Nation's Chief Executive Calls Seventy-First Congress Into Extraordinary Session to Aid Farmers

President Hoover cleared the way today for the earliest solution of the three most pressing problems before his administration by calling the Seventy-first congress into extraordinary session on April 15 to consider farm relief and limited tariff revision legislation.

He also gave further consideration to the appointment of the national commission to study the problem of perhaps the gravest problem—general law enforcement with particular reference to the prohibition and the abuses which have grown up around its operation.

These were only a few of many questions which came before the chief executive today. He was able to give the first thought for reading his mail and other work, but after that there was just one conference after another.

Calvin Coolidge Writes of Career and Life in White House

Retired Chief Executive Tells of Cost in Heartaches During Years As Nation's Guiding Hand

In Reference to Son's Death During His Regime Thirtieth President Declares; "Ways of Divine Providence Are Often Beyond Our Understanding"; Memory of Visit of Grim Reaper Lingers

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 7—The most important private citizen of the United States appeared before the nation as a writer today, three days after he retired from the White House to 21 Massachusetts street, Northampton, Massachusetts.

The first of a series of articles on his career and his life in the White House by Calvin Coolidge appears in the March number of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, which went on sale today. Mr. Coolidge is also under contract to write articles for the American Magazine and for the Ladies' Home Journal.

At 10 o'clock one Saturday morning about six weeks ago, Ray Long, editor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, was ushered into President Coolidge's office in Washington. The president handed him a sheet of papers. "I've got something done," he said. "I don't know how good it is, but anyway it's here."

"That 'something' was Mr. Coolidge's story of his career and his life in the White House. The outstanding passage in the installment that appears in the Cosmopolitan today is his description of the death of his son, Calvin, Jr., and the cost in heartaches of his years in the White House.

Explains Delay in 1924
"My own participation in the campaign of 1924 was delayed," Mr. Coolidge wrote, "by the death of my son, Calvin, which occurred on the seventh of July. He was a boy of much promise, profound in his studies and a scholar in my mind, who had just turned 16."

"The day I became president he had just started to work in a tobacco field. When one of his fellow laborers said to him: 'If my father was president, I would not work in a tobacco field,' Calvin replied: 'If my father were your father, you would.'

"After he was gone, someone sent me a letter and written about a young man who had congratulated him on being the first boy in the land. To this he had replied that he had done nothing and so did not merit the title, which should go to some boy who had distinguished himself through his own actions."

"We do not know what might have happened to him under other circumstances, but if I had not been elected he would not have raised a blister on his toe which resulted in blood poisoning, playing lawn tennis in the south ground."

"In his suffering he was making me to make him well. I could not. When he went to the power and glory of the presidency went with him."

Ways Beyond Understanding
"The ways of Providence are often beyond our understanding. It seemed to me that the world had need of one who that it was probable he could do. 'I do not know why such a price was exacted for occupying the White House.'"

Mr. Long described today how he had about persuading Mr. Coolidge to write the story.

"When he made the announcement that he did not choose to run again, in the summer of 1927," Mr. Long said, "I immediately wrote him—he was then in the Black Hills—suggesting that he write for me. As soon as he was back at Washington I went down to see him. Still I could not get him to promise."

"I got no direct answer. Mr. Coolidge had no confidence in his ability to write."

"Then I decided to keep after him just as a reporter keeps after a man on a story. Every 60 days from that time I went down to Washington to see him. Still I could not get him to promise."

"Finally I was called to the White House on Saturday, January 25—about six weeks ago. I arrived there at 10 o'clock in the morning. When I went in, the president looked at me and said: 'Well, you're an early bird.'"

"Mr. President's remark beneath this business suit beats the heart of a Canadian mounted policeman. 'I've come down to get my man.'"

"After a few more words, Mr. Coolidge handed me a sheet of papers. 'I've got something done,' he said. 'I don't know how good it is, but anyway it's here.'"

Revenue Bills On Gas Incomes and Tobacco Die As Session Ends

for support of government. Along with them passed also the tobacco tax bill and the gasoline tax increase measure.

Five officials appointed by the governor were approved by the senate. The discussion of the bills in the day resulted in a considerable debate in the house. Representative Fenn's branding of the amended bill as useless. Others declared that it would allow users of the public highways to be restricted by the binding franchises proposed in the first draft of the bill.

A senate joint resolution proposing to amend the constitution to permit abolition of the probate courts was defeated when it failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority of the upper chamber.

A number of house bills were signed by the governor on the closing day, including the air commerce act, a bill authorizing purchase of a prison farm with money earned by the prison shirt factory and saved from a building appropriation, a bill authorizing state educational institutions to contract for equipping dormitories, a bill allowing Lewis to levy a tax or float a bond issue to purchase and equip an airport, and a group of appropriation bills.

The senate treated out difficulties over the bill increasing the license tax on stages and freight trucks and passed the measure unamended, saving the necessity of returning it through the house.

A silver service was presented by the senate to Lieutenant-Governor W. B. Kinnel who presided over the body while the house of representatives presented a wrist watch to Speaker Donald S. Whiteland, Ada county.

Tonight the members of the senate were entertained at a dinner given by Lieutenant-Governor Kinnel at the Owyhee hotel while the house members held a banquet in the Columbian club.

The gubernatorial veto was used on a bill which would suspend school teachers in the state on political grounds. Governor Caldwell explained that the bill was obviously unfair in that it provided no machinery for giving the teacher a hearing nor provided any other means of investigating the case.

