here.

Richard Alexander, seven-year-old son of Mrs. Mary Alexander, was slightly injured Thursday evening when knocked to the pavement on Main street by a passing Buick motor car. The lad was crossing the street, with an older sister, dived in front of the car and was struck by the front wheel. He was taken to a hospital to be treated for bruises about the back and head.

Rebekah Kensington will meet Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fay Hann.

A drive for additional members of the Buhl chapter of the Red Cross will begin tomorrow. Rev. A. C. Lathrop is president of the local chapter and announces that the national organization has made a request for 200 members from Buhl. The membership fee of $1 may be left at any Buhl drug store, church, or with Mrs. A. B. Eklund, chapter secretary.

Paris Proves Great International Port

PARIS: Nov. 10 (AP)—Paris situated on the north River Seine, more than 150 miles from the sea and known as an inland city, is nevertheless an important international port.

This is emphasized in figures published by the city's port officials who estimate that more than 100,000 tons of the cargoes of many nations will have docked here during 1928.

Coal from England and Germany, juice from Belgium and Holland, and the emuls and heavy paint from Germany, hides, chemical products and other cargoes from every country of Europe find their way in small freight cars and barges to the Paris quays.

Loose Scissors

A simple way to tighten scissors is to make a paper roll and press the rivet at each side. This will cause it to expand and the scissors will be like new.

The MAYTAG Roller Water Remover

A New and Better Way of Wringing

PASSING a clothes-pin between the rolls of the Maytag Roller Water Remover, shows how the large, soft, upper roll hugs the lumps, folds and seams in the clothes, reaches down into the low spots, leaving no wet places to retard drying on the line. Buttons, snaps or ornaments go through safely. A soft top roll, working against a hard bottom roll, creates more effective wringing action than two soft rolls or two hard rolls.

The Roller Water Remover, exclusively owned and controlled by The Maytag Company, has many other features of convenience which make it handy. The safety-feed makes it easy to start the clothes through the rolls. The tension automatically adjusts itself to a thin handkerchief or a bulky blanket.

The drain plate automatically reverses itself, and pressure on the safety-release makes it possible to separate the rolls instantly.

The Maytag won world leadership by trial washings in the home. Telephone for a Maytag before next wash-day. Experience the advantage of the cast-aluminum tub and gyrofaam action. See the Maytag do a washing in an hour without hand-rubbing anything—if it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it!

"Floating" Opals

The Smithsonian institution says that there is no such thing as a floating opal. The first opal discovered there has recently been manufactured an opal called the floating opal. This is a glass or crystal ball containing some fluid in which there floats green opals. This gives the appearance of floating opals.

Have Perfect Floors

Clean, Smooth, Sanitary, Beautiful There is no reason for having dirty, worn, unsightly floors. The "American" floor covering surface machine will clean out the ground-in dirt, take off varnish, remove old varnish or paint, smooth up the worn spots and make the old floor as good as new. It will make bird pine, birch, or any wood is really better than the new stuff. It is made of glass. They can be refinished same as when first put down.

Old Floors Made Like New

Newly laid floors are easily and quickly brought to a clean smooth surface by the "American" method. This method saves the builder or general contractor the cost of new flooring. It is done by a machine which is quicker, better and at less cost than any other method. It is entirely finished in the shop. A vacuum fan deposits oil dirt in a bag, leaving the job clean as you go along. Let us explain the method and quote you prices.

OAK FLOORS

Laid, sanded and finished complete at a price you can afford to pay. For beauty, durability and ease of maintenance, nothing can take the place of Oak. Ask us to show you samples and quote prices.

A Future Attraction

(The partial country seat and jumping from butler to foot—Mrs. Willie White—guest of her own kind—Minnie White—comb—a music teacher from back home. And the story relates how Minnie learns from the sophisticates of the necessity for self expression, and then makes Willie do it.)

"A dialogue so marvellously rich and so beautiful—humorous and fair—tumble over, one another in their rush across the footlights."

