Though Idaho is far removed from the region below the Mason Dixon line, the "color" question was brought into the legislature with the introduction of a bill aimed at guaranteeing civil, recreational and educational rights to negroes.

The bill was introduced by Representative B. W. Openheim, Ada county, and he declared, following adjournment, that it was presented to the interests of a number of negroes who were being discriminated against in barber shops, rooming-houses and cafes.

The bill was referred to the judiciary committee after brief consideration in the reference committee, and prediction was freely made that it would never be brought out upon the floor for argument.

The bill was one of several introduced into the house today, none of which, however, brought such immediate reaction. Legislators in both houses decried the policy of bringing the "negro question" to the front, declaring it had been acceptably settled in most cases.

The measure carried a penalty section providing for $100 fine and no more than three months imprisonment for violation of its provisions.

The individual discriminated against was also entitled to recover up to $100.

Immediately following introduction of the negro bill, the question of the governor's mansion was again raised.

Twin Falls Defeats East Filer Quintet by Score of 27 to 14

BRUIN TEAM SHOWS EFFECTS OF BATTLE WITH BULL'S SQUAD

Wildcat Fast-Breaking, Five-Man Defense Effective On Smaller Floor; Invading Aggregation Smooth-Machined

Playing a game that showed the effects of last night's battle with Bull the Twin Falls Bruin boys' basketball team defeated on the local court last night, 27 to 14.

Filer brought over a fast-breaking team that used a five-man defense effectively on Twin Falls' smaller floor, forcing the Bruin offense to resort to longer shots, and made the Bruins play the first half faster than their initial pace suggested they wished to do. Filer found the hoop first from the field, offered a pair of free throws, counted, and looped another basket from the field before Twin Falls began to take the matter with sufficient seriousness. Once convinced that Filer meant to play basketball without regard to the effect on the home team's feelings, the Bruins changed their tactics, instead the plays for the short ones with longer throws, and by attending strictly to the business in hand kept the score comfortably heavy on their side of the board.

Filer follows example. But there was no time during the game when either team could safely ease off their play for a long breath. After the opening minutes had aroused Twin Falls the home players were alert and sharp after chances, an example that Filer followed and even tried to improve on. The result was play that swung from end to end of the court, and tested the defense of both teams. In this branch of play honors were about even during the first half. Filer's five-man block working out to even the advantage of Twin Falls' reach. Both teams were attacking the basket with the light-defensive work kept the scoring per cent low, with many sharp scrimmages under the baskets resulting in held balls.

Speed at Premium. Filer relied upon a fast-breaking type of play, with speed at a premium. Twin Falls placed more reliance

Basketball Shots

By TED VOSHUNGI
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
The basketball tendency in football in this era of the open game and much passing is indicated strikingly by the great number of football ends whose names are appearing in basketball lineups all over the country. The number of men who double in football and basketball is large and among the grid stars of the court the ends are overwhelmingly predominant. Looking over the rosters of a few teams, such names stand out as Tom Churchill of Oklahoma, Jerry Nemecik of New York university, Foster of Ohio State, Trankowski of Michigan, Swarthout of Dartmouth, and Patrick of Pennsylvania. Many of these players are also members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League, who were drafted for service on the eleven last fall.

While all of those mentioned above are football winners of some note, a survey of the same teams sets a much smaller list of men who gained football fame in other periods. These include Miles, Fullback, and Wittmer of Black, both of Princeton; Paul Seall, Penn's great triple threat captain who is playing his first college basketball this year as a guard; and Tenny of the Columbia. The case of Tenny incidentally is exceptional, as it is unusual for a man to play both football and basketball in college. In his last year he played enough to make a good basketball player. Tenny, a sophomore, has defied this combination of facts by playing as good a game as a guard on the court as he did as a tackle on the gridiron. Besides forming a fine defensive barrier he managed to score in all of Columbia's first six games.

