An increase in temperature featured the weather Saturday in Twin Falls. The weather was overcast with a minimum temperature of 33 degrees for the 24-hour period ending at 6 P. M., an increase of 8 degrees over the high mark on Friday. Yesterday's minimum temperature was 32 degrees.

Governor Baldrige Signs New Fish Law

BOISE, March 9 (AP)—Governor H. C. Baldrige today signed the newly revamped fish and game law, putting the final stamp on a measure that was laid back and forth in the legislature for upwards of a week before it was put in its final form.
For a time it was believed that the bill had been amended in such a way as to thwart those fishermen who insisted on the right to use that natural but common egg. Examination of the engrossed bill today revealed, however, that the measure was in proper order and that it was with salmon eggs, as the original bill, that the legislature prohibited use of salmon eggs as bait, some sportsmen contending that the eggs were altogether too deceptive and "didn't give the fish a chance."

Montanan Becomes First Assistant of Interior Secretary

With wide knowledge of the needs of the West, and with a record of successful decisions in scores of cases still to be made by the president with the most important posts to be filled those of under-secretary of state, solicitor general of the United States, director of the veteran's bureau, director of the budget bureau, governor general of the Philippines and third secretary to the president, who is to be liaison officer between the government and the independent agencies of the government.
J. Reuben Clark, Jr., Salt Lake City, now is under-secretary of state, but there have been reports that he will be given a diplomatic post and William H. Clegg, Jr., now an assistant secretary, named to succeed him.
Frank T. Hines, who was called at the White House today, is being retained for the present as director of the veteran's bureau, but he may be appointed, although that has not yet been determined.
Brigadier General H. M. Lord also is being retained temporarily as director of the budget bureau but since he wants to give up this work it is likely that a successor will be chosen in the near future.

Many Witness Display Of 1929 Model Essex

Many who are interested in automobile exhibits attended the Jensen Automobile Sales company, during the last week, called the "Challenger Week" to the exhibit of the 1929 Essex on display.
The new car is handsome and may be had in a wide choice of colors. Among the advantages claimed for the 1929 Essex coach is that it goes over a justly-graded Hogeman in high gear; that it attains a top speed of 70 miles an hour; that 60 miles an hour per day is within its range; that it can reach 60 miles an hour in 27 seconds flat from standing start, going through three gears, and that it shows a gasoline test over fair roads of 27-10 miles per gallon of gasoline.

AN ANNUAL DUTY

A voting on the proposition to authorize seven-mills tax levy to maintain and improve Twin Falls schools next year on the existing standard is the most important task to be performed by electors of Twin Falls Independent School District at a special election next Tuesday.

Need for this authorization has been explained many times since the State Legislature six years ago transferred responsibility for the authorization from the State board of education to the voters of the Twin Falls district.

The board this year is asking, as it has done for each of the five preceding years, for authorization of a seven mills levy. This levy, it is estimated, will cost approximately fifty thousand dollars.

Unless the district's voters are prepared to accept a radical curtailment of their school system, they will vote to authorize this levy. It is in order to make sure of the result, every friend of the schools will charge his industry with the importance of the event and make a special effort to cast his vote at the election next Tuesday.

JAZZING UP THE RECORD

Congressman Boylan of New York isn't confined to have the Congressional Record continue as "a mere museum of oratorical achievement." It should be, he insists, "a real diary of the American people's representatives, and to that end should utilize all the resources of popular journalism."

There might be a struggle between the House and Senate for the editorship of such a daily. There is probably no lack of good material for the job. Various members of both branches have had newspaper experience.

By L. M. COOLEY

Hey, Fellows!

If you were to see a man with the automobile proving dead, a concrete wall facing his motor while the clutch was in, you might wonder why he didn't get out. The answer is, he is always seeking perfection and every model turned out to embody improvement. We seldom stop to consider the vast number of detailed experiments that have been made in the mechanical operation is quite apparent when we drive at 30 miles an hour and find it vibrating and not dangerous in the least.

Hopeful Bill Dare By B. M. BOWER "Think God I'm back in this high valley once more, free of quizzing and questioning and the prying curiosity of mirrors and cameras. I feel a new good or any sense in anything beyond their own limitations. That sounds great, a great relief, but I'm not sure what I might be getting out of this to make allowance for ignorance, and when I stand back away from my work, I find myself with a light body, for what has happened this past week.

To determine the bill, climbing ability of a car it is forced to pull another car up the mountain. The car is not a cooled brakes that can be set to produce any required drag. In addition to this, the car has a very limited test brings out what sort of performance it will give under heavy duty conditions and also the efficiency of its cooling system.

Another test which a car is made to take is that of bounding, over ditches. The car is driven up a steep bank to a foot and a half deep, set out across the road at an angle of 45 degrees. This angle is then turned down by a second down before the other half thus throws a strain on the entire body. No sooner does the car start to bound than the other strikes the ditch and the car tumbles to the opposite side. By the time it has crossed these ditches, 100 times at least, every part of the car, its joints and its mechanical weaknesses are quite likely to show themselves.

Two days later, here came a couple of deputy sheriffs, following the above trials my visitor had left. They had an extra pair of snowshoes and they told me I was wanted down in the town. It was not until they had been introduced to me that I learned that the sheriff was urgent and they wouldn't take for my answer.

McMillan, Idaho Forward on All-Pacific Coast Hoop Squad

Burgher, Center on Idaho Quint, Earns Honorable Mention

J. Fred Bohler, Athletic Director at Washington State, Announces Names of Outstanding Players

(By The Associated Press.)
PULLEMAN, March 8.—A guard and a forward from California, a forward from Idaho, a guard from Stanford and a center from Washington compose the official all-Pacific coast conference team, announced today by J. Fred Bohler, athletic director at Washington state college and member of the national basketball committee representing the Western district.

The selection of an all-star team this season was far more difficult than for many years, Bohler said. He has selected the "officer" team for its first and second team selections follow:

FIRST TEAM	POSITION	SECOND TEAM
Corbin, California	Forward	Fawcett, Stanford
McMillan, Idaho	Forward	Stephenson, Calif.
McClary, Wash.	Center	Tenneyek, Calif.
Rother, Stanford	Guard	Holtzard, Wash.
Coffield, Calif.	Guard	Lemmes, So. Calif.

"In choosing forwards," Bohler said, "I place Laverne Corbin, California's captain, as the leading player. He headed the list of individual scorers of the Southern division and has been an important factor in bringing the pennant to California. He is a consistent performer, tall and aggressive, and scores well from any position."

"Frank McMillan, Idaho's sharp-shooting ace and leading scorer in the Northern division with the other forward position. Without question he was the outstanding forward of the Northwest. He is very fast, a good dodger and a clever dribbler. His performance in all the more effective because of his left-handed shooting. He is a man that is unusually hard to guard."

"The dividing line in ability between some first-string players and those on the second team in many instances was almost indistinguishable. Bohler said he found:
The following men were given honorable mention:
Forwards—Huloff, Washington; Sinder, Washington; Lintinheim, University of California; Los Angeles; Centers—Mortensen, Southern California; Burgher, Washington; Washington State.
Guards—Gregory, California; Ridings, Oregon.

On Basketball

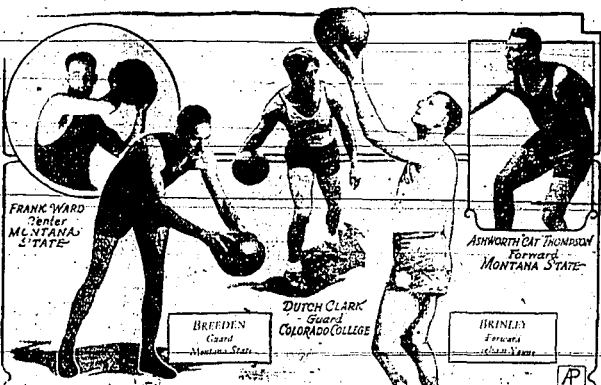

Editor The News:

The writer witnessed the two basketball games between the Indians and the Edens last night. The results just about equalled expectations, proving that a good basketball team is better in athletics than a good little school. Both contests were interesting, packed with thrills and well worth watching although both the Bull and the Edens had their own outcasts and their rivals.

The crowd obtained a potent thrill in the girls' game with Buhl, far off form and apparently over-confident, allowed the Edens to lead by a four point margin at the end of the half. What Coach Barry told the Indians before the game was no one but themselves will ever know, but they came back and played with old time fervor, making six baskets before Edens knew what it was all about. Edens called times out to talk things over, though without avail. The Buhl team had found its stride and there was no stopping them. Be that as it may the battle was won and lost at the position of jumping center. Had Edens obtained an even break on the tipoff no one could prophesy what the outcome would have been for outside of Hays' tremendous superiority at jumping center the teams were evenly matched. Hays succeeded in getting the tipoff practically every time, enabling her team to start the offensive and take the ball down the floor for a basket shot. The two Edens forwards were big, rangy, fast and wonderful basket shots, scarcely missing a chance to score. In the second half the Buhl forwards had the ball almost all the time thanks to Hays' wonderful work and to the hearty cooperation of the little Haldeeman, side center. Had the second half gone as the first, Edens would have had the glory of administering to Buhl his second defeat in 10 games.

During the first half Buhl had dozens of chances to score. However, Lacy, who played a wonderful game in the second half, missed time after time and so did her partner. Of course, those of the Edens forwards deserve considerable credit for keeping Buhl's score low in the opening half. In the second half Buhl simply swarmed all over her rivals, running up 60 points and taking the court look off Coach Barry's face. Co-

Mountain Conference All-Star Basketball Team

ASSOCIATED PRESS Selection of the outstanding hoop men of the Rocky Mountain 1929 competition. Four players of the western division, comprising the states of Utah and Montana, are represented on the mythical team while the only eastern division (Colorado-Wyoming) selection is Earl (Dutch) Clark, who was all-American quarterback for the 1928 football season. Thompson led the scorers of the western division and Clark was runner-up for individual scoring honors in the eastern sector.

line as Buhl did toward the close of the game no team could do much with the Indians, but if Hays ever meets her Pocotello, Boise and Coeur d'Alene will match at center the team will differ and defeat would not be at all impossible. The team that beats Buhl is going to play basketball as it has never been played in the West.

Albion players lost because they were smaller than Twin Falls and not clever enough to penetrate the enemy defense. The game was a repetition of last year's Twin Falls-Carey battle played at Shoshone. It proved that as a rule the big low-down will defeat the small, fast team. Albion never gave up, which is to their credit, but the result was never in doubt for the first few minutes.