Billie Dove Portrays Dramatic Film Role

An intensely dramatic climax laid in a powerful story of unusual setting, "The Night Watch," opening at the Orpheum theatre today, a worth-while screen production. Billie Dove, never more beautiful nor charming, has what many will regard as the most dramatic role of her starring career and one which called upon all her emotional depths for a convincing characterization.

She plays the wife of a naval officer who is falsely implicated in a murder which can only be cleared up by her testimony and this testimony will cast a shadow upon her own honor. In this role Miss Dove displays unusual dramatic qualities, and at the same time maintained a fine restraint in her characterization.

Donald Reed and Paul Lukas, in the leading masculine roles, have parts of practically equal importance and their contrasting personalities add greatly to the story's power. "The Night Watch" is another high spot in the directorial career of Alexander Korda, who is among the front-rank of film directors. The story is based on the stage success of a few years ago.

John Gilbert Spends Hours in Prison Cell

For three days John Gilbert sat before the camera in a room so small that the actor's grand air, for scenes in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Four Walls," playing today and tomorrow at the Orpheum theatre. Gilbert played the first scene in the picture in a prison cell at Sing Sing penitentiary. He declared that to sit in the cramped cell under the full flood lights for so many hours was a terrific ordeal. William Nigh directs "Four Walls" with Joe Crawford in the leading feminine role. The cast includes Louis Natheaux, Carmel Myers, Vera Gordon, and Robert Emmet O'Connor.

JANET YOUNG of the Circuit Repertory company of the Moroni Olsen Players, appearing here soon in Rachel Crothers' brilliant American comedy "Expressing Willie."

Moroni Olsen Players To Give Two Numbers

Twin Falls theatregoers will be interested to know that the Moroni Olsen Players have been secured for two performances in Twin Falls this season. This talented company will appear under the auspices of the Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's club, to which institution Twin Falls is indebted for past performances here at the hands of the players. Season tickets will be offered, covering the two productions at prices which should appeal to all. Both performances will be given at the Orpheum theatre. The first, a real American comedy, "Expressing Willie," on the evening of December 3 and the second, "Autumn Fire," January 17. A third performance will be given at Burley later in the season when "What Every Woman Knows" will be the offering. The New York World in commenting upon a rendition of "Expressing

Willie" has the following to say: "This merry and sagacious play tells of 'Willie Smith,' who, having made a fortune in tooth powder, wishes to acquire the better things of life. To 'express himself,' he builds a vast, any-period-any-style-but-our-own house on Lone Island, and invites artists and intellectuals to a week-end in the pretentious pile. WENDELL COUPLE MARRY IN UTAH CHURCH TEMPLE

WENDELL, Nov. 10 (Special to The News)—Miss Zina Pratt and Joseph Prince were married in the Latter Day Saints temple at Logan, Utah, Wednesday. Mrs. Prince is the daughter of Mrs. B. M. Nielson, and Mr. Prince is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Prince. The young couple returned to Wendell where they will make their home.

Miss Emma Goeckner and Thebut Walford were married in St. Anthony's Catholic Church Monday morning with Father J. J. Williams officiating. Out of town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. L. O. Reath and daughter, Marjorie Gooding; Mr. and Mrs. Wagener, Cottonwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayner.

Following the wedding ceremony, Mrs. Smith, mother of the groom, served the bridal breakfast, and covers were laid for 100 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Walford left immediately after for their home in Challis, Idaho, where Mr. Walford is connected with the state highway department.

With scripples of old papers from the wall of St. Peter's church at Daley, England, workmen found a picture of a ship—a human caddy, with rows, was an excellent state of preservation. The ship was built in 1600 and it is believed the picture has been covered up for about 500 years.

Merit alone... can win such popularity

The instant success of the new DeSoto Six is renewed proof that the American public appreciates and rewards true distinction and quality in a car of moderate price.

The unmistakable enthusiasm which greeted the introduction of this new Chrysler-built Six a few months ago has swelled into a great chorus of approval—backed by a record-breaking avalanche of orders.

