THARP'S FATE GOES INTO JURY'S HANDS AFTER LONG SESSION

Nearly 100 Persons Remain in Court Room Determined to Hear Verdict; Defendant Apparently Little Affected

Without reaching an agreement on a verdict in the case of Ward Otis Tharp, charged with first degree murder, the jury in district court here went to bed at 1:15 this morning after three hours deliberations.

Apparently little affected by the ordeal, the murder-charged man was led back to his jail quarters. His wife who has been in custody since the trial has been accustomed to accompany her husband out of the room with her arm about his shoulder.

Those are melancholy events that follow in the tracks of crime. Crime always affects the innocent as well as the guilty. Perhaps it is just that

It should be so that we are bound together and hold in proper relation to the general scheme of things.

"All murder cases are sad; and this is a murder case. But on the morning of the September 29 at Mrs. Bowen's little bedroom there was enacted a tragedy, and that was a sad and a terrible thing. The neighbors and this sister saw that toddling four-year-old child in her night clothes, but there on the bed lay the dead body of a woman's hand and trying to wake her mother from an eternal sleep—there, too, were solemn moans.

"Our task is a sterner one. It is to mete out justice. A crime at which humanity revolts and which God abhors had been committed, and our counsel would have you believe, by a mad man, but by one who has shown himself to be malicious, cunning, vindictive, domineering, arrogant and malignant.

"I invoke the retribution of justice, not for the purpose of securing a victim, but to see that justice is done. Exhibits Revolver

The prosecutor continues exhibiting the revolver that he said, had been "shaken from the hand of the murderer by the protector of his wife and children." He said that the witnesses of the tragedy, and declared that it seemed that "providence had intervened to spare to the orphaned children a brazen murderer who exhibited the dress taken from the body of 'the mother who dared to go out and speak in behalf of her children' and the bullets taken from her body which he termed 'leaden messengers of death that broke up this home and this world for the mother and her three children a dark and dreary place to live in."

"He advised the jury that it was the judge of the defendant's sanity the same as any other fact, and sounded a challenging note in his declaration to the jury. "You think he is insane, turn him loose to kill our men's wives and perhaps your own."

To reply to criticism that had been emphasized by defense attorneys in argument of the state's failure to introduce testimony of three Twin Falls county residents who had been summoned soon after the killing to inquire into Tharp's mental condition, Williams explained that it had been impossible to offer this testimony because, he said, Dr. Alexander had been summoned to Goodwin to perform an emergency operation; Dr. McClusky is a patient in the county hospital and suffering from influenza, and Dr. Davis is in New York.

Opening the argument for the state, Judge James R. Botwell pronounced the crime with which Tharp was charged "the most atrocious in the history of the courts of this state" and asked, in event of conviction, that Tharp be called upon to meet the punishment for such a crime.

"Defies Insanity

He reviewed the evidence, finding basis for denial that Tharp had in any action in connection with the tragedy or in events leading to it, exhibited any evidence of insanity. On the contrary, Judge Botwell declared Tharp had "shown himself to be a man of sane mind, of sane will, of sane mind who would stop at the extreme of taking life to gain his purpose."

He argued that all of the evidence showed that Tharp had had "plenty of troubles and that they were not imaginary" and that he had "acted in all reality on actualities in all situations."

He declared the defense had "feigned its plea of self-defense the same as its defense was feigned so far as the state was concerned."

J. W. Taylor, opening the argument for the defense, made a scathing attack on the state's array of evidence and displayed brilliancy in marshalling of testimony making up the defense case.

Captain James W. Porter, who closed the argument for the defense, painstakingly analyzed the evidence, meeting objections and answering up forfections about the case for the defense.

He confessed reluctance to terminate his part in the trial.

"I am saying the last words," he declared, "that will be said in behalf of this defendant before you render your verdict. I am reluctant to close so long as there may be anything I can say or do to assist you in arriving at a fair and just verdict.