The state tournament at Moscow this year promises to be one of the most interesting and uncertain in years. Most anything can happen. At the early part of the season most experts were of the opinion that Twin Falls was the best team in Idaho. Now it is certain that Boise and Coeur d'Alene will be very much in the running. Pocotello has enjoyed a splendid season and finished in a blaze of glory by winning its district title. In order to win its first state basketball title Twin Falls will have to play a much better brand of basketball than the Indians showed against Jerome, Kimberly and Albion. Without doubt they will do so. Every man on the Buhl team is a real star and the boys work well together. They do not shoot nearly so well as they did earlier in the season—a fact that is apparent to all. But the defense has not crumbled and any opposing team is going to find it hard to break into scoring territory.

Major League Ball Teams Reach Exhibition Stage In Training Grind

Team Competition Program's Feature In Camps of South

Cincinnati Reds Win From Connie Mack's Athletics, 7 to 5; St. Louis Browns Train at West Palm Beach

(By The Associated Press) ATLANTA, Ga., March 9.—Major league baseball training today swung into the exhibition series stage in earnest with most of the clubs training in the South, either engaged in skirmishes or on the march for games tomorrow. Redlegs of Cincinnati and Connie Mack's Athletics put on a clash at Miami that had all the marks of regular season play. The Reds won, 7 to 5, getting nine hits and making only one blunder while the Athletics opposing hurlers for eight hits and made two errors. Dan Howley sent his Browns through a practical affray between members of the squad at West Palm Beach. Frank O'Rourke, left bremen last season, again worked out at second base with Eddie Grimes, Tulsa recruit, at his old position. The Phillies went through a morning and afternoon workout at Whitehaven. Lefty O'Doul, outfielder, who breezed into camp during the day, was in uniform.

Bucky Harris' Team Speeds Up Training

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9 (AP)—Detroit Tigers, several days behind the other two major league clubs training in the West, got down to business today at Phoenix, Arizona, with a practice game, the first of the season. Manager Bucky Harris split his squad into two teams and gave them a taste of competition. All the regulars and rookies had a chance during the afternoon. Manager Harris held down second base for the regulars. Rain broke up the routine of the Pittsburgh Pirates, encamped at Paso Robles, California. The Pirates are scheduled to meet the San Francisco Seals in an exhibition game at Paso Robles tomorrow. The squad is well on its way to its team as follows: Outfield—Grantham, Brickell and Comerford; first base—Steeley; second base—Adams; shortstop—Fryer; catcher or floater—Harreaves; will catch, while the pitcher has not been chosen.

Cagers of Southern Branch Meet Defeat in Contest With Albion Men, 40-28

ALBION, March 9 (Special to The News)—Albion State Normal school quintet in a game postponed three times, defeated the basketball team of the University of Idaho, southern branch, here this afternoon, 40 to 28. It was the final hoop contest for the two teams. During the greater part of the game the final outcome was uncertain, the Tigers taking the lead in the first half. Albion forged ahead in the second half, and quickly sealed out the Idaho team, gaining a definite lead that resulted in victory. Lineup: NORMAL (40) Thurman (5) forward Hall (4) Kelly (6) forward R. Buhler (15) Burns (10) center Wilson (14) MacLacacek (3) center Young (15) Craven (7) guard T. Buhler Substitutes: Idaho—Sutton (3) for Burns; Fredley (4) for Sutton; Normal—Hill (1) for Hall, Referee: Huddekon.

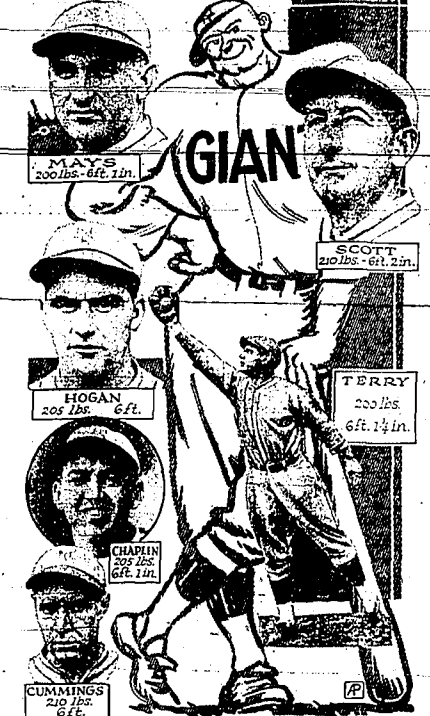

Union Raises Ban On Finnish Runner

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Paavo Nurmi's ban on the Phantom Fin under Athletic Union suspension for several weeks, was reinstated tonight. Nurmi's reinstatement became known as the seventh Regiment track and field games here tonight. Nurmi, with his countryman, Gve Anderson, appeared in the games and was permitted to run in the two-mile team race which the two Finns subsequently won. Track officials stated that Nurmi's suspension had been lifted, but the exact reason for the sudden reinstatement was not ascertainable in the absence of Athletic Union action. It was said, though, that the registration committee of the metropolitan association had received only this afternoon "the thing" it had been seeking to discover. Just what these "things" were was not explained.

Giants Finally Grow Up; Moore Making Name Have Many 200 Pounders As Boxer in Utah

Intelligent National League players had better look before they get rough with the Giants this year. Six good reasons why the New York club is able to take care of itself are pictured above.

SAN ANTONIO, March 9 (AP)—Those 1929 Giants won't have to go around blushing their way through the baseball season. For the current edition of the McGrawmen, now in training here, is about the biggest bunch of heavyweights baseball has seen in many a year. There are so many big fellows on the squad that John McGraw, the Little Napoleon of baseball, may have to get a periscope to look over his squad when they assemble on the bench. "This year's outfit, successor to a long string of plit-sized performers, has no less than six two hundred pounders on the roster. The prize big one of the year was lost to the wealthy Polo Grounders when Carlisle Bucky, southern pitcher weighing 250 pounds and measuring 61 1/2 feet 1 inch, was told to stay in Toledo.

Giantsland tried to pull the holdout man on the Giants' hard-driving pilot. The select list of 200-pound, six-footers includes: Pitcher Jack Scott, 200 pounds, 6 feet 2 inches. Catcher Jack Cummings, 210 pounds, 6 feet. Catcher Frank Hogan, 205 pounds, 6 feet. Pitcher Tiny Chaplin, 205 pounds, 6 feet. Pitcher Earl Stutz, 200 pounds, 6 feet. Pratsman Bill Terry, 200 pounds, 6 feet, 1 inch. And that isn't all. Among the other heavyweights drawing pay from McGraw are: Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons, 195 pounds, 5 feet, 11 inches. Pitcher Herman Tjeh, 190 pounds, 5 feet, 11 inches. Catcher Jack Witry, 195 pounds, 6 feet.

There are several 100 pounders scattered through the Giants' roster. They include Catcher Bob Farrell, infielder Andy Reese and outfielder Fred Leach. Considering that many of the major league clubs haven't a 200-pounder on their roster, the Giants stand out as a team worthy of their designation.

Twin Falls Lightweight On Next Legion Fight Card Finds Favor Among Fans

Rocky Moore, Twin Falls lightweight boxer, who is to meet Bud Turf, Spokane, in a return bout headlining the Northwest Legion Fight Card on Wednesday, is building a reputation for himself in Salt Lake City where he has twice appeared in ring battles since his first engagement with Travis in Twin Falls.

He lost the decision to Ernie Steele in a semi-final in Salt Lake City February 26, but immediately thereafter he was pitched against Elmer Stultz, Helper, Utah, in a main event, March 4. Although Moore lost to Steele, the Salt Lake City Desert News said, "he could very well have been declared the winner of the bout. In fact, he landed about two to one punches more than his opponent."

It was a different story when Rocky went back to Salt Lake City to give battle to Stultz last Monday evening. That bout was described by the Desert News as a "combination boxing-slugging affair." The News explains "Moore did the boxing and Stultz did the slugging. The boxer took a well-earned decision. Concluding, The News says regarding the bout: "Moore landed at least four punches to every one sent in by Stultz. The Helper battler did not show any outward sign of weakness under Moore's continual line of battering, nor did Moore weaken under Stultz's close range attack until the final round. The Idaho battler piled up a wide enough margin to carry him over for the decision. It was a thrilling battle from start to finish."

Something to the same effect was expressed by Les Goates, sports writer for the Salt Lake Tribune, who stated: "The Elmer Stultz-Rocky Moore bout certainly did out rival the Art Francis-Erwin Biggs bout on the same card, just as the press notices had predicted. Moore won this one on points when he took four of the six rounds."

HYATT, Phil's great scoring forward, bats from Unlontown, Pennsylvania; Schiaff from Philadelphia; Murphy from Marion, Indiana; Wineapple from Salem, Massachusetts; and Pickell from Pocahontas, Arkansas. Tom Churchill of the University of Oklahoma, the big center who made the Olympic team in the decathlon, is listed as an alternate.

This array has slightly Eastern leanings with three of the five from that section, and it may well be that the South and the Far West with such stars as make up the Washington and Lee and the University of California and Washington faces have a good claim to recognition, but Mr. Godfrey's selections make about as effective a stab at a futile task as is humanly possible.

Perhaps one reason why picking all-American basketball teams has not become as popular an indoor sport as that which marks the end of the football season is that there are fewer positions to be awarded. With only five places to hand out your basketball "all team" picker has not even enough to go around among the seven major sections and is fore-doomed to be berated in at least two sectors.

BEFORE ringing down the curtain on the college basketball chatter for the season, it must not be allowed to go without remark that with four names yet to go Little Rhode Island State college still held an unbeaten record and deserves to rank among the strong teams of the season.

Although comparatively unhealed and unmaug, the quietest representing the Kingston, Rhode Island, institution piled up 513 points to their opponents 337 for a game average of about 43 to 28 in their first dozen encounters. Some of the victims were Boston university, St. Stephens college, Northeastern university, United States Coast Guard academy and Connecticut Agricultural college, which has beaten Eddie Wineapple's redoubtable Providence array.

THE Rhode Island team this year is composed of four seniors and one Junior. The four seniors have been playing together for four years, and were members of the undefeated freshman team of the season of 1925-26. Two of these four seniors learned the game at Rhode Island. They are Alec Hurwitz, guard, and Creighton Magoun, guard. The forwards, S. Sidney Epstein and William Trumbull, had some basketball experience before coming to Rhode Island. The Junior on the team is Fred S. Ackroyd and he plays the center position.