The closing hours of the legislature were filled with a mixture of solemnity and play. Both houses convened in the house chamber to be present at the administration of the oath of office to Justice B. S. Varian to become an associate on the supreme court bench, and A. O. Sutton, Payette, who leaves his seat in the lower house to become judge of the seventh district court at Weiser, succeeding Varian.

Barely had the senate returned to its own chamber from this ceremony when the house members, in chain-gang formation, marched through the senate chamber singing college songs. They were quickly followed by the attaches, bearing placards or other symbols of various incidents of the session.

Then as the sun subsided the strong led off the hymn "Idaho" and the entire assemblage joined.

Soon separating, the two wings of the legislature notified each other and the governor of its readiness to adjourn sine die and the aye's fell.

STATE FIXES LIMIT OF LOADS ON OILED HIGHWAYS

Between Buhl and Twin Falls, the limit is fixed at 10,000 pounds for load, vehicle and driver. F. B. Smith, who there was a disposition on the part of drivers to fully cooperate with the enforcement of the law.

"There is a fine man" was first used by Roy and Barker in "Lode Me and No Rodder" in England in 1925. It was formerly used to designate something that will never happen. F. C. Vera Cruz Key Town in Mexican Revolt

He and his wife raised nine brassy sons. Five of them were married. All of them were able to take care of themselves and their mother. They were a noisy crowd, and the father yearned for quiet.

The father's long walk ended when he found a job as night watchman at an infirmary for deaf and dumb persons. He slept in heaven's quiet in the daytime and did his watching in blissful quiet in the night. He made only $12.50 a week, but there were no talking and no arguing and no shouting to listen to, so he was content.

Alas! The family didn't approve of this. They instituted a search and finally found the old man in his hiding place.
They brought him back to face a judge on the charge of abandonment. In court his sons were gruff to him. It was brought out that the four unmarried sons earned a total income ten times that of their father's. Said the wise and sympathetic judge:

"I will adjudge the case for six months.
Go back to your watchman's job.
I guess many a husband envies you the quiet of it. But pay your wife ten dollars and fifty cents a week."

Your Income Tax
EXEMPT INCOME

As the term "gross income" for taxable gross income, it does not include gains, profit or income which is exempt under specific provision of law.
Except as required by statute, it is not necessary to include exempt income in income tax returns, or to consider such income in determining whether or not income tax returns must be filed. Examples of such income are:

1. The value of property of any kind acquired by gift, bequest or inheritance, but any income received therefrom must be included in gross income.
2. Amounts received as alimony or separation allowance under a decree of court or separation agreement.
3. Amounts received as compensation for personal injuries or sickness.

4. Money received upon a life insurance policy by the estate of the insured, or by an individual, partnership or corporation, at the death of the one insured.
5. The compensation of officers and employees of a state or any political subdivision thereof, received in connection with the exercise of an essential governmental function of the state or political subdivision in its sovereign capacity.
6. Positions paid by the United States for military or naval services rendered in time of war; also amounts received under the war risk insurance act, the vocational rehabilitation act, the World War veterans' act, or the World War adjusted compensation act.

7. Dividends or interest not exceeding $100 received in any one year by an individual from a domestic building and loan association.
8. Interest received from postal savings.
9. Dividends received by an individual from a domestic corporation accepted from normal taxes, but are subject to surtax and, for that reason, must be included in gross income.
10. Interest received from bonds or other obligations of states or political subdivisions thereof is exempt from tax, but, because of a specific statutory requirement, the amount of such securities owned and the income received therefrom must be reported.

Guiding Your Child

THIS INDEPENDENCE
The universal problem of the adolescent is that of achieving his emotional independence, of releasing himself from the bonds which would keep him forever a child. Whether the bonds are those of those of too much love or defiance to parental authority makes little difference. Youth is held equally by both when attaining the maturity which makes man, well poised men and women whose affections do not betray them and whose impulses do not lead them from the path they have chosen to follow.
In primitive peoples the significance of this period of emotional liberation is fully recognized. The change from boy to man is accomplished with special rituals which make plain that childish things must now be left behind forever, and that a new life of responsibility must be assumed. We who live in complex social environment, who care for our children, educate them, protect them, long past the age of adolescence,

There's Something About It You'll Like

A Washington Bystander
By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—It was not to be expected that voters Washington would allow its anomalous political status to pass unopposed by the folks gathered for the 1929 model insurrection.

As a demonstration of the status of Washingtonians outside the pale of political equality, however, what was going on in the senate-just-before insurrection was far more illuminating than the "Votes-for-Washington" movement.

It is true that in the complicated world in which we live the period of preparation must of necessity be longer than in a simple one. We cannot help but obscure the problem by keeping our children in actual economic dependence long past the age of physical maturity.
It is therefore all the more imperative that we help our children achieve their moral, emotional and intellectual independence as early as possible. The adolescent must be allowed to make his own choices and his own mistakes; he must be left to bear the consequences, such as we would like to shield himself from. If in the past we have maintained proper relationship with him, if we have helped him develop his own standards and ideals, if we have kept his respect
and confidence, he will do nothing disgraceful. His errors will be those inherent in any true learning process. If in the past we have maintained a proper relationship with him, if we have helped him develop his own standards
and ideals, if we have kept his respect
and confidence, he will do nothing disgraceful. His errors will be those inherent in any true learning process.

ern Kansas have been copied from a model-school in the little village of Holcomb, which, at the time the school was established 16 years ago, had only a dozen houses, two stores and a bank.