From the evidence at hand it would appear that the football ends make better basketball forwards and centers than guards. They often run the ball better, and are usually better shot makers. In fact, the best of the football ends that might be mentioned that two of the greatest football ends of recent college years were likewise two of the finest basketball players their institutions ever turned out. One was Vic Hanson, all-American end at Syracuse, and the other was Benny Oosterbaan, who enjoyed a similar distinction at Michigan.

Yale has a forward by the name of Nassau. He ought to feel at home in the games with Princeton. Yale has a way of producing athletes with descriptive names. A hard-hitting member of its polo team possessed the name of Walling. Nat Holloman is on the New York university basketball team. He plays left forward—the same position at which his dad is found on the New York Nationals team of the American Pro League. You can break up the original Celtics, but you can't keep the remnants from winning games. Pete Barry, Joe Lapchick and Dutch DeWent with the Cleveland Rosenbums this year and the Roses provided the sensation of the early part of the league race, leading by a good margin. Hollman and Barry struck the roving wing player with this trio as the center last year, have been able to keep the New York Nationals well in the race.

On a timed offense, moving steadily of the ball to his team offense is shifting to a threat on one side to taking on an edge that will be very make a chance for a quick opening, usually later. The team did not have play away from the threat. After getting the snap and dash of the stoving line to lead the seal—play—slowly—back—and seemed only to use it somewhat when the ball was safely in full speed when pressed by Filer.

TWIN FALLS: PILER (14) forward; Taylor (10) forward; Sboemaker (3) forward; Finch (0) center; Nelson (0) forward; Kempton (4) guard. Substitutes—Twin Falls: Morgan (12) forward; Beckett (1) forward; Womers (2) forward; Barton (1) guard. For Filer with 6 points; Smith close behind him with 5.

For Twin Falls Taylor garnered 10 points for reception; Kempton took Morgan's motion point, having 10 when he beckett for Nelson; Womers for was withdrawn, Finch came next with Beckett; Lincoln for Taylor; Shoen was constant, and his feeding Reference—Westergren.

COSSACK FIVE WINS DO-NUT HOOP TITLE

Victors Emerge From Series Without Defeat; Mavericks Lose Final Battle; 19 to 11

Coming to the final game without a single defeat through the league play, the Cossacks kept their recent form by becoming champions of the Twin Falls high school Do-Nut basketball league last night by defeating the Mavericks, 19 to 11.

The centers were the strong men, Bacon for the Cossacks having 13 points, and his team scoring 19 and Erben leading his herd with 6. Next the two men did all the work. They did not. Each was backed by a team that was very sharp and so sharp that with 10 men in every play there were times when at least six appeared to have a grip on the ball.

The Cossacks forced the play and deserved to win. Their passing was a little better, and faster, and they had a little less of the luck at the basket. Defensively the teams were about on a par. In the second half, with the Cossacks leading, the Mavericks became conservative at intervals and delayed their attack until the Cossacks were all set to receive it. The faster breaking style of play in the late stages would have given the Cossacks some very uneasy moments.

This lineup:

COSSACKS	MAVERICKS
Standle (3)	Baird (3)
Moon (3)	Hedstrom
Bacon (19)	Brown (6)
Stumpf	Richens
Stewart	Dawson

Substitutes—Mavericks: Orxood for Richens, Richens for Hedstrom.

JEROME, Jan. 19 (Special to The News)—Uniform game laws with reference to a closed season for pheasants and all upland birds, with it possible a closed season on pheasants during October; a game license fee of $2.50 instead of $2 with the extra 50 cents devoted to defraying expenses of rearing ponds for fish; and endorsement of the administrators of R. E. Thomas, game commissioner, and William M. Keil, fish commissioner, were outstanding expressions in the talks delivered at the banquet tendered by the Jerome Rod and Gun Club to 230 sportsmen of southern Idaho at the North Side Inn here tonight. W. M. Hardwick, Jerome, was toastmaster.

Boise Delegates Attend. A delegation of 14 members was present from Boise, including Commissioner Thomas, Turner Sparkman of the game department, and the majority of the fish and game legislative committees of the senate and the house.