You are invited to confirm this popular judgment for yourself. See and drive the new DeSoto Six—and you will applaud the verdict of a host of owners, who rate it supreme in value.

Comfort, in a Cabin on a Rainy Night, Meets Response in East End Writer

BY LEW SWEETSER

BURLEY, Nov. 10 (Special to the News)—I heard a somewhat plaintive cry in a way imperative, commended outside the door. It came, without doubt, from Prosperity, my friend's old cat. My cat was raining!

Within the cabin, though, it was quite comfortable. Just like these cabins used to be in frontier days, with all the cozy, homely furnishings, and all the luxuries of rainy times. A homely cabin. I had come to care for while my frontier friend was called away.

I was too comfortable to stir. There was a fine fire. The tin plates and knives and forks were washed and dried, the lamp was freshly trimmed and shone with cheerful light. There was spring water in the bucket and the wood box was heaped with split juniper and sagebrush stumps. I had lighted my pipe, leaned back in the easy chair, and was reading a dog-eared book.

Again the command came from without. Prosperity wanted in. I glanced at the wicker chair close to the stove. There lay Sunshine, the younger cat, cuddled against the Altitude, in a sort of mongrel water spout, and purring like all possessed. They seemed to have no mind to help the outside cat, so I bestrid myself, went to the door, and opened it a crack.

Prosperity came in. She spoke a slight note of impatient remonstrance at being kept waiting at the door, and strode straight to the cats' plate beneath the stove. The plate was there—I had as usual forgotten to wash it—but it was licked clean. Sunshine and High Altitude had eaten their supper.

Prosperity looked up at me. She was a bedraggled beast. Hair sopping wet. A new-looking animal. She glanced at the empty dish, placed at me, and quivered. Sunshine still purred. High Altitude yawned a bit. I had settled back, but realized that it was no use. So I arose again, fetched corn meal mush and canned milk, and fought the fed animal from the cats' dish while Prosperity appeared her hunger.

I thought it curious that a cat would hunt on a wet night like this, and fill up on mice and gophers, and then come in and insist on a great morsel of porridge. Again I settled back, and became quite interested in my old book. And then Prosperity jumped up into my lap, a wet, cold, soppy, hairy creature, with much purring and energetic lapping of wet fur. I put aside my book. Good! I couldn't read with it draped round my neck. I had to get it off for a lap robe, and quarreling at that. So I put aside my book, dug up a pocket handkerchief, and lent a hand at drying it.

Presently, I tired of my task, and shoved the Prosperity to the floor. She flicked a foot, looked contemptuously at me, and unwittily left vacant by the other animals in the great wicker chair, sprang up, and landed amongst these comfortable ones.

At once there was much ado. Little Sunshine let out a yowl of wrath that might have cost a meregerie of wild jungle beasts. High Altitude shrank from the menace of sharp clutches. Prosperity, though, seemed unimpressed, and started in vigorous work of washing the jowling youngster. And pretty soon, Sunshine washed back with much vigor, and then "Attitude" likewise, leaved the bedraggled prodigal.

I finished my story about a little adventure in contentment. And glanced at the animals. They were curled and coiled in comfort, purring and snoring in perfect peace.

I slipped off my boots and pants, blew out the lamp, and groped to the bunk. Good! I sure like to roll into a bed that has not been sheeted, and smoothed, and rolled and pounded and patted and worked over. I can enjoy real sleep in a bed that I can roll up to a bed.

I could not see, but I could hear. I heard the rain pattering on the dirt roof. It must be raining awfully. I thought to sound through all that earth overhead, emptiness—all a bed of sagebrush bark, and the wind whistled curiously through the corner logs of the little cabin. It must be blowing awfully to get to be so drowsy already at the corner. I know it never rains here, unless it blows a perfect gale.

I could not see, except a sort of dull glow where the window was. But I could smell. The order of the freshly blown out lamp. And the juniper and sagebrush ashes in the low burning stove. And the many other satisfying notes, not to be explained, that tell of comfort in a frontier cabin where the window was full of snow.