SOCIETY

By Mrs. E. B. Williams

Prominent among the pretty parties of the week was the bridge luncheon given by Mrs. L. C. Green captured the favor for high score, Mrs. Sturgeon McCoy second and Mrs. M. Grootes, low.

Members of the Mentor Club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. C. J. Schroeder Wednesday afternoon with the ever popular Mrs. A. D. Smith presiding over the business session. Seventeen members responded to roll call with current events. Plans were completed at this time for the club's spring luncheon to be given Wednesday, March 13th at the Dickey Party House. Mrs. Henry Crow was welcomed as a member of the club and the club voted to retain their membership in the Rural District and an interesting account of her trip through the Middle West. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Jensen. The club planned to meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. C. L. Smith.

Mrs. R. E. Bobler gave a surprise dinner for thirty-six guests in honor of the natal day of Mr. Bobler on Monday evening at their home on Sixth Avenue East. All the decorations were in green, artistically used in the nut cups, tapers and tapers in crystal candlesticks. The birthday cake was ornamented with roses in green and pink. Prizes for high score going to Mrs. Paul Scott of Kimberly, and W. T. Seal of Twin Falls. Prizes for low score were won by Mrs. Charles Peters of Eden, and H. E. Powers of Kimberly. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bobler of Bend, Oregon, visiting at the Bobler home were among the out of town guests.

Mrs. William Peltush was hostess to the High and Low Club Wednesday, March sixth. During the business session plans were completed for the club party for members and their families to be given Friday evening, March eighth in Odd Fellows hall at seven-thirty o'clock. A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served to the fifteen members present. Mrs. Foster will entertain the club March twentieth. Roll call to be answered with Irish jokes.

PIONEER MERCHANT WILL ERECT STORE BUILDING

William Gleason, who was for many years engaged in the grocery business from which he retired some months ago, has made application for municipal builder's license for construction of a store building, 23 by 40 feet, on Main avenue east between Sixth and Seventh streets which, it was announced, will be occupied by a grocery store. Estimated cost of the building was given as $1500. The application was made through E. L. Ashton, as agent.

George C. Hillman has applied for builder's permit for construction of a frame building with shingle roof, 24 by 28 feet, on property at the corner of Third avenue east and Locust street, to cost $600.

R. H. Park, Boise, Idaho, department commander, Spanish-American War veterans and F. J. Blin, Boise, adjutant inspected General Lawton camp here last evening at the Odd Fellows hall. Both addressed the meeting, urging the organization of a women's auxiliary, and spoke in favor of proposed legislation in behalf of the veterans of the war with Spain, which it is expected will come up at the meeting of congress in December.

At 6 o'clock there was a dinner given by the local camp to the visiting officers, attended by 28 members. There were about 40 members from Twin Falls, Jerome, Hazelton, Eden, Buhl, Piler and Hollister at the meeting in the Odd Fellows hall. After the regular meeting at night refreshments were served.

Medames E. J. Malone, C. Kelly, Edna Kelly and Coach Nichols, visiting at the members of the Baptist church choir last night at the church. The surprise social event included the serving of refreshments.

TWO SUITS APPEALED TO IDAHO'S SUPREME COURT

Suit of H. O. Brown and R. E. Brown against A. N. House, which has been fought through state and federal courts for many years, will be carried to Idaho's supreme court on appeal by the Browns from judgment and order denying a new trial in district court here, according to notice of appeal filed yesterday by Bothwell and Chapman. The suit involves the Browns' claim for pay; it is contended, was a partner of House. The judgment in favor of House from which appeal is to be taken, was entered in the court here last December.

The state supreme court also will be called upon to pass upon question of the validity of a $425 promissory note involved in the suit of Bertha Musser against J. H. Murphy, in which judgment awarding $285 to Mrs. Musser, holder of the note, was entered in the district court here last March 5. The note in question is said to represent renewal of previous notes, and its validity was attacked on grounds that interest extended the legal maximum of 10 per cent. Notice of appeal was filed yesterday by T. K. Hackman, attorney for Dr. Murphy.

Driving Another Man's Car Brings Punishment

Under sentence pronounced by Judge C. A. Bailey in probate court here yesterday, W. K. Foster must pay $25 fine or serve the sentence in jail at the rate of $2 per day for driving a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner. Foster, on arraignment Wednesday, had pleaded guilty to the charge which was preferred by A. C. Parker, Castleford. He was accused of taking Parker's car from the curb on Second avenue east near Shoshone street and driving it somewhere to leave it on Main avenue south, where it was found by the police.

A note in question is said to represent renewal of previous notes, and its validity was attacked on grounds that interest extended the legal maximum of 10 per cent. Notice of appeal was filed yesterday by T. K. Hackman, attorney for Dr. Murphy.

That good old-fashioned flavor

NO DOUBT about it—old-time cooking was delicious. But it may have been our youthful appetites, rather than the quality of the food itself, that gave it that super-flavor we all remember. The good cooks of those days never had a chance to buy such groceries as modern housewives use.

The coffee on your breakfast-table—one of the half-dozen best-known brands advertised today—has a flavor that you could find only at a few famous restaurants, forty years ago. The cakes that mother used to make would have been even lighter, fluffier, if she had had modern flour and shortening to work with.

Every day the advertising columns tell you where to buy and how to use cooking materials that are better-tasting, purer, more conveniently put up than ever before in history.

All through your housekeeping the same rule holds good. There are better things nowadays to eat, to wear, to use. Read the advertisements and know what they are. Then ask for them by name.

Make it a habit; reading the advertisements pays YOU.

