ARMY air corps plane The Question Mark, hopped off for Pacific coast for a planned endurance flight.

HOUSE put final congressional touch on the treasury-post office bill and sent measure to president with the $257,000,000 prohibition enforcement increase out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Congress today laid on the doorstep of the White House one of the most important legislative products of a decade when the house put its stamp of approval on the bill popularly known as Boulder dam.

The two-hour session, given over to a final analysis of the measure by its proponents and a few partisans by its opponents, the senate amendments to the bill passed last session by the house, were adopted and the long controversy ended, for the time being at least.

Vote 166 to 122. The revised measure, calling for a $165,000,000 flood control, irrigation and power project on the Colorado river, was passed by a roll call vote of 166 to 122, but not until after its chief sponsor, Representative Clegg, Republican, California, had been given the scare of his life by a standing vote showing the motion to agree to the amendments to have been beaten, 71 to 71.

Party lines were thoroughly shattered in this hour, which saw the measure the knickerbocker of further tortuous conference and sent it forth to President Coolidge for his approval or signature.

Hopes for Signature. Chairman Smith of the irrigation committee, who moved adoption of the amendments, together with Representative Swing, co-author of the legislation, conferred with President Coolidge in the White House center in the day and night afterward that were hoped that the measure would be signed.

The measure passed the measure proposes construction at the Black canyon site in the Colorado river of a huge dam to provide water for irrigation in the seven states in the river basin. A power plant also would be built at the dam to furnish electric power to scores of localities of the West.

The government would have the right to build the dam, but the power plant would be constructed by the government or by private capital.

$10,000,000 ISSUE OF ROAD BONDS NOT NEEDED, SAYS WOOD

Idaho Progressing Along Consistent Lines On "Pay-As-You-Go" Plan, Declares Commissioner of Public Works

(By The Associated Press) MOSCOW, Idaho, Dec. 18.—Idaho is progressing along consistent lines on the "pay-as-you-go" plan and there is no economic necessity for the $10,000,000 bond issue to build roads at this time, declared Joe D. Wood, commissioner of public works, in an address before the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce here today.

Commissioner Wood said proposals for such a bond issue had been predicted upon the assumption that it would greatly expedite the completion of the state's highway program. To a certain extent this may be true in Idaho, but it would speed up the completion of the program about three years, Commissioner Wood said.

However, such a bond issue could not be made available for about 18 months and would unquestionably increase the eventual cost of the road program, he pointed out.

Outlines Work. He outlined proposed highway work in North Idaho for the coming year, saying that the present tentative schedule called for 85 miles of new construction, 60 miles of reconstruction and 150 miles of betterments, the latter to be purged as far as funds are available.

The aim of the department is to complete the program by 1931.

ENROLLMENT OF TROOPS GOES ON IN BOLIVIA

Meanwhile the conference itself pushed forward with the work and a sub-committee on conciliation treaties agreed upon a general basis for a multi-lateral pact of conciliation between the nations in dispute.

The prompt reaction of both disputing governments to the conciliation offer and reports from La Paz that instructions had been issued by the Bolivian general staff to withhold any further advance in the disputed territory, were received in all circles here as indicating that the two countries had been lessened for the time being at least.

The foreign office tonight officially informed President Brundage of the council of nations of the Bolivian acceptance of the good offices of the Pan-American conference and of the fact that Bolivia's acceptance of the good offices of the Pan-American conference and of the fact that Bolivia's acceptance of the good offices of the Pan-American conference.

The note said: "I have the honor to inform you of the fact that in accordance with the suggestions from the League council the Bolivian government has accepted the good offices offered by the conference for conciliation and arbitration meeting in Washington."

"The Bolivian government has declared constantly and reiterates now that her attitude has not provoked conflict and that she is having the most severe standards of international law."

"THOMAS' MELLO, Foreign Minister." Acceptances of mediation followed closely on Bolivia's notification to the League that the commander of her frontier forces had been ordered to cease attacks and not to advance.

PARIS HOPEFUL "PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP)—That the Pan-American conference at Washington may successfully mediate the Bolivian-Paraguayan dispute and that the League of Nations may not be further obliged to intervene, both the outlook and hope in Paris tonight.

Foreign Minister Brundage, president of the League council, spent the day in part of the day with the dispatch of the South American dispute. He began by going through reports from the French diplomatic representatives in South America and continued by examining all aspects of the situation at La Paz, which he gave to Sir E. Drummond, secretary of the League, and Count Quinones de Leon, Spanish ambassador to France.

He ended the day by successfully receiving the ministers of Bolivia and Paraguay, the Argentine charge d'affaires, and Norman H. Armour, American charge d'affaires.