"If there is any doubt in your mind, Captain Porter concluded, I pray of your deliberation that you will give the defendant the benefit of that doubt; grant life to the defendant; and if this state who has revealed its mind to be at his side during this ordeal, and give these young people, these children, the benefit of that doubt. I am sure that you will find, if there is that doubt in your minds that is contemplated by the law, give to that little mother, that gray-haired mother, that mother of gentle men, in humiliation and despair, that her burden may be rendered a little less as she goes through the remaining years of her life."

Emphasis was placed in argument by Mr. Taylor upon defense contention that Tharp is a paranoiac, suffering from insane delusion of persecution. He declared that "if the people who have known him well had done their full duty he would not be safely confined in institutions. He ascribed to himself a measure of blame in this regard, explaining that he himself should have taken action to protect the children of Mrs. Bowen, four years ago when he was serving as prosecuting attorney of this county and that Tharp had been already in breaking a quarantine and resisting an officer."

Mr. Taylor asked the jury to disregard the testimony of Dr. George Williams, superintendent, and Dr. O'Rourke, former superintendent of the state insane asylum at Blackfoot, Idaho, that had been offered by the state in refutation of defense contention that Tharp was insane. He asserted that "we have introduced the only evidence here as to the sanity of the defendant."

He expressed the opinion that there had never been a more definite case of paranoia than that shown in Tharp's case. He explained further that "innocent acts take on sinister and sinister appearance for the victim, the spell of delusion, and that the spell of delusion for the paranoiac is more powerful than the power of belief of normal persons."

Conduct of the murder-charged man indicated that he was not insane and knew what he was doing when Mrs. Bowen was killed, Dr. Poynter and Dr. Williams testified.

Presentation of the testimony of the two alienists summoned by the state at the trial, he said, occupied a large part of the closing day of the trial.

Each of these witnesses was requested by state's attorneys to reply to a 700-word hypothetical question setting forth facts and testimony that had been introduced in evidence relative to Tharp's behavior under given circumstances. Defense counsel objected to use of the hypothetical question on the ground that it did not contain reference to all of the testimony and particularly because of its failure to mention recently introduced testimony of the sanity of Tharp.

Judge Baker, after hearing argument in the absence of the jury, peremptorily stood, at the trial, the witness replied that the state of facts set out in the hypothetical question would, "in his opinion, indicate that defendant was not insane."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Taylor, Dr. Poynter testified that he had examined Tharp in his cell here last October. His purpose, he said, was to determine Tharp's mental status and to ascertain whether he was feeble-minded. He testified that Tharp responded to "certain tests" in "one manner during the first examination, and that his responses were reversed the next day."

Reports on "Tests"

Tests, he said, indicated that Tharp had the mentality of a person 18 to 20 years, and that he was "intelligent enough to have paranoia" which was described as "the aristocrat of mental diseases."

Mr. Taylor led the alienist through a detailed recital of the examination he had made of the defendant and over a general survey of the subject of insanity with reference particularly to paranoia.

During the afternoon session, state's attorneys called to the stand two witnesses for the purpose of impeaching the state's testimony in its own behalf. The attempt was 50 per cent successful.

William Cleveland, Twin Falls dayman, said that Tharp had on one occasion had told him two women had gotten judgment against him and that he had been killed, but Cleveland agreed with Tharp's testimony in that Tharp had not said either declaring that Bowen "wants to stay plumb out of my path."

W. J. Young, county probation officer, testified in contradiction to statements of Edward Tharp and Leo Tharp on the witness stand that Mr. Young had threatened to send them to the reform school if they denied that they had used clubs in the alleged attack on the Bowen girl and the other children a few minutes before the shooting of Mrs. Bowen.

Four witnesses for the state testified that within an hour after the shooting they had examined the truck in which Tharp had been traveling when he was stopped in front of the Bowen residence. They agreed that the truck's cab was peppered with bullet holes, but declared that they had seen no evidence of a bullet mark which a number of defense witnesses had testified they had observed. The state's witnesses in this regard were

Mr. Donmore testified that he had examined the truck at a later time and had then seen the marks upon which defense witnesses had testified.