Jack Dempsey Fails To Answer Talk of Fighting—Once More

Former Champion of Heavyweights Returns to New York; Promises to Issue Public Announcement

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 7.—Jack Dempsey came back to New York today a big-time promoter and promptly became a main town to discuss and important that even his old friends of the sport pages could not quite catch up with him.

There was everything but a hand to meet the old man mauler of Miami when he stepped off the train from Florida. Bill Carey, bluff, Celtic nature, who turned promoter for the thrill of the thing, headed the delegation that had but one question in mind: "Will Dempsey fight again?"

As usual Jack didn't know what he was going to do but added a first touch of definiteness to the situation when he said he would not fight again. The matter would be quieted by an announcement within a few days. The former champion will go to Boston tomorrow to appear with Carey at a benefit show in the Boston Madison Square Garden Friday night.

All-Stars Defeat Guardsmen, 39-27

Visitors From Buhl Start Strong But Lose Out in Last Half of Past Game

Playing on the high school court last night the All-Stars beat the Buhl national guard basketballers, 39 to 27.

The Guardsmen had somewhat the better of the first half by virtue of some good shooting by Ruge and Davis, while the Twin Falls team was having hard work to find the open place in their baskets. The All-Stars were in command around the rim, usually dropping outside after a whirl or two, and into the waiting hands of a Buhl player.

The third quarter brought the score up to 23 to 24 in the All Stars' favor, and in the last quarter Westergren and Bersch scored a coalition that was productive of points for the All Stars so that they had 39 to the guardsmen's 27 at the end.

Whippets Winners In Game for Title

Fast Cagers Defeat Seahawks for Championship of Do-Nut League Teams

The Whippets emerged with the championship of the Do-Nut league of the Twin Falls high school last night by defeating the fast flying Seahawks 19 to 15, in a close and well-played game.

The first quarter ran all the Whippets' way, the quarter count being 9 to 0 in their favor. Then the receptive mood of the Seahawks basket changed and in the second quarter counters ran their way enough to bring the score at the 10 to 10. Both teams were playing careful ball, with good passing, sharp cuts and fast breaks, when the chance opened.

In the matter of speed there was little to choose between them and points, when made, were earned by good attack.

Third Quarter Ends Close

The third quarter was productive of hard playing, but few points, and it was anybody's contest when it ended with the score 12 to 11, favoring the Whippets. That was too close for comfort, with only one period left, and each squad opened out its best efforts for a lead.

For a few minutes they held level, and then the Whippets got out in front and slayed there with counters enough to win, 21 to 15.

Brown with 8, and Turnpseed with 5, led the Whippets, while Bates with 8 and Colner with 6 were the leaders for the Seahawks.

League Play Helpful

The style of play developed on the floor by these teams, and the individual work of the members, show the value of these intra-school leagues to draw in boys who enjoy the contests, and gain interest and credit from the competitive rivalry. More than 100 boys have had a part in the league's play, and have received and profited by the instruction given them as part of the league's purpose. Better than this, they have had some good weather, and come out of the months when weather conditions hampered outdoor play in fine physical condition.

Principal U. N. Terry and John Platt have had a part in play in charge, and have given freely of their time and coaching skill to the boys. The play of the teams shows the fine effects of their work.

Cue Artists to Travel to Rupert for Contests

In the first engagement held here two weeks ago Twin Falls players were winners at bank line and pocket billiard.

Chicago Club Leaves Camp For Three-Game Series With Coast-League Team

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7 (AP)—While a detachment of Chicago Cubs left Santa Catalina Island, California for Los Angeles and three-game series with the Angels of the Pacific coast league, two other major league teams, training in the San West, confined their activities to batting practice today.

Roy Johnson, the $75,000 outfielder, purchased from the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast league, was in uniform for the first time today and drew a sensation at the Detroit Tigers camp in Phoenix, Arizona. He gave an exhibition of his work that included two long drives over the right field fence. Practice at the Pittsburgh Pirates' camp in Paso Robles was held under a cloudy sky. All the players who have been under the weather were improved.

POSSESSION OF GUN PLACES SUSPECT OF BURGLARY IN PRISON

H. E. Peterson, Brought From Burley, Faces Prosecution On Felony Complaint in Safe Cracking

Accused of complicity in burglary and dynamiting of a safe at the Oregon Short Line depot here on the night of January 24, Holgar E. Peterson, alias "Hole-in-the-Wall," was charged with felony charge of first degree burglary which was signed by Ralph E. Leighton, Twin Falls police chief, and filed in the probate court yesterday by E. V. Larson, prosecuting attorney.

The felony charge against Peterson is a direct result of discovery in his possession of a revolver that is alleged to have been taken from the depot here on the night of the burglary and dynamiting.

Officers Explains According to the officers, Peterson has admitted several explanations for his possession of the gun, none of which the officers declare, have stood the test of investigation. The gun, it is stated, has been positively identified as the one taken from the depot. Peterson was arrested late last week in Burley where he claims to have been employed for about two months as

Sheep Pelts Found at Roadside Starts Probe

Twenty-one sheep pelts lying in a heap at the side of the road south of South Park are held at the sheriff's office here, and investigation is under way to determine where the pelts came from and how they got to the place where they were found yesterday. The officers were called to the place by persons living in that vicinity when they found the pelts.

It was suspected that some, or all of the pelts had been stolen, a number of thefts of sheep pelts having been reported recently. Some of the pelts, it was stated, were plainly marked with a black circle brand.