Basketball is the biggest sport at this college, and practically every physically able man student can play the game and participates in the sport either on physical training class teams or on fraternity teams.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH FORECASTS SUCCESS FOR HERBERT HOOVER

Idaho Representative Predicts Administration of Thirty-First President Will Be Most Popular

Predicting that the national administration of the thirty-first president of the country, Congressman Addison Smith, who returned to Twin Falls yesterday, declared that the program of the new president, if carried out, would involve extensive internal improvements. Congressman Smith will look into certain matters of interest to irrigation in Idaho before returning to Washington for the special session of congress called to meet April 15.

"I predict," said Mr. Smith, "that during the administration which is now beginning, internal waters will be greatly extended; steps will be taken whereby the Mississippi flood menace will be avoided; the St. Lawrence waterways improvement started; and the Boulder dam construction undertaken. The special session will doubtless result in enactment within ten days of legislation that will prove very beneficial to the farmers. This will include an increase of tariff on the products of the farm and range. I do not anticipate many changes in the manufacturing product; schedule.

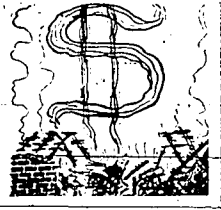

Will Inspect Project

My trip here at present is primarily for the purpose of inspecting the King Hill irrigation project with a view of advancing legislation to relieve the settlers from repayment of construction costs, as they cannot more than meet the maintenance charge of $5 an acre, and which, I am informed, is likely to be the charge for the present year, and which may increase hereafter due to the necessity of making improvements on the system. I shall also confer with the board of control of the Idaho project with reference to the construction of a storage reservoir above the Arrowrock reservoir.

His appropriations were made by the congress which has just adjourned for the purpose of securing a supplemental water supply for the Gooding and Dietrich sections and for the construction of work on the Black Canyon dam above Emmett, no new projects are being undertaken. The reclamation act now constituted is made up almost entirely from repayments, as the returns from oil leases and from the sale of public lands amount to only about $1,000,000 a year. The policy of congress and of the administration is not to appropriate money for the construction of new reclamation projects. For the next five or ten years any expansion will be in the nature of furnishing supplemental water to existing projects or adding new units to them.

"Increased appropriations for combating the white fly or leaf hopper, the wire worm and other pests which are devastating crops in some sections. Our own home man, Warren O. Stevens, district manager of the American Sugar company, appeared before the appropriation committees of both houses and made such a persuasive plea that they increased the appropriation for white fly investigation $200,000 over what was at first contemplated. Congress never was in better mood to make appropriations for agricultural advancement than at present and it is hoped that the problems confronting farmers may be speedily solved.

"One of the important laws passed during the last term of congress was one which gives title to entries on land initiated claims prior to July 1, 1922, on payment of $1.50 an acre, without furnishing proof that water had ever been applied to the land. This will affect a number of settlers throughout the West including Twin Falls county. Congressman Smith will remain in Twin Falls until next Wednesday when he will go to Boise in connection with the matters referred to relating to irrigation. He will return here from time to time before leaving for Washington.

BURGLARY SUSPECT DENIES ACCUSATION

H. E. Peterson, Held in Safe Dynamiting Case, Will Answer in Tribunal

Holgare E. Peterson, arrested in duplicate court here yesterday on first degree burglary charge in connection with burglary and dynamiting safe at the Oregon Short Line depot here last January 24, entered a plea of not guilty, and preliminary hearing was set by Judge C. A. Bailey to be held next Monday. Peterson was not represented by an attorney and did not ask for appointment of legal advisor. He was admitted to $500 bond, which was not furnished.

Peterson had been held a prisoner in the county jail here since his return from Burley where he was arrested early last week.

Possession of a revolver that Peterson could not exhibit satisfactorily led to his arrest on the burglary charge. The revolver, according to the officers, had been identical with one taken out of the depot on the night of the burglary and dynamiting.

FORMER STATE OFFICIAL RETURNS TO HOME HERE

Stephan, who retired last January at the expiration of two years' service as Idaho's attorney general, and Mrs. Stephan and son, Bobby, have returned to make their home in Twin Falls, and will occupy their residence on Tenth avenue east. Mr. Stephan will resume the practice of law with offices in Twin Falls Bank and Trust company building.

During the legislative session just closed Mr. Stephan was legal advisor to the house of representatives. It will be necessary for him to return to Boise for about 10 days, he stated last evening, for work in connection with preparation of the session laws for publication.

TWIN FALLS STORES PLAN SPRING SHOWS

Merchants of City Prepare to Display Latest Wares; Dealers to Exhibit Autos.

And with it all, the various spring wares are coming into the stores of Twin Falls from the Eastern markets. Twin Falls merchants who have been to New York and other large national shopping centers have returned and daily the goods they have purchased are arriving—all of the newest types and styles fresh from the mills.

The Twin Falls merchants are planning an exhibit of all these new wares in the very near future, it is announced, in conformity with plans worked out by the merchant's bureau of the Twin Falls chamber of commerce. These plans will feature not only wearing apparel but all the spring farming needs, household needs, garden tools and accessories, furniture, draps and spray materials, building supplies, and all seasonal goods.

Automobile Show Planned

In connection with the general display of timely merchandise automobile dealers of Twin Falls are arranging a special automobile exhibit. The last opportunity to display cars was offered at the county fair in September and since then the many new styles and models, and attractive features in the various lines have come out which will be shown in connection with the automobile display event. Style and changes in automobiles are coming fast in this day of many improvements.

Twin Falls, as the shopping center of southern Idaho, is known always as the place where largest assortments of all goods and wares may be secured at all times of the year, it is pointed out. On this occasion, nearly 100 merchants will join together in this community display and shopping event and make it one of the biggest spring opening features ever held in Idaho.

Free Entertainment

There will be, besides the regular displays of merchandise and automobiles, an assortment of free entertainment for the visitors who will come from afar to participate in this big spring shopping event. Detailed announcements of the plans and entertainment will be made just as soon as weather conditions allow and it is fully expected that Twin Falls spring shopping event and automobile show will be staged within the next two weeks time.

While showings of all kinds of spring goods will be manifest, many of the merchants are, it is stated, arranging attractive sales events to substantiate the slogan which has been adopted universally by Twin Falls Merchants that there is "No Need to Buy of Mail Order Houses, You Can Do Better in Twin Falls."

Hardened Sands of Daytona Beach Await Super-Speed of Racing Rivals

Drivers of Fastest Motors Ever Made Prepared for Dual Assault on World's Records on Seashore of Sunny Florida

Major H. O. D. Segrave of England Brings New Powerful Golden Arrow Into Contest Against 36-Cylinder Triplex to Be Driven by Philadelphia Manufacturer in Defense of Speed Laurels

(By The Associated Press)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 9.—With beach conditions showing slight improvement, Major H. O. D. Segrave, England, and J. M. White, Philadelphia, had tonight of making their attempt to shatter the world's speed record for automobiles tomorrow over the five-mile ocean speedway here.

The powerful Golden Arrow racer which Major Segrave has brought here for the trials was given a careful check today and was pronounced in perfect condition for his assault against the present record of 207.55 miles an hour, the Triplex owned by Mr. White, also has been tuned to perfection.

Both drivers seek the same objective—to increase man's land speed—but each has selected a different route. Major Segrave contends that greater speed may be attained by using less horsepower and better streamlining. White, however, believes that by using greater horse power, streamlining is not necessary.

By T. H. GILL (Associated Press Staff Writer) DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 9.—In a blazing streak of super-speed, two of the fastest automobiles ever created—one, the present American titleholder and the other driven by an English sportsman, who remain behind the crown—make a dual assault on the world's straightaway record during the International speed trials here tomorrow.

Major H. O. D. Segrave, British racer, who set a record of 293 miles an hour in 1927 with his mystery Sunbeam Special, now has brought his new powerful Golden Arrow here to race against the 36-cylinder Triplex, owned by J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, which holds the present mark of 207.55 miles an hour.

Philadelphian, who drove the Triplex for White on its record-breaking run last April, brought the racing title back to this country by noting out Captain Malcolm Campbell, another Englishman, who two months before had raised Segrave's mark on the beach. Campbell, however, ever, will not be at the wheel of the Triplex tomorrow as White will pilot the car himself.

Loekhart Albert, Segrave, Campbell and Keesh are the only ones still alive of the four drivers who have attained speeds of more than 200 miles an hour. Loekhart, the youthful Indianapolis racer, was killed on the beach last year when his tiny car was struck by a 200-mile-per-hour while traveling in excess of the 200-mile mark. Campbell, himself, had a close call when his machine struck soft sand, but he righted it in time to prevent an accident.

Four-Mile Start. In previous record-breaking trials, the drivers have taken a four-mile start in order to gain all the momentum possible. Appearing as tiny specks far down the beach, the machines quickly pick up speed, enter the officially measured mile with their motors wide open, and a few seconds later flash by the timing pits at the finishing tape with a terrific roar to coast down the sandy stretch and come to a stop three miles distant.

To establish an average speed, the drivers are required to make two runs—one with the wind and the other against it. Both trials must be made within a given 30-minute period. From the sand dunes high up on the beach, where a spectator can get a clear view of the approaching car, the speed is deceiving. To the observer, speed is judged by how fast a machine approaches and passes a stationary object, but with no background save the ocean, there is no means of comparison and a car traveling 200 miles an hour does not appear to be making anywhere near that speed. To the spectator standing on the beach close to the track, however, all that can be seen as the speeding car roars by is a streak.

Divergent Designs. In constructing their machines for the trials, Segrave and White have followed widely divergent designs to test their respective theories as to the effect of wind resistance at high speed. The British racer claims that streamlining is essential to high speed, has built a "900-horsepower car," of

KING'S ILLNESS BRINGS PROBLEM OF GOVERNMENT

LONDON, March 9.—The unusual constitutional situation which would arise in Great Britain if King George did recover from his illness by the time of the general election expected in June, is receiving the attention of the British government.

The council of state, over which the queen presides, has power to act for the king in matters except the bestowal of honors. But, it is not clear whether the council's powers include the right to appoint a new prime minister. Presumably, if Stanley Baldwin and the conservative party fall at the polls, either Ramsay MacDonald, heading the laborites, or David Lloyd George, a liberal leader, would be invited to form a government.