M. E. Finch, sheriff in whose custody Tharp had been held since the day of the tragedy, testified as a witness for the state that Tharp's appetite was very good; that Tharp had told him he slept fairly well, and that there was nothing in Tharp's condition or behavior to cause him to believe Tharp to be insane.

Mrs. Mary B. Rose, was re-called to the stand to testify that there was nobody in the road ahead of her when she left the Bowen residence shortly after the shooting to go to her home that is about mid-way between the Bowen and Tharp residences.

In order to convict Tharp of murder in the first degree under instructions given by Judge Baker last night, the jury must find him guilty of causing with premeditated malice the death of Mrs. Bowen.

In event of agreement on a verdict of any lesser degree of homicide, the jury would not name the penalty.

Deliberate and premeditated action.

Deliberate and premeditated action, it was explained, need not require more time than sufficient for the accused to appreciate the nature of his act and its probable consequences.

Proof of malice, deliberation, and premeditation is not required for conviction of second degree murder.

Voluntary manslaughter contemplated "homicide committed in a sudden quarrel or heat of passion without premeditation or malice, premeditation or malice."

"Involuntary manslaughter was defined as homicide committed unlawfully in disregard with a culpable or as a result of a law act performed in a manner that might produce death without due caution or circumspection."

Instructions also defined justifiable and excusable homicide.

Substitute jurors, who had been impaneled in order that they might serve as regular jurors in event of emergency, and who sat in the jury box throughout the course of the trial, were excused by Judge Baker and left the room before members of the regular jury retired to begin their deliberations. The substitute jurors were S. D. Perrine and W. H. Garrison.

Judge Baker announced that members of the jury might be excused from further service during the present term, if they desired, at the conclusion of this case.

Trojans Defeat Idaho, 28-7, To Win Championship

90,000 Fans See Stanford Tie California At 13-13 In Final Seconds of "Big Game"

WANDALS GIVE FOES BITTER BATTLE BUT THREATS PROVE FEW

Southern California's Drive Early in First Period Encounters Stone Wall On Involving Hosts' 6-Yard Line

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Southern California's football Trojans rode into a Pacific coast conference championship today with a crushing, 28-to-7 victory over the bulky Vandals of Idaho.

Undefeated and tied but once in five conference games, the Trojans, with the aid of the 13-to-13 tie between Stanford and California at Berkeley, tonight were at the top of the percentage column. They were challenged only by the Golden Bears who, however, had two deadlocks on their slate.

Woolfully weak numerically, but ponderously large, the Vandals gave the Trojans a bitter battle throughout the four periods of play here. The Moscow Giants held them scoreless through the first half, and threatened twice with battering drives into Trojan territory.

Trojans Reserve, Parade

But a continuous parade of Trojan reserves with which the Vandal coach, Charles Erb, could not cope gradually wore down the dogged resistance of the Northerners. Southern California three pierced a shattered Idaho defense in the third period, and again scored in the final quarter. All of the fight had been taken out of the Moscow men, however, as they smashed through for a touchdown of their own in the closing period.

A Trojan drive early in the first period encountered a stone wall on the Idaho 6-yard line. Three downs failing to yield yards, Marshall Duffield, 18-year-old Southern quarterback, tried a pass to the goal line. It fell incomplete. The Trojans got as far as the 15-yard line early in the second period, but a fumble cost them their scoring chance. A few minutes later the half sun found them on the Idaho 1-yard line. The Trojans started with the opening kickoff on the second half on a smashing thrust that ended seven plays later with Williams crossing the Vandal goal.

Perrin Fumbles

A "break" gave Southern California its second tally when Hibbs recovered Hillback Perrin's fumble on Idaho's 43-yard line.

Williams and Saunders carried the oval across in five plays. The Trojans went to a third touchdown in the third period, starting the scoring movement from their own 46-yard line.

A fumble by Hill shortly after the final period had rotten under way paved the way for the lone Idaho touchdown. The substitute Trojan halfback's bobble came on his own 23-yard line, the Vandals recovering on Southern California's 37-yard line. First down by Burgher and Robertson planted the Northerners on their 6-yard marker. The power of Fullback Kershanski was called into play, and three plays later the Vandal giant was across the goal line.