M. Brindage sought to learn exactly what was being done by Pan-American conference and by agreement with a view to determining the practicability of coordinating their efforts with those of the league and of having the conference and conference separate instead of being time in separate efforts.

The foreign minister handed to Mr. Armour, in a spirit of friendly cooperation, copies of the documents exchanged between the council and Paraguay and Bolivia for transmission to the Washington government.

"During the day Paraguay delivered another note to M. Brindage. This stated that Paraguay had first invited investigation of the facts in dispute with Bolivia and had also accepted all suggestions for pacific settlement immediately thereafter. Paraguay offers to submit a detailed report of the incidents to the league council."

"Bolivian troops in a civilized state without a declaration of war and contrary to the usage of civilized nations invaded our territory and attacked our military posts and bombarded our positions with airplanes," the note said.

"Our government has just accepted the good offices of the Pan-American conference on arbitration. This attitude is a new testimony of our loyal desires for peace."

The note contends that Bolivian actions of the incidents are always prepared to accept conciliation.

MODERN MAGIC. It seems incredible in this day and age that anyone of normal intelligence, or any intelligence at all, could be fooled into paying money to a clairvoyant for any purpose whatever.

Modern magic is tempered by cold blooded cynicism. The clairvoyant is now under arrest at Salem, Oregon, on the woman's complaint.

It all constitutes another example of the age-old proposition that people can be fooled against their own selves and always, as long as the world shall endure, there will be a field for the genius of the modern magician.

Charles Celaya, a banker and auto garage mechanic, both of Brownsville, Texas, had a difference of opinion over a certain aspect of Celaya's car. The banker insisted that it was in the spring. The mechanic maintained that it was in the stabilizer.

Differences of opinion, as is well known, are what make horse races. This one naturally led to a bet. The banker, remembering the Merchant of Venice, offered to give a pound of flesh when he found that the mechanic couldn't match a bet of ten dollars. The mechanic thought he couldn't afford to lose a pound, but was willing to risk his appendix.

At this point the reader probably guesses wrong. He might suppose that the two mechanics would talk together. There is no such prospect in the narrative. Of course, it may be that the important reference of the banker is wrong. Always, he declared that the banker was right. The square was in the spring and the name, appendicitis, mechanic is the result from his operation.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS. The real question concerning naval power, often lost sight of in recent discussion, is "shall the seas be free?" It was for freedom of the seas that the United States went to war with Germany in 1917 and fought the Barbary pirates. It was Germany's atrogant denial of freedom of the seas that drew America into the World War. It was her right to sail the seas that will very likely be for this same historic American principle. For foreign trade grows steadily more important. What navies are primarily for is to defend sea trade and keep sea routes open. The sea powers could agree on this principle, it should be easier for them to agree on naval races and limitation. For the interest of all, navies would be regarded then not so much as rivals and potential destroyers of each other, but rather as police craft to keep the seas open. There would be less incentive to competitive building. Granting this, the world would be the interest of all. Navies would be regarded then not so much as rivals and potential destroyers of each other, but rather as police craft to keep the seas open. There would be less incentive to competitive building.

A New Yorker at Large. G. D. SEYMOUR. NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (AP)—Those who spend from $600 to $2,000 apiece on their motor cars, in order to ride in something that isn't one of a hundred thousands of the auto-mobile salons to do their shopping. At this year's salon here the average cost of the cars on display all contained built-in radio, and the figure varied little year to year.

The salon is the advance step show of the automobile world. George S. P. Huntington is the annual visitor to it in quest of a new car. One or more of the Mellon's generally arrive by auto-salon for years W. C. Durant has purchased a car. All the mass producers of automobiles attend, and sometimes one of them may be found sitting on the floor under a car that has caught his eye, examining some new design of motor.

The meekest detour man, tidily interested in the innovations reviewed at the salon, for new features which will save him an income. In the stock car he includes himself purchases a season or so hence. Why Not Door Knobs? This may be the automobile of the future, instead of with handles. Handles have been used from time immemorial not only on automobile doors but on coaches and carriages before then. This year one body designer offers a sedan the doors of which open by means of a button on the door knobs. If the novelty is popular, automobile designers will never, they didn't think it a dozen years ago. If it isn't, it may never be heard of again.

Several cars are upholstered this season in water-repellent material. Another car has a signal system which gives a warning of danger from rear seat to chauffeur's wheel. A set of pearl handled switches is connected with the door knobs. A bell beside the chauffeur rings and an instruction is lighted on the dashboard. The influence of the airplane is visible in the use of streamlines and radiator covers, but also in an aero-phaeton, finished in brushed aluminum and designed as nearly as possible to resemble a biplane.