Sentiment in favor of the increase in the game license fee which was warmly advocated by Commissioner Thomas, was unanimous. The sentiment for a uniform and shorter open season on pheasants was practically so, although Judge J. Shank, Bull, expressed doubt as to the wisdom of shortening the period. The value of the fish and game attractions of Idaho from a commercial viewpoint was stressed by W. A. Hitters, Jerome.

Idons Favor Higher Fee

Legislators present expressed themselves as favorable to the increased game license fee, but did not commit themselves on the uniform opening and closing season for upland birds. The committee consisting of Twin Falls representatives from the different clubs, Bull, Hagerman, Shoshone, Gooding, Halley, Boise and Jerome, was appointed to confer with the legislative committees to seek to work out a satisfactory solution to the problem. The Twin Falls Unique orchestra furnished music for the banquet.

He leaves Mrs. Ann Buckner and two small children, Douglas, 4, and Donald, 18 months.

Mrs. Buckner left her husband to be in LaGrande when her husband was brought in, but when she received word of his death, she started for Boise in an automobile to be with relatives. She had planned to go past the pilot's cabin in which the injured pilot died.

ANNUAL INCOME OF COUNTY'S HOSPITAL EQUALS INVESTMENT

Institution One of Finest and Best Equipped in State, Declares Auditor—Buildings Value Approximates $67,000

Twin Falls general hospital, constructed 12 years ago and representing an investment of more than $100,000, has an annual income of $67,000, according to report on a four-year audit submitted by W. G. Decker, accountant, to the county commissioners yesterday.

The report deals with records of the hospital during four years period—beginning in 1924, and ending January 7, 1929.

Ascribing credit to foresight of members of the board of county commissioners who authorized building of the hospital in 1916, the auditor declares that the county has now "one of the best and most equipped institutions in the state."

Building worth $67,000. The hospital, in state reports, is an investment of $102,447. Value of the building at the beginning of the year with depreciation figured at 2 per cent per year, is estimated at $101,200 and of the nurses' home, $10,200. No attempt is made to estimate value of hospital equipment, but the report states a new system of X-ray machines installed last October provides for inventory which will make this valuation available.

Cost of board and room and other hospital services, averages $1.50 per day per person in a proper charge against the hospital fund, and not against the county's current expense fund, since the hospital was built primarily for care of indigent persons. Cost of providing the home for indigents in 1927 totaled $6076 and of hospitalization of indigents, $4904. The figures showed a $10,000 surplus for the year 1927, which totaled for indigents' hospitalization, $4702 and for indigents' hospitalization, $20,300.92.

The report indicates the auditor's belief that no profitable attempt can be made to collect most of these accounts, indicating growing patronage of the institution, the record of notes receivable for the period covered by the report shows for 1924 a total of $12,165, $58,000; 1925, $6,600; 1927, $73,150.

Revenues of the institution for the year 1927 are shown by the report in the total sum of $98,263, with cost of operation totaling $103,210, and a deficit of $4947 of the close of the year.

The year 1928, according to the report, showed a surplus of $2029 with revenues amounting to $67,010 and operating expenses $64,180. Revenues in 1925 jumped to $70,240, but operating expenses totaled $77,660, and there was a deficit of $7,420.

In 1926, revenues totaled $76,662, with operating costs $87,584, and a deficit of $10,922.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—The American "flogger" has sprouted wings, there is an increasing demand that their aviation records for altitude, endurance, barrel rolls, or other stunts be recognized by the international body governing all air performances.

Women have been to the air by the scores during the last few months, and 1929 is certain to witness a real battle for supremacy in the air among members of the "weaker" sex. The year opened with the claim for a new women's endurance flight record when Miss Bobby Trout, prettily named, of Los Angeles, girl, remained aloft in her Lloy Little plane for 12 hours 11 minutes.

The Fédération Aéronautique Internationale, the world governing body for aviation records, never has considered the establishment of an official category for women, recognizing new records without regard for sex. Men have held complete dominance of the field under present rules.