King George always has taken this task very seriously, and the position should the king still be ill, might be a delicate one. There would be no difficulty about the

Member of Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's Club Relates Growth of Organization Since 1916

By DR. EMMA CROSSLAND

A member of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women under whose auspices National Business Women's week is being observed from March 10 to March 16, the local unit is taking pleasure in recalling the days of its beginning.

In 1916 a group of business women who had organized themselves for social and study purposes, adopted the designation of Business Women's association. They were headed by Miss Katherine Pileman. Under her able direction they made the most progress in the modern lines of study, interspersed with gymnasium classes, and social events that are still happy memories to the club members.

Weekly luncheons were a feature with the club from the beginning, and they were permitted the use of the dining room in the Presbyterian church. Later they were served at the hospitable home of Mrs. H. J. Youngs and her many gracious acts of hospitality and unwavering support won for her the affectionate sobriquet of "godmother" from the club. "Many" homes of the community were opened to the young organization which was not able to support a home of its own. Mrs. W. A. Babcock, Mrs. D. F. Sweet, Mrs. T. F. Warner, Mrs. W. R. Priebe and Mrs. Horriose Ferrine were among those who were hostesses on special occasions, while the Misses Stella and Rita Miller were always generous in offering hospitality.

It was not until the third year of their existence that the first club home was established in the Smith-Rice building, affording a down town center of rest and recreation for members who spent much of each day at that locality. About seven years ago officers were taken to the Gem building, fitted up to suit the needs of all small organizations and still used as the popular meeting place of the town for small assemblies. All the women's clubs of the county use it from time to time, business and political conferences are held here, dinners, teas and private parties. In supplying their own home needs, the club has provided a service for the public that meets a real, civic demand.

Active Public Program

Other activities for the benefit of the community have included active participation in drives and ticket selling for the chamber of commerce, in which they annually pay membership, and in the yearly presentation of meritorious entertainment events. For several seasons they have sponsored the Moroni Olson Players in their artistic productions. They contribute to the budget of the Camp Fire girls and the Girl Reserves, and maintain a rotating loan fund devoted to the assistance of girls desiring education beyond the high school. Only four years ago, this local association of business women decided to affiliate with the National Federation which was organized ten years ago by delegates from many local units. This has proven one of the most rapidly growing organizations in the world, 125 annual national conventions bringing together between 2000 and 3000 women from every business in the country. Club Expands

Under the auspices of this affiliation, the local organization has gained in strength, breadth of vision and perspective. A sense of participation in national and international affairs has widened horizons and attracted women of much personal attainment.

Those who have served the club as president during the last dozen years are Miss Katherine Pileman, Miss Jessie J. Warrington, Miss Geneva Stafford, Mrs. Geneva Lewis, Mrs. H. J. Youngs, Mrs. Cora Crouse, Miss Mary Robinson, Mrs. Ada Warrington, Miss Myrtle Anderson and Mrs. Emma Warren. Miss Robinson and Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Katherine Provost have been state officers. Twelve state convocations have been held in Twin Falls, the national president, Miss Lena Madeline Phillips of New York being in attendance at the 1928 convocation.

Membership personnel of the club included representatives of practically all the occupations in which women of this locality are engaged—doctor, lawyer, merchant and chief.

Air Transportation in Belgium Shows Increase

BRUSSELS, March 9 (AP)—Air transport is steadily increasing in Belgium. During the last quarter of 1928 the Brussels airmail was visited by 653 airplanes, landing 1201 passengers, 11 tons of mail and 1334 tons of freight.

During the same period, 654 planes left the airmail, carrying 1274 passengers, 13 tons of mail and 1378 tons of freight. In 1925 the total number of passengers amounted only to 1835.

LEAGUE COUNCIL WOULD JOURNEY TO NEW WORLD

GENEVA, March 9.—League circles are discussing the possibility of Canada inviting the council to meet in Ottawa.

The council follows the policy of sitting outside Geneva once each year. A session in Madrid is a possibility for June and a later session may be held in Berlin, once the reparations problem has been settled and the Rhineland evacuated.

A meeting of the council on the American continent, for example at Havana, would be a revolutionary and expensive undertaking, but the matter is being actively discussed. Both Canada and Havana are members of the council for three-year terms.

VARIETY OF USEAGES FEATURE OF JACKET

Great Popularity of Ensemble Permits Wearing of Frock at All Events

(By The News Shopper)
One can go entirely round the day with the little jacket so popular has the ensemble become. Variety in the promotion of evening and semi-formal occasions has been fresh interest in the jacket that accompanies the gown for evening wear.

The new fashion of frock for restaurant dining makes it quite the thing to dine in a long sleeved gown. And if you wish to attend a dance you can discard the jacket, and your dinner dress has become a dance frock. Then too, several dances and several evenings with the same crowd. It is possible to maintain a bit of variety with one evening gown and the sleeveless cocktail jacket.

Winter saw the cocktail jacket become a necessary item of midday wardrobe, and even makes it even more important. There are such a lot of possibilities and combinations with a single evening jacket, either sleeveless or sleeveless.

The jacket either with or without sleeves is more and more in evidence. It varies from elaborate beaded models to simple straight coats of lace, chiffon or silk. The newest material for cocktail coats is a fine metal mesh, similar to the once-popular mesh purse. A mauve lace gown with sleeveless jacket of lace, which I found in one of the shops, was the inspiration for my speculations on the possibilities of the cocktail coat.

STYLES FOR SPRING WILL CLING TO FORM

Fashion Places Emphasis on Curves; Clothes Will Have Outline of Figure

(By JARBARA BEAULONT Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—Hit by bit and quarter-inch by quarter-inch women, who protested they would never give up their comfortable straight-line, low-belted dresses, are being led around to another way of thinking.

Belts Play Part

Skirts on the new suits, of which there are many, are constructed on belts, or have attached belts which come up to the waistline if they do not actually pinch it in. There are tucked-in blouses for these suits, simple tailored shirts or funder hand trimmed blouses or silk. A favorite form is the white wash satin blouse with bound edges.

Straight-line Coat

The straight-line coat still remains the accepted favorite, although there are many examples among the summer models of fitted and semi-fitted coats. The straight black coat of silk or wool is used by nearly all the dressmakers, as the ensemble wrap over printed summer dresses. More than that, not the coat is lined with the dress material.

Evening dresses maintain a moulded line around the hips, the definition of the figure frequently extending to an almost normal, or quite normal, waistline. Autumn dresses follow much the same line.

Pastor Declares Bath Place to Read Bible

LONDON, March 9 (AP)—"Read your Bible in your bath." With these words Rev. A. Wellesley Orr, vicar of St. Paul's, Kingston Hill, opened an address at a conference on "Bible Criticism."

"The proper place to read the Bible is not in your study, but your bath," said Mr. Orr. "The best picture of last year was one of 'A Reading Girl'—a nude maiden reading a book. If it was the Old Testament the picture was a symbol, for the best way to read the Old Testament is in a metaphorically artistic state of nudity, when you have divested yourselves of the clothes of civilized knowledge and modern progress."

NEW PARIS STYLES WILL SHOW OFF BRONZED SKIN

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—What is left of last summer's sunburn, if any, which spring comes around is going to prove a valuable base for the new and necessary coat required by the fashionable make-up as Paris sees it.

All preparations are being made by the style creators to show off well bronzed skin to the best advantage. Sleeveless dresses, generously low-cut necklines, and wrap-around skirts which can be easily shed for a sun bath are some of the style provisions.

Simple flannel and wool crepe dresses turn out to be beach costumes, covering shorts.

Sleeveless linen dresses, in shades of beige particularly, will be good sport style, judging from Paris showings. There are short jackets and long coats, in light linen for beach and tennis wear.

A Woman Observer in Washington

BY SUE McNAMARA (Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, March 9—Arrives of three women in Alexandria, Virginia, in connection with a theft of antiquities from the Egyptian mission of General Robert E. Lee, calls attention to the vogue for antique collecting in Washington and the lengths to which it will carry some of its devotees.

In a territory so rich in historical associations it is inevitable that incidents like this should occur. Many persons seem to have a mania for acquiring something which belonged to a celebrity.

Elie Sheets, a Washington collector who has antiques on exhibit in connection with his place of business partly from altruistic motives, has suffered many losses by reason of his generosity. A person who would ordinarily shrink from theft seems to have his moral sense completely swayed when it comes to snatching something that once belonged to Washington, Grant or Lincoln.

The famous Swiss Bell Ringers' collection which now belongs to this Washingtonian, has been sadly depleted. Many of the bells having been slipped under coats or into wide sleeves of visitors. An imitation diamond ring on the plaster finger of a negro minstrel, a relic from abroad, was hurriedly chipped off, finger and all.

In this same collection is a chandelier which was the White House during Roosevelt's administration, a chair which belonged to Abraham Lincoln, and the desk of General Grant. The latter is a massive affair of many pigeon holes and drawers, heavily carved. It is surmounted by the United States seal and has carved in the wood—A white cloak which was in the United States senate for 125 years hangs on the wall.

Sales of articles from the White House from time to time always attracts antique hunters and brings fancy prices. Owing to the watchful eyes of secret service men—the White House offers little opportunity to the souvenir hunter. Washington's home at Mount Vernon is a mecca, although here, too, watchful eyes curtail too much activity. Bits of by-words over the souvenir mansion have assuaged the curiosity of many women and Mount Vernon by now creeps over homes in many parts of the country.

The historic old brick capital which houses the national women's party is inquis many splinters and bits of brick-and-mortar as a result of the curious urge in visitors to Washington.

Husbands Or Classes Lure Southern Beauties

These beauty little winners of the Mississippi College for Women have succumbed to just two vocations—home making or teaching.

COLUMBUS, Miss., March 9 (AP)—Beauty contest winners at the Mississippi College for Women prove that pulchritude goes hand in hand with matrimony—or school teaching.

A career of the six winners at the Mississippi institution for the last seven years reveals that the school room and home have claimed every one of the girls who in their college days were the campus queens. Incidentally, there is not a blond—nor even a titian headed—among them.

Miss Mattie Howard Scrape, winner in 1922, today is Mrs. Cyren Lettich of Memphis. If there were ever thoughts of a career, they have gone their way; she is happy as ruler of the Little Rock, Miss., school. She formerly lived at Aberdeen, Mississippi.

Miss Lula Lee Sanford, acclaimed the most beautiful in 1924, has found the classroom more alluring than anything else and she is enthusiastic in her work as a teacher at Mobile, Alabama. Her home is in Columbus, Mississippi.