Colonel Robert W. Stewart Loses Battle With Junior John D. Rockefeller to Retain $125,000-A-Year Position at Head of Gigantic Standard Oil Company of Indiana

First Fight of Kind in Industrial History Based on Moral Fitness of Chief Executive Results in Ouster

Chairman of Board Goes Down to More Decisive Defeat Than Predicted by Opponents but Leaves Annual Stockholders' Meeting With Plaudits of Record Gathering Ringing in Their Ears

WHITING, Ind., March 7.—Colonel Robert W. Stewart lost his long fought battle today with John D. Rockefeller, jr., to retain his $125,000-a-year position as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Mr. Stewart went down to a defeat even more decisive than had been predicted by the Rockefeller group, which had demanded his resignation because of alleged "moral unfitness" but he left the annual stockholders' meeting with the plaudits of the record gathering ringing in his ears.

The position of chairman, from which Colonel Stewart was ousted by more than 2,500,000 votes, was abandoned by the new board of directors which met immediately after being elected. Edward G. Seibert, president of the corporation, was reelected and made chief executive officer. He will take over the duties of Colonel Stewart, whose successor on the board is William M. Burton, former president of the concern.

Three additions to board. The new board of 11 has three additions: Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago; Gentry Calk, manager of the Whiting Refinery; and Thomas S. Cooke, former superintendent of the Whiting plant and now a vice president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transportation corporation.

The slate presented by the Rockefeller faction and the Stewart supporters were identical with the exception of Colonel Stewart, Mr. Burton and Mr. Traylor. A revolt of the board to succeed Louis L. Stephens, who although defeated as a director, was retained in his position as general counsel.

The election of officers by the board was done without suggestion from the Rockefeller group. Winthrop W. Allrich, who has led the fight for John D. Rockefeller, jr., his brother-in-law, announced, "This, he said, bore out the repeated declaration that Mr. Rockefeller was only interested in the removal of Colonel Stewart."

The forces of clerks representing both sides, which had been working day and night, had all the preliminary work in by the time the meeting opened and the counting of ballots was done in short order.

846,120 Ballots Cast. The board of election inspectors reported that a total of 846,120 votes had been cast. Of these 817,410 were reported as person and 728,710 by proxies.

When Colonel Stewart completed reading of the company's annual business statement, which showed net earnings for 1928 without allowing for taxes at $24,710,000, an increase over the preceding year of $50,239,710, the cheers and applause to its feet whistling and stamping its feet, continuing for some minutes while the colonel stood with flushed face.

"It would be idle for me to say that I leave the Standard Oil company without regret," he said in a statement following the balloting. "For years its welfare has been my deepest concern. Its affairs have been my very life. I have seen it grow under the present administration from a $167,000,000 corporation with 4620 stockholders to practically a billion dollar corporation with 50,200 stockholders. I cannot dissociate myself from such an illustrious without a second."

Colonel Stewart said with no small sense of pride or gratitude that he thanked the 7901 of the 7918 employ stockholders who voted for him and the 31,377 stockholders of the company who executed proxies in his favor or voted personally for him.

The final check showed that 15,281 gave proxies to the Rockefeller group, the big margin in favor of John D. Rockefeller, jr., being due to the large blocks of stock owned by the Charles Evans Hughes counsel, the company who executed proxies in his favor or voted personally for him.

The fight against Stewart had been carried on throughout the nation by Mr. Allrich and the law firm represented by Charles Evans Hughes, former supreme court justice, while John D. Rockefeller, jr. traveled in Europe and the Holy Land.

The trouble dated back more than a year ago, when Stewart was summoned before the senate committee investigating what happened to the remainder of the bonds representing the profit of the Continental Trading, list part of which were proved to have been given to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall for his part in the granting of the Teapot Dome lease.

Stewart was one of the organizers of the Continental company, a Canadian corporation. His associates were James O'Neil, Harry Sinclair, and Harry M. Blackmer, then president of the Midwest Refining company, a Standard Oil subsidiary.

The fight was the first of its kind in industrial history in which the fight for control of a billion dollar corporation was based on the moral fitness of its chief executive.

President Seibert after being chosen chief executive officer by the new board said: "I can say for the board of directors that in administering its affairs the interests of all stockholders, employees and the public will be given equal and fair consideration."

BURLEY-GROWER DEMANDS GOOD POTATO PUBLICITY

BURLEY, March 7 (Special to The News)—Calling attention to the mild interest that has been aroused in newspapers and magazines concerning the palatability and food value of potatoes, Fred Cator, prominent Burley grower of the tubers, asserts that an organized effort should be made to properly set forth the good qualities of potatoes.

Cator maintains that this food staple has been misrepresented and maligned to such an extent that its use has been very much restricted, and that its market has been curtailed so as to injure the grower. Cator first brought up the matter of publicity for potatoes at the Postville growers' meeting last fall. The subject was well received, but he says no concerted action has as yet been taken.

He states that food authorities are beginning to publicly correct the wrong impression that prevails among women that potatoes are a wicked, starchy abomination that ruins the slim lines of the female figure. He avers that there is a deep prejudice against the tasty netted gem that is entirely unfounded, and that it will take years to bring back the potato to its just place in the daily menu.

At the Postville growers' meeting last fall, Cator adequately advertised the desirable qualities of Idaho's best known staple product.

Roger W. Babson Foresees Great Improvement in Machinery Along With Vast Economic Developments

Business Expert Predicts Wide Variety of Changes; Suggests Possibility of Unemployment Increase

(Special to The News) BABSON PARK, March 7.—Availing himself of the privilege which farsighted men have assumed from the time of Jules Verne to the present, Roger W. Babson gazes into the future to see what startling changes in our modes of living, our business and our financial life.