Although the question of recognizing women's air records separately has never come before the international body officially, it is known that the members have looked upon the suggestion with their thumbs up. However, the record, if it were expected to be brought up, the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale at its Copenhagen

FELT AND STRAW VIE IN HATS FOR SPRING

Modified Mushroom Promises to Be Popular Shape; Brims Irregular; Two-Tones Good

By BARBARA BEAUFORT
Associated Press Fashion Editor

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP)—Modified mushrooms may be expected to out-garment, helmet and bonnet-shaped milliner's pet phrase of the immediate future. Coming hats cast a shadow with brims before them although it is seldom a brim of even diameter.

Usually it is the right side of the hat that is wider, on the advance spring hats. The left cheek is the exposed one, just as the left eyebrow was stressed in winter bonnet shapes. The style of short brims in front and lengthened ones in back is little seen now and seems to have run its brief course.

Continuation of felt and straw will make the first spring hats, but they are in dark colors, black, navy and dark reds predominating. For wear a little later, or for southern wear, light beige and cream shades may be expected. Two tones are often combined in the use of straw and felt.

There is no fixed rule for the use of felt. Sometimes it forms a draped brim, lifted off the face at the left side, with crown of straw. On other hats the brims are straw, rather elaborately cut with small ends and tails—jutting out to break the line.

Some of the advance summer hats shown have trimming underneath wide brims, usually in the form of formal stitching or flat boxes of ribbon.

Fashionable Shops Invade Stableyard

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP)—Paris has more than 250 blocks of glass-covered shopping streets, arcades which, covered up parlied thoroughfares. They are being added to with covered over shopping arcades in the most fashionable shopping districts. Old courtyards also are being taken over and covered with glass, providing modern shopping corners protected from the weather.

One of the newest courtyards to be reclaimed for shops is called the Fleury, Court and formerly was a stableyard surrounded by box stalls. The stalls, unoccupied for years, form the basis for rows of small shops. Plate glass windows are banked with bright growing plants from which the court takes its name.

Art As It Applies to You

EVERY famous artist puts in hours and hours of time and work in painting a picture and a masterpiece is the result. Anyone can be an artist in his line—no matter what that work may be. By conscientious endeavor and a thorough study of your problem, you too may be able to turn out a masterpiece.

Art As It Applies to You

Read the paper. Know your current events, politics, and athletics. It is well to be able to converse on serious subjects as well as light ones. Do not "neck" if a girl is charming and peppery enough to interest a fellow who is not a regular fonder. Do not kiss promiscuously. There is no harm in kissing a boy of whom you are particularly fond. Dress attractively, but not necessarily extravagantly. A boy notices this generally when you produce, so be as pretty as you can, but do not make up heavily.

First, last and always—be feminine!

King Boris Receives Increase in Salary and Report Echoes Again That He Will Marry

SOFIA, Jan. 19 (AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria has recently received a substantial increase in salary, and the report is being repeated that he is going to get married.

He has made drastic cuts in his household expenses and reduced clerical staff from 28 to 14. Princess Giovanna of Italy continues to be the center of all gossip concerning the prospect of a royal romance.

King Boris has abolished the annual ball—diplomatic receptions and banquets, which were making serious inroads on his meager personal exchequer. He has also stopped smoking and refused the installation of a modern wireless set in his working rooms, for reasons of economy.

He is abstemious in all his tastes and adheres to a simple diet. He dislikes nothing between meals, and his favorite food is Irish stew and green peas. He avoids meat as far as possible. Vegetables, milk and buttered toast comprise his breakfast.

His revenues would seem dull to the average person. His only relaxation is reading to acquire information and to keep abreast of the world in science. There appears to be no important progress in social, educational or other work here or abroad with which the king is not familiar.

He reads all the principal newspapers of Germany, France, Great Britain and a few from the United States. He reads with extraordinary speed and has been known to remain all night in the royal library with his 60,000 volumes.

King Boris likes to speak English and counts as one of his best friends the former American minister to Bulgaria, Charles Wilson, now in Bucharest. Another good friend is the British minister, Mr. Franks.

Toward the arts and professions he maintains an attitude of generous patronage. Professors, artists and political leaders find the palace open with little formality.