Its designed arrangements include a compass, an inclinometer, indicating what grade a car is traveling on an all-weather, showing the distance above sea level; and even a device which registers the car's speed. On the floor, its rear seat is like that of a two-seater plane, and it has a tail effect which is a replica of the vertical stabilizer of a biplane. On the floor is a landing light, and the small engine compartment in back is about that of a plane. The car is a sedan, and a bottle of orange juice. Not the least of the striking effects to be seen in the combinations of color and design displayed here is the adaptation from famous paintings, using on one car the colors Michelangelo's "David" and "St. Andrew" in the chapel, on another the hues in which Da Vinci painted the Mona Lisa, and on a third the shades of the "Sistine Chapel."

English Star Cast As Martyred Nurse

"Dawn" sensational film starring Billie Thorneycroft, prominent English actress, as Edith Cavell, the "martyr nurse of the World war opens today at the Idaho theatre.

So much controversy had been created by this picture that the world expect to find a picture that offends the German "Gentlemen." However, according to critics, the film is derogatory to the Allies, for it was an Allied soldier who betrayed Nurse Cavell to the German military authorities.

The picture contains real drama, heart interest, and suspense. The scenes that show Miss Cavell helping Allied refugees, soldiers as well as civilians, and spiriting them out of Belgium through the "underground" channels that she had created, hold one in tense suspense. The picture has been handled by Herbert Wilcox with the delicacy with which his nation is noted. No bitterness against the Germans is evidenced anywhere in the film. The star is a leading militarism not only of Germany, but of all nations. In addition to the film, special pictures of the war—taken from the British archives will be shown.

TWIN FALLS

BANDIT IMPLICATES TWIN FALLS MAN IN ROBBERY OF WOMAN

James E. Carl, Sentenced to State Prison For Part in Holdup, Says Frank Smith Gave Necessary Information

Self-confessed bandit, according to testimony of one of them in probable court here yesterday, obtained from Frank Smith, former employe of the Perrine cafe, information that made it possible for them to take $70 at the point of a gun from Miss Adele Littau, employe of the Manhattan cafe here last November 12, and to escape detection until they were arrested in Ogden some days later when police took them in for investigation.

The witness was James E. Carl, who was sentenced here this week to serve five to 10 years in the state prison for his admitted part in the holdup. He was testifying as a witness for the state in support of Harry B. Smith who was an accomplice in the robbery.

Judge C. A. Balley, before whom the preliminary hearing was held, stated that he would not have to reserve until today his decision as to whether Smith should be held to answer in district court to the robbery.

Carl testified that within an hour or two after he and J. H. Wilson arrested Miss Littau on the evening of November 12 they had received information from Smith which led to the robbery of the Perrine cafe. He said that Smith told them that Miss Littau would close the Manhattan cafe at about 11 P. M. and that she would carry with her considerable of her employe's money when she left the cafe and that Smith also showed them where Miss Littau lived in the McCornick block on Main avenue south.

Carl denied statement of Carl that he had said to G. E. Kildew, prosecuting attorney, and G. E. Kildew, one of the proprietors of the Manhattan cafe, that Smith had told him and Wilson that Littau was unable to scream or to speak in a loud tone.

Carl testified that Smith had been lying, Carl asserted in reply to the prosecutor's question. G. E. Kildew, called as a witness for the state, reviewed Carl's earlier story to himself and the prosecutor and declared that Carl at that time had told Smith's alleged statements in reference to Miss Littau's voice. He stated also that Smith appeared on the street in front of Miss Littau's lodging house a few minutes after the robbery and inquired what was going on.

Corroborates Story
Miss Poy McCarty, employe of the Perrine cafe, was called as a witness to corroborate Carl's statement that he and Wilson had met and conversed with Smith in the Brunswick store.

Carl testified that Wilson had held the gun during the hold-up and that Smith had held the money, a package containing the money to him. He stated also that there had been some conversation between the two men at the time of the robbery of a division of the money with Smith, but that he had persuaded Wilson, after the hold-up, to leave down at the bank. No evidence offered in Smith's behalf. He was represented by John P. Koszarek, attorney, who questioned the witness in cross-examination. At the close of the hearing moved for dismissal of the charge against Smith on the grounds that it had not been proven.

BOISE, Dec. 18—Idaho cities and towns have water supplies ranging all the way from excellent to poor, with the bulk of them falling in the "good" and "fair" columns, the biennial report of the state sanitary engineer, W. V. Leonard, revealed today.