"Regarding the tendency to do everything by machinery," Mr. Babson says, "it is not necessary to thread your way through factories in order to discover in what direction industry is headed. Every new road-building machine you see on our highways, every power-shovel you see digging the foundations of a house, evidence which you can easily multiply to form your forecast of the future. We are developing machine production to an extent and in a way which may before long literally transform civilization itself. Among changes is subtle evidence of the coming changes.

"My estimates show that to produce the same number of autos today as in 1914 it takes only 30 per cent as many persons; to produce the same number of tires it takes only 40 per cent as many persons; to produce the same number of cigarettes and cigars it takes only 42 per cent as many persons; to produce the same amount of stone, clay, glass and chemical products it requires only 66 per cent as many persons; to produce as much iron and steel it requires only 76 per cent as many persons. Nearly every industry tells the same story.

"Notice also that labor-saving machinery is revolutionizing not only heavy-or-manual-labor, but also all kinds of mental labor. In statistical work, for example, we are turning more completely to mechanical computation, and engineers are continually devising new machines and methods to save labor. I foresee some remarkable developments along this line. Technical problems, until recently beyond the power of the unaided human mind, will be handled with ease by some computing mechanism of the future. We have just begun to see the possibilities of the brain-in-a-box.

"Unemployment May Increase "Of course, this vast labor-saving program which is already in full swing and is swinging even faster and wider, may create a problem of unemployment. Machinery will save labor, but what will save the laborers? You will hear much about this subject during the next few years. There will be at least two solutions proposed: one, the development of great new industries and another, the undertaking of great public works. Of course, there will be countless ideas offered. Some have been prepared for endless discussion of this question of what to do with the labor surplus created by labor-saving machinery. The discussion will be especially intense during periods of business depression and will abate during periods of business expansion, but it will, on the whole, be at its height during the next ten years.

"More and Bigger Mergers "From another angle, the same underlying problem will take this form: for the employer, how can I dispose of the surplus goods created by labor-saving machinery? Even now this problem is beginning to press. That is undoubtedly one reason why there are so many mergers. For will you not observe and larger mergers in the future. The radio manufacturer for instance, he cannot successfully compete with his fellow radio makers and, at the same time, compete with clothing makers, auto manufacturers and so on. The other industries which are a-biding—for a share of the family budget, in each individual industry, rival manufacturers are being forced to merge so that the industry as a whole can present a united front to other industries turning now from industry to trade, there will be a desperate and persistent struggle during the years ahead to speed up the stores so they can distribute the immense volume of production from the labor-saving factories. One of the things which will almost certainly succeed is some form of automatic vending. This is so closely in tune with the spirit of the future that it can hardly escape attention. Our children may look back contendingly at the sturdy penny-in-the-slot machines as the ancestor of imposing pensers—standing a very appreciable part of the world's retail trade.

"Change in Finance "In finance there will also be marked changes as the years roll by. The present generation has been chiefly interested in trying to buy well-sold stocks and bonds at advantageous prices. While this is an important aspect of finance, it is very far from being the most vital aspect. I am ready to make this forecast, that during the next 20 years, the most important financial new viewpoint toward finance will be a more personal finance. The world will not only take an interest in the stock market, but will also take a moderate income, but those of wealth will get entirely fresh concepts. I foresee a new era of trust in which a field of trusts will offer great opportunities. The American public is being taken into partnership in our great enterprises on a large scale. I feel very positive that the number of people interested in stocks and bonds will increase in population.

"Aeroplane Will Increase "Having touched briefly upon the industry, trade and finance of 25 years hence, I will mention some prospective conditions of everyday life which should be witnessed. Airplanes will be with us for thousands of miles, they will not become as common as automobiles. These airplanes of the future will first be constructed on some principle connected with the airplane. They will not be constructed in a great quantity like automobiles. In other words, they will be made in small quantities. They will be able to rise straight up and to descend straight down, on a small spot. They will be made in your own mind, ask yourself whether you would today own an automobile if you had to begin and end each trip in a distant terminal airport.

"As to the automobile, it is not impossible that the cars of the future will be designed to run straight up and down and backward. The more intense parking problems of the future will put a premium upon the ability of the manufacturer. That this crab-like motion for an automobile is not altogether an impossible idea mechanically is suggested by the diagonal motion which you will notice in the self-propelled baggage trucks that weave their way around railroad stations and also in the similar trucks which are being used in factories. Growing congestion during the next 25 years will also encourage the development of elevated streets or sidewalks and elevated crossings.

"Problems of Congestion "Some of the things which have been prepared for endless discussion of this question of what to do with the labor surplus created by labor-saving machinery. The discussion will be especially intense during periods of business depression and will abate during periods of business expansion, but it will, on the whole, be at its height during the next ten years.

"More and Bigger Mergers "From another angle, the same underlying problem will take this form: for the employer, how can I dispose of the surplus goods created by labor-saving machinery? Even now this problem is beginning to press. That is undoubtedly one reason why there are so many mergers. For will you not observe and larger mergers in the future. The radio manufacturer for instance, he cannot successfully compete with his fellow radio makers and, at the same time, compete with clothing makers, auto manufacturers and so on. The other industries which are a-biding—for a share of the family budget, in each individual industry, rival manufacturers are being forced to merge so that the industry as a whole can pre-

JACK MCGURN, reputed machine gun expert, and Louise Rolfe, his sweetheart, were arrested in Chicago in connection with the Valentine day gang slayings.