Two others, Miss Ruth Shaw, and Miss Helen Powers, Cary, Mississippi, winner in 1925, are teaching. Mrs. Shaw conducts a dancing school in Memphis, and Miss Powers is teaching in Forest, Mississippi.

Miss Genevieve Kitchell, the only student to be given the honor for two years, after holding the title in 1927-28, decided upon married life and she is Mrs. Sam Bull of Greenwood, Mississippi.

Miss Marianne Nance of Jackson, Mississippi, the holder of the 1929 beauty title, is undecided what course she will follow.

ENGLISH FINANCIERS SEEKING AGREEMENT ON MARITIME POWER

Lombard Street in London Believes President Hoover Will Favor Conference to Settle Question

By BATES HANBY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
LONDON, March 9.—It is firmly believed in Lombard street, the financial heart of London, that President Hoover will favor a conference of maritime powers to settle the century-old freedom-of-the-seas problem.

Whether this assumption is right or wrong, it is a fact that leading British bankers, industrialists and politicians are preparing for a conference and are already giving considerable thought and discussion to the various ramifications of the question which has existed between the United States and Great Britain since before 1812. The consensus of this section of British public opinion will undoubtedly have large bearing on any policy ultimately adopted by Downing Street.

No clue to official thought on the matter has been forthcoming either in the House of Commons or in the lips of government officials and it is unlikely that the British attitude beyond the government's historic policy will be declared until after a new parliament has been elected.

However, the financial and business men, who represent the section of the public most vitally concerned in any international agreement regarding the rights of neutral vessels at sea during a naval war, is taking up the problem seriously. The Financial Times, in editorializing on the possibility of a conference on the subject of sea freedom gives graphic proof of this. "There is still time to ponder the situation, but too much stress cannot be laid upon the need that we should, without delay, begin to apply our minds to the question how we shall deal with a development which will be one of the consequences of the Kellogg pact."

Held Opinion of Part
A school of thought in the British financial world holds that the Kellogg pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy means, among other things, that in any future naval war neutral power might be forced into a position of considering whether or not one or more of the belligerent powers had broken the pact. The respective rights of neutrals and belligerents as to trading or interference with trade might depend on whether the war was unlawful or was, perhaps, concerted police action against a recalcitrant nation. This school holds that the Kellogg pact has introduced a new factor into the neutral trade question.

In the Financial Times editorial is a trenchant sentence which students of foreign affairs will probably ponder. "We cannot afford, even in a business view, to allow naval experts to deal solely with, and certainly not to settle, this matter."

Coming from an organ of such high standing as the London Financial Times, and representing such a large section of British financial business, that sentence seems to be a declaration of the rights of the British businessman to have a hand in settling the old problem between the United States and Great Britain rather than let the diplomats and naval experts handle the matter exclusively. It might be construed as a feature which shows which way the wind of public opinion is blowing.

The school of thought to which this article refers holds that it is the business of the naval experts only to know how to handle a matter when a war has actually broken out. This body of opinion feels that in the meantime it is the business and financial men of Great Britain who should have the largest "say" in the matter. And even they are not unanimous in their ideas on the most difficult of international problems.

JAPANESE EXTENDING RADIUS OF DIPLOMACY

Oriental Nation Nearing Completion of Ties With Persians and Abyssinians

By GLENN BARR
(Associated Press Correspondent)
Tokyo, March 9.—The Japanese foreign office has been working unobtrusively for some time to extend the empire's diplomatic relations with non-European, non-American states, and formal ties are about to be completed with Persia and Abyssinia.

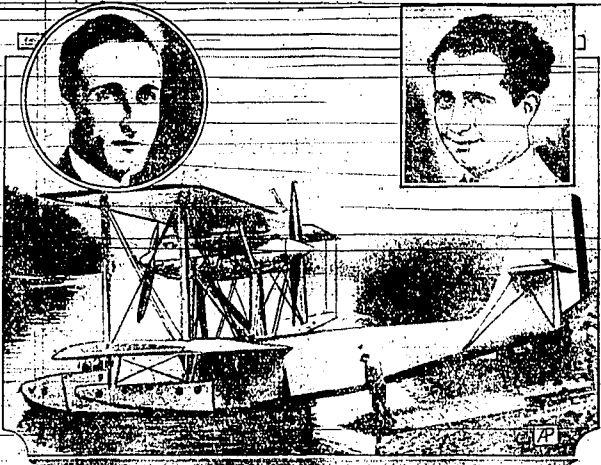

In forging these new diplomatic links Japan, according to official spokesmen, disclaims any ambitions for pan-Asiatic leadership or any intention of drawing together under her wing the few states maintaining their independence outside the sphere of European-American political domination.

Legation in Peking
Japan has had diplomatic relations with China from shortly after the time she was recognized to the world in the middle of the last century. She now maintains a legation at Peking, and by concluding a tariff agreement just before the new Chinese tariff regime went into effect on February 1 she gave de facto recognition to the Chinese national government at Nanking. Slow and difficult negotiations are in progress looking toward the restoration of full diplomatic relations between the two great far eastern neighbors, and it is probable that when this comes about Japan will raise her envoy to China to rank of ambassador.

Before the revolution in Russia, Japan exchanged ambassadors with that other great Asiatic Empire, and after a lapse of some years embassies were re-established in Moscow and Tokyo and relations resumed. These relations to create a high Japanese diplomatic authority, continue "correct" but not exactly cordial.

To Name New Ambassador
It was only after the great war and the nationalist triumph in Turkey that Japan established formal relations with the one other Asiatic state which resisted off European domination by force of arms. Japan has a well-staffed embassy in Constantinople, and the Angora government has indicated that it will name a new ambassador soon to take charge of the embassy in Tokyo, hitherto directed by a charge d'affaires.

Japan and the other surviving monarchy of the far east, Siam, have exchanged ministers for almost 30 years. Tokyo has no diplomatic contacts with Afghanistan or Liberia, the remaining Kerk for Hugh Grosvenor, great jurist of the middle ages, has been found insufficient to carry out the proposed work.

EDUCATORS PROMOTE ANGLO-GERMAN AMITY

Headmasters of England's Secondary Schools Labor for Extinction of Enmity

LONDON, March 9.—In the interest of education as well as international good-will, the headmasters of English secondary schools are working for the extinction of war enmity against Germany.

A better mutual understanding of the school systems of the two countries is further, this aim, is being urged by the incorporated association of headmasters.

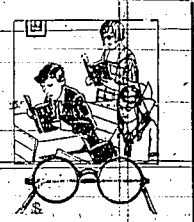

This proposal for restoring the good feeling between the former enemy nations and furthering the educational progress of them both is supported by the British board of education and the German ambassador to Great Britain. To promote these purposes, the headmasters at their annual meeting expressed their desire to initiate at once friendly relations with kindred associations in Germany.

"It is because we believe in education that we believe also in international good-will," said R. F. Cholmeley, one of England's most distinguished schoolmen, in advocating the strengthening of personal and professional ties between educators of the two countries.

Lord Eustace Percy, British minister of education, gave his approval to the movement. He desired that the grounds of the rapprochement should be extended even further.

"Nations cannot be understood through their systems of education," he said. "They can only be understood through their language and literature. I believe that English secondary education would benefit profoundly from a much closer acquaintance with the German language and the German literature." The German minister of education, hailing the proposal as one well calculated to hasten the healing of war scars which still trouble the two peoples.

Custom-type! The smartest, most distinctive, convertible car in the world. Auburn introduced this Phaeton Sedan as a production model and made it available for the first time under $5000. So popular was this model on our 115 chassis last year that at no time could our utmost production efforts keep up with the demand. Yet, following Auburn's policy of making our owners the beneficiaries of Auburn's increasing success, we are introducing this new Model 120 with greater horsepower and even greater value for less cost.

Again the demand for the rare combination of its power, stamina, comfort and convertible advantages will exceed the supply. The top can be easily lowered and fits snugly into a neat boot. All four door-glasses may be raised or lowered at will, whether the top is up or down. It is an entirely open touring car or a completely closed car, as you wish. Of course, it is a Straight Eight! Mrs. Hoover Is Martha Washington Type Of First Lady

WIFE OF PRESIDENT HAS QUALITIES OF EARLY PREDECESSOR

Well Poised College Woman in Executive Mansion Passes Through Various Crises With Spouse

(Associated Press Feature Writer) WASHINGTON, March 9.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, as wife of the president of the United States, will be more like Martha Washington than any other woman who has presided in the White House.

With the advent of this well poised college woman into the executive mansion the adventurous, but orderly and practical spirit of Martha Washington has a counterpart. Just as Mrs. Hoover has stood shoulder to shoulder with her husband in various crises, so did Martha Washington, back in the dark days of Valley Forge make determined excursions to visit her husband though each journey was fraught with difficulty and danger.

Had the wife of the first president been in the White House today she perhaps would have been a Girl Scout leader as Mrs. Hoover is, judging from her love of efficient living and that adventurous element shown in those yearly journeys to the battlefields, which were always attended by anxiety on the part of George Washington and members of her household.

Had Mrs. Hoover lived in Revolutionary days she undoubtedly would have reacted to an emergency just as Martha Washington did.

Dialer Orientation

The two have other traits of similarity. Both disliked ostentation in dress. Mrs. Hoover will assume her duties as first lady, as did Martha Washington, with the utmost simplicity of wealth and high social position.

Through long pages of early history of frail women whose chief claim to fame rested upon their house-keeping abilities or their gracious hospitality, there is little comparison to Martha Washington until Mrs. Hoover is reached.

Precisely the times themselves, with their restricted outlook for women, were responsible for the colorless personalities of some. The historians seem hard pressed to find something to record. They content themselves with dwelling upon the "culture, polished manners and winsome ways" of the fair ladies who swept trains through the Blue Room. Dolly Madison is one who showed a sparkle of dash and during of departure from established code. Even she confined this spirit of independence to her social gaieties.

But contrast the wife of President Pierce, "born physically delicate, with a mental structure of the finest sort, in fact, one fine for the roughness of this world," with Martha Washington, who proudly boasted: "It has been my fortune to hear the first cannon at the opening and the last cannon at the closing of all the campaigns of the Revolution!"

Home Once Hospital

Or with Mrs. Herbert Hoover, turning her home into a hospital and nursing wounded soldiers during the Boxer rebellion.

The plucky spirit of Mrs. Hoover, which has carried her into all sorts of out of the way places with her mining engineer husband and enabled her to face grave ordeals unafraid, is well known.