The supply of only one city, Lewiston, was rated "excellent," with 18 being rated "good," 16 "fair" and one, Dubois, rated "poor." Twelve were rated doubtful because of poor records or poor protection on the supply, though analyses revealed most of them to be "good" on the test.

Following is a list of some of the cities' water supply ratings:
Bonners Ferry—new gravity supply installed. Source—Myrtle creek. Impounding dam—concrete—Seven miles of 12-inch steel pipe to reservoir. Rated good.
Sandpoint—source—open stream. No treatment. Impounding dam. Records poor. Analysis spotty. rated—doubtful until trespassers are kept off water shed.

Coeur d'Alene—source—lake. Chlorinated. Records fair. Analysis good. Rated good.
Wallace—surface streams. Chlorinated. Records fair. Analysis good. Rated good.
Kellogg—Six miles of new delivery main. Delivery line removed from river bottom. Point of diversion moved above source of gross pollution. Source open stream chlorinated. Records poor. Analysis good. Rated fair.

Orangeville—Mountain springs. Records fair. Analysis good. Soft water. Rated good.

Wesler—Snake river chlorinated. Records poor. Analysis spotty. Rated doubtful on account of heavy contamination in raw water. New well under construction.
Payette—Shallow wells. Intermittent contamination. Records poor. Analysis spotty. Rated doubtful.
Caldwell—Artesian wells. Records fair. Analysis good. Rated good. New well in process of drilling.

Nampa—Deep well put in service this year. Analysis good. Rated good.
Boise—Artesian well. Deep well. Shallow off set well. Chlorinated. Records good. Analysis good. Rated good.

Idaho Falls—City department has been instrumental in getting an improved supply for Idaho Falls. The present well supply is good, but the river pumpage nullifies this improvement. Supply rated doubtful. Records good. Analysis spotty.
St. Anthony—Wells near bank of Snake river. Records poor. Analysis poor. Rating fair.
Eldon—Wells and surface stream rating poor. Analysis spotty. No safeguards on supply.

Germany's U-Boat Lost
It was announced on November 23, 1918, that Germany had lost about 200 U-boats in the course of the war. According to a later compilation made by the U.S. Navy, the total number of German submarines lost by the Allies was 246.

HOSPITAL PHYSICIAN ASKS FOR TEACHERS

Dr. D'Orf Foynter Superintendent at Nampa Institution Seeks More Facilities

BOISE, Dec. 18 (AP)—A plea for more teachers and greater facilities for educating the mentally defective and retarded patients at the state school and colony at Nampa was voiced by Dr. D'Orf Foynter, medical superintendent, in his biennial report which went to the printers today.

Foynter said that "the name of the institutions implies, this is a school or educational institution. With this in view, we are making an effort to educate and train those of our members who are mentally capable of receiving training, both in an educational and vocational way. However, we are woefully handicapped, due to lack of a school room and equipment."

Classes in Dining Room

"A room originally constructed and intended for dining room purposes and which will in the very near future, due to our rapid increase in population, have to be utilized for this purpose, is now being used in conducting classes numbering approximately 70 pupils in grades extending from kindergarten to the fifth and sixth."

"This work is being carried on by one teacher. This would be considered most unusual with children mentally normal. Since our pupils are mentally defective and retarded it is much more difficult to teach and train them. This will give you an idea of the difficult and unfortunate situation under which we are compelled to operate in this department. I trust you will also give this matter your serious thought and request sufficient funds for providing better accommodations for this most important department."

The request was addressed to the commissioner of public welfare, under whose jurisdiction the school is placed.

TOURIST CAMP SANITATION JOB FOR STATE CHEMIST

BOISE, Dec. 18 (AP)—In addition to being "watchdog" over the purity of water and milk supplies in the state, W. V. Leonard, state sanitary engineer, is burdened with the duty of seeing to it that tourist camps as well are provided with proper sanitary equipment.

The growing number of tourist camps in the state prompted Leonard to mention this work in his biennial report released today.

"This division has been called upon numerous times in the last year to recommend certain engineering designs for the construction and operation of sewage disposal plants and sterilization of water supplies, and we anticipate that future requests will be made for this service."

CITIES AND RECREATION SEEKERS WAGING FIGHT

BOISE, Dec. 18 (AP)—A constant warfare between recreationists demanding good pleasure facilities and cities demanding protection of their water supplies was revealed in the report of W. V. Leonard, state sanitary engineer, released today.

Lakes that are used for water supplies are often polluted by fishers and hunters and in some sections these waterbodies have been barred to recreationists. Leonard recommended that some regulations be set up to govern the condition.