Capital City High School Team Wins Right to Meet Bryn Squad for State Title; Dam Site Eleven Scores First

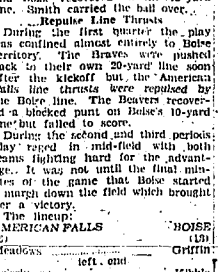

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, Nov. 24.—After being held scoreless for two periods, the Boise high school football team defeated the American Falls team, 18 to 6, here today and won the right to meet Twin Falls for the state championship.

The American Falls team broke into the scoring in the first quarter. A costly fumble cheated them of one touchdown after they had carried the ball across for what seemed a sure score. A series of fumbles interchanged the ball several times during the first quarter but eventually the American Falls team received a Boise kick and by a series of long end runs by Russman, Ring and Collett, took the ball across Collett scoring.

Last Dangerous Threat It was their last dangerous threat. As the game wore on the Boise Braves increased pressure on the line and near the end of the third quarter, Willis Smith, Boise halfback, worried his way 20 yards through the line for the Braves' first score. The Braves scored two more touchdowns in the final period. The first of these came when Collett's kick from the 10-yard line went wild and over the bounds on the 20-yard line. Smith, Boise, took the ball after two line

WEBER COLLEGE CLAIMS DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

OGDEN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Weber college annexed her sixth consecutive intermountain junior college football championship here today, by trouncing the Ricks college eleven of Rexburg, Idaho, 32 to 7. Ricks scored her lone touchdown in the first period after only two minutes of play. They received the opening kickoff, and two forward passes worked the ball to the 7-yard line. One of the passes, Dixon to Parkinson, netted 40 yards. Line plunges carried the ball across and Dixon drop-kicked for the extra point.

Weber came back with a pair of touchdowns in the second period. Clapper and Russell making the points. Russell made one of the two attempts for extra point with a place kick. Weber counted three additional touchdowns in the last half, using an aerial attack that completely baffled the visitors. The entire Weber team played heads up football.

The Wildcats leave here early in December for Honolulu where they will play the McKinley school in an inter-sectional contest.

Simms Hurls Long Pass to Frentrop, Cardinal Back. Behind Opponents' Goal Line To Ever, Tally With Old Foot

(By The Associated Press)

BERKELEY, Nov. 24.—With but a minute and a half to play, Stanford completed a 40-yard forward pass for a touchdown and a 13-to-13 tie with California in the thirty-fourth annual big game between the two schools here this afternoon.

Eighty thousand persons in the huge bowl, and some 10,000 others clustered on the hillsides, witnessed the struggle. The tie score carried California's hopes for a tie for the coast conference title into oblivion, for Southern California climbed into top honors by winning from Idaho today.

A California advantage, piled up in the first half by two touchdowns, dwindled away to nothingness before a mighty finish by the Stanford machine. Pop Warner's warriors drove across the California goal for their first touchdown in the third period. Then, after a stirring fourth period battle, and with less than two minutes left, Simms hurlled a long pass to Frentrop, Stanford back, standing back of the California goal line.

SAFETY ON THE WATER

The traveling public is accustomed to trust those responsible for its safety, by land or water. This is especially true of navigation, because the sea has old and honorable traditions...

As a clear fact the public has been taking too much for granted in passenger ships. Presumptions of thorough inspection, proper equipment, readiness of vessel and crew for emergencies of storm or accident, prove to have been terribly wrong in at least one notable instance.

Every person who respects his own life or other people's lives should adopt a Missourian attitude on boarding any vessel, of any type, on any body of water, be it the deep sea or a little inland lake.

It is possible, know something about the craft, its fitness to meet the conditions of the sea. It is important to insist on landing from wherever is responsible for the craft. On shipboard try anything concerning with the safety problem. There is no other way to be sure that reasonable precautions are taken.

MASS ADVERTISING. Production steadily increases. This is notably true in the automobile industry, the radio industry, the steel industry and various others.