Of Martha Washington, we read: "During the whole of that mighty period when we struggled for independence, Lady Washington preserved her equanimity together with a degree of cheerfulness that inspired all around her with the brightest hopes for our ultimate success." Annually she ordered supplies for her trips to General Washington's camps. Each time the servants saw her off with trepidation. Each time her husband awaited her arrival with anxiety.

The wives of the early presidents were enraged with small things. Mrs. John Adams found it difficult to get wood to heat or candles to light the executive mansion. Mrs. Fillmore was the first president to employ a telephone in the White House. Her husband asked congress for an appropriation to buy books and it was granted. The ladies selected the books and placed them in an oval room upstairs with Miss Mary's harp and piano.

Women occupants of the White House in later years have displayed various traits in keeping with the progress of women everywhere. But neither Mrs. Coolidge, with the democratic, comradely ways which have endeared her to the whole nation, or Alice Roosevelt Longworth, with her spirited independence, have been the prototype of Mrs. Hoover. We must go back to Martha Washington, coolly triumphant in the captain's coat, to catch a glimpse of the traits which characterize the next first lady of the land.

And if, after a life of travel and adventure, the confines of the White House grow too narrow, Mrs. Hoover is the philosophical type which no doubt would echo Martha Washington's sentiments: "I have learned too much of the vanity of human affairs to expect felicity from the scenes of public life. I am still determined to be cheerful and happy in whatever situation I may be for I have also learned from experience that the greater part of our happiness or misery depends on our dispositions and not our circumstances."

STUDENTS AT CAMBRIDGE SEEKING FRESH LAURELS

CAMBRIDGE, England, March 9 (AP)—Young men become famous at Oxford and Cambridge universities by becoming scholars, athletes, or roof-climbers.

Roof-climbing is an established, if somewhat futile, sport which is indulged in only on nights that are dry and moonless for the moss-covered old buildings are slippery in wet weather, and there are heavy penalties for being caught.

There is talk of challenging the ancient rival, Oxford, for inter-variety roof-climbing honors.

Great feats of the past, when Cambridge roof-climbers were roof-climbers are being equalled, the most terrifying of all being the ascent of the spires of King's college chapel which rise to a height of nearly 200 feet.

To the layman there seems absolutely no possible method of ascent. This climb has been performed only twice, the second ascent was made alone by a present Fellow of Magdalen college.

PIPE-MAJOR SOUNDS REVELLE FOR KING

Notes of Highland Tune Aroused British Ruler Except in Bad Weather

BOGNOR, England, March 9 (AP)—King George at Craigwell House is awakened by bagpipes each morning just as at Buckingham Palace.

"Pipe-Major Forsyth, the King's Scottish piper, is included in the staff the majesties have taken to Craigwell House, and every morning promptly at 8 o'clock he will stand before the King's bedroom window and pipe him a Highland tune to an eye opener.

The king has had his favorite piper for many years and counts on the bagpipes to rouse him, except in wet weather, when he will not allow Major Forsyth to stand in the rain to play.

The major is usually very punctual, but one morning when the king was very ill at Buckingham Palace he was a little late. Just after 8 A. M. the king asked, "Is it raining, nurse?" Before she could answer the piper struck up and the king smiled. "Oh no, it's fine weather," he said.

The king's personal police, consisting of a superintendent and eight sergeants and constables, are with him at Bognor, to control the external arrangements and to suit Craigwell House during his residence there.

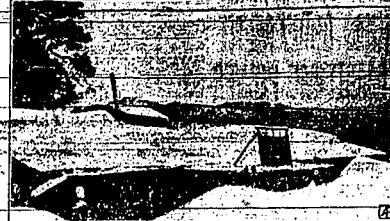

A staff of servants, including three pages, six footmen, under-butlers, pantry-men and housemaids, are also being removed from Buckingham Palace to Craigwell House. Master of the Household, Sir Derek Keppel, is in charge of household arrangements and will supervise the staff. The king's chief will continue to do his cooking, and the clerk of the kitchen will be in charge of the ordering and buying of food and provisions.

COACH STARTS HOOP PRACTICE AT IDAHO

Rich A. Fox Launches New Coast Conference System With Training in Spring

MOSCOW, March 9 (Special to The News)—Spring basketball training has been inaugurated at the University of Idaho by Coach Rich A. Fox. This is believed the first time that any Pacific Coast conference member has had spring practice in this sport.

Members of the varsity squad who will be eligible next year and outstanding members of the freshman team are working under the direction of Coach Fox. Much individual coaching is being done in basketball fundamentals.

A few light scrimmages will be held during the training period to give Coach Fox an idea of the working squad he will have for the 1929-30 season. It is necessary to develop a new center for next year. Captain Darwin Burgher of Rupert, who played three years at the pivot position, is the only man who will not report next year. Harold Thornhill of Kellogg, who has just finished his second year, has alternated with Burgher at center while Edward Hurley of Montpelier, a freshman, has shown promise at this position.

Plan Exhibition Game

Spring training will be continued until the state interscholastic basketball tournament March 14, 15 and 16, Coach Fox announces. An exhibition game will be played during the tournament by two teams picked from the spring turnout to give the high school men a chance to see college basketball.

Varsity men who are out for spring practice are Harold Thornhill and Bob Drummond, Kellogg; Harold Stowell and Frank McMillin, Pocatello; Art Cheyne, Mullan; Milford Collins and Virgil Estes, Moscow; Harold Carlson, Wardner; and Hugh Duffy, Jerome.

Freshmen are Stanton Hale, Boise; Edward Hurley, Montpelier; Bill Hall and Wesley Shurtliff, Pocatello; Art Spauldy, Nampa; Jack Lee, Lewiston; and Henry Sneddon, Rupert.

SUPPORTS 203 THEATRES

MOSCOW, (P)—Russia now supports 203 theatres, including 26 in Moscow and 15 in Leningrad. There are 28,000 amateur dramatic clubs, while 15 movable theatres work with great success in villages.

Mexicans Playing Leading Roles in Uprising

Gov. Fausto Topete of Sonora precipitated the revolt by denouncing President Porfirio Q. in a letter. Jose Gonzalo Escobar who has been named commander-in-chief of the revolutionary troops in Mexico. Jesus M. Aguirre, Vera Cruz general, who is leading the revolution against the Mexican government.

Roberto Cruz, whom Governor Topete says is leading 5,000 soldiers against the Mexican government in Guadalupe. Rogelio Loreto, president of Agua Prieta, who took over the border town in the name of the revolution. Gen. Aaron Gaxen, recent candidate for the Mexican presidency, who is reported to be supporting the government.

HUNGARIAN STATESMAN URGES WAR-LIKE SPIRIT

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 9 (AP)—Count Czakay, Hungarian minister of war, declared in a heated parliamentary debate that Hungary must reverse the military spirit of the nation. "We must urge the formation of a regular, conscripted army. "As long as the four defeated nations of the great war are unarmed, the war minister protested, "and while the victors are steadily increasing their armaments, we demand the right also to fortify our own. We must preserve the military spirit of our nation. Our population must be ever ready to defend itself against invasion. "If we are well armed our adversaries will have more respect for us and will think twice before attacking us."

Long Island Will Have Terminal For Seaplanes

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The American Aeronautical corporation organized to manufacture, sell and operate the Italian seaplane, Savoia Marchetti plans the expenditure of $1,000,000 for a seaplane base and air terminal at Port Washington, Long Island, on Manhasset bay. Sixteen acres have been purchased including a wide waterfront on the east side of the bay which is sheltered from storms and free from ice in winter. The buildings to be erected at Port Washington must be ready by August to house the assembly plant and factory of the company, but flying operations, including a seaplane flying school and taxi service, are planned for early June. The planes will be powered with American engines but will follow the construction designs of the Italian engineers.

Seek Judge for Sooner Co-eds

THEY ARE LOOKING for a judge to pick the fairest co-eds at Oklahoma Arts and Mechanics college. Will Rogers, declining, said: "If I ever did that, I'd never be able to live in Oklahoma again." Here are some of the candidates: Luella Coffey (upper left), Mary Pruitt (lower left), and Margaret Hanly.

Success based on QUALITY and VALUE

Greater beauty, size and power win thousands of new owners!

It is easy to understand the sweeping popularity and record sales of the new Superior Whippet Fours and Sixes. See and drive either car, and you will know why January and February of this year showed more than 100% sales gain over the corresponding months of 1928.

The style creation of master designers, the new Superior Whippet sets an ultra-modern trend for Fours and light Sixes—with longer bodies, trim lines, higher radiator and hood, chromium plate, and one-piece full crown fenders.

The mechanical triumph of leading engineers, the new Superior Whippet is faster, livelier and more powerful—and especially notable for operating economy and minimum service costs.

AIR LINES STIMULATE GUINEA GOLD OUTPUT

Aviation-Playing Important Part in Developing Mining Zone in Wilderness

BULOLO, New Guinea, March 9 (AP)—Aviation has begun to play an important part in the development of the Bululo gold fields in the wilds of New Guinea.

Difficult of access, air transport alone has made rapid development possible. planes being used for gold as well as all kinds of cargo. Air communication between Lae, on the New Guinea coast, and the Wau, 60 miles inland, the nearest accessible point to the Bululo, is established.

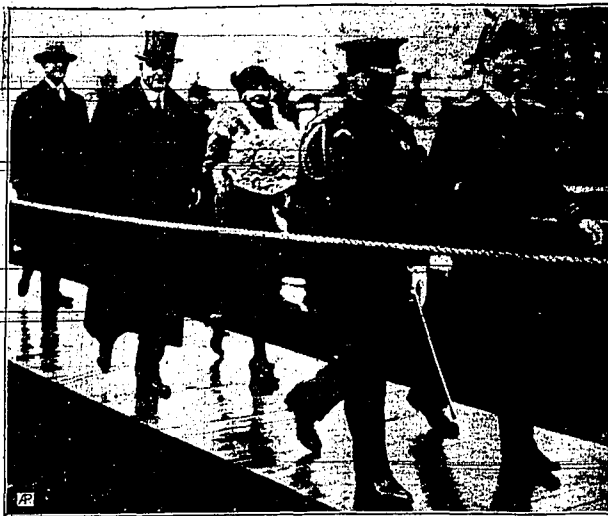

The journey by "bush" road requires eight days. As the natives are not permitted to carry more than 50 pounds, including their own food for the trip, progress is slow, unsafe and unsatisfactory. Airplanes make the trip in an hour.