FRENCH CITIZEN CLAIMS INVENTION OF WAR TANK

LILLE, Jan. 19 (AP)—A man who says he is the real inventor of the tanks used during the World war has brought suit against the state for $600,000 damages for having communicated the plans of his invention to England.

M. Parisot de Rupt, who claims to have invented the war tanks, was managing editor of the "Political and Literary Annals" during the war. He has already protested to the ministry of war and the premier's office, but having received no answer has now taken his grievance to court.

NEW FRENCH Bases Hopes On Colonial Wealth

By SAVINGTON GRAMPTON (Associated Press Staff Writer)

VINCENNES, Jan. 19 (AP)—France has set to work in earnest to show the world that Frenchmen are as good colonists as any people anywhere. A great colonial exhibition, a veritable city at the gates of Paris, of which the first cornerstone has just been laid by President Doumergue, is the first chapter in a vast plan for capitalizing the globe.

The exhibition, the first in the four quarters of the world.

This colonial exhibition, for which tremendous preparations are being made, is the symbol in the minds of far-sighted Frenchmen for a France not of 40,000,000 inhabitants, but of 100,000,000. From Guadeloupe and Martinique to Madagascar and Djibouti, from Laos and New Caledonia to Senegal and Cameroun, these men have their eyes on the Vincennes exhibition.

It will open in 1931 and embody two years of work devoted to displaying the essence of French colonies to stay-at-homes. Its largest building will remain as a permanent new ministry of colonies. Every activity of the colonies will be represented in the grand tradition of French exhibitions.

French Workmen Use Warm Dogs in Winter

THIERS, France, Jan. 19 (AP)—Dogs furnish the heat in one of France's oldest cutleries. The workmen are required by the nature of their task to lie on their stomachs all day and in winter each provides himself with a big woolly warming dog.

This custom exists only in Thiers and dates back three and a half centuries. The grindstone is prone and held the knife blades against stones turned by water power. Generations ago the men trapped their dogs to keep them warm.

TURKEY, ONCE WINELESS, PLANS TO MAKE HER OWN

IZMIR, Turkey, Jan. 19 (AP)—Despite the old Koranic taboo, the new Turkey is becoming more and more prone to look on the wine when it is red or any other color, and more than that to brew her own.

The Kemalist government, which has made alcohol one of the 16 state monopolies, has sent the director of the monopoly to Europe to study wine-making. The director chose this rich Anatolian grape region as the location for Turkey's future wine industry.

ARMY OF ARTISTS FIND LIFE HARD IN PICKLE PARIS

By JOHN EVANS (Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, Jan. 19 (AP)—One person in seventy-five in Paris tries to earn a living painting pictures that are hard to sell.

There are 40,000 artists in the capital, says Paul Leon, director of the School of Fine Arts. Most of them, he admits, rarely cannot make a living but still they go on painting pictures and dreaming of the fame that few achieve.

They resemble the Tower of Babel in that many of them are many different views and interpretations of life that even critics have lost count. All kinds of art are represented from the old, old classicism that youth considers prehistoric to the surrealists and even

There go some of the painters with reputations.

In and around the rue de Seine, in the old Latin Quarter from the Fifth to the Sorbonne, there are many of the new crop of expressionists and their some achieve fame, sometimes quickly graduating to the carpeted salons of the rich man's art collector where the president of France lives.

Further Heavy Purchasing of United States Steel Boon to Speculative Confidence

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Prices again moved irregularly higher on the stock market today, as further heavy buying of United States Steel helped restore speculative confidence, and traders were inclined to take a less pessimistic view of the unexpected developments of the week in the money market.

United Steel was boosted more than 8 points to another unprecedented price of 189, representing a gain of 24 points in three days, or an appreciation in the market value of the stock of about $175,000,000.

Credit Restricts Public's Part in Market for Stock

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (AP)—Powerful pool operations succeeded in starting a bull movement of considerable proportions on the stock market in the latter sessions of the week, although the credit situation was still the cause of misgivings in many quarters, and restricted public participation. The bulls looked upon the mid-time leader, United States Steel, and sent it up more than 13 points to a new high record of 177 1/2.