Sweet music from my acolian harp in the corner logs. The chorus on the big wicker chair, draped in soft morning "anderson" bristly sweep of drifting raindrops on a thick earth roof. * * * David Grayson's story of contentment. * * * I wish that I could read with it draped round my neck. * * * Or that anyone would read. * * * Or

LIBRARIAN ANNOUNCES CHILDREN'S BOOK WEEK

Announcement of Children's Book Week—beginning Monday—was made yesterday by Miss Jessie Fraser, librarian of the Twin Falls public library. In this connection, Miss Fraser made the following statement regarding reading and methods of book distribution:

"Children's Book week this year is November 11 to 17. In cooperation with the schools, lists have been prepared and distributed for each grade. Reading from these lists is made a part of the regular school work. This is intended to reach the child who does not have the reading habit. The large number of children who visit the public library do so because reading is a pleasure to them. Their interest has been awakened through an association with books either in the home, or the school—in such a manner that they realize that books are a source of happiness to them. Children cannot and should not be forced to read books which they do not like in order to encourage the reading habit. The book should appeal to them. With this in mind, the books on the list have a wide range of appeal so that every child may find something to his liking.

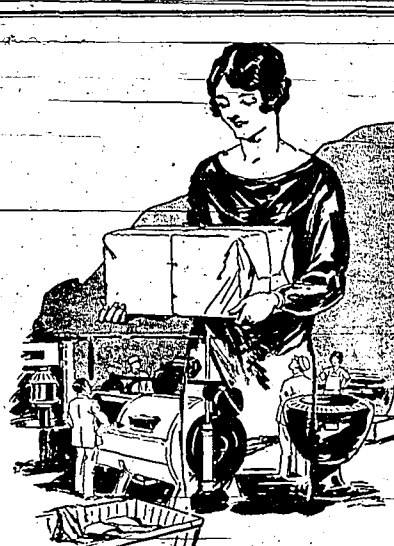

"The library will have an exhibit of books and list will be available for distribution. Posters are being made in the grade schools, and classes will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday mornings of this week for the first year in the use of the library. Later, a list of "Books for Girls" and a list of "Books for Boys" will be prepared."

BURLEY OFFICERS TAKE MEXICANS AND LIQUOR

BURLEY, Nov. 10 (Special to the News)—Sheriff P. D. Pace and Police Chief O. T. Jevons, prospecting around an old building once occupied by the Burley laundry, unearthed a barrel containing about 20 gallons of moonshine. From the barrel a siphon pipe led to the basement of the building. Following the siphon, the trail led to a hole in the floor, and bottles of liquor within the building, and also to Jean Menechala and Paul Susana, Mexicans, who were escorted to the court of Police Judge Arthur Dunn for an explanation of the phenomenon.

The explanation seemed to be clear enough, and resulted in a fine of $250 assessed each, Mexican Friday. The two men were also advised by the court that a repetition of the phenomenon would constitute a felony, and might result in a free trip to a Boise institution. The fines were paid.

Tremendous Increase in High Gear Power and Unusually Faster Getaway
High gear power is tremendously increased in the 1929 Greatest Durant Four. Getaway is unusually faster—much faster than that of any previous Durant-built four-cylinder car. Durant engineers brought about these wonderful improvements by making a change in gear ratio and by perfecting the semi-automatic spark control. Nelson Bohalite invar strut pistons—pioneered by Durant in the world-renowned Red Seal Continental Motor—contribute greatly to more power and to quicker acceleration. Even with this marked increase in power, the 1929 Greatest Durant Four is practically vibrationless because the motor is completely suspended in rubber.

All Models Are Fully Equipped.
This equipment includes gold-plated emblem... new-type bumpers, front and rear... fashionable fin radiator cap... tube, and tire cover... 28 x 4.75 balloon tires... chromium plating on head lamp shells, cow lamp shells, radiator bars and shell... rear vision mirror... automatic windshield wiper... electric motor driven horn... stop light kit of tools.