Cargo of all descriptions has been transported to the field, including a 400-pound cast iron engine bed for the wireless station at Bululo. Gold is the chief article of transport on the return trips. One shipment of gold recently carried by plane to Lae was worth $30,000.

So great has been the development of the new fields that the shipment of gold to Australia last year totaled 50,000 ounces, worth $1,000,000. Every month except April gold was conveyed to Australia, the largest shipments being in August, when 24,750 ounces, valued at $250,000, was transported.

Oil Town Hostelry Moves During Night

MIDLAND, Texas, March 9 (AP)—Here in the oil country they move hotels from town to town almost overnight.

E. E. Bryant, a traveling man, stayed at a hotel in Leek, a small oil town in western Texas. Business called him away, but he left his belongings in the hotel.

When Bryant returned the hotel was gone. Leek's hostelry had been packed up and moved to Wink, another oil town, where Bryant found his apparel.

French Protest Tax and Paris Adopts New Method

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—For 40 cents a month automobile drivers may now run past the gates of the city without being bothered by the customs-guard service which collects a tax on gasoline brought into Paris.

A sort of season ticket is to be sold by the city at prices supposed to cover what drivers ordinarily would pay. Under the new plan they can avoid the long line-up of cars that waits at every gate to get a green ticket certifying the amount of gasoline in their tanks. This ticket must be presented upon re-entering the city.

Recently several hundred drivers demonstrated the absurdity of the system by returning to the city in a group, without green tickets, and demanding simultaneously that their gasoline be measured.

NEW SURGERY FOR STEEL MAKING BREAKS STRONG

TROY, N.Y., March 9 (AP)—A welding method that restores broken steel almost as good as new is under test. By Professor Thomas H. Lawrence, chief of the department of civil engineering of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Steel is broken into bits and these fragments are welded together in form of a rod. The rod is turned down to a smooth shaft which in appearance is indistinguishable from one turned of virgin steel. Professor Lawson puts the synthetic shaft in a machine that subjects it to a load of 38,000 pounds per square inch while making it vibrate millions of times until it breaks. The tests, although incomplete, reveal that the steel surgery makes a shaft about 60 per cent as strong as the original metal.

Amphibian Air Taxi to Assist Busy Persons

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The amphibian air taxi, designed to provide reasonable, speedy air transportation for the busy man, is about to bid for recognition in aviation.

Because 24 of the 25 largest cities in the United States provide water bases for amphibians with easy reach of the downtown district, Coastal Airways Inc. plan to build a four-passenger enclosed cabin flying boat with amphibian gear for taxi service. The plane will be sold on the installment plan in prospective taxi operators for about $500.

The boat is powered with the new 100-horsepower engine and will have a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. Elio De Angelis is executive chairman of Coastal Airways.

Lindbergh Forges Mexico City-Brownsville Mail Communication Link

20,000 PERSONS IN TEXAS GREET NOTED AVIATOR ON ARRIVAL

Lone Eagle Carries Nine Persons and Heavy Cargo On Flight North Over Revolution-Torn Country

(By The Associated Press.—BROWNSVILLE, Texas, March 9.—A new communication link between Mexico and the United States was forged today by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh when he inaugurated regular daily air mail service between Mexico City and this American border town.

Carrying a heavy cargo of mail and nine passengers, Colonel Lindbergh reached here at 12:42 P. M. to be greeted by an enthusiastic crowd estimated at 20,000, which included a number of noted aviators. He took off from Mexico City at 7:44 A. M. and made stop of a few minutes at Tampico. The mail was transferred to a "Troas Air" transport plane to be carried to San Antonio and thence to Dallas for the northward flight to Chicago on the existing air mail line which connects with the transcontinental route.

26-Hour Service

Inauguration of the Mexican service will afford quick delivery of letters between Mexico City and New York.

Colonel Lindbergh was expected to return to the United States to Mexican capital at 10:30 A. M. tomorrow to rejoin his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of the American ambassador.

Pilots of the two ships that recrossed the Lone Eagle from Mexico City had difficulty in making safe landings because of the strong on the field.

Colonel Lindbergh and his passengers remained in the cabin while officers drove back crowds.

Scores of airplanes flew here from various sections of the country for the celebration. Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly the Atlantic, was among those on hand.

34 Burley Odd Fellows Journey to Twin Falls

BURLEY, March 9 (Special to The News)—A caravan of eight autos bearing 34 Odd Fellows journeyed to Twin Falls Thursday evening, where the Burley team conferred the first and second degree for the benefit of Twin Falls members of the order. The work was in charge of Sam Wesley, degree master. During the entertainment that was furnished by the hosts, W. F. Ceyer, Roy Painter, George Scholter, O. L. Kendall and George Peacock were called on to speak for the visitors.

Twin Falls was invited to confer one degree during the grand lodge session to be held in Burley next October. Returning Odd Fellows state that they were royally entertained, and that the Twin Falls lodge offered all possible assistance to make the grand lodge convention a success.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Howell are preparing to move to their new home in Twin Falls. Mr. Howell was employed at the Salmon dam.

New Guinea Natives Travel By Airplane

LAF—New Guinea, March 9—(AP)—Airplane fare for a white person from this coastal town to the jungle gold fields at Bulolo, 60 miles inland, is $100.

On the return journey natives are carried for 65. Practically all natives use the air route because the mine owners have found that it is cheaper to pay the fare of a laborer than to give him rations for the road journey through the "bush," which requires a week of dangerous travel.

Dozens Being Saved From Operations Through The Skillful Work of Twin Falls' New Doctor

Several severe cases of appendicitis, gall bladder trouble, ulcers of stomach, tumors, prostate gland trouble, various forms of female disorder, sinus infection, bad tonsils, piles and hemorrhoids, kidney and bladder trouble, and many other conditions that were formerly supposed to be purely operation cases, are actually, positively, and permanently being cured by Dr. Wyly by his latest methods in Electro-Therapy. His methods are painless and bloodless and at a price within the reach of everybody. The most astonishing part of his wonderful work is the very, very small cost to the patient. Dr. Wyly has increased his staff of most competent nurses and added more equipment which makes it now possible to take care of a larger number of patients, and the wonderful response to his bid for patronage is proving to everyone that his methods are right. Every patient he has is getting better—every one—not a single exception in some forty to fifty people—there must be a reason.

Dr. Wyly can still make room for five to ten more new ones, so if you are sick regardless of the nature of your trouble, he invites you to come in and see him.

He is also curing some very stubborn cases of rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago, constipation, poor circulation, high blood pressure, nervousness, cramps and pains in arms and legs, headaches of various kinds, backache, weak lungs, heart trouble, skin cancer, eczema, etc. etc.

Free Consultation and Examination

The Doctor makes no charge whatever for consultation and examination. He will tell you frankly what and where your trouble is and whether or not he can help you. He will not take your case unless he is very sure he can do you good. You need not hesitate to see him. He will be honest with you—and if he can't help you he will frankly tell you so.

Dr. Wyly is still selling the regular $45.00—24 treatment cards for $30.00. He has taken the people in partnership with him in his business—and instead of him getting the full $45.00—he is giving $15.00 or one-third of it back to the patient—and he finds by that method he is reaching a lot of people who otherwise would not or could not take the treatments.

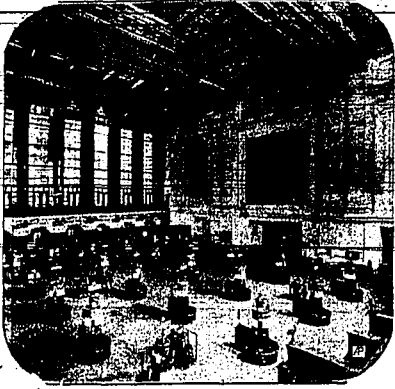

By taking the public into his confidence and partnership Dr. Wyly is virtually giving back to each and every patient one-third of the money they pay for treatments. If you are sick, see the doctor, who actually is getting sick folks well at a price everyone is not only willing but glad to pay—24 full treatments—each lasting from 45 minutes to an hour—for $30.00. See Dr. Wyly and get well.

Man Power Needs Breaking Stock Exchange's Barriers

Floor of the New York Stock exchange where 275 additional traders will be admitted in order to care for the enormous rush of business of recent years. The former membership of 1100 has been held inviolate for 50 years.

By CLAUDE A. JACGER (Associated Press Financial Writer) NEW YORK, March 9.—February, 1929, marks a turning point in the history of the New York Stock exchange, a colorful chronicle covering more than a century.

The exclusiveness of the membership, inherited to the hearts of veteran traders, has suffered a blow. By their own hands, the members have broken down the limit of 1100 to which their number has been held for 50 years.

Recalling the frenzied 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 share sessions of recent months, when the medical department of the exchange was called upon to issue rules to save the members from nervous breakdown, and facing the prospect of 10,000,000 share days in the future, they accepted a proposal to increase their number 25 per cent by a vote of 6 to 1.

Taxes Ingenerally It was only after inventive ingenuity had been taxed to the limit to provide mechanical aids in trading that the members finally agreed that more man power, and that alone, would relieve the unbearable tension. The trading floor had been remodeled, the ticker service perfected, and new trading posts experimented with before the need for more traders was finally acknowledged.

For some time pneumatic tubes for the transmission of orders to various posts have been in use. When the large board was installed, which automatically displays numbers calling the various members to their phones, it was regarded as a marvelous aid. But now members rarely find time to go to their phones.

The increase in membership contemplates the substitution of the present trading posts by horseshoe-shaped posts, with clerks, telephones and pneumatic tubes inside of them. Installation of a new ticker, capable of keeping up with 7,000,000 share days, has begun, although the old tickers will not be completely replaced before next fall.

525,000 Seats Despite the increase in members the price of memberships, or "seats," holds around $25,000. Only five years ago the record price was about $100,000. When membership prices were first made public in 1859, they ranged as low as $3000.

Total stock sales last year approached the 1,000,000,000 share mark, nearly double the volume of business in 1927. This year's transactions involved more than $60,000,000,000, which is more than twice the total of savings deposits in the United States.

For many years trading on the New York Stock exchange has been a strenuous and feverish business. It is a far cry from the 1790 when brokers congregated under the buttonwood tree situated at 69 Wall street, to transmit stock business and to indulge in much political argument, betting and exchanging of choice scandal.