PLAGIARY AND CULTURE. A good book has been published about the subject of 'The Art of Plagiarism'.

Two books recently published are said to be so much alike that their respective authors and publishers may go to law about them.

Whenever the outcome of the controversy, the two books are likely to find a record number of readers.

Fifteen Years Ago in Twin Falls

Taken from the Twin Falls News, Thursday, November 21, 1912.
Twin Falls was thrown into a water famine Wednesday morning when the supply in the reservoir of the Twin Falls Waterworks company became exhausted.

Several minutes passed. Suddenly as Bob puffed away, Treas grabbed my arm.
"Here, there—don't you see? That tentacle is moving!"

Undoubtedly Bob saw it too but the drug was beginning to take effect and he was too numb to take the pipe from his mouth.

Somebody else may take up the subject of the pipe for his own field use. The kitchen may not be a laboratory exactly, though, truth to tell, many an experiment has been conducted therein, but it can always commandeer any dishes desired.

WARCRAFT CARRYING HOOVER SOUTHWARD BATTLES HEAVY SEA

The audience near the rail while the water poured through portholes and flooded the stilted room of Mr. Hoover. Later the same morning the south that wind of pair force would be encountered.

Despite this forecast, most of the Hoover party and many of the officers spread their coats on the deck and turned in. Before midnight the ship was pitching but it did not reach the real storm area until two hours later. A wave breaking over the starboard side of the quarter deck gave the sleepers a dousing. They hurriedly scrambled below to their cabins, although a few went to the bridge to watch the waves breaking over the bow.

Captain in Pilot House
Captain Kimberly remained in the pilot house as the ship drove through waves with shocks which at times reached the real storm area until two hours later.

The men, called out to make fast all movable objects on the decks, had to fight their way through combers which sometimes took them off their feet. Some water seeped down before all hatches could be sealed. More water was shipped when a massive wave broke so high over the quarterdeck that their spray found the ventilator openings.

The gale a times attained a velocity of 70 miles an hour, although by noon its force had slackened to about 40.

The crew rescued one of two Voight Corsair seaplanes on the deck. They apparently were able to lash it more securely before the 47,000 crate was damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were caused much discomfort by the steady pitching of the great dreadnaught. They were quartered in the extreme after-end of the ship and got the full benefit of the motion of the craft. The stern sometimes was buried completely in the water while the bow was heaved high by a wave.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were up much of the night, moving about their compartment. Mrs. Hoover was concerned about her son, Allan, who was one of those who chose to sleep upon the quarter deck, only to be driven below by the heavy spray.

capably at the daily spectacle. This revived popular spirit remarkably. Then the queen's attendance at the musical concert was taken as an excellent omen by thousands who eagerly watched for every good sign.

Another happy occasion was preparation of the king's Christmas pudding at the cookery exposition at Olympia. This was seized as an opportunity for expression of good will and sympathetic affection for the ailing sovereign. The public was admitted to help mix this "vital" concoction and try never-hour steady spooning passed by the great bowl.

Never were the big stirring spoons wielded with more vigorous ardor. Nurses, boy scouts, girl guides, policemen, soldiers and newboys gladly participated in this ceremony. Two baby kites, one 18 months old and the other six months old were helped by their mothers to mix the giant wooden spoon to the rich, doughy mixture. Everyone who stirred was told to make a wish.

"God bless King George," said one woman while another setting the spoon added: "May he be well enough to eat the pudding."

The next annual meeting of the board will be held in Seattle. The foreign board will meet in San Francisco.

SUGAR MILLS OFFER TENTATIVE CONTRACT FOR 1929 BEET CROP

Guaranteed Price $7.50 Per Ton; Federal Man Studying Leaf-Hopper; Prospects Indicate Heavy Run Next Year

Contracts for the 1929 sugar beet crop, now being marketed, were announced by the Sugar company, after meeting with favor among growers and it is believed that not less than 14,000 to 15,000 acres will be planted in the Twin Falls-South Side territory, with a proportionately large acreage on the North side of Burley, Paul and Burley, Warren O. Swendsen, district manager of the Sugar company, announced last night.