A subject of remarkable possibilities. During the next 25 years there will be overhauling of the professions as well as the schools. Together with all these great changes there must come a marked spiritual growth of our people. I confidently expect that more attention will be given to the teaching of true spiritual values; otherwise these vast mechanical and material changes might easily wreck our whole civilization. Without constant moral guidance the scientific progress would be as dangerous as a gigantic engine running wild with no hand at the throttle. "Business by the Babsonchart is now 10 per cent above normal compared with 4 per cent above, a year ago."

BURLEY, March 7. (Special to The News)—Meetings will be held this week at Media and Burley to complete the organization of bull associations. Malta people will get together Friday. Farmers and dairymen on the south side Minidoka will meet at the court house in Burley early Saturday afternoon.

The almost impassable condition of the roads has hindered recruitment of dairymen and farmers interested in joining the proposed associations, but it is believed that enough have signed up to warrant the forming of organizations. It is expected that officers will be elected at the meetings, purchasing committees will be appointed to procure bulls, and other necessary business will be transacted. It is announced from the county agent's office, that H. A. Mathieson will be present to assist in the details of organization. Mr. Mathieson has been in charge of bull association work in Idaho and Utah for five years past. It is expected that B. E. Everly, representative of the Holstein Association of America, will also be on hand.

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You People are more careful than ever before about diets. They diet to clear complexion, they avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well. As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the "first" symptoms. In the end, edematous rings in health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease. Don't neglect your daily roughage. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. A ONE-crop country never can enjoy real prosperity. We have the climate, the soil and the water supply essential to the production of any variety of crops, all of which, have their place in systematic crop rotation. The most desirable cropping program is based upon a consideration of revenue, safety and continued soil fertility. Alfalfa, potatoes, sugar beets and beans leave clean fertile land for the clovers, capable of producing a maximum of wheat as a nurse crop on land that has been prepared through DIVERSIFICATION and physically fit to produce the desired results—REVENUE. Speculative prices on the ever uncertain open market direct the conservative producer to the shelter of the guaranteed price crop on a reasonable portion of his land, hence the safety from over production and consequent low prices so disastrous to farm and business prosperity. Reviewing the past and speculating on the future Queen Alfalfa holds a place all her own.

POTATOES, average yield 150 sacks under ordinary conditions should net a return per acre of $60.00

With a $1.00 market and an overhead of $90.00 per acre where a holdover is necessary.

The MONTANA WHITE BEAN on a 25-bushel average at a speculative price of 5c per pound yields a net return of $55.00

Plus bean straw, allowing $20.00 per acre to cover the cost of seed, hand labor and threshing.

With an average of 17 tons of SUGAR BEETS per acre, which has been obtained in Twin Falls County and can always be had in good years, a net return, including beet tops of

Is assured after deducting $33.00 per acre of the contract price of all hand labor and seed.

Alfalfa hay, bean straw, sugar beet tops, pulp and molasses fulfill the requirements of the most exacting feeders and dairymen. These by-products contribute most favorably to additional revenue with more frequent farm paydays and assure a continuation of that main essential—SOIL FERTILITY.

After carefully considering all of the elements governing farm revenue and effecting the prosperity of Twin Falls County we urge our friends and customers to adopt a safe systematic diversified crop program including a substantial acreage of Sugar Beets. Agricultural manufacturing industries are essential. Let us support the ones we have and thus be in a better position to interest capital in others. A cash crop, with a guaranteed price on beets on a favorable year should contribute materially to a healthy financial condition.

WHEAT QUOTATIONS SOAR DURING DAY

Abrupt Reversals of Temperatures Boost Values; Corn and Oats Prices Up

CHICAGO, March 7 (AP)—Abrupt reversals of temperature, with gales and with crop damage reports from domestic winter wheat territory, gave the wheat market a quick rise today. Apparently helped by definite announcement that congress would meet in extra session April 15 to consider farm relief, other cereals as well as wheat advanced also, and the day's gains in prices were held better than has been the case in some previous weeks.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 7c to 1 1/2c higher. Corn finished 7c to 1 1/2c up, oats 7c to 1c higher, and potatoes unchanged to a rise of 25c.

Close at Day's Top Practically the day's top prices for wheat and for all other grain too, were current in the final transactions. Right from the outset, wheat showed a decided upward trend, and there were indications that the general buying which was going on included European purchases of a considerable amount of wheat under futures deliveries. Meanwhile, word was received from Liverpool that deliveries on contracts there were light, and offerings smaller than has recently been the rule. It was also shown since August 1 world shipments of wheat have been dropping, and the rate of 572,000,000 bushels, an increase of almost 100,000,000 bushels over the corresponding time a year ago.

FREQUENT SHIFTS IN DAY'S SPECULATIONS

Stock Market Closes With Outburst of Strength in Face of High Money Rate

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Frequent shifts of speculation in the money market today's stock market which closed with an outburst of strength in the face of another high rate in call money.

One of the most interesting business developments of the day was the publication of the February report on steel production, showing a gain of 275,000 tons, or about 10 per cent over the corresponding month a year ago.

Stewart Loses Fight Colonel Robert W. Stewart lost his fight against the Rockefeller interest in the battle for control of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, and William Childs apparently was defeated in his campaign to retain control of the restaurant chain bearing his name.

Radio issues were the features of the day. The old stock, which had fallen 2 1/2 points below the year's high, while the new stock showed a decline of 2 1/2 points yesterday, which broke 45 points yesterday on one sale, rebounded 25 points on a turnover of less than 1000 shares.