The developments in the money market were mixed in character. Broker loans rose $7,000,000 to within $10,000,000 of the high record established last December, and there was further firming of the bankers' acceptance rates. Federal reserve member banks, however, reduced their borrowings at the central institutions by $55,000,000 and abundant funds came into the call money market, reducing the rate from 9 percent to 8.

An address by E. H. Simmons, president of the stock exchange, in which he declared that stock market loans are an absolutely essential feature of long term financing, and any restriction of them would inevitably result in increased unwillingness on the part of the security underwriters to finance new issues.

IDAHO REFERENDUM DISAPPROVES COUNTY UNIT SCHOOL SYSTEM

Residents of 90 Communities Participate in State-Wide Contest; Favor Commission and Most "Nuisance" Taxes

The county unit plan of school organization was disapproved, and a state tax commission, as well as all so-called "nuisance" taxes except that of admissions to places of amusement, were approved in the state-wide referendum conducted by the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce in these and other localities that may come before the legislature, according to complete returns received here today.

More than 90 communities of the state were represented in the vote. Fifteen unions, 13 chambers of commerce, one business women's club, an American Legion post and a Rotary club sent in ballots. Some ballots received from organizations showed that the vote was the majority opinion of members of the organizations and the number taking part in the discussions was given. The number of individuals represented by these organizations was over 1500 but the actual number is not available because some organizations did not give the number of members voting.

The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and the Twin Falls County Farmers Grange were among the participating organizations.

Oppose County Unit

Ballots relative to the erection of a county unit school system were adverse in all cases. On the proposition to recommend a similar system, 202 voted in favor and 234 against. On the suggestion that such system be made compulsory, 725 voted for and 209 against the plan. On the question of permitting establishment of the county unit system and leaving its adoption optional, 155 voted for and 108 against. The suggestion that election of the county superintendent be abolished and the office be filled by a county board of education was voted down, 159 to 189.

Favor Tax Commission

Referendum favoring the creation of a state tax commission, carried, by a vote of 244 to 198. The vote in favor of having such commission, consisting of three members appointed by the governor carried 181 to 132. Two hundred forty-five voted in favor and 72 against a non-partisan commission of three with not more than two members from any one party. Only 37 favored a one-man commission appointed by the governor while 257 disapproved the plan. It was voted, 204 to 104, to grant the commission jurisdiction over the levies and bond issues on appeal by 10 or more taxpayers. The referendum voters favored by a vote of 182 to 117 granting of power to the commission to equalize assessments, now vested in the state board of equalization, and by a vote of 178 to 124 to give it control over all assessments and assessments. These last two propositions would require a constitutional amendment to be put into effect.

Disapprove Amusement Tax

While the proposal to levy a tax on admission to places of amusement was defeated by a vote of 202 for and 243 against, other changes in the tax laws favored better. Two hundred and fifty-four favored a stamp tax on cigars, cigarettes and other tobacco products, while 210 opposed the vote for a chewing gum tax stood 229 for to 121 against. On the cosmetic stamp tax, 224 voted for and 210 against. The income tax proposal carried by 234 to 171. By a vote of 204 to 192, the referendum answered in the affirmative the question, "Should all taxes and assessments of every kind, actually levied by and paid to any political subdivision of the state during the year be deducted from the amount of income tax due?" Also answered in the affirmative was the query, "Should taxes paid by deductors from gross incomes, such as federal allowance?" The vote on this proposal stood 223 for and 112 against.

Favor "Yield" Tax

Passage of a law for "yield" tax on timber that will grow in the future on cut-over and burned-over lands where the tax has been heretofore placed at a nominal amount was favored by a vote of 218 to 70.

Protection of the timber resources of Idaho was favored, 427 to 19, the largest majority of any proposition submitted. Encouragement of reforestation for cut-over and burned-over lands carried by 416 to 19. The vote on extension of the budget law to all taxing units carried by 327 to 50. The law requiring municipal utilities to keep accounts and file reports the same as privately owned utilities carried by 292 to 138.