In the days of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jim Fisk and Jay Gould, traders for a time carried on their business until late at night, adjourning to the Fifth Avenue hotel, and later to "Gallagher's Evening exchange," which was opened on Twenty-fourth street. Trading in those

Jugo-Slav King Sends Subjects to Churches

BELOGRADE, March 9 (AP)—Alexander, king and dictator of Yugoslavia, has decreed that all orthodox government employees must attend religious services regularly. The national ecclesiastical authorities have repeatedly lamented the scanty attendance at churches on Sundays and holidays, and recently appealed to the king to inspire his people to show more devotion toward the church.

The king is himself a devout and regular churchgoer.

Irish Beet Growers Refuse Price Slash

DUBLIN, March 9 (AP)—One of the most important agricultural experiments of the Irish Free State government—the establishment of a sugar beet industry, which met with great success at the outset—is deadlocked as a result of a controversy between beet growers and manufacturers.

Farmers refuse to accept a reduction of approximately 22 a ton for their beets. They have been receiving about $12 a ton and now are offered $10.

Beggars' Union Bars Starving Professors

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 9 (AP)—The National Beggars' association of their ranks by a horde of starving professors, lawyers and students who cannot find employment.

These workless professional men line up at the soup kitchens along with confirmed beggars. The latter complain that Budapest is already overcrowded with persons who live on charity.

days became a desperate business, and some traders hired armed guards. This, however, is the day of big business in stock trading as in almost everything else. It has been reduced to a technique, losing most of its glamor, but gaining respectability, and broadening its sphere of influence, until the industrial and financial activity of America has become focused on the New York Stock exchange.

Rare Heart Treatment Saves Man From Death

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—The operation of blood transfusion direct to the heart has been successfully performed by two French physicians, Achard and Courmand.

Describing the technique employed, in a paper read at a meeting of the Academy of Medicine, they explained that the patient, suffering from typhoid, had two relapses. Intra-venous transfusion was out of the question, the patient being in a dying condition, and blood was injected into the cavity of the heart. Improvement was rapid and the patient recovered.

Oil Stock Prospects Get Free Air Rides

WICHITA, Kas., March 9 (AP)—Oil wells have provided still another way to get a free airplane ride. "Rubberneck" airplanes are used here by an oil company to give rides to prospective buyers of oil shares in a newly opened oil pool.

The planes were brought into use after several companies advertised free motor bus rides to the land of derricks.

BRITISH INVESTING RECALLED

NEW YORK (AP)—Concern recently expressed by the British parliament over the entrance of American capital into the British public utility field, with the acquisition of the Greater London and Counties Trust, Ltd., by Utilities Power and Light corporation, has resulted in a turning back of histories in Wall street to the civil war days to read with some amusement the outcries then made in congress against "un-American" investments of British funds in American railways.

Laboratory Develops Method to Clean Fruit

WENATCHEE, Wash., March 9—Various methods of removing spray residues from apples and pears in the Pacific Northwest without injury to the keeping qualities or appearance of the fruit have been developed experimentally and applied commercially at the federal bureau of plant industry laboratories here.

Residues, particularly from arsenical sprays, have been protected in both domestic and foreign markets.

Famous Roman Oak Tree To Receive Protection

ROME, March 9 (AP)—The famous oak on the Janiculum hill overlooking Rome, under which the great poet, Tasso dreamed and mused, and St. Philip Neri played with the children of the neighborhood, is about to be enclosed and protected by the park service of the Roman municipality.

Broken by lightning—a short time ago—the tree, of the 1600s—so intimately associated with Italian literature and religious tradition.

DIVERSIFICATION

A ONE crop country never can enjoy real prosperity. We have the climate, the soil and the water supply essential to the production of any variety of crops, all, of which, have their place in systematic crop rotation. The most desirable cropping program is based upon a consideration of revenue, safety and continued soil fertility. Alfalfa, potatoes, sugar beets and beans leave clean fertile land for the clovers, capable of producing maximum of wheat as a nurse crop on land that has been prepared through DIVERSIFICATION and physically fit to produce the desired results—REVENUE. Speculative prices on the ever uncertain open market direct the conservative producer to the shelter of the guaranteed price crop on a reasonable portion of his land, hence the safety from over production and consequent low prices so disastrous to farm and business prosperity. Reviewing the past and speculating on the future Queen Alfalfa holds a place all her own.

POTATOES, average yield 150 sacks under ordinary conditions should net a return per acre of

$60.00

With a $1.00 market and an overhead of $90.00 per acre where a holdover is necessary.

The MONTANA WHITE BEAN on a 25 bushel average at a speculative price of 5c per pound yields a net return of

Plus bean straw, allowing $20.00 per acre to cover the cost of seed, hand labor and threshing.

With an average of 17 tons of SUGAR BEETS per acre, which has been obtained in Twin Falls County and can always be had in good years, a net return, including beet tops of

Is assured after deducting $33.00 per acre of the contract price of all hand labor and seed.

Alfalfa hay, bean straw, sugar beet tops, pulp and molasses fulfill the requirements of the most exacting feeders and dairymen. These by-products' contribute most favorably to additional revenue with more frequent farm paydays and assure a continuation of that main-essential—SOIL FERTILITY.

After carefully considering all of the elements governing farm revenue and effecting the prosperity of Twin Falls County we urge our friends and customers to adopt a safe systematic diversified crop program including a substantial acreage of Sugar Beets. Agricultural manufacturing industries are essential. Let us support the ones we have and thus be in a better position to interest capital in others. A cash crop, with a guaranteed price on beets on a favorable year should contribute materially to a healthy financial condition.

American Wealth Drains European Museums of Art

BERLIN, March 9.—The director of the Prussian Museum, Wilhelm von Bode, predicts that the great private art collections of Europe will have passed into American hands within 20 or 30 years.

"It will not be long, then, before all these collections will find their way into museums, which by their acquisitions, will rank equally with the two dozen great European galleries."

"The result will be the world's greatest art in the hands of a few nations, and enumerated benefactions by wealthy citizens and municipalities. These, however, are the European-American's wealth and the part of Americans, there can be little doubt that the New World will soon overtake and best of all Europe in the possession of art."

Count Felix von Luckner was a Lowell Thomas says, "the most romantic and mysterious figure on the side of the Kaiser's power, the 'wild man' of Born in Germany of a noble family that for generations had furnished distinguished cavalry commanders for the armies of their times this great grandfather was a marshal of France, his father was determined that he should carry on the cavalry tradition. But Felix was captured of the sea from his childhood. A 'hussy young devil, fond of sports,' he refused to apply himself to his studies, but he was a long and distinguished sailor. He was captured by the Russian full-rigged ship 'Nobe' bound for Australia. Eighty days of rough sailing and rougher treatment brought him to Fremantle, where a tin-keeper's daughter persuaded him to desert the ship and work for her father."

Always seeking adventure, Felix joined the Salvation Army in Fremantle, then in succession he was a newspaper reporter, a cooper, worker in a sawmill, kangaroo hunter, helper to a band of Hindu fakirs and prize fighter. He was captured by the British and shipped on the American four-masted schooner Golden Shore for Seattle. He was captured by the British and shipped on the American four-masted schooner Golden Shore for Seattle. The Open Window

By Hugh A. Studdert Kennedy

I have just been reading a book that interested me very much, namely Viscount Gladstone's, "Thirty Years After," half memoir, half "memoirs" of his famous father and his policies. It interested me for many reasons—because it led me through the paths of memory, but the scenes of great events, into the presence, once again, of great figures in history; through the familiar mazes of great lectures, taunting into flame, once more, the fires of ancient loyalties and antagonisms, strangely inflowed, after thirty years.
 But, this evening, as I sit by my open window, and listen to the music of a gentle rain pattering on the eucalyptus leaves, I cannot think of anything else but Lord Gladstone's collars and what Lord Gladstone has to say about them. All the world knows about these collars; they have passed into history. And yet, now, after 30 years, comes this man, "young Herbert," of my boyhood days, to tell us that it was all a mistake, and that Mr. Gladstone always seemed "a little hurt" by the way the thing persisted, "because he did not think his collars were high." He had, he confessed, "once, for a very short time, in the early sixties, worn some very high collars, as other people had, but had quickly abandoned them. Unfortunately, however, it was about that time that Watts painted his famous picture, and so when 20 years or so later, Harry Furness was evolving his inimitable caricatures, he seized upon the high collar as, in other people's hands, but had refused to see him in anything else save to Gladstone's Collar."
 And so will he ever be pelted about, for me as for everyone else, Lord Gladstone's correction can do nothing.
 The chapter in which Lord Gladstone discusses this important matter he entitles very aptly "Credulities." And there is another credulity to which he refers which pleases me much, namely, the real truth about Mr. Gladstone's supposed affection for the hymn, "Crown him with many crowns." But let Lord Gladstone tell the story in his own words, "There was another myth," he writes,

Farmers Purchasing Implements As Spring Work Gets Under Way

Spring, with its gentle seductive breezes, which "lightly turns to thought," is turning the thoughts of the farmers to the more prosaic, and perhaps more profitable contemplation of hard work and soil cultivation. Dealers say that out on the Twin Falls segregation at least, visions of snow reward for labor wisely expended.
 "The coming of the grass is welcome, but the weeds in the fields are a nuisance. The husbandman with righteous indignation, so he proceeds to arm himself with every weapon of known warfare. During the last 10 days, the earliest farmers have been buying fertilizer spreaders, indicating a desire to see that plenty of plant food is provided for the growing crops.
 Another noticeable feature in spring trade has been sale of an unusual number of milking machines and cream separators. Twin Falls has been before during the last 10 days, the present indications are that Twin Falls has taken an increased interest this year in diversification along this line, it is stated.

"and it was harder to bear the results with equality. Some humorous newspaper gave out that 'Crown him with many crowns' was Harry Furness's favorite hymn, to a tune which was Mr. Gladstone's favorite tune. It was mischievous imagination exasperating in Man, with his venerable white head unretired, stammering listlessly, as a host of Welsh miners, with tears streaming naturally mutual, to please Mr. Gladstone invariably sang this hymn when they came to Hawarden. The tune is banal and drawing. We detested it, and for years suffered under it—but never in silence."
 I remember it all so well—we were sorely loyal Gladstonian Liberals in those days—remember reading with many a young boyish emotion the wonderful "Crown him with many crowns" in the papers of the moving scenes at Hawarden; the Grand Old Man, with his venerable white head unretired, stammering listlessly, as a host of Welsh miners, with tears streaming naturally mutual, to please Mr. Gladstone invariably sang this hymn when they came to Hawarden. The tune is banal and drawing. We detested it, and for years suffered under it—but never in silence."