REMSBERG BECOMES SEED COMMISSIONER

Assistant Professor Gets Appointment Following Resignation of Ahlson

MOSCOW, March 7 (Special to The News)—Appointment of John D. Remsberg, Jr., as field agronomist and seed commissioner with the University of Idaho college of agriculture extension division has been announced by Dean E. J. Iddings, of the college, who is also director of the extension division. Mr. Remsberg succeeds C. B. Ahlson, who resigned March 1 to become northwest representative of a chemical engineering company. The new appointment becomes effective April 1. Mr. Remsberg will have headquarters at Boise.

To join the extension division staff Mr. Remsberg leaves the post of assistant professor of agriculture at the University of Idaho, Southern Branch. Mr. Remsberg is an Idaho boy, the son of John D. Remsberg Sr., prominent farmer in the Rupert district, and was graduated from the University of Idaho in agriculture in 1914, the year receiving both his bachelor and master's degree the same year.

Qualified for Position.

Mr. Remsberg is more than qualified for his new position, says Dean Iddings, and will step into his new duties without a hitch. While attending the university his vacations were spent assisting in agronomy experiment projects. Upon graduation he was employed as an assistant instructor in the department and for experimental work.

While still a student he was assistant professor in charge of the Moscow branch laboratory, where he became proficient in seed analysis and identification as well as in more general practical phases of farm crops. This is important in his new assignment, Dean Iddings said, since the state seed laboratory and its relationship to the seed industry of the state is under the direction of the state seed commissioner.

In agronomic field, Mr. Remsberg's specialty is plant breeding. Idaho conditions are familiar to Mr. Remsberg and he will be able to carry out the university projects to good advantage, Dean Iddings feels.

WORKING STUDENTS WIN BEST COLLEGE GRADES

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 7 (AP)—A statistical study of young men who work their way through college make as good progress, if not better, in their studies than those who do not. The same may be said of the impression that athletes make poor students is erroneous.

Dean Earl J. Miller of the University of California at Los Angeles, collected the statistics and makes these announcements. The scholastic standings of more than 2500 men earning their expenses wholly or in part were studied.

"Students doing outside work, taken as a group, or when classified according to length of time spent at work, make as good or better grade than those men not working. In the case of students on probation for low grades, working students make a slightly better record," Miller said.

Rio de Janeiro Orphanage Has Housed 44,000 Abandoned Babies

By HAL E. WALKER (Associated Press Correspondent)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Mar. 7.—Forty-four thousand "unwanted" babies have been received secretly into the Casa das Expositas, or foundling home in nearly 200 years of its existence.

The institution was opened in 1750 by sisters of religious orders. Girl babies are cared for until they are young women of 18, boys until they are 14. Meanwhile they are given religious training and are competent to go out into the world and make their own way. Most of the girls enter domestic service or become nurses, while the boys become skilled artisans.

The Casa das Expositas is known locally as the "roda" or wheel, from the fact that a small window opening on a narrow, otherwise windowless alley, swings like a revolving door. This window is back a foot or more from the wall of the house and to it, at night generally, the unhappy mother or father brings the unwanted baby.

The small bundle is pushed against the window which revolves. It is received inside by a guardian, now a woman of 84 years. No questions are asked and the person who brings the baby is never seen. It appears from the records that more girls than boys babies are brought to the home.

ELECTRICITY BOOSTS EGG YIELD IN IDAHO

Use of Artificial Lighting Raises Production of Hens Through Year

MOSCOW, March 7 (Special to The News)—Better distribution in egg production throughout the year has been brought about in Idaho through the use of electric lights for lengthening the hens' working hours during the period when natural light is limited, reports ROBERT Berastford, head of the department of agricultural engineering at the University of Idaho.

High Production in Spring.

A study of current shipments of eggs from Idaho shows that the peak of production occurs during April and May when the hours of natural light and favorable climatic conditions produce a maximum working day for the hen. Artificial lighting during the remaining months may be used to duplicate a day of about 12 hours in an endeavor to keep egg production near maximum.

Results that may be expected from the influence of artificial lighting are shown in observations over the state. One report shows that when the practice was started on a flock of 500 pullets on December 2, the production was 25 eggs per day. With the use of lights the production was increased to 42 eggs by December 25.

Same Results in Other States.

Reports from other state experiment stations indicate similar results. Tests at Nebraska show that light is the most important single factor affecting egg production. At Oregon the results of lighting indicate that although there is no substantial increase in the number of eggs per year, the control of the production period results in greater profit to poultrymen using lights. This is due to the fact that more eggs are produced during the winter months when there is the greatest demand. The California experiment station showed that, sufficiently illuminated, birds can be kept to light the man, hoppers and scratching floor so that the birds can readily see to eat and scratch.

STUDENTS FORESWEARING CLOTHES OF COLLEGIANS

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Mar. 7 (AP)—Those believing that all college students wear wild-silhouetted trousers, patent-leather shoes and other collegiate clothes, need only visit the campus of the University of Florida. It will be more likely to find a group of serious young men in overalls. The students dress neatly and well when occasion demands it, but the average boy is too busy to be bothered by the extreme niceties of dress.

Cost is one of the factors. Many of the students are working their way through school. Military training is compulsory to a large number of students. The government issues uniforms, which go a long way to cutting the clothing bill.

Agricultural, engineering and scientific students find the dungarees an overalls more adaptable to laboratory work than the latest styles of clothing.