The price of sugar and the sugar contract by which growers will receive additional payment depending upon the price of sugar and the sugar content of the beets, Mr. Swendsen said. Weather and other conditions affecting the crop are being closely observed by Dr. Carter of the United States department of agriculture, and his staff with a view of sending a prediction regarding probable fly damage next year.

Contract - Elastic This information will probably not be available before February, the price of sugar and the sugar contract are being taken into consideration of all factors affecting the crop, including weather conditions being noted and planting time, as will be disclosed by Dr. Carter's prediction.

Conditions up to this time point to a good beet year in 1929 and with a favorable prediction it appears very certain that a large crop will be produced, thus making possible to operate the Twin Falls, Burley and Paul mills to their full capacity next fall. If this is done tremendous advantage will inure to the territory. During a full capacity operation at the Twin Falls factory alone approximately $2,000,000 will be paid out for beets, labor and materials, all of which will find its way into the various homes and business channels throughout the territory, Mr. Swendsen stated. This sum does not include payments to farm labor incident to the beet crop or the revenue derived from by-products used in the livestock industry.

SCHOOL AUTHORITIES DISCUSS UNIFORMITY

Tests, Age-Grade Conditions and Achievements in Reading

Plans with the objective of bringing about as far as possible uniformity of textbook materials, and grading in the schools of the South Central district of Idaho will be worked out by a committee composed of Superintendent W. B. Smith, Twin Falls; Superintendent Frank A. Thomas, Gooding, and Principal Earl Ramsey, Burley, and will be presented to the meeting of the schoolmasters' club in Twin Falls January 15. The committee was appointed after an address delivered to the first meeting of the club yesterday by Superintendent Smith. Superintendent Smith stressed the inconvenience and cost involved in frequent changes of text books, and the hardship which parents undergo who, on moving from one district to another, are compelled to buy a lot of new books.

Desire Uniformity Uniformity of material as far as possible was also held desirable. Much confusion arises from difference in grading when students from one school move into another district with different standards. It was urged that steps should be taken toward eliminating these impediments to education. The meeting also voted to take up the matter of testing and measurement through a survey of the schools of the district. The advantages of systematic efforts along this line were urged by Superintendent W. W. Christensen, Burley. "Systematic" tests will be made to regard to methods and policies, and reports will be made at the January meeting. Each superintendent will endeavor to profit by the experiences of others, and seek uniformity of method as nearly as differing conditions will permit. Superintendent Christensen was appointed.

ABOUT CHRISTMAS

Don't think that the old saying about "doing your Christmas shopping early" is merely a catch-phrase to help merchants get an early start on cleaning up their Christmas stocks.

The practice of doing your buying early for the gift season is a wise one; the reasons for it are simple enough. You avoid crowds, thus taking advantage of extra time for selections. You buy while the stock is complete, getting a larger variety to select from, which saves you money.

Gifts from the jewelry store do not wear out. Their usefulness and the remembrance that they inspire both last. Come now—select your gifts from this large versatile stock; a deposit will hold any article till Christmas.

PEACH INDUSTRY GROWS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bureau of Railway Economics discloses that the American appetite for peaches has become much keener in recent years. In the five-year period of 1922-27 the average annual production was

52,200,000 bushels, an increase of 51 per cent over the five-year period of 1903-07, compared to an increase in population of 37 per cent. The increase is due in a large part to the better transportation and distribution facilities. California and Georgia have become the most important producing states.

BARE LEGS IN STYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Leather tanners are preparing their new lines for shoes of sun-tan shades, believing that next summer will witness a wide gain in the popularity of bare legs. Pink shades are barred, because of the feminine fad for sun-tanned skin. Hence sunburn beige, lido sand and other light browns are favored.

Two Quiet High Speeds

Owners tell us they use fourth in the Graham-Paige four-speed transmission most of the time, enjoying its new smoothness and swiftness. They drop into third (a quiet, internal gear) for rapid acceleration in traffic, or up steep hills. The gear shift is standard. You start in second. First, in reserve, is seldom used. A car is at your disposal.
